The story: Alice Rowland, an orphan, is under the guardianship of George Baring, an unscrupulous person, who is desirous of having her marry his son, James. However, Henry Whitworth has been asked by Alice's mother to look out for her interest. Alice overreaches the scheme to force her to marry James and she goes to Whitworth. Whitworth informs the detectives who follow her that they cannot take her without the proper warrant and order from court. While they are securing the order, Alice marries Whitworth. She is later kidnapped and placed in an insane asylum. Whitworth compels Baring to disclose her whereabouts and he rescues her. Alice learns to love Whitworth and her loveless marriage develops into a happy one.

June Elvidge in "THE MARRIAGE MARKET"

World drama; five parts; published September 3

As a whole, Thrilling; Story, Holds; Stars, Excellent; Support, Very good; Settings, Clear.

"The Marriage Market" presents the tragic story of a marriage for money. Not a new theme, but in the present instance presented with a splendid case, including Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley and skilfully directed. The picture contains exceptionally good photography, striking close-ups of characters posed before a black background, lending novelty and sharpness to many scenes. Audiences who like stories with fast action, well produced and acted impressive settings, will find "The Marriage Market" a most engrossing and artistic photodrama.

The wonderful work of June Elvidge is especially pleasing and she is thoroughly at home in the role of the "little thoroughbred" society girl.

The story: Helen Grant is loved by a poor broker and a rich, worthless clubman. Her father becomes involved in a Wall street deal and in order to save him from disgrace Helen marries the man of wealth, accepting a check from him for $100,000 with which to pay off her father's debts. Her sacrifice is in vain, however, as her father kills himself and she is forced to receive the odious attentions of the drunken, domineering husband. She refuses to accept his money, pawns her jewels and invests the money in stocks. She is finally forced to sell her pet riding horse, and when keeping the appointment with Foxhall, a wealthy roué, she is forced to shoot him to defend herself. Complications follow when her husband enters and finds her lying on the floor and Foxhall, who had been only slightly wounded, standing over her. He fires and kills Foxhall and flees. The young broker arrives by appointment and finds Foxhall dead. He is arrested and tried for the murder while Helen is recovering from her ordeal. The real murderer is apprehended at the close of the trial and the young broker and Helen are united.

Taylor Holmes in "EFFICIENCY EDGAR'S COURTSHIP"

Essanay—K-E-S-E comedy-drama; five parts; published September 3

As a whole, Excellent; Story, Splendid; Star, Entertaining; Support, Fine; Settings, Appropriate; Photography, Clear.

"Efficiency Edgar's Courtship" is the kind of a production which is rare. It is a splendid, entertaining feature. The exhibitor booking this picture will make no mistake. The picture is handled in an exceptionally fine manner, and is unique in starting. Taylor Holmes is shown addressing the audience, and then throughout he is telling the story direct instead of its being told, as most screen stories are.

Taylor Holmes has a strong personality and wins admiration from the start. The character of Edgar Bumpus could fit Mr. Holmes no better were it especially written for him. Virginia Valli, Ernest Maupin and Rodney La Rock furnish a strong supporting cast.

There is no reason why exhibitors should not find this picture a box office winner. And no doubt patrons will await with expectancy further productions featuring this admirable star. The photography is excellent throughout and the settings have been well selected.

The story: Edgar Bumpus, known as Efficiency Edgar, because of his efficiency in business methods, decides to use efficiency tactics in his courtship of Doris Pierce and decides she will make him the right sort of a wife. Obstacles in the persons of Mr. Pierce and Wimple present themselves and only by demanding ten thousand dollars or Marie does Edgar win the girl.

The Chicago K-E-S-E exchange arranged a special showing of the picture, to which representatives of the various branches of the trade were invited. A special musical score has been written for the play, and this music, rendered by an eight-piece orchestra, fits the action of the picture very well.

Mr. Holmes appeared in person and was greeted with applause. At close of the picture the guests were enthusiastic in their praise of Mr. Holmes' characterization.

Rupert Julian and Ruth Clifford in "MOTHER O'MINE"

Bluebird drama; five parts; published September 3

As a whole, Good; Story, Appealing; Stars, Likeable; Support, Ample; Settings, Photial; Photography, Clear.

"Mother O'Mine" deals with a topic which should appeal to everybody. It concerns a person who is dear to the heart of everybody—mother. Because of these two direct appeals an exhibitor should have little difficulty in making the production a box office success to the interest of most patrons, and the little touches of pathos in the carrying out of the story make it of the human interest type.

In the cast are Rupert Julian, Ruth Clifford, E. A. Warren, Jane Whitworth and L. S. Foxhall. The story is from the pen of Elliott J. Clawson. Direction by Rupert Julian. The exterior settings are beautiful; the interior settings appropriately selected and the photography is the usual Bluebird standard.

The story: John Standing loved his mother, but in his mad rush for love he neglected to visit her. John is engaged to Catherine Woodson, the proud daughter of a prouder family. At a brilliant reception given by John, his mother makes him a surprise visit. John, ashamed to introduce her as his mother, tells Catherine it was his old nurse. In the still of the night the mother steals back to her home. When John finds she has gone home next morning he is very much ashamed. He goes to Catherine and asks her to break the engagement. He then goes to his mother's home and decides to devote the rest of his life to her. But Catherine comes to him. She loves his mother and there is a happy ending.

MISS CONCORD IN LEE CHILDREN FILM

Lillian Concord, well known in musical comedy circles, squares and triangles, has been cast for the leading adult role in the new picture which Jane and Katherine Lee are making for William Fox. Miss Concord was with the forces of Andrews Dippel, light opera producer of note, for several seasons. Stuart Sage, who has been in several Fox plays, has also been added to the Lee children's cast. Kenean Buel is directing the production.
Edna Goodrich in

"REPUTATION"

Empire-Mutual melodrama; five parts; published September 3

As a whole: Good
Story: Melodramatic
Star: Likeable
Support: Good
Settings: Well selected
Photography: Satisfying

The production has a story, as a melodramatic nature, dealing with the life of a small town girl and her experiences in the big city, will not doubt find interest in "Reputation." Miss Goodrich gives the characterization of a young girl is successful in a likeing to Constance. The Empire All-Star Corporation produced the picture and John B. O'Brien did the directing. The photography is good. The story is laid in the winter season and many good snow scenes have been used.

The supporting cast includes William Hinckley, Frank Goldsmith, Carey Lee, Esther Evans, Nellie Parker Spaulding and Mrs. Brundage.

The story: Determined to earn sufficient money to send her aunt up in business before her marriage, Constance Bennett goes to New York as a model in a cloak house. The manager, who has been jealous of Constance to Constant. His wife burns of this and goes to Constance's home town and denounces the girl. When the girl returns nobody will have anything to do with her and she goes back to New York where Edward Berste, her former employer, sets a trap for her. In order to save herself, Constance shoots Berste. At the trial, however, she is acquitted and shortly thereafter she and John Chaver are married.

Wallace Reid in

"THE HOSTAGE"

Paramount drama; five parts; published September 10

As a whole: Well handled
Story: Good
Star: Fine
Support: Capable
Settings: Useful
Photography: Clear

"The Hostage" starring Wallace Reid is a well handled production. The story is good. Unfortunately, it is of the type that will not appeal to all classes of audience. To the patrons accustomed to the finer class of productions this should prove an interesting film. Wallace Reid and his supporting cast do very good work. The settings have been well chosen and the photography very good.

The story is of mountain life and deals with the animosity the lowlanders have for the mountaineers. A war between the two groups is successful in each side finds it is losing, they decide to make a truce in which the mountaineers will allow the lowlanders to depart in peace providing they destroy nothing, and as a hostage of good faith they demand the eldest daughter, Petrova, as a hostage.

The son is taken to the home of the mountaineer captain, who has two daughters. At first the elder daughter will have nothing to do with the son. However, sympathy takes the place of animosity and soon both young people are in love.

The lowlanders do not keep their word and attack one of the mountain towns. They are beaten, but because they broke the truce, the son is to be shot. Just as the captain is ready to give the word to shoot, word comes that a new peace has been made between the fighting people and they have united to fight another enemy.

The life of the young hostage is saved and he and his mountain sweetheart are happy.

Madame Petrova in

"TO THE DEATH"

Metro drama; five parts; published August 27

As a whole: Fair
Story: Trite
Star: Good
Support: Good
Settings: In keeping
Photography: Clear

"To the Death" is the usual story of the poor girl with wonderful talent who goes to Paris, gains success, falls in love and then to avenge the death of her younger sister, stabs her lover because she suspects him of infidelity and the cause of her sister's death.

L. Case Russell wrote the story, Burton L. King directed it and Nite, Petrova plays the leading role. As Bianca, a Corsican girl, with a thirst for vengeance, Petrova looks and acts the part very well. There is a very villainous villain, acted by Wyndham Standing, and the usual good looking hero, portrayed by Mahlon Hamilton.

The story: Bianca models in clay and makes faces for a living. She accepts an opportunity to go to Paris and receive an art education, promising to send for her sister Rosa and mother. A secret service agent betrays Rosa, and Bianca hurries home. Upon the death of Rosa she swears vengeance. She promises to marry Lavine, the secret service agent, if she will disclose Rosa's betrayer and is horror stricken when Lavine shows her a photograph of Etienne, the man she loves. He comes to her room and she plunges a dagger into his breast. Lavine forces her to accompany him to a hotel and there Lavine scornfully boasts of having won her by trickery, using Etienne's assumed name to lure Rosa away from home. Lavine's valet informs the police that he is a traitor to his country and he is arrested. Bianca returns to her studio to find Etienne recovering from his wound and they face a future of happiness.

Roscoe Arbuckle in

"HIS WEDDING NIGHT" (Paramount Arbuckle)
Arbuckle-Paramount comedy; two parts; published August 20

With pleasant memories of "The Butcher Boy," "His Wedding Night" is something that might well be anticipated with expectancy. The production might best be described as being a "scream" from beginning to finish.

Most of the action takes place in a combination drug store and soda parlor. "Fatty" loves the proprietor's daughter, Al St. John is an unconquerable rival. But "Fatty" succeeds in impressing the girl and the wedding date is set. A special messenger brings the wedding gown and the bride.

Shirley Mason in
“THE LADY OF THE PHOTOGRAPH”
Edison—K-E-S-E drama; five parts; published August 27

As a whole—Comedy. Story—Fascinating. Ear—Excellent. Support—Splendid. Settings—In keeping with the story. Photography—Good. Holland and its dikes and windmills have been used as the background for this conventional story, which makes an acceptable vehicle for pretty June Caprice. The sub-titles are all in verse. Unique settings have been provided and the atmosphere of the wood of the shoes is well carried out.

June Caprice is the heroine of the piece; Harry Hillard is her man, in love with Gretchen; Margaret Fielding, a jealous minx, in love with Carl; while Marcia Harris is a domineering foster-mother to Gretchen and Dan Mason a funny Herr Haas, the mad marauding marauder. Marcia is a shrewd, insidious dog, “Queenie,” plays an important part, well. The story was written by Adrienne Johnson and ably directed by Harry Millarde.

The story: Gretchen lives with her foster-mother, Mrs Van Lorn. She is the town pet and in love with Carl, a wood chopper, also a foster child. Herr Haas, the town capitalist, despite his fifty-nine years, wishes Gretchen to marry him, promising Mrs Van Lorn a generous loan to pay the mortgage on her home. She bids Gretchen “forget the love tales of Carl. He has nothing else to give. Marry Herr Haas and in comfort live.” After many vicissitudes, in which Gretchen is accused of stealing, Herr Haas is arrested, and the mortgage on the farm is paid off, Hulda, which Hulda placed in Gretchen’s pocket. She is about to be placed in the stocks, but the constable is ordered by the prince, who is none other than Carl, to place the villainess in jail; this comes to a pleasing end when Gretchen marries the prince.

Marian Swayne in “THE LITTLE SAMARITAN”
Erbograph-Art Drama drama; six parts; published August 24

In the story of “The Little Samaritan,” the author, Rev. Clarence J. Harris, has, according to the advertising, constructed a story of “simple charm and delightful appeal.” This should read; “simple charm for simple people.” In fact, the story is very slight and poor. It concerns a $300-a-year clergyman, who in a silk hat and Prince Albert coat comes to a sassafras town to hold services. He locks himself in the belfry and otherwise makes an ass of himself, and gets away with it among his simple parishioners.

It is evident that Rev. Harris knows country parishes as well as city audiences and exhibitors. On the speaking stage nothing but an egg and vegetable net would have enabled this troupe to depart in peace, and then it would have been in pieces. It is like trying to hang a calico portraite on a chintz public—it cannot be done. Perhaps it is not up to the Rev. Harris, for maybe an infant wrote the titles. Nevertheless, one is enough to illustrate. Imagine anything but a blush leader of a girls’ room—this, supposed to come from the lips of the doltish preacher: “It lies between you and I.” It seems too bad to inflict such poor grammar upon the young persons, who are the only ones who can be induced to buy tickets for this picture. There were others, but this one was the worst of the lot.

The story concerns a small town, peopled by bigoted, narrow-minded, selfish individuals, who pretend to be Christians. In the center of the little town Gray Temple is situated. She is disliked by the girls because she is an orphan, and gossips surround her with calumny. The new minister, however, befriends her and helps her. He sees through the masks worn by his congregation and the collection money is stolen. An old negro is accused, and Lindy, rather than see him go to jail, confesses to having stolen the money herself. The minister uses the incident as his text and a love romance follows, in which Lindy and the minister play important parts.

OLIVE THOMAS STARTS A NEW FILM
“BROADWAY ARIZONA” FOR TRIANGLE

OLIVE THOMAS, who has just completed her latest Triangle picture, “Broadway, Arizona,” will start work next week on a new play, which she has selected.

Bessie Love in “Wee Lady Betty”
Triangle comedy-drama; five parts; published August 26

As a whole—Delightful. Story—Entertaining. Ear—Excellent. Support—Splendid. Settings—Carefully selected. Photography—Clear. “Wee Lady Betty” is a story of Ireland, full of Irish folk lore and lads with shillalahs, ready to fight at the drop of the hat. There are castles and ghosts, a couple of good fights, and the ever-winsome wee Bessie Love to top it off. This is a very good story, with strong sub-titles and excellent direction and photography.

Bessie Love in the “Wee Lady Betty” of the story, beloved by the fishermen, who resent the intrusion of a New Yorker who has come to claim his castle, held in trust by Lady Betty’s father. A young man, Proctor, tiles through the story and looks and acts every inch the little maidservant she is supposed to be. A capable cast is in support.

The story: Wee Lady Betty and her book-worm father live in the O’Reilly castle, overlooking the little Irish settlement. A change in their lives comes when the new landlord arrives from America, and Lady Betty locks her father in an isolated part of the building and becomes one of the servants to the new tenants. She frightens intruders away by hiding behind an old armor and rattling its metal arms. The villagers pick a quarrel with the newcomer and she exacts a promise from them to be law-abiding or they will be jailed. The young man Proctor marries her and the soldiers, the lady Betty, her father and faithful dog, and in a fierce battle with the natives is saved by Betty quelling the mob. Of course, the fine looking man falls in love with Betty and it all ends happily.

THREE NEW PRODUCTIONS FEATURING
ETHEL CLAYTON ARE NAMED BY WORLD

New World-Pictures Brady-Made, in which Ethel Clayton assumes the star roles, are “The Woman Beneath,” “The Dormant Power” and “Easy Money,” all of which will be published between the present time and the opening week of December.”
"WINNING PAIR," A GOLD SEAL FEATURE WITH RUTH STONEHOUSE HEADS UNIVERSAL PROGRAM AUG. 28

"The Winning Pair," a Gold Seal comedy-drama, featuring Ruth Stonehouse and Roy Stewart, heads Universal's regular schedule of films for August 28. August 27, Monday, is Butterfly Day, as usual, signaled by the assurance of 'Straight Shooting,' in which Harry Carey is starred. The story of "The Leading Pair" details the adventures of Jack Croft and Beatrice Moore, son and daughter, respectively, of two gouty and grouchy shoe manufacturers formerly business partners, now bitter enemies, following some trivial difference in which neither would admit himself at fault. Jack loves Beatrice, but the parents of both become so highly indignant when they consider the mere possibility of such an alliance. Jack, therefore, sets out to make himself independent of his father by showing that he is able to create a business where none existed before. He makes a brave start, but is threatened with disaster through over-confidence. Then Beatrice, who makes no pretense of being a business genius, happens along and by clear thinking and rapid action puts over the deal that Jack has stumbled in a way to bring the tight-fisted fathers together on common grounds of admiration for her prowess.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran will also be seen on the same day in a Nestor comedy entitled "The Night Cap."

Two-Reel Comedy for August 29

"Props, Drops and Flaps," a two-reel L-KO comedy, will be the offering for Wednesday, August 29. This is a sketch of life behind the scenes in a burlesque theatre. The 87th issue to the Animated Weekly will be released on the same date. J. Warren Kerrigan is in the star of "Hands in the Dark," the feature scheduled for Thursday, August 30. Kerrigan is supported by Edith Johnson. The story has to do with a young man who is in love with the daughter of a wealthy miser. When the father is mysteriously murdered, circumstantial evidence makes it appear that Kerrigan is the author of the crime. The manner in which the girl in the case solves the mystery of her father's death, incidentally saving her lover's life, adds several unusual thrills to the film.

William Franyey will be seen on the same day in a Joker comedy, entitled "Why They Left Home." This clever burlesque was written by Carl Laemmle during a recent visit to Universal City at Franyey's special request, and bears witness to Mr. Laemmle's versatility. It is a caricature of life behind the scenes in a theater, and depicts the events that take place during the production of a melodrama with the rather significant title, "The Salary of Sin." Franyey is capably supported by Lillian Peacock and Milburn Moranti.

Scandal Everywhere, a Victor comedy featuring Max Asher and Gladys Tannen, will appear Friday, August 31. The 34th issue of the Screen Magazine, issued simultaneously with the Asher comedy, will contain many timely subjects, including pictures of the new food conservation work of the government.

Eileen Sedgwick and Fred Church will be featured in a two-reel Bison, entitled "Jungle Treachery," to be issued Saturday, September 1. Gale Henry and Milton Sims also will be seen in a Joker comedy, "Busting Into Society." The 16th issue of Current Events will make the third film for the day, completing the week's program.

JULIAN ELTINGE, THE FAMOUS FEMININE IMPERSONATOR, IN SCENES FROM "COUNTRESS CHARming"

MUTUAL'S "TWO-A-WEEK" FEATURE PLAN STARTS SEPTEMBER 3 WITH "REPUTATION" AND "CHARITY CASTLE"

Edna Goodrich and Mary Miles Minter Are Stars in Initial Plays Under New Plan Framed by Freuler

Mutual opens its schedule of two star productions a week September 3, when it will issue "Reputation," the first of a series of feature productions starring Edna Goodrich, the stage and screen "Ruthless," and Mary Miles Minter, star of the first of a new series of Mutual-American pictures, featuring Mary Miles Minter.

The studios producing features for Mutual have spent a strenuous summer in preparation for the elaborate plans of John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, to put into the market two five-reel features a week. Mr. Freuler and the executives of the various producing companies have been in close touch all through the hot season, selecting stories, supervising direction and overseeing the most minute details of production that there would be no hitch in the "two a week" plan and that the standard of the plays would conform to the high standard which the executive chief of Mutual had laid down.

"Reputation" is from the story by John Clymer. Miss Goodrich carries the role of a small-town girl who goes to the city to "make good" and returns, unblemished, but with a reputation. The play is admirably suited to Miss Goodrich's particular talents.

"Charity Castle" is a five reel dramatic fantasy in which Mary Miles Minter plays the role of a fairy princess. It is another modern fairy story, different to a marked degree from the others in which Miss Minter has appeared and which have been successes.

Mutual's schedule for the week of September 3 carries one comedy, a one-reel cub starring George Ovey. "Jerry Tries Again" shows Jerry's further efforts to secure a bride via the wire ad route. Like "Jerry's Eugenic Bride," applicants fail, one after the other, until a particularly fat one gets by the examining board. Jerry is saved from matrimony when he finds that the regulations of the eugenics board necessitate his own examination.

Reel Life No. 71, Mutual's film magazine, for September 6th, shows a watering system for a small farm, how the United States government handles its mail, takes visitors on a visit to a skunk farm conducted by a fifteen year old girl, and shows how the five senses are more acutely developed by business and by various pleasures. The reel carries an animated drawing from Life entitled "Fresh Advances in the Champagne District." "Mutual Weekly," the weekly news reel, will carry, in addition to pictures of the history-making events which are taking place in America, glimpses of the American soldiers in their camp in France.

Grace De Gerro, aerial star of the Sells-Floto circus, has been engaged for Keystone comedies, and during the past week put the girl players through a number of flying ring stunts for a new comedy being filmed under the direction of H. Raymaker.

Regarded as the foremost actor in Russia, Ivan Mozukin has been selected by the Russian Art Film Corporation as the first personality to be introduced to American theater-goers in the new repertory of the films which N. S. Kaplan has brought from the studios of the noted Moscow Art Theater. Mozukin will have the leading role in “The Painted Doll,” a powerful dramatic drama in which minor roles will be played by other prominent players—Natalia Lesienko and Tanya Fetner.

Practically all of Mozukin’s artistic career has been spent in Moscow, dictated by the system under which art is fostered and developed in Russia. As a product of this system Mozukin was taken at early age and trained at the expense of his government, which now demands that he restrict his talents to home consumption.

“The Painted Doll” will present Mozukin as a famous engineer, with a record of achievement in big things. His wife frowns on his professional success because he does not share her social aspirations. They are separated for long periods and during one of these periods he becomes fascinated with the pretty wife of one of his plodding subordinates. So great is his infatuation for her that he even murders the husband so that he may have no rival. Then his wife gives birth to a son and he transfers all his affection and ambitions to the boy. But he cannot forget the other woman, nor his crime and the torture finally brings the film story to an intensely dramatic climax and he becomes insane.

Arrangements are practically completed for the first showing to the trade of “The Painted Doll” and other features of the Russian repertory.

“FLY-COP,” NEW BILLY-WEST COMIC CALLED BEST OF KING BEE PLAYS

The latest Billy West Comedy is probably the best film that the King Bee Company has yet turned out. The plot, for farce comedy, is unique, it is said.

Billy West is the "hoob" of the town police force, and for this reason is sent to obtain evidence on a ladies' gambling den, which the police commissioner doesn’t want to raid. He takes off his uniform and becomes a “fly-cop,” which is the title of the picture. Accidentally, and quite unexpectedly, he obtains the evidence, and then, without reporting to anybody, attempts to make the raid single-handed. In doing this, he finds himself in grave difficulties with the rest of the force, but after many comical mishaps emerges triumphant, and is appointed chief-of-police by the mayor.

“HUMILITY” AND “LOYALTY” FEATURES BEING HANDLED BY BERNSTEIN NOW IN N. Y. READY FOR DISPOSITION

Isadore Bernstein, of the Bernstein Film Productions, has arrived in New York for the purpose of disposing of two big features, “Humility” and “Loyalty,” which he recently completed.

His agents, Shepard and Van Loan, now are negotiating with several persons for the sale of these features, and will probably have some interesting announcements to make within the next few days. While both are up to the Bernstein standard of photography and direction, “Loyalty” seems to be the favorite at the present moment, for it deals with the drug evil and has one of the finest characterizations of a “dope” fiend ever seen on the screen, it is said. It should be a big box-office attraction for this reason.

The cast includes Betty Brice, Murdoch McQuarrie, Jean Hathaway and Jay Morley, who gives the excellent impersonation of “Hugh Gordon,” a man who is addicted to the drug habit.

The story centers around James Randall, a prominent and successful theatrical producer, who is rehearsing his latest comedy. The company are all assembled on the stage when the prima donna becomes enraged over some fancied slight, and refuses to continue with the rehearsal. She leaves the theater in a temper, and Randall sends for the little understudy, Nell Woodward, to read the lines. This is the opportunity that Nell has been hoping for, and instead of reading the lines she sings them so beautifully that Randall and the entire company are amazed. Randall sees in the little girl the making of a prima donna, and engages her for the role with one stipulation—that she is not to marry during the life of her contract. Randall’s interest in the girl is purely a business proposition—she is one of the much-talked-of “finds” dreamed of by theatrical producers. The story from this point is carried to a fitting dramatic climax.

FILMS OF ITALIAN BATTLE FRONT ARE LACKING IN ACTION

These Italian pictures are different only because they are Italian and are entirely devoid of interest as war films, having been made by a man with wonderful technique as a landscape artist, but lacking the essential qualifications of a camera artist.

There will be no great rush to see this panorama except perhaps by foot-cover specialists and “tontorial ambassadors.” The pictures may contain a great “human, dramatic notes,” but it will soon go to protest.

OGDEN PICTURES CORP., ENGAGES
G. W. BEYNON TO WRITE MUSIC
SCORE FOR "LUST OF AGES" FILM

The Ogden Pictures Corporation has engaged Geo. W. Beynon to prepare a complete and original musical score for the production, "The Lust of the Ages," in which Lillian Walker is starred. Mr. Beynon, after viewing the picture, stated that of the hundreds of musical scores prepared by him he does not recall a single photoplay production which lends or adapts itself to so much originality as this production. The score is for an orchestra ranging from four to forty pieces.

The distribution of the musical score is just one of many novel advertising features issued in connection with "The Lust of the Ages." A film card containing a reproduction of a chest of gold, around which are cubes or frames of positive film, being scenes from the production, which are beautifully tinted and toned, is an added novelty. These film cards, when hung in the lobby, or in front of an electric bulb, will give an unusual effect to those viewing it, and is also employed by film salesmen handling the production in order to present to theater-goers in concrete form an idea of the beauty of photography, tinting and toning and the massiveness of interior settings and the scenery employed in the production.

A heavy circular cardboard, ten inches in diameter, containing on one side a reproduction of a twenty dollar gold piece and on the other side a picture of Lillian Walker, is an unusual window card, issued in connection with the production. This replica of the twenty dollar gold piece can be devoted to various uses, as, for instance, tacking them on the four corners of the lithographs and booklets, hanging them in lobbies, putting them in windows of stores and nailing them to telegraph poles and other places. A further novelty consists of an advance trailer, which, contrary to usual trailers, does not contain another scene from the film, but various poses of Miss Walker in various characters showing the wide range of her versatility in make-up.

KYNE'S STORY "A MAN'S MAN," STARRING KERRIGAN ENTHUSIASES PARALTA OFFICERS AT FIRST SHOWING

Film Romance in Seven Parts to Be Published Through Triangle in September Contains Battle Scenes; Set in U. S. and Central Republic

Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, and other officers and directors of that corporation have seen a run of the first print of J. Warren Kerrigan's production of Peter B. Kyne's "A Man's Man." They express their approval in very enthusiastic terms.

This production will be shown in seven parts. The first two reels relate the incidents occurring in the United States and five reels picture the events of the story occurring in the imaginary Central American republic of Sobrante. There are some battle scenes in the last two reels, but they are not sufficiently dominant to overshadow the sentimental interest. On the contrary, they really only form an heroic background to a very fascinating love interest between the parts Mr. Kerrigan and Lois Wilson act.

It is predicted that "A Man's Man" is going to prove a woman's play, in that it should appeal to the women patrons of theaters.

Some interesting character work is done by Ida Lewis as "Mother Jenks" and Ed. Coxen, as the Irish tramp, "John Cafferty," whom the Sobrantes call "Senor Juan Caffetero." These parts are strong character roles and figure most conspicuously in the development of the story.

"A Man's Man" will be published through the Triangle Distributing Corporation in September. Prior to publication a special invitation showing will be made.

"EFFICIENCY EDGAR'S COURTSHIP" WITH HOLMES FOR SEPT. 3, LEADS ESSANAY'S FALL PROGRAM

Five-Reeler Tells of Young Man's Endeavors to Win Girl by Business Methods; Other Autumn Features, With Well Known Players Named

The Essanay fall program will be headed by "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship," in which Taylor Holmes is starred. The story is in five parts and tells of a young man's endeavors to win his heart's desire by strictly business methods. It will be published September 3.

October Film Named. Mr. Holmes will appear in October in "A Fool For Luck," a comedy-drama adapted from the story by Kennett Harris entitled "Talismans," published in the Saturday Evening Post. This will be followed by "Two Bit Seats" in November, another adaptation from a magazine story.

Bryant Washburn, whose "Skinner" pictures have met with such universal success, will appear in another comedy-drama entitled "The Fibbers" in September.

"Pants" Appears Sept. 10.

Little Mary McAlister's first big starring vehicle, "Pants," will be issued on September 10, and the little player is scheduled to appear in another comedy-drama in five parts in October.

Two reel adaptations of George Ade's fables in slang will be published by the Essanay Company, one each week through the General Film Service.

FUN-ART FILM CO. TO MAKE TWO-REEL COMEDY SERIES

The Fun-Art Film Company has been organized by Harry I. Garson, who is also personal manager for Clara Kimball Young, to produce a series of two-reel pictures. Mr. Garson has signed a contract for five years with the well known vaudeville team of Ray and Gordon Dooley.

The comedies will be known as the "Dooley series," and it is Mr. Garson's belief that he has a real find in this team of clever artist, who are nineteen and twenty years of age respectively. The first film will be published sometime in September.

UNIVERSAL SIGNS ROSEMARY THEBY FOR NEW COMEDIES

Will Appear in Farce Films With Lyons and Moran

Rosemary Theby has signed a contract with Universal to appear in a series of comedies with Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran. This will be the second time that Miss Theby has appeared under the big "U" banner.

Previous to her present connection, she appeared in a series of comedies under the direction of Harry Myers which gained wide popularity. Miss Theby may also be featured in dramatic roles after she has completed the work already laid out.

It is safe to expect that she will produce equally new and effective characterizations under the present working arrangement with Universal.

MME. PETROVA TO POSE FOR BOOK COVER ARTISTS

Mme. Olga Petrova, who recently formed her own company for the production of her own pictures in her own studio is spending the short time remaining before September 3, when she will begin work, in sitting for oil, water-color and pastel portraits by several prominent artists. A beautiful pastel of Petrova, by Neysa McMein, the well-known magazine cover artist, will be reproduced on the cover of the November issue of McClure's Magazine.
SYNOPSIS OF CURRENT RELEASES

GENERAL

"In After Years"—September 1 (one-reel Selig drama, with Eugenie Besserer).—Lucille Davers is a woman whose youthful loveliness and charm succumb to the ravages of time. She surmounts the petty jealousies and ambitions of so-called prestige and interests herself in bringing comfort and happiness to those who have known nothing but poverty and drudgery.

"Pioneer Days"—August 27 (two-reel Selig drama, with Adrienne Revell).—The story is laid during the days in 1812 when England and the United States were at war and England endeavored to devastate what was then the northern frontier. The Fort Dearborn massacre and other thrilling events are presented in the production.

"Outcast"—September 10 (six-reel Empire drama, with Ann Murdock).—Miriam, a beautiful young girl, is betrayed by a handsome adventurer, who deserts her and marries an old woman with money. After the birth of her baby, Miriam takes to the streets in order to support the baby, but it dies. Despairing of any future for herself, Miriam becomes a courtesan and later the mistress of Geoffrey Sherwood, who has been jilted by his fiancee. Miriam hopes that Sherwood will marry her, but this hope seems to lessen. However, when his fiancee marries another man, Sherwood marries Miriam.

"The Bride's Silence"—September 10 (five-reel American drama, with Gail Kane).—The Standish family is proud of the name and when young Nathan Standish is murdered, Sylvia, his sister, allows Bobbins, the footman, to be accused of the murder, while in her heart she believes a Standish committed the murder. She and the district attorney are married and when a detective takes up the case of the murder she becomes frightened. However, the Standish name is cleared and Bobbins exonerated when a girl suicide confesses to the murder, saying young Standish had betrayed her and she sought revenge.

MUTUAL

"Charity Castle"—September 3 (five-reel American drama, with Mary Miles Minter).—Mr. Simmons and his wife and her illegitimate brother are sorry for Merlin Durand, because his miserly millionaire father has turned him away. Charity and her brother go to the Durand castle to intercede for the son, but they find the castle is not inhabited. They invite a few of their friends up and arrange a good time. When the ogre, as the elder Durand is known, enters. At first he is furious, but the efforts of Charity championing his son win the old man and all ends happily.

"Jerry Tries Again"—September 6 (one-reel Cub comedy, with George Ovey).—Jerry tries again, but every candidate is rejected by the eugenic bureau. Jerry writes and asks six girls to meet him at the same time. He takes all six to the eugenic bureau and all are rejected, except one. Jerry takes the maiden to the minister and the minister demands his eugenic certificate. Jerry goes to the bureau, but is immediately rejected.

UNIVERSAL

"Who Was the Other Man?"—September 2 (five-reel Butterfly drama, with Frank O'Neal).—During the course of the United States Secret service, and Schumann, a member of the German secret service, resemble each other so much that Walbert is mistaken for Schumann. Through this deception Walbert is able to round up the members of the Black Legion and prevent valuable papers from going away from the United States government.

"The Empty Gun"—September 4 (three-reel Gold Seal drama, with Lon Chaney).—Frank and Jim both love Mary. Frank is successful in winning the girl's love and they make their home a shack in a western mining town. Frank possesses some gold which must leave on the night train. A terrific storm arises and the train is many miles away. The depot master will not accept the gold, and so Frank takes it home. Dressed as a tram he returns to his shack and tells the gold fires at him just as Jim enters the door. Jim and Frank struggle in the dark and, as Jim is about to be beaten, Mary fires again and Frank drops to the floor, dead.

"Looking 'Em Over"—September 4 (one-reel Nestor comedy, with Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran).—Eddie and Lee, both married, decide to go to a cafe. Lee's wife's brother arrives with a friend and they take the two wives to the same place. The husbands become jealous and put on watter's clothes and watch their spouses. As they see the men pay their wives more and more attention, they decide it is time to put a stop to it and crown the men with dishes of soft food. After a general melee, wife explains to Lee that it is only her brother.

"Office, Call a Cop"—September 6 (one-reel Joker comedy, with William Friese).—Evelyn, a nameless blonde, is kidnapped by some Chinamen. Sweeney, the officer, sees this and determines to rescue her, but he is sent in another direction by the Chinese people. He marks another attempt to rescue the girl and is knocked on the head. When he comes to, he is offered a pipe and pill by the Chinamen and, not suspecting, accepts both. When Mr. Dale arrives on the scene and is ready to give Sweeney a reward for his bravery, the opium pipe falls out of his coat and he is locked up with the rest of the opium smokers.

"A Dream of Egypt"—September 6 (two-reel feature, with Lena Baskette).—Little Lena Baskette has a passion for dancing and when her father brings home a statue of a beautiful dancing girl Lena is charmed with it. That evening she dreams that she is a poor Egyptian dancing girl and her mother is her sister and her father her mother's sweetheart. Her sister is captured by an Egyptian prince for his heart and the little girl goes to the palace to please the prince and the return of her sister. She dances for the prince and he lets the sister go, but keeps the little dancer. The sweetheart arrives with the guards and both are rescued only after Lena has fallen, exausted with dancing, at the feet of the prince. She awakens to find herself on the floor.

Joe is very happy and rushes for the parson and they are married in the blacksmith shop. Joe does everything in his power to win her love, but she remains cold. A dashling widow moves in from Joe's blacksmith shop and starts a flirtation with Joe. Joe, hungry for love, finds himself going to the widow frequently. One day Phemie goes to the widow, denounces her and demands her to let her husband alone. At last love has softened the heart of Phemie and when Joe takes her into his arms for the first time all the bitterness and hate are wiped away.

"Ten of Diamonds"—September 2 (five-reel Triangle drama, with Dorothy Dalton).—Neva Blaine, a cabaret girl who has still retained her virtue, is educated by Warren Kennedy. Kennedy's reasons for taking the girl in are to get revenge on Eliza Hopper, who, through intrigue, had robbed him of the girl he loved, on his wedding night. Neva is successful in winning Hopper, but she still loves Kennedy. Hopper arrives and Neva begs Kennedy to release her, but Kennedy refuses. Neva, distracted, spills wine over her dress and goes home to hermother. The guests and Hopper turn from her in disgust. She goes back to her room and Kennedy, unable to resist the forces that draw him to her, goes to her and they exchange vows of love.

ILL-FATED SHIP SINKS WITH PRINT OF "SUBMARINE EYE"

Early in July the Williamson Brothers disposed of the South African rights on "The Submarine Eye" to Investors'Scope, Limited, of Cape Town. Joseph Fisher of the latter company left New York on the City of Athens, July 12. After sailing thirty-five days the ill-fated vessel was sunk in sight of Cape Town. News dispatches of the disaster carried only the list of American victims, but no tidings of other passengers.

A cable from Cape Town has just been received by Williamson Brothers announcing the rescue of Mr. Fisher, who requested a duplication of his contract for prints and advertising. His print went down with the ship.
The appointment of Otter Elliott as Motion Picture Theater Inspector for the Province of Ontario, to succeed the late Inspector Robert C. Newman, has met with universal approval in film circles throughout the province. Mr. Elliott was formerly assistant to Mr. Newman, and in this capacity has had a splendid training for his new position. He is extremely popular with the exhibitors and doubtless will continue to maintain the high efficiency which already exists in this department. The Government has appointed John Leonard, of Toronto and a returned soldier, to the position of Assistant Inspector of Theaters.

The Orpheum Theater of Lethbridge, Alta., is going to repeat "Idle Wives," a Universal special production. Manager Hanson stated that this has been a big money maker for him, hence his repeat booking.

Conditions in Edmonton, Alta., have not been up to the mark in film circles and there is not much improvement lately, although the attendance this summer was considerably better than last. However, the managers are optimistic for future business. The Monarch Theater of this city has the unique distinction of being the first to run Artcraft Pictures this week.

Calgary has lost one of its most energetic exhibitors in the person of George Aylesworth, who has left to join the United States Army Officers’ Training School at Fort Sheridan. Mr. Aylesworth has piloted the Princess Theater of Calgary through three seasons of hard times until today it is one of the best theaters in that western city. On the eve of his departure Mr. Aylesworth was the recipient of a military wrist watch given by D. G. Walkley, manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company. Calgary. Mr. Aylesworth also was the honored guest at a supper tendered by the Princess Theater employees and Universal staff, at which J. C. Belmont told something of the work Mr. Aylesworth had done for the benefit of the motion picture business.

Calgary is to have another theater shortly.

Charles Hansen, who owns the Empress and Orpheum theaters in Lethbridge, Alberta, has taken over the lease of the old Monarch and is remodeling it extensively. He expects to have the fall opening in a few weeks.

The Regent Theater, Calgary, announces its fall policy. Goldwyn pictures and big attractions will be the program.

J. R. McKenny, formerly road man for the Canadian Universal in eastern Ontario, has been appointed manager of the Bluebird pictures for Canada, with headquarters in Toronto. Mr. McKenny states he is receiving some splendid bookings for Bluebirds.

Henry Fischer, the well-known film representative in Canada, has been appointed Ontario manager for the State Right Features, 106 Richmond street, West, Toronto. This organization will have the rights for the Alice Howell Comedies and American State Rights features in the Dominion of Canada.

Toronto Theater News

Once more the Canadian National Exhibition draws near and the downtown Toronto theaters have laid plans to play to big business owing to the big influx of visitors from all parts of Canada who annually come to take in the sights of the big exhibition.

Shea’s Hippodrome has booked the Bluebird picture, "Mother o’ Mine," for the week of August 27. This is one of the most beautiful Bluebird pictures that has been issued in many a day, and the enterprising management of Shea’s will doubtless make it a big business-puller by their special advertising.

Another big attraction for the exhibitor visitors will be "Intolerance," which will be shown at Massey Hall for two weeks, commencing Monday, August 27. The Grand Opera House has also secured a strong attraction for the same two weeks in "A Daughter of the Gods."

At the Strand will be shown "Beware of Strangers" for one week, while for the week of September 3 the Regent Theater has booked "The Barrier" and will play "Triby" the week of August 27.

Harry Pomeroy, manager of the Hippodrome, has been able to secure Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw in "Redemption" for the entire two weeks. This picture packed 'em in at Loew’s Theater just a short time ago.

It will be seen that there are some mighty big attractions booked for the two weeks that the exhibition is in swing, and without doubt all the downtown theaters will get much extra business. At any rate they are preparing for it.

Jim Davidson has been added to the Toronto office of Pathe and will travel throughout Ontario in the interests of Pathe Gold Rooster plays.

Among the Ontario exhibitors who were in Toronto this week were Mike Harris, of Sarnia; Mr. Sullivan, of St. Catharines; Mr. Robinson, of Peterborough; John Green, of Galt, and Bill Odlum, of St. Catharines. Mr. Odlum is making plans to reopen the opera house in St. Kitts.

"ALL ABOUT BEES" WILL BE ISSUED

BY L. W. BRIND

J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., Will Distribute Varied Educational Series

W. L. Brind, F. Z. S., through J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., is about to distribute the first of a series of educational films, entitled "All About Bees."

These will be known as the Brind Educational Films and it is proposed to publish them at the rate of one a month. The next subject will be "Denizens of the Bird World," with the idea of giving a mere passing "flash" of these interesting and important subjects, the producer will present sufficient scenes of adequate length to convey a lasting impression on the minds of onlookers. Thus a lesson will be taught and entertainment afforded simultaneously, whether in the theater or school.
All records on "Hank" Fords on upkeep, etc., are kindly referred to Si Greiver. If Si happens to be absent, ask for "Umbrella" Herz.

J. L. Friedman, of the Celebrated Players Co., believes that the "Hans & Fritz" comedies, shortly to be published by this company in this territory some time this month, will find the same welcome that the "Mutt & Jeff" reels did.

The American Standard Motion Picture Corp. now is located at 1400 Broadway, New York City, having recently closed and moved with the Chicago quarters.

It looks like Bryant Washburn and Ralph Proctor are going into training for the secret service judging by the "capers" pulled out on the Northside "somewhere," either late August 21 or very early August 22.

Herman Bland, erstwhile exhibitor distributor, is being swamped with congratulations upon the arrival of an embryo nurse for the Red Cross, at the Bland domicile just awhile ago.

"MUTT AND JEFF" COMEDY RIGHTS SELL IN TWO STATES

The Warner Brothers, who have been closely associated with all branches of the motion picture industry, last week acquired the rights to the new Mutt and Jeff comedies for New York and Northern New Jersey, from the Bud Fisher Films Corporation. They announce very successful booking for these comedies already, and predict great popularity for them in the new territory.

JUDGE W. BROWN, JUVENILE EXPERT, WRITES FILM PLAY

"Nancy's Baby" Title of First Story for Universal; Series to Follow

Judge Willis Brown, widely known throughout the United States as a juvenile authority and educator, has been lured into the motion pictures. That is, the founder and first judge of the Utah juvenile courts and the originator of the Boy City movement, has written a number of stories for the screen which are to be produced by Universal.

At the invitation of Carl Laemmle, Judge Brown journeyed to the Pacific Coast motion picture city at the close of a recent lecture tour, and submitted several stories he had created largely out of personal experiences.

The first of these stories to be filmed is entitled "Nancy's Baby," in which Violet MacMillan will be starred on the Butterfly program. A series of boy stories will follow.

CHANGES OF THE WEEK

Sidney Samson, formerly assistant manager of the Mecca Exchange of the Universal Company, has accepted the position of branch manager for the Gaumont Company, Slumber, N. Y., during the extended leave of absence granted Harry King Toole. Mr. Toole has joined his company at the Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., where he is a member of the Sixth, of the Eighteenth Provisional Regiment of the officers' training camp.

The sheriff of Hudson county, N. J., sold at public auction on August 4, the office furniture of the Centaur Film Corporation at Bayonne, to satisfy a judgment held by Charles Pope.

Jack Weaver of the Universal advertising department has returned from a two-weeks vacation. He has been resuscitating at Camp Frijoles, Hunters Island, N. Y.

Wally Van gave the first showing of his picture on August 5th. The picture was titled "Love and Pep," and all who viewed it agreed that it was full of "pep" and should prove a money-getter as a gloom chaser.

Flushing, N. Y.—A new theater, with a seating capacity of 2,500 will soon be erected here by Wilmer & Vincent.

Philadelphia—The two-story brick motion picture theater at 916 Girard avenue has been conveyed by Charles H. Gol- turn to John E. Hardy.

Rochester, N. Y.—Extensive improvements are to be made by the Lincoln Theater Company, 700 Jay street, to the theater building on Jay street. The work will cost $2,500.

New York—From the middle-west comes news of the progress which George W. Weeks is making in his new post of division manager of the Hoffman-Foursquare Exchanges. The latest engagement by Mr. Weeks, following his securing Leo Denison for Cleveland, is H. W. Smith. Mr. Smith hails from Detroit, but his activities will now be confined to Cincinnati, where the offices of the Foursquare Exchange are located in the Strand Theater building.

Division Manager Weeks reports excellent bookings for "The Bar Sinister," "The Sin Woman," "Her Fighting Chance," and "A Trip Thru China"—not to mention future business for the new Hoffman-Foursquare features, "The Silent Witness," "The Fringe of Society," and "Madame Sherry," to be issued in the fall. The Walnut Street Theater, Cincinnati, the Colonia, Columbus and the Rialto of Ft. Wayne are a few of the Central States houses that are showing Foursquare pictures.

New York—R. M. Vandervilt, who recently joined the Peter Pan Film Corporation as vice-president and general manager, is at present traveling through the country outlining the exchanges and outlining sales plans for the various territories. Mr. Vandervilt has made a specialty of this kind of work, and excellent results are to be expected.

New York—The New York Hoffman-Foursquare Exchange, under the management of Hy Gainsbore, is doing a big summer business. Says Mr. Gainsbore: "Foursquare exhibitors are discovering that one of the best forms of insurance they can carry is our product. It affords the patrons the sort of satisfaction they want when the mercury climbs in the thermometer bulb."

Some of the recent New York Foursquare Exchange bookings are: Keith's Prospect Theater, three days, for "The Sin Woman"; the Harlem Opera House, "The Sin Woman," three days; the Park Theater, Jay Ridge; "The Sin Woman," for two days, and the Apollo, in 125th street, which also has contracted for this feature.

The Sheer Brothers of Corona have booked "The Sin Woman" and "Her Fighting Chance," while the Tiffany of the Bronx, has chosen "The Bar Sinister" for an early showing. The Garden Theater, at Webster avenue and 93th street, will show both "The Bar Sinister" and "The Sin Woman," and the Regent, in Fulton street, Brooklyn, has likewise selected both of these features. The Adelphia and the Olympia, New York Broadway theaters, will shortly show "Her Fighting Chance," as will the American Music Hall, at Far Rockaway.

An exceptional line of advertising and publicity matter for George M. Cohan's second photoplay, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," has been prepared by the Exploitation Department of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation. A twenty-four sheet which has been proclaimed by many to be one of the most attractive pieces of paper prepared this season, shows the popular player in one of the big scenes of the photoplay. The line of lithographs includes one twenty-four-sheet, two six-sheets, two three-sheets and three one-sheets, all of unusual design and appearance. Attractive store cards, slips, and a novelty key puzzle are other splendid business stimulants prepared by Artcraft for this film.

A large assortment of newspaper cuts and mats of complete advertising layouts, together with special articles in mat form, have been prepared by the publicity department, and a complete press book, containing ten pages of stories, ranging in size from squibs to lengthy interviews, gives the exhibitor plenty of material for his local publications.

In addition to the material already prepared by Artcraft, its Exhibitors' Aid Department is giving special service and suggestions to showmen on extensive campaigns for the presentation of this novel offering. "Seven Keys" will be published early in September and many managers have already commenced advertising this production.

Williamsport, Ind.—Manager Reece has installed a new projection machine and made other improvements in the Princess Theater.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Alhambra Theater, one of the chain of houses owned by Barton & Olson, has just been opened, after being rebuilt at a cost of $40,000. Edwin Booth, who has managed the theater for the last year, will continue in that position. Two new Simplex machines have been installed and the theater has been equipped with a complete ventilating system.

Irwin, Pa.—Peter Steenhausen has purchased the opera house from the Odd Fellows and will turn it into a motion picture theater.

Rochester, Ind.—The K. G. Theater has been closed and will be remodeled by J. F. Dysert, the owner. Mr. Dysert proposes to erect a new theater north of the Arlington hotel.

Cincinnati, O.—Several changes have been made in the new Clinton Theater plans, being built by Charles W. Murphy, and it is said the house will be much more elaborate.

Chicago, Ill.—The Irving Theater Company has leased from Charles O. Race, the theater at southwest corner of Crawford and Irving Park boulevard, for ten years from October 3, at an annual rental of $10,000.

Westbrook, Minn.—J. Bauer, manager of the Dixie Theater, states that the "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton," in which "Shorty" Hamilton stars, is one of the best features he ever used, and fans enjoyed it.

R. H. Cropper, general manager of the Standard Film Corporation, which has branch offices in St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Minneapolis and Omaha, and which controls the Billy West Comedies for that territory, gives the following reason for the success of the comedies. Mr. Spitzer is a firm believer in advertising, and has organized a territory-wide newspaper campaign. The pictures are playing to packed houses and growing more popular every day, it is reported.
“Skinner’s Baby,” the third of Essanay’s Skinner fetuses, is, according to statements made by K-E-S-E, shattering record even those established by “Skinner’s Dress Suit” and “Skinner’s Bubble,” which are frequently referred to as the “big successes of the year.” Bryant Washburn, assisted by Hazel Daly, made the most of the story in “Skinner’s Baby,” and it promises to be one of the big money-makers of 1917.

Sault Ste. Marie, Canada.—Leo Crum, manager of the Princess Theater, Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, adopted some originality in his advertising for “The Girl and the Game.” Mutual serial starring Helen Holmes. He used space three inches by two columns to carry out the idea, and this is the way he did it:

$250 REWARD
LOST—A brindle dachshund, five feet long and seven inches high. Intelligent and affectionate disposition and fondness for children and soup bowls.

will be paid to any one returning him to the undersigned. In addition, too, finder will be given one reserved course ticket to “THE GIRL AND THE GAME” for every foot of dog returned. He shrinks from water, so catch him before it rains, or he’ll shrink a couple of tickets on you. His distinguishing mark is that two back teeth are missing. Let him bite you and examine the mark. No questions asked. I will be out all night, waiting. PRINCESS THEATER.

Mr. Crume’s originality and the use of liberal space paid handsomely at the ticket window.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Manager E. C. Bostick set a new record for his record-breaking Merrill Theater in Milwaukee on his week’s run of “Skinner’s Baby,” the third of Essanay’s Skinner pictures, in which Bryant Washburn is being featured.

Good advertising by Manager Bostick on his runs of the two previous Skinner productions, “Skinner’s Dress Suit” and “Skinner’s Bubble,” had brought record-breaking crowds and what was better for the third picture, established Skinner and his little Wife, Honey, as likeable figures in the eyes of his patrons. In fact the third picture needed no advertising to get capacity business, but the Merrill manager was bent on maintaining his record-breaking speed. He set about it in this manner:

Three days before he opened his week’s run of “Skinner’s Baby,” he mailed out and distributed fancy postal cards typical of announcements of a birth. They read:

Manager Bostick followed this up by decorating the exterior of his theater with elaborate baby designs, as well as the star’s name in lights, then dressed his big lobby up as a typical nursery. In the center of the place he stationed a baby cab with a big doll.

Here is his letter to Essanay announcing the results of his work:

“The Merrill Theater broke all records for attendance this week, when we showed ‘Skinner’s Baby’. The crowds were so large that we were compelled to turn away hundreds every night during the week. The compliments paid the picture were exceptionally fine. Yours, E. C. Bostick.”

Toronto, Ont.—The Regal Films, Ltd., of Toronto, reports that the Mutt and Jeff Animated Cartoons are growing more popular daily. Practically their entire territory is booked, and they attribute their big sale largely to the favor which these clever cartoons have found with the military audiences throughout the country. The exchange feels that these are just the type of pictures which appeal most at this time, for they are light and humorous, and amusement is what the Canadians need now.

WM. FOX PICKS PHOTOPLAYS FOR PRODUCTION WHICH ARE READ TO HIM WHILE BARBER PLIES HIS TRADE

Let photo-playwrights tear their hair over this—but this is the way one motion picture magnate judges their product.

William Fox, head of the various cirena enterprises that bear his name, is a mighty busy man. He has a private barber shop in his office. Every afternoon his staff barber arrives, and Mr. Fox retires to the barber chair. While the tonsor thus plies his job, a young woman enters, and the plot begins; she brings the plot with her, and she begins it. Jack Lait, who writes the story in the American Magazine for September, has seen that and knows it to be true.

“I wouldn’t let an actor or a director read me a story on a bet," says Mr. Fox. "Those fellows can make anything sound good." While the lady with the zinc throat reads on, Mr. Fox lies in the chair under the soothing touch of razor, brush, or vibrator, his eyes closed, half dozing. Not until he has gone to bed, many hours later, does he turn back to those scenarios. Here is how he accepts scenarios:

“The ones I can remember when I get in bed are the ones I want. I know that those which registered on my half-sleeping brain hours before, and still stand there in relief, are the ones that will register on the brain of the audience. Those are the ones that ‘stick’ with me. Those are the ones I want.”

Washington, D. C.—Arthur S. Kane, general manager for the Lewis J. Selznick Enterprises, Inc., has opened a new exchange here V. F. Whitaker, recently sales manager for Airart, has taken charge.

Columbia, S. C.—The Broadway Theater let a contract to Halbeck & Heslop for the erection of a 40-foot addition to the building, which will materially increase the seating capacity. The improvements will cost $10,000.

Little Rock, Ark.—Mayor D. M. Pixley vetoed an ordinance abolishing motion picture exhibitions on Sunday and fixing a fine of $25 for violations.

PORTLAND

Portland, Ore.—Gunther-King Company will repair the theater at 365 Washington street.

San Jose, Cal.—The Empire Theater at 15 North Second street, which was closed for several weeks undergoing repairs, has been opened by Manager Ellis Jones. The theater has been equipped with the newest ventilating system and seven exits have been added. The house was recently damaged by fire to the extent of $1,000.

Pacific Grove, Cal.—C. B. Clark, manager of the Iris Theater, reports that Kob & Dill in "Three Pals" broke all attendance records at his house since the theater opened.

Denver, Colo.—H. T. Nolan, one of the foremost figures in the Western exchange world, has opened an office in Denver, Colo., from which he is handling the Mutt and Jeff comedies for Wyoming, Southern Idaho, Utah, Colorado, Northern New Mexico and the Black Hills section of South Dakota. He is also about to open an office in Omaha, in order to take care of the territory of Nebraska and Iowa. He reports that he is booking the new comedies very rapidly, and that much of his new territory is already sold out.

SOUTH

Monroe, La.—The Lyceum Theater here was recently destroyed by fire.
I. C. GREEN, OF GAULT, ONT., SEEKS A RECORD WITH “GREAT WHITE TRAIL” FILM IN CANADA

Also Secures Rights to Wharton Feature for Alaska; Leaves Ithaca Plant With Three Prints and Advertising Territory Purchased

Ithaca, N. Y.—John C. Green, of Galt, Ont., who has purchased the entire Canadian and Alaskan rights to the Wharton feature, “The Great White Trail,” arrived in Ithaca last week and departed two days later with three prints of the picture and advertising matter, which he intends to use as the beginning of his exploitation.

“I intend to ‘circus’ this picture as no picture ever was ‘circused’ in Canada,” said Mr. Green. “This advertising is just going to be a beginning with me. And when I get through with that end of things the film printing end of the business better be ready for business, because I’m going to need more prints of ‘The Great White Trail.’ I’m a record in Canada—and I’m pretty confident that I’m going to get it.”

Mr. Green intends to do his booking through Regal Films, Ltd., of Toronto, and will open the picture shortly for a week’s run in one of the big houses there.

“JIM OF THE 3-C RANCH,” FIRST PRODUCTION OF SHAMROCK CORP. TO BE ISSUED BY ULTRA FILMS

Initial Play Published Sept. 5, Will Be Followed by Features Oct. 5 and Nov. 5; to Make and Issue One Play a Month

The Shamrock Photoplay Corporation (San Jose, Texas, announces that it has completed its first picture, entitled “Jim of the 3-C Ranch.”

The film will be exploited by the Ultra Films, Inc., of New York, which as contracted for one two-reel western features each month.

The Shamrock company has just completed its second picture, to be known as “Down at Apache Pass,” a story written round Pat. Carret, the fighting New Mexico sheriff; Geronimo, the notorious Apache chief, and Billie the Kid, a notorious outlaw.

The third western picture will be “Down at the 4-D Ranch,” a story of the Indian nation as it was before the opening of Oklahoma. These films will be published to exhibitors September 5, October 5 and November 5.

The company of players with the Shamrock Corporation includes Guy Robinson, Angela W. Porter, Wade Huf- flette, Frederick B. Pate and Blanche McCar- city. The pictures are being directed by M. A. Kent, formerly with Lasky, Vitagraph and other companies.

“SCANDAL,” COSMO HAMILTON’S SERIAL STORY, IS CONSTANCE TALMADGE’S FILM VEHICLE

Player Makes Debut in Lead Role on Selznick Program in Character of “Worst Spoiled Woman in America”

The first picture in which Constance Talmadge, who is the latest addition to the Selznick players, will make her appearance as a film star is a screen version of Cosmo Hamilton’s serial, “Scandal,” now appearing in the Green book.

The role of Beatrix Vanderdyke, “the worst spoiled woman in America,” gives Miss Talmadge a good vehicle, it is said.

Cosmo Hamilton, whose “Blindness of Virtue” and “Sins of the Children” place him among the foremost British novelists, wrote the story.

The screen version of “Scandal” is being directed by Charles Giblyn, and in the company supporting the star are Harry C. Browne, J. Herbert Frank, Aimee Dalmores, Ida Darling and Glad- den James.

Work on the production has been going along steadily for the past two weeks in the Selznick studio in the Bronx, and on the beautiful estate of Commodore E. C. Benedict at Greenwich, Conn.

Carmen Myers has joined the forces of the Jewel Productions, Inc., and is appearing in “Si-rens of the Sea,” her first vehicle under the Jewel banner.

The Mutual Film Corporation announces the appointment of George E. Jackson, as manager of the Portland, Ore., branch. He succeeds W. F. Dobbs.

S. D. Palmer, former editor of the Ogdenburg Journal, has joined the publicity staff of the Universal Film Company and will have charge of the out of town syndicate news.

NEW PRODUCING CONCERN OPENS OFFICES IN TOLEDO

The Fidelity Picture Plays Syndicate has been organized at Toledo, Ohio, with a capital of $250,000 and has opened offices in the Spitzer building.

Several prominent and experienced producers are interested in the venture and a lecturer of national prominence is also at its head.

The company proposes to make a number of big photodramas to run two house and be sufficient for an evening’s entertain- ment.

The first picture will deal with an American historical romance pertaining to Mormonism. The company announces that a number of well-known actors have been engaged, and the feature will be given the best direction, photography costuming and mechanical effects possible. Most of the settings will be natural scenery.

J. E. WELCH WILL HANDLE OFFICE OF BUD FISHER FILMS

Bud Fisher has selected J. Edward Welch as general office manager of the Bud Fisher Films Corporation.

Mr. Fisher goes to war this month and as H. A. Brock, the former manager, has been called to the Quartermaster’s De- partment of the army, it was necessary to find a man of ability to look after the affairs of the organization.

When Mr. Welch came to New York from Baltimore, where he had been an exhibitor, he met Mr. Fisher, who offered him a place in his company.

E. A. HAMBURG CO., FRAME MAKERS, IN NEW “LOOP” OFFICE

Down-Town Chicago Headquarters Opened at 102 North Fifth Avenue

The Eugene A. Hamburg Company, makers of picture and lobby display frames, announce the opening of the new down-town Chicago offices, at 102 North Fifth avenue.

The new quarters will be used for general offices and a spacious assembling room has been provided where patrons can inspect all makes of frames turned out by this firm.

The Hamburg Company is one of the leading concerns in this line in the Cen- tral States and the new quarters were found necessary to handle the increase in business. The company will continue to operate the factory at 2021-27 Federal street, as heretofore.
CROPPER CONFERS WITH LESSER ON EXCHANGE DEAL

Plan Coalition of Rental Branches Spanning Entire U. S.

During the visit just concluded by R. C. Cropper, president of the Standard Film Corporation, to New York City, it became known this week a part of his conference with Sol. Lesser, the Art Dramas distributor in Arizona, California and Nevada, had to do with the proposed coalition of the independent exchanges covering the United States.

This is interesting to exhibitors, who will speculate as to the possible course to be followed by the exchanges should they become allied. Coalition of independent exchanges should mean, for one thing, says Mr. Cropper, a very considerable step towards the solving of many of the problems of distribution now confronting exchanges. The Standard Film Corporation is said to be the largest independent film exchange system in the country. Its offices are located in Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Kansas City and Minneapolis, and it is rumored that a sixth office is soon to be opened in another central state city. The Standard distributes the Art Dramas program and the Billy West King-Bee comedies throughout its territory and also has just purchased rights on the Christie comedies.

"BARBARY SHEEP" IS COMPLETED BY ELSIE FERGUSON

Play Directed by Tourneur Most Elaborate Made at Fort Lee Studio

With the completion of the big Algerian street scenes for Elsie Ferguson's initial picture, "Barbary Sheep," the production of this playopay drew to a close at the famous Players-Lasky studio in Fort Lee, N. J. For practically two months work on this production has been in progress under the direction of Maurice Tourneur, and it is announced that the film is the most elaborate ever staged at the studio.

Another item of notable interest in connection with the merits of this picture is the fact that Robert H. Hichens is its author and that the original book from which the film is adapted proved this noted writer's greatest seller since "The Garden of Allah."
GENERAL PERSHING’S TRIP TO A TRENCH AMMUNITION FACTORY IN GAUMONT REELS

American Battalion of Soldiers Leaving Paris for Position Close to Battle Front, Caught by Camera for News Film; G. A. R. Reunion Pictured.

When General Pershing recently paid visit to a French ammunition factory, his trip was recorded by a camera man for the Societe des Etablissements G. A. R. Reunion in Paris. Colonel Pershing visited an American battalion leaving Paris for a position close to the front. The American boys are being given a rousing send-off by the Parisians. An echo of what was the greatest war to its time was the reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic at Boston. The veterans are shown as they parade proudly as they did when they marshaled Pennsylvania avenue in 1865. New York’s contribution to war pictures this week is the visit of the Bel- gian mission, coming from Washington, and the departure of the “Fighting Sixty-ninth” regiment for camp on Long Island before setting sail for France. Wallace Ward, Conn., in which 19 persons were killed and 40 injured is shown in Mutual Weekly No. 139. The manner in which the armored cars were wrecked is vividly pictured.

PARAMOUNT WILL ISSUE SEVEN FILMS WITH NOTED PLAYERS FOR SEPTEMBER

With the announcement of its September films Paramount establishes more firmly than ever its determination to improve the quality of production and place before the exhibitor under its new studio series “The Story of a Camera” a higher grade of photoplays.

For September there will be seven Paramount pictures starring Marguerite Clark, Pauline Frederick, Pauline Lord, Julian Eltinge, Mme. Petrova and George Beban.

September will mark the advent of Mary Roberts Rinehart upon the motion picture scene as an author, the adaptation of the first of her celebrated “Sub-Deb” stories, starring Marguerite Clark, being scheduled for early release by Paramount. This production will be called “Bab’s Burglar,” and the titles of the others in his series will be announced later.

The first production of the month will be George Beban in “Lost in Transit.” Wallace Reid follows Mr. Beban in “The Hostage.”

Charles Kenyon, whose “Kindling” made him world famous as a dramatic artist and who has already written successful productions for Paramount, is the author of “On the Level,” in which Fanny Ward will appear. Pauline Frederick appears as a society belle in a scene written especially for her by Hector Turnbull. It is called “Double Crossed” and has to do with political intrigue in high circles.

The production in the list is “Exile,” written by a poet, Dolf Wyllard. Madame Petrova is starred in this film. Gelett Burgess and Carolyn Wells furnished the vehicle for Julian Eltinge’s first screen appearance, “The Countess Charming.”

DIRECTOR EDGAR LEWIS STATE RIGHTS FILM NEARS COMPLETION ON NEW YORK LOCATION

Few productions have presented the many obstacles overcome by Edgar Lewis during the staging of his new special state rights picture now nearing completion at Ticonderoga, New York, according to Charles Abrahms, who recently returned from a visit to the director’s camp.

The story, which is from the pen of Anthony P. Kelly, called for “locations” which could only be supplied by beautiful country such as that surrounding the spot where Mr. Lewis and his company have spent so many hours. He was compelled to build practically a whole town and supply water for the effects by means of fire engines and hundreds of feet of hose was looked upon as a small matter by the director, and when he found that artificial lighting would add to the effectiveness of some of his big scenes a dynamo was hauled to the spot on a truck and electricity was made to order by popping up the rear end of an automobile and running a belt from the driving wheel to the electric motor.

The Edgar Lewis Company has been living in the woods for more than two months and expects to be back on Broadway with the new production completed in the near future. More than ordinary charges were made by state rights buyers because of the success of “The Bar Sinister,” which was the first picture made by Mr. Lewis under his own management and backed by his own capital.

BIG CONTRACT FOR NEW GOLDWYN FILMS

Operators in Cleveland, Baltimore and Calgary Take Entire Output

Joseph Grossman, lessee and manager of the Standard Theater, Cleveland, has signed a contract for Goldwyn Pictures in Ohio’s largest city. He inaugurates the Goldwyn first run service in Cleveland September 9 with Mae Marsh in “Polly of the Circus.” Margaret Mayo, and is beginning the greatest promotion campaign in the history of amusements in his city.

Mr. Grossman is one of the ablest exhibitors of pictures in America.

Goldwyn Pictures will be shown first in Baltimore by C. E. Whitehurst, president and general director of the New Theater, Lexington and Park streets, who has closed a contract for all Goldwyn productions in the state of Maryland, in a period for three weeks merely to tell the public the Goldwyn stars and pictures. Mr. Whitehurst has contracted for all Goldwyn productions for a period of one year and will show “Polly of the Circus,” Margaret Mayo’s play starring Mae Marsh, on September 9.

MRS. BURNETT CLAIMS “THE BURGLAR’S” RIGHTS

William A. Brady, director general of the World Film Corporation, is the recipient of a letter from Alice Kauser, representing Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, the noted writer, relative to the ownership of the picture rights to “The Burglar,” made into a film from the successful stage play by Augustus Thomas, and which the World Company will offer for production.

Miss Kauser makes Claim

Miss Kauser claims that neither Mrs. Burnett nor Augustus Thomas have given authority to the World Film Corporation to make a photoplay from the story “Editha’s Burglar” and later called “The Burglar” on the stage.

At the offices of the World company, however, it is stated that the photoplay was purchased in good faith and would be issued on the regular World program about October 22. Evelyn Greetly, little Madge Evans and Carlyle Blackwell will appear in the cast.

No Court Battle Seen

Mr. Thomas, it is asserted, no longer retains any interest either in the play or the screen rights and is the author of the right to transfer it to motion pictures.

“Our position is perfectly clear,” said a representative of Mr. Brady, “and our rights are unmistakable. We hardly think the matter will go as far as the law courts, but if it does we shall be able to establish our ownership beyond any reasonable doubt. We repeatedly declared that ‘The Burglar’ is the best picture drama he ever saw, so that the picture of it becomes even more remote than it was before the subject of Miss Kauser’s letter.”
"A MIDNIGHT BELL," IS LATEST HOYT COMEDY FOR K-E-S-E SEPTEMBER 3; CALLED BEST OF SELIG SERIES

The Selig Polyscope Company has announced "A Midnight Bell" as the title of the latest Charles Hoyt comedy, in two reels, to be published through K-E-S-E. The date of publication is Monday, September 3. Those who have been permitted to view this two-reel comedy pronounce it one of the best of the Selig-Hoyt series that have proven so popular.

A comical story of rural life is "A Midnight Bell," involving the adventures of the Punxoutown Chief of Police and Ezekiel Slover, chief of the fire department, for the heart and hand of Amy Grey, the village belle. The rivalry is not confined to love making, however, for professional jealousy crops out between the two village functionaries, and this leads to many and varied developments.

J. A. Richmond, responsible for the popular Selig-Hoyt comedies, is the director in charge, and the cast includes William Fables, James Harris and Amy Leah Dennis.

GEORGE FAWCETT STARS IN NEW SELIG DRAMA, "THE RAILROADER," ADAPTED FROM A WIDELY-READ BOOK STORY

"The Railroader" is a Selig film version of Albert Payson Terhune's popular novel, "Caleb Conover," which has been read and enjoyed by hundreds of thousands of readers in all parts of the country. George Fawcett, the noted player, enacts the title role, and is supported by a cast of players, including Bessie Eyton, Frank Clark, William Robert Daly and Thomas Santschi.

The story of "The Railroader" is a drama of human interest. Caleb Conover is a railroad section boss who, with indomitable will, follows the iron rule of "what I want I take." He rises by his own efforts. He takes his mate by force, he seizes an opportunity to make a million dollars on a road in the desert, and he marries an entire state, and his wealth is reputed to amount to sixty millions of dollars.

But, too late, Caleb Conover realizes that wealth and power is not everything: that the trampling down of the rights of the people; the violations of friendship, and the usurpation of the rights of others cannot in the end but re-act upon the perpetrator. The end comes dramatically but logically. Deserted by his friends, his son worthless and his daughter disgraced, a prison term staring him in the face, Caleb Conover realizes that there is a Divinity that shapes our ends.

William X. Selig expects to announce plans for the exploitation of "The Railroader" in the near future.

FRANCIS FORD, SERIAL PLAYER, HAS FEATURED ROLE IN NEWEST BUTTERFLY "WHO WAS THE OTHER MAN"

Francis Ford, director and star of "The Purple Mask," "The Broken Coin," and other popular serials, will have the featured part in the new Butterfly picture, "Who Was the Other Man?" to be issued September 3. Mac Gaston will be seen in the role opposite Ford.

"Who Was the Other Man?" is a story of international intrigue in which Ford plays a dual part.

Marion Washburn, the daughter of a United States Senator, while on a visit to Paris becomes engaged to Herbert Cornel, a Washington social favorite. Marion's father has but one objection to Cornell. He thinks the young man may have trifled away so many years of his life that the sterner essence of manhood may have dissolved his idealism, and he asks to test out the young man, he entrusts him with the plans of an international canal for safe delivery in Washington. Cornel accepts the mission, determined to show his real mettle.

Meanwhile, Ludwig Schumann, secret agent of a powerful European government, is awaiting instructions from his government at the same hotel where shelters Cornell and the Washburns. Marion attracts the attention of Schumann, and the latter believes that he has made an impression on the American girl—although neither have spoken, as yet. While Schumann is figuring how he can arrange to be introduced, a young business man—evidently a countryman of Miss Washburn—walks up to register at the desk where Schumann is leaning. The secret agent is wondering where in the world his double sprang from, when a small, dark man walks up to him and hands him a message. While he is opening the envelope, the messenger disappears.

The comedy of the note soon manage to involve Washburn in the strangest maze of circumstances that he has ever encountered, and at the same time furnish a strong plot to this feature.

BIG EUROPEAN WAR SCENES IN NEW RITA JOLIVET FILM PLAY BEING MADE FOR SELZICK LIST

The making of Rita Jolivet's first picture production—which as yet has been given no name—is progressing at the Selznick Studio in New York, and on a great stretch of open country known as the Watson farm, in Westchester County.

On this tract of land, for more than six weeks, a village has been created, the making of which will form a part of Mutual Weekly No. 141 and "Tree Planting in the National Forests," a section of "Reel Life" No. 75. The Mutual Weekly is published September 12. In view of the fact that it is not made up until late in the week it is issued, in order to incorporate the latest news picture, no forecast of the contents can be made at this time. It is certain, however, that it will contain battle pictures from the western front, taken by the camera men of the Societé des Etablissements Gaumont and rushed to this country by the first available steamer.

"Reel Life" No. 72 appears September 13. Its leading section is "Tree Planting in the National Forests." Most of the pictures were taken at the Wind River Nursery, in the state of Washington. Millions of pine trees are grown from seed and when three years old are set out upon the mountain slopes which have been denuded of vegetation by forest fires. This is a remarkable picture, as is the fact that is being done to protect the country from floods and soil loss.

Other pictures upon the same reel are "An Unusual Colt," a small Shetland pony; "Hunting Turtle Eggs," an exposition of the habits of turtles when they come to the beach to deposit their eggs; "Testing an Auto Tube," a remarkable exhibition of the tensile strength of an inner tube, and a picture from Alaska of "The Midnight Sun."

NOTED WORLD PLAYERS APPEAR IN CAST OF "THE MARRIAGE MARKET"

"The Marriage Market," shortly to be published by World Pictures Brady-Made, will have one of those star casts for which this producing concern has become well known. This will include Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge, Artur Ashle and other well-known players. The play is adapted from widely circulated novel published under another name.
NEW STATE RIGHTS DISTRIBUTORS

New Concern to Buy Outright Negatives of Big Features for U. S., Canada and World; Officers Are Elected.

The State Rights Distributors, Inc., has just received a charter under the laws of New York and will soon be a formidable figure in the film field. Sol. L. Lesser is the originator and sponsor for the new organization. He has been elected its president. Louis J. Mayer of Boston is treasurer, and Louis Haas of New York City is vice-president.

It is the purpose of the new concern to buy outright negatives of big features, either for the United States and Canada, or for the world. Manufacturers are invited to submit films to Leon D. Netter, who has taken an office at 324 Longacre building, New York, and is acting as assistant manager and secretary of the State Rights Distributors, Inc.

Forty Branches Open

All features purchased will be distributed throughout the United States and Canada, through forty offices now in active operation. The entire United States and Canada has been covered, it is said, except Minnesota and Colorado. The new combine already has under consideration five negatives of as many big productions. All transactions will be on a strictly cash basis. The features are to be advertised nationally and there will be no discrimination as to the distribution of film to exhibitors. Each theater owner will be given an equal opportunity to exhibit films purchased.

The plan is the successful culmination of a scheme originated by Sol. L. Lesser. It allows state rights buyers an opportunity to purchase big features on an equitable basis and in turn rent them to exhibitors at prices whereby they can both make money on the picture.

Directors Are Named

The purchasing committee consists of the following seven members, five of whom will be sufficient to pass upon a picture: Xathen Hirsh, of New York; Louis B. Mayer, Boston; Daniel M. Slivick, San Francisco, Calif.; S. A. Lynch, Asheville, N. C.; Leon D. Netter, Cleveland; Sydney B. Lust, Washington, D. C.; J. J. Allen, Toronto.

OGDEN PICTURES CORP. NOT DECIDED ON POLICY OF STATE RIGHTS; DISTRIBUTOR MAKES OFFER

Answer to Offer for “Lust of the Ages” Featuring Lillian Walker

Being Delayed to Give Territorial Buyers Chance to Secure Entire Series

At a meeting of the executives of the Ogden Pictures Corporation, held at its New York office this week, the question of the future policy of distribution of that concern was taken up. Although the first three of the Lillian Walker series has been completed, “The Lust of the Ages,” is being advertised for disposition on the state rights basis, a distributing concern is negotiating to take over this first production as well as the entire series for the next twelve months, but the acceptance of the proposition is being delayed in order to give the state rights buyers an opportunity to secure the entire series.

Mr. Lester Park, general manager of Ogden Pictures Corporation, gave publicity to the statement that the company would find itself in somewhat of a peculiar position with respect to its future films. However, he says, “we will definitely determine our policy for the next twelve months before the first of September.

“While we are not delaying in our producing end, we are proceeding slowly in the matter of definitely committing ourselves to our method of distribution.”

MOTOTOY STUDIO MOVED FROM CHICAGO TO N. Y.; H. C. ALLEN COMPLETES ARRANGEMENTS

Vandivert Making Extensive Trip Studying Exchange Conditions
Throughout U. S.; Chief Names Distributing Concerns Handling Product

H. C. Allen, president of the Peter Pan Film Corporation, returned to New York this week from Chicago, where he completed arrangements for the operation of the Mototoy studio from that city to New York. While there he met R. M. Vandivert, the vice-president of the company, who had been on the ground for several days.

Mr. Vandivert has been making an extensive trip for the study of exchange conditions throughout the country, and has reported so great an increase in business as to justify the change. Mr. Allen had already made partial arrangements and has only awaited the assurance of Mr. Vandivert to complete them.

Select N. Y. Quarters

The quarters of the New York studio have already been chosen, but the selection of the site will not be made until the final arrangements have been completed. The new studio will be utilized for the entire work of the Peter Pan Film Corporation, which will be carried on in a much larger scale. The Chicago studio will be maintained as a branch.

The concern was publishing through the Educational Film Corporation of America, which controls the territory of Greater New York, New York and Northern New Jersey, says Mr. Allen. “The Standard Film Service Company for Southern Ohio and Kentucky; the Standard Film Service Company for Cleveland and Northwestern Ohio; the Lea Bel Company for Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin; Mr. M. R. Dick for Minnesota, South and North Dakota, and Northern Wisconsin; the Standard Film Service Company for Michigan; Metropolitan Film Company for New England; Metro Film Service Company for Virginia, Maryland, the Carolinas and Delaware; Mayer and Rosenthal for California, Arizona and Nevada; William T. Bisford for Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, and New Mexico. Country Well Covered

“We have the country well covered and now are completing arrangements for taking up South America, beginning probably in Buenes Aires. Mr. W. N. Midgwick left this week for London to attend to the details of our new English office, and will remain over there some time studying the condition of the foreign markets.

“Our present plans are to issue 1,000 feet each week, composed of two 500-foot novels. We have already published on alternate weeks. After September 1 a one reel subject will be issued in addition, and after December 1 this plan will be augmented by a further issue of one reel a week.”

AUBREY COMEDIES

WILL BE ISSUED ON STATE RIGHTS

After a thorough investigation of the various channels of distribution, Arthur X. Smallwood, of the Smallwood Film Company, announces that the Aubrey series of two reel comedies featuring James Aubrey will be published on the state rights plan.

Beginning in October, a two reel subject will be issued monthly, for ten months. They will be sold as a series to the state rights buyers, with the provision that they will be sold to the exhibitor in the same way.

Mr. Smallwood said: “We believe that in James Aubrey we have one of the most original stars in the world, and have always been interested in the business. All that he requires to make him one of the biggest box office attractions in the industry is a combination of good stories and adequate productions, which these will furnish. We are striving to make the very best comedy productions in the market, and money will not be stinted to accomplish our purpose.”
RUSSIAN REPETORIY IN ART FILMS WILL BRING NOTED STARS AND STORIES TO SCREEN

Wide-Spread Interest in Presentation to American Theater-Goers by N. S. Kaplan of Fifty Big Cinema Features From Moscow

Announcement of the plans of N. S. Kaplan to promote a Russian repertory of the films in the United States has brought hundreds of communications to the offices of the Russian Art Film Corporation. There appears to be widespread interest in the project of presenting new personalities to American theater-goers in stories worthy of their talents. Mr. Kaplan is enthusiastic at the response of exhibitors and he intends to show his appreciation of their attitude toward his innovation by inviting them to contribute from their knowledge of what their patrons want and suggestions as to his methods of distribution of Russian Art films.

Intends To Be Right.

"The Russian Art Film Corporation intends to be right before it goes ahead," says Mr. Kaplan. "We have completed the task of sorting and assembling for American production the greater part of the fifty negatives which I brought from Moscow. From half a dozen pictures the final choice will be made as to the initial production. We don't say that it will be the best play of the lot—in fact, we believe that it will not be—but we promise that it will be representative of the generally high level of the art as it has been developed by the noted Moscow Art Theater in Russia. We shall let the critical authorities and the exhibitors tell us what our policy is to be. "Every player is an artist of first rank. Ivan Mozukin, most popular leading man of the company, is regarded as the finest actor in Russia.

Feminine Favorite Appears.

"There is Olga Zovska, favorite among the young leading women in powerful dramatic roles. Natalia Lesienko is the most prominent vampire woman in Russia. Other players are Vera Colodna, Tanya Petner, Zoya Karabanova, Anna Nelska and Mlle. Caralli, prima ballerina of the Imperial Ballet."

At the present time negotiations are under way for the first showing of the Russian repertory in a Broadway theater.

UNITY PHOTOPLAYS CO. OF CHICAGO GETS POPULAR "BABBLING TONGUES" FILM DRAMA

The Unity Photoplays Company, of Chicago, has secured another popular photodrama, entitled "Babbling Tongues," which is to open at the Ziegfeld Theater, on Michigan avenue, Sept. 2.

The story deals with the trials and tribulations brought about by harmful and indirect remarks of well meaning but thoughtless people, which cause the death of a kindly man.

- The cast is a notable one, including James Morrison, Grace Valentine, Paul Capellani, Arthur Donaldson, Gladden James, Richard Tucker, Louis Beaudet and others.

"EMPTY POCKETS," A RUPERT HUGHES STORY
NEXT ADAPTATION TO SCREEN BY BRENON

Tale Picked by Producer Because of Big Murder Mystery Plot, Which He Says Always Sustains Interest of Any Kind of Audiences

The success of "The Lone Wolf," convinces Herbert Brenon that the mystery melodrama is the picture theme of the day, except for a historical spectacle such as his "Fall of the Romanoffs." That is why he has selected the mystery story "Empty Pockets" from the pen of Rupert Hughes for his next Selznick picture.

"Empty Pockets" is a story of crime, and the shadings around the most terrible of all crimes, murder. Properly handled, there is nothing that sustains the interest of a reader or of an audience like a murder story. Mr. Brenon feels confident that when his picturization of Mr. Hughes' novel is published it will prove even more interesting to lovers of the plays of the screen than "The Lone Wolf."

Although he is still working on "The Fall of the Romanoffs" for its initial showing at the Ritz-Carlton on September 6, Mr. Brenon has begun to direct "Empty Pockets" at his Hudson Heights studio. He has gathered together a strong cast. The story has nearly a dozen characters of importance.

DIRECTOR E. J. LE SAINT STARTS FILMING
NEW UNIVERAL PLAY "THE MAN OF GOD"

Director E. J. Le Saint, who produced a number of big feature pictures a year ago for the Universal, has rejoined that company and has started work filming "The Man of God," a western story. Stella Razzeto, well known screen actress, who in private life is Mrs. Le Saint, will be behind the camera as co-director.

The cast for Le Saint's current production might be called all-star. William Stowell, who played the leading masculine role in "Pay Me!" will have a prominent part in the picture, as will Helen Gibson, the daredevil leading lady of the recent railroad dramas filmed at Universal City. Hector Dion has been engaged for Le Saint's company.

Another new player in Universal films is Miss Mildred Davis, formerly leading lady of one of the leading theatrical companies, who will play the principal ingenue role.

Betty Schade, Millard Wilson and Alfred Allen, each of whom has played leads in Universal pictures, will also have prominent roles in Le Saint's new production.

UNIVERSAL FILM SHOWS REGIMENT ON WAY TO WAR

A number of human interest scenes of the famous 9th regiment on its way to Berlin, one of the big international companies, who will play the principal ingenue role.

Another topic of timely interest is the arrival of the Imperial Japanese War Mission at San Francisco. Viscount Ishii and his colleagues are officially welcomed with full military honors and are quite evidently delighted with the reception. The student officers at Fort McPherson, Ga., are shown on their final hike and there are several other timely items depicting America at war.

TEXAS GUINAN OF STAGE NOTE WILL PLAY IN TRIANGLES

Well Known Player of Musical Comedy Will Have Big Following

Texas Guinan, the well-known musical comedy player, has deserted the stage for the studio and will shortly be featured in Triangle pictures.

As "The Merry Widow," "The Belle of Avenue A," "The Hayden" and "The Kissing Girl," Texas Guinan is drawing a following of theater patrons from coast to coast who will be eager to see her on the screen.

Miss Guinan first came into prominence in the role of Alan-a-Dale in Dr. Koven's opera, "Robin Hood." Her immediate success caused the Shuberts to give her a contract providing a four years' starring engagement. This was renewed six years later, and upon expiration two months ago Miss Guinan affixed her name to a contract with the Triangle Film Corporation.

The title of Miss Guinan's first picture has not yet been announced.
ANNA CASE, YOUNG AMERICAN OPERA SOPRANO, TO ENTER PICTURE FIELD UNDER JULIUS STEGER

Metropolitan Prima Donna Starts Initial Photoplay February Next(8,22),(991,994) in Story of American Girl's Rise to Fame as Singer; Film to Be Seven-Reel Length

Announcement that Anna Case, the young American soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is to enter motion pictures for a limited period is made by Julius Steger, under whose direction she prima donna's photoplays will be produced.

Miss Case's first picture will be begun in February next immediately after she completes her concert engagements. The story, based upon real life experiences, will relate the struggles against great odds of a poor, but gifted American girl, who, through force of her character and talents alone, rises to a position of dominance in the world's greatest opera company.

George Irving Picked to Direct Initial Photoplay Written by Actress; Another Scenario Being Adapted From Well Known Novel; Both Plays Are in Seven-Reels

Petrova Picture Company, the organization that will produce and market Madame Petrova's personally-supervised pictures, announces that the distinguished Polish actress has leased from Lewis J. Selznick the Biograph Studio, New York City, until arrangements are completed for a permanent Petrova studio. The production of the first picture will begin September 3.

George Irving to Direct

Madame Petrova has selected George Irving to direct her first picture. Mr. Irving was chosen because of his work in the direction of "The Witching Hour" and "Jaffrey." Two stories now are being prepared for production. One is a story written by Madame Petrova, which furnishes a suitable vehicle for her talent; the other is from a popular novel full of dramatic situations. Those two stories will be the first and second Petrova pictures; both will be in seven reels. Decision will be made within a week as to which of these stories will be produced first.

Distribution Pending

Since the announcement to the trade of Madame Petrova's intention to produce her own pictures four of the biggest distributing companies have made advance offers for her productions. The policy of the company is to confer its efforts at present solely to making the picture, leaving the distribution for later settlement, but in view of the big offers now being received, on which advance payments of $100,000 have been tendered, the company may decide that it is to its advantage to make an early decision.

MAE MARSH STARTS WORK ON "CINDERELLA MAN," NEW STAR VEHICLE FOR GOLDWYN PICTURES

Edward Childs Carpenter Story Picked for Noted Screen Player Because of Suitable Role; Stage Version Was a Morrisco Success

In the constant endeavor to equip its stars with roles which are best suited to their particular talents, Goldwyn Pictures have selected "The Cinderella Man" by Edward Childs Carpenter as another starring vehicle for Mae Marsh.

It is difficult to imagine Mae Marsh more excellently cast than in her role in "The Cinderella Man," which in play form was one of Oliver Morosco's greatest Broadway successes. This part of a dainty, sweet girl, romantic but genuinely human, gives Miss Marsh a wonderful opportunity to display her aptitude for changing moods. It has been said of Miss Marsh that she was a girl of a thousand faces, because of her faculty for expression before the camera.

Miss Marsh has started work at Fort Lee under the direction of George Loane Tucker, maker of many successes, including "The Manxman" from Hall Caine's celebrated novel.

This production marks the alliance of Mr. Tucker with Goldwyn, which had been impending for some time.

OGDEN CORP. SIGNS 2-YEAR CONTRACT WITH MISS WALKER

Miss Lillian Walker has signed a two-year contract with the Ogden Pictures Corporation to appear in sixteen productions to be produced eight a year, at a salary said to be one of the largest ever paid to any star. The contract contains every detailed provision providing for the proper exploitation of the productions. It requires that on each film a minimum sum of $12,500 shall be expended in advertising. The company has placed at the disposal of Miss Walker a complete dressing room installed in a limousine. A provision unusual in contracts with stars appearing in motion pictures, but which is contained in Miss Walker's contract, provides that she shall expend out of her own moneys a sum sufficient to provide a minimum of four new gowns and a complete change of wearing apparel suitable to each gown for each production.

All plays which are to be staged with Miss Walker are first to receive her approval and she is to have an equal voice in the casting of her leading supports.

LATHROP FILMS ADOPTS COMICS FOR THE SCREEN

"Polly and Her Pals" to Be Issued Through A. Kay Company

"Polly and Her Pals," the popular newspaper comic series, has been adapted to the screen and soon will be published to exhibitors by Lathrop Films, Inc., of New York, through the A. Kay Company.

The cartoons were started a few years ago on the comic page of the New York Evening Journal and their popularity has become nation-wide, being syndicated throughout the United States on a scale that they appear in hundreds of the largest papers daily.

H. Lee Clotworthy has been engaged by Lathrop Films to direct the series. Miss Grace Darling has been engaged to play the rôle of Polly, and an able cast will support her.

VIVIAN RICH NOW PLAYS OPPOSITE NEAL HART IN NEW UNIVERSAL FEATURES

Vivian Rich, one of Universal's latest acquisitions, is at present playing opposite Neal Hart in a five-reel feature entitled "The Bunty Bee." Among the notable features in which she has appeared are "Holly House," "Pastures-Green," and "The Little Troubadour," in all of which she played leads. Miss Rich also appeared opposite William Farnum in "The Price of Silence."
AMERICAN PRODUCERS JUDGE TERRITORIES OF EUROPE WRONG, SAYS MME. SCHUEPBACH

Partner in Mundusfilm Co. of Paris Says Financial Possibilities Are Misjudged; on Point of Closing Deals for Plays in N. Y.

Madame A. Charles Schuepbach, one of the partners of the Mundusfilm Company of Paris, is studying the American market in the interest of her firm. She has selected J. Frank Brockliss and Sidney Garrett, to be the representatives of her firm, and is transacting all her business through them. In a recent interview at their offices at 729 Seventh avenue, New York City, Mr. Garrett gave a brief sketch of Madame Schuepbach's opinion on the future of American pictures in foreign markets:

American Films Gaining

"Madame Schuepbach feels that American pictures are steadily gaining popularity in all parts of the globe. This is a breadth of view and a lavishness of detail in their production that is lacking in the majority of those made abroad, and hence frontier audiences are coming to demand more and more of this type of work."

M. H. HOFFMAN, INC., GIVES FALL SCHEDULE OF FILMS FOR FOURSQUARE EXCHANGES

Leaves New York for Chicago to Establish Branch in Biggest Distributing Center; Best Notable Dramas with Well Known Players to be Offered Exhibitors

Although warm weather prevails still, many distributors are announcing their fall films. Among them is M. H. Hoffman, who has just left for Chicago to establish another Hoffman-Foursquare Exchange.

While "The Bar Sinister" and "The Sin Woman" have already been strongly booked in a number of territories, the greater part of the country will not have seen a number of these features by the time the fall season is well under way. Therefore, each feature is in every sense a fall film, and according to Mr. Hoffman, should be so construed by progressive exhibitors, who are seeking pictures that will satisfy the public.

Fall Films Are Named

"The Fringe of Society," to be published in September, is an original play by Pierre V. R. Kay, for the first Four-square, produced by the George Dancer Film Corporation. It is a story of New York people. The two leading roles which are of equal importance are to be played by Ruth Roland and Milton Sills, who are features in this picture as co-stars. Others in the cast are Leah Baird, J. Herbert Frank, Ollie Kirkby, George Larkin, Tommy Young and Jules Cowles. The picture is directed by Robert.

In "The Silent Witness" M. H. Hoffman, Inc., believes it has one of the best films of the year. The world rights to this photoplay was acquired from the Author's Film Company and the star is Gertrude McCoy. Among other members of the cast are Frank L. A. O'Connor, Julius Mathews, Edward Fosberg, Rouloff Cutton and Jack Sherrill. The story is one pertaining to the obstacles imposed upon an ambitious, but poor boy, working his way through college, and his efforts forced to compete with the sons of wealthy men who are jealous of his superior abilities. A big romance runs through this drama.

"Bar Sinister" Is Listed

"The Bar Sinister," Edgar Lewis' spectacular production, deals with the barrier of the races and puts forward the undeniable fact that the color of the man makes no difference spiritually.

"The Sin Woman," in a seven-part feature with Irene Fenwick, Reine Davies and Clifford Bruce forming the star cast, and its theme is the effect of heredity and the heroine who erred and was punished.

"Her Fighting Chance" has been acquired by M. H. Hoffman, Inc., for almost the entire country. The story is by James Oliver Curwood and Jane Deane. Brodsky's "A Trip Through China" is a photoplay in eight reels, which can be shown in its entirety or as a serial of three or two reels at a time.

"Should She Obey?" for N. Y.

"Should She Obey?" for which M. H. Hoffman, Inc., has the New York state rights, is a picture which shows the divorce evil in its true light and the harm which so often ensues through a hasty and ill-advised marriage.

"Madame Sherry" is a picturized version of the famous play of the same name, which is played in practically every city and hamlet in the United States, and has for its star Gertrude McCoy.

NEILL SHIPMAN NOT UNDER CONTRACT, SHE TELLS TRADE

Nell Shipman wishes to correct a statement which has appeared recently to the effect that she went to the West Indies in the employ of a film company. She is not under exclusive contract to any concern either for her services or her scenarios.

Miss Shipman has long realized the great difficulty of procuring suitable material for original films. Miss Shipman plans her next trip for the next six months trip to the West Indies was undertaken upon her own initiative with a view to procuring somewhat different material for leading producers.

In this respect she was successful, and although some of her stories of "The Spanish Main" and "Buccaneering Days" have been disposed of, her "piece de resistance" is being retained until arrangements can be made with a noted director for its production.

Miss Shipman is at present in California concluding a contract for delivery of a number of photo dramas, but soon will return East to supervise the production of one of her more recent stories which is to be published on the open market plan.

STANDARD CORP. GETS RIGHTS TO CHRISTIE COMEDIES

To Distribute Films in Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas

The Standard Film Corporation, of which R. C. Cropper is president, has purchased the distributing rights for the Christie comedies for the states of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.

This was done with a view of meeting the demand for comedies at this time, and with the addition of the Billy West comedies, for which the Standard Company holds the Central States rights, the company now is prepared to fill all orders at the Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Minneapolis and Omaha exchanges.

The Christie comedies are well known. They feature Betty Compson and Neal Burns, and are rhodes. Booking orders for the Billy West comedies are being received daily, Mr. Cropper announces, and in order to handle the large increase in business the theatromen forces in three of the exchanges have been increased.
JEWEL productions are a direct answer to the national demand of the show-man to "get away from the old and give us something new."

Jewel Productions, Inc., is not a producing concern. Its sole business is to market fine pictures. It will buy negatives outright or it will book them for the producer on percentage solely on the basis of merit.

We may release a picture a month—or not more than five or six a year—entirely according to the supply of pictures that are up to the high standard we hope to maintain.

We have thus far acquired the rights to only five pictures after examining a large number.

One was made by Edwin Thanhouser, with the intention of selling it on the state rights plan; but we secured the world's rights.

Three are from the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

One is from Lois Weber.

All are of the calibre referred to in the trade as "state rights", quality—a quality that will stand the acid test of a Broadway run.

We have given our offices four of these great plays as a beginning. The fifth we will hold back until later in the season. The four that are now ready for booking are—

"Come Through" — George Pearson Howard's greatest melodrama.

"The Man Without a Country" — the patriotic classic.

"Sirens of the Sea" — the picture beautiful.

"Pay Me" — a big drama of the West.

You may see these plays and arrange for bookings at any of the following offices, already established.

In New York—Jewel Productions: 1600 Broadway.
In Chicago—Jewel Productions: 220 S. State St.
In Pittsburgh—Jewel Productions: 1201 Liberty Ave.
In Detroit—Jewel Productions: 205 Griswold St.
In Cleveland—Jewel Productions: 112 Prospect St.
In Portland, Ore.—Jewel Productions: 401 Davis St.
In San Francisco—Jewel Productions: 121 Golden Gate Ave.
In Omaha—Jewel Productions: 1504 Hanney St.
In Los Angeles—Jewel Productions: 822 S. Clive St.
In Canada—State Rights Features: 106 Richmond St., W. Toronto.

If there is no Jewel Office as yet in your territory, address requests for bookings to the nearest office in the foregoing list or else write direct to the Home Office of Jewel Productions (Inc.) at 1600 Broadway, New York City. We are opening other offices as rapidly as possible and will advertise them from time to time.

We will not bore you with extravagant statements about our pictures. We THINK we have bought the best the market affords. We will stand or fall on their merits and on whether you think our judgment is good.

An Unsolicited Letter to Mr. Fox

It is the La Tosca of the films, so terrible and thrilling in its climax that I felt as if I could scarcely endure it, and yet wild horses could not have torn me away from it.

In "The Spy" you have done more than make an interesting play. You have rendered the country a great patriotic service, for its propaganda is of the kind that will go straight to every heart and stir every latent drop of patriotism in it. If I were Uncle Sam, I should order every playhouse in the land to run it until I had all the volunteers I needed.

Yours sincerely,

DOROTHY DIX.

"Polly Of The Circus" Captures Chicago

Goldwyn's first production has been seen by the public and critics of Chicago at a pre-lease presentation in the Colonial Theatre.

The result, as we expected, is a remarkable demonstration of approval. Exhibitors everywhere will be interested in these comments by the powerful and influential Chicago critics:

CHICAGO EXAMINER: "Polly of the Circus" is an event in Filmland's history... Goldwyn has attained a high notch on the ladder of success with its first production.

CHICAGO HERALD: Goldwyn has played a trump card by leading off with Mae Marsh in "Polly of the Circus." She is elish and pathetic and the circus is a wonder.

CHICAGO EVE. POST: "Polly of the Circus" is a work of art, not merely a vehicle for the exploitation of a star. Mae Marsh is back, as wistful and appealing as ever... A wonderful picture.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE: Mae Marsh is a most lovable "Polly." She bubbles over with personality plus. The production has humor, pathos, and the great horse race is a "pippin."

DEVELOPMENTS within the next few weeks undoubtedly will make plain the real reason behind the refusal of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry to admit to membership the exhibitors who are associated in the American Exhibitors Association.

Of course, the American Exhibitors Association is a young organization; beyond the thoroughly businesslike policy it has adopted and the personnel of its membership there has, perhaps, been nothing about it revealed to date which will prove that it will occupy a position of tremendous importance in the film trade. In addition, the by-laws of the National Association provide only for the acceptance into membership of exhibitors who are members of the Ochs' league.

This latter reason is only the barest technicality and certainly should not have stood in the way of receiving members of the new exhibitors' association. If the youthfulness of the A. E. A. and any consequent lack of influence was the element which militated against the acceptance of its members, then the National Association has made a very serious mistake and one which may cause the very foundations of its organization to quake.

But we are inclined to think that neither of these reasons controlled the decision of the National Association, and that the fair-minded minority headed by Mr. William A. Brady, who at the Chicago convention invited members of the new exhibitors' organization to lend their influence to the National Association, were overridden by the clique which once conspired to control the entire motion picture industry.

The National Association since its inception has been a conglomeration of individuals whose aims and objects have been greatly at variance. The greatest friction in the Association developed shortly after its organization when Mr. Walter W. Irwin who was chiefly responsible for its formation was not tendered the presidency which he expected. About this time Mr. Irwin made an alliance with the Ochs clique who promised to gain for him control of the National Association.

The Ochs clique believed that through their numerical strength they would be able to dominate the National Association and dictate the election of officials. To date they have succeeded in placing in positions of authority in the National Association a number of individuals friendly to them and this, simply, is the reason for the door being closed in the face of the members of the American Exhibitors Association.

The A. E. A. does not need the National Association and only sought membership in order to be able to co-operate more closely in matters of national concern.

But with the Ochs' crew attempting to ride the National Association for its own purpose no real co-operation could have been long maintained.

PARAMOUNT DEPOSITS

SINCE the printing last week of brief remarks concerning the subject of Paramount deposits the HERALD has received several communications from exhibitors which we believe if taken under advisement by Paramount officials will be conclusive proof of the rising tide of resentment among exhibitors regarding this deposit system.

A veteran Chicago exhibitor, owner of four theaters, said:

"Paramount's system is a great thing for Paramount now, but it isn't going to keep up. If an exhibitor can't make any money complying with the requirements of somebody's service he might as well quit, and then there's one customer less. The Paramount scheme is the logical result of the star system. They are giving stars fortunes for their work and it comes out of the exhibitors' pocket. With this system Paramount is likely to get all the big stars and then the exhibitor can meet their conditions and let them have the profit or go out of business."

Another exhibitor admits that with a view of keeping Paramount pictures from his competition he signed contracts for several of the larger Paramount stars which will mean a loss of several thousand dollars, "if I stay in business that long."

STATE RIGHTS RIDE

"SERVICE beyond the films," a phrase evolved by Mr. John R. Freuler carries with it a tremendous warning for those engaged in state rights picture sales. Even recently several state rights pictures of real merit utterly fell short of their mark because the original owners, having once disposed of their product to the minor distributing company, abandoned all interest.

The result of this has been that the film went out to the exhibitor and the public an orphan, without carrying any name of national consequence. In every case the value of the picture would have been greatly enhanced had the producer followed up his product and let it be known that while not actually distributing it, he still stood sponsor for it.

Another advantage to such a course is that it would enable many state rights producers to "repeat" where the prospect now is, very, very dismal.

—Martin J. Quigley.
A. E. A. REFUSED MEMBERSHIP IN N. A. M. P. I.

New Theater Owners' Organization Excluded by Twenty-Four to Five Vote; Ochs' League Gives Vent to Wrath for Bolt from Convention

New York (Special to "Exhibitors Herald")—Despite the fact that William A. Brady, president of the N. A. M. P. I., invited the American Exhibitors Association to become a member of the organization following the formation of the A. E. A. in Chicago last July, the application of the A. E. A. was rejected at a meeting of the officers and directors here, August 27.

The A. E. A. was denied membership to the N. A. M. P. I. by a vote of twenty-four to five, and fourteen of the twenty-four votes were cast by exhibitor-directors, who are members of the Ochs League.

None of the executives or members of the new A. E. A. were present at the meeting.

Not Important to A. E. A.

When the decision of the N. A. M. P. I. was made, Mr. Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the A. E. A., declared that the result was of minor importance to the new business organization.

"In correspondence to the officers of the N. A. M. P. I. shortly before this meeting, the American Exhibitors Association asked whether it was possible for it to apply for membership only to render our services in the work set aside by our government for the motion picture industry to carry out during the present war crisis," says Mr. Pettijohn.

"At the time the A. E. A. stated that there was nothing for votes in the N. A. M. P. I., either as directors or members because voting inside the industry could not aid us. It was also clearly stated that our services were tendered, and that no application was made at the time for votes or for any change in the by-laws of the N. A. M. P. I."

Is Ochs' Vent of Wrath.

No reasons were given by the officers and directors of the N. A. M. P. I. for the exclusion of the A. E. A. from membership, notwithstanding the invitation extended by President Brady at the inception of the A. E. A. in Chicago in July.

It is pointed out here, however, by influential men in the film industry that the Ochs organization gave vent to its wrath for the humiliation it received at the hands of the A. E. A. members bolt from the high-handed rule at the Chicago convention.

The fourteen exhibitor-directors who voted against the A. E. A. were men who stood by Ochs in the Chicago split.

This action on the part of the N. A. M. P. I. is the result of the work of the advow deposit men, who aim to gobble the E. A. A. as the "honest men of the country," says Rembusch. "It is realized very keenly that if an honest exhibitors organization starts a big campaign that the advance deposit system will become a thing of the past.

Real Business Methods Spurned.

"It is apparent that real business methods are not wanted at this time or any other time so long as millions of dollars can be taken from the exhibitors' hands and placed in the chests of advance deposit men. If a big fight is made the situation will have to be returned to exhibitors; high-salaried stars will burn to star dust in shooting from the firmament where they now shine; film rental prices will come down to normal, and there will be more equity in the industry."

"At the present time of the N. A. M. P. I. our organization of business men know just exactly where they stand. We do not intend to fight any producer who is fair. On the contrary, A. E. A. exhibitors will foster and work in perfect harmony with honest manufacturers against the threatened increase in film service.

Ochs Membership Beaten.

"At present the majority of exhibitors throughout the United States look upon the American Exhibitors Association as the only real exhibitors organization for the exhibitor. Right now we have a much larger membership than the Ochs organization, and we have gotten this membership since the break in Chicago in July. The editorial sentiment throughout the country is against the Ochs League—it has been so since the formation of the A. E. A. Hundreds of applications from bona fide theater owners are being received every week. This shows the opinion of the trade."

"We are seeking no personal gains, but we are promoting and bettering conditions in the trade. The Ochs League has lasted seven years; it has done nothing in view of its age; it has played politics in a most unscrupulous manner, locally and nationally, and the result is that the real exhibitors of America have had to league together for protection."

A. E. A. FIGHT TO KILL DEPOSITS ANNOUNCED BY CHAS. PETTJOHN

Ochs League and Collectors of Advance Payments Who Excluded Association from A. E. A. Face a Ruthless War to Finish

"Now we are ready for our first great fight in the exhibitors' behalf, against the advance deposit system." This was the reply of Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors Association, when informed that the directors of the N. A. M. P. I. had voted against the offer of affiliation made by the association.

Mr. Pettijohn was emphatic in declaring that the action of that body in no way affected the A. E. A. in which the aim is for the betterment of all branches of the industry, particularly where the exhibitors were concerned, and asserted that the vote of the delegates from the Ochs organization clearly indicated that it was too closely allied with the manufacturing interests of the trade to be called a representative exhibitors' organization.

As evidence of the stand to be taken in all questions pertaining to the best interests of the trade, Mr. Pettijohn has written William A. Brady, president of the N. A. M. P. I., pledging the support of the American Exhibitors Association in all matters that will aid the government in the war crisis, and assuring him that in every movement that tends to improve any part of the industry will have the backing of the association.

Issues a Statement.

Mr. Pettijohn issued the following statement regarding the action of the N. A. M. P. I. in refusing the offer of affiliation with the American Exhibitors Association:

"At a meeting of the directors of the N. A. M. P. I. held at their offices in the Times Building, New York City, Monday evening, the offer of affiliation on the part of the American Exhibitors Association as set out in our communication of August 15 was rejected.

"We are informed that the fourteen delegates representing the Motion Picture Exhibitors League voted solidly against it and that seventeen of the other gentlemen present voted twelve for and five against. We are also informed that others present did not vote. It may have been that our offer to work harmoniously with the other branches of the industry was not sufficient, and it may have been that our plain statement that we would not co-operate with any movement which we did not feel was for the best interests of the exhibitors was retaining too much latitude on our part. We shall maintain that attitude, however, in the interest of any other organization or branch of our industry. We feel that it was the proper promise to stand upon and we shall maintain that position."

Stands for Exhibitors.

"We regret the offer was not accepted in the spirit in which it was tendered" (Continued on page 16, col. 3)
At the annual meeting of the N. A. M. P. I. last week in New York, William A. Brady, director-general of World-Pictures Brady-Made, was re-elected president for another year, and the following officers were elected: Adolph Zukor, J. A. Beret, William L. Sherrill, Thomas Furniss, R. A. Rowland, J. H. Hallberg and Arthur James, vice-presidents; treasurer, J. E. Brulatour; secretary, Frederick H. Elliott.

To Send Films to Troops.

In addition to this formal business, several important moves were made toward carrying out the desire of President Wilson that the motion picture business take an active part in such war measures as come within its scope. A proposition was adopted to regularly supply the American troops in Europe all the latest motion pictures free of cost, and to establish for this purpose a distributing agency in Paris. The only cost to the government will be the transportation of this agent across the ocean and possibly the outfit necessary for the projecting machines, in case these are not donated.

P. A. Powers, of Universal, who has been chairman of the committee assigned to the War Department, was delegated to present this plan to Secretary Baker and will leave immediately for Washington for this purpose.

To Hold Big Trade Show.

It was also determined at the annual meeting of the National Association to give a monster trade show in New York some time during the coming winter. This officially authorized show will be thoroughly representative of the growth and dignity of the motion picture industry and not merely a series of advertising stunts for the various manufacturers whose stars have been accustomed to appear at the motion picture expositions and shake hands with curio fans—a proceeding not considered sufficiently dignified for a business that has reached the importance of this one. It is intended to make this winter’s show thoroughly representative of every branch of the motion picture industry in the same manner as that followed in putting forward other great trade shows.

“THE GULF BETWEEN” WITH GRACE DARMOND
FILMED IN NATURAL COLORS HAS NOVELTIES

There will be a number of innovations many of which will be seen for the first time in the film industry, when the Technicolor Corporation’s new picture entitled “The Gulf Between,” is seen at a private trade showing this week. It is the picture in which Grace Darmond has the stellar role. Miss Darmond has recently returned from Jacksonville, Fla., where the film was made. The “Gulf Between” is a multiple reel production and has been taken in natural colors, without the aid of any of the heretofore known methods of projection of pictures in their natural colors on the screen. It was on the strength of Miss Darmond’s work in this production and the popularity which the young star’s personality gained for her in the Pathé feature, “The Shielding Shadow,” that the Author’s Film Corporation placed her under contract for “When Duty Calls,” the film which was completed last week at the Norma Talmadge studios under the direction of Captain Harry Lambart.

Rembusch Heads Complaint Dept. for Theater Men at Indianapolis

The interests of the exhibitors of the country are being handled in Washington by H. B. Varner, chairman of the legislative committee of the American Exhibitors’ Association. Mr. Varner is an indetatigible worker, and is constantly looking after the welfare of the exhibitors in the Capital.

Opens Complaint Department

The complaint department of the American Exhibitors’ Association will be handled by Frank J. Rembusch of Indiana. He is recognized as one of the best informed exhibitors on trade questions and will gladly answer the inquiries of the exhibitors on all questions pertaining to the industry. He should be addressed 412 Indiana Trust Building, Indianapolis, Ind.

Each suggestion and complaint will receive his personal attention, and exhibitors are invited to write him regarding any angle of their business. Any movement for the betterment of exhibitors will receive his hearty support, and every communication will receive careful attention. Such matters as cannot be taken up in the Western offices will be forwarded to New York for investigation and a report made after the investigation has been concluded.

W. A. M. P. I. GETS BIGGEST FIGHT IN FILMS FROM SELIG

William N. Selig has forwarded an unusual film to the headquarters in New York, where the film will be utilized for campaign for Red Cross funds. In brief, the motion picture is classified in two parts: First, the famous fight in The Spillers” is presented. It will be remembered that Farnum and Santschi dagged in the film conflict, which, according to many, is the greatest fight the films. A complete staging of the fight is presented. The film also contains some stunts performed by Tom Ix. Astride a horse he tumbles head first down a steep embankment. Members of the Selig wild animal dramas are revived, when another section of the picture presents Kathryn Williams in action surrounded by wild beasts.

Samuel Trigger Outlines Policy of Organization; to Exclude Manufacturers; Southern States to Form New Local of Old Branches

Ocean View, Va. (Special to Exhibitors Herald)—If there was any doubt in the minds of the organizers of the American Exhibitors’ Association as to the stanchness of the South, it was swept aside by the rousing reception accorded visiting exhibitors at the three-day convention which opened here Thursday, August 30.

And the South was not alone in showing its loyalty to the new Association. Oklahoma gave vent to its feelings in a telegram received August 30 stating that the exhibitors of the entire state had voted unanimously to support the A. E. A.

The states of Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, North Carolina, South Carolina and the District of Columbia also voted to re-organize existing locals and bring every exhibitor within this territory into the new body.

Officers Confirmed

With such an auspicious start the exhibitors at Once proceeded to confirm the election of the officers selected at the first meeting in Chicago, when the A. E. A. was formed. The presidency of Jake Wells, of Virginia, was confirmed, and also the general management of Charles C. Pettijohn. Samuel Trigger, of New York, spoke before the exhibitors and outlined the new policy of the organization. He was applauded to the echo.

Jake Wells, president, and Charles Pettijohn, general manager, received an ovation at the close of their remarks, in which they explained the need for a new exhibitors’ association such as has been formed.

“THE LOST EXPRESS” CALLED MOST THRILLING SERIAL, COMES TO SCREEN SEPTEMBER 17

Helen Holmes’ latest Mutual-Signal fifteen-chapter phonovol “The Lost Express,” the first chapter of which will be published September 17, is said to be one of the most thrilling adventure dramas in which the star has ever appeared.

The story, which was written by Frederick B. Bennett, is based on the disappearance of an express train between stations on an absolutely straight piece of railroad track with no switches or sidings. How this train is disposed of by a band of robbers constitutes the mystery.

Directed by McGowan.

The new phonovol has been directed by John P. McGowan, who has directed most of Miss Holmes’ plays and is one of the foremost directors in the picture world.

The story involves General Thurston, a distinguished American, who has invented a way of solidifying gasoline so that it can be transported in granulated form, and the efforts of a gang of foreign crooks to obtain the secret plans of the process form the basis of the plot. Helen Thurston (Helen Holmes) being the nemesis of the gang in pursuit of whose members she encounters many adventures.

Cast Is Named.

Included in the cast of "The Lost Express" are Leo D. Maloney, Thomas Lingham, William Brunton, Edward Hearn, Al J. Smith, Andrew Waldron, V. O. Whitehead, S. A. Sues, R. V. Phe- lan, Clyde Roe, William Behrens, Charles L. Wells and Lauren Maxam, in the star’s support.

PATENTS DEVICE TO REVOLUTIONIZE FILM PROJECTION

M. H. Livingston, of Peoria, Ill., Forms Nu-Movie-Lite Co. to Market Patent

A new device which is predicted to revolutionize motion picture projection has been patented by M. H. Livingston, of Peoria, Ill. A $100,000 corporation to be known as the Nu-Movie-Lite Co. has been formed and will manufacture the new light, as soon as a charter has been secured.

The invention is a combination spot-light, flood light and stereopticon machine, operated by the use of an incandescent bulb. It can be attached to any standard projection machine, it is said, and gives off a minimum of heat. It will replace the old style carbon lighting system in projection machines and can be attached to any light socket, without the use of resistance coils or transformers.

A special Edison bulb is used and special lens and reflectors, and the device can be used as a spot light or for showing stereopticon pictures.

"AWAKENING OF RUTH" IS NEXT EDISON K-E-S-E FILM STAR-RING SHIRLEY MASON

"The Awakening of Ruth," by Julien Hubbard, the five-reel Edison feature, one of the first perfection pictures to be issued through K-E-S-E on September 17, is a story of unusual charm and variety. Shirley Mason, Viola Dana's younger sister, is given an excellent opportunity to show her versatility, and she is supported by George Forth and Donald Hall.

The suspense of the story is sustained through a plot in which life on an island off the Florida coast and the complex existence of Broadway are carefully interwoven.

PRESS AIDS FOR "GARDEN OF ALLAH" ISSUED TO TRADE

Suggestions for newspaper advertisements from a two-inch single column space, up to a quarter of a page, are given in a large circular being sent out by the Allen Film Corporation of Chicago to aid exhibitors who are booking the big screen success, "The Garden of Allah."

Wide-awake exhibitors can also find many invaluable points for press notices in the comments of the various Chicago newspapers, a resume of which are given in another press sheet being distributed by the Allen Company, which controls the rights to "The Garden of Allah" in the Central states.

VIRGINIA PEARSON IN HER NEXT FOX FILM ON SEPT. 9

Tenth Play for Concern Promised as One of Year's Most Distinctive Features

Virginia Pearson appears in her tenth production for Fox Films in "When False Tongues Speak," a drama which William Fox will issue September 9. The unusual scenes scattered through the picture make it one of the year's most distinctive features, it is said.

The supporting company includes among the principals Carl Harbaugh, who also directed Miss Pearson in the film; Harlee Kirkland, Carl Eckstrom, and William E. Meehan. Meehan had a prominent role in "Turn to the Right," the big stage comedy success, which has been running at a Broadway theatre for a solid year.

"FORBIDDEN" NEWEST MACLAREN PICTURE NEARS COMPLETION

Director Thomas Ricketts will this week complete the filming of Mary MacLaren's second feature photoplay made under her contract with David Horsley. "Forbidden" is the working title of the story which deals with the results from too rigid discipline of the child.

ANN PENNINGTON SOON TO START A NEW FILM

Ann Pennington is soon to begin work on a new Paramount picture at the Famous Players studio.
“THE SPY” BIG FOX FEATURE, HELD UP BY FUNKHouser, FREED BY JUDGE IN CHICAGO

The Major Is Slapped Severely Upon the Wrist, and Told to Behave, in Ruling of U. S. Court; Permit Is Issued to Show Film

Once more Major Funkhouser is literally slapped on the wrist and told to behave. This time by Judge Alschuler of the United States District Court, who late Friday afternoon, August 31, handed down an order restraining the assuage Chicago official from interfering with the exhibition of “The Spy,” the big William Fox photoplay, based on the German secret service system.

Judge Alschuler decided that Funkhouser’s objection to the picture was not within the meaning of the Chicago city ordinance providing for the censorship of motion pictures.

In commenting on the Second Deputy’s actions the Judge said: “While I believe that Major Funkhouser’s refusal to issue an open permit for the showing of this picture was based on the nearest of motives, still I believe there has been an abuse of discretion in the matter.

“According to the major’s own statement his objection consisted in the horrifying effect induced by one scene of the picture in which an American soldier is tortured. There is nothing in the ordinance providing for the censorship of pictures that states a permit may be refused simply because of the horrifying nature of one scene. Objections to pictures are allowed when they are of an immoral or suggestive caliber.”

An order permitting “The Spy” to be shown was issued by Judge Alschuler.

ALICE BRADY PICTURES STARTS WITH $250,000 CAPITALIZATION; SPURNS OFFERS

Arrangements Made for Studio Near New York; First Picture to Begin Next Monday Will Be Published to Exhibitors on Oct. 15

Alice Brady, having left the World Film Co. has under consideration numerous offers from many companies wishing to enlist her services. Miss Brady, however, has ideas of her own, and the result was shown by the incorporation in Albany of the Alice Brady Pictures, Inc., on Friday, with a capitalization of $250,000.

Arrangements have been concluded for a studio in the vicinity of New York and work on her first picture will begin next Monday. It is announced that the first production of the company will be the screening of one of the most successful plays in the history of the theatre. Early announcement will be made of the method of distribution adopted by the company. Miss Brady expects to produce eight pictures a year, and her first production will be ready for publication October 15.

LEA-BEL COMPANY OF CHICAGO SECURES ACTIVITY PICTURES OF ILLINOIS TROOPS

H. E. Belford of the Lea-Bel Company, of Chicago, has just made arrangements with the government whereby the official cinematographer of the Illinois troops will turn over to the Lea-Bel Company all films taken of troop activities in Illinois. This film should appeal to exhibitors throughout the state.

The Lea-Bel Company will so arrange that approximately a full reel will be published weekly and will be exclusively controlled by the concern in this state, depicting everything “Sammy” goes through to complete his military training.

THREE SCENES FROM “WHO SHALL TAKE MY LIFE”

DON’T USE FILMS WITH HIGH-PRICED STAR, SAYS READER

“Herald” Story Inspires Exhibitor’s Warning; He Joins A. E. A.

The following letter from Henry Sanders, of the Orpheum theater, Cape Girardeau, Mo., a reader of the EXHIBITORS’ HERALD, speaks for itself. It clearly indicates that Mr. Sanders is a wide awake exhibitor who has given close study to the evils of the star system with its high cost of film for the producer.

American Exhibitors’ Association.

New York City.

Gentlemen: Although admiring the A. E. A. since its organization, I am more than convinced since reading an article in the EXHIBITORS’ HERALD that it is doing more for the exhibitor than has ever been done before. I have believed for a long time that it was the wrong thing to boost any star for it means that you only boost the price of your service when you do it. It would be a good thing if every exhibitor would refuse to book a picture with a high salaried star in it for this is the only way to stop contract jumping and increased salaries for the players.

What good does it do an exhibitor to exploit a star and then have the star jump to another company and have to pay more money for the pictures in which the star appears?

I was in Chicago during the convention and was at the first meeting of the A. E. A. at the Hotel Morrisson, and if you have the minutes of that meeting you will find my name among the list of exhibitors who signed there.

Enclosed find check for six months’ dues, for which please make me a member of the A. E. A.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) HENRY SANDERS.
BIG BLUEBIRD FEATURES WITH STARS ANNOUNCED FOR AUTUMN SCHEDULE

Mae Murray Makes Debut in “Princess Virtue” Film for December; Violet Mersereau, Franklyn Farnum, Rupert Julian and Brownie Vernon in Other Plays

Bluebird has been busy during the past few weeks arranging plans to forward the interests of exhibitors who draw regularly upon the Bluebird program for a part of their plays. There will be a new arrangement of stars, and a shift in directors to give every possible advantage to the details of production. The recent announcement that Mae Murray had been engaged to appear regularly among Bluebirds has given new interest to the series.

Mae Murray is working on “The Princess Virtue,” the feature to bring Miss Murray to the series early in December. Wheeler Oakaan will be her leading man. Carmel Myers will be another new star to be introduced within a few weeks. She will first present “The Dynasty,” with Kenneth Harlan as her leading man.

New Mersereau Film
Violet Mersereau will make her next Bluebird appearance in “The Girl by the Roadside” screen version of Varick Vanardy’s novel, with Cecil Owen as her leading man. Dorothy Phillips, another Bluebird star, will be starred in “Bondage,” to be issued Oct. 15.

Franklyn Farnum will appear alone in future Bluebirds, with Claire Du Brey as his leading lady. “The Maverick,” Oct. 8, will be Mr. Farnum’s first lone-star offering, with Lon Chaney featured. Miss Brownie Vernon will, in future, have Herbert Rawlinson as her co-star, the Rawlinson-Vernon combination being scheduled in “Flirting With Death,” for their first joint appearance, Sept. 24.

Rupert Julian productions will be starred in Bluebirds hereafter, with Ruth Clifford appearing as joint star with Mr. Julian. “The Mysterious Mr. Tiller,” set for publication Sept. 17, will be their next program appearance. Monroe Salibaury has been engaged as leading man in the Julian productions, making his first appearance in “The Desire of the Moth,” Oct. 22, with Mr. Julian and Miss Clifford.

Announcement will be forthcoming at an early date, covering the complete outline of Bluebird’s plans for the season. This plan comprehends a new idea in program service, which will be applied to fixed stars on regular release at fixed periods so that exhibitors may plan far ahead and prepare their Bluebird advertising and announcements accordingly. Bluebird intends to make its third season the best of all.

EXHIBITORS PROMISED NEW SCREEN FAVORITE BY RUSS. ART FILM CORP. IN “PAINTED DOLL”

Tanya Fetner, of Moscow Theater, Has Leading Role in Initial Play of Imported Series Written by Noted Authors; to Reach Trade in a Few Weeks

To an exhibitor ever on the alert to discover some new favorite for his patrons there is a promise in the announcement of the Russian Art Film Corporation that in its first film a young woman who bears the name of Tanya Fetner will appear. Miss Fetner plays the title role in “The Painted Doll,” which has in its cast two of the most popular players in Russia, Ivan Mozukin and Natalia Lesienko. In Russia Miss Fetner is merely one of the company at the famous Moscow Art Theater. She is undergoing the usual course of training which has evolved all the great Slav stars of the stage, which means that until she becomes a star herself in her native land she must play the parts assigned to her, whether on the speaking stage or in the drama of the motion picture.

When Mozukin assembled his cast for the Pushkin drama he selected Miss Fetner for the part of Tanya, wife of a plodding engineer in the employ of the most brilliant man of the profession in Russia. While her husband works and works under the direction of this man, played by Mozukin, the pretty wife fascinates his employer. Kresslof, the name of the character created by Mozukin, despises the social aspirations of his wife. They are separated for long periods and he yearns for feminine associations. He finds them in Tanya, who is ambitious and looks beyond her own narrow sphere.

In the development of this story the famous Russian poet and dramatist de-
TRADE MEETINGS FOR EXHIBITORS ASSOCIATION PLAN

Scheduled in Various Parts of Northwest Under General Manager Hamlin

Locality trade meetings, for exhibitors only, are scheduled in the various Northwest states under the auspices of the newly organized Associated Theatres, Inc., of Minneapolis.

As there is one officer located in each of the states affected, General Manager Hamlin has planned that each shall accompany him in their respective states when the mass meetings are held.

"This is in lieu of employing professional traveling solicitors who are liable to make extravagant statements and also run up tremendous expenses," declared Mr. Hamlin.

"We have decided to begin operations when we have six hundred theatres holding stock and franchises with our distributing corporation instead of waiting until we have one thousand as at first planned.

"This is a scattered territory and it is much more costly for the exchanges to get business than it is in the more congested districts. Hence our new plan of marking and distributing.

"Instead of traveling salesmen we will market entirely through a loose leaf sales sheet mail order catalogue containing all the facts on each film offered. Two week's afterwards the producer or exchange owning the film will be offered as many hundred days as we have secured orders from our members and at the price that each class house that orders, can afford to pay."

MUTUAL PRESS SHEET ISSUED ON "REPUTATION"

The Mutual press sheet for the week contains illustrations of posters available for the first Edna Goodrich play, "Reputation," as well as music cues and all advertising accessories necessary to put this picture over. The advertising possibilities of this famous stage star are many and should aid exhibitors.

"THE GREATER LOVE" NEXT EVELYN NESBIT FEATURE STARTED BY JULIUS STEGER

A company of forty people has left New York for the Adirondacks where Miss Evelyn Nesbit, assisted by her son, Russell Thaw, and a cast of players, will begin her second photoplay under the personal direction of Julius Steger.

The title of this picture is "The Greater Love," by James M. Starr, the scenario version of which has been made under Mr. Steger's supervision. This story is said to be a worthy successor of "Re-demption," the photoplay in which Miss Nesbit scored success, and Mr. Steger believes that the role she therein portrays will afford her the opportunity to demonstrate her dramatic talents.

Mr. Steger also announces the production following the Nesbit picture, which will be "Just A Woman," by Eugene Walter of which Miss Charlotte Walker will be the star, appearing in the role she has created in the stage version of that successful play.

EDWARD WARREN FINISHES NEW FILM; WILL BE SHOWN TRADE IN TWO WEEKS

Edward Warren has just finished taking his new picture and it has been shown for the first time after being completely assembled. Only the directors and cameramen were present and they were enthused when they saw the result of the work.

Mr. Warren will personally do the cutting and the editing of the film and expects to have it ready for a trade showing in two weeks.

The picture has no crime, no sex reference, no problem, no villain, but is a delightful love story, with the widest range of scenes, from the miserable slums of the Ghetto to the magnificent splendor of the millionaire's home, with laughter and tears, with comedy and pathos, it is said.

Realizing that the title of the picture is a matter of utmost importance, Mr. Warren has refrained from naming the picture yet. Not until it is completely finished and ready for the trade showing will the title be announced.

PUBLICATION DATE OF NEW CHAPLIN FILM NOT DECIDED

The publication date of "The Adventurer," Mutual-Chaplin Special No. 12, has not yet been set and will not be decided upon until the film reaches the Chicago executive offices of the Mutual Film Corporation from Los Angeles and is viewed by President John R. Freuler, personally.
MARY CHARLESON IS THE LEADING LADY IN WALTHALL PICTURES

Henry B. Walthall, noted for his work in D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation," and who has appeared in Essanay productions, now is starring in producing and managing his own features for Paralta.

With Mary Charleston as his leading lady, the noted dramatic actor now is preparing to commence work on his initial production at the Paralta Studio at Hollywood, Cal.

The pictures will be published under the star-booking series system arranged by Paralta through Triangle.

PARAMOUNT SERIAL TO BE PUBLISHED DURING OCTOBER

Paramount will issue to exhibitors in October a fifteen-episode mystery drama serial featuring Kathleen Clifford, well-known vaudeville and musical comedy star, who is making her motion picture debut. The fifteen episodes are nearly completed.

MARY MacLAREN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Los Angeles, Cal.—Mary MacLaren, the motion picture actress was severely injured, August 28, while driving her automobile, when a machine driven by J. H. Roth crashed into her car. Miss MacLaren suffered a concussion of the brain and minor injuries. Roth was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

Miss MacLaren recently joined the David Horsley Productions on the coast and has just finished her first picture.

M. H. HOFFMAN VISITS CHICAGO TO OPEN EXCHANGE; OTHER BRANCHES PLANNED

M. H. Hoffman, vice-president and general manager of the M. H. Hoffman, Inc., paid Chicago a visit last week in his tour of the Foursquare exchanges. He proposes establishing a Hoffman-Foursquare exchange in Chicago and states exhibitors are united in endorsing the policy adopted by the Hoffman concern, which is reasonable prices and strong features.

Mr. Hoffman expects to visit St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia before returning to New York, and later will establish exchanges in Toronto and Montreal.

According to Mr. Key, Mr. Hoffman will personally proceed at once to finish starting the Hoffman-Foursquare service stations, and before the end of September not less than three other cities will be added to New York, Boston and those mentioned in the preceding.

"Mr. Hoffman's plans for exhibitors," says Mr. Key, "are certainly more than liberal. He feels that the quickest and surest way to build up a permanent patronage is to give big values for a sum considerably under what would ordinarily be regarded in the motion picture industry as reasonable.

"The Hoffman-Foursquare idea," asserts Mr. Key, "is to seriously approach the price question. And when we say we purpose putting our prices for each feature to the exhibitor on a basis allowing us only a small margin of profit, Mr. Hoffman intends to abide by that decision."

"AUCTION BLOCK" AND ALL BEACH FILMS WILL BE PUBLISHED THROUGH GOLDWYN

Concern Able to Offer Exhibitors a Series of Cumulative Excellence, It Is Said; Stories to Be Featured—Not Stars

The Goldwyn Distributing Corporation will distribute "The Auction Block" and all future productions made from the novels of Rex Beach.

Mr. Beach now holds the sole rights to all of the stories he has written. Thus Goldwyn is enabled to offer exhibitors a series of picture stories of cumulative excellence. Rex Beach's widely read novels of American life are probably more generally popular than the writings of any other contemporary author.

Mr. Beach, Benjamin B. Hampton, president of the Rex Beach Pictures Company, and other associates have departed from the accepted motion picture procedure in subordinating the players to the story. In the words of the author, the story is to be the star of all Beach productions issued through Goldwyn.

This does not mean that well known and capable players will not be seen in the pictures. "In The Auction Block," for instance, the leading feminine role is in the hands of Ruby De Remer, for several years one of the most popular stars of the Ziegfeld shows. Tom Pow and with "Mr. Lazarus," and "Mile - a - Minute - Kendall" established him as one of the best liked young leading men on Broadway, has the principal masculine role. Florence Desmond, last year in the successful Belasco production "Seven Chances," also has an important part.

LITTLE CITY IS BUILT AT ROTHACKER PLANT FOR SCENES IN "THE PENNY PHILANTHROPIST"

Wholesome Films Corp. Play Adapted From Clara Laughlin Story Has Many Big Exterior and Interior Sets; Peggy O'Neil and Ralph Morgan Are Stars

A complete little city has been erected on the property west of the Rothacker Studios in Chicago for the purpose of securing some special scenes in connection with the production of the "Penny Philanthropist," being filmed at the plant under the direction of Guy McConnell. The "Penny Philanthropist" is adapted from a book of that name which was written by Miss Clara Laughlin and will soon be presented by the Wholesome Film Corporation. The concern has rented the Rothacker premises for production purposes.

Miss Peggy O'Neill of "Peg o' My Heart" fame, and Mr. Ralph Morgan, who is playing lead in "Turn to the Right," are the featured players.

Six big interior sets are in use all the time inside the studios in connection with this production in addition to the big exterior set which has been built and which is a reproduction of an historical section of Halstel Street, at which point a large part of the "Penny Philanthropist" is portrayed.

The out-door stage is approximately 150 feet in length which conveys some idea of the magnitude of the production. In addition to the interior sets and the exterior picture city, the "Penny Philanthropist" also requires special exterior sets which have been erected on the roof of the studios where ample provision had been made for such contingencies.

Film Nears Finish.

The "Penny Philanthropist" has been in the course of production for about eight or ten weeks and is rapidly nearing completion. The trade showing date will be announced shortly by the Wholesome Film Corporation.

Folks, there's a real treat in store for film theater patrons in "Lost in Transit," George Behan's latest starring vehicle. Patrons will be given an opportunity of seeing father and son working side by side, for Behan, Jr.—aged two and a half years—plays a role as equally important as Behan, Sr. "Bob White," as Mr. Behan's baby is known, bids fair to become a screen favorite under the careful tutelage of his talented father.

The story is by Kathryn Williams, written for the screen by Gardner Hunting. There are no ruined girls, train wreckers, automobiles plunging over cliffs in "Lost in Transit," but a clean, wholesome story with a "punch" in every reel. There is an abundance of humor of the kind that tickles all the way through, interspersed with touches of pathos that will cause patrons to remember this photoplay long after hundreds of others have been forgotten.

Beautiful photography abounds, and Mr. Behan never had a more pleasing role than that of Niccolo, the rag man. Helen Eddy, too, should come in for her share of the honors, while Pietro Sosso is an admirable quasi-villain. Others in the excellent cast are Vera Lewis, Frank Bennett and Henry Barrows.

Exhibitors who cannot pack them in with "Lost in Transit" either lack showmanship or are catering to patrons whose sense of the beautiful has been stunted and cannot appreciate the best that there is in pictures.

The story: Upon the death of his wife, caused by the birth of a son, the wealthy Mr. Kendall places the child in his home, and expresses a desire never to see his baby again. After two and a half years of loneliness, however, he sends for the youngster. The child is kidnapped from the carriage on the way home and father and servants are completely mystified. In the meantime, Niccolo, an Italian junkman, finds a youngster among the rags of his cart and takes him home, intending on the following day to turn it over to the police. He becomes attached to the little fellow, and puts off going to the authorities. Another Italian, learning of the Kendall reward, discovers the fact that Niccolo has the baby concealed in his home and they take the child away upon the testimony of a grunting nurse, who states that it is the Kendall child. The death of a pickpocket, however, clears up the appearance of the Kendall baby and the real Kendall heir is restored to its father, while Niccolo is allowed by a kindly judge to retain possession of his little ward.

"Betsy Ross," with its timeliness in patriotic appeal, good photography and good acting, will pay any exhibitor many-fold, who is seeking wholesome entertainment for his picture patrons. The titular role affords Alice Brady many opportunities to display her charm as a little Quaker maid and she executes her part with unusual cleverness. The cast in support is adequate in every respect. In costuming and settings the picture is noteworthy, being correct to the smallest detail. There is romance and pictures of the stirring days of George Washington in plenty.

The story: Betsy Griscom, against the wishes of her Quaker parents, keeps a tryst with a British officer, Clarence Vernon, who promises to marry her upon his return. Clarissa, her sister falls in love with and marries Joseph Ashburn, a trader. Suspecting Vernon of duplicity, Joseph and he fight a duel and Vernon is struck down. A year later Betsy marries John Ross, and upon his death she conducts a little shop for a living. Here she shields her sister, who has been driven from home when she fails to produce her marriage certificate. Betsy is commissioned by General Washington to make the first American flag and later she is accused of harboring a spy—in reality her sister's husband. It all ends happily when relations are explained and the little patriot is freed of suspicion.

"Mother Love and the Law" is the life story of Dollie Ledgerwood Matters, whose legal battle to obtain possession of her baby and share in the estate left by her husband, occupied the front pages of the country's newspapers for some time about a year ago. It is the first production of the Crystal Company of Peoria, Ill., and should make an acceptable offering for exhibitors, who know the value of the wide publicity the Matters case obtained. If future productions are built along the lines of "Mother Love and the Law," state rights buyers will do well to keep an eye on this company's output.

Director Sigmann has successfully transferred to the screen all the fine points of the sensational court fight of a mother for her child, without resorting to melodramatic incidents outside the story. O. A. C. Lund, who enacts the role of Jimmy Harwood, wrote the scenario. The character parts are well handled by George Sigmann, who has the role of William Bernard, a lawyer. Mabel Bardine, as Sylvia Marshall, by the Central powers. The trick is to keep it away from a German spy, and it takes sixteen reels to do it. The "papers" are stolen repeatedly and the "gal" is handled roughly by the German agent's henchmen, although he is very considerate of her feelings.

William Duncan, as the hero, John Gwyn, a mining engineer, plays a strenuous role, but there is very little expression to his acting before the camera. He is ably assisted by Carol Holloway, as Nan, the "gal" owns the mine. Others in the cast are Walter Rogers, miscast as Von Bleek, a German spy, as he does not look the part; George Holt, as "Cut-Deep" Rawls; Joe Ryan, as "Shoestring," his accomplice; Charles Wheeler, as Don Carlos Ybarra; H. Duncrow, as Yaqui Joe, an Indian servant, and a score of rough riders and sheriffs.

Paramount drama; five parts; published September 17

Settings..............................Magnificent Photography..............................The best

"Double-CROSSED" is the story of a young wife who steals to save her husband's honor, and nothing quite as stirring in the way of crook plays has been produced that surpasses it. Technically this production is a masterpiece. The settings are truly wonderful in their grandeur and the lighting effects have never been surpassed upon the screen. Director Robert G. Vignola, by this one picture alone, places himself in the front rank of careful, painstaking directors.

"Double-CROSSED" is from the story by Hector Turnbull and was prepared for the screen by Eve Unsell.

Pauline Frederick, in the role of Eleanor Straton, the wife, scores another screen triumph. Every member of the cast deserves unstinted praise. Crawford Kent is a most acceptable Frederick Stratton, and Riley Hatch, as Jim Foley, a detective, is taken from life.

The story: While attending a house party with her husband, Eleanor overhears a conversation between a detective and her husband, in which the latter is commanded to produce a receipt held by Lawrence Worthington, his host, under penalty of being exposed for a petty theft committed years before. To save her husband, Eleanor obtains the receipt and motors to the city the next day with it, where Foley has promised to deliver to her the signed confession of her husband.

PAULINE FREDERICK AND SUPPORT IN ONE OF THE BIG SCENES FROM "DOUBLE-CROSSED" (Paramount)

Foley tricks her to his rooms, obtains the receipt, but refuses to deliver the confession. He promises to give it to her that evening if she will return. While he is obtaining the paper from his desk, Eleanor puts two sleeping powders in a glass of wine, but discovers him and in the tussle that follows Foley strikes his head on a buffet and is rendered unconscious. Eleanor escapes and while trying to restore the receipt to Worthington's desk is discovered by her husband. She explains matters to him and a complete understanding is reached. Meanwhile Foley recovers and "phones" his political boss that six masked men had broken into his rooms and stolen the receipt.
The story of "Lorelei of the Sea" is a simple, straight forward narrative harboring no great climaxes and devoid of comedy filler. It tells of one Paul, a mysterious character, feared for his great strength, who lives the life of a seal fisherman on an island in the Pacific, actually one of the Santa Barbarea's, but uncharted in the film, because it is "The home of refugees." With him lives Lorelei, presumably his daughter. The girl is of the rugged, nature-loving type, loved by the youth of the island, but especially by Pietro, a fisher lad. Lorelei dreams she is the real Lorelei of the legend and wanders out to the edge of the cliff, where she sings enchantingly. Off the coast is anchored a steam yacht, on which is Dorian, son of a wealthy pearl fisherman from the mainland. Hearing the song, Dorian starts out in his dainty boat to find the singer, and, in the search, is dashed against the rocks, his boat wrecked and his arm broken. He is rescued by Lorelei, who takes him into a cave and keeps him there until, thinking him lost, his friends steam away. Lorelei falls in love with Dorian, causing much jealousy in the heart of Pietro, which brings in several melodramatic touches, as the fisher-lad tries to kill Dorian. The foster father goes in search of his boy and finds him, at the same time discovering in Paul, the kidnapper of his daughter. Paul tells his story, in effect, being an endeavor to kidnap Lorelei for ransom, being carried away by the tide and landing on this island, then unknown to him, where no one asked any questions, and where he brought the girl up as his own daughter, giving her every care and attention that a daughter of his own, would have received. He is forgiven by the foster father and as Dorian and Lorelei have fallen in love, the story ends in a fitting manner.

As the first production of Marine Film Company, congratulations are in order. As one will note, the lack of story had to be made up by situations, scenery and splendid photography, all of which has been accomplished. It seldom is that one sees such a panorama of wonderful natural backgrounds as those in this picture. Even were it only intended for a scenic picture, without other interest, it would be well worth seeing. The supporting cast, especially Frances Burnham, as Lorelei, is worthy of mention. Miss Burnham, while in no sense a great actress, is well fitted to the part of the simple island girl and is charmingly graceful. Tyrone Power, so well known in the speaking drama, depicts with remarkable realism the part of the leader of the island, dispenser of stern justice and the loving guardian of his sweet young charge. Jay Belasco, as Dorian, lives up to the traditions of the Belasco family in the finesse of his work. Throughout the work of everybody, from director to the least important part, is highly artistic and the picture should prove to be one of the most popular of the season. The play was presented by M. Philip Hansen, directed by Henry Otto, photographed by James Crosby, and the story was written by Richard Willis.

"Mary Jane's Pa" should please picture patrons not too critical of its shortcomings and who are oblivious of its obvious padding. The story is entertaining and the various roles are interpreted with finesse by such well-seasoned players as Marc MacDermott, Mildred Manning, Mother Mary Maurice, William Dunn and others. Mr. MacDermott, as Hiram Perkins, the man who came back, scraps and bows throughout the five reels in meek subservience to the strong willed Mrs. Perkins.

The subtitling and photography are commendable. The direction of William P. Earle is all that it should be and the scenarioist, A. Van Buren Powell, made the most of the story.

The story: Mary Jane's Pa is bitten by the wanderlust bug and while he is traveling around the world, Mrs. Perkins rears her two daughters and runs a country newspaper. She is in the midst of a political fight when her husband returns and becomes the male house-maid of the Perkins homestead. The presence of the unknown man about the home causes the town co-sip's tongues to wag and they wreck the printing office and threaten to tar and feather the man. Explanations follow and there is a long drawn out happy ending.

"THE BRIDE'S SILENCE"
American-Mutual drama; five parts; published September 10

As a whole: Well done.
Story: Abounding in mystery.
Star: Fine.
Support: Sufficient.
Settings: Excellent.
Photography: Splendid.

"The Bride's Silence" is one of those productions that can be considered well done from every angle. The story, melodramatic in nature, is a mystery tale with a good plot. Not until the very end of the picture is the big climax reached, and the outcome is surprising. The photography and settings are excellent.

Gail Kane, with her usual finesse, portrays with satisfaction the role of Sylvia Standish. A new leading man in the person of Lewis J. Cody plays opposite Miss Kane. Other members of the cast are Henry A. Barrows, James Farley, Robert Klein and Ashton Dearholt. The direction is by Henry King.

The story: When her brother is murdered Sylvia Standish conceals all evidence of the murderer and, believing it to be a member of the Standish family and not desiring to reveal the identity, she allows Bobbins, the family servant, to be executed. Sylvia and Paul Wagner, the district attorney, are married. His wife's curious actions lead him to believe her guilty of the murder and when she becomes ill and in her Ravings talks of the murder, he is more firmly convinced than ever and he and his father take her to their summer lodge where they hope to see will, by detecting also believing the young wife guilty, trails the Wagners and arrives with a warrant for the arrest of Sylvia. However, a telegram precedes him telling that Myrtle Standish, a cousin, had killed Nathan because he had betrayed her. After confessing, the girl commits suicide. With the reading of the telegram the facts are brought to Sylvia and she describes the scene. She rapidly recovers her health and the film ends pleasantly.

Amy Dennis in “A MIDSUMMER NIGHT’S DREAM”
Selig—K-E-S-E comedy; two parts; published September 3

One of the best Selig Hoyt comedies for publication on the K-E-S-E program is “A Midsommer Night’s Dream.” There are many humorous scenes. “She is not out in her nightgown,” killed no delay for the exhibitors will find that “A Midsummer Night” will please audiences. In the cast are Amy Dennis, William Farnas, James Harries, Fred Eckhart, Frank Hamilton and Jim West.

The story, while old, contains enough humor to make even the most blasé laugh. It concerns a fire chief and a police chief who love the same young lady. The young lady does not like either one, but because of her father’s insistence she does marry the fire chief. While police seeing the fire chief in the girl’s home, plans to lasso him and drag him behind his “fliver.” While the chief is preparing to throw the rope, the father of the girl sits in the fire chief’s place and the fire chief and police proceed in lassoing father and dragging him about the streets.

Amy celebrates her birthday and both chiefs are invited. The house catches fire and the fire chief rushes for his engine. This gives the police an opportunity with which they make capital to save the people. Finally, the chief of police does get away, but he forgets about Amy. When Amy is finally rescued she happily spurns both chiefs and since they can no longer be rivals, they decide to become friends.

Mary Miles Minter in “CHARITY CASTLE”
American-Mutual comedy-drama; five parts; published September 3

The charm of Mary Miles Minter and the fantastic entertainment embodied in “Charity Castle” make it a production that should appeal to all audiences. The story, while improbable, will prove an agreeable diversion. The exterior settings are beautiful and the interior settings in the castle are well chosen and luxurious. The photography is clear and enhances the splendor of the settings.

Mary Miles Minter has a role in accordance with her years and at the end she does not don long skirts and get married to a young rich man, as many of her predecessors have done. She makes of Charity a character that will be remembered. She is given ample support by Alan Forrest, Spottswood Atken, Clifford Callis, Henry A. Barrows, Eugene Forde, Ashton Dearborn, Robert Kleine, George Aherm and Gordon Russell. Lloyd Ingraham is the director of “Charity Castle.”

Exhibitors everywhere should find this a successful attraction, but it is especially appropriate for the neighborhood house and the children’s program.

The story: Merlin Durand’s wealthy father sends him home, because of his extravagance. The only condition on which he can return is when he can present his first week’s salary. At death of the woman who takes care of his bachelor apartment, Merlin adopts two children, Charity, and her brother, known as the Prince. When numerous bill collectors come for money Merlin owes them, Charity decides to go to Merlin’s father and see if he will not relent and take his son back. When she and Prince arrive at the castle they find it deserted and immediately take up their abode in the desolate building until the return of the owner. As their guests they invite Bill the burglar who has been employed on his estate and made over to him and his son. The burglar, and Luvis Garrett, a stranded actor. When the elder Durand arrives, he is furious and at first attempts to drive the intruders away, but the Prince and Charity soon win his heart and he gives the meager employment on his estate to Charity, and Sadie, the barglar’s daughter. The burglar has secured a position. He has endeavored to find the children but is unable. When he receives his first check he goes to his father, the children and he are happy when they see father and son meet and are reconciled.

“Under Handicap” is a play within a play and a very good one, too. It needs little outside boosting for it is the best thing the Ivan Film Corporation has yet done and speaks for itself.

The story: Paul, a poor, struggling author, is taken into the home of Moreau, in return for a favor Moreau had received at the hands of Paul. Paul, and made one of the family. He is inspired by the tale of Dante’s Inferno to write a play. For the heroine of the play he uses Therese, his benefactor’s wife and casts himself as the hero. The friendship existing between the two is mocked at by friends and servants as having a sinister meaning and tongues are kept wagging until the husband is informed. The husband fights a duel to defend his wife’s honor and Paul also is brought into the melee. At the conclusion of the picture Paul packs up his manuscript and reads the play to Therese and her husband, which brings a pleasing ending.

“The Sin Woman” is a production dealing in the disadvantages of heredity. A prologue is given in which Eve is shown being tempted in the Garden. Then it shows the antecedents of the star, who had, at various times, been tried and convicted for vampire work. After the prologue is ended the story is told of the young woman, who is a descendant of the woman tried for infidelity, who, because of her heredity, leads the life of a vampire. With the exception of some objectionable subtitles, the story no doubt will appeal to audiences, especially those interested in this class of pictures.

The story tells of a young vampire, tired of city life, who goes to her lodge in the primitive wilds on the trail the sleigh in which she is riding is overturned and she is thrown into the snow. Here she is found by a young man who is happily married. The young vampire becomes infatuated with this man and spurns him until he tells her of his love and she is married she is all the more determined. The man leaves his wife and tells her why he is doing so. The wife says nothing, but after he has left she tells her troubles to the woman mayor. The mayor, who is the son of this woman is one of the men with whom the the vampire has trifled, she is anxious for revenge. All the inhabitants congregate and with tar and feathers they go to the vampire’s lodge. She is taken by the villagers and thrown into the dungeon and tarred and feathered and the husband begs forgiveness, which is granted.

“Babbling Tongues” is a play within a play and a very good one, too. It needs little outside boosting for it is the best thing the Ivan Film Corporation has yet done and speaks for itself.

The story: Valentine is fine as Therese Morean, and puts plenty of “punch” into the many big situations woven around the evil that evil tongues can do. James Morrison shares honors with Miss Valentine and Arthur Donaldson makes an exceptionally strong Jose Moreau. Therese’s benefactor, Louise Beaudet, Carolyn Forde and Richard Tucker complete the cast.

In setting and photography “Babbling Tongues” compares with any feature produced this year. It is a masterpiece as far as direction and story are concerned.

Enjoyable, entertaining, with a pleasing and cheerful story, an excellent star, supported by a capable cast is "Pants." It is a story of the type that is delightful to both adults and children. There is little doubt but what exhibitors will find this a successful production. The popularity of this diminutive star should prove an asset to exhibitors.

Little Betty McAlister, in the role of a wealthy child who is pampered by her uncle and reprimanded for her liveliness by her maiden aunt is well cast. John Cossar and Malaidv Skinner are the supporting cast in which appear other talented children.

The story: Little Betty, although her father is wealthy and she lives in a beautiful house, longs for children to play with. Her aunt forbids her to associate with the other children, but one day she escapes. Going to the beach she sees the clothes of some enthusiastic swimmers and selecting a pair of trousers and shirt she dons them. The owner of the stolen clothes is forced to go home to Betty's dress. Her next escape is bringing a number of children to the house and giving them a party. She succeeds in saving the father of Johnnie, one of her playmates, from the hands of the law, and through her father he gets a position. Her father realizes that she must have children to play with and so Betty and Johnnie become fast friends.

With the new series of the Ess Say-George Ade fables into the field of film publications, exhibitors should have little difficulty in selecting appropriate short length subjects to go with their full reel programs. The stories are entertaining, well handled, the subtitles are excellent and humorous and on the whole they are the kind of pictures that can be run in houses catering to all classes of audiences with successful results.

Rodney LaRock, George Bon, Frankie Coats and William Brotherhood are in the cast. The stories are by the inimitable George Ade. The direction is by Richard Foster Baker.

When the Son of Pa Basker lands a big war order Pa and Ma decide that they will have to live up to their income. They depart from the small town to a large city and soon are in the midst of cabarets, dancehalls, etc. From there they journey to Pa's city where he becomes the head of a large concern, and the story of his success. This is followed by the arrival of a grandchild. They immediately hurry back to the small town, glad of the excuse to get home. The moral of this fable is: Since money became careless, only the plouts are homeles.

"The Outcast," the first of the Frohman stage successes to be published through Mutual, is a well directed and well acted production. The story is melodramatic and while it tells of a girl of the streets, who becomes the mistress of a rejected suitor, and later his wife, it is visualized in a refined manner and at no time does it become offensive.

Some of Ann Murdock's best work is done in her role in the outcast. In support of Miss Murdock appear David Powell, Kathryn Calvert, Richard Hattieras, Jules Baucourt, Herbert Ayling, Reginald Carrington, Kate Sargeantson, H. Ashton Tonge, V. L. Granville, Mand Andrew and James Malady. Direction is by Dell Henderson.

The story: Valentine, engaged to Geoffrey, breaks her engagement to marry Lord Moreland, in order that she might have all the things she desires. Discouraged at her refusal, Geoffrey associates with Miriam, a woman of the streets known as "South." Miriam becomes engaged to Geoffrey and does all in her power to make him happy. Valentine is jealous because Geoffrey is so happy and believes by coming back into his life she will make it hard for him. Geoffrey, who is still in love with Miriam, marries her, and they start off happily for their South American home.

There is no excuse for "Exile." It is decidedly not a story for the family circle, picturing, as it does, the viciousness of an unnatural, unscrupulous, brutal husband, who compels his wife to stoop to the lowest depths to aid him. As a vehicle for exploiting the frigid Mme. Petrova it is a wonderful piece of workmanship that deserves to be rescued from the clutches by Charles E. Whittaker. But the story by Dolf Wyllarde has no business upon the screen. It reeks with suggestion—the only saving grace of the five reels being the lily-white purity of the hero, who, David-like, refuses to be lured from the path of virtue.

Photographically "Exile" is all that could be desired and aside from the spectacular rescue in the fifth reel, which is rather crudely done, the acting is superb. But why court censors by publishing such suggestive stuff?

In support of Mme. Petrova appear Wyndham Standing, as the husband; Mahlon Hamilton as the ninety-nine-cent pure hero, Hervey; Warren Cook, as the Governor of Exile; Charles Martin as Manuel D'Alfrache, and Violet Reed as his wife.

The story: Richard Hervey, an American engineer, is working in the betterment of Exile, a Portuguese colony. Vincento Perez, as chief justice, holds the power of life or death over thousands of Arabs. Perez is desirous of obtaining a letter he has written Hervey, which means his (Perez's) ruin if published. He sends his wife to Hervey's quarters, where she intimates that she is in love with him. They have a sumptuous dinner and sit far into the night talking. Finally she retires, handing Hervey the key to her room. He tells her how to make the best of the situation, and in the morning hands her the letter. She gives it to her husband and leaves him. The natives rise against Perez and he is killed. Hervey saves Claudia's life by snatching her from a veranda surrounded by angry Arabs, and they ride off together.

The splendid photography in "A Stormy Knight" is one of the standing features of this production. An item which undoubtedly will cause comment among spectators is a photograph evidently taken up in the clouds. The mass of white fog resembles the beauties of Niagara Falls. Perhaps nothing quite equal to this view of swiftly-moving clouds has been accomplished in the art of cinematography.

The story is of the comedy-drama type with an interesting plot. It has been developed as a mystery story. No doubt patrons will enjoy this production, especially those who have had an opportunity of seeing previous pictures starring this excellent team of stars, Franklyn Farnum and Brownie Vernon. The story is based on "The Fourth Glove," by Jack Cunningham. Waldemar Young wrote the scenario and Elmer Clifton is responsible for the direction.

The story: The elder Mr. Winton is anxious that his son John marry, but John absolutely refuses. His friends conspire to force him into falling in love with a beautiful young girl. The first time John meets Mary Weller is one night in a terrific storm when the girl comes to his mountain lodge for assistance. His meeting with Mary changes his opinion on marriage. And he is continually kept on the alert following her and endeavoring to get into conversation with her. The climax comes when the girl invites him to meet her on the top of a mountain. From his cabin he sees some men about to fight a duel. He chases them in his machine, captures them and handcuffs the maiden and one of the men to their car. The other two he has arrested. After taking them to jail he returns with a minister and he and Mary are married. John has recognized one of his friends and realizes that they are trying to "trick" him. However, his father is delighted to hear of his marriage.

PEGGY O’NEILL, NOTED STAGE STAR IS FEATURED WITH RALPH MORGAN IN "THE PENNY PHILANTHROPIST"

Actress of Broadway Fame, Who Had "Peg O’ My Heart" Title Role Appears in Wholesome Films Corp. Play for Sept. 15

Peggy O'Neill, famed for her creation of the original title role in "Peg o' My Heart," one of Broadway's greatest successes, will be seen in Wholesome Films Corporation's first big feature, "The Penny Philanthropist," to be issued Sept. 15.

Clara E. Laughlin Is Author
Miss Clara E. Laughlin, whose books and writings have earned her an enviable position in the literary world, is the author of the story, and into it she has written all of the human sidelights which have made her popular.

Playing opposite Miss O'Neill in "The Penny Philanthropist" is Ralph Morgan, who endeared himself to Chicago audiences in the stage play, "Turn To The Right," in which he offers a characterization of unusual merit.

The production has been under the personal supervision of Guy W. McConnell, whose producing activities have earned him a solid reputation for transferring to the screen with measured accuracy the real literary merit of the author. "The Penny Philanthropist" will be six reels.

MAGAZINE PICTURES AND NEWS EVENTS COMPOSE GAUMONT REELS FOR WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 17

The Gaumont-Mutual Weekly which will be issued September 19 will contain the usual scenes of timely news interest which the public looks for in this news reel. As the Weekly is an up-to-the-latest-minute film, it is not possible to say in advance just what happenings it will be composed of. But a staff of news-photographers stationed all over the world, including the military cameramen of the Societe des Etablissements Gaumont, who are with the American expeditionary forces in France and on the battle front, assure that spectators of the Mutual Weekly will receive the earliest possible photographic advice of the march of our boys toward Berlin.

Real Life, the Mutual film magazine, does not show news events, but longer, fuller subjects which are current at all times. Issue No. 73, which will be issued September 20, contains three scenes which are real features: "Running an Airplane Without Danger" shows how aviators can learn to fly before they leave the earth; "Student Officers" illustrates how the young commanders of our new army are learning the up-to-date methods of modern warfare; "The Principle of the Ghetto" is a rare, scientific article so clearly pictured that no one can see it without being entertained. A picture of the weaving of President Wilson's portrait in fabric, and an animated drawing from America's leading humorous weekly, Life, showing how you feel when a big car passes your "sliver," complete the reel.

"A MILK-FED VAMP" FOR THE FOX PROGRAM FEATURES A MONKEY WHICH PERFORMS WITH HATPIN

One of the many touches of humor thrown on the screen in "A Milk Fed Vamp," one of the Sunshine Brand of Comedies Henry Lehrman is making for William Fox, is contributed by a particularly intelligent monkey. This monkey gives an almost human touch in his tricks with the policeman in the two reelers.

Standing on the ledge of a transom, he first takes the cop's hat, then his club. Finally he climbs out a window to the street, with a monkey on the fence, he awaits the policeman. He has picked up a hatpin in his wild run, and when the bluecoat chases him along the fence the monkey suddenly disappears, only to make a deep impression on his pursuer by sticking the hatpin through the fence. It hurts the policeman's feelings. A woman, in passing, gets into a row with the policeman. She thinks she's getting the better of the cop when the monkey sticks her with the hatpin.

MARY McALISTER SIGNS NEW CONTRACT TO STAR IN ESSANAY COMEDY-DRAMAS

“Pants,” the Initial Play of Five-Reel Series Is Scheduled for Publication Through K-E-S-E Branches September 10; “Young Mother Hubbard” to Follow

Little Mary McAlister, the six-year-old player of “On Trial,” “Do Children Count?” and other successful films, has, through her parents, signed a new contract of lengthy duration with Essanay and will be featured in a series of five-reel productions this coming season. The pictures will be comedy-dramas, in accordance with President Spoor’s policy of publishing productions of a lighter vein.

“Pants,” the first of the forthcoming screen vehicles, will be issued September 10. It is being offered to the trade now at showings at all K-E-S-E branches. This production, said to be an amusing portrayal of a rich little girl’s adventure in the city’s tenement district, has a screen time of sixty-five minutes, approximately.

The second film is “Young Mother Hubbard.” It is a travesty on Old Mother Hubbard of Mother Goose rhymes, and is linked with the present high cost of living. The publication date of this comedy-drama will be announced shortly.

“SHAME” FIRST FILM OF JOHN W. NOBLE NOW BEING EDITED

Drama Starring Zene Keefe Will Be Published on State Rights Plan by Burnstein

John W. Noble’s first production for the state rights market entitled “Shame,” has been cut and edited and will be introduced at trade showing soon. Zene Keefe, who is featured in the picture with Miles Welch as her leading man, plays the part of a beautiful young girl who is the innocent victim of circumstances brought about by war conditions. The story opens with a prologue which takes place during the drafting of the country’s young men for war, and has a big climax.

Jules Burnstein is acting as business representative for Mr. Noble in marketing the picture, and soon will announce its initial showing.

“THE DEEMSTER” SELLS IN ELEVEN STATES

J. L. Adams, acting for the Desert Film Corporation, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, signed contracts this week whereby “The Deemster” becomes the property of the Desert Film Corporation in the following eleven western states: Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, California, Arizona and Nevada.

This leaves only one group of states on “The Deemster” available. It has not been decided what policy will be pursued by the Arrow offices for the immediate future, as nothing has been produced or obtained to follow the Hall Caine feature.

Concrete service on the big sale, Mr. Shallenberger expressed himself as highly pleased with the result, and stated that he was delighted with the knowledge that the work would be in such efficient hands for exploitation throughout the western half of the United States.

“RASPUTIN, THE BLACK MONK,” NEW BRADY FILM, IS SCHEDULED FOR WORLD PROGRAM

Montagu Love Has Role of Infamous Pseudo Ecclesiastic Who Ruled Russia Through Ex-Czar; Romance Intersperses Intrigue and Debauchery

“Rasputin, the Black Monk,” is the title of a newly completed World-Pictures Brady-Made soon to be published on the World program. This project has been in preparation for several months under the direction of Arthur Ashley, with a good assemblage of players. The players are: Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Arthur Ashley, Henry Hull, Julia Dean, Irving Cummings and Hubert Wilke.

Mr. Love appears as Rasputin; Miss Elvidge personates the wife of Robin (Mr. Love), who is the leader of the revolutionists, betrayed by Rasputin. Mr. Hull is seen as Kerensky, the hero of the hour in Russia, to whom the young actor bears a likeness; Miss Dean is the Czarina’s favorite lady in waiting under such hypnotic fascination for the black monk that she eagerly performs his bidding in all things; Irving Cummins plays a gallant young prince whose influence, thrown to the revolutionists at the critical moment, enables them to overthrow the government and accomplish the freedom of their country; and Mr. Wilke portrays the Czar whose rule is ended in the final episode of the new drama.

History Is Followed.

In “Rasputin” the unbelievable career of the monk who so influenced the Czar that for years he practically swayed the destinies of the Russian people is followed from its peasant beginning to its tragic end. He is shown first as the quack, sinister village, half feared and half disliked, whose strange hypnotic power over women is not understood by the simple folk to whom he is known.

This creature mysteriously disappears at intervals, returning in due course freshly supplied with money which he has wheedled out of the ignorant country people by assuming the garb of a monk and bestowing upon them the fraudulent benedictions he has learned for this purpose.

Counter service agent discovers the deception and persuades Rasputin that by turning his supposed revolutionary friends over to the government, he can escape a greater misfortune than that present occupation, and a very troublesome uprising is averted. Then Rasputin proceeds to Petrograd where by various devious means—he principally uses his power over the gentler sex—he becomes the absolute but ultimately evil genius of the government.

Love Story in Film.

Against this grim background of intrigue, debauchery and wanton disregard of human rights is drawn a story of love, devotion, self sacrifice and heroism of a very striking quality which finds its happy ending in the crash of revolution and the beneficence of national liberty.

ART DRAMAS SOON TO START FILMING NEW MYSTERY TALE

According to announcement from Harry Raver, president of Apollo Pictures, Inc., issuing on Art Dramas Program, his company soon will begin work on a mystery story which will deal with the adventures of a crook known as “I.” The title of the production has no yet been decided.

Everything goes well until a well-known and his wife is followed by "Gloomy Gus" makes his appearance. Again he gets into all sorts of difficulties and at the end gives it up as a bad job.
N. S. Kaplan, of Moscow, Russia, and America, has spent most of his time in recent years in what now is the greatest new republic. He returned to the United States several weeks ago with more than fifty productions of his studios, which are operated in conjunction with the famous Moscow Art Theatre, described as the pioneer in intelligent realism and one of the foremost theatres in the world. The one thing that has made most impression on him since his return to New York has been the almost endless cry for motion picture scenarios with stories. If there is one thing that he has brought from Moscow, he insists, it is stories.

In Russia,” Mr. Kaplan says, “we have to give our theatre-goers stories or they will stay away. And, as a rule, the stories they want are the ones they know. That is why Russian drama, stage and pictorial, is really a reflection of the literature of the country, which is in turn a reflection of the life of the people. I have no scenario writers on my staff in Moscow getting so much a week and turning out stories by the yard. I’d have to throw their stuff away if I had them, because no actor in Russia who is worth a nickel at the box office would appear in a play based on such material.

Russia a Paradise for Stories

“Within a few weeks I have read the statements of half a dozen heads of big film producing corporations in this city, all of them C.T.S. business men. ‘Russia would be a paradise for them. There they could get a man like Andrieff, for instance, to write for them. Andrieff is writing for the stage and the same players who appear in his plays at the Moscow Art Theatre would very likely create the same roles in the screen version or would portray his characters in some play that might not be adapted for the speaking stage. And if Andrieff or his living contemporaries had no works for presentation at the present time, the producer would go to the volumes of some of Russia’s foremost writers, perhaps even go back eighty years or more to the story of a theatrical by the young Pushkin, whose pen was forever stilled in a duel in 1837.”

"Painted Doll" Based on a Poem

"Pushkin’s version of the future was uncanny, or else the writers of today are using ‘old stuff,’ as the phrase is. For instance, the Art Film Corporation of the Russian Art Film Corporation in the United States will be ‘The Painted Doll.’ This picture was based on a poem written by Pushkin ninety years ago. It is a story of the domestic triangle, the perennial and eternal, but how differently Pushkin handles the subject in comparison with his modern successors. The screen adaptation gives adequate play for the artistic abilities of four of the best actors in Russian stage life. The author has followed his text to the bitter end, there is no appeal to shallow minds that demand that reason and logic shall be ignored to provide one of those ‘and they lived happily ever afterwards’ endings. They don’t live happily ever afterward, not in Pushkin’s work.”

"The same may be said for the writing of Tolstoy, Sienciewicz, Dustoevsky, Turgenieff and Ostrovsky. Whatever the foundation on which they built, thereon they erected a logical superstructure. It is from the literary gems of such writers as these that the motion picture Russia is made. Our playwrights want life portrayed, and portrayed as it is. I believe that the millions of patrons of the motion picture theatre are tired of the same thing and that the cry of the producer here for stories is inspired by the lamentations of the public that pays the bills.

Art Film Corporation to Supply Want

“The Russian Art Film Corporation is prepared to supply without delay this great want. And at the same time I guarantee that the players will be worthy of the writings of the great authors I have named. Their names mean nothing now. It is only to establish them in the memory of the people who, I am sure, will take them to their hearts that I mention them here. There is Mozukin; we call him the ‘miracle man’ of the matinee in Russia. He looks as E. H. Sothern did about twenty years ago and is as versatile. Of the women, there is Natalia Lesienko, favorite vampire; Zovka, many popular leading woman; Karabanova, Mlle. Carali, Nelska, and Tanya Fetner, soon to be seen with Mozukin and Lesienko in ‘The Painted Doll.’

NEW ENGLAND ROMANCE IS NEXT ART DRAMAS—VAN DYKE FEATURE WHICH STARS MISS JEAN SOTHERN

“A delightful idyll of the New England coast,” is said to describe Jean Sothern’s next vehicle, “Peg O’ The Sea,” which the Van Dyke company will issue on Art Dramas program. Mr. Sothern is the series star which David Horsman, and is skilled in the trade as is her father. When he becomes ill she dons slickers and conducts his fishing fleet herself.

Blair, a young man from the city, has established himself in the village, Russia, in his fishing boat. A washerwoman, Adele, is in love with Blair, a selfish city girl, who looks on him only as an amusement. She gives him no encouragement with his invention, and refuses to become engaged to him, although he declares his love constantly.

Peg is saved from drowning one day by Blair, and from then on a friendship springs up between them. Peg finds herself falling in love with Blair, and becomes jealous of Eileen. A climax is reached when Eileen becomes engaged to Blair, and then, a few days later, marries a millionaire. This breaks Blair’s heart and he ceases work on his invention. One night heussuesis Island, that tears screams. He rushes in to find her struggling with Butch, a disreputable man of the town. Blair throws Butch out of the house and stays to talk to Peg. He finds her more interesting than he had supposed. When she displays interest in his invention, he invites her to come and see it.

Eileen, who has been married, returns later and tells Blair that her husband has died and that she loves him. But he is no longer under her spell, and now realizes her worthless.

He goes back to his invention and is so discouraged because it will not work that he attempts to destroy it. Peg, passing by, sees him and rushes in at the last moment. Then, while he is explaining it to her, he suddenly discovers she is wrong. This rectified, the machine begins to move, and he knows he has attained success. He also knows that he loves Peg, and he grasps her in his arms.

FLORENCIA PRINTY, STAGE PLAYER, IS LEADING LADY FOR WILBUR IN ART DRAMAS "unto the End"

Crane Wilbur’s leading woman in “Unto The End,” one of the series of Art Dramas which David Horsman is producing, is Florence Priny, a recruit from the stage. Miss Priny plays opposite Mr. Wilbur in “Unto The End.”

Miss Priny portrays a chorus girl, named Goldie Gray, with whom Jim and New, working on an invention calculated to destroy submarines. He is in love. Jim’s love is reciprocated, but his parents cannot approve his marriage to a chorus girl, and they contrive to break the match. They are successful, but Jim never forgets his love.

Goldie Gray becomes a stage favorite and her tour takes her to Honolulu, where Jim is stationed to look after his father’s business interests. Jim attends one of the performances, and as Goldie is singing she suddenly sways and falls into a faint. A doctor is summoned and after an examination announces that she has contracted leprosy. Everybody deserts except Jim, who attends to her removal to the leper colony at Makaliki Island. The events which bring the picture to a close prove that Jim’s love is truly everlasting.
The mammoth Toronto Exhibition, as it is styled, now is on in full swing at Toronto and the city is crowded with visitors from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Monday, August 27, was opening day, and all attendance records were smashed. The downtown theaters are naturally benefiting by the great influx of visitors to the city and made special preparations to give the crowds strong bills.

Probably one of the greatest drawing cards of the week and the theater that did the biggest business of any downtown theater, was Sheela's Hippodrome. As a special attraction, this theater showed the Bluebird Special, "Mother O' Mine," and the reception that this film received was a pleasant surprise to the man in the box office.

Manager McArthur helped the picture along by having John T. Fiddes, known as the "Canadian John McCormick," to sing the song, "Mother O' Mine," at all performances. This innovation was one of the most effective stunts seen on a Toronto stage in some time.

D. G. Walkley, Western manager for the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, who makes his headquarters in Calgary, has arrived in Toronto on a business trip to the home office. Mr. Walkley is very much pleased with the Universal lineup in the Canadian West. He says the film business generally is slowly improving, but states that many houses are being re-modeled and redecorated, while especial attention is being paid to the musical end of the program. Mr. Walkley will return West within the next few weeks.

Claire Hague, general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, has made preparations to attend the second annual convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of the Maritime Provinces convention at St. John, which is to be held September 9 and 10.

One of the features of the grand stand performance at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, is the motion picture show held nightly. A feature of this performance is its magnitude. The grand stand, which is one of the largest on the American continent, seats over 15,000 people and on many occasions has been turned away unable to gain admission for the evening performance.

Henry Fischer, manager of State Right Features, Toronto, has returned from a successful trip to Ottawa and other cities in the immediate vicinity of Canada's national capital. He is specializing on Alice Howell Comedies and American state right features.

A pleasing innovation will commence next week at the Regent theater, Toronto, when an orchestra recital will be given each afternoon from 4:15 to 4:45. No pictures will be shown during this period and the orchestra will render high class music under the leadership of John Arthur. The Regent has brought its orchestra up to a high standard and it is now looked upon as one of the finest motion picture orchestras on the American continent.

Whithby, Ontario, now has a live new theater in connection with the Whithby Convalescent Hospital for the returned soldiers. It is a steel and concrete structure with seating capacity of 1,500.

Sam J. Massoud, Toronto, has purchased the Empress theater, Yonge street, Toronto, and made a number of improvements in the house. Two changes of program will be given each week from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The rapid growing section of North Toronto, a suburb of Toronto, has a motion picture theater. The theater is located in the Mimico district on the Lake Shore road and has opened a few days ago.

T. J. Peart, Toronto, Ontario, has built a two-story picture theater and office buildings on Fifth street, Lake Shore road, New Toronto. This district has become an industrial center within the past few years. The new building will be completed by Christmas.

Harold Hitchinson, formerly of the Toronto World, has become assistant treasurer of the Strand theater, Toronto.

Edmonton, Alta., has made its debut in the productions of motion pictures. The film drama entitled "None Faultless" was recently completed in this Canadian Western city and the players appearing on the screen are all Edmonton people. It will be published at the Regent theater in Calgary very shortly.

Edmonton, Alta., exhibitors have a movement on foot in the establishment of an auxiliary power plant in connection with the city's electrical system. The present system has an evaporating habit of laying down on the job frequently, much to the annoyance of the theaters.

Here is a little stunt that the Bijou theater, Calgary, Alta., recently used in conjunction with an ice cream manufacturer: The Bijou announced that Saturday, August 18, every lady and child attending the special matinee would be presented with an ice cream cone. The reports received indicate that the publicity derived was well worth the effort.

The Liberty theater at Trail, B. C., a new house, has just been opened.

R. E. Willis, a veteran Canadian exhibitor, has left Toronto for Winnipeg to take over the management of the Rex theater in that city.

Geo. Sackett, formerly of Des Moines, Iowa, and husband of Sarah Paddon, the actress, now is manager of the Orpheum theater, Winnipeg.

Winnipeg will likely get another exchange. It is rumored that the Globe Films, Limited, company are opening up in this western city shortly. The concern now has offices in Montreal and Toronto.

The Exhibitors' Association of Ontario has opened club rooms over His Majesty's theater, Yonge street, Toronto.

That enterprising Toronto exhibitor, Harry Pomeroy, again is lining them up in front of his house with the picture, "Redemption," in which Evelyn Nesbit is appearing. As usual Pomeroy has a splendid lobby display which brings the money to the box office. He is showing this picture for two weeks, during the period that the big Toronto exhibition is under way.

"THE CHILD M'SIEU."

NEW BABY OSBORNE

PLAY, NEAR FINISH

Harrish Ingraham has nearly completed "The Child of M'sieu," a five-reel drama featuring Baby Marie Osborne for the Pathe program. The camera work executed by William Nobles promises many new effects as the result of a number of experiments made recently under a new lighting process.

BAYLEY MADE CHICAGO

VITAGRAPH MANAGER

H. G. Bayley, of Minneapolis, this week succeeded Sidney E. Abel as manager of the Chicago branch of the Greater Vitagraph-V.-L.-S.E. Mr. Abel, who is well-known to the trade and exchange circles, has not announced his future plans.

The new home of the Vitagraph Company in Chicago will be the subject of an important victory following the war.
Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Mfg. Co., made a short visit to his Chicago branch August 23, en route for Universal City, Cal. Mr. Laemmle, stated that Lulu Warrenton has resigned his company and that he recently signed Colleen Moore and Mildred Harris. Miss Harris supported Douglas Fairbanks in one of his recent features.

Here's a flash from the "Hoosier State" for "Loop" digestion: The stage of the Lyric Theatre at Ft. Wayne, Ind., August 22, was the scene of an elaborate and delightful birthday feast in honor of C. F. Franklin, manager of the Creighton Theatre. The affair was held under the auspices of "the boys" of the Wrobloc Amusement Enterprises. Among those present was Clyde Quimby, all lit up with $1,000,000 worth of orange face powder. He was among the first to arrive. Somebody claims to have lamped "Si" Milt Simon riding the rear seat all bound up in Navajo Blankets.

L. J. Pollard, of the Ebony Film Corp., left the city for a trip to Oshkosh, Wis., to give his company of dusky players the Cal. The company at present is taking exteriors in the Wisconsin village for forthcoming features.

We note that the Butterfly Pictures have just annexed that snappy vaudeville act, S. E.—Autograph sales team, F. P. Dillon and A. J. Gallas, to cover the local territory. Lest we forget, the boy that knows most of the "Exhibs" of the Central States by their pet names, J. J. Gilmore, is an added starter.

Win. Orr, of the Comedy Film Exchange, is back from a much needed August vacation spent at one of those lakes "somewhere" in Indiana. His partner tells us "Bill" and the family had a gay time doing the many quaint touts via the "Woolworth" limousine route.

1. Maynard Schwartz, of the Reliable Feature Film Co., returned August 31 after spending a week in New York. He's not saying a word though. However, he claims old Atlantic City has nothing on Lake Michigan. That all depends what part of "the lake" you happen to refer to. Maynard, old top.

Ralph Proctor, of the Art Dramaservice, has been a decidedly busy young 'un all last week getting his new suite on the fifth floor of the College Building ready for business, the former quarters on the sixth floor being retained for the shipping department. Looks as though business was booming, only been in that building about a year, eh, R. O. P.?

They say there's nothing to that being in the "Loop"—and lo and behold, here's our old pal, E. A. "Bill" Hamburg back again with us. Located on the west band of the city belt, 102 N. Fifth Avenue.

At last "Doug" Fairbanks has a rival, and an exhibit at that. Harry Miller's new photos show him doing his "leap of death" from the heights of Stand Rock, Dells of the Wisconsin River.

Edw. De Berri, of the De Berri Scenic Co., is carrying around one of those "regular" prosperous coaches days. His company installed a Da-Lite screen in Ascher's Oakland Square Theatre August 29, which is reported as being the largest projection screen in the city.

MARY MacDONALD

NEW PLAYER, CAST FOR BLUEBIRDS

Will Be Leading Lady for Herbert Rawlinson in "The Dragnet"
Now in Making

With the announcement that Herbert Rawlinson has begun work on "The Dragnet" at Bluebird's West Coast studios comes the statement that Mary Macdonald will be the leading lady of Director Elmer Clifton's company.

The name of Mary Macdonald has figured very prominently in Bluebird films since Lois Weber discovered a young lady of that name, and created her as a star in "Shoes" (who has now gone elsewhere). Mary MacLaren was the name applied to Mary MacDonald as a Bluebird star, and "Mary MacLaren" remains as a Bluebird asset that is being legally protected. It is handled by Bluebird officials that Mary Macdonald, leading lady for Herbert Rawlinson, may eventually be advertised as Mary MacLaren.

L. ROSENBLOUH HEADS STANDARD PICTURES
UNDER FOX BANNER THROUGHOUT EAST

Re-enters Distribution After Absence Which Started with Disposition of Greater New York Rental Co.; Open Offices at 130 W. 46th St.

With the announcement by the Fox Film Corporation of the inauguration of Standard Pictures, comes the further news that the chief executive for their distribution in the East will be Louis Rosenbluh, well-known in film circles throughout the country, and particularly in the New York territory, where he has for years been active in the trade.

In Mr. Rosenbluh's re-entry in the field of film distribution brings back into the fold one of the strongest personalities in the industry, as well as it recalls to the trade a career notable for its spectacular features. Ten years ago, Mr. Rosenbluh, in cooperation with William Fox, entered the exchange business with their Greater New York Rental Company on Fourteenth Street.

Patents Case Recalled

At the height of its success, came complications with the Motion Picture Patents Company, and there ensued a long controversy in the United States Courts. To the credit of the Greater New York Film Rental Company, which, as every exhibitor knows, has made the film rental situation easier for the exhibitor.

Recently the Greater New York Film Rental Company was sold. Mr. Rosenbluh has looked carefully over the film market for the organization, which he believed was producing the class and type of pictures that the exhibitor demands. He found his have been under the banner of Fox Film Corporation.

Describes Situation

Mr. Rosenbluh describes the situation as follows: "Not until I viewed the first Standard Picture on the screen did I decide that I had found films that were worth my conscientious recommendation, and which would retain for me the confidence which my customers have always had in any product I recommended to them. Apart from that, as a pure proposition of dollars and cents, Standard Pictures are the first proposition I saw that merited unquestionably the effort that I intend to put into them."

Mr. Rosenbluh now is busy with his staff, getting into shape a home bettering this high opinion of Standard Pictures. These quarters will occupy the seventh floor of 130 West Forty-sixth street.

EAST

Philadelphia.—Charles Zebley, the architect, is altering the motion picture theatre of John Farmakis, at 525 South Broad street. The improvements will cost over $600.

Newark, N. J.—The Goodwin theatre here has signed a contract to use the new Goldwyn pictures and will have all first runs. The Goodwin theatre is perhaps the only theatre in the U. S. named after a minister, taking its name from the Rev. Hannibal Goodwin, rector of the House of Prayer. Newark, Mr. Goodwin is credited with being one of the discoverers and inventors of the modern motion picture film.

Altoona, Pa.—B. R. Miles, proprietor of the Dean theatre, has sued the Adams express company to recover $485 for loss sustained due to the failure of the company to deliver films at the time required.

MINTER FILM BREAKS RECORDS

Mary Miles Minter in “The Gentle Intruder,” Mutual-American production, broke all records of the Strand Theatre at Buffalo, on August 11, according to Manager William A. Dillon.

In view of the fact that the Strand theatre plays every big feature on the market, the record is an attainment of consequence for Miss Minter and an evidence that Mary Miles Minter is a box office attraction of first magnitude.

C. W. Wonderly, manager of the Rourke and Wonderly Theatres at La Junta, an important railroad center in Colorado, thinks “The Innocence of Lizette,” the American-Mutual production starring Mary Miles Minter, was one of the best pictures he ever saw.

“I want to thank you for sending me ‘The Innocence of Lizette,’” Mr. Wonderly writes. “We used Mary Miles Minter in this picture August 16. It surely was a swell picture, one feature of it being that it lacked the ‘paddling’ so much seen in some pictures. This one was unusually smart and brisk from start to finish. We like your pictures, but this one is worthy of special comment.”

Lebanon, Pa.—The Iroquois theatre, owned and operated by William Turby for a number of years, has changed hands, the new owners being J. Slmer and M. Zucker.

Philadelphia.—The two story brick motion picture theatre at 2716 Girard avenue has been conveyed by Charles H. Golburn to John E. Hardy.

CENTRAL WEST

Clarence, Mo.—C. L. Wieland has purchased the Star theatre from W. H. Lilly.

Duluth, Wis.—A. N. Storey has acquired the ownership to the Grand theatre from Geo. Herrington.

Ogawa, Ia.—A deal has been closed whereby Payne & Fairchild, owners of the Royal theatre, have sold out to Messrs. Kregglin & Wonder.

Bellfontaine, O.—The Rex theatre has been sold to M. W. Yeagle of Carrollton, by E. W. Mann.

SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga.—The Rialto theatre has been opened under the personal direction of Jake Wells and John G. Evins, and is offering the public the best in photoplays.

New Orleans, La.—The Gaiety theater has been taken over by A. O. Bourdon.

Cincinnati, O.—Oscar Schwarz, architect, is preparing plans for the enlargement of the National theatre on Freeman avenue, for F. Frankel. The Strand theatre on Walnut street will also be enlarged by the Ohio Building & Construction Company.

Cleveland, O.—A. F. Janowitz has applied for a permit for the erection of a $55,000 motion picture theater for Aaron Silberberg at Lorain avenue and West 35th street. It will be 42 by 165 feet and will seat 1,000 persons.

Gallipolis, O.—Manager J. M. Kaufman has opened the Gallipolis theatre after redecorating and remodeling it.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Crescent theatre has been opened under new management, George Benson and E. B. Wiley being the new proprietors.

Creston, Ia.—W. Weldon, of Sac City, has purchased the Willard theatre from W. H. Hoffman.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Mark Gates, one of the promoters of the Circle theatre, has leased the Valtine theatre at Toledo, O.

Franklin, Mo.—R. B. Wayland has purchased the Princess theatre and opened it with a line of first class pictures.

Battle Creek, Mich.—The Garden theatre is planning to enlarge its building, according to W. S. Butterfield, president of the concern.

Cleveland, O.—C. A. Bressler has taken out a permit for a $10,000 store and motion picture theatre at 8060 Buckeye Road.

Mankato, Minn.—C. Steele and J. F. Brinkman of Ramona, South Dakota, are negotiating for the Royal theatre at Blue Earth.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Star theatre has changed hands, J. G. Tharp, clerk of the district court, having become the new proprietor.

Parson, Kan.—The Pictureland theatre has been renovated, the seating capacity greatly enlarged, and reopened.

St. Louis, Mo.—Work is being pushed rapidly on the new Melba theatre on South Grand avenue. The new house will cost $250,000.

Davenport, la.—The new Fifth Avenue motion picture house at 5350 Fifth avenue, has been opened. New projection machines have been installed and new lighting and ventilating systems are a special feature.

Louisiana, Mo.—The Star theatre has installed a new Mercury Ark Rectifier machine, purchased by W. A. Boyd from the General Electric Company, of St. Louis. Messrs. Boyd & Emerson, the managers are giving patrons an especially high class of pictures including the World Brady-made, and the Fox.

Princeton, Ill.—The management of the Apollo Hall has passed into the hands of W. O. Stevens. Improvements will be made and another projection machine installed.
New Orleans, La.—Mrs. Al. Shear, the manager of the New Carrollton theater, has opened the Fine Arts theater also, located at Constantine and Baronne streets.

Vinita, Okla.—T. H. Slothower, of the Lyric theater, has installed a new Wurlitzer motion picture player, at a cost of $1,750.

Tacoam, Wash.—Excavation work has been started by the F. & S. Improvement Co. on a new theater at Tower avenue and Center street. It will seat 1,000 persons when completed.

Use Best of All Booking Systems, Says N. I. Brown

Join Best of Program Plan, Selective Star Series, Open Booking and Paralta for Full Protection of Interests, He Declares

BY NAT I. BROWN

One man says program booking is the only rational system on which to conduct a motion picture theater.

Another man says the open booking plan is the only one to follow.

Another man says that the selective star series method will only assure success.

Another man says none of these are right; he can’t state any other plan, but he is sure they are all wrong.

The truth is that each of these plans possess essentials of right, valuable if appreciated and properly applied.

Why not combine the real benefits of all plans and profit by them?

The program system is unquestionably the most logical, for it furnishes substantial assurance of the basis of a strong bill and eliminates a very important element of doubt.

Situation Is Explained

No sane man would build or lease a dramatic or vaudeville house without knowing where his attractions are coming from and the general merit of what he has to depend on to draw people to his theater.

The manager of a dramatic house depends on the productions provided by his booking exchange; the vaudeville manager is in the same boat, with this difference—he can strengthen the bill he books of his regular exchange by putting on a star act, or “big headliner.”

The film theater manager who books a program is in just the same position as the vaudeville man. He puts on a good program bill, but, being enterprising and desiring to give his patrons an entertainment they will appreciate and talk about, he puts in a star feature film, secured either on the open-booking system or under the selective star series method.

What is the result? He has a well balanced bill and puts on a show that sends his patrons away with the opinion that he is a generous provider and deserves support.

Sees Program as Real Foundation

The program will ever be the real foundation of motion picture exhibition, for it is certain in contract and of fixed charge. It enables an exhibitor to constantly secure the foundation of his bill under such conditions, and at such price, as will enable him to figure with some degree of certainty just what his operating charges are going to be on the week and to what expense he can reasonably go to provide special star attractions.

The merit of program pictures, like the real merit of star feature pictures, varies somewhat. A big stage star may have an exceptionally strong vehicle one season and a mediocre play the next. The same condition prevails in all picture production. An absolute standard of excellence in a program cannot be maintained, but average merit can, as shown in the Triangle program.

The open booking system appeals strongly to the man who has not experienced its uncertainties. He thinks, at first, that he can be a real “picture picker;” display not a little discrimination and make a big record for selecting the best productions made.

But the more he enters into this proposition he goes back to the days, practically, when theatrical business was transacted on the curbstones in front of the old Morton House at Broadway and Union Square. He abandons system, safety and certainty and enters into a “catch as catch can” contest with conditions of a most uncertain nature.

Nothing Stays Fixed, He Says

Nothing stays fixed and in his effort to get things when something goes wrong he tends to the disorder he soon finds everything in chaos; and, to cap the climax, like the old time manager of the palmy days before the theatrical syndicate injected real business into the theatrical world, he may find himself with two or three pictures booked for the same day in his anxiety to see to it that he gets all the good things.

Open bookings (indiscriminate booking of pictures of various makes and subjects), will never prove successful or satisfactory to the manager of a motion picture theater, for he has nothing to gain by it as a system except an advance in rentals.

Because of lack of responsibility behind most open booking feature pictures—no program name carries responsibility which must be met in quality—a manager depending on the open booking system for success will be forced to see run a large part of what he books.

Imagine what that means! He will spend much of his time in a projection room selecting what he may desire to play, whereas, under a program booking contract, he knows he will get good pictures, for the program cannot afford to kill itself by putting out bad pictures.

Open Booking Has Advantages

Many fine pictures get on the market through open booking channels. They cannot be disregarded and here is where the wise booking manager will avail himself of conditions favorable to him in the open-booking system and use them to his advantage. Combination of the valuable parts of the open booking system with the program system, wisely made through the selection of big features offered in open market, brings together the two elements which are important to a well balanced motion picture theater management.

The argument for the star series selective method is also a strong one. This system makes for certainty to both producer and exhibitor. On the one hand the producer is proceeding on that certainty which comes from knowing just what his market is and what he can get for his pictures. On the other hand, the exhibitor can secure a series of pictures of a star most popular with his patrons, under such conditions, and at such cost, that he is enabled to so figure his other bookings that he can “cut his coat according to his cloth.”

in quality of entertainment. The history of the theater, in this respect, is being repeated in the motion picture. Competitive production and public demand means constantly bigger and better things; and these can only be provided on such a basis as the selective star series method of booking makes possible.

So, instead of the adherents of any one of these systems getting out in the open and shrieking his views with the vehemence of an intolerant fanatic, he would far better study in what way the other fellow’s idea may hook up with his. Join the best of the program plan, the open-booking plan, the selective star series plan and the Paralta plan, and a very nearly perfect system will be evolved. This will mean the full protection of the interests of everybody—producer, distributor and exhibitor.

NEW HOYT-SELG COMEDY STARTED

Having completed “A Midnight Bell,” the Selig-Hoyt comedy for K-E-S-E, Director J. A. Richmond has started the production of “A Contented Woman,” another Hoyt comedy, dated for future. Roland Moncrief, J. E. Win., Pables, James Harris and Amy Dennis are the stars.

U. S. COMMITTEE SETS WAR RULES ON PICTURES

Body on Public Information Outlines Conditions Under Which Taking and Distribution of Pictures of Army and Navy Must Be Carried Out

The Committee on Public Information, Washington, D. C., is disseminating information concerning the making and distribution of pictures showing the activities of the army and navy that should be known even in an enemy country, especially at this critical stage of the war. Kendall Banning, the director of the pictures, calls the attention of all publications, news syndicates, motion picture producing companies, and independent photographers and artists to certain regulations which are issued in accordance with authority from the War and Navy Departments.

Permits must be secured to make pictures showing the activities of the Army, Navy or other departments and bureaus of the government. These can be secured by writing to the Committee on Public Information.

Committee to Aid Photographers

It is the function of the Public Information Committee to secure access for the photographers wherever possible to the government departments and to cooperate with them in making pictorial records of the work that is being done.

Special permits will be issued on condition that all photographs and drawings be submitted for approval to the committee, unless otherwise specified below. Requests for permits should explain the character of the pictures desired and the uses for which they are intended. References to establish the character and responsibility of the person or organization from which the request comes should accompany the request.

Special permission will not be granted to make pictures of certain subjects that have been or may be controlled by the military or naval authorities. These include:

1. Army fortifications, magazines, wireless plants, war yards, munition-manufacturing plants or any military equipment that has been installed or adopted since the outbreak of the war. All pictures that give information concerning ports of embarkation of troops or the fixed land defenses of the United States, or the number, nature and position of guns.

2. Close-up views of the details of construction, as well as of tests, or new weapons, equipment or instruments used by the military or naval authorities to test or experiment with, or to improve or test new equipment.

3. Movements of troops marching or in transport in such a way as to identify locations, or pictures that reveal special duties of detachments, positions of guards or sentinels, or that show new military formations.

4. Locations of mine fields or the location, identity or number of warships belonging to our own Navy or to the navy of any country at war with Germany.

5. Scenes abroad that have not been passed by censor or censorship authorities.

6. Whether or not specifically prohibited by these rulings, when pictures are plainly of a character that require official consideration, representatives of motion-picture companies and distributing agencies, exhibitors, illustrative news bureaus, editors, and others are themselves expected to withhold publication. When there is doubt as to the admissibility of pictures, communication should be had immediately with the Committee on Public Information, which, with the least delay possible, will pass upon them.

Information not permissible in news matter should not be used in reading matter, titles, or captions in connection with photographs, motion pictures, or illustrations.

No Exclusive Rights to Make Pictures

No exclusive privileges to make pictures for private commercial purposes will be granted to any photographer or artist.

Three prints of all photograph plates and films exposed with permission by the official photographers within territory controlled by the military or naval authorities must be submitted for approval before publication.

One print will be retained as a record by the department from which the photographer secured the impression; one print will be retained by the Public Information Committee, and the third (if the picture is declared suitable for public distribution) will be returned to the owner, bearing the imprint: “Passed by the Committee on Public Information, Washington.” The publication, sale or other distribution of such pictures as are officially disapproved is forbidden.

All photographs made through permits issued by other departments and bureaus should be submitted for approval before publication. “Still” photographs should be submitted in duplicate; one print, if approved, will be stamped as above indicated and will be returned to the owner, the duplicate print being retained, except for reproduction.

One positive print of all motion picture films taken by special permits should be delivered, free of charge, to the files of the department from which the permit is issued.

Release on Drawings

All drawings made within territory directly or indirectly under the control of the Army and Navy should be submitted as promptly as possible and before publication to the Committee on Public Information. These will be stamped: “Passed by the Committee on Public Information,” when released, and will be returned to the owner. Drawings now considered suitable for public distribution will be retained by the Committee during the duration of the war.

All photographs made by official photographers will be made and printed by the military and naval authorities and will remain in the possession of the authorities. These are not permitted to pass into other hands. Prints of every official plate or film will be kept on file by the Committee on Public Information for record and official photographs of the Army and Navy will be released only through the Committee. These official photographs should bear the imprint of the Committee on Public Information, Washington.

Prices for Official Photographs

A uniform price of two dollars each will be charged for the rights to publish official photographs. This includes one not mounted print for reproduction. Additional prints may be secured at cost plus a net charge of two cents each.

No copies for reproduction purposes may be made from official prints and only prints bearing the official stamp may be published. The purchaser of official photographs secures the pictures for his own use only or for the use of the organization which he represents, and he may not sell, or otherwise dispose of the prints without the written permission of the Committee on Public Information.

No exclusive rights will be given to any person or organization for the exclusive use of any official photograph.

Official motion picture films of the Army and Navy will be issued through the Committee and will be distributed as the demands of the occasion may warrant. Motion picture films produced by other departments and bureaus may be secured at terms or under conditions that will be furnished upon application to Washington.

No photographers will be permitted to accompany the army abroad on active service in the war zones, except official photographers in the government service. Photographers and artists who wish permits to picture the activities of the navy should address the Committee on Public Information.

"Official Photographs" Defined

The term "official photographs" applies only to those photographs made by official photographers in the employ of the government or under contract. The designation "official photographers" will apply only during the period of their service to those photographers in the employ of the government.

Motion picture producers, illustrative news bureaus and photographers generally are invited to avail themselves of the advantage of the Committee on Public Information, in regard to the admissibility of pictures that are taken without permits. In such cases prints should be submitted to the Committee. If admissible one print will be marked "Passed by the Committee on Public Information, Washington," and returned to the owner without further comment. If the print is declared not admissible it will be marked "Not authorized by the Committee on Public Information, Washington." The use of photographs thus disapproved is prohibited. Duplicate prints will be retained as a record by the Committee.

All motion picture films will receive immediate consideration and will be returned with written approval by the Committee or suggestions relative to changes desired.

No photographs or drawings shall be considered as approved until prints have been submitted for review and have been officially stamped or released in writing.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG ONLY WOMAN STAR CONTROLLING TWO PRODUCING CONCERNS

Operates Own Company and Holds Biggest Interest in Fun-Art Films, Inc., Which Will Make Two Two-Reel Comedies to Be Issued Monthly

Clara Kimball Young, who is now being managed by Harry I. Carson, holds the unique distinction of being the only woman star to own and control two picture producing companies, it is said.

She not only heads, owns and controls her own producing company, known as Clara Kimball Young, which will issue eight big pictures a year to the C. K. Y. Film Corporation, but she also owns the controlling interest in the Fun-Art Films, Inc., a New York Corporation that will publish two two-reel comedies each month. The latter organization will feature Gordon Dooley and his sister Ray, beginning about September 15. It has not been decided just how these comedies will be published, the announcement be followed by "Shirley Kaye."

Miss Young and her new organization has just completed her first picture "Nagda," and will start work immediately upon "the Marionettes," which will be followed by "Shirley Kaye."

G. V. HOBART ENGAGED TO WRITE LASKY PLAYS

George V. Hobart, author of a number of successful plays, has been engaged by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to write original photoplays exclusively for Paramount and Artcraft stars. The acquisition of Mr. Hobart by a motion picture concern is of especial significance as it points the desire of photoplay producers to obtain the services of playwrights of repute.

FOX FILMS COMPLETED, PROJECTED AND THOSE UNDER WAY NOW ARE LISTED

Summarizing Statement Gives Exhibitor Names of Play and Stars Which Can Be Secured for Exhibition; Coming Features Are Also Described

To make entirely clear, the new William Fox policy, which has aroused such wide interest among theater-goers, this summarizing statement issued from the Fox offices concerning the films completed, under way or in project:

William Fox now has ready four photoplays. These are "The Spy," the big special production revealing the workings of the vicious German secret agents in this country; "Jack and the Beanstalk," the Fox Fairy Film of 1917, a spectacle with 1,300 juvenile players which has just concluded a successful run at the Globe Theater on Broadway in New York that "The Spy" might have placed speedily before America; "The Honor System," R. A. Walsh's film melodrama; and "The Conqueror," a production based on the romance of Sam Houston's life. This photodramatization of the great Texan's struggles will take the screen at the Globe immediately. "The Spy" finishes the fortnight's engagement to which it has been limited. "The Conqueror" is the first of the William Farnum series of productions just as "Jack and the Beanstalk" is the first of the Fox Kiddies Features.

Eight light comedy dramas starring Jane and Katherine Lee, the Fox baby players, also will be presented. The first of the Theda Bara super pictures will be an accurate version of Dumas' famous "Camille," in which Miss Bara gives a brilliant portrayal of the story of young Thérèse. This will be followed by a picturization of Cleopatra, the Siren of the Nile.

In the William Farnum series, after "The Conqueror" will come a drama, "When a Man Sees Red," from the story by Larry Evans; a film version of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," and an adaptation of Ralph Connor's novel, "The Doctor."

The Fox Special Features will be issued once a week and will star George Walsh, Virginia Pearson, Gladys Brock, Dian Cooper, June Caprice, Duskin Farnum, and Valeska Suratt.

START A BLUEBIRD DAY
CHESTER BEECROFT, BACK FROM EUROPE, TELLS OF UNSETTLED FILM CONDITIONS

Exporters Give Manufacturer’s View of Market in Various Countries Now in World War; Warns Against Placing Product Before Investigating

Chester Beecroft, of 501 Fifth avenue, New York, who has been touring Europe in the interests of his film exporting and importing business for the last four months, returned to America on the Scandinavian-American Liner Oscar II, landing at his home port on August 30. Mr. Beecroft left New York on the steamer which carried General Pershing and the first American expeditionary forces to the battle front in France.

It is said that Mr. Beecroft is the only American commercial traveler whose passport shows the successful entrance and departure to and from England and France, a return to, and second departure from England, then Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Russia, during the last two years of the war. In making this voyage Mr. Beecroft passed through the most dangerous submarine and mine areas, including two trips across the Atlantic by different routes, two through St. George’s Channel, two across the Straits of Dover, one through the Irish Sea and North Atlantic, twice across the North Sea and once through the Skager-Rak and Kattegat. During the trip the vessels upon which he traveled were twice attacked and one was sunk by submarines.

Tells of Market Conditions

When interviewed at his office at 501 Fifth avenue, New York, by a representative of EXHIBITORS’ HERALD, Mr. Beecroft did not hesitate to state his reasons for risking his life in so perilous a voyage. He said that conditions in the foreign film markets had changed so rapidly and so completely during the last year that no one on this side possessed any definite knowledge of the subject and that so many mistaken impressions had gained credence here that the American manufacturers were bewildered and had no way of making a definite policy for the foreign distribution of their pictures. So many conflicting statements had been made by those who knew little and those who pretended to know much, that in many cases extraordinary prices, out of all proportion to the possible value of the pictures, were being asked. Sometimes these prices were absurdly high and sometimes absolutely low, few people indeed having any idea as to what kind of picture was suited to the various countries in which they were endeavoring to make a sale.

Warns the Manufacturers

It was this state of affairs, so unfair to the American manufacturers of today and so injurious to the American product of the future, that determined Mr. Beecroft to go abroad despite all hazards to study first hand and to learn from actual observation the exact conditions which obtained in the principal European markets. Mr. Beecroft found amongst other things which will be of particular interest to picture producers here, that the film business is far from enjoying full confidence in certain official circles. Mr. Beecroft said that the American manufacturers should use utmost caution and make a most thorough investigation before placing films to be handled on the foreign market.

While abroad Mr. Beecroft closed several important contracts and considers his journey to have been even more successful than anticipated.

"A MAN’S MAN," INITIAL PARALTA FILM
WITH KERRIGAN, REACHES SCREEN SEPTEMBER 23

Peter B. Kyne’s Romance Tale of Central America Will Be Distributed Through Triangle; Concern Will Show Film Before Making Bookings

Paralta’s first play, J. Warren Kerrigan in a screen version of Peter B. Kyne’s novel of Central America, “A Man’s Man,” will be issued by Triangle Distributing Corporation, Sunday, September 23. This will be J. Warren Kerrigan’s first appearance on the screen as an independent star at the head of his own company.

This production is a pretentious one and an unusual success is predicted for it by those who have seen it projected.

J. S. BLACKTON FINISHES FIRST PARAMOUNT FILM

The final scenes of “The World for Sale,” J. Stuart Blackton’s first Paramount feature, adapted from Sir Gilbert Parker’s novel, have been completed. In the part of Ingolby, Conway Tearle is said to surpass any work he has done previously on stage or screen.
“LES MISERABLES,” STARRING WM. FARNUM, IN PRODUCTION AT FOX N. J. STUDIO

Victor Hugo’s Noted Classic Drama in New Film Form Predicted to Be Masterpiece of Screencraft; Featured Player Is Supported by Carefully Picked Cast

One of the most welcome of the many important announcements William Fox has made this year about his motion picture plans and productions, is that a complete cinema version of “Les Misérables” is under way.

Work on this great photodrama has gone forward for some time at the big Fox studios in Fort Lee, N. J. The results are showing daily that the subject will be a masterpiece of screencraft, it is said. William Farnum is appearing as Jean Valjean in Victor Hugo’s classic. The company of supporting players has been chosen with circumspect care.

Special attention is being given, also, to the photography as the book requires many night scenes. Mr. Fox is desirous of producing in “Les Misérables” a drama which shall be the perfection of workmanship and shall have the highest artistry in addition to the inherent power of the story.

Hugo’s master composition was many years in the writing and was not published until the author was sixty years old. The three score years which have passed since the publication of “Les Misérables” have brought to it more and more praise from critics and laymen. The foremost minds of a half-century have gone to the next to the Bible and the plays of Shakespeare.

“MOTHER LOVE AND THE LAW” ONE OF MOST UNUSUAL FILM STORIES, SAYS BURFORD

Play in Seven-Reels, Scheduled for Publication Sept. 1, Is Founded on Matters Baby Case; George A. Siegmann Directed

“In presenting our initial production, ‘Mother Love and the Law,’” says W. D. Burford, general manager of Crystal Photoplay Corporation, “we feel that we have all the essentials necessary to the success of a feature photoplay. Even if the story upon which this photodrama is based had not engrossed the rapt attention of millions of newspaper readers in the United States and Canada, even if it had not created the line of publicity, it would still be one of the most unusual stories that has ever been filmed.

Instead of depending upon the fanciful imaginings of fiction, we have woven a photoplay around the story of Mrs. Matters in a powerful drama suggested by her own sensational flight for the possession of her baby, as it was told by newspapers of America.

Quotes Writer’s Opinion.

“The following opinion is from the pen of Caroline Wilson, in the Chicago Tribune, when the Matters Baby Case was before the courts:

“It looks as if it were going to be a novel sort of a mixture of Elinor Glyn and Diamond Dick—this Matters’ Baby Case. Beside it the Slingsby Baby Case, which caused a stir in England for the last two years, pales into the commonplace. There is everything in it you could ask for—and quite a bit more—mysteries, alleged liasons, betrayed innocence, fake operations, unexplained sudden death, perjury, guilty conscience, founding babies—everything to make up a movie of such dimensions that it would take a dozen reels to unfold it.”

“Miss Wilson’s judgment was quite correct except for one thing—instead of taking a dozen reels, it has taken but seven, and in these seven a most compelling photoplay has been completely portrayed.

Director Is Noted.

“To adequately film such a sensational story, the best talent obtainable was essential and in this matter we were very fortunate in securing as the Director George A. Siegmann, who was associated with D. W. Griffith. As an actor, he needs no further introduction. His portrayal of Silas Lynch in the ‘Birth of a Nation’ and King Cyrus in ‘Intolerance’ have made him famous. In ‘Mother Love and the Law,’ Mr. Siegmann plays a very prominent role in the part of Mrs. Matters’ attorney.

‘Mother Love and the Law’ will be issued September 1 and is being sold on the State Rights basis.”

SMALLWOOD GETS CAST TO PRODUCE AUBREY COMEDIES

Arthur N. Smallwood, who will issue the Aubrey Series of two-reel Comedies featuring James Aubrey, formerly featured as Henry in the “Heine and Louie Series,” issued by Pathe, and in “Big V” Comedies by Vitagraph announces that his producing organization has been fully reorganized. Four pictures will be made under Mr. Smallwood’s personal supervision and will be published on the state rights plan backed by a big advertising campaign.

The direction of the Aubrey Series will be in the hands of C. Jay Williams and Wm. A. Seiter who will act as directors on every production.

“OH, DOCTOR!” IS TITLE OF NEXT ARBuckle COMEDY

Adventurous, susceptible Dr. I. O. Dine, caught in the toils of a beautiful, unscrupulous vampire who is the accompaniment of a crook, makes a comic vehicle for Roscoe Arbuckle and Farnum—East Paramount-Arbuckle two-reel comedy “Oh, Doctor!”, which will be issued following “His Wedding Night.”

E. & H. DISTRIBUTING CO. WILL EXPLOIT ART DRAMAS PRODUCTIONS IN SOUTH

Arthur F. Beck Closes Biggest Deal in History of Concern With Atlantic Organization for Handling of Yearly Film Output in Seven States

One of the biggest deals ever consummated by Art Dramas, Inc., since its inception was closed this week by Arthur F. Beck, general manager of the concern. The deal involves the disposing of franchise rights on Art Dramas for practically the entire South. The states covered by the contract are North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. The company which purchased the franchise was organized by Atlanta capital solely to exploit Art Dramas. It is known as the E. & H. Film Distributing Company, and has central offices in Atlantic. Other offices in all parts of the large territory are being formed as fast as possible.

E. H. Harden is the president of the E. & H., and P. A. Engler will be general manager. Both men are known throughout the Southern territory as veteran film men, and they have been successful in the exploitation of big features.

TOM MOORE LEADS CAST FOR MAE MARSH IN NEW GOLDWYN FILM "CINDERELLA MAN"

Casting Director Adolph Klauber, of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, has completed the list of principals for Mae Marsh's new screen vehicle, "The Cinderella Man." Work upon Edward Childs Carpenter's whimsical story already is under way at the Fort Lee, N. J., studio.

Outside of "Margie," which role Mae Marsh will play, the most important part in the new Goldwyn film is "Tony." He is so-called "Cinderella man" who lives in his galoot under the eye of his former butler, until "Margie" slips across the roost one Christmas Eve from her own aristocratic home to bring him friendly cheer and food. For "Tony" Mr. Klauber has selected Tom Moore.

In George Fawcett, Goldwyn has secured an admirable "Caner." Mr. Fawcett has done a great deal of screen work since first introduced to filmdom, having had big roles in "Pantheon," "The Crisis," "The Heart of Texas," "Ryan," and many other playposites.

Another character actor who has left stage for the screen is George Farren, who will play "Sewell." A player long favorite in the films, Alec B. Francis, has been chosen for the part of "Roman." He is well remembered for his precedent appearances in "All Man" and "The Haunting Shadow."

In the supporting cast of "The Cinderella Man" will appear Louis R. Grisel, Elizabeth Aaronsm, Mrs. J. Cogan, Dean Raymond and Harry Scarboro.

"BAB'S DIARY" TO BE FIRST "SUB-DEB" FILM FOR PARAMOUNT WITH MISS CLARK

Initial Play of Series Will Be Published to Exhibitors in September. Tales Adapted From Saturday Evening Post Will Appear in Series

In order that the Paramount screen adaptations of the "Sub-Deb" stories in the Saturday Evening Post, starring Margaret Clark may follow in chronological sequence the order in which they were originally published, the first of the series will be "Bab's Diary" instead of "Bab's Burglar" as previously announced. The film will be issued in September.

The title of the first story printed was "The Sub-Deb," but the incidents therein will be found in "Bab's Diary," which introduces the charming Barbara Archibald on her return from school for the Christmas holidays. The particular means by which the extremely active and imaginative young lady succeeds in disrupting the household consist in her efforts to convince her family that she is a man-scouting person and an imaginative lover. Harold Valentine, writes her letters and sends bouquets and poetry, which are in reality her own productions.

To Bab's consternation the real Harold appears on the scene and after a series of ludicrous experiences the solution of the apparently inextricable maze is brought about and Bab recovers from the effects of her fright and an involuntary bath when she falls into a tub in an effort to escape, a sadder and a wiser girl.

Marguerite Clark in the role of the capricious and wholly delightful Bab, fitted with a part that is seemingly made expressly for her.

E. K. LINCOLN TO ENTER FIELD AS A BIG PRODUCER

Outing in Berkshires Given Trade Press, Is Said to Signalize Move

E. K. Lincoln, who formerly starred in Vitagraph productions and lately appeared in "Jimmie Dale, Alias The Gray Seal" series, soon will enter the motion picture field as a producer.

He recently held an all-day meeting with members of the motion picture press at his country home in the Berkshire hills, it is pointed out, signaled his entrance on a big scale into the industry as a producer.

The eighteen trade paper men entered at Lincoln's mountain estate were: Gerald Duffy, Picture Play Magazine; William Barry, Motion Picture News; Walter McCraig, Motion Picture Classic; Charles Condon, Photogram: Ben H. Grimm, Moving Picture World; Peter Milne, Motion Picture News; C. A. Kracht, Morning Telegraph; Rudolph Cormier, Trade Review; James Beckero, Exhibitors Herald; Mr. Thompson, Dramatic Mirror; Edwin M. La Roche, Motion Picture Magazine; N. Bonell, New York Clipper, Colgate Baker, New York Review; Jack Edwards, Billboard: Lumiere, the photographer, and T. E. Letendre, business manager for the trip.

FAIRBANKS STOPS IN CHICAGO ON WAY TO NEW YORK

Douglas Fairbanks and staff of players, directors and business managers, stopped off for an hour on Tuesday in Chicago, while making a flying trip from Los Angeles to New York City, where he will take scenes for his next picture. A luncheon was tendered Chicago newspaper people in the Fort Dearborn at noon. Those in the Fairbanks party were Eileen Percy, Joseph Henabery, Glen MacWilliam, Robert M. Webber, business manager John Fairbanks and publicity representative Bennie Ziedman.
PETROVA ENGAGES
TECHNICAL STAFF

Madame Petrova, who is head of her own company and producing pictures under her own management, has engaged Baron Dewitz as detail chief; Robert North, studio manager, and Harry B. Davis, camera man.

Mrs. Emma B. Clifton has been engaged as continuity writer for Mme. Petrova's first picture.

Frederick L. Collins, president of the Petrova Picture Company, has decided to start a country-wide magazine, newspaper and mail campaign. Daniel M. Henderson, who formerly managed the Superpictures and McClure pictures advertising campaigns, will have charge of the general publicity and advertising for Petrova Pictures. Miss Beulah Livingston will have charge of Mme. Petrova's special publicity work.

ANN MURDOCK AND GAIL KANE STARRED UNDER MUTUAL'S "TWO-A-WEEK" PLAN

"Outcast" and "The Bride's Silence," Both Five-Reel Features Will Be Published on Week of September 10 Program for Exhibitors

The first of the Charles Frohman stage success in motion pictures will be published on the Mutual Film Corporation's schedule September 10 when Ann Murdock returns to the screen in "Outcast," a six reel picturization of the Broadway success. On the schedule with "Outcast" under President John R. Freuler's policy of "two star productions a week" will be issued "The Bride's Silence," a five reel American-Mutual drama, starring Gail Kane.

"Outcast," a screen adaptation of Hubert Henry Davies' play, which scored a success on Broadway with Miss Murdock in the stellar role, "Outcast" was one of the last productions which Mr. Frohman selected for the stage.

Had Same Role on Stage.

Miss Murdock played the role of Miriam in the stage version. She is supported by a cast which includes most of the original company of players who appeared in the play. Their constant rehearsal of the drama makes them so thoroughly familiar with every angle of its production that the result has been a thoroughly finished picture.

"The Bride's Silence" is the fifth of the series of American-Mutuals starring Miss Kane, who left the stage to go to Santa Barbara to make pictures for Mutual. "The Bride's Silence" is a mystery story by Daniel Frederick Whitcomb, author of many successful motion pictures. "Outcast" and "The Bride's Silence" are the second films under the "two a week" policy announced for fall by John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation. The first films under the schedule were "Reputation," starring Edna Goodrich, and "Charity Castle," the first of a new series of Mary Miles Minter productions.

Program Films Listed.

"Jerry's Whirlwind Finish," a one-reel Cub comedy, will be on the Mutual schedule for Thursday, September 13. The picture features George Ovey. On Wednesday, September 12, will be issued Mutual Weekly No. 114, carrying current news, and September 13 Reel Life No. 72, the Mutual Gaumont screen magazine will be published. The film shows "Tree Planting in the National Forests," most of the pictures being taken in the Wind River nursery in Washington State. "Hunting Turtle Eggs" is another subject, while "Testing an Auto Tube" shows a remarkable exhibition of the strength of the inner tube of motor tires. The reel carries an interesting picture of the midnight sun photographed in Alaska.

APOLLO SCENARIO EDITOR IS CALLED TO COLORS

Frederick Rath, scenario editor for Apollo Pictures, Incorporated, the productions of which are released on the Art Dramas program, has been called in the draft. He was passed by the medical board and enters the military service on September 19.

A. STATOPOULO BUYING FILMS IN N. Y.
FOR EXPORT TO EXCHANGE IN EUROPE

Will Supply Trade Demand for American-Made Products in Greece and Italy; Finds U. S. Products Superior to Any Obtainable in Other Countries

Alexander Statopoulo, who is at present located in New York, buying films for the foreign market, is representing some of the largest exchanges and purchasers of films in Greece and Italy.

Already Mr. Statopoulo has con- signed a large number of films purchased in the United States to his customers across the water, and he has convinced them that American-made films are far superior to any others obtainable.

Mr. Statopoulo is a producer of no mean ability and in 1913 left New York for Italy where he planned to produce "The Battle of Thermopoli." However, he found conditions so unfavorable in Greece and Italy, owing to the mobilization of armies, that he could not go on with the work and was unable to secure locations and sets necessary for his big feature.

He then entered the service of the Greek government as a wireless operator on a battleship. He was wounded and honorably discharged after three months service. Later he toured the country and spent some time in Athens while convalescing.

Summoned home by the sudden illness of his father, Mr. Statopoulo was taken from the ship at Algiers by French government officials and searched as a spy. Having left his passports behind and not being able to furnish proper credentials, he was taken ashore and interned, but cables from Athens and America convinced the authorities finally that he had been permitted to return to America.

SEVENTH EPISODE OF "LOST EXPRESS" IS IN PRODUCTION

Work on the seventh episode of "The Lost Express," the Signal-Mutual serial featuring Helen Holmes, is progressing rapidly. Director-general J. P. McGowan, having taken 180 scenes in two days, which is establishing a record, when the exactness of the work done by the Helen Holmes company is considered.

CAPT. MATTES, SLAIN
BY NEGRO, LIVES IN ESSANAY FILM

Shown Being Thrown From Horse in a Charge in "Man Who Was Afraid"

Though dead—the victim of a negro mutineer's bullet during the revolt of the negro troops at Houston, Texas—Captain Joseph W. Mattes, of Battery A, Second Illinois Field Artillery, still lives in pictures. He is smiling the courageous smile which won him the confidence of his men; he is issuing his commands, and walking about before the eyes of thousands of Chicagoans and others throughout the country every night an Essentials movie is shown. Shortly before Captain Mattes and his command were ordered to the Texas encampment, they were filmed by the Essanay Company in several scenes for one of that organization's motion pictures, "The Man Who Was Afraid." Bryant Washburn is the star. The film shows the late Captain being thrown from a horse by accident during a charge.
JACK GARDNER STARS IN "MEN OF DESERT" ESSANAY FEATURE SCHEDULED SEPT. 24

Story Tells of Bloody Feuds Fought on Cattle Ranges of West for Quarter of Century; Picture, Taken on Scenes of Desperate Gun Fights, Has Big Romance

The public mind generally associates the feuds of old with the mountaineers of Kentucky and Tennessee, yet history will show that whereas the most terrible of these quarrels were fought out on the great deserts of the West. For a quarter of a century, up until as late as 1895, cattlemen and sheepmen lead their factions against each other in bloody battles for the possession of the best grazing lands. Deeds of heroism beyond the ken of the Easterner were but a part of the ordinary day's work in the thrilling lives of these people.

Issue Date Sept. 24

"Men of the Desert," the fourth of Essanay's series of Western photodramas, is a picturization of such a feud. It will be published through the K-E-S-E-September 24. It is being given trade showing now at all branch offices of the K-E-S-E.

The story was written from accounts handed down of the Gaynor-Norris feud, one of the most notorious of its kind in the West. The picture was staged on the locations of the desperate fights. Ed Gaylor, a son of the leader of one faction, supplied the salient details for the story, and assisted Director W. S. Van Dyke in getting the proper locations, and the action as it was carried out in the real life battles.

Jack Gardner Stars

Jack Gardner, the former musical comedy star, takes the lead as the cowboy who attempts to restore law and order. Ruth King, as the daughter of one of the feud leaders, is his leading woman. Carl Stockdale heads the remainder of the supporting cast, which is made up primarily of cowboys and ranchmen noted for their daring horsemanship.

"Men of the Desert" will have a screen time of sixty-five minutes, approximately.

MISSES COOPER, PEARSON, GEORGE WALSH AND FARNUM IN FOX SEPTEMBER FILMS

Comedy, Romance, and Dramatic Material Will Be Offered to Exhibitors in Features for First Autumn Month; on Screen Sept. 2, 9, 16 and 23

Miriam Cooper, Virginia Pearson, George Walsh and Dustin Farnum, four of the William Fox stars, are announced as the players starred in the first four features scheduled for September. This group of films consists of a comedy-drama of a romance in Mexico; a mystery photoplay built around present day life in New York City; a refreshing story of a love affair which began in a Chicago cabaret and ended with a wedding ring in a Balkan principality; and a story of a big man's struggles in the great snows of the northwest.

Dates Are Given.

The productions, with the dates, are: September 2, R. A. Walsh's drama "Betrayed," with Miriam Cooper; September 9, Virginia Pearson in "When False Tongues Speak"; September 19, George Walsh in "The Yankee Way," and September 23, Dustin Farnum in "North of Fifty-Three.

"Betrayed," like all of R. A. Walsh's screen plays, has the touches which helped single out "The Honor System," which Mr. Walsh also staged as a distinctive contribution to the screen. The story of "When False Tongues Speak" was written by George Scarbo-rough. Mr. Scarborough is the author of a number of stage successes, among them "The Lure," "At Bay," and "The Heart of Weton."" Walsh Film Patriotic.

"The Yankee Way," which will be published September 16, is described as a "star-spangled comedy." It presents George Walsh as Dick Mason, a young millionaire who happens into cabaret just in time to end one flirtation and start one of his own.

"North of Fifty-Three," as the title implies, was taken from the story of that name by Bertrand W. Sinclair. The picture, with Dustin Farnum as "Roaring Bill" Wagstaff, should have the same wide vogue as that enjoyed by the novel.

U. S. CONTRACTS WITH UNIVERSAL TO HANDLE PICTURES SHOWING AGRICULTURE DEPT. WORK

Number of Films Showing Government Work Already Completed, Special Advertising and Lithographic Paper Goes With Reels

Universal this week signed a contract with the officials of the United States Department of Agriculture to distribute 11 motion pictures showing the work and activities of the department during the coming year. This is considered one of the most important deals of the kind that has ever been made, and is significant in showing that the national government is fully alive to the power of the motion picture as an agency of enlightenment. It is including enforcement of new regulations and distributing, as fifteen other companies were competing for the contract.

Pictures Already Completed.

A number of pictures have already been completed by the Department of Agriculture and others will be made with the co-operation of Universal, as the contract provides that the services of screen writers, actors, directors, producers, directors, actors and actresses and others utilized in the manufacture and editing of films shall be furnished by the Department of Agriculture without charge, at the request of Universal.

To Issue Bi-Weekly.

One of these features will be issued every two weeks, bearing the notice: "Official Film of the United States Department of Agriculture, Distributed by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company."

Special advertising matter and lithographic paper will also be gotten out for the series in cooperation with the Department.

Charges for this service will be made reasonable enough to meet the purc of any exhibitor in the business.

SELI G-WORLD LIBRARY NO 17 SHOWS VARIETY OF NEWS IN PICTURES

The Selig World Library No. 17, published through General Film service, Wednesday, September 5, is of usual excellence, according to the Selig Polor- scope Company. The famous beach resort on the Atlantic Coast are pictured, including the homes of millionaires at Newport.

The mussel pearl industry is another interesting picture. Fishermen drag mussels from the bed of White river, Arkansas, and the value of pearls discovered amounts to thousands of dollars yearly. Out of the shells pearl buttons are made and this is the most profitable part of the industry.

In Africa the wife must be the husband's barber. The primitive method of picking out the hair on the head is in practice. Java possesses a soil so astounding fertility and a vegetation unsurpassed in its luxuriance. One of the chief articles of export is sugar. Preparing the soil, the plant, the harvest of sugar cane, and the manufacture of sugar is pictured.

HELEN FERGUSON WILL SUPPORT TAYLOR HOLMES

Helen Ferguson has been chosen to enlarge the leading feminine role for Tay- lor Holmes in his second Essanay comedy-drama. The title of the picture will be announced later.
ESSANAY MAKES LIGHT COMEDIES TO DISPEL WAR GLOOM

George Ade, Henry Irving Dodge, Arthur Stringer, George Barr McCutcheon and Others Writing Film Stories for New Spoor Plan

BY GEORGE K. SPOOR*

The motion picture industry, both manufacturer and exhibitor, must, and I know it will, accept its full share of the burden in facing the present war crisis. It has had to give generously of its players, its business heads and its technicians to join the army at the front, as have other businesses. It remains for those who are left to do what they can to alleviate the conditions under which the world is staggering. Outside of material aid, I know of nothing so much needed, nothing of so great importance, as to furnish the public with humor.

This will entail no sacrifice on the part either of manufacturer or exhibitor, as humor is greatly in demand at all times, but especially now that the nation is giving its sons to the battlefields of France.

It will, however, entail no considerable effort upon the part of the manufacturer, as genuine humor is not easy to find and still harder to develop. But it is well worth the effort, both in the heartening of a depressed public and in supplying something for which there is so great a demand.

Best Humorists Secured to Write

Essanay already is striving along this line. It has aimed in the past few months to produce light comedy pictures. It has secured the best humorists to write its plays and the best comedians to present them.

It is not aiming at slapstick, though this may have its place, but the homey, comedy drama pictures, which carry heart interest, fascinating plots and at the same time a vein of genuine humor.

To do this it secured works of such humorists and cheerful fiction writers as George Ade, Henry Irving Dodge, Clark Budington Kelland, Robert Rudd Whiting, George Barr McCutcheon, Samuel Merwin, Arthur Stringer and many others.

To Continue Search for Comedies

And Essanay will continue to search for the humorous stories in the best magazines and the books of the day from which to make up its photoplays, not neglecting to encourage similar efforts in its own staff of writers.

Not least of its efforts has been to develop its players in these lines and to seek others from both the stage and screen. Among its present staff of leading players who have shown a decided bent in interpreting the light comedies are Bryant Washburn, Taylor Holmes, who made such a success in "His Majesty Bunker Bean," Little Mary McAlister and Jack Gardner, of musical comedy note.

That Essanay's policy of producing pictures of the light comedy type, pictures filled with humor and comic situations, has been proven correct is shown by the reception of such productions as the three Skinner plays, "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Skinner's Bubble," and "Skinner's Baby," "The Golden Idiot," "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship," "Filling His Own Shoes," "The Breaker," "Little Shoes," and many others of a similar type.

"BELGIUM, KINGDOM OF GRIEF" FILM SHOWS SUFFERING CAUSED BY GERMAN HORDES

Picture Being Exploited on State Rights Basis by M. L. Fulton Shows Step by Step the Terror Reign of Germany Over Helpless Nation

Stirring incidents in the history of Belgium, such as the ascent of Albert I to the throne on December 18, 1999; the invasion of Belgium without warning by the Germans and troops entrenched on the Yser canal, are but a few of the things pictured in an exceptionally interesting state rights film entitled "Belgium, the Kingdom of Grief," now being exploited by M. L. Fulton, who has made Chicago the headquarters from which to handle this picture.

Films Made in Brussels

The pictures were made by the authorities of Brussels for the national archives of Belgium. They picture step by step the terrifying days during the over-running of the country by the German hordes. It is said to be a wonderful brief to the question "Why are we at war?"

M. L. Fulton is also handling the "Fighting in France" official war pictures, and announces that there are a few important territories not yet sold. There is a special reel of film entitled "Forsling in France" that is being issued with the latter.

Renew Interest in War

The eight reels of Belgium pictures, however, have awakened renewed interest in the war and exhibitors all over the country are inquiring for bookings.

GENERAL PICKS KINSON AS PITTSBURGH MANAGER

Pittsburgh, Pa.—W. T. Kinson, who for two years has represented the Mutual Film Corporation here, has been made manager of the General Film Company exchange.

Five years previous to his affiliation with Mutual in this city, Mr. Kinson was connected with General. He has been identified with the industry for several years, and has made an enviable record in the exchange branch.

It is announced here that the new manager will bring about many changes for the betterment of the Pittsburgh branch.

ITALY ON FIRING LINE SHOWN IN NEW WAR FILMS

"On the Italian Battlefront," the pictures showing Italy on the firing line, are the latest records of the great conflict being shown in America. These pictures were taken by a photographer sent to Italy by a syndicate of New York business men, with the permission of the Italian government.

The films contain views of the war being conducted in the Alpine country. Scouting parties are shown linked together, scaling hazardous heights and picking their way cautiously over the mountains. Also many soldiers are shown bundled in mufflers and great coats walking slowly over the snow and ice, carrying shells of large caliber on their shoulders. The films picture in graphic form the obstacles that prevail in the war being conducted above the clouds.

ART DRAMAS ANNOUNCES FILMS FOR AUTUMN PROGRAM; STARS ALSO NAMED

This announces the inception of a new era in motion pictures—merging the interests of America’s pioneer picture producers, foremost stars, leading directors, and celebrated authors into one solid unit, whose purpose it is to present a new high standard in cinema art—Perfection Pictures.

Under the brand of Perfection Pictures leading theatres the world over will offer the very ultimate in motion photography—five and six reel stories by the most celebrated authors of the day—directed by experts in stage supervision and technique—produced by America’s picture pioneers, Essanay Film Manufacturing Company, Thomas A. Edison, Inc., and George Kleine. The first eight productions are now completed. Ten more are in work. A new Perfection Picture will be released each week.

The following Perfection Pictures can now be booked at any exchange of the George Kleine System:

EFFICIENCY EDGAR’S COURTSHIP

THE AWAKENING OF RUTH
A tale of Romance and Treasure, based on Lucien Hubbard’s inimitable story. Starring SHIRLEY MASON The Ingenue Without a Rival.—Produced by THOMAS A. EDISON, Inc.

FOOLS FOR LUCK
Kenneth Harris’ Saturday Evening Post Story. “Talisman,” recreated in films. Starring TAYLOR HOLMES Fimdom’s Newest Twinkler.—Produced by ESSANAY.

PANTS

MEN OF THE DESERT
A story of the plains abounding in a spicy mingling of adventure and daring. Starring JACK GARDNER The Screen Idol.—Produced by ESSANAY.

THE APPLE TREE GIRL
A whimsical little heart interest story, based on The Ladies Home Journal serial. Starring SHIRLEY MASON The Screen’s Daintiest Star.—Produced by THOMAS A. EDISON, Inc.

Perfection Pictures will be sold at prices that will enable the exhibitor to make a big profit. Territory will be allotted at once.

An Open Letter

TO MEN WHO EXHIBIT PICTURES:

How many pictures offered you for contract this season have you seen?

Are you letting other men furnish your brains, or are you using your own?

An extensive exhibitor who has played the pictures of all the producers in his twenty-five theatres has found by studying his audiences that the Best Star in the World will not carry a feeble story and an inexpensive production.

You know that, too, don't you; and your box office suffers, too, doesn't it?

A Big Cast in a big story and a wonderful devil-take-the-cost production has a vastly greater drawing power than a big star in a hastily written story and an indifferent production.

You know that, too, don't you?

Mr. Exhibitor, the handwriting is on the wall. Witness the Fox Standard Pictures and reap the golden harvest.

Witness "THE HONOR SYSTEM."

Witness "JACK AND THE BEANSTALK."

Witness "THE CONQUEROR," a titanic American drama with William Farnum at his best.

Witness "THE SPY" with Dustin Farnum in the timely American patriotic drama with exposures that will startle any audience, and melt a heart of steel with its dramatic punches.

Witness "CAMILLE," a Theda Bara super picture that women cannot resist—men want to see it—children, too, will appreciate "CAMILLE."

Witness "WHEN A MAN SEES RED"—William Farnum in the greatest dramatic story ever staged in the history of the world.

Still greater Standard Pictures produced along the same efficient, careful lines, built on the solid foundation of good showmanship:

Witness the coming Jane and Katherine Lee Series; the coming Fox Kiddie Series.

Witness the bombshells that will write new motion picture history, namely: Theda Bara in "CLEOPATRA" and William Farnum in "LES MISERABLES."

Well, this is why an extensive exhibitor, after years of studying the trend of the taste of critical audiences, produced Standard Pictures, which include the aforementioned. He insists that his fellow exhibitors see these pictures before they book them, for he wants them to use their brains along with his before sharing with him the millions he has already ventured.

The wise exhibitor will respond to his impulse and see these pictures before he contracts for a pig in a poke.

Now Is the Time to install a Simplex picture machine.

If you expect to get your share of this season’s business you must have the best booth equipment obtainable. A great many Exhibitors do not give this end of the business due consideration. Do you realize that perfect projection is just as essential as good pictures? No matter how good service you are using, the value is lost unless your booth equipment is up to date in every respect. SIMPLEX TYPE “S” machines will give you the desired results.

Exorbitant Rentals

It is agreed among exhibitors that many of the most conspicuous players are receiving too much remuneration for their efforts.

With the first realization of the vast amounts being paid certain actors and actresses exhibitors wonder mildly at the munificence of certain producers and at their commercial daring.

These same exhibitors have come to realize that it was neither munificence nor great commercial daring which caused these producers to contract for the services of these players at exorbitant salaries or any other scheme of payment; it was rather a belief in the dumb passiveness of the exhibitors.

These producers seemed possessed of the belief that with the senseless competition existing among theater managers in various localities, there was practically no limit to the charges that could be levied for film rental. They recognized also that the boast of an exhibitors' organization was practically a joke. Proceeding on these conclusions they contracted for players' services at a figure which makes an exorbitant rental charge a necessity with them.

That the exhibitor is the backbone of the industry seems to be everywhere recognized, but in too few cases is this recognition backed up by anything concrete. Otherwise the exhibitor would not be asked to lease a picture at a figure which makes it economically impossible for him to earn a profit.

At first blush it might seem that the matter is entirely in the hands of the exhibitor; that, in event of not believing he can make a profit, all he has to do is to ignore the program of the particular picture. But the case is not so easy. The exhibitor after months and possibly years has built up a following for a certain player or a certain brand of pictures. By suddenly terminating relations with the distributing company which asks the exorbitant rental he is summarily cutting off from his theater the following which he has been a long time in creating. An added cause of alarm is that this same following can be easily transferred to the opposition.

No branch of the motion picture business can operate at a loss without it becoming a detrimental influence to the entire industry. It is a demonstrable fact that twenty-five per cent of the motion picture theaters in the United States and Canada are not making a profit—some maintain that sixty per cent are in this sad plight.

This condition must be corrected or the end is—disaster.

Perhaps the chief cause of the unprofitableness of many film theaters is that local conditions—best known to the exhibitor—make an increase in admission charge impractical at this time, together with the fact that the patrons demand the best and the best is unobtainable at a figure which will admit of a profit.

It is a desperate situation, but as it is no less important to the producer and distributor who are making money TODAY than it is to the exhibitor who is now losing, an application of the rule of reason should bring about an early adjustment.

Film Thieves

That despicable band of film thieves who frequently escape with the less stingest term of "dupers" seem to be taking advantage of the times when authorities generally are closely concerned with matters of more national concern to broaden their activities.

In New York City, Chicago and Philadelphia, the HERALD learns, the criminal practice of duplicating productions which are proving successful for their owners is advancing in leaps and bounds.

This practice already has caused producers the loss of vast sums of money, and with the investigation now under way it is confidently hoped that a large number of the guilty will be called upon to pay the penalty.

Itinerant Incompetents

An industry—very much like an individual—is frequently known by the company it keeps.

We are very glad, however, that this is not an invariable rule because the film trade has a certain set of irresponsible tricksters who bob up regularly.

After having made a deplorable mess of their own and their company's affairs in one locality they lapse into oblivion—but only momentarily—and then blossom forth again with all the gaiiness of a Springtime morn and set out anew over their course of chicanery, incompetence and bluff.

An employees' bureau where employers could receive accurate and comprehensive advice concerning past performances of a certain band of itinerant film men would be a splendid thing.

It would accomplish one result at least: it would cause a number of individuals whose only product is vapid mouthings to seek a new and untired market.

Two Expositions

Two "national" expositions: The maximum of waste and the minimum of results.

MARTIN J. QUIGLEY.
The action of the exhibitors' conference at Ocean View, Va., illustrates that the exhibitors of the country have awakened to the fact that the American Exhibitors' Association is made up of men who have the interests of the owners of motion picture theatres at heart," said Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the A. E. A., last week.

"Before the state organizations represented at the Virginia convention became allied with our organization the delegates carefully studied our plans and principles and then unanimously applied for membership in the American Exhibitors' Association.

"The fact that as state bodies in Virginia, Indiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Michigan, South Carolina, District of Columbia, Arkansas, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Georgia, Kentucky and other states they have joined the A. E. A. speaks for itself.

Already our organizations in Illinois, New York, New Jersey, the New England States and Pennsylvania are very strong and growing rapidly.

Has Interested New Men

What impresses me most is that we succeeded in interesting men who had heretofore no interest in exhibitors' organizations.

We met in a meeting with the approval of the exhibitors, as we have, it is true to the officers of the association to our this confidence which is piling upon in leaps and bounds. We all recognize our responsibilities and will work ceaselessly to the end that we may be able to maintain the standard of efficiency as set out in our platform, pledge the making of this organization a powerful weapon in the hands of exhibitors only.

I can't help but be pleased and elated over our success. It is really wonderful to see the exhibitors are responding. Their responses fully convince me that they have wanted this kind of an organization badly else we would not have received this practically unanimous vote of approval."

Many Seek Membership

During the past week Mr. Pettijohn has been deluged with personal letters from exhibitors, applications for membership, checks for dues and inquiries calling for further information.

The American Exhibitors' Association has taken new quarters on the twentieth floor of the Times Building. So rapidly has the organization grown since its inception in Chicago in July that it became necessary to take new offices in order to handle the increased business of the association.

Hundreds of applications for membership are received daily, many from exhibitors who have never before been allied with any exhibitors' organization. The realization that at last there has been formed among the exhibitors of the country an association that is free from any alliance with any trade journal or any manufacturer is meeting with approval from thinking exhibitors who are expressing a willingness to join an association of exhibitors which works solely for their interests.

ONTARIO EXHIBITORS TO JOIN A. E. A.; MANNIST, OF FT. WILLIAM, ORGANIZES

Owner of Royal Theatre Leads More to Join New Association and Start Fight in Dominion Against Deposit; Pettijohn Leaves for New Brunswick

The motion picture exhibitors of Ontario are organizing under the leadership of M. Mannist, of the Royal Theatre, Fort William, Ont., and when their organization is completed they will apply for affiliation with the American Exhibitors' Association.

Mr. Mannist is a wide awake exhibitor who recognizes that the only way the exhibitor can accomplish any reforms in the industry is if he takes action with a body that is composed entirely of exhibitors to have no connections with the manufacturer.

He is avowedly opposed to the advance deposit system, which method of doing business by the producer is being fought by the American Exhibitors' Association.

PETTIJOHN GOES TO CANADA

Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, left New York Friday to attend the convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Canada, to be held at St. Johns, N. B., September 5th and 9th. Mr. Pettijohn received an invitation from W. C. Golding, president of the Canadian exhibitors' organization.

For Exhibitors Only

The action of the state bodies in Virginia, Indiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Michigan, South Carolina, Georgia and other states in affiliation with the American Exhibitors' Association is evidence that the exhibitors' organizations are awake to the fact that this organization means to stand for the exhibitors only.

SELMICK SELL S OUT INTEREST TO DIRECTOR BRENON

Producer of "War Brides" and "Lone Wolf" Gains Complete Control of Concern

Herbert Brenon, president of the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation, has purchased the half interest in the Brenon company held by M. Pettijohn. Thus Mr. Brenon now controls full interest in all productions made under the Brenon brand, including "War Brides" and "The Lone Wolf.

Mr. Brenon also gains control of the Heights studios, said to be the largest in the East, and the well-known director will hereafter produce pictures himself. He has moved his offices to the New Jersey plant.

Mr. Selznick also held a fourth interest in "The False Romanoffs," Mr. Brenon's latest effort, which was also purchased by Mr. Brenon last week.

CHICAGO A. E. A. BRANCH GETS NEW HEADQUARTERS

The Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association, which is the Chicago branch of the American Exhibitors' Association, has opened headquarters in room 1802 North American building, Chicago. This body has become one of the strongest branches of the new national organization, under the leadership of its president, Henry Schoenstadt, and the bi-monthly meetings which are held on the first and third Fridays of each month at Fraternity Hall, West Adams street, Chicago, are well attended, not only by Chicago theater owners, but by visiting exhibitors.

CRISIS FILM CORP. SUES AMERICAN EXPRESS CO. FOR SHIPPING MISTAKE

The Crisis Film Corporation of Newark, N. J., has brought suit against the American Express Company for $141.15 for the non-delivery of films to a theater in Phillipsburg, N. J. Through a clerical error the mail room's employees, it is alleged, shipped the films to Buffalo, N. Y., and the suit is to recover damages sustained as a result of the mistake.
HENRY J. BROCK, INTER-OCEAN FILM CORP.
HEAD, IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH IN N. Y.

Industry Pioneer Meets Instant Death While Passing Through Kingston, Enroute to Home in Buffalo; Two Others Escape Injury

Henry J. Brock, the head of the Inter-Ocean Film Corporation, the Manx-Man Company and the Cinema Distributing Company, and one of the pioneers of the film industry, met instant death in an automobile accident while passing through Kingston, N. Y., en route to his home in Buffalo, from New York City, on September 7.

Accompanying Mr. Brock at the time were Harry Grouse of Ottawa, Can., and Emery P. Hylandt of Buffalo. Mr. Hylandt was driving the car and both he and Mr. Grouse escaped without serious injury.

Mr. Brock had just completed negotiations with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, in which the latter concern purchased "The Manx-Man" from Mr. Brock. This deal had kept him in New York later than he usually remained.

Mr. Brock was 42 years old and is survived by a wife and four children. He was a brother-in-law of Mitchell H. Mark, president of the Strand Company. He founded his fortune on a partnership known as Mark-Brock enterprises, which established many penny arcades in the early days of motion pictures, and which later developed into the firm owning many theaters in the United States and Canada.

Mr. Brock has been wonderfully successful in the past few years handling state rights features and securing control of many big features for South and Central America, Great Britain, Canada and Australia. He was interested in the Strand and York theaters in Toronto and the Academy and Regent theaters in Buffalo.

The funeral services were held in Buffalo, Sunday, September 9, and were attended by prominent motion picture men from all parts of the country.

THEDA BARA STARS IN "CAMILLE" FILM TO BE PUBLISHED BY FOX SEPTEMBER 30

Star Has Role of Unhappy Parisian Girl, Created By Alexandre Dumas, Jr.; Screen Version of Great Drama Just Completed
By Director J. G. Edwards

Theda Bara in a picturization of "Camille" is the latest announcement of William Fox to exhibitors. The film will be published September 30.

"Camille," the story by Alexandre Dumas, Jr., has behind it a long history of successful stage engagements in every civilized country. It has been acted on every great stage of Europe and both Americas, and, in book form, it is considered one of the most dramatic stories ever written.

Theda Bara, as the unhappy Parisian girl who sacrifices herself on the altar of convention, has surpassed all her previous work in this production.

Theda Bara's "Camille" has just been completed, under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards. Parisian life has been followed in every detail so that the atmosphere of the story fits admirably with the acting in it.

"Camille" is the most famous French novel of the nineteenth century. Its story is known to every educated person, and it has been celebrated in song and story in every corner of the world. "La Traviata," Verdi's noted opera, was founded on the story of the unhappy Parisian girl. The original story, known as "The Lady of the Camellias," was published in 1848. A year later, its author recognized the dramatic possibilities of the piece, and made a new version which was acted on the Parisian stage in February, 1852.

"MEN OF DESERT" BEING SHOWN AT K-E-S-E OFFICES

Fourth of Essanay's Western Features With Gardner to Be Issued Sept. 24

Trade showings of "Men of the Desert," the fourth of Essanay's series of Western photodramas featuring Jack Gardner, the musical-comedy star, are in progress at all branch offices of K-E-S-E. This picture, presenting a screen version of the Taylor-Norris feud, one of the most notorious of the West, is said to be the strongest unit of this series. It will be issued September 24.

Mr. Gardner is supported by Ruth King, Carl Stockdale and the remainder of the company which has been seen with him in "Land of Long Shadows," "The Range Boss" and "Open Places." The picture was staged on the plains of Arizona and presents many picturesque settings. It has a screen time, approximately, of sixty-five minutes.

NORMA TALMADGE MAKES "SECRET OF STORM COUNTRY" SCENES IN N. Y. STUDY

Miss Norma Talmadge has again returned to her own studio at 318 East 45 street, New York, to make the interior of her new picture, "The Secret of Storm Country." Ithaca, N. Y., was in detail the filming of the rugged exteriors of this screen story, a sequel to Grace Miller White's "Tess of Storm Country," which also appeared in film form. Miss Talmadge spent seven weeks in Ithaca with her support cast.

ADVANCE DEPOSIT MEN ARE CAUGHT BY A. E. A. SQUEEZING EXHIBITORS FOR MONEY ON CONTRACTS

Stating that the advance deposit distributors now are harassing exhibitors by demanding new contracts which to manufacture their films, and to create their present attempted monopoly of stars.

Let every exhibitor in the United States, whether he be a member of the American Exhibitors' Association or not, send at once to this office a detailed statement of similar situations, so that the facts, figures and statistics may be compiled and that these companies may be given the publicity which they deserve in future bulletins which will be forthcoming from this office. Please act at once and furnish us complete information. If it becomes necessary for this organization to classify the manufacturers, we intend to do so.

AMERICAN EXHIBITORS' ASSOCIATION

In keeping with its announcement made last week to the trade in the “Herald,” it was pointed out this week by prominent theater owners, that this move is the beginning of a fight to eliminate abuses of the deposit system and wipe out the system entirely in places where it will not yield to modification.

WHO IS NO. ONE? PARAMOUNT TITLE FOR NEW SERIAL

First Photonovel of Concern, Starring Kathleen Clifford Appears in October

Anna Katharine Green has written the story for “Who Is ‘Number One?’” Paramount's first serial, starring Kathleen Clifford.

When “Who Is ‘Number One?’” is ready—some time in October—exchanges will be furnished prints of the entire production so that if exhibitors choose they can see every reel of the serial before they sign a contract.

SUPER FILM PUTS MOTOY FARCES IN SOUTHERN HOUSES

Sidney B. Lust of the Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C., distributor for the Peter Pan Film Corporation’s novelty comedies for Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, North Carolina and District of Columbia, announces that these comedies have been placed in the following theatres: Garden Theatre, Washington; Strand Theatre, Washington; Plaza Theatre, Washington; Navy Theatre, Washington; American Theatre, Opwell, Va.; Strand Theatre, Petersburg, Va.; American Theatre, Norfolk.

In view of the fact that Mr. Lust has placed these comedies but a short time, the results are gratifying, he announces.

EDNA GOODRICH WORKS ON “AMERICAN MAID,” FIVE-REEL PATRIOTIC FEATURE FOR MUTUAL

With the completion of “Reputation,” “Queen X” and “A Daughter of Maryland,” her first films of the series of star productions which she is to make for the Mutual Film Corporation, Miss Edna Goodrich is at work at her studio on Long Island under Albert Capellani’s direction in “American Maid,” a five-reel patriotic picture.

“Reputation” was issued September 3 and met with an enthusiastic reception from exhibitors and their patrons.

“Reputation” is the story of a pretty young girl who tries to launch herself in business in a country town and becomes the victim of scandalmongering natives, who are convinced that nobody can be so pretty as Constance Bennett and good at the same time.

D. W. GRIFFITH TO RETURN FROM EUROPE
THIS MONTH WITH SCENES FOR BIG PICTURE

David Wark Griffith, who has been in Europe since March, will return, it is expected, the latter part of this month. The noted director-producer went to London originally to supervise the presentation of "Intolerance" at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane. The picture proved a great success and a performance was given before the King and Queen and members of the royal family.

Mr. Griffith also was engaged in doing some photographic work for the French and British governments, taking scenes of the great conflict along the Western front.

After the completion of arrangements for the showing of "Intolerance" in England, France and Italy, Mr. Griffith summoned his cameramen William Bitzer, Robert Harron and Lilian Gish to England where they have been working on scenes for Mr. Griffith's next big spectacle. The screen story will be Mr. Griffith's return.

CHICAGO FILM THEATRES CLOSED BY POLICE
WHILE LICENSE REQUESTS ARE PENDING

Because the city had not granted theatre licenses, twenty-four Chicago motion picture houses have been closed. Policemen entered the theatre of Mrs. S. Stamler, at 1449 Division street, last week and ordered Manager I. D. Pedorr to stop the show. They also commanded him to return the admissions paid, to the audience. Mrs. Stamler had made application for a license and was under the impression that she could operate her theatre pending the granting of permission to operate the house.

Other motion picture exhibitors had similar experiences. Anthony Bibro, of the Royal Theatre, 1820 West Twenty-second street, was closed by the police department after running three days. He secured a license September 5. E. D. McLaughlin of the Ideal Theatre, 27 West North street, while not operating, expected to open September 10, and was surprised to find his house on the "closed" list.

ESSANAY FINISHES THREE PICTURES FROM NOTED STORIES FEATURING TAYLOR HOLMES

Essanay has completed the production of three pictures in which Taylor Holmes, the stage comedian, is featured. A fourth now is in the filming process. "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship," the first of this series, and, incidentally, the star's initial screen vehicle, was issued September 3. The second picture, entitled "Fools for Luck," will be issued October 8. This production is a screen version of Kenneth Harris' story, "Talismans," which was published in the Saturday Evening Post. It hinges on a youth's desperate attempts to woo Dame Fortune by a rigid observance of all the omens of luck, including the horse-shoe, the rabbit's left hind foot, spilled salt, ladders, etc. He meets the girl of his heart's desire; however, his luck tokens fail to aid him. How he finally overthrows his superstitions and surprises himself by winning out, rounds a story which proved very popular in print. "Fools for Luck" will have a screen time, approximately, of sixty-five minutes.

This picture will be followed in November by "Two-Bit Seats," and "The Small Town Guy" will be the title of the December film. K-E-S-E will publish the features.

G. R. WARREN MADE PRODUCTION CHIEF FOR HORSELEY PLANT

G. R. Warren has been appointed manager of production by David Horsley and has assumed charge of the Horsley Studios in Los Angeles.

Mr. Warren is recognized as one of the most capable men in the picture business. His career opened in the stage drama, from which he graduated to executive positions in the administration side of the profession. Early in the development of motion pictures Mr. Warren was first associated with Mr. Horsley in what has since become the Universal Film Company.

S. E. ABEL MADE REPRESENTATIVE OF SELECT PICTURE

Sydney E. Abel has been appointed special representative of Select Picture Corporation and started work in the interest of Select exchanges September 10. Mr. Abel recently resigned his position as manager of the Chicago branch of Vitagraph.

Mr. Abel has made an enviable record in conducting exchange business in the central states. In Chicago Abel established a record for big sales. He credits having put over the V. S. E. in that territory.

Prior to his connection with the Vitagraph interest, Mr. Abel spent four and a half years with the Mutual Film Corporation as branch manager in various eastern cities. With Select Pictures Abel will act as a first aid to sales, much of his time being spent on road visiting exchanges in the various cities.

Toronto, Ont.—James Crang, a prominent Toronto contractor, is building a large theatre on St. Clair Ave., one of the finest residential sections of the city. The building will cost around $10,000 when completed and will be updated in every particular, with seats capacity of about 1,400, with all seats on the ground floor.

CHICAGO EXCHANGE SECURES RIGHT TO "IN TREASON'S GRASP"

Griever & Herz, of Chicago, have just closed a deal whereby they secure the Wisconsin and Indiana rights to the renewed Pictures Corporation's feature, "In Treason's Grasp." Grace Cunard and Francis Ford are the stars of this hi-reel film. The film is said to be a timely one as much as it embraces a war-time story, presenting a drama of a woman's life for her country. Jessrs. Griever & Herz also announce that they have secured several other pictures which will soon be issued through their exchange.

PEGGY HYLAND RECEIVES MANY SCENARIOS FOR PRODUCTION BY MAYFAIR

Since the announcement of Peggy Hyland's first Mayfair production, "Persuading Peggy," the little English player, has received many dramas from seasoned writers. Miss Hyland has read many of the stories. There are many "Peggy" stories among them, such as "Peggy, Girl Scout," and "Peggy, the Dancer.

The stories of real merit will be produced by the Mayfair Film Corporation.

CHAPLIN'S "ADVENTURER" FILM IS DELAYED BY THE ILLNESS OF MISS PURVIANCE

New Comedy for Mutual Has Most Pretentious Scenic Effect of Any Yet Issued to Exhibitors; Considered Best Play of Series Made for Mutual

Charlie Chaplin has resumed work at the Lone Star studio, Hollywood, Cal., on the latest scenes of his twelfth Mutual special, "The Adventurer," which was delayed, first by the illness of the comedian himself and more recently by an indisposition of Edna Purviance, Mr. Chaplin's leading woman. Miss Purviance, who has been in the Good Samaritan Hospital near Hollywood since August 19, appeared at the studio looking little worse for her illness, which is declared to have been due to the strain of continuous rehearsal.

Considered Best Play

Mr. Chaplin's new play is considered his best. In the new piece Mr. Chaplin has cast himself as an escaped convict who is chased from pillar to post by sheriffs who always miss him by just enough distance to make the series of escapes and pursuits highly picturesque and sensational.

In his evasions of capture, Charlie is aided by Edna Purviance, who has appeared with Mr. Chaplin in his entire Mutual series of pictures.

Is Pretentious Scenically

The new picture is one of the most pretentious scenically and dramatically ever produced under Mutual-Chaplin auspices. Much of the action takes place in picturesque outdoor locations showing Chaplin climbing mountain sides, passing through rocky gullies on tender feet, hiding in all sorts of impossible places and making quick attacks on his numerous enemies, vanquishing them in characteristically Chaplin fashion.

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS ANSWERS EXHIBITORS' DEMANDS FOR SOMETHING NEW IN FILMS

Has Acquired Rights to Five Big Features Now Being Issued to Trade; Concern Will Secure Only Best in Pictures on Percentage and Outright Purchase Plan

A direct and comprehensive answer to the demand of exhibitors and the public for something new in films is being made by Jewel Productions Inc., one of the newest factors in the film industry.

Jewel Productions Inc. announces no elaborate or set schedule of films or subjects, nor will it pursue such a policy or program. It may issue a picture a month, two, three, or no picture in six months—ten pictures, twelve, or only eight a year—this being entirely dependent on the standard of superiority which has been set.

Jewel Productions Inc. is in no way a producing concern. Its sole activities consist of the marketing of pictures which will be bought outright, or booked for the producer on percentage, solely on the basis of merit.

After reviewing a great number of features, Jewel Productions Inc., thus far, have acquired the rights to only five.

"The Man Without a Country" was made by Edwin Thanhouser, with the idea of selling it on the state right plan. Last week Jewel Productions Inc. secured the world rights to the film. It was offered for the first time to the public at the Broadway Theater, New York, September 9. Florence La Badie and H. E. Herbert are the stars.

When "Come Through" was shown on Broadway it scored success. George Bronson-Howard wrote the story, Herbert Rawlinson, Alice Lake and Roy Stewart are the featured players. Jewel Productions Inc. bought the film from Universal.

"Pay Me," with Dorothy Phillips as its star, is another Jewel acquisition.

"Sirens of the Sea" is the fourth film, and a fifth will come from Lois Weber.

CLUNE'S "EYES OF THE WORLD" PREMIER OPENS AT CHICAGO AUDITORIUM SEPT. 21

Concern Transgresses Industry Traditions in Not Selecting N. Y. for Grand Opening; Play Is Adapted from Great Harold Bell Wright Book Romance; Author Aided in Production

Chicago has been chosen as the place for the eastern premiere of W. H. Clune's dramatic film production of this popular author's "The Eyes of the World," by Harold Bell Wright.

At the Auditorium Theater, Friday, September 21, with special music and stage effects which should add much to the photographic presentation of Wright's story, Chicagoans will have their first opportunity of seeing the manner in which the Clune company has handled the story of romance and adventure in film form.

For six months the entire producing facilities of the Clune plant in Los Angeles were concentrated on the elaborate filming of the novel. It is promised, as a result, that this offering will be the finest adaptation of a current popular romance ever prepared for the screen. The scenario was written by the author himself and has been faithfully followed by the producers with the assistance of Mr. Wright, who also aided in interpreting his characters for the film version.

Wright's novel contains much of the kind of material out of which successful motion pictures are made and the author, the producer and the camera men have made the most of these opportunities, advance reports indicate.

In selecting Chicago for the Eastern premiere, the Clune Film Producing Company, while realizing that it has transgressed one of the traditions of the film industry in not selecting New York, believes it has taken a wise step and is prepared to cite numerous reasons why this city is the better of the two for the introduction of this second big offering from its coast studios.

Several innovations in presentation will be introduced in the Chicago engagement, which is scheduled for sixteen days.

"WHEN A MAN SEES RED" WITH WM. FARNUM, AN EXTRA-REEL DRAMA LISTED FOR OCTOBER

William Fox's present schedule of films calls for the issuing of "When A Man Sees Red," an extra-reel drama with William Farnum in the stellar role, during October. The film was adapted from the story, "The Painted Lady," by Larry Evans, which ran in the Saturday Evening Post.

Jewel Carmen, who played opposite Mr. Farnum in this production, as well as several others, has just been transferred from the Fox studios in California to the plant at Fort Lee, N. J., where Farnum is making "Les Miserables." Miss Carmen will have the role of Fantine in the production. Her most recent performance was that of the siren in "To Honor and Obey," in which Gladys Brockwell was starred.

Features in Making

Work is progressing rapidly on Virginia Pearson's new starring vehicle for the William Fox productions, and on the first of a series of eight light comedy-dramas starring the magnetic Jane and Katherine Lee, the Fox juvenile players. Miss Pearson's picture is to be called "Thou Shalt Not Steel," and is being directed by William Nig. In the supporting cast are Claire Whitney, Eric Mayne, Robert Elliott, John Goldsworthy, Victor Delinsky, Dan Mason.

CHARLOTTE, NOTED SKATER, STARS IN FIRST COMMONWEALTH FILM NOW IN MAKING

Oscar Eagle Commences Work on Initial Six Reeler at Rothacker Plant in Chicago; Jack Meredith Is Leading Man

The activities of the Commonwealth Pictures Corporation of Chicago include the engagement of Oscar Eagle as director for the first production, which will be in six reels and will feature Charlotte, the skater, who was the big attraction at the New York Hippodrome for two seasons and is now appearing at the College Inn, Chicago.

Work on the first picture commenced last Monday at the Rothacker studios under Mr. Eagle's direction. Jack Meredith has been selected as leading man for Charlotte. Mr. Meredith has appeared in many screen successes, notably "Poppy" and "Panthea" with Norma Talmadge, "The Magdalene" with Mme. Petrova, "The Almighty Dollar" with Frances Nelson and many others.

Jack Rose, formerly with the Essanay Company, will act as cameraman for the Commonwealth Company. Robert M. Lee, an editorial writer on the Chicago Tribune staff, has written the scenario for Charlotte's premier before the camera.

10,000 SEA GULLS APPEAR IN "QUEEN OF SEA" FILM

Ten thousand sea gulls have been obtained for "Queen of the Sea," Annette Kellerman's new William Fox production, by Jack Kellette, who assists John G. Adolph in directing the picture.

The ten thousand birds are now on the great rocks about the estate of Herbert L. Satterlee, who married a daughter of the late J. P. Morgan. Mr. Satterlee's home is at Bar Harbor, Me., where the subject of the film is located.

The birds were enticed from Northeast Harbor to Bar Harbor by throwing them bits of fish along the entire trip down the bay, and kept them on the estate for two days by feeding them.

WM. COLLIER, COMEDIAN, FORMS FILM COMPANY TO EXPLOIT HIS SON

Los Angeles, Cal.—William Collier, the comedian, is forming a film company of his own. He will exploit his son, "Buster," and the name of the new corporation will be the William Collier, Jr., Film Company.

Young Collier will appear in a film version of "Tom Sawyer," as his first vehicle under the new arrangement. It is announced.

GALAXY OF NOTED FILM PLAYERS ADDED TO UNIVERSAL STAFF; 7 ARE LEADING MEN

More additions have been made to the acting and directing forces at Universal City during the past month than at any similar period throughout the present year.

Among the leading men who soon will be seen in important productions are: Charles West, Frank Borzage, Casson Ferguson, Hart Foxie, Kenneth Harlan, David Morris and Hal Cooley. The first five of these actors already have won wide recognition for effective dramatic work, while Morris and Cooley are equally well known as comedians.

Charles West, who shortly be seen in support of Zoe Rae, in "The Little Pirate," gained his first experience as a member of D. W. Griffith's Biograph Stock Company, appearing later in Fine Arts' productions when Griffith was in control of that organization.

Frank Borzage, who is also a newcomer to the Bi-plant, is now appearing opposite Brownie Vernon in Allen Holubar's production of "The Twisted Soul." Every picture fan of three years' standing will vividly recall Borzage as the young American sailor hero of Thomas H. Ince's "Wrath of the Gods," the remarkable Japanese play with Tsuru Aoki and Sessue Hayakawa. Borzage also appeared in many western features as a member of the American company, and gained some prestige as a director before coming under the Universal banner.

Among the actresses and comedienne of achievement and special promise, who have been engaged for Universal productions during the past month, might be mentioned Rena Rogers, Gladys Tennyson, Rosemary Theby, Beatrice Burnham and Mildred Davis.

Rena Rogers will be remembered for her characterization in Lois Weber's special production, "Where Are My Children?" She will also be seen shortly in the Zoe Rae vehicle, directed by Elsie Janis Wilson.

"THOU SHALT NOT STEAL," NEW VIRGINIA PEARSON FILM, IS IN MAKING

Work progresses rapidly on Virginia Pearson's new starring vehicle for the William Fox productions. The picture is to be called "Thou Shalt Not Steal," and is being directed by William Nigh at the Fox studios.

In the supporting cast are Claire Whitney, Eric Mayne, Robert Elliott, John Goldsworthy, Victor Delinsky, Dan Mason, Dan Sullivan, Lemuil Kennedy, Martin Faust and Mathilde Brundage.
BRENNON STARTS FILMING “EMPTY POCKETS,” ADAPTED FROM RUPERT HUGHES NOVEL

New Production, Featuring Bert Lytell and Barbara Castleton, Will Follow “Fall of The Romanoffs”; Plot Built Around Murder of Debonair Millionaire

The filming of Rupert Hughes' popular novel, “Empty Pockets,” now is under way at Herbert Brenon's Hudson Heights studios. “Empty Pockets” will be made by Brenon's production company, and the story is expected to be a fast-moving romance. The story is built around the murder of a debonair millionaire, “Merry” Perry Merriwether, who is found dead on the dirty tin roof of an East Side tenement. Strands of a woman's red hair are clutched in his hands. This is the only clue. The mystery involves four red-haired girls; one a millionaire's beautiful daughter, another a model installed by the dead man in a Central Park West apartment, the third the unscrupulous daughter of a bankrupt society matron, and the fourth a cabaret dancer married to a thug.

One of the thrilling incidents is a midnight motor chase back and forward across the island of Manhattan and ending at the edge of Spuyten Duyvil Creek. For the role of the heroic Doctor Worthing, Mr. Brenon has selected Bert Lytell, who scored as the Lone Wolf.

Barbara Castleton has been selected to play Muriel Schuyler, the daughter of a money king who is involved in the murder mystery. Miss Castleton is looked upon by Mr. Brenon as a distinct discovery.

Mr. Lytell and Miss Castleton have the principal roles. The other parts will be enacted by equally well-known players since Mr. Brenon is a believer in the well-balanced cast, rather than the top-heavy star cast.

SUNSHINE FILM CO.
BUYS PLAY SCRIPT

Director William Buckley of the Sunshine Film Company has just returned to Chicago from New York, where he purchased a seven-reel feature scenario, “The Future Generation.” Scenes of this picture will be taken in Chicago's slums and many exteriors will be taken on a big estate in Lake Forest, Ill.

FILM THEATER WORKER
SAVES PATRONS FROM VICIOUS DOG IN LOBBY

Julius Cox, Covent Garden Ticket Taker, Pins Snapping Canine to Pavement; Policeman Shoots Brute

The presence of mind and steady nerve of Julius Cox, ticket taker at the Covent Garden Theater, on North Clark street, Chicago, September 9, prevented what might have resulted in a serious panic and injury to many patrons attending the Sunday night performance. While the lobby was packed to the doors, the second show which starts at 9 o'clock, a vicious dog strayed into the lobby of the theater and began snapping at patrons. Young Cox grasped the dog, an ugly black cur, and dragged him to the sidewalk. Here the dog attempted to fasten his teeth into young Cox's leg, but the youth was too quick for him and in a moment had him pinned to the sidewalk where he held him for fifteen minutes until a policeman came and killed it.

TRYKAY FILMS, OF CHICAGO, IS NEWEST COMEDY CO.

Believing that there is still room for a new brand of comedies, E. Fourer Hurley, late of the Continental Producing Company of Los Angeles, and Ogden K. Hansaker, formerly of Keystone, have organized the Trykay Films of Chicago, to produce two-reel comedies. The first film, it is said, will be offered to the trade some time this month. The company will produce comedies featuring the American Negro in his own plantation atmosphere. The first offering is “Darktown Fire Brigade.”

BLUEBIRD LIST OF OCTOBER FILMS BRINGS NOTED STARS TO SCREEN

Ella Hall, Franklyn Farnum, Dorothy Phillips, Ruth Clifford and Violet Mersereau to Appear in Leading Roles

Exhibitors who draw upon Bluebird sources for a share of their entertainments will be concerned in the announcements made for October. The five Mondays in that month will mark the publication of as many features.

Ella Hall on October 1 will make her final appearance among Bluebirds in “The Spotted Lily.” Charles Hill Mailes, in the role of an exiled priest, will be seen with Ruth Potthoff, Gretchen Lederer, Jack Nelson, George Bernard and Wilton Taylor. They will in Miss Hall's support.

F. Farnum Stars October 8

Franklyn Farnum will make his first lone-star appearance October 8, in a comedy-drama, tentatively titled “The Maverick.” Claire Du Brey, Mr. Farnum's leading lady, will have a particularly good role; Lon Chaney will carry a dully drawn character part and the supporting company will include Eugene Owen, B. C. Appleby, Sam De Grasse, Mary St. John, Margery Lawrence and William Dyer.

Ida May Park, who has become Dorothy Phillips' permanent screen partner, will present “Bondage,” as the third Bluebird of her creation in which Miss Phillips has starred. The film will be issued October 17. William Stowell, J. B. McLaughlin, Gretchen Lederer and Gertrude Aster will be principals in Miss Phillips' support.

Ruth Clifford, with Monroe Salisbury as her new leading man, will give a Rupert Julian Bluebird to the program October 22, in “The Desire of the Moth.” This is the third number in a series of Rupert Julian Bluebirds that will be featured in the program hereafter. Mr. Julian will play an important role and Miss Clifford's support will also include Al Sears, Milton Brown and W. H. Bainbridge.

Mersereau Film Scheduled

Violet Mersereau will be seen in John C. Brownell's screen version of Varick Vanard's novel, “The Girl by the Roadside,” to be issued October 29.

Early in November Mae Murray, directed by Robert Leonard, and Carmel Myers under the screen management of Harry Solter, will take their place among Bluebird stars presenting, respectively, “The Princess Virtue” and “The Dynast.” With stars listed to appear during October, Miss Murray and Miss Myers complete the Bluebird lineup for the forthcoming season.

THREE STARS AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Madge Kennedy makes a most winsome Zoie and John Cumberland an adorable Jimmie; Frank Morgan, a fine Alfred and Katharyn Adams, a charming Aggie.

The story: Alfred catches his wife in so many lies he leaves home and establishes his office in Boston. He is very fond of children and to get him back Zoie and Jimmie's wife conspire to send him a telegram that an heir has arrived, Zoie planning to adopt a baby. Before arrangements have been completed for the baby's adoption Alfred arrives home, necessitating the stealing of a child from a foundling home. The mother of the baby, however, sets up such a rumpus that they decide to return it and borrow the washerwoman's new-born babe, one of twins. More complications follow when Jimmie comes in with the other twin, followed by the washerwoman's husband demanding his children back, and while the three babies are being cooed over by Alfred, who thinks he is the father of triplets, the respective parents arrive and claim their own.

"CINDERELLA AND THE MAGIC SLIPPER"
Wholesome Films Corp. fantasy; four parts; published September 10

As a whole.........................Charming Story.........................Fairy tale
Cast.........................Well-drilled children
Settings.........................Beautiful
Photography.........................Very good

"Cinderella and the Magic Slipper"—the first production of the Wholesome Films Corporation—viewed from the standpoint of a film for children, is a praiseworthy accomplishment. There is no question that it will prove popular with the children and many grown-ups, too.

The settings are in keeping with the atmosphere of the fairy romance, the grand ball, the little coach-and-four and all the other familiar features of the old story are there. And all the actors are children, more than a hundred and fifty of them participating. They show the result of careful training and enact the various roles with painstaking care. The story has been deviated from only to introduce some very pretty fairy dances, which add considerable charm to the picture. For most of the youthful actors this was their film debut, but they give a good account of themselves.

The technical features of "Cinderella" deserve the highest praise, photography and tinting being a feature of the picture. The story is too familiar to need repeating here.

Bessie Love in
"POLLY ANN"
Kay-Bee Triangle drama; five parts; published September 9

As a whole.........................Entertaining
Story.........................Commonplace
Star.........................Winsome
Support.........................Very good Settings.........................Adequate
Photography.........................Clear

"Polly Ann" sets forth the story of a little slavey's reclamation. While it offers nothing new in the way of plot... complication, it is well constructed, well directed and is clean-cut in its outline, and definite in its aim. It pleased mightily at the Covent Garden (Chicago) theater, where it was shown September 9.

Bessie Love is delightful as Polly Ann Tomkins and the supporting cast is an excellent one. The play was directed by Charles Miller, from the story by J. G. Hawkes and R. Cecil Smith. Rowland Lee, Walt Whitman, John Lockney, William Eltingford, David Foss and Josephine Headly appear in the cast.

The story: Polly Ann lives at the poor farm and dreams of some day becoming a lady. The poor directors assign her to work for Jud Simpkins, keeper of the village tavern. She is coaxed away from the inn one night by a cheap actor, after playing a small part with a wandering theatrical company, but is rescued by Howard Straitlane, who has left the city to live down his craving for drink. Howard becomes the village school teacher and Polly Ann, one of his pupils. Finally she is sent for by a distant relative, who is in the clutches of scheming relatives. Polly Ann nurses her relative back to health and then returns to the village. The reunion of teacher and pupil follows and the two are made happy by the arrival of Howard's uncle, who gives them his blessing.

"REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM"

Artcraft comedy-drama; six parts; published September 3

As a whole: Excellent
Story: Entertaining
Star: Lovable
Support: Well chosen
Settings: Appropriate
Photography: Splendid

A production that will make its appeal to the masses and the classes is "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," made so by "America's sweetheart of the screen." It would take all the best descriptive adjectives to describe the excellence of the production. There is little question as to the drawing power of Mary Pickford's name, but after seeing her characterization of Rebecca Rowena Randall a remembrance of her capability in handling juvenile parts, her charm and her sweetness will long be treasured by spectators.

A SCENE FROM "REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM," WITH MARY PICKFORD AND SUPPORT (ARTCRAFT)

There is no doubt that the exhibitor, no matter what class of patrons he caters to, will find this newest Pickford picture a true box office winner. No hesitation should be made on the part of prospective bookers, as it is just as appropriate for the children's program and the neighborhood house as it is for the houses situated in business and downtown districts.

Mary Pickford's Rebecca is pleasing and something to remember. She is given excellent support in Eugene O'Brien, Helen Shipman, Edith, Charles Ogle, Charles Curb, Mary Kelso, Jane Wolff, Josephine Crowell, Jack MacDonald, Violet Wilkey, Frank Turner, Kate Toncray and Emma Gerdes. Frances Marion wrote the scenario from Kate Douglas Wiggin's book. The film was staged under the direction of Marshall Neilan.

The story: Rebecca Rowena Randall is taken into the home of her Aunt Hannah, a strict New England woman. Rebecca meets Adam Ladd, a young man of the village and they become great friends. One day Rebecca promises Adam that when she is of age she will marry him. Unable to stand her pranks any more, Aunt Hannah sends Rebecca to a boarding school. She graduates a beautiful young lady. And shortly thereafter Adam demands a fulfillment of her promise.

"THE FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS"

IIiodor Pictures Corporation drama; eight parts; published September 6

As a whole: Remarkable
Story: Gripping
Star: Exceptional
Support: Excellent
Settings: Gorgeous
Photography: Wonderful

Superb in construction, remarkable in photography, and powerful in cast, is a fairly adequate description of "The Fall of the Romanoffs," shown for the first time at Ritz-Carlton, in New York, September 6, for the press and the Russian Ambassador and others in authority.

A SCENE FROM "THE FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS" (HERBERT BRENON)

Of course, the atmosphere of the Ritz, with its many Russian diplomats and Cossacks as ushers, had something to do with the reception of the picture, but if shown in a barn it wonders would not be diminished. It tells a tragic story with marvelous adherence to what the press has given us as fact and is replete with melodramatic climaxes that grip the audience from start to finish. The acting throughout is finished and convincing, but too much cannot be said of the work of IIiodor as himself, Nance O'Neil as the Czarina, Alfred Hickman as the ex-Czar, Edward Connelly as Rasputin, and Paulin Curley as the flower of the court, and Mlle. Galanta as Rasputin's Gypsy sweetheart. The stars are great in their respective roles.

The story is well known because it has appeared in the public press, and the picture version is in perfect keeping with the news version, which has to do with the downfall of ex-Czar Nicholas, brought about through the power exercised over him by Rasputin, the Siberian peasant, who ruled Russia in debauchery, drunkenness and sensuality. The picturization got farther than the historical facts in that it gives to Russia its great government of democracy, which it will be.

This picture will be in great demand for some time to come and is worthy of a place in the hall of fame in motion pictures.

The photography challenges the finest in the camera's art while the directing leaves nothing undone in the visualization of a great story.
J. Warren Kerrigan in "A MAN'S MAN"
Paralta Plays-Drama; seven parts; published September 12

As a whole: Exceptional
Story: Interesting
Star: Great
Support: Adequate
Settings: Realistic
Photographs: Usually good

In his best days, Rex Beach never wrote a better outdoor story than "A Man's Man," in which J. Warren Kerrigan stars as a red-blooded man. It abounds with thrilling situations and holds the interest entirely throughout the entire seven reels. Mr. Kerrigan never has done anything so good, and it might be said that the other actors have shown much real art in andling such a big part. The supporting cast, particularly Ed Coxen as a "down and outer," who finds himself, and Lois Wilson, who delightfully portrays Dolores Ruey, central American belle and sweetheart of John Stewart Webster (J. Warren Kerrigan). Mr. Kerrigan's part is one that could easily be overdone, but this has not happened in a single instance. Where repulsion would kill the part for some actors, it has added greatly to Kerrigan's portrayal of the fighting American, and where expression goes to build up a situation, Mr. Kerrigan has furnished it to just the right degree. The man who saves a good fight, the woman who longs for real romance, the portman who revels in a real cock fight, and the playwright who wants an all around, full evening's pleasure who will take to a "Man's Man" like a child to a fairy story. Its box office power should be magnetic and lasting. It is one of the best melodramas shown. The story tells of John Stewart Webster, a young American mining engineer who goes to Central America and wades into the midst of a periodical revolution. On his way to Mexico, at a tank station in Arizona, he saves a handsome young girl, who proves to be the heroine later, from the annoyance of a traveling salesman, and grows to love the girl (Dolores). Webster is a peace-loving individual, but of the sort who is all fight when a fight is necessary. When he reaches Sobrante, where the scene of the plot is laid, he runs into a revolution, which sets Delores from the revolutionists, her father, the president, having been killed, and is herself nearly killed. He is nursed to health by the heroine, saves the country, marries the girl, and finishes with a happy life ahead. The story is by Peter B. Kyne and will be published through Triangle on the Paralta Plan. The photography is unusually good and the directing cleverly handled. The production is a winner.

'TEN OF DIAMONDS'
Triangle Drama; five parts; published September 2

As a whole: Impossible
Story: Improbable
Star: Reliable
Support: Excellent Settings: Fine
Photographs: Clear

The "Ten of Diamonds" will prove to be a poor offering for most theaters. The story is highly improbable and contains many scenes which will jar the sensibilities of most photo-play patrons. It is the story of a wealthy man who takes a girl from the gutter, introduces her into society and has her become engaged to a man against whom he has a grudge, but in the end marries herself. This film is very similar to "The Bride of Hate," a former Triangle of little merit.

Dorothy Dalton gives a very good account of herself as Neva Blake, the cabaret singer who becomes a lady, and is ably supported by Jack Livingston, as Warren Kennedy, J. Barney, as Ellis Hopper, and Dorcas Matthews, as Blanche Calloway.

The story: Neva Blake is a dancer in a cheap cabaret. She is constantly telling her fortune with cards and always a wealthy man appears in the cards who offers her her fortune and fortune. The wealthy society man drifts into the cabaret. He is drinking to forget a silly butterfly who has broken her engagement with him to wed the son of Ellis Hopper. A plot to get revenge occurs to Kennedy and he takes Neva away, educates her and has her become engaged to Hopper. Neva pleads to be saved from her unwelcome bridgroom, but Kennedy tells her she is either Hopper or the slums for her future. On the wedding day she simulates drunkenness, disgraces Hopper, and is finally rescued by Kennedy, who has been pondering over his note to come and save her.

"The Little Pirate" is a production just right for the children's program. Zoe Rae, a capable little star, is cast in the lead and her pranks should prove interesting to the children, as well as adults. She is surrounded by a capable cast including Charles West, Frank Brownlee, Gretchen Lederer, Mr. Titus and Lilian Peacocks. The picture is produced by Elsie Jane Wilson.

The story: After a stormy scene Virginia Baird leaves her husband. Margery, the little daughter is determined to bring her mother back. She starts off with her pony. On the way she chases a rabbit and her horse wanders away. While walking she is told to halt by a pirate, who proves to be "Captain Kidd," a lad of her own size. She becomes his first mate. Before long, however, Margery becomes homesick and they return. The return of little Margery, who is believed drowned, affects a reconciliation between the parents.

A fairly well developed mystery plot is found in "The Mysterious Mr. Tiller." No doubt patrons will enjoy the suspense in the outcome of this story. Until the end of the film is reached it is hard to guess what the outcome of the plot will be. Rupert Julian is starred, supported by Ruby Ciford, Frank Brownlee, Wedgewood Howell, Harry Rattenbury and E. A. Warren. Story by Elliott J. Clawson. Direction is by Rupert Julian.

A TENSE MOMENT IN "THE MYSTERIOUS MR. TILLER" (BLUEBIRD)

The story: Clara Hawthorne, foreign detective, Prentice Tiller, special agent, and Stephen Pitt, detective are on the trail of Ramon Mordant, a diamond thief. At a fashionable reception Pitt suspects Tiller and follows him. Tiller escapes and traces Mordant to his hiding place. By a clever ruse he is able to trap the notorious thief and turn him over to the police. Clara Hawthorne has led Tiller to believe that she is a member of Mordant's band, believing that she could capture the criminal herself. However, when the young people discover each other's identity Tiller allows Clara to have all credit of the arrest and the picture has a pleasant and suitable ending.

Basil King's book, "The Lifted Veil," had little to recommend it as a novel and its adaptation to the screen by Albert Shelby-LeVine has still less appeal. The plot is a mediocrity. Miss Barrymore, who is in the main a first-rate actress, is saddled with an uninteresting role and one the reviewer would hesitate to recommend to any exhibitor. From beginning to end there is little to hold the interest.

Robert Hichens' well-known novel, "Barbary Sheep," has been adapted to the screen and Arctcraft Pictures Corporation has made of it a high-class play. As a matter of fact, the production is too high class to meet the favor of the everyday motion picture enthusiast. It is true the story is intense and interesting, but in looking to the details of beauty and art the essential thing—human appeal—has been lost.

To the blase audience or to the audience of a highly intellectual type, great success can be predicted for this production, but to the audience who does not care about beauty of settings and photography and the value of dramatic climaxes "Barbary Sheep" will prove uninteresting. While at times Miss Ferguson is quite camera-conscious, she carries her part through quite well. Lumsden Hare, Pedro de Cordoba, Macey Harlan, Alex Shannon and Maude Ford gave capable support. The scenario is by Charles Maigrie; direction by Maurice Tourneur.

The story: It is the London social season closes Kathryn suggests to her husband that they take a trip to Africa, and when Sir Claude learns that there is excellent hunting, the pair book passage. Out on the desert Kathryn meets Bengaiaal, who is not one that will quench their desire for an undesirable embrace. Sir Claude is about to fire at Bengaiaal, when he is killed by a crazed merchant. Reconciliation and a happy reunion take place between Kathryn and Sir Claude.

"The Rainbow Girl" is a cheerful story. It is not a heavy drama. It has been produced as a comedy-drama, and doubt much of the humor of the situation will be appreciated by audiences. This is the first appearance of Miss Day before the camera. At times she is too conscious of the camera, but as the production goes on she wears off. Miss Day photographs beautifully. Other members of the cast are George Fisher, Charles Bennett, Lillian Hayward, Louis Moriss, Emil Clus, Charles Kluge and Marie Robertson. Direction by Rollie S. Sturgeon.

The story: Mary Beth rents out the spare room in her house when she learns that her father has lost his position. Richard, who has been her fiancé, returns from an exhausting expedition. Not finding Kathryn in the apartment, he becomes suspicious and out upon the mountain he sees Bengaiaal and Kathryn in the desert below. Bengaiaal endeavors to take Kathryn but overhead Sir Claude is about to fire at Bengaiaal, when he is killed by a crazed merchant. "THE DEFEAT OF THE CITY"

General-Broadway Star Feature. O. Henry drama; four parts; published September 8

As a whole ........................................... Fine
Story ................................................... Exceedingly Screening ............................................. Excellent
Support ................................................ Excellent
Settings ............................................... Excellent
Photography ......................................... Sharp

Whether one has lived in the city, the country or both, "The Defeat of the City" should refresh the mind, sharpen one's vision and give back any lost enthusiasm. In the name of all that is big and beautiful in nature and in clean, wholesome living, everybody should see this picture. O. Henry has written a virile, inspiring story for a picture and Thomas R. Mills has translated it into one of the most entertaining pictures of the season. Mr. Mills' direction is careful in the foundation scenes and the matchless climax. From start to finish it is illuminating.

The cast is an especially good one. Agnes Eyre and J. Frank Glendon in the leading roles are sympathetic in their work. They are ably supported by Frank Chapman, Mrs. Fisher, Frank Heath, Mary Cunningham and Blanche Spring.

Careful and typical characterization were given both in quiet country scenes and in the big crowds at the races. There is unusual variety in colorful locations and settings.

The story: Rolfe Walmsley, at the end of six years in the hard, snobbish, artificial city, has won a fortune—a daughter of the old burghers, Robert feels that he has achieved the ultimate in success and happiness. Some time after their exceedingly formal married life has been carried on with ceremony, she excuses herself, and goes to see her Robert, feeling suddenly disgraced in her eyes, that he has been unmasked by his own actions, that the formality she admired most in him has been blown away by the fresh country breeze, grows quiet. He follows Alicia up-stairs, prepared to meet his fate in her disapproval. She is standing at the window, in the moonlight. Robert silently takes his place beside her. Instead of the cool disapproval he had anticipated, he finds in this dignified little wife an unexpected response to the real manhood the country had made him express and most informally and adorably she slips into his arms and asks him for something better than Robert's formal ceremony of a kiss—a real kiss from "just Bob."
Viola lives in a den in her apartment. It’s hard to say whether it is the den or her clothes and beauty that attracts men. She is a woman, and she keeps one maid busy delaying them admittance over the phone. She came to the city on the same train that brought Anita, a demure little miss, played by Dorcas Matthews, and determined to make good, and be bad to do it. If success is measured by clothes Viola surpassed all expectations. George Webb is not at all convincing as Curtis Ralston, “a brilliant author and playwright,” but the balance of Miss Glaum’s support is good.

“Idolaters” is a salacious, slimy story that has no place upon the screen. It teaches nothing, holds up wrong ideals and is simply a vehicle to display Louise Glaum’s shapely limbs in clinging gowns. The story is considerably padded, one particularly long scene being a discussion between the author and the vampire over a play, and the whole is poor and not convincing. As shown at a Chicago “loop” theater the film had evidently suffered at the hands of the censors’ shears, as it was very jumpy in continuity.

The story: Viola goes to New York determined to get to the top at any cost. She soon is established in a sumptuous flat with an East Indian den and an Egyptian servant. An old friend whom she occasionally backs her in a play. The author of the play falls in love with Viola, and he soon forges his patient, loving wife, although she has helped him write the play which has brought Viola success. When her popularity wanes, Viola kills Ralston, after refusing to give him up to Anita, who pleads for her husband. She and the Egyptian servant escape and live in squall quarters until the police find them and then the servant kills Viola.

Sammies on Way to France and Latest War News in Gaumont Reels for Week of Sept. 24

On the road to Berlin, via France. Our soldier boys are everywhere, in camp, on the high seas, even at the very edge of Europe. One of them, the subject of a cartoon here, has come among men are with them to keep the home folks posted as to their movements. The people have come to look forward to the issuance of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly on Wednesday each week, and they can safely expect that when Weekly, 143 is published September 26 they will not be disappointed in its contents. As the Weekly is “made up” at the last moment, like a daily newspaper, it is not possible to predict its contents.

The next day later the Gaumont film magazine, “Reel Life,” will be issued. It is the policy of the Gaumont-Mutual Observatory to make the subjects in this film as diversified as possible, no two similar subjects appearing in a single issue. “Reel Life” No. 74 will reach the screen September 27, with a diversity of subjects. “The Correct Time” shows how the U. S. Naval Observatory determines exact noon each day and flashes it throughout the country. “Beans and Lady-Bugs” illustrates how the common lady-bug is working to prevent a shortage in the market which makes Boston famous. The film also shows how “The Lamprey,” a blood-sucking fish, is doing its best to deplete the food supply. In “Making Eyeglasses” we are familiarized with a novel industry, and shown how even the poorest of us may duplicate the best natural sight. “The Soldier’s Staff of Life” entitled “Mixed Up” shows how many crutches. “So Easy,” an animated drawing from “Life,” America’s humorous magazine, completes the reel.

MISSES FISCHER, DAY AND HOLMES, BIG STARS IN DRAMA, COMEDY, SERIAL FILMS ON MUTUAL SCHEDULE SEPT. 17

Mutual’s schedule for the week of September 17 contains three productions of unusual interest. Margarita Fischer, whose productions have been interrupted by illness, is starred in “The Girl Who Couldn’t Grow Up,” a five-reel comedy-drama listed for Monday, September 17.

Juliette Day, of stage note, stars in “The Rainbow Girl,” a five-reel drama scheduled for the same date.

“The Lost Express,” the first chapter of the new fifteen chapter Signal-Mutual photodrama, is scheduled for first run Monday, September 17.

The schedule for the week includes “Officer Jerry,” a one-reel Cub comedy, Mutual Weekly, the current events reel and Reel Life, the one-reel magazine of film.

Miss Fischer in “The Girl Who Couldn’t Grow Up” Miss Fischer comes back in pants. “The Girl Who Couldn’t Grow Up” is a lively comedy and provides Miss Fischer with a role well suited to her abilities. She wears middy and trousers, and an oversized dress suit. She is a mischievous college girl, loved by a British nobleman who incarcerates in his castle’s place is being lavishly entertained by the girl’s stepmother and her daughters at papa’s home in the mountains. The plot brings in a dozen intricate and comical situations, which provide Miss Fischer with splendid chances for fast comedy.

Juliette Day in “The Rainbow Girl” Miss Day, star in “Upstairs and Down” during its successful run on both East and West Coasts early in the spring to produce a series of pictures for the American Film Company for Mutual. “The Rainbow Girl” is the first completed for presentation. “The Rainbow Girl” deals with a stage of young children who think that the other loved someone else. She was poor and people was poorer—a musician at that—and the way they get to know each other was because she had to rent an attic room to help carry a regularly budget and he was looking for the cheapest house he could find. The picture was directed by Mr. Rollin S. Sturgeon.

“The Lost Express” Opens New Serial

“The Lost Express,” the first chapter of the new film for the week of September 17, has been pronounced a fine photodrama by the reviewers who have seen the opening chapters. It opens with the mysterious disappearance of a trainload of valuable documents. A band of pirates has raised the laboratories of old General Thurston to steal his formula for granulated gasoline and the old general himself has been shot in the fight. His daughter, Helen, played by Miss Helen Holmes, orders that the documents in his safe be sent to a safety vault in a nearby city and charters a train to take them. Between stations the whole train disappears.

“The Lost Express” will be issued, a chapter at a time, for fifteen weeks. The chapters are in two reels each.

Comedy and Two Topicals

The Cub comedy, “Officer Jerry,” for Sept. 20, gives George Ovey the role of a masquerading policeman in which he goes through a series of humorous situations. Reel Life No. 73, the film Sept. 20, carries scenes showing the making of army rifles, running an aeroplane without danger, portrays the principle of the gyrooscope and animated drawings from life. Mutual Weekly, scheduled for Sept. 19, includes current events up to the time the reel is assembled.

“The Twisted Soul.” a Psychological Drama, with Brownie Vernon, to Be Directed by Allen Holubar

Director Allen J. Holubar’s next production will be entitled “The Twisted Soul,” the story of which is by J. Grubb Alexander, entitled My Life and My Man. It is a psychological drama in which heredity figures to a considerable extent and it will be produced in five reels.

Director Holubar’s star in “The Twisted Soul” will be Miss Brownie Vernon, who although the only woman in the production, will be supported by a good cast, among whom will be Murdock MacQuarrie and William Garwood, two former well-known actors and directors of the Universal Company, who have returned to the fold.

Vernon will be a lead opposite Miss Vernon and the principal character lead will be in the hands of MacQuarrie.

CHILD STAR IN "TURN OF A CARD"

Eleanor Crowe, fourteen years old, who attracted much attention in several Fox productions, plays the ingenue role of "Millie Jarvis" in J. Warren Kerrigan's Paralta production of Frederic Chapin's "Turn of a Card."
"THE PULLMAN MYSTERY," A FEATURE DRAMA, LEADS UNIVERSAL'S MIXED PROGRAM FOR WEEK OF SEPT. 17

"The Pullman Mystery," a Gold Seal drama scheduled Tuesday, September 18, heads Universal's schedule for the week of the 17th. On the previous day, published under other arrangements, "The Spindle of Life" is the regular Butterfly feature for the week. "The Pullman Mystery" was written by Robert Von Sole and Jack Cunningham, Charles Swickard being the director in charge. An excellent cast, including Molly Malone, Larry Peyton, Hayward Mack and Ray Hanford, is provided. The story is built around the masquerading adventures of Pete, who, as a result of a recent incident of murder, the immediate circumstances of which seemed to incriminate him. However, he clears himself through some interesting incidents.

Comedy Scheduled Same Day

A clothes-changing episode under decidedly different circumstances is one of the high spots in the Nestor one-reel comedy, "Welcome Home," issued the same day. Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are featured, with Eddie Roberts playing the part of Eddie's innocent wife who didn't get Eddie's letter announcing his return—because Eddie never mailed it.

The film for Wednesday, September 19, is a two-reel L-Ko comedy entitled, "A Prairie Chick." Miriam LaSalle plays the part of the "Chicken," who pays a visit to her blase city relatives and shocks them by indulging in all her ranch accomplishments, even to shooting at the feet of the butler. She reinstates herself the only woman in the district when she brings to a thief who has stolen her aunt's jewels, pursues him to the edge of a drawbridge, ropes him and recovers the gems.

"Marathon Maniacs," a Victor comedy, is scheduled for Friday, September 21. Max Asher, Dave Morris and Gladys Tenneyson are featured. Universal Screen Magazine No. 37 is scheduled the same day.

For Saturday, September 22, a thrilling Bison drama, "The Lady in the Night Rider's" is the offering. It is a story of the night-riding days in Kentucky, in which the course of true love is decidedly ruffled by the enmity between the riders and the officers of the law. "Circus Sarah," a Joker comedy, which is laid under the "big top," completes the week's program.

"A CONTENTED WOMAN" IS TITLE OF SELIG-HOYT COMEDY ISSUED THROUGH K.-E.-S.-E. SEPTEMBER 17

"A Contended Woman" is the title of the Selig comedy issued Monday, September 17, through K.-E.-S.-E. Service. The comedy is considered one of the cleverest written by Charles Hoyt, the noted American playwright.

The cast includes Wm. Fables as Uncle Todie; James Harris as Benton Holme, and Amy Dennis as Helena Wrangle, the stage beauty. There is promised a wealth of comical situations and clear-cut photography. The plot, in brief, concerns Uncle Todie and his wife, Aunt Jim. An argument ensues whether man is or is not superior to woman. It results in the men folks remaining at home to prepare the evening meal. They fail of course and enter a contest. At the theater Uncle Todie and Benton Holme discover Helena Wrangle, leading lady. When four irate landlords from four small towns arrive and threaten to tie up the show, Uncle Todie proves an easy victim and, with Helena Wrangle's help, rids his peril. When Aunt Jim arrives and there is difficulty trying to stall her and get Helena out by disguising her as a chair. When success comes and Uncle Todie is giving Aunt Jim the lecture of her life about the superiority of man, the caterer comes in with dinner and spoils the situation.

"SPINDE OF LIFE," NEW BUTTERFLY FEATURE WITH BEN WILSON WILL BE PUBLISHED ON SEPTEMBER 17

Ben Wilson is the featured player of "The Spindle of Life," the Butterfly picture scheduled for September 17. He will be supported by Neva Gerber, Richard La Reno and Hayward Mask, who have prominent parts in a well-selected cast.

The Spindle of Life" is a picturization of Sidney Robinson's novella, "Gladsome," arranged for the screen by Karl Coolidge and produced by George Cochrane.

It tells the story of the unconventional meeting of Gladys Tennyson, an interesting young tomboy heires, and "Alphabet" Carter, crown prince of America's financial realm, in a quaint seaside town. Gladys' mother, a wealthy widow, tries to bring her daughter up according to the latest approved mode of the smart set, but Gladys would rather knock around in overalls with her old pals, the fishermen, than drink pink tea out of a Soissons tea-cup. This is a sore trial to mother, who would like to see Gladys safely married to Vincent Bradshaw, the tiresomely correct son of her financial adviser.

One day on the sands, Gladys meets an interesting stranger, and they strike up a friendship which develops along unexpected lines when the girl asks the "sandman" to help her devise a way to foil her mother and the Bradshaws. The way out of the resulting tangle is the occasion for considerable fun, in street-car workers' good dramatic work in which both Wilson and Miss Gerber score.

CURRENT NEWS IS GRAPHICALLY PICTURED IN UNIVERSAL REELS

Practical lessons in the art of cooking and handling food, demonstrated by a corps of experienced cooks for the benefit of the new American army, furnish one of the most interesting features of the 8th issue of the Universal Animated Weekly, just issued. These pictures were posed exclusively for the Animated Weekly, and present many human interest bits, besides imparting much valuable information.

In the same issue, Anna Case, whom many consider the most beautiful of the younger American opera singers, is shown singing for the New Jersey troops at Sea Girt. Some effective close-up segments of Anna's remarkable voice are included.

The recent championship tennis match between Molla Bjurstedt and Mary K. Browns at Forest Hills, L. I., has been graphically recorded in a series of views of the struggling players.

Other subjects are scenes taken during the recent parade of veteran car workers with their wives and babies in San Francisco; pictures of the wreck of the grain steamer Soone at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan; the review of British volunteers from America, recently held in London; and the ceremonies in connection with the welcoming of the Japanese envoy in Washington. The reel is concluded with one of Hy Mayer's timely cartoons.

ESSAYEN WILLL RE-ISSUE CHAPLIN FILMS, STARTING WITH "CHAMPION" SEPT. 15: ONE MONTH TO FOLLOW

Essayan has bowed to the call of the public for its Charlie Chaplin comedies and will put out new prints of all the Essayan-Chaplin productions. The first one will be offered Sept. 15, and one a month will be issued thereafter. "The Champion," with a screen time of approximately thirty minutes, will head the program.

This will be followed by other equally humorous comedies, including "In the Park," "By the Sea," "A Woman," "Shanghaied," "The Elopement," "The Bank," "A Night in the Show," and others. They will be distributed through the General Film Company, Inc.

In "The Champion" Charlie is a "white hope." On the way to the gymnasium for a try-out he picks up a horsehoe for such a quaint "champion," puts all other applicants to sleep. Charlie takes his turn, but he slips his horsehoe into his glove. He wallops the brute when he is not looking, administering knock-out. Because of his wonderful punch he is selected as the champion. At the champion, in the ring, the dog takes a ring-side seat. Chaplin begins to get the worst of it and the dog takes a hand. With the aid of the dog he administers a haymaker and is declared champion of the world.

Essayan Company has issued a warning that it will prosecute any person, taking, distributing or renting souvenir or unauthorized Essayan-Chaplin comedies. It will aid the company in its fight for picture honesty if exhibitors will kind report such abuses.
ESSANAY PRODUCING LIGHT COMEDY FILMS TO LIGHTEN WAR WORRY AND GLOOM FROM PUBLIC’S MIND

BY GEORGE K. SPOR

Never has the world been so in need of humor as under present depressing crisis. The burden of war has spread a shadow of gloom over the nation which will not be entirely lifted until the last firing of the gun. The public is satiated with the tragic, the heavy and depressing photo plays. It is filled with the tragedies of the war. Its leisure moments it wants to be entertained; it wants to get away from the gloomy things. Consequently a universal desire has sprung up for humorous, plays, plays of everyday life, with fascinating plots and spirit of bouyancy.

Works of Note

Essanay has responded to this universal appeal with comedy-dramas that carry clean, genuine and enlivening humor. do this it has obtained the works of such writers as George E. Henry Irving Dodge, Clarence Budington Kelland, Robert Whiting, George Barr McCutcheon, Samuel Merwin, their Stringer and many others.

Many new humorists undoubtedly will be developed, as it is the case during such times, and Essanay is ever on the lookout for them. And Essanay will continue in the search for humorous stories in the best magazines and books of the day, not neglecting to encourage similar efforts of writers.

Comedy Successes Prove Idea

Not the least of its efforts has been to develop its players the lines and to seek others from both screen and stage, among its present staff of leading players who have shown decided bent in interpreting light comedy-dramas are Bryant Ashburn, Taylor Holmes, who made such a success in "His younger brother," and Marian McCutcheon, "The Golden Idiot," "Effie Edgar’s Courtship," "The Breaker," "Little Shoes," and many others of similar type.

*TOM AND JERRY MIX,” FOXY COMEDY SHOWS EXPERT RIDER IN FEATS

"Tom and Jerry Mix," the latest Henry Lehman Sunnyme Comedy of William Fox, shows Tom Mix and his horse, Mix, riding in stunts and equestriennes in a mix-up on a beach at a summer resort.

Tom and Jerry sell some horses to the government and ride that since money is the root of all evil, they had better get rid of it, so they visit the beach. Tom is in love with Daisy and decides to take her along despite the protests of Daisy’s father and the obstacles put in his way by the sheriff. The sheriff, unfortunately for Tom, also loves Daisy.

At the beach, the boys send the girl to shop while they go to a hotel for refreshments. Tom and Jerry are in such a hurry that they jump to a long carpet on which stand a number of beautiful girls. A stilt rope connects the tongs to a pommel of one of the saddles and before the girls notice it, they are in the air.

Meanwhile, the sheriff and Daisy’s father are in hot pursuit, but wrath turns to forgiveness when Daisy’s father is the gallant rescue in the surf which Tom makes.

Others in the cast are Victoria Forde, Pat Chrisman and Sid Jordan.

OTHAPFEL’S N. Y. RIALTO THEATER RUNS “EFFICIENCY EDGAR'S COURTSHIP”

"Efficiency Edgar’s Courtship," Edward Othapfel’s first venture with Harold Holmes, has been on the marquee, has gotten under way in manner highly satisfactory to its producers. Released September 3, the comedy-drama had a week’s run at Rothapelfe’s Alto Theatre, New York, where, owing to the Broadway popularity of the star, it is reported to have drawn capacity business.

E. C. Bostick, managing the Merrill theatre in Milwaukee, exceeded its four days’ showing of the picture with elaborate newspaper and billboard advertising and reports that the "edgar" film packed his house throughout the run. He has ranged for a return date.

THE WEEK’S BEST PICTURES

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Aractra, Five Reels, with Mary Pickford—The best thing Mary has done. The P. A. writes: "Superb!" It is that. Mary is cast perfectly; the story is fast; the adaptation cleverly done, while scenery, settings, photography, direction, and general action is excellent. Paste the colored paper on the boards out front, and smile while the change clappers into the box office and the page of gold is turned.

In the Big Money Places This Week

"A Stormy Knight," Bluebird, with Franklyn Farmum.

"Barbary Sheep," Aractra, Five Reels, with Elsie Ferguson.

SCENARIO MATERIAL

Once upon a time there lived a happy family. It met in a conclave in Chicago. The family was housed too hard by one of its members picked to lead it. So, one giant defied the world and the giant was up and started the family, calling it the A. E. A. Another powerful clan invited the independent giant to join that clan. The lone giant, feeling his power, and already flushed with minor victories, bided his time.

Then one cold night (cold night adds dramatic atmosphere, and aids in selecting a picturesque snow set) just as the blood-red winter sun sinks below the cold rim of the world the A. E. A. giant thumped the huge door of the A. M. P. I. clan. The door was not locked and moved inward a trifle. Gathered about the great open hearth, sat the clan, whispering. Every member shivered when the thunders rap was heard.

During the snow-clad forest glade pranced thousands of sprites—the good fairies were called Exhibitor sprites—and they protected the interests of the great A. E. A. giant who leaned against the massive framework of the N. A. M. P. I. door waiting responses for the clock.

Inside the great woodland tavern there was much low argument, which the great A. E. A. giant could not hear. The leader of the clan before the hearth, called World, argued to let the new giant enter, but another evil force argued against it. The clan voted on the decision, while the great A. E. A. giant stood without. Suddenly the decision was reached by vote. The new giant heard footsteps, a hand was laid on the door, which swung slightly ajar, a head of a member of the clan was projected through the doorway, which shook a sad refusal. And, as the A. E. A. giant gazed, the head vanished, the great door closed, and he heard the bolts fall into their places.

While the blood-red sun fell below the rim of the world (for scene grandeur) the A. E. A. giant smiled, despite the fact that he was turned away, and the Exhibitor sprites many thousands of them—danced about him, singing as they danced. Then the giant plunged into the forest primeval, and with great boulders he built a strong foundation. All night the fairies worked with him, and their touch was magic, for when the first shafts of morning sunlight fell on the forest primeval they lighted the turrets of a new and magnificent castle. And so, the A. E. A. giant did not freeze to death in the snow-bound forest that night. The Exhibitor sprites knew of his good acts, and helped him build the most wonderful castle in all the forest, in which he lived happily ever after.

Pictures may come

Sh! Sh! Easy there, Watson. Ochs’ league is in secret session.
The activities of General Enterprises, Inc., have attracted considerable attention in film circles during the past month and interest culminated this week in the announcement by the firm that the United States and Canadian rights to "The Warrior," successor to "Cabiria," had been secured at a big purchase price.

The prime movers of General Enterprises, Inc., A. H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, propose to allot territorial rights to the master feature starring Maciste, the giant star of "Cabiria," and already offers from prominent buyers are being received at headquarters, 1600 Broadway, New York City. A technically planned exploitation campaign has been laid out by experts to properly assist exhibitors who will exhibit "The Warrior," and many advertising novelties of a "different" nature have been devised. This spectacular feature, controlled by General Enterprises, Inc., has been unanimously declared by New York theatrical and film critics a worthy successor to the famous "Cabiria," and Maciste actually outdoes himself in feats of strength.

To Erect Building

Of equal importance is the statement issued by A. H. Sawyer, to the effect that General Enterprises, Inc., has successfully negotiated a contract for the erection of a modern film building in Washington, D. C. This deal, highly significant to the Southern film trade, was closed Saturday, September 1, with Alonzo C. Mather of Chicago. The structure, to be known as the Mather Building, will be a ten-story affair, completely equipped with vaults, a series of projection rooms, telegraph offices, express facilities, and will be the last word in construction of this nature.

The announcement by Mr. Sawyer comes as a welcome piece of news to film men adjacent to the Washington territory, inasmuch as plans for a project of this kind have been discussed for the past few years, but nothing materialized until the negotiation was successfully completed recently by General Enterprises, Inc. Construction will commence on the new building Tuesday, September 4, located at 916 6 street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

GETS McClure Series

The new organization is rapidly increasing in scope in the buying of film rights and in line with this progress the foreign rights to the McClure Series of "The Seven Deadly Sins" have been acquired. This series, starring eminent players of the silent and spoken drama, has been shown throughout this country.

ANN MURDOCK AND DAVID POWELL STAR IN INITIAL EMPIRE FILM PLAY "OUTCAST"

Ann Murdock is supported by David Powell in "Outcast," the film which the Empire All-Star Corporation has selected to issue first to exhibitors through the Mutual Film Corporation.

In this drama, Miss Murdock has the role of Miriam, a girl who is accustomed to the refinements of life, who falls in love with a man and displays force of character not expected and aids him when he faces disaster.

David Powell delineates the role of Geoffrey, which he interpreted in the stage version as leading man for Elsie Ferguson. The film will be published September 10.

MADGE EVANS HAS STAR ROLE IN THE WORLD'S "LITTLE PATRIOT"

Shortly following the publication of "The Burglar" by World-Pictures Brady-Made, little Madge Evans will appear as the "Little Patriot." The heroine of this drama is castrated by her father, who is suspected of being a spy, not to say one word to anybody about herself, her home or her activities. When she subsequently goes out and is lost she adheres to this admonition, although suffering under many difficulties in doing so.

NEW $1,800 SEAT CHICAGO HOUSE OPENS WITH "CHARITY CASTLE"

The Irving theatre, a new 1,800 seat house, opened at Crawford avenue and Irving Park boulevard, Chicago, Sat- urday evening, September 1, with Mary Miles Minter in "Charity Castle," the first of Miss Minter's new series of Mutual American productions.

The Irving theatre is located in the heart of Irving Park, one of the most populous of Chicago's neighborhoods. It is one of the largest and most modern theatres outside of the Chicago "loop" and one of the completely equipped picture theatres in the United States. Careful attention has been paid to every detail of construction and equipment. The decorations are dainty tints of blue and pink on a cream background.

The theatre cost $200,000 and will be devoted exclusively to motion pictures. The management has announced a policy of showing only the highest type of production and selected "Charity Castle" for the inauguration of its policy.

Newark, N. J.—Work has been started on the addition to the Columbia motion picture theatre at 304-6 Walnut street. The improvements will cost $10,000, it is said.
EXHIBITORS BOOK "LOST EXPRESS" SERIAL WITH HELEN HOLMES AS MONEY GETTER

Theater Owners Throughout Country Book New Feature to Be Issued Sept. 17, Because of Box Office Success of Past Photonovels

Convinced by the money-making results of her last photonovel, exhibitors who booked Helen Holmes in "The Railroad Raiders" have been the first to sign contracts for her forthcoming serial, "The Lost Express," a fifteen-chapter mystery production scheduled for publication by Mutual September 17. Eliner G. Sell, manager of the Palace Theatre, at Youngstown, Ohio, was one of the first exhibitors to schedule "The Lost Express," and his booking is particularly significant in view of the fact that he will show the last chapter of "The Raiders" on September 15. Mr. Sell plans to show "The Lost Express" at least two days.

Says Holmes Serials Best

"I think the Helen Holmes serials are the strongest of any serials that I have ever run," says Mr. Sell. "I have booked the new Helen Holmes serial to follow 'The Railroad Raiders,' which I finish September 15. I am going to run 'The Lost Express' two days or more."

Ernest Schwartz, manager of the Erie Theatre, at Cleveland, Ohio, is another exhibitor who booked "The Lost Express" within a short time after it was announced. "I regard Helen Holmes as the greatest star appearing in motion picture serials and for that reason have lost no time in booking 'The Lost Express,'" says Mr. Schwartz. H. H. Lustig, manager of the Angela Theatre at Cleveland, has built up a remarkable Sunday patronage with Helen Holmes and has scheduled "The Lost Express" for his theatre. "I attribute the remarkable increase in my Sunday receipts to Helen Holmes and prefer a serial starring Helen Holmes to any other serial on the market," Mr. Lustig writes.

Star Is His Feature

"It's quite an accomplishment of showmanship to run a ten-cent house in a five-cent neighborhood, and William D. Scoville, manager of the Idle Hour Theatre at Kansas City, Mo., has won his laurels as a showman. 'Why shouldn't I like Helen Holmes?' Mr. Scoville asks, and answers his own question this way: 'Featuring her in serials on Mondays has made that my best paying day. Despite being on a five-cent street Helen Holmes day is always a ten-cent day for me.'"

CARLYLE BLACKWELL HAS BIG ROLE IN "THE BURGLAR" FILM

The biggest role that has fallen to Carlyle Blackwell in some time is the title part in "The Burglar," shortly to be published by World Pictures Brady-Made. Evelyn Greeley, the young leading lady, and little Madge Evans, the World's child star, are featured with Mr. Blackwell in this drama.

CHINESE REVOLUTION IN COLORED FILM IS TAKEN FOR PRIZMA BY DR. SALISBURY

"Have Fine Close-Ups of Fighting and Bursting Shells," Explorer Wires Concern; War Scenes Said to Eclipse Any Yet Flashed on Screens in America

Following an extended trip through China and Japan, Dr. Edward A. Salisbury, explorer and photographer, now is returning to America with what are said to be the most remarkable film records ever photographed in either of the Oriental countries. He has preserved for the first time in color pictures interesting travel topics, historical subjects, as well as the people themselves and their habits and peculiar customs. The films were taken exclusively for The Prizma, Inc. Dr. Salisbury had the good fortune to be in Pekin at the time of the recent uprising. Concerning this he cabled Carl H. Pierce recently: "I have the only camera here. Have fine close-ups of the fighting and bursting shells. Large footages. My camera is the only one in Pekin during all the trouble and I have taken several thousand feet and am still taking. It is all in color. Taken for The Prizma, Inc."

It is said this is the first time in history that a revolution in China or in any other country has been taken in color and the Prizma concern is enthusiastically awaiting Dr. Salisbury's arrival, because it is expected that these views of bursting shells and other battle scenes will give Americans and the public at large a better idea of actual fighting conditions than they exist than anything yet offered on the screen.

In the letter just received, telling of his departure from the Orient, Dr. Salisbury adds: "I am enclosing some pictures I have taken with a small Graflex. I believe no one else ever took or cared to take the chances I have to obtain these pictures, and you can bet that this lot of moving picture material from the front will be the finest lot ever taken in a battle field..."

"I am sending these by a special courier to Tinsin so that they can reach you promptly."
SYNOPSIS OF CURRENT RELEASES

"The Last of the Night Riders"—September 22 (two-reel Bison drama with Eileen Sedgwick).—The night Ted and Sue become engaged their fathers quarrel and each is forbidden to see the other. Sue's father joins the band of night raiders while Ted's father is forced to round him up with the rest of the raiders. In the evening Sue's mother is taken and the rider is sent for Ted, who is visiting with Sue, starts off to get Jim. Bob permits Jim to go back and Black takes the other. Black is appointed to blow up the warehouse and then the raiders are to escape. Black puts the bomb near the shack where Ted is located and after the explosion a search is made for Ted. A body is found and it is believed to be the body of Ted. When Jim and Bob reach home they are surprised to find Ted at the bedside of Mrs. Hoyle. Ted explains that it must be Black's body, as he and Black had a fight over Sue and Black was defeated.

FOX

"When False Tongues Speak"—September 8 (five-reel Fox drama, with Virginia Pearson).—Fred Walton is slain in his own home, but it is impossible to find the guilty person. At the time of the murder there were in the home Mary Walton, his estranged wife; Platt Sinclair, the lawyer who is to handle the divorce proceedings; Helen Lee, a young artist with whom Walton was infatuated; Eric Mann, a young reporter, rapidly falling in love with Mrs. Walton, and Jimmy Hope, a burglar paying a professional visit to the Walton home.

PARAMOUNT

"Camping"—September 10 (one-reel Klever comedy, with Victor Moore).—Vic and his family decide to go camping. They pack the necessary camping things in his Ford and start off. A tent is erected and a trench built around it. That night, when the family sleeps, it begins to rain harder than it ever did before. The trench has been constructed the wrong way and the water all runs into the tent. Then a strong gale blows away the tent—and the family is left standing in the rain. Vic and his family crawl under the Ford and manage to keep dry.

TRIANGLE

"Mountain Dew"—September 16 (five-reel drama with Margery Wilson).—Hamilton Vance, a magazine writer, takes a trip through Kentucky, and is about to leave, when he meets Roxie Bradley, daughter of the squire. He determines to stay, and when he learns that the town is in need of a school teacher he secures the position. Some of the men endeavor to incite the neighbors against him by saying he is a federal agent, but the squire champions him, only to turn against him when he learns that Vance is teaching Roxie to read. Roxie and Vance are married and then he is again accused of being a federal agent, but he informs them that he is a moonshiner, since he is one of the family.

"Flying in Colors"—September 28 (five-reel drama, with William Desmond).—Brent Brewster, a young athlete, is turned away from his cousin's home by his cousin. As a last resort he applies to his friend, Jimmy McMahon, head of a detective agency. On his looks Jimmy makes Brewster a detective. They become guests at the Lancing home and are able to capture Drake, a notorious gentleman burglar who has long been sought for by the police. During his stay at the Lancing home Brewster meets Lancing's sister, Anne, but considers the case hopeless when he learns how much money Anne is worth. However, the death of Brewster's cousin gives him the required amount and Anne and Brewster pledge their troth.

List of Production with Big Stars Insures Exhibitor a Definite Program for Twenty-one Weeks; Biggest Number of Advance Material Made by Single Producer

World Pictures Brady-Made now are completed for publication far beyond the beginning of 1919. This is the result of steady accumulation in following out the policy long ago established by Director-General William A. Brady, under which the rate of manufacture has been considerably in excess of the volume of issue. The outcome has been brought about not by speeding up the making of each picture—which might have affected the quality of the product to some extent—but by increasing the number of plays simultaneously in process of production. For months the world studio and outdoor stage at Port Lee have been occupied constantly by at least six working photoplay companies all the time. The situation thus developed places World Pictures in a very advantageous position. It enables the director-general to correct any minor defects that may come to notice on repeated private showings of the new pictures, permits of a complete shift of publications whenever a particularly timely play comes along, as for instance "Rasputin, the Black Monk," and supplies a constantly swelling list of tangible assets.

Films for Twenty-one Weeks

Following are the World Pictures Brady-Made, in the order of their publication up to and including the week of February 11 of next year:

Greatest Advance Outlay

This list insures a definite program for twenty-one weeks, which is said the offices of World Pictures to embrace a much greater number of films than were ever made in advance by any other picture producing company.

THREE NEW UNITS WILL BE ADDED TO PARALTA AT COAST

Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., and S. H. Moore, president of the Triangle Distributing Corporation, have made a flying trip to Los Angeles, inspecting the producing studios allied with their interests. Mr. Anderson will shortly organize three additional producing units under Paralta direction to bring the Paralta studios at Hollywood up to their capacity limit.

NEW ALICE BRADY FILM RETITLED FROM "REFUGEE" TO "MAID OF BELGIUM"

A recently completed Alice Brady photoplay for World Pictures now is called "A Maid of Belgium" instead of "The"; November 26, Kitty Gordon at first titiled. The scene is laid in the Belgian monastery at the present time.

A fire which ravaged the business section of Estuary, Sask., recently, also destroyed the new Sunset Theatre, causing a total loss of $30,000. This theatre was opened only five weeks before the fire broke out. A new theatre is now in the course of erection and the proprietors can be commended on their enterprise in going ahead with this work in the face of such complete loss.

The Globe Theatre, Portage Ave., Winnipeg, formerly managed by Geo. H. Banister, is being taken over by Mr. Graham, proprietor of the Classic Theatre, Winnipeg. Mr. Graham is spending a considerable amount of money in remodeling the theatre and has changed the name from the Globe to the Avenue.

Guelph, Ont., is to have another theatre. The new theatre will seat about 900 persons and is of modern structure. It will be opened some time in September.

The Windsor Theatre, Windsor, Ont., which was recently destroyed by fire, has been repaired and opened September 1.

F. G. Walkley, western manager for the Canadian Universal Film Co., has returned West after having made arrangements for the handling of the Fall and Winter business in the West. Mr. Walkley will stop off at Winnipeg on his way through. His headquarters are at Calgary, Alta.

State rights Features of Canada announce that Mr. J. Belmont will represent that company in the western territory.

“Come Through,” featuring Herbert Kavelinson, is going strong in Canada. She's Hippodrome Theatre, Toronto, has booked this attraction for week of September 24. Some splendid bookings have also been made in other parts of Ontario.

The Bluebird Special “Mother ‘o’ Mine” is booked solid in Ontario until Xmas. Day Manager, McKenny, of the Bluebird Photoplays, Toronto, has worked hard to put this splendid picture across big in his territory, and the results he has achieved in the past two weeks are very gratifying. This Bluebird, wherever it has been shown, has drawn great business and brought forth words of praise from theatregoers everywhere.

Claire Hague, general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Co., Ltd. left Toronto Tuesday, September 4, to attend the “Club of the Motion Picture Exhibitors’ League of the Maritime Provinces, which opened in St. John, N. B., September 5. Mr. Hague will spend a few days at the Montreal branch of the Canadian Universal Film Co.

Toronto, Ont.—Upon the completion of the first year's operation of the Regent Theatre, Toronto, on September 3, Manager Roland Roberts announced a new policy for the big downtown house. One of the principal features is the advance sale of tickets for Saturday matinees at 25c, instead of 25c, for the ground floor, and admissions to the mezzanine for 35c and 15c. Matinee prices, except on Saturdays and holidays, are 15c and 10c, and on the special days the matinee prices are 25c and 15c. Reserved loge chairs at evening performances are 30c.

The new programme includes a symphony concert every afternoon for half an hour, starting at 4:15, and a solo number at every performance by a special artist. Manager Roberts also states that he will insist on absolutely first run pictures, simultaneously with New York dates whenever possible.

Montreal, Que.—A third salesman has been added to the staff of the Montreal K-E-S-E office in the person of Bert Ma- son, who was formerly associated with the Mutual branch in Montreal. The other outside men under Manager Arthur Reddy are Arthur Loret and Phil Magher. It is announced that the K-E-S-E in Montreal is now running seventeen reels per week.

Montreal, Que.—A gold ring being exhibited in a glass show case in front of the Mount Royal Theatre, Montreal, was stolen as mysteriously as it disappeared in the Pathe serial, “The Fatal Ring.” The management offered a reward of $10 and advertised extensively that it had been stolen. The advertisement secured through this theft was worth far more than the value of the original ornament.

Toronto, Ont.—The operator of the Bonita Theatre, Toronto, was rewinding a reel, when an explosion occurred which partially destroyed the theatre on Saturday afternoon, September 1, during the matinee performance. The audience escaped quickly and without mishap through the various exits. However, G. T. McNally, the proprietor, was painfully burned about the hands and face when he attempted to extinguish the blaze. The feature destroyed was Clara Kimball Young's "The Price She Paid." The loss to the building amounted to $400.

Calgary, Alta., had "Gray Ghost Days" on Friday and Saturday, August 31 and September 1, when the first episode of the Universal serial was presented at the Princess Theatre. One of the stunts arranged by the management was the distribution of street car tickets, good for ninety minute rides on a special scenic trolley, to the first 125 children who purchased admission tickets after 4 p.m., and a similar number who bought admission tickets at the box office after 7 p.m. The theatre was crowded all day. There were many children in line before the appointed hour each time there were trolley tickets. The children were given their rides on the Saturday morning and the sight-seeing car carried banners advertising the first episode of the serial. The children made the noise necessary to attract attention. The theatre management employed experienced matrons to safeguard the children's welfare.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Dominion Theatre here has started once more its popular Saturday morning matinees for children. An entirely different program is frequently arranged in order to please the children, and the entire staff of employees is always in attendance to take proper care of the juveniles. This point is well advertised, so that mothers will feel at ease in sending their children to the theatre without a guardian. A ninety-minute show is always provided.

MONTAGU LOVE IS RE-ENGAGED FOR WORLD PHOTOPLAYS

Montagu Love has been re-engaged for World-Pictures Brady-Made under a contract covering the next twenty-four months. During this period Mr. Love will be either starred or featured in all productions in which he takes part, and the agreement also provides for a substantial increase in the monetary compensation for his services.

MADAME PETROVA PICKS PLAYERS FOR FILM TO BE PUBLISHED LATE IN OCTOBER

Star Using Biograph Studio in New York to Produce Initial Play Under Her Personal Supervision; Noted Players to Appear in Big Cast

Madame Petrova is now using the Biograph Studio in New York to produce the first of the pictures to be made under her personal supervision. In this first Petrova Picture the star plays the part of a beautiful American girl, the daughter of an American Ambassador, who carries her American ideals with her to Europe, and who emerges victorious from her conflict with European statecraft. Those who have read the scenario of the play and watched the first stages of its filming have expressed the opinion that Petrova has in this part of a democratic American girl the greatest opportunity any cinema drama has thus far afforded her for the display of her great emotional powers.

Is October Film

The first Petrova picture will be ready for publication the latter part of October. Petrova has personally selected the following cast: Thomas Holding, a leading man, will play the part of the prince who succumbs to the charms of the beautiful American. Mr. Holding played with Miss Clara Kimball Young in "Magda" and with Pauline Frederick in "The Moment Before." Robert Broderick plays the part of an American Ambassador. Mr. Broderick supported Francis Wilson, Jefferson de Angeles, James T. Powers, Lulu Glaser, and several others. He also played in "The Northern Lights," in Charles Frohman's production "To Have and to Hold," and with Virginia Harned in "Alice of Old Vincennes."

Anders Randolf will play the part of Franz Jorn, an artist. Mr. Randolf, who is a well known portrait painter and also a noted fencing master, was with the Vitagraph for four and a half years, playing character parts and heavy leads. Henri Leone plays the part of the police agent. Mr. Leone is a well known baritone and has played for a number of years in grand and comic opera.

Other Film Players

Richard Garrick plays the part of Graham West, Secretary to the American Minister. Mr. Garrick has been twelve years on the stage with Frohman and Leibler; six years in pictures as director for various companies, and supervising director for Gaumont.

Carl Dietz plays the part of a secret service operative. Mr. Dietz has played in pictures with Metro, Famous Players, etc.

Warren Cook has the part of the American Minister to Belmark. Mr. Cook has had a number of years' experience on the legitimate stage. He has also had considerable experience in motion pictures.

Anita Allen is the maid. Miss Allen played with John Barrymore in "Raffles" and was the French maid in "The Girl in the Taxi."
PORTLAND HOTEL
SUPPLIES SCENES
FOR ELTINGE FILM

Some of the scenes of Julian Eltinge’s forthcoming production were laid in a prominent hotel in Portland, Ore. The company, under the direction of Donald Crisp, journeyed to that city for the purpose of filming the interior of the hotel.

THE PLAY IS THE THING—AND NOT PLAYERS, ANNOUNCES HOFFMAN IN LISTING FILMS

“Stars” Are Numerous in Foursquare Pictures Without Seeking to Make Them Principal Factors in Productions; P. V. R. Key Explains Policy

Players of reputation and of ability, designated by the motion picture public as “stars,” are numerous in the Hoffman-Foursquare pictures, it is announced. Without seeking to make the star the principal factor in a feature, M. H. Hoffman, Inc., insists that where it is possible to utilize the services of a star to advantage that such procedure is commendable.

P. V. R. Key, manager of sales and advertising of M. H. Hoffman, Inc., says that the list of artists appearing in Hoffman-Foursquare pictures are sufficient to satisfy even the “fan” who likes a star —providing the story and the production are both of high quality.

“In ‘The Sin Woman,’” said Mr. Key,
“the people have Irene Fenwick, Reina Davies and Clifford Bruce. Here is a tri-star offering in cast which exhibitors tell us is excellent and that gives the utmost satisfaction to patrons.

Calls Lewis Star

“Edgar Lewis really is the star of ‘The Bar Sinister,’ although this direc-tor’s leading artists—Hedda Nova, Mitchell Lewis, Victor Sutherland, Jules Cowles and Florence St. Leonard—interpret their roles far better than some much higher salaried men and women appearing in pictures who are unjustly termed ‘stars.’

“Jane Grey is the principal player in ‘Her Fighting Chance,’ and she deserves much credit for what was accomplished first by Olive Curwood’s stirring story of the north.

Key, “in that picture, ‘The Silent Witness,’ is Gertrude McCoy, an actress of such versatile abilities that she has succceeded equally well in ‘Madame Sherry,’ in a role totally different from that in the Otto Hauerback picture.

Mentions Other Films

“Whither Thou Goest,” which M. H.
Hoffman, Inc., controls for Pennsylvania and the remainder of the territory ter-colled by the Philadelphia Hoffman-Foursquare, has as its two leading playners Rhea Mitchell and Orrine Johnson.

“In The Fringe of Society,” the first George Backer Foursquare, Ruth Rooland and Milton Sills are featured, and the other members of the cast are Leah Baird, J. Herbert Frank, George Larkin, Ollie Kirkby, Jules Cowles and Tammany Young.

“In the Foursquare feature, ‘One Hour,’ sequel to ‘Three Weeks,’ the two leading artists are Zeena Keefe and Alan Hale. So, all in all, the representation of popular players in our features is large. But—it is the play which is the thing, not the player.”

“A MAN’S MAN,” WITH KERRIGAN TO APPEAR ON SCREEN SEPT. 23; FIRST PARALTA PLAY

Paralta Plays, Inc., organized by Carl Anderson and his associates, has been in existence but about five months. In that time it has formed two independent producing corporate units headed by J.
Warren Kerrigan and Bessie Birsicale, . established one of the largest studios on the West Coast, directed by a notable producing staff, and now has practically ready to issue four star feature productions.

The Kerrigan company has completed a pretentious version of Peter B. Kyne’s dramatic romance, “A Man’s Man,” and a story by Frederic Chapin, staged under the working title of “Turn of a Card.”
Miss Birsicale’s company has Grace
Miller White’s “Rose O’ Paradise” and Harold MacGrath’s “Madam Who,” ready for publication. These productions run from five to seven thousand feet, accord-ting to the actual dramatic value of each story.

The first Paralta play to be issued will be J. Warren Kerrigan in “A Man’s Man,” which the Triangle Distributing Company will present for the first time Sunday, Sept. 23, simultaneously in New York and sixty cities throughout the United States.
BESSIE BARRISCALE HAS SPY ROLE IN “MADAM WHO” TO BE ISSUED IN OCTOBER

Triangle to Distribute Production on Paralta Plan; Film Story is Adaptation of Harold MacGrath’s Military Intrigue Novel

Harold MacGrath's story of mystery and military intrigue, "Madam Who," will be Bessie Barriscale's first Paralta film. This photodrama will be presented by the Triangle Distributing Corporation in October and will be seen in sixty cities simultaneously. In the role of "Jean Beaufort," a military spy, Miss Barriscale has a part which gives her opportunities to display her versatility. She appears in several disguises, both as a young man and a woman.

"Jean Beaufort" is the daughter of a general, who, with his two sons, is killed in action. The young girl, inspired by a spirit of revenge, becomes a most zealous and dangerous spy. She attempts to capture within her own lines an organized band of masked spies of the enemy, but she herself is captured by these men. To save her life she consents to marry one of the unknown and the ceremony is performed by one of their number, who is a clergyman.

To discover and capture the masked band of enemy spies and identify the man who she has been forced to marry, becomes "Jean's" impelling motive and leads her into many adventures. The last two reels of the picture are particularly replete with realistic thrills. The heavy villain of the story, an army officer, who, while seemingly a spy for one army actually acts in like capacity for the other, is one of the mysterious ten. He is run down by the courageous girl. They engage in a desperate hand to hand fight in which she hurt him headlong down a flight of stairs.

While war is the background of this story of mystery and intrigue, and there are glimpses of camp and trench and battle atmosphere in the coloring, this note is not dominant. The leading motive is the tragic contest in wit between a desperate woman and her masked secret enemies. "Madam Who" will be the most pretentious photodrama in which Miss Barriscale has yet been seen.

"LEST WE FORGET" IS TITLE OF NEW FILM
SCREEN DRAMA STARRING RITA JOLIVET

Picture Shows Sinking of Lusitania, German Invasion of Belgium and Northern France; Prominent American Personages Delinated

"Lest We Forget!" is the title which has been selected for the screen drama of international events in which Rita Jolivet is starred.

This picture deals with occurrences involving the beginning of the war, and especially the early German invasion of Belgium and northern France and the sinking of the Lusitania. Many scenes in the picture are laid on board the ill-fated steamship. Particularly fine are the spectacular scenes in which the Lusitania is shown on the high seas just previous to and at the moment of its destruction by a German submarine. Prominent personages in the public life of England, France, and America are represented in these scenes. One tableau shows a group including Charles Frohman, Alfred Vanderbilt and Rita Jolivet, who, it will be recalled, were standing hand in hand at the time the Lusitania went down. Miss Jolivet alone survived her companions. The interior of the German submarine which fired the shot which eventually led America into the war is pictured.

The picture deals with secret service in France, England and America, and shows the co-operation between the British and American foreign offices in handling German spies on both sides of the Atlantic.

Miss Jolivet is surrounded by a good cast, among whom are included Hamilton Revelle, an actor whose prominent work has scored in many Broadway productions. Roger Lytton, who so capably portrayed a German spy in "The Battle Cry of Peace," again is seen as an agent of the Wilhelmstrasse in "Lest We Forget!"

U. S. ISSUES SLIDES THROUGH N. A. M. P. I.
TO EXHIBITORS ON CANNING PRODUCTS

Hon. D. F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, is the second member of the Cabinet to take advantage of the offer made to the government by the War Cooperation Committee of the National Association of the Motor Picture Industry to utilize the screen to disseminate information during the period of the war.

The Department of Agriculture, acting in conjunction with the Motion Picture Committee of the National Association, has arranged for the display, during the next three or four weeks, at motion picture theaters in Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Rhode Island, of lantern slides dealing with the canning, preserving, drying and pickling of perishable food products. This action was taken as a result of reports received by the department that a large surplus of perishable fruits and vegetables was accumulating in the big population centers and that there was great danger that large quantities would go to waste.

The National Association Committee requests all theaters to insert the contents of the slides in house programs for a period of four weeks.

The text of the four slides which the department has asked the exhibitors to show is as follows:

War message No. 1: Let nothing be wasted; preserve, pickle, dry; all perishable fruits and vegetables possible to lessen the world's food shortage.

War message No. 2: Cannings and dryings are simple processes requiring small, cheap equipment, easy to do in a city house or apartment.

War message No. 3: Some cans are scarce. Put up perishable foods in glass jars or bottles. Dry such vegetables as beets, peas, carrots, beets or okra.

War message No. 4: Dry fruits and vegetables in the sun, or in an oven, or by electric fan. Pack in plain or paraffin paper bags or cartons, in empty cereal boxes or coffee cans.

The method of distributing the information follows: For instructions, write to the State Agricultural College, the county agent, or the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

"HER HOUR" IS NEW KITTY GORDON FILM FOR MID-NOVEMBER

The next Kitty Gordon play for World Pictures, Brady-Made will not be published until mid-November. The title is "Her Hour," and it narrates the love affair of a beautiful wrangler and her employer. The drama is already completed.

MANY U. S. EXHIBITORS TO USE GOLDWYN FILMS

During the past few days contracts have been signed for the entire chain of Rowland and Clark theaters in Pittsburg by the Majestic Theater, Portland, Ore.; the Tivoli Theater, San Francisco, and score of others in cities of the first class to use Goldwyn Pictures. Goldwyn Pictures' arrival in Portland is being widely heralded by the Majestic Theater management, which will use it as its prime attraction.

Goldwyn Pictures' arrival in Portland is being widely heralded by the Majestic Theater management, which will use it as its prime attraction.

General Western Manager Hari Leonhardt and Seattle Manager C. H. Holdredge submitted the contract for Goldwyn's first run in Seattle at The Strand, and heavy advertising campaign will introduce these new productions and big star in the state of Washington.

Goldwyn by the signing of these contracts and two announcements still to be made is enabled to point out the fact that it has made a clean sweep of book- ing big and popular theaters along the entire Pacific Coast, beginning with A. Onn's Rialto in Los Angeles and reaching Northward to Vancouver, Wash., where Goldwyn Pictures, Ltd. of Canada has closed with the leading exhibitor and the largest theater in the city.
OSCAR C. APFEL TO DIRECT WALTHALL
IN FIRST SEVEN REELER FOR PARALTA

Henry B. Walthall, the newest Paralta star, will make his debut under the auspices of Paralta under the personal direction of Oscar C. Apfel. Mr. Walthal's initial offering will be a seven-reel feature. The story is typical Walthall vehicle, and was especially selected for him co-incident with his signing of a contract with Paralta. The feature will be given an elaborate setting, and Mr. Apfel predicts that it will be one of the foremost productions of the year.

Mr. Apfel has been directing J. Warren Kerrigan at the Paralta studios in Hollywood, Cal. He was on the second Kerrigan story and had it completed, save for a few scenes, when Mr. Kerrigan was thrown from his horse and injured at Santa Barbara while a scene was being photographed. "A Man's Man," in which Mr. Kerrigan is starred, under the direction of Mr. Apfel, was the first feature produced at the Paralta studios.

MARY MAC LAREN'S CONTRACT WITH HORSLY IS NOT BROKEN, PRODUCER'S DECLARATION

Emphatic denial is made by David Horsley of rumors circulated and published concerning the probable release of Mary MacLaren from her contract with him and the whispered trade gossip of the return of the popular star to the Universal fold.

"My contract with Mary MacLaren is not for sale at any price," said Mr. Horsley when questioned as to negotiations declared to have been entered into by him with Universal representatives on his recent visit in New York.

"I have not discussed the probability of such an absurd proposal either directly or indirectly with anybody, Mary MacLaren is increasing in value through popularity created by her exceptional work in my pictures now being shown in Eastern states on a state-right basis. Her program of production is complete and her continuation with me is certain."

BELGIAN KING ON WAR FRONT AND WAR NEWS FROM TWO FRONTS IN GAUMONT WEEKLY

President Wilson, Accompanied By His Cabinet*, Members of Congress and Secretary of Navy Daniels Pictured Leading Troops on Way to Camp

Pictures of war preparations in the United States, and of actual activities in Europe, predominate in Gaumont-Mutual Weekly No. 111, issued September 12.

At Camp Gordon, Ga., the record-breaking construction of an immense wooden barracks in a working day of eight hours is shown. At Charleston, W. Va., Secretary of the Navy Daniels breaks ground for the erection of a mammoth armor and projectile plant, which will cost many millions. In California, San Diego has turned her famous exposition grounds into a naval training station; and the oldest Redskin raises the Star Spangled Banner over an old Mission he helped to build.

Probably the picture in this issue of the Weekly, which will arouse the most enthusiasm is that where President Wilson, carrying the stars and stripes, and escorted by his cabinet and the members of Congress, leads the parade of the new national army on its way to training camp. In New York City, Mayor Mitchell leads a monster parade of the members of the drafted army.

SCENE FROM "OUTCAST" AND LEADING MAN

Hardly less interesting are the views which come from the Gaumont camera men across the water. In Moscow, Prime Minister Kerensky visits the revolutionary Russian troops, who vow loyalty and renewed offensive against the Germans. In Flanders, the French, Belgian and English are united in gigantic, mutual effort. Supplied with an abundance of ammunition, the big artillery of the Allies continues hammering at the Hun trenches. King Albert, King of the Belgians, is shown in a French position in actual range of the German guns.

COMPLIMENTS N. A. M. P. I.
FOR AIDING U. S. CAUSE

Letters are being received by William A. Brady, president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, from all sections of the country, indicating the splendid support which the exhibitors are giving to the nation-wide campaign to promote patriotism and loyality among the citizens in every locality.

An interesting letter, commending this educational work, has just been received from Frank L. Crone, of the Loyalty League of Grand Forks, North Dakota, which is as follows:

"Conditions in this part of the country are such that every possible means should be employed to promote patriotism and loyalty. We know of no agency that can accomplish more in this direction than the picture houses. We saw an evidence of this in the campaign conducted in these houses in the interests of the Liberty Loan. We believe it is highly desirable that such an educational campaign should be continued in the interests of patriotism in general. A committee of this organization has called on the proprietors of picture houses here and find they are quite ready to do their part. If the committee, of which you are a member, is in a position to do so, we strongly advise and recommend that suitable films representing patriotic subjects be provided for the houses in this city. You would probably find that contitions in the rest of North Dakota are somewhat similar to those in Grand Forks and vicinity."

The same big trump card—MARIE WALCAMP—that got the money, that is still getting the money for Exhibitors in "LIBERTY". This great patriotic serial has been pronounced by every manager who booked it as the greatest money-getting serial ever produced.

MARIE WALCAMP, star of "Liberty," has an even more important part in "The Red Ace." She is duplicating her former triumph—and that means another big winner for you. There is more pep, punch, swift action; more tense situations; a stronger plot and a wider appeal in "The Red Ace" than there is in any competitive serial now open for booking. There is the big feature of a punch plus at the end of every episode that brings the fans back every week. The most gripping serial ever produced and the one that will play to the most money is "THE RED ACE." Book now and you'll insure your house capacity on every episode day. Goldwyn Wins Praise Throughout America

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS," the first Goldwyn release, challenged the attention and won the approval of the nation. All that Goldwyn hoped for in the way of good fortune was attained.

Important daily newspapers through their critics, film trade journals in their reviews, and powerful exhibitors by telegraph and by mail gave indorsement of the Goldwyn standard of production and expressed confidence in the future achievements of this organization.

As the New Orleans Times-Picayune says in reviewing "Polly of the Circus": "Brains win. Goldwyn has kept every promise. Their first production is by far the best motion picture presentation that has ever been shown in the city of New Orleans.

Goldwyn predicts that its future pictures will be still greater and better.

ALICE BRADY in "Betsy Ross"

Story by HENRY A. DU SOUCHET
Directed by TRAVERS VALE and GEORGE COWL
The Exhibitor’s Test

On every hand we hear vague murmurings concerning those forces which are seeking to wrest profitable theatres from exhibitors and establish a nation-wide chain of houses operated by a single gigantic organization.

It seems to us the greatest stimulus this work can receive is the apathetic attitude of a large number of exhibitors in matters vitally affecting the welfare of their theatres.

The most certain way of insuring the success of a nation-wide and numerous chain of theatres operated by a single organization is for the local exhibitor to prove unequal to the work of supplying satisfactory motion picture amusement for his community.

A staggering percentage of the motion picture theatres of the United States and Canada are located in towns of less than five thousand population. In a very large number of those places the local exhibitor has not grown apace with the development of the pictures he is showing; in fact, he has not even progressed proportionately with the other business men of his community—the merchant, druggist and garage keeper.

Residents of small towns and farming communities, through their contact weekly with tons of popular literature, newspapers, magazines and technical papers, have developed a keen, discerning amusement taste and the motion picture selected in a haphazard manner, run off jerkingly to the accompaniment of an unmusical pounder of the ivories and surrounded with other details of woefully-lacking “presentation” can no longer satisfy.

The personal equation is the big factor in the success or failure of any nation-wide chain of theatres; in many cases the local exhibitor will have to progress or resign his place to a more able assistant.

Again, That Combine

The motion picture trade—one of the most fruitful fields for the mining of wild-eyed rumor which has yet been opened up—submits periodically to the story of a giant combine of all the producing and distributing companies in the business.

Announcement of the astounding details of this lotus-eater’s plan has become a favorite diversion even among some of the most substantial and soberest executives in the trade.

Our explanation is that the story is indulged in frequently because of its delicious humor, as the accomplishment of said combine would be a task which, in comparison, would make the building of the Tower of Babel as simple as the running up of an automatic fire ladder.

The Censor's Job

the other hand, the path of Chicago's Major Funkhouser is anything but roseate. It is simply the old story of "damned if he does and damned if he doesn't." Perhaps a happier choice than the Major could be found for the job but at the same time a censor to render satisfaction to all would have to be more than human.

The office has no logical reasons for existence, consequently the administration of it is fraught with difficulties innumerable.

A Word to the A. E. A.

T

HE American Exhibitors Association, as well as any organization of exhibitors, in order to preserve a legitimate reason for existing must avoid scrupulously petty political arguments and steer far away from arguments between individuals and companies which do not affect the welfare of the exhibitors as a whole.

The late organization of exhibitors was ushered into oblivion as much by these things as through the fact that it was unable to accomplish anything worth while for the exhibitor.

Before the American Exhibitors Association there is dawning an era of great usefulness; it is an organization potentially able to weld together eventually the scattered forces of the exhibitors and obtain everywhere for them their just demands.

But this organization even though it is counseled by a number of the wisest men in the exhibition profession must constantly be vigilant in order that it may avoid the pitfalls of its predecessor. It should carefully avoid controversy with those who are opposing it and who are striving vainly to hold together the crumbling walls of the old organization. Many questions have been raised and others will be brought up, all seeking to cloud the issue and obscure the sterling aims of the American Exhibitors Association.

The new organization, confident of its prowess, realizing that what has been claimed by others it really possesses can go about its business quietly and orderly, avoiding the atmosphere of squabbling and bickering which others are seeking to cast about its activities.

EXHIBITORS USE "HERALD' IN MUSIC TAX FIGHT

Thousand Theater Owners of Rocky Mountain District Band in Boycott on Publishers' Combine, Seeking Ten-Cent Seat Fee; H. T. Nolan Uses Paper's Warnings for Propaganda

Denver, Col. (Special to "Exhibitors Herald")—More than 1,000 exhibitors in the Rocky Mountain district have banded and proclaimed a boycott against the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, which has demanded all owners of motion picture theaters throughout the district pay a yearly tax of five cents a seat for the rendition of any copyrighted music controlled by any of the members of the combine.

H. T. Nolan, president of the Rocky Mountain Screen Club in this city, who is directing the boycott campaign, declares that throughout this entire territory sentiment is high against the unjust tax demanded by the combine of music publishers.

Nolan, with the aid of H. E. Huffman, and a score of representative exhibitors in Denver, started the campaign as a direct result of "Exhibitors Against Music Tax." Warning to exhibitors to boycott music controlled by the combine use musical selections of music publishers who are not affiliated with the club.

Excerpts From "Herald" Used

More than 1,000 excerpts of the warning to exhibitors throughout the United States against the music tax, which appeared in the August issue of the "Herald," have been reprinted and sent to theater operators, says Mr. Nolan.

We have received replies from every theater owner to whom the excerpts from "Exhibitors Herald" were sent.

The exhibitors in the Rocky Mountain region appreciate the work the "Herald" is doing for the good of this wonderful business.

"This screen club is comparatively a young organization, but its membership is strong throughout this entire territory, and has made itself felt in all affairs concerning the exhibitor," Mr. Nolan declares. "The club is not a one-man affair, and its success is the result of able work by many prominent members. We have successfully combated state censorship, public welfare boards, and other unjust legislation from time to time.

Club Is a Power

"This club was the first organization of its kind to take up the direction of a Red Cross benefit, with the result that more than $12,000 was turned over to this worthy cause."

H. E. Huffman is vice-president, secretary and treasurer. The chairman of the legislative committee, which body is our first-line trench, is H. H. Buckwalter. At the present time we are planning our second big Screen Club ball, to be held some time this fall, and arrangements have been made to bring some of the notable screen stars from Canada to the show.

All theater owners have been warned not to allow representatives of publishers in the combine play copyrighted selections in the theaters because the mere rendition of such copyrighted matter will make unlawful the collection of the ten-cent seat tax.

Campaign Is Spreading

This campaign to boycott the music publishers, it is reported here, has spread throughout the entire northwest where exhibitors are using musical numbers of publishers not identified with the trust.

NEW BRUNSWICK EXHIBITORS SPURN OCH'S LEAGUE FOR THE NEW A. E. A.

Premier Foster at Maritime Province Convention Tells Canadian Exhibitors to Fight for Rights, Says Charles C. Pettijohn

Upon his return from the Maritime Province Motion Picture Convention held at St. Johns, N. B., Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, announced that after the convention had voted to postpone indefinitely any affiliation with the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, that a majority of the members had joined the A. E. A.

Mr. Pettijohn was enthusiastic over the support he received from the exhibitors in that section of Canada and has been asked to work in conjunction with the attorneys of the Canadian exhibitors in fighting adverse legislation. Mr. Pettijohn, Miss Rose Tapley, of Vitagraphics, and a number of exhibitors of the Maritime Provinces had an interview with Premier Foster, of New Brunswick, who was enlightened on the subject of film taxation from the exhibitors' standpoint. He expressed wonder when told that many of the exhibitors frequently lost money when playing some of the bigger stars, although their theaters were packed, because of the high cost of film rental and made money on the lesser celebrities of the screen with houses not entirely filled. The Premier said he thought the exhibitors should band together to fight the star system.

Premier Foster invited Mr. Pettijohn to appear before a meeting of all the premiers of the Dominion of Canada when they next convene to address them on matters of interest to Canadian exhibitors, which invitation has been accepted.

VITAGRAPH FORCES FUNKHOUSE TO GIVE "WITHIN THE LAW" A PERMIT

Sept. 13 Is Unlucky Day for Major Who Loses Decision in Fight in Chicago Court; City to Appeal Case

In the mandamus proceedings instituted earlier by the Vitagraph Company, Judge Crowe in the Circuit Court of Chicago, on September 13, directed Deputy Superintendent of Police Funkhouse to issue a permit allowing the exhibition before the public of the film, "Within the Law.

When the case came up on September 12 the city filed a demurrer to the petition for a mandamus asked for by the Vitagraph Company, Judge Crowe overruled the demurrer and upon the judge issuing the writ George Kandlik, assistant corporation counsel for the city of Chicago, announced that the city would take an appeal.

The petitioners had contended that Major Funkhouse had no authority to "blue pencil" the film, but Judge Crowe asserted that in his opinion Funkhouse was a perfectly legally appointed censor.

ALICE BRADY TO FILM; FINISHES VAUDEVILLE TRIP

Miss Alice Brady having resigned from the World Film to organize a company of her own, recently took a trip through the south in a vaudeville act of her own, incidentally receiving an ovation of her own. Through Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis and New Orleans she sang and played her way into favor in a clever act. She now is ready to step into the arduous duties of moving picture impressario.

WILL ADVERTISE AUBREY COMEDIES IN DAILY PAPERS

In the exploitation of the Aubrey Series of two reel comedies, Arthur N. Smallwood announces that his company will inaugurate a new plan of merchandising. The object of the plan is to hand out coupons to newspapers, each coupon being exchangeable for pictures of the character of the Aubrey series. It is calculated that this will result in a large return of pictures, and the publishers of the newspapers will cooperate with the exhibitors in exploiting the product.

BOYCOTT MUSIC COMBINE AND KILL THE SEAT TAX, IS ROCKY MOUNTAIN CLUB WARNING TO EXHIBITORS

The following letter of warning and plea to boycott the music controlled by the combine of publishers has been sent to 1,000 exhibitors by the Rocky Mountain Screen Club, of which H. T. Nolan is president:

To All Exhibitors:

You have a threat—subject to arrest and fine—yes, and but a new and very serious threat to your business. It has been called the Rocky Mountain Screen Club, acting as your representatives and I am ready to help you win—whether you are a member of the happy family or not.

Read and remember that from the August 18 issue of "Exhibitors Herald"

Here is the situation: Some—not all—of the music composers and publishers have formed a little "trust" of their own and are planning on grabbing a matter of a million a year from the picture show proprietors. Don't hide your head in the sand and say "They can't do it.

But right here is the point to remember—you can issue any permit to play or protect you if you do play a selection copyrighted by a musician not a member of their association. In other words, it is a grand, big bluff strictly on their side.

You pay the ten-cents-a-seat and protection in return. But if you play their music only one time YOU MUST PAY THE TRIBUTE FOR THE FULL YEAR. If you refuse to pay and play the music you are liable for the full penalties set forth in the national copyrighted law and THEY CAN COLLECT.

The situation is a very dangerous one and requires action on your part. Time is too short to discuss the matter very much in this first letter, but you will be happy in knowing that I am working to your interests and keeping you informed.

With each copy of the letter, excerpts from the news and editorial columns of "Exhibitors Herald," issue of August 18, were enclosed. Each letter sent out brought a response pledging to boycott the combine's music, and if dousing the "Herald" for its campaign in behalf of the exhibitor.
Exhibitors to Get Films Without Paying Advance Deposit

PERFECTION PICTURES PROCESS RIVALS PRESS

Essanay, Edison, Kleine Form New Distributing Concern With New Device Ranking Among Modern Mechanical Wonders; Exhibitors to Get Films Without Paying Advance Deposit

Exhibitors may expect to find an entirely new type of entertainment under the brand of Perfection Pictures. In the main, the productions will consist of light, pleasant comedy-dramas and dramas written by the foremost authors and playwrights—the works of such leading literary celebrities as Peter B. Kyne, Clarence Budington Kelland, Kenneth Harris, George Ade, Henry Irving Dodge, Arthur Stringer, Robert Rudd Whiting, George Barr McCutcheon, Samuel Merwin, James W. Adams, Lucien Hubbard and others frequently found as contributors to such periodicals as the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies’ Home Journal and big and popular monthly magazines of national circulation and influence.

George Kleine, one of the best known film manufacturers and distributors of the George Kleine System of film exchanges, in announcing Perfection Pictures, said: “I am happy in announcing the Perfection Pictures—a new wonder invention for the manufacture of great dramas which promises an evolution in the art of film making. By reason of speed, which has taken four years to develop, Perfection Pictures will excel other pictures in the matter of thickness, brilliance and ease of viewing. The exact details of the Perfection process are, of course, a trade secret. Dealing with the public will find it advisable to visit the nearest exchange of the George Kleine System of exchanges.

Plans Greatest Ad Campaign

“Our faith in the value of Perfection Pictures is indicated by the fact that we are backing it up with the greatest campaign of national advertising ever launched in behalf of a motion picture project. Starting September 22nd, full-page advertisements in such leading magazines as the Saturday Evening Post will be used every month. Theater patrons will be told of Perfection Pictures through big advertisements which will appear in newspapers throughout the country. Perfection Pictures will be sold for the exhibitor to patrons. This campaign of national advertising will of course mean added value for the box office. It will mean that when an exhibitor announces that Perfection Pictures are being presented at his theater, he immediately ‘cashes in’ on the confidence established in Perfection Pictures through this tremendous national advertising campaign.

“Each theater playing Perfection Pictures will be further assisted through a time of advertising helps of value. Posters in all sizes will be done in five and six colors by poster artists. Lobby photos of a new and attractive style will be available. Press sheets, cuts, slides, advertising helps of every imaginable sort, will still further augment the exhibitor’s appeal to his patrons.

No Deposits Necessary

“An important feature of the Perfection Pictures campaign is that the exhibitors will be able to enjoy the benefits of Perfection Pictures without any advance deposit. This feature is another mark of the high seriousness of the campaign, and it is one of the measures which make for the success of the Perfection Pictures campaign. It will be the policy of the company to make the Perfection Pictures as easy to obtain as possible. To the exhibitor who is willing to accept the high and attractive features of the pictures, we make Perfection Pictures available without advance deposit, and we will make them available at terms that will suit the needs of the exhibitor.

Spoor Makes Statement

President George K. Spoor of the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company, mentioned the new type of story that will be found in Perfection Pictures. To such exhibitors ample protection will be given for exclusive territory free from competition. Perfection Pictures will be published on open booking—any picture, any time—or on a contract for fifty-two Perfection Pictures a year, without deposit. Our sales policy is one that we believe to be most sound. The idea is to deal with the high class exhibitors only, no deposits will be necessary. They will be the class of exhibitors who are real business men—men of substantiality and reliability.

“Territory will be allotted quickly. Exhibitors seeking protection on the showing of Perfection Pictures in their vicinity will find it advisable to visit the nearest exchange of the George Kleine System and make their reservations.”

CHAPLIN’S “ADVENTURER” NOW BEING CUT AND PREPARED FOR ISSUANCE BY MUTUAL

Charlie Chaplin’s new picture, “The Adventurer,” is about to be issued by Mutual, is, according to the comedian himself, the picture he has long been trying to produce. It is an indoor and outdoor story, and Chaplin in the role of a mountain climber as well as in numerous other novel activities.

The motif of “The Adventurer” has to do with the efforts of an unfortunate youth with a sense of humor to escape a horde of pursuers who seem to think it is part of their business to chase a funny man off the earth.

Many New Comedy Angles

Edna Purviance, who supports Mr. Chaplin in most of his comedies, has plenty to do in luring the character into tight places and in rescuing him after he has become so involved that escape seems impossible.

B. S. MOSS TO BUILD $1,000,000 THEATER IN N. Y., DENIES A CONTRARY STATEMENT

B. S. Moss declared this week that the statement in a trade paper last week to the effect that he will not go ahead with the erection of his contemplated $1,000,000 theater at 181st street and Broadway is entirely erroneous and without foundation. The assumption of this baseless report was probably made because of the new “building zone” law, which temporarily affected Moss’ new theater as well as some new theaters proposed by the B. F. Keith Company. The so-called “building zone” restriction, which prohibits a theater within 100 feet of the main thoroughfare in certain districts, has been circumvented by Moss with plans for an adjoining apartment house.

Mr. Moss emphasizes the fact that once the way is cleared of the red tape, which is all that stands in the way of construction, the construction of the new theater will start, and it will be ready to open in the early fall of 1918.

The “Wilson,” as it is proposed to call the new house in honor of the president, will take in 200 feet on 181st street, running east to west, 158 feet from the north to the south, and a Broadway frontage of 100 feet. The seating capacity will be 3,000. The policy will be in line with the other Moss houses in regard to photoplays.

BROCKWELL FILM TITLED

Gladys Brockwell’s forthcoming William Fox production, which has an unusual theme, has been titled “Conscience.” The picture is being filmed under the direction of Bertram Bracken.

MacChesney Speaks for Edison

Speaking as the representative of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., L. C. MacChesney says: “Every exhibitor knows that the resources of the Thomas A. Edison, Inc., studios. Edison has always been a big factor in the motion picture industry. The product of the Edison studio has always depended on the same standpoint of entertainment, technical perfection, and story value.

“Authors whose names are found on the contents pages of America’s foremost magazines are providing the mauscripts for the Perfection Pictures being made by Thomas A. Edison, Inc. The latest Information Pictures, Mr. MacChesney has said in the past, is an opportunity of attracting those readers to his theater to see stories enacted on the screen.”

FILM OPERATORS STRIKE AT FORT WORTH, TEXAS, FOR INCREASE IN PAY

Fort Worth, Tex.—(Special to Exhibitors’ Herald)—The motion picture operators recently asked for wages here at the Majestic and other theaters have walked out because of management of these houses would not grant their demands.

The men ask that the picture houses be opened at 8:30 a.m. and closed at 12 p.m. and that if they be paid time and a half for overtime and double time on holidays. The operators now receive a week and assistants $15, and the increase of $2.

With Miss Daly, Harry Beaumont, director, also has joined the Selig company and will direct the picture “Woman of Harvard.”

While with Essanay Mr. Beaumont directed Henry Walthall in “The Soul” and Bryant Washburn in “Skiner” series, as well as other subjects.
HALL GETS $32,000 FOR FRANCHISE IN NATIONAL EXHIBITORS’ CIRCUIT

New Jersey Territory for New Chaplin Films Purchased by L. S. Card Booking Corp., Formed to Exploit These Features

With the forming of the L. S. Card Booking Corporation to distribute the Chaplin pictures in New Jersey comes to light the fact that Frank Hall, the prominent New Jersey exhibitor who went to Broadway last spring and closed deals for Edgar Lewis’ first special feature, “The Bar Sinister,” and Edwin Carew’s Jane Grey production, “Her Fighting Chance,” sold his franchise in the First National Exhibitors Circuit, Inc., for $33,000.

The New Jersey franchise for the First National Exhibitors Circuit, Inc., was purchased by the L. S. Card Booking Corporation formed for the purpose of distributing the Chaplin comedies and other productions purchased by the First National.

L. S. Card, whose name the new company bears, has been associated with Frank Hall for the past year as manager of his Civilization Film Corporation booking, “Joan the Woman,” “Civilization,” “The Whip,” and other special features in New Jersey from its headquarters in Newark.

Closely associated with Mr. Card in the new company will be Mr. Ed Church, also of the Civilization Film Corp. Mr. Church, who was prominent in the New York office of the General Film Company from the early days of the motion picture industry until he resigned from that organization two years ago, is one of the most widely experienced exchange men in the business and is co-operating with Mr. Card in working out a plan for Chaplin distribution in New Jersey.

EXHIBITOR WILL GET ADVERTISING AID IN EXPLOITING “THE WARRIOR” FEATURE

General Enterprises, Inc., Will Provide Comprehensive Outlay of Material on Seven-Part Film Starring Maciste the Giant

Following out the theory that a large film attraction should be exploited on plane equal to that of the big theatrical production, A. H. Sawyer and Herbert Rubin, of General Enterprises, Inc., which controls the seven-part version of “The Warrior,” have provided a most comprehensive outlay of advertising material to accompany the feature in which Maciste, the seven-foot giant, makes his appearance for the first time.

The lobby display end has been given particular attention and a line of scene photographs, both black and white and in full color, have been ordered in large quantities. In order to meet all demands, the sizes are varied, and the lobby pictures are obtainable in eight by ten, eleven by fourteen, twenty by twenty-eight and thirty by forty, the latter size lending itself admirably for use by theaters with extensive lobby space. The lithographs have been made from especially prepared sketches by prominent poster artists. Two styles of one and three sheets, two styles of six and one of twenty-four sheet stands form the nucleus of the paper display. The paper scenes are striking in their action and interest, compelling qualities.

An important adjunct to the line of lobby display is a series of beautifully colored paintings, depicting Maciste in several poses. Novelties heralds and an abundance of star and scene cuts are included in the exploitation layout.

FOUR BIG SCENES FROM “THE WARRIOR”

HUTCHINSON SEES BIG WINTER TRADE IN FILM INDUSTRY

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, Inc., writes from Santa Barbara to the Chicago office that prospects for a good business for the winter months were never better. He is hard at work finishing up the business details of the western studios, in order that he may return to enjoy the luxuries of the new pipe organ and the motion picture theatre he has just had installed in his new home on Sheridan Road, Chicago.

UNIVERSAL'S NEW “MAKE IT PAY” AID PLAN IS POPULAR

With the resumption of full-time business throughout the industry, Universal’s “Make It Pay” department, which was established a few weeks ago as a free service auxiliary for exhibitors, is being patronized extensively. Not a small share of credit is due C. G. Wood and his assistants handling the work of the department for helping put over Universal’s two new serials, “The Gray Ghost” and “The Red Ace,” both of which have been successfully launched in the East within the past three weeks.

Special copy is prepared wherever it is necessary to assist an exhibitor in reaching his clientele, and advertising and publicity cuts suited to his special needs are issued free of charge.

BIG BOOKINGS ON UNITY FILMS, REPORT OF MINTZ

Manager M. J. Mintz, of the Unity Photoplays Company, Chicago, reports excellent bookings for all of the company’s pictures and especially for “Babbling Tongues,” “Souls Redeemed” and the Rex Beach travel pictures. The latter are being booked in series of sixteen reels for delivery one reel each week and at a fixed figure for the entire set.
"ALADDIN AND THE WONDERFUL LAMP," NEW FOX FILM SOON OPENS AT N. Y. GLOBE

Most Fascinating of Arabian Nights' Tales Featuring Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin Said to Rival "Jack and Beanstalk" Play

A beautiful film production of "Aladdin and The Wonderful Lamp," one of the most fascinating of the Arabian Nights' Tales, is announced by William Fox. The picture is another of the Kiddies Features series and will begin a run on Broadway soon, at the Globe Theatre.

Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin, of "Jack and the Beanstalk" fame, appear in the leading roles of the new film—Francis as the son of Mustapha, the tailor, and Virginia as the captivating princess. The production required the services of hundreds of children and the making of countless costumes.

C. M. and S. A. Frankin, who filmed "Jack and the Beanstalk," staged "Aladdin and The Wonderful Lamp." The memorable part of the story in which Aladdin rubs the magic lamp and commands the genii who appear to build him a magnificent palace, is faithfully reproduced in the photoplay version. A miracle of the screen results in the gradual appearance of a gorgeous structure on the burning sands.

All of the desert scenes are notable because of the photographic record which has been made of them, it is stated.

From beginning to end, the filmed "Aladdin" has a distinct charm. At the very outset, the picturegoers are introduced into the wonderful city of old Bagdad. The evening is falling on the Oriental splendor of the ancient mart of the East, and Mohammedans kneel everywhere in prayer.

The Arabs on the heated desert, without the gates, the devout in the Mosques, the powerful in the palaces and the workers in the ha'zars, all turn towards Mecca with reverence. Then attention is concentrated on Aladdin.

NOTABLE CAST SUPPORTS MADGE KENNEDY IN "NEARLY MARRIED," NEW GOLDWYN FILM

Frank Thomas, Mark Smith, Alma Tell, Richard Barthelmess and Hedda Hopper, appear in Play Now Nearl Completion at Fort Lee, N. J. Studios

Comedians of note are in the cast supporting the Goldwyn comedienne, Madge Kennedy, in the filming of "Nearly Married." Edgar Selwyn's comedy, which is nearing completion at the Goldwyn Fort Lee, N. J. studios. Among them are Frank Thomas, Mark Smith, Alma Tell, Richard Barthelmess and Hedda Hopper.

Mr. Thomas, after a number of years in stock, was seen in several noteworthy Broadway attractions and last season was leading man in "The House of Glass." Mr. Thomas has the role of "Harry Lindsay."

Mark Smith, who played the part of "Tom" in the original stage production of "Nearly Married," has the same role in support of Miss Kennedy.

Another member of Miss Kennedy's cast who has enjoyed a successful stage career is Alma Tell, who plays the role of "Gertrude." She is a sister of Olve Tell and has been seen with her in a number of Broadway attractions.

Hedda Hopper, who has the role of "Hattie," is the wife of DeWolff Hopper. She has appeared in a number of Broadway comedies.

Richard Barthelmess, who plays "Dick," has had a long and successful career in motion pictures.

MACISTE GIANT IN "WARRIOR" FILM IS SEVEN FEET TALL

Since the first public showing of "The Warrior," with Maciste, star of Gabriele D'Annunzio's film success, "Cabiria," speculation has been rife concerning the actual measurements of the giant leading man who tells a house with a single blow with his fist. Among the audiences which packed the Criterion Theater during the recent run of "The Warrior" at that house were several prominent sporting authorities. Watching the feats of strength performed by the Italian Adonis, a discussion arose, and several of the sporting fraternity as to the comparative measurements of Maciste and Jess Willard, the present American giant champion pugilist. A. H. Sawyer, of General Enterprises, Inc., which recently purchased the United States and Canadian rights to "The Warrior," was appealed to to settle the discussion by revealing the measurements and physical proportions of Maciste. These were readily forthcoming, and when the comparison was made between Maciste and Willard the fact was revealed that Maciste is a star and soldier out-measured the cowboy pugilist in every respect. Maciste is seven feet in height and weighs 300 pounds.

LINA CAVALIERI TO BE STARRLED IN "ETERNAL TEMPTRESS"

Noted Singer Will Be Directed B Emil Chautard in First Film Play for Paramount

An announcement of interest is that Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the operatic star, will be directed in her first Paramount picture, "The Eternal Temptress," by Emil Chautard. This has just been decided upon and work will begin first part of September upon the production, which is an original play, written for Mme. Cavalieri by Mme. Fred Grisac.

While "The Eternal Temptress" will not be issued until late in the year, it is being commenced early upon the production, because of its elaborateness and the great care that will be necessary in giving it perfect presentation.
REGINALD BARKER RE-ENGAGED BY PARALTA TO DIRECT BESSIE BARRISCALE FEATURES

Now Putting Finishing Touches on "Madam Who," a Secret Service War Romance Adapted to Screen From Harold MacGrath's Widely Known Novel

Reginald Barker has become permanently connected with the Paralta Plays organization and will be sole director of Bessie Barriscale's photodramas. During the past two months he has been directing her production of Harold MacGrath's secret service war romance, "Madam Who," on which he now is putting the finishing touches.

During the recent visit of Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, to the Pacific coast, a consultation was held with Mr. Barker and Robert T. Kane, vice-president of Paralta Plays, which resulted in agreements under which Mr. Barker will continue permanently as Miss Barriscale's director. After the signing of the contracts under which this agreement was completed, Mr. Barker said:

Sees Concern a Big Factor

"Searching investigation of the Paralta organization, which controls Miss Barriscale's productions, has revealed to me that it is destined to become a very mighty factor in the motion picture field. It is founded on sane principles, I have found: and it is proceeding on lines that assure a long life in the industry. These are conditions that are particularly attractive to a man of ambitions and they are bound to spur one on to very vigorous efforts.

"In my arrangements with the Barriscale organization I have been entrusted with the great responsibility of making photoplays with one of the most gifted actresses of the screen at the head of the cast, and to send them away for presentation over my name without the supervision of any other authority. This means that should there be lapses anywhere, I alone shall be accountable for it. On the other hand, I believe this absolute authority vested in me will prove creative of greater results."

Termed "War Director"

Mr. Barker has been very much in his element in the production of "Madam Who." He has often been characterized as "the war director," because of his great success in handling intense military situations. Those who have seen the completed reels of "Madam Who" projected, do not hesitate to say that Mr. Barker has beaten his own record as a director in this instance.
ZAMBRENO IN BIG FILM DEAL FOR HIS CHICAGO CO.

President Frank Zambreno, of Unity Photoplays Company, Chicago, soon will purchase the rights to one of the most recent New York screen successes for distribution in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana, it is announced.

A trip from Chicago to New York during which several propositions in feature productions were taken into consideration, will result in one of the biggest state rights deals this concern has ever made, it is stated.

BOSTON SUPPORTS A. E. A.

Boston exhibitors, realizing the benefits to be derived from the newly formed American Exhibitors Association, are rapidly coming to the front with their applications for membership, it is announced from the A. E. A. headquarters in New York.

EXHIBITORS LAUD CLUNE'S SELECTION OF CHICAGO FOR "EYES OF THE WORLD" PREMIER

Big Feature Adapted from Harold Bell Wright Book Opens at Auditorium Theater Sept. 21 for Sixteen-Day Run; Warmer Welcome Expected Than N. Y. Could Offer

Scores of letters from the Central States and Near-East exhibitors have been received by the W. H. Clune organization congratulating Mr. Clune on the selection of Chicago for the Eastern premier of his picturization of Harold Bell Wright's popular novel, "The Eyes of the World."

Bigger Welcome in Chicago

The selection of Chicago by Clune was made through his belief that a bigger welcome would await his novel ideas of presentation, tried and found of value on the Pacific Coast and in the eleven western states in which the picture already has been exploited by Mr. Clune and J. L. Adams of the Desert Film Corporation, through New York, where most films are introduced for the approval of the trade.

The Chicago showing will be made with all the attention to detail which has made Clune's name a by-word among Western exhibitors. Every move during the sixteen days run at the Auditorium, starting September 21, will be under the direct supervision of Mr. Clune's personal representative, Spence E. Rodgers.

To Use Three Prints

An interesting sidelight on the Clune methods is furnished by the fact that when the picture begins its two performances each day, three complete prints will be available for the operators and as soon as a performance has been completed the print used will be placed in the hands of an inspector from the Clune studios who will go over it thoroughly for such faults as might possibly develop from one run of the feature.

MAXINE ELLIOTT TO MAKE SCREEN DEBUT IN "FIGHTING ODDS," NOT "MAGDALENE" PLAY

Change Is Made By Goldwyn Because of Pennsylvania and Chicago Censor Boards Decide Points in Production Must Not Be Shown Public

Maxine Elliott's debut on the screen as a Goldwyn star will be in the drama, "Fighting Odds," by Roi Cooper Megre and Irvin S. Cobb.

"The Eternal Magdalene," previously announced as the first of Goldwyn's Maxine Elliott productions, has been challenged by the Pennsylvania Board of Censors and by the Chicago censor board. Both bodies find points in the picture which they question and which Goldwyn pointedly denies constitute any violation of good taste. Nevertheless, as "The Eternal Magdalene" had been announced for publication October 7 and that date is close at hand, Goldwyn has determined to fully protect all of its contract customers among the exhibitors of the United States by substituting Miss Elliott's other picture in its stead.

This means that "The Eternal Magdalene" and the points at issue with the two censors organizations can be threshed out and adjusted without holding up any Goldwyn customers or rearranging their playing dates. Goldwyn insists that "The Eternal Magdalene" made, as it has been into a great morality play by Arthur Hopkins, in no way tends to endanger public morals. In this contention it find itself sustained by a most enthusiastic indorsement of the picture in its entirety by the National Board of Review, which exercises the censorial function for America as a whole.

EMPIRE STUDIOS IN EAST WORK AT FULL CAPACITY

The Empire All Star Corporation studio at Glendale, L. I., is busy, with every stage occupied.

"Please Help Emily," featuring An Murdock, is being filmed under the direction of Dell Henderson. Ferdinan Gottschalk is playing the part of Herbert Threadgold—the same part he created on the stage. Rex McDougal is the leading male role, while Hube Druce, Amy Veness and John Harwood are the cast.

Olive Tell, is at work on "The Unfoseen." Mr. David Powell is supporting Miss Tell and has a very usual and difficult role to enact, that of a man who suddenly loses his sight and it requires all Mr. Powell's powers of interpretation to make the part see natural and real. John B. O'Brien directing "The Unfoseen."

Albert Capellani has Edna Goodrich under his direction and "American Maid" the picture being filmed, is well on its way to completion.

NATALIA LESIENKO, VAMPIRE ROLE STAR, LEADS IN "PAINTED DOLL"

Most Noted Player of Heavy Parts in New Republic Expected to Create Enthusiasm on American Screen

Introduction

In a country where the so-called "vampire woman" has ever been an excellent box office attraction, the announcement that a new player of the character is soon to be introduced will doubtless be received with interest. Enthusiasm, her sponsors say, is sure to follow her first appearances in the repertoire which will present in America the most noted rector of vampire roles in Russia, Natalia Lesienko.

Miss Lesienko is one of the foremost stars of the Moscow Art Theater, whose film productions are soon to be published in the trade in the United States by the Russian Art Film Corporation. Mention of vampires of the screen instantly suggests the names of half a dozen who have won favor with American film theater patrons. The appearance of Lesienko, it is said, will reveal an artist whose methods are entirely different from the traditional conception of such roles interpreted by American players.

Announcement of the forthcoming film by the Russian Art Film Corporation of Pushkin's "The Painted Doll" states that Lesienko has the role of a woman who saves no stone unturned to accomplish her purpose and is persistent in revenge when she fails. Her role is that of a wife who is jealous of her husband's access in his profession, because it eliminates him from her aspirations for social activities. When he becomes fascinated with the pretty wife of one of his subordinates and even commits murder to get rid of his rival, her husband, there is only thought of self on the part of the wife. Disgrace for herself and son she will avoid by any means, and she rejoices greatly when her husband, crazed by his crime, becomes hopelessly insane.

ARAMOUNT'S SERIAL IS NEARING COMPLETION

Paramount is progressing in its work of finishing "Who Is Number One?" a serial, written by Anna Katharine Green and starring Katharine Cornell. The entire fifteen episodes will be complete and in the exchanges several weeks before the publication date of the first episode.

MUTUAL PRESS SHEET ON "THE RAINBOW GIRL" PREPARED FOR EXHIBITORS

Exhibitors will get a number of excellent hints for advertising "The Rainbow Girl," Juliette Dac's first starring vehicle in the series, in the Mutual press sheet just being issued. Musicians too, will find invaluable tips in the music cue section of this circular, which will aid in setting over this picture.

THE SECRETARY OF WAR HAS CONFIRMED THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT YANKEE INGENUITY HAS AT LAST PERFECTED AN ENGINE FOR AIRPLANES WHICH IS FAR SUPERIOR TO ANY AERO-MOTOR WHICH HAS BEEN INVENTED PRIOR TO THIS TIME. THIS ENGINE MEETS ALL REQUIREMENTS AT ANY ALTITUDE. UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION BOARD, THE GREATEST ENGINEERS OF THIS COUNTRY, WORKING TOGETHER SINCE WAR WAS DECLARED, HAVE POOLED THEIR TRADE SECRETS AND DEVELOPED A MOTOR WHICH IS NOT ONLY THE FASTEST AND MOST RELIABLE KNOWN, BUT IS OF SUCH A TYPE THAT THE DIFFERENT PARTS CAN BE MANUFACTURED IN VARIOUS FACTORIES THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY AND ASSEMBLED WHEN THE ENTIRE FLYING MACHINE IS PUT TOGETHER. SECRETARY BAKER PROCLAIMS THIS AS PROBABLY THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT OF THE WAR. THE GAUMONT COMPANY WAS FORTUNATE IN BEING ABLE TO PHOTOGRAPH THE TESTING OF THIS WONDERFUL ENGINE ON FIIKE'S PEAK, NEARLY THREE MILES ABOVE SEA LEVEL, AND THESE PICTURES WILL APPEAR FIRST IN GAUMONT-MUTUAL WEEKLY No. 149, PUBLISHED SEPTEMBER 29.

Naturally, there are many other timely topics in this issue pertaining to the war. In Washington, D. C., "Daredevil" Reynolds, the human fly, poised on the top of a high electric building demonstrates to aviation officials that he is qualified to drop bombs on Berlin; another daredevil, racing at 50 miles an hour with a special message for the War Department, qualifies as a dispatch bearer; and in many places soldiers are leaving for the front; at the Polo Grounds, in New York City, hundreds of pretty chorus girls raise money to provide tobacco for the soldiers in France; a number of recently built submarines pass through an eastern canal; and in far-off Hawaii millions of fish are being caught to swell the food supply. A showing of early fall coats completes the reel.
EXPERIENCE OF DETECTIVE BURNS SEEN IN WHOLESOME’S “PENNY PHILANTHROPIST”

Intensely dramatic incident founded on actual incident in which Italian attempts to blow up house figures in play
Starring Nance O’Neill

In “The Penny Philanthropist,” Wholesome Films production, there is an intensely dramatic incident founded on an actual experience of William J. Burns, the noted detective.

In the picture the Italian lights the fuse, but as he is stealing away he discovers Peggy, “The Penny Philanthropist,” who has been so kind to him, entering the doomed house. Knowing it means certain death, the Italian pleads with her not to enter.

Miss Peggy O’Neill in the title role of Clara E. Laughlin’s story offers a good portrayal, bringing to her interpretation a wealth of talent and charm.
Frank Weed, as the Italian, is most realistic and the role as presented by him will long be remembered, say critics, as one of the truest Italian characterizations ever given to the screen.

The scenes between Miss O’Neill and Mr. Weed, including the planting of the bomb, were taken in the heart of Chicago’s “Little Italy.”

MICHIGAN EXHIBITORS
LINE UP SOLD IN TWO NEW A. E. A. BRANCHES

Through the efforts of King Perry and D. Snyder, the exhibitors of Detroit are now lined up solid with the American Exhibitors Association. Mr. Snyder is president of the branch and King
Perry is secretary.

At a meeting held early this month in Detroit a majority of the motion picture men of the state joined the two new branches of the A. E. A. and announced their withdrawal from the Ochs League. One branch takes in the entire state of Michigan and the other the city of Detroit. S. A. Moran, Edward Cecili, and C. E. Lacy, of Lansing, sec-tary.

Membership applications are pouring in from every section of the state and Michigan will soon represent one of the strongest units of the A. E. A., it is said.

GEORGE WALSH STAR IN “THE YANKEE WAY”
WILLIAM FOX’S MID-SEPTEMBER FEATURE

Film action starts with fight in Chicago cabaret and terminates with a marriage in warring Balkans; other features in making announced

George Walsh is the star of William Fox’s mid-September film, “The Yankee Way,” a comedy of international romance, which has its beginning in a Chicago cabaret and concludes with a wedding in the warring Balkans. The film starts in with a fight.

In the supporting cast are Enid
Markey, Joe Dowling, Charles Elder,
James O’Shea, Ed. Sedgwick, Edward Cecili, and Tom Wilson.

“Smiling George” has begun work on a new special feature under the direction of his brother, R. A. Walsh. James A.
Marcus and Ralph Lewis, who have had important roles in many William Fox productions, have been selected by Director Walsh to appear prominently in George’s forthcoming screen drama.

June Caprice has also started work on another production. Harry Millarde, who directed Miss Caprice in “Every Girl’s Dream,” her most recent film, is again in charge of the direction.

A title has been determined upon by William Fox for the picture which Glady’s Blockwell now has in the making.
This will be called “Conscience.”

After the publication of “The Yankee Way” on September 16 will come “North of Fifty Three.” The latter will be followed in turn by “A Rich Man’s Plaything,” a subject of strong dramatic action.

“SIRENS OF SEA”
NEW JEWEL PLAY WITH MISS LOVELY

Louise Lovely, whose most recent starring vehicle was “Sirens of the Sea,” a Jewel Productions feature, soon will appear in another film, which will be offered to the trade in the near future.

St. John, N. B.—J. T. Hesse, proprietor of the Princess Theatre, Farnham, Que. has been bereaved by the loss of his son, who was “killed in action somewhere in France.” Private Hesse went overseas with the 176th Eastern Townships Battalion, recruited at Sherbrooke. He is twenty years of age.

START A BLUEBIRD DAY
Taylor Holmes and Bryant Washburn are the two stars featured in Essanay's program of films for October. "Fools for Luck" is the title of Mr. Holmes' offering. It is a comedy-drama, scheduled for publication October 8. Mr. Washburn will follow in another comedy-drama entitled "The Fibbers," October 15. Both these five-reel productions will be distributed through the George Ade System. In addition to these objects, Essanay will continue its weekly plays of George Ade's Fables in ang, which are reported to be meeting with success as two-part comedies. The General Film Company, etc., is handling these films.

Is a Post Story

"Fools for Luck" is a screen version of a story entitled "Talismans," which as written by Kenneth Harris and published in the Saturday Evening Post. It is based on the inordinate superstition of a young man who looks upon his rabbit's foot as his best friend. How he meets the girl and eventually is routed of his failing forms a picture which, in story form, proved a very laughable adventure. Helen Ferguson is Mr. Holmes' leading woman in this production. The picture has a screen time, approximately, of sixty-five minutes.

"The Fibbers" was written by James W. Adams, a magazine man, and presents Mr. Washburn in another of his well-known comedy characterizations. The story is based on the struggles of a young architect and his bride to defeat the high cost of living, and, in their desperation, each comes to suspect the other of peridy. The picture is somewhat on the order of "Skinner's Dress Suit." Virginia Valli, who was Taylor Holmes' leading woman, takes the leading feminine role. "The Fibbers" will have a screen time, approximately, of sixty-five minutes.

These two productions are the second and third films to be issued by Essanay on the Perfection Pictures program.

E. SHURTLEFF ENGAGED TO PERFECT EFFICIENT SALES CORPS FOR SELECT

Arthur S. Kane, general manager of Select Pictures Corporation, has secured the services of C. E. Shurtleff as sales manager for Select Pictures.

Mr. Shurtleff is well known to the trade, having been connected with Pathe, world Film Corporation and V. L. S. E. various capacities. Mr. Shurtleff will devote his energies to perfecting an efficient sales corps and will make a comprehensive study of the field covered by fect exchanges.

FIRST COMMONWEALTH PICTURES CORP. FILM WITH CHARLOTTE PROGRESSES RAPIDLY

Work is progressing rapidly on the Commonwealth Pictures Corporation film featuring Charlotte, the world's champion ice skater, under the direction of Oscar W. Eagle.

Cortlandt J. Van Deusen, formerly with the Vitagraph Company, is assisting Mr. Eagle in the work in the Chicago studio. Both of these men have had considerable experience in the film game. Mr. Eagle having handled John Barrymore, Vivian Martin and many others in his Famous Players and World Film Corporation connections. Mr. Van Deusen also produced "The Man Behind the Curtain," "In Arcadia," "The Secret" and many other films of note, besides being associated with Sidney Drew for two years.

Jack J. Rose, of the Essanay Company, has been engaged to do the photographic work. Mr. Rose filmed the "Skinner" series, "Graustark," several of the Charles Chaplin comedies as well as features in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne appeared. Jack Meredith, late of Triangle, will appear in support of Charlotte.

"SCREEN OPINIONS" IS CAHILL-IGOE CO'S NEW TRADE BOOK

Pamphlet Contains Reviews and Advertising Service for Aiding Exhibitor

"Screen Opinions and Advertising Service" is the name of a booklet that will be issued weekly and monthly by the Cahill-Igoe Company of Chicago, the first number of which appeared last week.

The pamphlet contains reviews of current films written by the editorial staff of "Screen Opinions," as well as comments on the same films by other trade journals. At the bottom of each page is given a short write-up on each picture for exhibitors' programs.

On the cover of "Screen Opinions" is a table of the "Pick o' the Plays" and the whole presents a neat and compact appearance. Paul G. Smith is the editor.
Circle Theater, Indianapolis, in First Anniversary

Half-Million-Dollar House, With 3,100 Seats, Representing Acme of Architectural Skill, Is One of Most Elegant in U. S., and a Palace of Real Art

The Circle Theater, Indianapolis, Ind., which is one of the finest motion picture houses in this country, is celebrating its first anniversary this week.

The Circle is located on the historic Monument Circle, Indianapolis, and has a frontage of one hundred feet, being two hundred and twenty feet deep. It represents an outlay of more than a half million dollars and was projected by Indianapolis business men, headed by A. L. Block and Robert Lieber, who are respectively president and vice-president of the Circle Theater Company.

The theater contains 3,100 seats and its stage is one of the largest in the United States, making it possible to present elaborate pageants. The interior of the house is said to represent the acme of architectural skill and art, and has become the Mecca of architects in all sections of the country, who build motion picture theaters.

Has an Imposing Facade

An imposing facade of white terra cotta greets one's eye upon approaching the theater, which is lighted by hundreds of incandescent lights. This is surmounted by a frieze of Greek figures, representing the muses. Below is a panel of Grecian pastoral scenes in oil. The lobby is trimmed in ivory, gold and marble, relieved by bas-relief figures.

A spacious promenade opens into the theater proper. This is decorated in warm grays, delicate rose tints and panels and friezes of Grecian figures and conventional designs.

A marble staircase leads to the lounge and mezzanine floor, which is provided with deep divans and lounge chairs.

From the lounge one enters the mezzanine floor and lounge—the Circle's choice seats. A third promenade is approaching from the lounge which leads to the balcony.

The auditorium proper is Old English in style, with simple graceful lines adding harmony, dignity, comfort and beauty to the vast structure. The decorations here consist of warm colors blended in exquisite harmony, while conventional designs offer striking relief.

Staff of Thirty Ushers

A staff of thirty ushers under the command of a captain and lieutenant is employed to direct patrons to seats.

Music plays an important role in the Circle's program and under the leadership of Max Weil, the Circle Orchestra has become an Indianapolis institution. An immense organ is also a part of the theater's equipment that adds to the enjoyment of the pictures.

Mr. Weil, the conductor of the circle orchestra, provides the best that there is to be had in the way of musical entertainment and the theater has thousands of patrons who come to hear his orchestra. Born in Philadelphia, Mr. Weil completed his musical education under the foremost musicians of Paris, Vienna, Berlin and Leipzig. He has appeared as soloist throughout the country earning distinction as a violinist as well as a teacher.

At the outbreak of the present war Mr. Weil conducted the Calgary Symphony Orchestra, one of the largest and finest musical organizations in the Dominion of Canada.

Music Director Is Film Student

He has made a close study of the needs of the cinema in the way of music, having spent a year in California studying the process of manufacture of screen plays and has blended the symphony of sight and sound. With the large organ, too, Mr. Weil is able to obtain wonderful effects playing the most symphonic compositions, overtures, and idyllic suites. The following list of the Circle's musical numbers shows that real music is highly suitable for films:

Overtures:
- American Fantasia
- Raymond
- Poet and Peasant
- Maritana

Suites:
- Le Fete de Seville
- Faust Ballet Suite
- Peer Gynt
- Waltzes

Serenade

Selections:
- Serenade
- Pagliacci
- Robin Hood
- Princess Pat
- Naughty Marietta

A fully equipped scenic studio is also maintained from which the Circle draws its scenery to embellish its production.

Unusual Care in Selecting Films

In selecting pictures for Circle patrons the manager uses unusual care, viewing hundreds of films weekly and selecting only the best from the standpoint of entertainment value. Not being bound to one producer or program, the Circle draws its attractions from every source. Among the features that have been shown at the Circle are, "The Game of Allah," which received its American premiere at this house "The Crisis," "The Barrier," "On Trial," "Within the Law," "The Witching Hour," "Wild and Woolly," "Poor Little Ri Girl," "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Broadway Jones," "The View of Wakefield," "The Mysterious Mrs. M." and "The Easiest Way.

On the executive staff besides S. Barrett McCormick, managing director, is Myles H. Sinnott, house manager; Max Weil, musical director; Joseph Mahler, outdoor advertising, and Anna Frand, secretary to managing director.

The technical staff consists of Harry D. Bolton, stage manager; Charles W. Read, scenic artists; Wendell G. Starbuck, master electrician, and Earl L. Slater, chief projection engine.

On the house staff is V. C. Smith, captain of usher Gerald Weil, lieutenant of ushers; Mrs. N. Slater, Miss Pe Cooley, cashiers, and Mrs. Wren, maitron.

"One Hour" is a novel and thrilling melodrama, filled with suspense, excitement, and an unusually well directed series of scenes that are "different." Paul McAllister has written and directed a clean, satisfying scenario. The settings and photography abound in rarely beautiful effects and artistic novelties. The skiing of Alan Hale on the steep hills of the snowbound country and his flying leap from the sleigh to a fast train is an added attraction to an adventure story.

Miss Zena Keefe plays a delightful "Opal." Her work is sympathetic, womanly and sincere. Alan Hale is virile and displays dignified reserve in a different characterization.

With the utmost care to details, William A. Brady of the World Film Corporation presents a stirring, intensely interesting photoplay in "Rasputin the Black Monk." The interest is well sustained from beginning to end, with occasional humorous situations injected to relieve the heavy drama. The picture concerns the workings of one of the most unscrupulous of men, whose deeds have become history. Mr. Brady has adhered tenaciously to facts and presents a most dramatic story.

The company chosen to present the story is composed of actors of the highest type and the portrayals they present speak well for the casting director. Montagu Love makes a most acceptable Rasputin. He is magnificent in his acting. Julia Dean gives a beautiful impersonation of the Czarina's favorite lady-in-waiting, while the balance of the cast offers wonderful characterizations.

The story tells of the hypnotic influence Rasputin held over the Czar and others. It begins where Rasputin is shown as a lover about an inn, making his living traveling about impersonating a Monk. He is discovered by the Czar's spies, who offer him work in the Czar's service, seeking out those who are trying to overthrow the empire. Rasputin betrays his countrymen and is taken to St. Petersburg, where he is soon in the good graces of the Czar. He possesses an unusual influence over the Czarina's favorite lady-in-waiting.

While the Czar's child is ill the maid tells the Czarina of the wonderful powers of Rasputin, and he is sent for. He agrees to cure the baby, but declares he must remain close by to perfect a cure. He is given apartments in the palace, and his hold upon the Czar is at once evident. Unrest in the ranks of the Russian army becomes evident and Rasputin is accused as being the cause. The Czar orders him from court, whereupon the maid, who has become Rasputin's confidante, places a drug in the sick child's chocolate, which throws it into a coma. Rasputin is called in by the Czarina, and his power becomes still greater when he cures the child. His love for women finally brings about his downfall. He goes to the home of Princess Zolopoulou, who had spurned him, and the "Sirens of the Sea" is a pretty, spectacular and picturesque play replete with diving girls, witches and beautiful sea nymphs. The appeal to the eye should be sufficient to put the picture over with most audiences and it is what might be termed an excellent T. B. M. film. The story was written by Helen Bailey and has been carefully produced under the direction of Allen Holubar. It features Louise Lovely, Carmel Myers, Jack Muhall, Sydney Dean and a score of bathing girls and children, the latter dressed as fairies.

A SCENE FROM "SIRENS OF THE SEA" WITH LOUISE LOVELY AND JACK MUHALL IN THE FOREGROUND (Jewel Productions, Inc.)

The story: A baby girl, cast up by the sea in a fisherman's net, is adopted by a wealthy family. Eighteen years elapse and the child appears as the young debutante at a birthday party. While on an errand she is followed by an inquisitive lover and to avoid him throws herself from a cliff. The balance of the story pictures a dream one of the guests has while out in a boat searching for the girl, in which witches, spirits and sirens dance and play on the beach at night. Many pretty dances are introduced and the fairy story is well done. The fairies are driven away at break of day and the young man wakes up, finds his sweetheart on a reef and takes her home.

CENTRAL FILM CO. BUYS "WHIP" FOR CHICAGO AND ILLINOIS

Aaron J. Jones, of Chicago, announces the purchase by his Central Film Company of "The Whip" for Illinois. This is the biggest feature yet produced under the personal direction of William A. Brady, and is a film version of the Dury Lane spectacle, which was imported by Mr. Brady, and which ran one whole winter at the Auditorium Theater in Chicago. Incidentally, "The Whip" will be the last picture shown at the Colonnial, before that house enters the field of spoken drama. It follows Norma Talmadge in "The Moth."

FANNIE WARD (Paramount)

The story: Merlin, the only child of a sheep rancher, is kidnapped by Sontag, who shoots her father and drives off the sheep. She is known as Mexicali Mae, in Sontag’s salon, where she is compelled to dance nightly. Here she meets Joe Blanchard, a derelict from the East, who plays the piano in order to secure enough “dope” to satisfy his craving. Sontag, fearing one of his confederates has “double-crossed” him and told about his opium smuggling, kills the man and faces the blame on Joe. Merlin helps Joe escape and they flee up a ranch, where Joe finally overcomes his desire for drugs. Joe’s mother and fiancee pay him a visit and Mrs. Blanchard tries to buy Mae off and have Joe return East. Mae returns to Sontag’s dance hall. Joe follows and is convinced she no longer loves him. Mae returns to the ranch and is about to end her life when Sontag and Joe arrive. In the tussle which follows, Sontag is killed and Joe realizes that Mae really loves him.

The Thanhouser production of Edward Everett Hale's "Man Without a Country" is a picture that should rouse the nation to a great rally round the flag. Every American will feel prouder of being an American after seeing it. The enthusiasm that follows such a piece of work will transform every drop of slacken blood into patriotic service for "Old Glory" at a time when she needs the loyal support of her sons, in their great cause of universal democracy and brotherhood.

Exhibitors throughout the United States can show their patriotism in no more useful way than by booking this picture and allowing every boy and girl in the country to get a thrill for a common cause.

Barbara enlists as a nurse and her brother as a soldier. Later, the old friend of the hero's family takes him a copy of "The Man Without a Country" and asks him to read it and rise above his treasonable views. He does so, and as he reads the story he discards his patriotic spirit. Barbara comes to him in vision of Columbia, telling him of the glorious life he was Philip Nolan in the story and takes him back to the historic times and shows him a succession of scenes from the book. He tells her that he will fight with horror the famous court martial, in which he was sentenced. Barbara, who has heard of the United States again, the tragedy of the careful carrying out of the sentence, and the pitiful death of the man, made a little easier by the humanity of Captain Danforth, who gave him a brief history of the late case, which he had learned to bless before he died. His spirit returns from the allegorical journey and he responds to the new and vigorous manhood within him and enlists at once, thereby again winning Barbara, who is home on sick leave from her nursing in France.

This is called a "tale of a bandit and a ghost," but it consists principally of close-ups of pretty Winifred Allen talking to an apparition of her late mother and feeding ducks. They are accompanied by her, indeed, and some of the scenes were drawn out unnecessarily long. As a character study of a little girl who was very, very lonely, "The Haunted House" presents a pathetic little story.

Miss Allen is excellent in the role of "Spooky Anne" and Dick Rossen as Jimmy, Albert Day as Anne's Uncle and Robert Shirley as a small-town "detective," present good characterizations. Robert Shirley also directed the production.

The story: Anne is scorned by the villagers who speak of her as "queer." Her father, a railroad brakeman, neglects to supply the love she craves and she spends most of her time in an isolated house, known as "the haunted house," with a half dozen young ducks. A young thief from the city is wounded while trying to escape from the town constable, after a bank robbery, and Anne nurses him in the seclusion of the old house. She scars off intruders by dressing up as a ghost but finally Jimmy, the derelict, is taken to prison. Anne has fallen in love with Jimmy and is finally rewarded by his return.

"FIGHTING IN FRANCE"
M. L. Fulton Official French War Pictures; six parts; published state rights.

Exhibitors looking for war pictures of merit for their daily programs will find no subject of more interest than the "Fighting in France" film, being exploited by M. L. Fulton, Chicago. Battle scenes are shown that bring home the awful war and give spectators a clear understanding of the magnitudes of the great conflict now being waged in Europe.

The first reel shows the maneuvers of the French troops going into action; interesting views of the trenches; French soldiers getting ready their great kites from which photographs are taken of the enemy's positions and scenes of the Replay nurses working in close quarters, and the men in reserve waiting the order to advance. One picture shows: battlefield with an area as large as Manhattan Island, that resembles a dumping ground covered with garbage can. Twenty-one thousand German prisoners march by, in markable contrast to the hordes that rolled across Belgium in 1914. Pictures of the late Lord Kitchener greeting General Joffre are shown, as well as King George reviewing French troops. More than 20,000 priests are in the field in Europe and pictures of mass before a battle present impressive bits of the war. One picture shows: forest being mowed down by the terrific shell fire; others show the French trenches by the Germans, who take advantage of favorable winds. Six camera men lost their lives taking the "Fighting in France" pictures, it is said, and film theaters can realize the SUVHDSs encountered when they see the shells bursting. The photography is remarkably clear and the pictures are nicely tinted.

When Elmer Clifton directed "Flirting with Death," adapted from "Sky High," he evidently had in mind all classes of audiences, for without doubt the elite audience and the mixed audience will all enjoy this latest production. It has been handled with a human appeal and exhibits everywhere should find it successful.

There is plenty of clean humor, lots of good circus scenes and the old-fashioned country atmosphere that makes even city-bred people homesick for the good old farm. The cast is well chosen and each member has grasped the spirit of the story. The cast are Brownie Vernon, Herbert Rawlinson, Frank McQuarrie, Marc Fenton, H. F. Crane and Red Tigger.

"War and the Woman" represents "what might have been," the story being based on an imaginary invasion of the United States by foreign armies. The story has been carefully handled and because it is well acted and directed and otherwise skillfully presented it offers an exceptionally strong program number.

Miss La Badie in the role of the American girl, married to an officer of the aviation corps, puts plenty of feeling and action into the part and the support and the part and the support and Tom Brooke, as John Braun, an alien spy, Wayne Arey, as the patriotic American, John Arey, is also well done.

An alien regiment in the possession of the house and servants and Ruth is compelled to work as a maid, the soldiers holding prolonged revelries and forcing the young girls of the neighborhood to participate. Ruth blows up the house during one of these orgies and flies away with her husband in his aeroplane.

If a capable cast had been selected for "Mountain Dew" it would have ranked as a first class production. As it is, the story is pleasing enough and there is a good deal of humor throughout the entire production, but the inability of the leading players to register anything but smiles brings the picture below the Triangle standard.

Margery Wilson and Charles Gunn are cast in the lead. The other members are Thomas Washington, Al W. Filson, Jack Richardson, Aaron Edwards and Mary Borland. Special credit is due Thomas Washington and Al W. Filson. The story is by Julien Joseph Coe and Monte M. Katterjohn. Direction by Thomas Heffron.

The story: J. Hamilton Vance goes to the mountains to find new material for his novel. He becomes the school teacher and becomes acquainted with Roxie Bradley, daughter of Squire Bradley, who does not approve of Roxie's learning. However, Vance is successful in teaching the girl to read and write and though he is constantly being suspected of being a class officer, he manages to make a few friends. However, a stray piece of paper flies away on which he has begun his novel and this picked up by some of the moonshiners, make them attack him. He marries Roxie and by promising to become a partner in their distillery of illicit liquor, he is allowed to continue his way unharmed.

JULIA SANDERSON IN "THE RUNAWAY" AND RUSSELL IN "SACRIFICE" FILM LEAD MUTUAL SEPTEMBER 24 LIST

Julia Sanderson, the stage star, makes her screen debut September 24, when Mutual issues "The Runaway," a five-reel drama produced by the Empire All Star Corporation. On the same date Mutual will publish "Sands of Sacrifice," a five-reel drama, starring William Russell.

"The Runaway" was directed for the screen as well as for the stage by Dell Henderson, and the cast which supported Miss Sanderson in the stage production was selected to appear with her in the screen version of the play. "The Runaway" is part of the series of Charles Frohman's stage successes in motion pictures, in which Miss Sanderson, Ann Murdock and Olive Tell will appear.

New Russell Series Opens

"Sands of Sacrifice" gives William Russell a new and interesting hero role. He has plenty of opportunities to fight and there are several scenic encounters in the course of the five reels, which show the athletic picture star to the best of advantage. The scenes are laid in the mountains of the East and in the great American desert. Russell and George Periolat stage a battle in the last scene which is as realistic as any of the fights which Russell has produced for the screen.

"Sands of Sacrifice" is the first of a new series of Russ productions under Mutual's schedule of two a week. It will be directed, as were the pictures in the recent series of Russ successes, by Edward S. Sloman.

Chapter Two of "The Lost Express"

The second chapter of "The Lost Express," Mutual-Signal's mystery serial, will be published Monday, September 14. The second chapter bears the title "The Destroyed Documents." It takes the story, into new mysteries following the disappearance of the express train in Chapter I. Miss Holm plays a conspicuous part in the chapter. First run bookings of "The Lost Express" have been heavy, particularly so with exhibitors who have shown Miss Holm's previous photodram, it is said.

Comedy and Two Topicals

The Cub comedy for September 27 is "Jerry's Big Day," one reel, in which George Ovey impersonates the new minister in a small village. Jerry makes love to the spinster of the congregation and plays poker with which clerk to their financial and moral embarrassment. He is finally routed by the real parson, whose outfit Jerry has had the day upon him.

Mutual Weekly No. 143, for September 26, will carry scenes from the camp of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, together with news pictures of the preparations for war in this country. "Relief" No. 74, the one-reel weekly magazine, shows the interesting method by which clocks are corrected in all parts of the country from the naval observatory. It pictures the portable bakeries which have been signed for the American army, shows the progress which has been made in the processes for manufacturing eye-glasses, and contains an animated drawing from life.

About that time many of our soldiers will be embarking or France, some of them will be arriving on foreign soil, and it is quite probable that not a few will be in active battle Gaumont cameramen on the spot will take pictures wherever army officials will allow them to set up their cameras.

Editorial Entitled "Running and Not Fighting" Brings Vitriolic Reply From Pettijohn; "Brandt, of Brooklyn, Executive Secretary of M. P. E. L. Is Now Under Arrest," Is Charge

"No, Mr. Trade Review, we are not running and we are not fighting, but we are trying to fight right," is the reply which the American Exhibitors' Association makes this week to a recent editorial printed in the Ochs organ.

In reply to the Ochs tirade, Mr. Pettijohn, the editorial secretary of the executive secretaries, of the M. P. E. L., is now under arrest in Cause No. Court, and Mr. Ochs, the president of the M. P. E. L., is collecting the $3 per exhibitor. "Draw your own conclusions."

The entire reply, which follows, has been made by the A. E. A. through Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager:

"The 'running and not fighting' editorial in the Exhibitors' Trade Review this week is thoroughly in keeping with their policy to misrepresent and mislead exhibitors. The American Exhibitors Association has no official organ, but we do appreciate the support of the numerous papers who believe we are right. This action is not intended to say or do anything that might in the least discourage any man or set of men engaged in any fight for the exhibitor. We are concerned, however, after the publication of this intentionally misleading article to make this statement:

Situation Is Reversed

"The organization of music composers and publishers known as the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, comprising most of the well-known composers and publishers of America, England, Italy and Austria, was established for the purpose of issuing licenses to public reminds to play the copyrighted music of its membership. This society is operating under Section 1. Sub. Div. c of the Copyright Act, which permits to a musical author the exclusive right to perform the copyrighted musical composition publicly for profit.

"The Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Victor Herbert, the composer, against the Shanley Co., the restaurant on Broadway and Forty-third street, decided that the playing of copyrighted music in the dining room of a restaurant for the entertainment of the guests during meal time by an orchestra was an infringement of the composer's copyright, the court holding that whether or not an admission fee is charged for entering the place of entertainment makes no difference.

"The court said, in January, 1917:

"If the rights under the copyright are infringed only by a performance where money is taken at the door they are impermissible acts.

"The performances not different in kind from those of the defendants could be given that might compete with and even destroy the success of the musical compositions. The law intends the plaintiffs to have. It is enough to say that there is no need to construe the statute so narrowly. The defendant's performances are performed by the law intends the plaintiff to have. It is enough to say that there is no need to construe the statute so narrowly. "The question was then tested in the case of the Accurately, against Royal Pastime Amusement Company, before Judge Julius M. Mayer, of the United States District Court, Southern District of New York, involving the playing of "Poor Butterfly" in the Regent Theatre, a motion picture house in the borough of Manhattan, New York City. Judge Mayer in that case sustained the complaint of the composer against the picture house.

"The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Herbert vs. Shanley proceeds upon the theory that the owner of a musical copyright enjoys two distinct rights: First—The right to publish and sell the composition and various arrangements thereof for different instruments. Second—To publicly perform it for profit.

"I believe Congress intended to accord to the creator of the composition a monopoly for twenty-eight years.

"The musical entertainment is an integral part of some motion picture attractions and in a great many cases the musical programs is a distinctive feature of the house.

Why Not Meet Composers?

"In the American Society we find such names as Victor Herbert, John Philip Sousa, Raymond Hubbell, Irving Berlin.

EXHIBITOR WANTS RUSSELL FEATURES

"Send us more Russells. Our patrons like him." This is the message of Manager Rutherford of the Miles Theatre, Detroit, Mich., who considers "Pride and the Man," the recent Mutual American star production, Russell's best. "I desire to congratulate the Mutual on the new William Russell production, 'Pride and the Man,'" writes Mr. Rutherford.

"The entire picture shows Russell at his best. The photography is excellent and the story intensely interesting. The scenes, especially the fights, are realistic and exciting and never failed to draw an outburst of real enthusiastic applause. Send us more Russells. Our patrons like him."

Mr. Rutherford has just signed up for Mutual star productions and will run Mutual weekly with them.
A. E. A. REPLY TO OCHS

Jerome D. Kern, Ray Goetz, Ernest Ball, Gus Edwards, Rudolf Friml, Sylvio Hein, Hein Leslie, Theodore Morse, Jack Norworth, A. Baldwin Sloane, Puccini, Mascagni, Leoncavallo and hundreds of others.

These men, being artists, are not difficult to approach or to negotiate with. If, however, one does not blink at the facts and fairly recognize that these composers are daily conceiving and creating melodies which appeal to the public and which we need in our theatres for its entertainment, then why should we not meet these men in a spirit of fairness and concede to them that they have created something we want in our business. Considering the matter in that light and relying upon the expression of their representatives as to their willingness to meet us halfway, would it not be best to meet in conference and adjust our differences?

The American Society has been very active in enforcing the rights of its members and has proceeded under both the civil and criminal provisions of the law.

"Under Section 25 of the Copyright Act it is a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment for not exceeding one year, or for a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $5,000, to willfully and for profit infringe a copyright or to aid or abet such infringement.

200 Suits Are Brought

"More than one hundred civil actions have been brought for the recovery of penalties provided for by Section 25 of the Copyright Act, against exhibitors. The law provides that the damages recoverable for the infringement of a copyright shall not be less than $250 nor more than $5,000 upon the basis of $10 for every infringing performance in a case of a popular number, and in the case of an operatic composition $100 for the first and $50 for every subsequent infringing performance. Costs will be allowed in all cases against the infringer and a counsel fee may be awarded in the discretion of the court.

"It has been the policy of this government to give monopolies to authors and inventors upon the theory that by giving them a monopoly of their works the progress of science and useful arts will be promoted. Since phonograph records and rolls were introduced into the market commercially, Congress has amended the copyright laws by compelling the manufacturers to pay a royalty to the composers. The tendency has been towards more complete protection of authors and composers.

"No honest lawyer should advise a client to engage in litigation he knows cannot be successful.

Closes Desk in Chicago Office to Join Canadian Aviation Corps for Service in France

J. L. Hunter, chief auditor of the George Kleine System of exchanges, is one of the latest men in the trade to join the army for service in France. On Friday, September 14, he closed his desk for the last time in the George Kleine executive offices, 63 East Adams street, Chicago, and left for Toronto, Canada, where he is already enrolled as a member of the Royal Flying Corps of the British army and will undergo a thorough course of training at a big aviation field before "going across" to take his place in the air alongside the men who are acting as the "eyes" of the British army.

ETHEL CLAYTON IS FRONTIER GIRL IN "DORMANT POWER"

Ethel Clayton plays a frontier girl as the heroine of "The Dormant Power." The heroine of this World-Figure Brady-Made marries a rich man for the sake of her paralyzed father, who spoils all by killing himself just as the knot is tied. Then follows a long, irksome career with the ill-chosen husband and final liberation through his murder at the hands of a woman whose husband he ruined. The story begins in a mining town and ends in New York.

"MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY" FILM ENTERS SECOND WEEK AT N. Y. BROADWAY

"The Man Without a Country" entered its second week at the Broadway Theater September 16. Thanhouser Film Corporation made the picture, which has scored success as presented by Jewel Productions, Inc., during its run at the Broadway house.

J. L. HUNTER
(Chief Auditor, George Kleine System)

A Canadian by birth, Mr. Hunter spent the early part of his life in the Dominion, acquired a thorough banking experience and was engaged in business at Edmonton, Alberta, when some three years ago he was summoned to New York to accept a position as assistant to Auditor F. S. Phelps in the George Kleine office. A year later, when Mr. Phelps was made general manager, Mr. Hunter was appointed general auditor, and up till last week supervised all the expenditures of the home office and the twenty-five branches scattered throughout the principal cities of the country.

CLARA K. YOUNG GIVES PARTY ON 27TH BIRTHDAY

Clara Kimball Young entertained select party of friends at her birthday dinner at the Hotel Knickerbocker, September 6. A large cake with 27 candles told the story. Miss Young not only celebrated the anniversary of her birth day, but also the completion of "Magda," the first picture to have been made in her new organization which she heads and controls.

She is a strong believer in philanthropy and each day gives a penny. Mr. Kimbalton, a millionaire, gives Peggy some money and asks her to give it away for him, but Peggy will not, as she believes the pleasure lies in giving money personally. Peggy teaches Ann, Kimbalton's only daughter how to give away money. One day she is informed that her sweetheart, Tom Oliphant, is arrested charged with trying to dynamite the home of Mr. Kimbalton. With a great deal of effort Peggy proves Tom's innocence and after every one is made happy, she too is made happy.

THE FUTURE GENERATION

NEXT SUNSHINE FEATURE

William Buckley, director of the Sunshine Film Corporation of Chicago, will commence work on that concern's next seven-reel feature, entitled "The Future Generation," September 28. Negotiations are well under way, it is said, with a well known star to appear in the leading masculine role. The picture will be exploited on a state rights basis. The Sunshine Corporation will have four companies working after October 5. Three of these will produce dramas and one comedies. Mr. Buckley will be directly in charge of all productions.

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTION OF ART DRAMAS FILMS GOES TO BIG EXCHANGE

Another deal was consummated this week by Art Dramas when contracts were closed for the distribution rights of the Art Drama pictures for all Canada. The final arrangements were made between Arthur F. Beck, general manager of Art Drama, and George F. Perkins, a Canadian exchange representative of the company, who immediately formed plans for the exploitation of the Art Dramas program in his territory.

Mr. Perkins is a veteran film man and is known as one of the most capable men in the business. He owns the Independent Film and Theater Supply Company, which has exchanges in Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg, Canada.

MARIE WALCAMP IN "RED ACE" SERIAL SCORES A SUCCESS

Marie Walcamp, who makes her 1917 bow to Universal patrons in Jacques Jaccard's new outdoor mystery serial, "The Red Ace," lies, with one brief intermission, appeared in dramatic features released under Big U auspices throughout the past four years. Her work last season as the heroine of "Liberty," Jaccard's big patriotic story in sixteen episodes, established her as a picture player of ability. It is confidently predicted by those who are now following her work in the opening episodes of "The Red Ace" that she will add considerably to her prestige with the characterization of Virginia Dixon, the fearless and appealing American girl who fights her way to victory over a band of alien conspirators seeking to wrest the secret of a lost platinum mine from her family in the wilds of British Columbia.

Evidence of Miss Walcamp's drawing power may be gathered, it is said, from the fact that since the publication of the first episode of "The Red Ace," on August 27, more than 240 houses have booked the Universal serial in the vicinity of New York.

MASTER M. P. CO. WORKS ON A NEW COMEDY FILM AT GALVESTON STUDIO

"Waves and Winds," a comedy, now being staged at the Galveston Texas, studios by the Master Motion Picture Company, has its première formed plans for the exploitation of the Art Dramas program in his territory.

Mr. Perkins is a veteran film man and is known as one of the most capable men in the business. He owns the Independent Film and Theater Supply Company, which has exchanges in Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg, Canada.

New York—A charter has been applied for by the Henry B. Walsh Pictures Corporation to engage in all branches of theatrical and motion picture business. The directors are Wm. Aronsen, John W. McKay and Olga Schultheis. The concern is capitalized at $20,000.

New York—William B. Stanley, Inc., will import and manufacture motion pictures. The new company is capitalized at $10,000. William B. Stan- ley, Henry Morgeshes and Allan A. Deutsch are directors.

New York—Application has been made for a charter by the Henry B. Walsh Film Corporation to engage in all branches of theatrical and motion picture business. The directors are W. H. Rudolph, B. H. Cohen and A. B. Williamson.

New York—The Pence-Warde Company will make motion pictures and codes. The new company is capitalized at $75,000. The directors are Count Kafam Casaki, Julius Winters and Henry Cografy.

NEW THEATERS

New York—The Wilmer Vincent Theatre Co. has filed plans for a new motion picture theater and business block to be erected at Farrington street and Broadway, Flushing, at a cost of $160,000.

Philadelphia—Plans have been filed for a combination ten-story office and theater building at Broad and Spruce streets, to cost $200,000.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—A. C. Phelh has prepared plans for W. S. Sholl for the erection of a motion picture theater here to seat 800.

Albany, Ga.—Owners of the Rawlinz Theatre will erect a new theater to the structure damaged by fires. The new house will have a seating capacity of 900.

St. Louis, Mo.—The Consolidated Theatre Company, located in the Holland building, will erect a theater and store here to cost $750,000. W. Gold- man is president of the concern.

Adrian, Mich.—C. J. Aube is remodeling the south store in his block and will rent it as a motion picture theater.

Austin, Minn.—The United Theatres Company has been consulting with architects for the erection of a $45,000 theater building here.

Earle, Ark.—A stock company has been organ-
Toronto, Ont.—Clair Hague, general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, is back once more at his desk, 106 Richmond street, West Toronto, after attending the convention of the Maritime Exhibitors’ League. Mr. Hague states that the convention from every viewpoint was an extremely successful one.

He was called upon to address the conventionists and described the Motion Picture Board, now at work with the Dominion Board of Food Control, and pointed out how the exhibitor could perform a patriotic duty by showing the films which are about to be issued.

Winnipeg, Man.—C. H. Booth, for eight years general manager for western Canada for the Mutual Film Corporation, has resigned his position with the Standard Electric Company in Winnipeg. B. Witham, late Regina manager for Mutual, has been appointed Booth’s successor.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Province Theatre, Winnipeg, has a new organ, which is said to have cost $20,000, and is the largest in western Canada. Geo. E. Metcalfe is organist. Mr. Metcalfe is well known throughout the Pacific Coast cities.

Calgary, Alta.—State rights features announce that J. Belmont, formerly of Winnipeg, will be the special representative for the western Canada territory.

Toronto, Ont.—Henry Brock, of Buffalo, one of the largest motion picture investors on this continent, was instantly killed in a motor car accident while on his way to Montreal a few days ago. Mr. Brock owned four theatres in Montreal, two in Toronto, and was consultant in two Toronto houses. In addition to the above he was interested in the Strand Theatre, New York.

Vancouver, B. C.—The British Columbia Gazette formerly announced that Metro Pictures Limited has been organized and incorporated to take over the interest of the Metro Moving Picture Film Company in British Columbia. Matthew J. Barr is named as the president of the new corporation with headquarters at Vancouver.

Toronto, Ont.—In connection with the vacation training of the returned conscription soldiers, the Military Hospitals Commission has opened a class for picture operators at the Central Technical School, Toronto. The class has attracted much interest among the returned soldiers, as it is a means by which they may earn their livelihood.

Winnipeg, Man.—It is reported that the Balboa Amusement Producing Company of Long Beach, Cal., has sent a camera mission into the northern wilds of Canada under the guidance of Eugene Chinlund. It is announced that they will not return until driven back by the extreme cold weather of the north.

Montreal, Que.—The St. Denis Theatre, Montreal, which was closed last spring after it had been sold at public auction, has been purchased by Roland Roberts, manager of the Regent Theatre, Toronto, to manage this large theatre, and the managing director of the new company will be N. L. Nathanson, who is general manager of the Regal Films Limited. The house will have a symphony orchestra of sixteen pieces under the leadership of J. J. Boulet, late of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra.

Toronto, Ont.—The Dominion of Canada, through the government at Ottawa, and the various provincial governments, is making elaborate plans to use the Canadian film industry for war purposes. This important piece of news just leaked out a few days ago. It is now known that a body known as the Moving Picture Distribution Committee has just been appointed in conjunction with Food Controller Hannah.

Those who will form this important committee are Claire Hague, general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited; Jule and J. J. Allen and W. A. Willison, chief of the Educational Department of the Food Controller’s office.

It is planned that this committee will take charge of all films which are to be made relative to food conservation in Canada. The committee will look after the proper distributing of these films and see that they are used to the greatest advantage of Canada.

Already many important plans are under way, which will soon be disclosed to the Canadian exhibitors. The Canadian government has at last realized that in the motion picture industry there is a great opportunity offered by the dissemination of public intelligence. The American president declared that the film is a close rival of the daily newspaper when it comes to giving the people of America facts about the war.

It is indeed gratifying to know that Canada will now step in line and make use of the film to help win the war, as such is now being used by the Americans.

GOLDWYN EXHIBITORS AID SHEET
SHOWS HOW TO ADVERTISE NEW “BABY MINE” FILM PRODUCTION

In its exhibitor service sheet, known as “The Goldwyn Exhibitor,” Goldwyn Pictures Corporation offers the following classified aids for the advertising and promotion of its second production, “Baby Mine,” published throughout America September 23.

There are three great assets in possession of the exhibitor who plays Goldwyn’s production starring Madge Kennedy in “Baby Mine” in his theatre. They are:

1. The star of the piece as a play—as Margaret Mayo’s most laughable farce.
2. The abundance of laughs from the beginning to the end of the picture.
3. The baby—by no means the smallest of the assets.

At least twenty-five per cent of your success in showmanship depends upon how well you exploit and advertise your picture. Some experts say that, no matter how good your show or picture is, advertising is fifty per cent in determining its success.

Now let us suggest a number of things you may do in exploiting “Baby Mine” so that the people of your town will talk about this Goldwyn picture all week and for weeks afterwards.

Advertising

Note that the advertising cuts for this production make use of babies. Every woman and every child—and most men—will have changed newspapers. Small advertisements are on the shelves of all Goldwyn branches to assist you with attractive designs. Instructions under each cut show its possibilities. The same drawings are also available in photographic form in all branches for exhibitors who wish to use larger space and have newspapers make their own cuts from the same designs.

Stunts

An exhibitor’s wife or daughter can arrange a crib like the one in the picture and place it in the lobby with huge dolls. An exhibitor with a larger lobby and an energetic wife or woman assistant can arrange for a baby show in a roped-off side of his lobby for the afternoon of each day the picture is shown. Mothers in charge of their own infants in the lobby will attract every friend and neighbor to your house for this show and the picture.

One or two alert storekeepers in each town, being told that in the film “Baby Mine” are shown most attractive baby clothes, and house gowns for mothers, will be willing to arrange window displays, with attractive cards or small posters of a crying baby in the center of the display, saying: “The baby clothes you see in ‘Baby Mine’ are made here.”

Obtain these little cuts and have your printer print a small folded or announcement to be sent out to your entire mailing list. Give a small and inexpensive souvenir at one or more matinee to the mother of the finest baby.

In your advertising you have the chance to use many good lines.

“The only American farce ever played in Chinese in China—190 nights in Peking and it made the Chinese howl with laughter.”

“‘Baby Mine’—the farce that captured Paris and Berlin and London.”

SEASON’S FIRST GRIDIRON BATTLE AND ROOSEVELT’S TALK TO WOMEN

News events from four corners of the United States, including New York, California, Chicago and Galveston, Texas, figures among the twelve subjects that make up the 89th issue of the Universal Animated Weekly.

A good sense of variety has been maintained in choosing the material for this film, which opens with pictures of the first football game of the season on the grounds of the University of California, and closes with some characteristic views of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt making a speech for women suffrage on the porch of his home at Oyster Bay.

There are also interesting views of the U. S. Interment Camp near Fort McPherson, Georgia, where German prisoners of war are shown making wooden toys as a means of obtaining money for tobacco and other minor necessities; some alluring pictures of Texas mermaids dispersing themselves on the beach of Galveston; and taking lessons in farm work on the estate of Delancy Nicoll at Ossining, New York; scenes taken at the last open air dance for the screen on Chicago’s new municipal pier, and pictures of the building of U. S. Canteens at Camp Gordon, where 900 carpenters erected a two-story barracks 140x48 feet in size, in the record time of eight working hours.

But the scenes that will probably arouse most interest are these showing the departure of the famous 7th Regiment of New York on the first relay of their journey to the trenches of Northern France.

“THE MASTER SPY,” SECRET SERVICE AGENT STORY, WITH NOTED STARS
LEADS UNIVERSAL LIST SEPT. 24

“The Master Spy,” an episode in the career of Yorke Norroy, secret service agent, written by George Bronson Home, and directed by Charles Vidor, is Universal’s regular schedule of films for the week of September 24. Kingsley Benedict and Mignon Anderson are the featured players of this stirring Gold Seal drama of life on the border of Russia and Saxonland during the early days of the war.

The Story in Brief

Yorke Norroy, played by Kingsley Benedict, has secured passports to himself and his fellow agent of the U. S. State Department after considerable difficulty, and is about to leave for home when he is met by John Gaunt, the British agent with a request to deliver a set of plans of the Saxon fortresses to Gaunt’s superiors in London. Gaunt is in such poor health that he mistrusts his own ability to make the journey and he tells Norroy that if the documents reach his destination he will never be able to collect the two thousand pounds that have been promised him, and his family will be left penniless. Norroy finally agrees to undertake the dangerous mission. The story of the adventures that befell him is a result of his generous impulse to provide many blood-stirring scenes to a screen play in which action and vivid characterization are happily blended.

Two Comedies and Weekly

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are featured in “Taking The Medicine,” a Nestor comedy to be issued Tuesday, September 25.

“Scapaulds and Sirens,” a two-reel L-Ko comedy, will be issued Wednesday, September 23, with Gladys Varden, Harlon Lorraine, Walter Stephens and Bert Roach in the principal parts. The 91st issue of the Animated Weekly will be published on the same date, containing pictures of the latest at most interesting news events.

Lena Baskette is the star of the dramatic feature scheduled for Thursday, September 27. “A Romany Rose” is the title of Lena’s vehicle. A number of prominent players appear support of the little dancing heroine, including Claire M. Dowell, Charles Hill Maile, and Bronson and Nigel Bruce. The story has to do with a little gypsy girl who inherits genius as a dancer is exploited by her father with regard for the child’s welfare until fate steps in and changes the course of events.

Other Features of Program

“Marble Heads,” a Joker comedy featuring Gale Her and William Frayne, appears the same day.

Friday, September 28, will be signalized by the issuance of a specially geared comedy entitled “Your Boy a Mine,” in which Lincoln Stedman and Elwood Bredell have featured roles. The 38th issue of the Universal Screen Magazine will reach the screen the same day.

Helen Gibson is the star of “The Dynamite Special,” a Bisnes railroad comedy which opens on September 28 at the Boston’s Saturday, September 29. William Frayne will be seen on the same day in a Joker comedy known as “The Fountain of Trouble.” The 39th issue of Universal Current Events will complete the week’s program.
WORLD FILMS PROVE STAGE PLAYS ADAPTED TO SCREEN ARE BEST, DECLARES W. A. BRADY

Productions Which Are Seen in Speaking Theatres Have Drawing Power as Pictures, Says Director-General; Popularity With Masses Also Cited as Aid to Exhibitor

"Without the faintest intention of precipitating a controversy," said William A. Brady, director-general of World-Pictures Brady-Made, "I remain unshaken in my belief that the most successful and enduring motion pictures are those which each the screen by way of the speaking theatre. I observe that a previous declaration along these lines has brought out in expression of opinion very much to be contrary, supported by the names of a number of motion pictures which were nothing to the oral stage.

To begin with, some of the listed in the list to which I refer were never consciously successful, and not one of them ever had the vogue of, let us say, the Birth of a Nation, which came to the screen from the theatre, and to the theatre from a printed novel.

Lists World Pictures

"Then let us glance for a moment at the record of World Pictures taken from stage and which were very successful. These include 'After Dark,' 'Aias immy Valentine,' 'As In a Looking Glass,' 'As Ye Sow,' 'The Ballet Girl,' 'The Boss,' 'The Builder of Bridges,' 'A butterfly on the Wheel,' 'The City,' 'Col. Carter of Cartersville,' 'The Cotton King,' 'The Cub,' 'The Dollar Mark,' 'The Face in the Moonlight,' 'The Family Upboard,' 'A Gentleman from Mississippi,' 'The Man of the Hour,' 'The Man Who Found Himself,' 'Mother,' 'Mrs. Viggis of the Cabbage Patch,' 'Old Dutch,' 'Over Night,' 'The Pit,' 'The Lack,' 'The Social Highwayman,' 'Blue Grass,' 'The Master of the House,' 'La Vie De Boheme,' 'Husband and Wife,' 'Forget-Me-Not,' 'Bought and Paid For,' and a few others.

"With this sampling out any one or more of these plays, but bunching the whole lot, I can defy anyone to name a similar number of dramas written exclusively for the stage, or management, registering anything like the drawing power of this collection.

"It seems to me to be a perfectly plain, obvious proposition that if you go before the public as they do in the case of a play that has already been seen and liked by a great number of people, you have got your patronage started before the doors are opened. If this is not the fact, then there is absolutely nothing in publicity and advertising, no use in building up the confidence of the people in the article you are selling."

Value Is Increased

"I will go further and say that when your photoplay is made from a successful stage drama, which in due course was dramatized from an immensely circulated novel, the value is increased immeasurably. This is the situation with our forthcoming picture, 'The Burglar,' starring Carlyle Blackwell and featuring Magde Evans and Evelyn Greeley, or so I am told. As previously stated, our photoplay was produced from the stage play of the same name by Augustus Thomas, which in its time was seen and applauded by pretty much all the theatre patronage of the entire country. Mr. Thomas wrote his drama closely following Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's story, 'Editha's Burglar,' which was read all over the world, having been translated into no less than six languages."

NEW MARKET FOR U. S. IN RUSSIA, SAYS N. S. KAPLAN OF ART FILM CORP.

Opening of New Trade Should Eventually Prove Profitable If Right Kind of Material With Stars Is Offered, He Declares

N. S. Kaplan, president of the Russian Art Film Corporation and representative of the Moscow Art Theater in this country, announced that he has received news dispatches from his studios in Russia which indicate the opening of a new market for American film productions, which eventually he believes will prove to be very profitable. On the eve of revolution in Russia, Mr. Kaplan left Moscow with more than fifty negatives of the Art Theater productions in his possession to be used as the foundation of a new studio located in New York.

States. From Moscow last week he received details of one very tangible result for good already made possible by the revolution. The democratization of the Russian stage and screen, he declares, is assured under the new regime. This means, says Mr. Kaplan, that not only will the wealth of Russian artistic productions be available for the entire world, but that the obstacles hitherto placed in the way of the revelation of foreign artistic merit will be eliminated.

Field for U. S. Producers

"I do not overlook the difficulties in the way of final success," says Mr. Kaplan, "when I say that Russia will prove a very profitable field for American motion picture producers. American films have been shown in Russia, but usually with slight success. This lack of appreciation of your productions may be traced to the fact that the revolution has just eliminated. The other is up to the American producer."

"Close study of Russian audiences is required unless the producer is familiar with their demands. As I have said so many times since I returned to the United States, the Russian playgoer insists on two things; he must have a story that is based on a foundation of realism and truth, and he demands that the players be artists. If I may say so, these essentials are often lacking in the best of American productions. Here the theaters, public opinion and so many different elements that a picture play generally has an appeal to one element or another."

"Compares Star Systems"

Mr. Kaplan compares the system by which the stars of the screen are developed in America with the system of the Russian Art Film. He emphasizes his point that the failure of films made here is due to some extent to the American policy of accepting stars who have not justified their position either by experience or ability. He refers to the stars of the Russian Art Film repertory—Mozukin, Lesienko, Petner, Zovska, Karabanova, Nelska, Colodna and Mle. Carali—as examples of stars who have achieved their position by virtue of long experience and development of special talents.

"But the main point of my prediction that America will find a profitable field for its film output in Russia," he adds, "is the announcement that has just come to me, regarding the abolition of state government regulation of the stage. My studio manager tells me that the artistic management of the imperial theaters is to be autonomous. This means that a large number of theaters will have a wider range of selection of attractions than formerly. American producers can expect an opening that eventually will be due to the existence of a market that found favor in Russia they soon exhausted the available theaters for presentation. This, I believe, will be very much under the new regime by greater the opportunity given, the greater will be the possibilities of successful export of the screen productions of the United States to Russia."

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS" FILM BREAKS RECORDS
IN N. Y. STRAND THEATER

While Harold Edel, managing director, and Mitchell H. Mark, principal owner of the Strand Theater, New York, looked for big business at the premiere of Goldwyn's first film, "Polly of the Circus," they were not quite prepared for what happened when "Polly" did arrive at their playhouse, it is stated.

"Polly of the Circus" broke all recent Strand attendance records and kept the theater packed inside and with a lobby overflowing throughout its first day at the greatest of the metropolitan picture theaters.

A. E. A. HEADQUARTERS
IN NEW YORK MOVED

Finding the original headquarters on the tenth floor of the Times Building, New York, inadequate, the American Exhibitors Association has moved its offices to the twentieth floor of the same building. The new offices are better suited to the great mass of exhibitors, association and exhibitors. All exhibitors are cordially invited to make the A. E. A. rooms their headquarters while in New York.
HIS ROBE OF HONOR IS FIRST WALTHALL DRAMA AS INDEPENDENT FILM PRODUCER

Play Is Denunciation of Back-Room Politics of Powerful Political Ring Interspersed With Love Tale of Judge and Society Girl

Having established himself as one of the foremost delineators of dramatic types on the screen, and having appeared in the stellar role of many of the greatest achievements of the photo-play art, Henry B. Walthall now is ready to produce his first independent picture for Paralta, to be published through Triangle.

Mr. Walthall now is in Los Angeles, Cal., arranging for the filming of his first production, a crear arrangement, which will be a picturization of E. S. and J. F. Dorrance's romantic story, "His Robe of Honor," a strong, vital story dealing with politics in a great city, featuring a leopold-like judge who changes his spots under the influence of a girl of high society. The decision to present this story as the initial production of Mr. Walthall's new organization comes after much deliberation.

For many weeks Mr. Walthall has been engaged in reading manuscripts written by many of the foremost writers of the world. Many of which have been purchased for future presentation. The final decision was made to present "His Robe of Honor" as the initial production, not only on account of the great popularity of the book, which ran into several editions, but owing to its aptness to be portrayed by the type in which Mr. Walthall has achieved his greatest triumphs.

"His Robe of Honor" is a bold, clever denunciation of graft-permeated, back-room politics setting forth in telling manner the inner workings of a powerful political ring seldom exposed to the view of the average voter, which promises to give Mr. Walthall exceptional opportunities to run the entire gamut of emotion.

BLUEBIRD PROGRAM WITH NOTED STARS COMPLETED TO MIDDLE OF NOVEMBER

Mae Murray in "Princess Virtue," Nov. 5, and Carmel Meyers in "The Dynast" Nov. 12 Are Additions to Big List of Features on Schedule

Bluebird's program arrangements are completed until the middle of November. Mae Murray's role has been added to the schedule in the middle of the month, with pictures. But the stories are being provided during the coming year will be all introduced to the series. In the list of featured players, Mae Murray, appearing in "The Princess Virtue," Nov. 5, and Carmel Myers, who will present "The Dynast," Nov. 12, are additions to the list of players who have become established as Bluebirds. Dorothy Phillips, Violet Mesereau, Ruth Clifford and Franklyn Farnum. "Anything Once" is the Franklyn Farnum feature that has been previously referred to as "The Maverick." It is now permanently titled "Anything Once" and will be issued Oct. 8. Alfred Drey will succeed Brownie Vernon in the position of Mr. Farnum's leading lady, other members of the supporting company including Lon Chaney, Sam De Grasse, D. C. Appling and Marjory Lawrence.

Dorothy Phillips will make her regular monthly appearance Oct. 17 in "Bondage." Oct. 22 Ruth Clifford will appear in "The Desire of the Moth," a Rupert Julian production, in which Mr. Julian will appear, with Monroe Salisbury, Miss Clifford's new leading man.

John C. Brownell's serial version of "The Girl by the Roadside," made from Varick Vanardy's novel of the same title, will bring Violet Mesereau back to Bluebirds Oct. 29, with Theodore Marston her director.

"The Princess Virtue," introducing Mae Murray as a Bluebird star Nov. 5, was created by Robert Leonard from Louise Winter's novel of the same title. Her supporting company will have Wheeler Oakman as leading man, with Paul Nicholson the heavy.

Carmel Myers, another star new to the Bluebird program, will make her first appearance in the series Nov. 11, playing in "The Dynast." Miss Myers is being prepared for her advent among Bluebirds through her featured appearances in "Sirens of the Sea," lately introduced to State rights buyers at the Broadway Theatre, New York. Kenneth Harlan will be her leading man and Charles H. Mailis will be prominent in her support.

HISTORICAL ACCURACY IN SETS AND COSTUMES OBSERVED IN ANNETTE KELLERMANN PLAY

The William Fox Company is making "Queen of the Sea," Annette Kellermann's new sub-sea spectacle, at Bar Harbor, Maine.

To obtain accuracy in the settings of costumes for "Queen of the Sea," weeks were spent in research in the Congressional Library at Washington. It was necessary to look up plates and descriptions of the time of Alaric the Bold, Clovis, Hermann, Marius, Sardanapoli and others of the Middle Age.

Even Greek mythology was invaded and every article for the picture was made historically correct. The rocks at Bar Harbor had to have barnacles put where no barnacle had ever appeared before. Sea shells were manufactured, reefs had to be trimmed with animal life of the period in which the film is cast.

PARALTA TO STAR RHEA MITCHELL IN EIGHT PHOTOPLAYS

The recent visit of Carl Anderson, president of Paralta, Inc., to the Paralta studios, at Hollywood, Cal., resulted in the conclusion of negotiations between Rhea Mitchell and the company in reference to her appearance as a star under the Paralta banner. Contracts were duly signed, and Miss Mitchell will very shortly make her debut as an independent star at the head of her own company in a modern morality play by Hayden Talbot. Miss Mitchell's eight productions will be published by Paralta through the Triangle Distributing Corporation.

Miss Mitchell and her company will be accorded the same accommodation at the Paralta studios in Hollywood that are enjoyed by Bessie Barriscale, Warren Kerrigan and the Henry Walthall organizations. Miss Mitchell and company will have the benefit of the general staff headed by Robl Bunton, production manager, R. Holm, Paul, art director, and Robert T. Kau vice-president of Paralta, as general supervising manager.
EDNA GOODRICH AND MARY MILES MINTER
IN OCT. FILMS ON MUTUAL TWO-A-WEEK PLAN

Second Month Under New Policy Announced by Freuler Brings Noted Players to Screen; Many Big Forthcoming Plays Are Named

The Mutual Film Corporation opens a second month under its policy of two feature productions a week on October 24, with Miss Edna Goodrich, and "Her Country's All," the second of the new series of Mary Miles Minter pictures.

The schemes undertaken, which Mutual markets eight five-reel features a month began September 3, and the productions from the various studios which contribute to Mutual's list have stood up to the standards outlined by President John J. Freuler when he announced his policy of "big stars only."

Many Stars at Work

With five stars at work at the studios of the American Film Company, at Santa Barbara, four busy at the Eastern studios, and Miss Anita King engaged by Horkheimer for a series of Mutual features, production is going ahead rapidly. Miss King makes her debut on the Mutual schedule October 8 in "The Girl Angle."

Frohman stage successes in motion pictures are being made at the Empire 22 Star studios at Glendale, L. A., with Miss Julia Sanderson, Miss Ann Murdock, and Miss Olive Tell in the leading roles. Miss Sanderson's first picture, "The Runaway," an adaptation of the stage success, is issued September 24. Miss Murdock's second picture will be "The Beautiful Adventure," an adaptation, too, of the dramatic production, and Miss Tell's first picture will be "The Unforeseen," now in the course of production.

Miss Edna Goodrich has completed "Queen X" for October 1, and has nearly finished "A Daughter of Maryland," under the direction of Albert Capellani. "American Maid" will follow, with Miss Goodrich in the leading role.

Coming Films Named

Gail Kane is scheduled for October 8 in "Southern Pride," directed by Henry King. Miss Kane is now working on "Wit," a five-reel drama. Juliette Day's second picture, under the contract for which she left the stage, is "Betty and the Buccaneers," a five-reel comedy-drama, scheduled for October 15. Miss Day's third picture will be "The Calendar Girl."

William Russell's next picture will be "The Sea Master," on the schedule for October 22. "The Sea Master," follows "Sands of Sacrifice." "Lucky Jim" will be Mr. Russell's next. Miss Margarita Fischer began work early in September at the American studios on the first of her American-Mutual productions. The title of the picture has not been selected.

Miss Minter has completed "Her Country's Call" and is at work on "Peggy Leads the Way."

Canadian Rights to "The Warrior" Sold by General Enterprises to Globe Films

Notable Feature Starring Giant Maciste to Be Distributed to Dominion Exhibitors By New Concern With Headquarters in Toronto; Has Western Branches

Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin of General Enterprises, Inc., of New York, announced this week the sale of the Canadian rights to the film spectacle, "The Warrior." The producer is Globe Films, Ltd., with headquarters in Toronto and branch offices in all the important Canadian cities. The sum reported to have changed hands is unusually large, even for a picture of the magnitude of "The Warrior." The company, by which the deal acquires the Canadian rights to the spectacle starring Maciste, the giant Italian actor and flier, is a new one. An imposing array of prominent exchange men and theatrical forces makes the official body of the Films, Ltd., and the new firm bids fair to be the strongest purchaser of theatrical rights in the Dominion.

Arthur Cohen, well known exhibitor and owner of several Toronto theaters, has been named as manager of the company's Canadian interest. The company will control Western Canada from its office at Calgary and branches are being opened in Montreal, St. John, Winnipeg, and Vancouver. In addition to "The Warrior," the rights to "Redemption," starring Evelyn Thaw, the Billy West comedies and a reissue of "The Spoilers," have been acquired by Globe Films, Ltd. A deal now is pending by which the new company will become owners of Canadian rights of a great patriotic film spectacle featuring an international star.

HENRY HULL AS KERENSKY IN "RASPUTIN, THE BLACK MONK"

(Word-Press Made)

In young Henry Hull he finally discovered the material he sought, and on the opening night a brilliant young leading man was added to the list of Broadway players.

It was Mr. Brady who detected the likeness between Mr. Hull and the photographs of Kerensky, and Hull was given the role in the new World film.

PARALTA PLAYS WILL NOT BE DISTRIBUTED BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

THE contract between Paralta Plays, Inc., and Triangle Distributing Corporation, entered into on the 30th of June last, under which Triangle became distributor for Paralta, has been abrogated by mutual consent. Triangle has distributed no Paralta Play and none will be distributed by it.

In the above mentioned agreement it was provided that should Mr. Stephen A. Lynch sell his interest in the Triangle Distributing Corporation the contract with Paralta should terminate.

Mr. Lynch notified Mr. Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., on September 10, that he was about to dispose of his interest in the Triangle Distributing Corporation. All contractual relations between the two companies were then annulled by consent of both parties.

THIS situation has no effect on the activities of the Paralta organization. Exhibitors may secure Paralta Plays under the Paralta Plan exactly in the manner previously advertised. Since Paralta Plays, Inc., was organized in March last, considerable has been said about the advantages of the Paralta Plan. More than one million dollars has been invested in the various departments of the Paralta organization and it now has six big star feature pictures with which to demonstrate the value of its original idea—"A MAN'S MAN," "MADAM WHO," "ROSE 'O PARADISE," "TURN OF A CARD," "ALIMONY" and "THE GOLDEN THREAD."

A trade review projection of "A Man's Man" was recently made. The criticisms were all remarkably enthusiastic in praise of every detail. This is the first Paralta production shown to trade press critics. The officers of Paralta, and conservative, experienced motion picture men, who have seen the other Paralta Plays, speak of them in the highest terms both artistically and as box office attractions.

PARALTA now has five companies engaged in work on productions at the Paralta studios in Hollywood, Cal., and in sixty days will have five more star feature attractions ready for distribution.

Every Exhibitor owes it to himself to wait and see all these Paralta pictures before booking his time solidly for the season. Do not lock your doors against such obviously big money-drawing propositions as these great photographs by entirely filling your time.

Paralta's plans are completed and work is now in progress on an output of fifty-two big star feature attractions to be completed before the first anniversary of the organization of its studios, June 4, 1918.

The Tests of Pictures Are:
Attendance and Profits

Goldwyn invites the exhibitors of the world to apply those tests to Goldwyn Pictures, and to those splendid productions to be distributed through the Goldwyn sales offices.

Madge Kennedy, who will be seen for the first time on the screen, beginning September 23rd, in "Baby Mine," by Margaret Mayo, will measure up to every test that can be applied to a star of a picture. Again we predict, at the moment of her screen debut, that she will be the next great popular favorite with tremendous earning power for exhibitors everywhere.

On October 7 Maxine Elliott, one of the greatest of theatrical stars in popularity and drawing power, makes her first screen appearance in "Fighting Odds," by Roi Cooper Megue and Irvin S. Cobb. This picture was directed by Allan Dwan—giving exhibitors every element required for box office success. A famous and beautiful star, nationally-known authors, a strong play and an able director.

A real Super-FEATURE in Eight Parts—Story by Captain Edwin Bower Hesser Featuring
E. K. LINCOLN with
BARBARA CASTLETON and ROMAINE FIELDING
The Year's Important Production

Big—Better—Clean

The Spontaneous Testimonials of the Trade Speak for Themselves:

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

For the Freedom of the World" is a patriotic number dealing with the soldiers of Uncle Sam in the Canadian area before the United States entered the World War. Director Romaine Fielding and his company spent many weeks in Canada at one of the training camps to obtain desired scenes of recruiting, drilling, real military scenes, and splendid war-film efforts. In its entirety it is both interesting from a top point of view and entertaining, even thrilling from a dramatic point of view. Scenes in the training camp showing the rigid physical exercise prescribed by the Canadian officers are some of the most interesting as well as inspiring shots in the picture.

The story furnished by Captain Edwin Bower Hesser is, in its vital, very familiar: of the same sort that many of the Civil War pictures have been, and yet due to its modern setting seems to command new interest. And, conventional or not, it stands the test—that it carries eight reels without a wearisome moment and with many of the sort that move an audience to applause and cheer.

THE BILLBOARD

For the Freedom of the World is the most satisfying money public hungry for war film diet has yet had before it. Well built, well acted, magnificent of scene and novel in that its wealth of training camp life shows Canadian training, Canadian tactics, Canadian uniforms, which has not yet been exploited to the United States audiences—it deserves exceptional consideration at the hands of the men who are booking pictures.

MOTION PICTURE WORLD

A stirring eight-part patriotic production which was produced by Ira M. Lowry and E. J. Carrol, of 220 West 42d street, New York City, from the story of Edwin Bower Hesser, will be found an excellent addition to the work of recruiting. "For the Freedom of the World" is the title of the production which features E. K. Lincoln, with Barbara Castleton and Romaine Fielding, with a supporting cast consisting of Neil Moran, Jane Adler and Walter Weems.

The story of the picture follows the fortune of a member of the American Legion, and presents some intensely interesting scenes which were evidently photographed at the training camps in Canada, showing how those soldiers are trained for the work ahead of them. One of the features of the picture is the night photography which it contains, and which has been very carefully done. The battle scenes photographed in the darkness, with only the light from bursting shells by which to distinguish objects moving on the horizon, are very effective.

EXHIBITORS HERALD

Ira Lowry, in producing "Captain Edwin Bower Hesser's The Freedom of the World," has made a worthy and patriotic recruiting vehicle. It is a thoroughly ambitious and powerful theme, carefully planned. Mr. Lowry's first effort delivers a virile "punch," which should find its way to every man of building age. There are eight reels of rugged, vital scenes that cover everything from the horrible causes of the war to the heroic military encounters. No red-blooded man can watch the Herman officers abuse of the unprotected woman and child after battle without a desire to avenge such deeds. The action has for the most part written a convincing and stirring story. The direction is masterful and the photography is good.

EXHIBITORS HERALD

A spectacular war drama with a strong patriotic appeal. An excellent cast, including several well-known stars. Remarkable scenes in camp and on the battlefield. For the Freedom of the World tells the story of a romance and marriage which weaves the storm of the world with superhuman endurance and against almost invincible odds. It presents the horrors of war from the standpoint of the average family, and transposes the quiet order of domestic life into the very heart of the battlefield. This really impressive theme is developed in a series of war scenes which are far above the average screened since the war and which add the last touch of realism to an intense and grimly convincing drama.

EXHIBITOR'S TRADE REVIEW

A thoroughly convincing and opportune war story, with plenty of action and one that will undoubtedly find favor among the majority of the picture fans. This is unhesitatingly a big production in every sense of the word and its producers certainly deserve credit for the masterful result accomplished. The production shows care in direction and photography. The acting is exceptional. E. K. Lincoln has never been seen in a more pleasing role.

SUNDAY TELEGRAPH

For the Freedom of the World," an eight-part special feature produced by E. K. Lincoln, with Barbara Castleton and Romaine Fielding featured, was shown in the trade yesterday morning at the Broadway Theatre. The production was produced and presented by Ira M. Lowry from an original story written by Captain Edwin Bower Hesser.

As the title indicates, it is another war film, but one that is entirely different from any previously released. In the first scenes it gives promise of being one of the usual arguments designed to convince the slacker wherein the hero appears as the backbone type, who is converted to the cause of war by a girl. However, it continues along entirely new and unusual lines, and reveals a decided entertaining and thrilling war story, with many strong dramatic situations that hold undivided attention.

THE subject of increased admission charges demands immediate action on the part of exhibitors throughout the United States and Canada.

The refusal of exhibitors in hundreds of cases where the increase is thoroughly practicable is resulting in one of the most difficult problems which the producers of leading motion pictures have ever encountered.

As everyone knows the cost of producing pictures has increased tremendously. The education of the public along motion picture lines has compelled makers of pictures to invest more money today in a single production than they formerly invested in five distinct productions.

An increase in rental fees over one year and two years ago is absolutely necessary. The calibre of picture which the public is now demanding is involving such an expenditure that producers generally cannot continue in business unless their product return a greater revenue.

From the exhibitors viewpoint, it has been thoroughly demonstrated that in a great number of cases upon which we have detailed information theaters which up to a year ago, and six months ago, were profitable enterprises are now losing money rapidly, and are failing because of the increased rental charges demanded by a number of the companies.

The only possible solution—for both exhibitor and producer—is increased admission charges.

That such an increase is thoroughly justified is beyond question; the comparatively inexpensive production of former years will not be tolerated by the public today. The public demands and must receive popular stars whose services are only obtainable at enormous salaries, settings which can only be obtained at a lavish cost and an artistic and mechanical perfection generally which represents a greatly increased outlay on the part of the producer.

Admission charges must be raised; a standard feature program must everywhere command fifteen cents. Special productions must bring an admission payment of twenty and twenty-five cents.

And these changes must be brought about immediately; delay will only intensify the difficulty and constantly add to the complexity of this problem which strikes at the very root of the stability of the motion picture industry.

Except in a limited number of situations this increase can be easily and safely effected. The level of prices on practically every product purchased by the public has been raised, and in a great number of cases—such as the one under discussion—the increase in price is absolutely required by the conditions affecting the business.
There is vastly more money in circulation throughout the country today than ever before; salaries and wages everywhere have been augmented. The people of the country have the money to spend and the additional revenue sought by the firm industry is absolutely necessary in order that the public may continue to receive the superior grade of motion picture which they require.

It is well known that in certain instances the rental fee being required by producers is obviously exorbitant; it is not for a justification of these charges that we are pleading.

But we do urge, for the common good of the motion picture industry, that the long deferred advance in theater admissions—which have practically stood still for two or three years—be immediately brought about.

Failure to do this will mean disastrous failure for many exhibitors and the same for the producers who are seeking to serve them at rental charges which do not measure up to the expensiveness of the pictures being issued.

If the public was content to view the old type of picture which was ground out almost mechanically, costing not more than a thousand dollars a reel to prepare for the market, then there would be little justification for increased admission charges.

But the motion picture cannot stand still; its progress must be swift and thorough. While there are isolated cases of extravagant disbursements, on the whole, the increased cost of production is necessary to the artistic advancement of motion pictures—excepting, of course, the ridiculous salaries and profits paid a few of the most prominent players.

Retrogression artistically of the motion picture will spell the doom of the industry.

No progress and not even the present standards can be maintained at the old rental charges.

Increase your admission charges, not only for your own protection, but also to safeguard the entire industry.

PATRIOTIC WORK

The exhibitor of motion picture is enabled by his position to be one of the most potent moulders of public opinion. This is a great privilege and likewise a great responsibility.

Exhibitors now have an excellent opportunity to exemplify their patriotism by giving careful consideration to the selection of short subjects to be used in connection with their regular programs which will cooperate with and forward the work the national government has to do.

The motion pictures in such a time as this should be a great stimulus to patriotic enthusiasm. Pictures carefully selected with this end in view, also musical compositions for their accompaniment, can produce an almost in calculable result.

MARTIN J. QUIGLEY
Varner Warns Entire Film Industry Must Give Concerted Action to Defeat Ten Per Cent Tax on Film Theaters; Pettijohn Aids in Drive on Legislators

Washington, D. C.—(Special to "Exhibitors Herald").—The necessity for concerted action on the part of the entire film industry in an effort to bring about the defeat of the ten percent war tax on motion picture theater receipts, was issued to exhibitors throughout the United States this week from the capital by H. B. Varner, the American Exhibitors Association, who is representing the film theater men's interests.

The tax war measure which, when it first came up some time ago, was killed in the Senate, but recently came up again in the House of Representatives, now is being pushed by the solons who favor taxation without exemption of the industries.

W. W. Wilson Warns Exhibitors

According to Congressman William Wilson, of Illinois, who does not favor taxation of the picture theater receipts, owing to the fact that the motion pictures are aiding the government in spreading propaganda from the different departments, unless the exhibitors of the country band solidly and bring strong pressure to bear upon congressmen and representatives from the various states, some kind of tax will be placed upon the motion picture theaters.

Harrington, of Washington, to Operate Picture Theaters

It is pointed out by officials of the American Exhibitors Association that, if the tax is placed upon the theaters that any exhibitors will be forced out of business.

Varner Again Leads Fight

J. B. Varner, who was instrumental in bringing about the death of the proposed tax when it reached the Senate, is wending every effort to stop it in the House of Representatives. A peculiar phase of the proposed tax is the attitude of the owners of several large eastern theaters, particularly in New York.

Even of the eastern motion picture theater owners are in favor of the tax, it's said, and have so expressed themselves before the finance committee in Washington. The admission prices charged in the larger theaters range from twenty-five cents to $1. All of them are houses of large capacity, and will be only slightly affected by the tax measure.

However, should the ten percent tax be imposed upon all houses, regardless of size, the attendance at small theaters would be materially reduced, and in a short time they would be compelled to suspend operations.

Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the A. E. A., sent a wire to Lee Ochs, advising him that the situation was serious for exhibitors. Ochs was out of the city and in his absence Mr. Blumenthal sent a number of telegram messages. Grant Anson hurried to Washington to co-operate with Mr. Varner and Pettijohn.

Mr. Blumenthal and Mr. Anson are entitled to their share of credit for anything that may have been accomplished in Washington that will prove beneficial to the exhibitors," said Mr. Pettijohn on his return to New York. "Both men co-operated with Mr. Varner and myself and all factional differences were forgotten in our work for the exhibitors of the country.

A. E. A. Aids All Exhibitors

"The American Exhibitors Association has pledged itself to look after the interests of the exhibitors, whether they are members of the Association or not. Our interest centers principally in the small exhibitor who owns a theater in a small town where he can't afford to charge a high admission fee and who already is forced to pay such a high rental for his film as to make it almost impossible for him to realize a fair return on his investment. It is the small exhibitor who would suffer most from a high tax, and it was in his interest that Mr. Varner and I went to Washington.

FRANK THWARTS OCHS LEAGUE IN MOVE TO FREE $5,000 EXPO FUNDS

Joseph Hopp Declares He Was Not National Officer When Served With Papers, But Judge Finds Hole-to-hole to Give Plaintiff Legal Action

Officers of the Ochs League branch of Chicago were thwarted this week in their attempt to free $5,000 of gate receipts and other assets, which are held intact by garnishment proceedings instituted some time ago by Louis H. Frank, Fred J. Herrington and Judge A. P. Tugwell, all former office holders in the Ochs organization.

Through the mediacy, Ludwig A. Schindler, 1917 exposition manager, Joseph Hopp, Robert Levy and William J. Sweeney, in Judge Richardson's municipal court, Thursday, September 20, endeavored to set aside the bond of Mr. Frank filed in the garnishment proceedings on the grounds that at the time the proceedings were instituted, Mr. Frank was not yet installed official as an officer of the national body of the Ochs League and therefore could not accept service.

However, Judge Richardson decided that Mr. Frank should file another bond in the case, and in order to get legal service on the Ochs organization Mr. Frank has been ordered to advertise the matter for forty days. The new hearing of the case will come up November 3. Until that time the $5,000 and other Ochs League funds will remain intact, awaiting the decision of the court.

During the court proceedings Attorney Knox, representing Mr. Frank, produced a letter written by Hopp to Lee A. Ochs alluding to certain league matters. The subject matter of the correspondence produced concerned the money taken in at the 1917 exposition. A copy of this letter was printed in "Exhibitors Herald," issue of August 28. The letter, Hopp declared, was not signed by him as first vice-president of the Ochs League.

KLAW & ERLANGER SEEK TO RESTRAIN TRIANGLE FROM ISSUING "POLLY ANN" FILM

Theatrical Producers in Supreme Court Proceedings Alleged Use of Title is Infringement upon "Pollyanna" Stage Play

Klaw & Erlanger and George C. Tyler, of New York, have begun proceedings in the Supreme Court to restrain the Triangle Film Corporation from using the title "Polly Ann" for the play, which Bessie Love stars. The theatrical producers allege that the use of the title is an infringement upon "Pollyanna.

PETROVA PICTURES TO BE ISSUED BY NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

Noted Actress' Productions Are First With Woman Star Accepted by Distributing Concern; Will Be Handled Like Forthcoming Chaplin Plays

An arrangement has just been concluded between Superpictures Distributing Corporation and the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc., whereby the latter organization will distribute the forthcoming Petrova pictures.

Madame Petrova is the first woman star whose productions have been accepted for publication by the Exhibitors' Circuit, and the Petrova pictures will be the first series of features distributed by their exchanges. Like forthcoming Chaplin pictures, which have recently been acquired by the Exhibitors' Circuit, the productions in which Madame Petrova appears are to be sold independently of all other productions, under an exclusive Petrova contract. This arrangement means that the Petrova pictures will appear in more first-run theaters in the United States and Canada than have previously been available for any other feature productions. This fact, together with the country-wide advertising campaign to be conducted by Superpictures Distributing Corporation, promises to both large and small exhibitors attractions of box office values.

Rothafel Negotiated Deal

This contract, which marks a distinctly new step in the relations between exhibitor and producer, was negotiated on behalf of the Exhibitors' Circuit by S. L. Rothafel of New York and H. O. Schwabhe of Philadelphia, and on behalf of Superpictures Distributing Corporation by its president, Frederick L. Collins.

When interviewed at the office of Superpictures Distributing Corporation, 23 West Forty-fourth street, Mr. Collins said:

"The relation between Madame Petrova and the exhibitors which has been established by the contract which has just been executed is extremely gratifying to me, not only because I believe that the arrangement will be extremely profitable both to the exhibitors and to the producer, but because it is a direct

SHUBERT-HAMMERSTEIN-INCE FILM "CO-RESPONDENT" IS BOUGHT BY JEWEL

One of the speediest motion picture deals on record took place in the projection room of Jewel Productions, Inc., 1600 Broadway, this week, when, exactly four minutes after "The Co-Respondent," a Ralph Ince production, with Elaine Hammerstein was shown, a price was made, accepted and paid to Lee Shubert, Arthur Hammerstein and Ralph Ince, for the film.

There was no question as to acceptance after the first reel was shown, and four minutes after the last one was viewed the check was signed and blotted. Jewel Productions, Inc., starting October 7, will present it at the Broadway Theatre, where its expected to prove one of the picture sensations of the year. Willard Lucas and a big cast support Miss Hammerstein.

Irene Fenwick brought "The Co-Respondent" by Rita Weiman and Alice Keal Pollock, to the Booth Theatre two years ago, where it proved one of the successes of the season. It is the story of a New England girl who is wooed and brought to a small town hotel by the millionaire husband of a New York society woman, who has him followed and trapped as a mock ceremony is about to be performed. A year later the girl having won distinction and the heart of the managing editor of a metropolitan newspaper, faces two choices when sent out on the famous Van Kleek divorce case to obtain the name of "The Co-Respondent."

K. & E. SUES TRIANGLE

In the allegation filed by attorneys for Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger it is stated that Porter's story was published in 1912; became widely popular and was subsequently dramatized and produced in 1916, becoming a great success, consequently the title is of great value. The producers of "Polyanna" not only demand an injunction but also an account of the receipts from the film play from Triangle.

OGDEN CORP. WILL MOVE FROM UTAH TO PLANT IN EAST

Ogden, Utah (Special to Exhibitors Herald).—The Ogden Pictures Corporation will not use this city as a producing center in the future. According to a record office, president of the Ogden concern, in the event of the Ogden Corporation's lease of a studio in New York city and will move the plant there. A new contract has been signed by Miss Walker, star of "The Lust of the Ages," the Ogden Corporation's first feature film, under which she is to produce eight pictures in twelve months. In these features Miss Walker will play the leading role.

M. G. WATKINS IN N. Y. AFTER VISIT WITH EXHIBITOR

M. G. W. Inc. President Start Tour of Big Cities After Week's Auto Trip Through Wisconsin

M. G. Watkins, president of the M. Watkins, Inc., Motion Pictures, with offices in Milwaukee, Chicago and New York, recently returned to Chicago after a two-weeks' automobile tour of the exhibitors located in the large and small towns of Wisconsin. Mr. Watkins left Chicago on Sept. 22, for Pittsburgh, Washington, and New York. He expects to remain in New York about two weeks.

ROTHAPFEL'S NEW BROADWAY HOUSE WILL BE IDEAL OF HIS DREAMS

Facade to Be Stately Colonnade of White, Patterned After Parthenon of Athens; Will Direct Presentation of Pretentious Pictures and Music

All rumors concerning the imposing new theatre now in process of completion on Broadway and Forty-ninth street were set at rest this week by an official announcement issued from the office of S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of the Rialto, to the effect that the new playhouse will be under Mr. Rothapfel's personal direction and be devoted to an elaborated and more pretentious variation of the combined motion picture and musical entertainment.

It is promised that the new theatre, which is not yet named, will be as much a revelation to New York in the matter of beauty, luxurious appointments and novel illuminating effects as the Rialto when it opened a year and a half ago.

The opening of the new house is scheduled for about the middle of December. Mr.
Rothapfel says that he regards the new institution as the realization of a dream he has had for many years, a perfect home for the distinct type of entertainment which he originated and which has raised the motion picture theatre from the side how category into the field of the higher arts. He said the new home of the "Rothapfel Idea" would be operated in conjunction with the Rialto without affecting the other institution in any way.

Music will assume an even more important part in the new theatre than it is on Mr. Rothapfel's program in the lot, and once a week the orchestra of the new house will be combined with the alto orchestra to form the Rothapfel Symphony. Orchestra of one hundred pieces, which will render a popular symphony concert under the masterly direction of Hugo Riesenfeld. Dr. Riesenfeld will have the direction of both orchestras as separate organizations, but will conduct principally at the Rialto as present. Other directors will be provided in order to permit of his conducting the orchestra in the new institution at special occasion demands it. The popular symphony concerts will be introduced primarily to encourage American composers, and Dr. Riesenfeld will endeavor to introduce at least one new American composition of serious nature each week.

Both outwardly and as to interior it is promised that this new temple of amusement will set a new standard of beauty and comfort. It will contain no stores and no offices other than the executive offices of the theater itself. The Broadway facade will be a stately colonnade of white stone, patterned after the Parthenon at Athens. The interior will be of classic design, decorated and illuminated according to Mr. Rothapfel's own specifications. The seating capacity will be approximately 2,500.

LIFE SUIT CORP. GIVES FILM TRADE TRAVELERS SAFETY

The International Life Suit Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York, has pertected a life saving device that will prove great value to those in the motion picture trade and others who find it necessary to go abroad during these hard times.

The device consists of a suit of rubber-lined with buoyant, heat retaining and cold repelling composition. The rubber does not depend on inflation to keep a wearer afloat and it is said a dozen pictures will not affect its buoyancy.

A practical demonstration of the suit was given recently in the North Sea.
where a ship was torpedoed by the German and the wearer was rescued after five in the water four hours.

is not yet named.

A. E. A. FIGHTS FOR EXHIBITORS RELIEF FROM MUSIC TAXATION

Committee Meets Publishers' Body and Agreements of Importance are Reached; Pettijohn Insists Agreements Cover All Exhibitors Outside of Association

Two committees, one representing the American Exhibitors' Association and the other the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, met at the offices of the American Exhibitors' Association in the Times Building in New York, Friday, September 21.

The object of the meeting was to try to see if some peaceful agreement could not be reached on the music tax question. Various propositions were submitted by each side and the question was thoroughly discussed. At the conclusion of the conference, lasting several hours, only one thing remained upon which no agreement had been reached.

Mr. Moe Levy, attorney at law of Norfolk, Va., personal counsel for Jake Wells, and Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, were insisting that the concessions granted the American Exhibitors' Association should not be limited to members of that association, but should likewise apply to all other exhibitors in the United States and Canada, whether members of the A. E.
A. or not.

The various ideas agreed upon by the gentlemen representing both organizations will be submitted to their respective boards of directors at special meetings to be called within the next ten days.

The feature upon which the disagreements arose will remain in abeyance as these matters are held, but both sides have agreed to discuss the question at issue and try to reach an agreement in the respective directors' meetings.
D. W. GRIFFITH MAKES FILM FOR U. S. TO BE SHOWN THROUGHOUT RUSSIA

Fifty Prints Made for Exhibition in Theatres of New Republic Showing People Earnestness of America in War

Through the medium of motion pictures, the 150,000,000 people of Russia are to be taught that the United States is in earnest in the war, and at the same time expose the lies German agents have been spreading throughout Russia. Under the supervision of David Wark Griffith, who placed his organization at the disposal of the government, and at his own expense as a volunteer effort, a film has been prepared and now is on its way to our allies across the water, showing what the United States is doing toward making ready to throw its power and resources into the great conflict.

Fifty Prints for Russia

Fifty copies of the film have been made, which will be shown in every motion picture theater in Russia, as well as to the millions of soldiers and sailors battling against the German Emperor and his plan to destroy democracy.

The scenes of the picture are laid in every part of the United States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Canada to the Rio Grande. Views of the war resources of the United States are given, from the vast agricultural stretches of the Central States, which the Russian peasant can so readily understand, to the great iron and steel mills and munition plants, our tremendous financial resources, our naval power, and the big armies which are being raised and equipped for the battlefields of Europe.

Film Has a Story

A story has been woven around an imaginary visit of Ivan, a Russian peasant, to the American republic, as a guest of the people. He sees with his own eyes, all the resources which we are anxious and ready to use in the coming fight with the Russian people against the Empire of Germany. Ivan is shown in the steel mills, munition plants and automobile plants at Detroit, turning out airplanes for the Russian battle front. What the United States has accomplished in the first five months of the war is made clear to him. He sees Secretary of the Treasury signing a loan of $100,000,000 to Russia and views of the sub-treasury in New York, where $7,000,000,000 in gold bullion awaits the need of war.

Interwoven in the picture is the life of Abraham Lincoln, the most nearly universal of American heroes.

“Doing Her Bit” is the name of Margarita Fischer's new picture, at which she is hard at work. It was specially written for her and contains many of the artistic locations for which the American company is famous.

PARALTA SIGNS DIRECTOR REGINALD BARKER

result of our previously announced policy of 'Big Pictures for Big Exhibitors.' On July 15th Superpictures Distributing Corporation made the following statement to exhibitors:

"We are going to put our money—just as much as is needed—into big pictures for big exhibitors. And we are going to be satisfied with a fair, moderate profit on each production. We'll deal with you direct—with one of you or several of you—for all the rights to all the pictures we handle. We'll put our money into the pictures you and we believe in. We'll spend our money in publicity. We'll get behind the picture with all the strength our organization can command.

To Follow Policy Closely

"This is precisely what we have done: On August 12 we announced that the first of the Big Pictures for Big Exhibitors would be Madame Petrova in a series of special productions produced by the Petrova Picture Company, the distribution of which would be in the hands of Superpictures Distributing Corporation. Since that announcement, have been approached by the heads of every leading distribution organization in this country, and have received offers for these pictures on financial terms that were as flattering as possible.

Therefore, the arrangement by which the Petrova pictures will be handled in the leading houses through the country and later handled in each section, is the man known throughout that section its leading exhibitor is not only a gaining but an entirely natural outgrowth of the policy announced by us."
MADAME PETROVA TO MAKE SHORT STAGE APPEARANCE

Will Devote Afternoons to Footlights While Making Film Productions

Madam Olga Petrova is planning to make a brief appearance on the stage this season. These appearances will be held afternoons other than regular matinee days and will not in any way interfere with Petrova's activities in producing Petrova Pictures.

By the arrangement existing between Petrova and Frederick L. Collins, president of the Petrova Pictures Company, the actress will be unhampered in these stage pursuits, in view of her agreement to devote herself primarily to the production of her own personally supervised films. Until her first picture has been issued, on or about October 22, Petrova cannot definitely announce the dates of her recitals, but she has already begun to formulate her program.

CHICAGO A. E. A. BRANCH REACHES AN AGREEMENT WITH OPERATORS' UNION

Men Will Run Projection Machines Four and a Half Hours Instead of Four Without Extra Charge; Non-Members Must Pay High Wage Demand

Union projection machine operators reached an agreement with the American Exhibitors' Association branch in Chicago this week, having agreed with the exhibitors' organization to work in the theaters of its members four and one-half hours instead of four, without extra charge.

The Chicago A. E. A. has also entered into an agreement with the operators' union for a flat rate to be charged all members of the association. However, exhibitors who are not members of the Chicago A. E. A. branch will be forced to pay the higher rate originally asked by the operators.

Announcement of the consummation of the agreement with the union was made at the semi-monthly meeting of the Chicago Theater Owners' Association, September 21, by Louis H. Frank. The Chicago branch now has a plan under way to form a booking club for the purpose of renting films, issuing posters, and to conduct a general exchange business for members. This will save exhibitors hundreds of dollars, it is pointed out, and also save a great deal of time, which in the past has been used in going from one exchange to another. Under the new plan, members of this exchange will return posters which they have used, and these will be distributed to other exhibitors using the features. It is also planned to have one printer furnish programs and hand bills for the circuit of theaters controlled by the members of this A. E. A. branch. This will be acted upon at the next session.

M. L. FULTON HANDLES FRENCH OFFICIAL WAR FILM WITH "BELGIUM, KINGDOM OF GRIEF"

M. L. Fulton, who has established headquarters at the Great Northern Hotel, Chicago, besides handling "Belgium, the Kingdom of Grief," the stirring picture of Belgium's invasion by Germany, also handling the "French Official War Pictures." This is the official French war picture, taken under the personal supervision of the General Staff of the French army, and while there are a number of other war films purporting to be "official," these films should not be confused with these other war films bearing similar names. Exhibitors booking these war films will have the added advantage of securing new material, which is added from week to week, as soon as secured.

"WEAVERS OF LIFE" PICKED AS TITLE OF WARREN FILM

Miss Helen Hayes in Leading Role Will Have Strong Supporting Cast

"Weavers Of Life," a title which is said to be characteristic of the play, has been selected as the name of Edward Warren's forthcoming production. Miss Helen Hayes, who is cast in the star role, will be supported by Howard Hall, Kenneth Hunter, Barney Gilmore, Earl Schenck, Edna Sibbett and others.

MACISTE, GIANT OF FILM NOTE, IS SLAIN IN BATTLE

Star of "Cabiria" and "The Warrior" Killed in Terrific Battle on Italian Front

Maciste, the giant film star, who appeared in the leading role in "Cabiria" and more recently "The Warrior," which is being distributed by General Enterprises, Inc., of New York, was recently killed in action on the Italian battle front. The news of the film player's death was brought to New York this week by E. Matson, of John Olson & Co., prominent Scandinavian film traders. According to the information borne by Mr. Matson, the giant Italian screen player was slain during the terrific fighting on the Bainsizza Plateau in the recent great Italian offensive.

SELECT PICTURES SIGNS ALICE BRADY; WILL STAR IN EIGHT FEATURES A YEAR

Daughter of Wm. A. Brady to Start Work on Initial Feature at Paragon Studio in Fort Lee under Director Edward Jose

Select Pictures Corporation announces that it has signed contracts with Alice Brady by which Miss Brady immediately becomes a Select Pictures star.

Miss Brady will be presented during the coming year in eight pictures which will be published under the Select Star Series system.

On the first of these eight pictures Miss Brady will begin work at once at the Paragon studio in Fort Lee. She will be directed by Edward Jose, whose work is best known to picture fans through his direction of Norma Talmadge in "Poppy" and "The Moth," the latter being a current Select film. Miss Brady's first picture will be an adaptation of Henry J. W. Dam's successful play, "The Red Mouse." It is a story of modern life with a French flavor. The screen title of the picture has not yet been determined.

Alice Brady is the daughter of William A. Brady, the widely known theatrical manager, and Director-general of World pictures. Miss Brady began her public career at a very early age, appearing on the stage in theatrical productions in which her father or his friends were interested. At first her talents were lent to the musical comedy stage, and she appeared in roles of ever increasing importance in a number of musical successes, among them being "The Mikado," in which DeWolf Hopper was being starred, and "The Balkan Princess."

Always seeking new heights in her theatrical career, Miss Brady soon forsook the lighter field of musical comedy and appeared in drama, in which field her greatest success was in a production of "Little Women," in which William A. Brady starred his daughter. "Little Women", enjoyed practically a season's run in New York and made friends of thousands of playgoers for Miss Brady.

Her real popularity, however, is the outcome of her work as a star in motion pictures. On the screen Miss Brady has enjoyed a vogue truly remarkable—remarkable for its extent throughout the length and breadth of the country wherever films are shown.

WASHINGTON M. P. CO. OF SPOKANE IS FORMED TO PRODUCE SIX REEL FEATURES

Spokane, Wash. (Special to Exhibitors' Herald)—The Washington Motion Picture Company with a body of directors and officers composed entirely of Spokane men, has been incorporated and will start producing six-reel features, with Tyrone Power as leading man, in and around Spokane within the next thirty days.

A meeting of the stockholders of the new enterprise was held recently and Allen Meisenheimer was elected president; W. W. Zent, vice-president, and E. E. Young, secretary. The following are directors: Thomas S. Griffith, James S. Ramage, Henri Crommelin, Allen Meisenheimer and W. W. Zent.

CENSORS CAUSE GOLDWYN TO HOLD "MAGDALENE" FILM

"Fighting Odds" Starring Maxine Elliott Replaces First Scheduled Feature

While the Goldwyn picture, "The Eternal Magdalen," starring Maxine Elliott, was passed with the hearty endorsement of the National Board of Review with a special report, "that the world as a motion picture audience owes Goldwyn a vote of thanks for making this sincere and beautiful production," it did not meet with the approval of the censors in Pennsylvania and in the city of Chicago.

It was therefore found necessary to rearrange the schedule and Miss Elliott's second Goldwyn picture, "Fighting Odds," written by Roy Cooper Megrue and Irvin S. Cobb, will be presented on the date that "The Eternal Magdalen" was to have shown.

MILITARY CAMP IS USED FOR SCENES IN NORMAND PLAY

Star Gets Martial Color for "Joan of Flatbush" Comedy at Plattsburg

Because Mabel Normand's first comedy for Goldwyn Pictures calls for military scenes, the star and her company invaded the military camp at Plattsburg this week and completed the necessary military scenes for "Joan of Flatbush." The story is from the pen of Porter Emerson Brown. Accompanied by Director C. T. Horan, Mr. Browne, Lawrence McCloskey, of the scenario department, and a cast of players, Miss Normand will spend the next weeks getting scenes for the completion of the photoplay on the shores of Lake Champlain.
PARALTA DROPS TRIANGLE CORP. AS DISTRIBUTOR OF ITS FILMS

Contract Between Concerns Entered Into June 30. Abrogated by Agreement When Lynch Sells Interests in Concern

The contract between Paralta Plays, Inc., and the Triangle Distributing Corporation, entered into June 30, has been abrogated and no Paralta production will be published through the Triangle organization, it is officially announced this week in Paralta offices.

The contract between Paralta and Triangle was more the result of the personal friendship existing between Carl Anderson, president of Paralta, and Stephen A. Lynch, than anything else. When this agreement was entered into it was with the distinct understanding that should Mr. Lynch sell his interest in the Triangle Distributing Corporation the contract with Paralta should terminate.

Mr. Lynch notified Mr. Anderson, September 10, that he was about to dispose of his interest in the Triangle Distributing Corporation. At that time the abrogation of the contract between Paralta and Triangle was taken up and during the past week the relationship existing between the two corporations was brought to an amicable termination by mutual agreement.

Will Not Affect Paralta
This situation will not have any effect on the activities of the Paralta organization, and plans made weeks ago for a wide extension of its producing interest will be carried forward as rapidly as possible. Paralta now has six big feature photodramas completed and ready for distribution. This list comprises J. Warren Kerrigan in Peter B. Kyne's "A Man's Man," and Frederick Chapin's "Turn of a Card"; Bessie Barriscale in Harold MacGrath's "Madam Who" and Grace Miller White's "Rose o' Paradise," and two state rights productions, "Alimony," by Hayden Talbot, and "The Golden Thread," by Thomas J. Geraghty, based on an original story by William E. Wing. Paralta also now has five companies working on productions at the Paralta studios in Hollywood. In two months five new big feature photodramas will be added to its output.

Work was begun at the Paralta studio on the West Coast June 4 last, when J. Warren Kerrigan and Bessie Barriscale started filming "A Man's Man" and "Rose o' Paradise." When the anniversary of its first year as a producer, June 3, 1915, is reached on the calendar, Paralta intends to have made the record of producing fifty-two star feature plays.

Has Attractive Coast Plant

Paralta now has one of the most active studios on the west coast, which is being conducted under the general direction of Robert T. Kane, vice-president of Paralta Plays, Inc. Robert Brunton is studio manager and heads one of the most competent technical motion picture organizations in this country. Mr. Brunton came to America with the late Sir Henry Irving, with whom he was connected for several years in the capacity of art director in the staging of the many historic dramatic productions at the London Lyceum theater. After a brief connection with New York theatrical productions, Mr. Brunton joined the Triangle producing interests and directed the staging of many of its early great successes.

As manager of Paralta studios he is well sustaining the great reputation he has enjoyed, both in this country and in England.

Paralta's art director is R. Holmes Paul, a widely known English authority of dramatic art, scenic construction, costuming, etc.

S. E. ABEL STARTS TRIP FOR SELECT

Sydney E. Abel, special representative of Select Pictures Corporation, left Friday on his first visit to the newly established Select Exchanges. Mr. Abel's first objective is Washington, D. C., where he will be in conference with branch manager V. P. Whitaker, who has recently taken charge of the Washington exchange just opened at 311 "E" Street, Northwest. Whitaker reports big business from the nation's capitol, and Abel expects to have a promising report to make on his return from his first official trip.

AD FILM PRODUCERS' ASSN. CHANGES NAME AT MEET HELD IN ROTHACKER PLANT

The Advertising Film Producers' Association, the official departmental of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, held a meeting at the Rothacker studios, Chicago, September 17, at which the name of the organization was changed to the Motion Picture Advertising Association of the World. The next meeting will be held at the Statler Hotel, Detroit, Mich., on October 26.

"The Officer Acted Wholly Outside the Law," Is Opinion of Judge Alschuler in Decision Against Censor Board Chief

Fox Film Corporation has won the fight which it began in the Federal Courts for the right to exhibit in the city of Chicago, within Fox's screen drama, "The Spy," which portrays the menace to America the sinister workings of the German secret agents.

A short time since, M. I. C. Funkhouser, in his capacity as official film censor for Chicago, refused to issue the permit necessary to "The Spy's" exhibition. One of the reasons which Mr. Funkhouser cited for his action was that "the picture was in places too dramatic and that it made the sweat stand out on my brow."

Fox Film Corporation immediately sought an injunction to restrain the municipal authorities from preventing the showings. In the bill of complaint, Mr. Fox established the point that Mr. Funkhouser's power to condemn a photoplay was limited to pictures which were in some way obscene or immoral, and that "The Spy" was obviously not within that classification.

Judge Samuel Alschuler, of the United States District Court, has just upheld that contention and has issued an order forbidding interference with the exhibition of "The Spy." Judge Alschuler says in his opinion, that in this case "the officer appears from what is before the court to have acted wholly outside the law."

The opinion goes on to state that since Mr. Funkhouser himself concedes that his ruling in declining a permit was based largely, if not entirely, upon the impressively dramatic features of the photoplay, there was unquestionably an abuse of discretion in barring "The Spy."

PARALTA DROPS TRIANGLE

The casting director is David M. Hartford, an actor of note who has been identified with the production of many exceptional photodramatic successes. Paralta's scenario bureau is headed by Rex Stoval, Thomas J. Gribb, Jack Callers, Hayden Talbot, Eugene B. Lewis, William Horwitz, Francis Guinan, Edward Hammer, E. W. Babcock, Jesse Booth and Monte M. Katterjohn, who wrote the script for Miss Barriscale's "Madam Who," which will be her first Paralta film, to be followed by "Rose o' Paradise."

Noted Authors to Contribute

Arrangements have been made with very noted authors to contribute to Paralta Plays, among which may be mentioned Rupert Hughes, Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, Frederic Arnold Kummer, "Tex" O'Reilly, Charles Neville Buck and Larry Evans.

Paralta's dramatic directing staff is headed by Reginald Barker, Raymond B. West, Emmit Geraghty, and Wallace Worsley. Messrs. Barker, West and Apfel stand in the front line of the American directors who have accomplished remarkable things in the development of photodrama. This company's directors of photography, Clyde De Vinna and Guy L. Wilky, also stand at the heads of their profession. Robert Newhart is also a conspicuous member of the Paralta photodrama staff.

This able producing staff stands behind, not only such noted players as Miss Barriscale and Mr. Kerrigan, but also Henry W. Balthus, with whom is associated the start-actor, manager, dramatic features under the executive direction of Paralta Plays, is regarded by leading dramatic authorities as the greatest actor on the screen.

Walthall Called Greatest Actor

Special productions made and distributed under the executive direction of Paralta Plays, well exemplified in the first two efforts made in this direction—"Alimony," founded on an original scenario in which Mr. Fegan was well known, and "Rhea Mitchell," Rhea Mitchell, Clara Williams and Lois Wilson, in photodramas by famous authors, especially adapted to their personalities.

For the state rights field, artistic productions will also be made and distributed under the executive direction of Paralta Plays, well exemplified in the first two efforts made in this direction—"Alimony," founded on an original scenario in which Mr. Fegan was well known, and "Rhea Mitchell," Rhea Mitchell, Clara Williams and Lois Wilson, in photodramas by famous authors, especially adapted to their personalities.
RIED LIST OF FEATURES FOR FOX.
OCTOBER SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED.

Gladys Brockwell, Virginia Pearson, June Caprice, George Walsh and Dustin Farnum Have Stellar Roles in New Plays.

What is probably the most varied list of film subjects William Fox has ever made is announced for October. The pictures star Gladys Brockwell, Virginia Pearson, June Caprice, George Walsh and Dustin Farnum. Technically, Miss Brockwell's play is a September issue, as it will be published on the last day of the month; but inasmuch as it has been substituted for another production through a change in schedule, it comes practically unheralded.

The order of the photoplays is as follows: September 30, Gladys Brockwell in "Conscience; October 7, Virginia Pearson in "Thou Shalt Not Steal; October 14, June Caprice in "Miss U. S. A.; October 21, George Walsh in "This Is the Life;" October 25, Dustin Farnum in "The Scarlet Pimpernel;"

"Conscience," Miss Brockwell's new starring vehicle, is a drama with an allegorical motif. The central theme has been deftly treated by Bertram Bracken, the director, who returns to the William Fox forces with this picture.

Miss Pearson's forthcoming subject, "Thou Shalt Not Steal," also required a large supporting cast, prominent in which are Claire Whitney, Eric Mayne, Dan Mason, Mathilde Brundage, John Goldsworthy, Robert Elliott, Martin Faust, Lem Kennedy, Danny Sullivan and Victor DeLinkys.

"Miss U. S. A." gives June Caprice a story with a patriotic theme. The picture is the most dramatic Miss Caprice has ever had, and shows also many spectacular military scenes.

October 21, the public will first have the opportunity of seeing a photoplay made by one brother and starring another. R. A. Walsh is in charge of screening "This Is the Life," and George is the star. The picture is of the light comedy type. Wanda Petit, who was seen in "The Broadway Sport" and "The Derelic," William Fox features, was sent across the continent to play opposite George Walsh.

"The Scarlet Pimpernel," the last film of the month, is an adventure story from Baroness Orczy's splendid novel. The stage version has been counted as one of the biggest successes of the British theatre and with Dustin Farnum in the starred part, the cinema drama will probably duplicate the success of the play. The pimpernel is a tiny wayside flower which has been adopted as the emblem of a band of Englishmen engaged in rescuing condemned aristocrats during the French revolution.

A. H. BLANK GETS.
"COLD DECK" FILM
FOR FOUR STATES.

Triangle Special Featuring Wm. Hart Secured for Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

"The Cold Deck" featuring William S. Hart, which is being sold on the state rights basis by the Triangle Distributing Corporation, has been securing for the states of Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas by A. H. Blank of Des Moines, Iowa.

This picture was made by Thomas Ince as a special for the Triangle program. When Mr. Ince left the Triangle organization he turned it over to the concern and to realize quickly on it Triangle is offering it to state rights buyers.

Mr. Blank recently secured the above territory while in New York and expects to do good business with the feature.

QUICK WILL HOLD TRADE SHOWS FOR
"SUPPLEMENT" FILMS.

James R. Quirk, publisher of Photoplay Magazine, who soon will issue twelve single reel motion picture subjects under the title "Photoplay Magazine Screen Supplement," announces that in the near future special trade showings will be held in New York City, Chicago, and other cities for the purpose of demonstrating to interested state rights buyers and exhibitors who control chains of theatres, the novel sort of an attraction he has prepared.

Already Mr. Quirk has received many applications for territorial rights on these twelve de luxe single reel motion pictures.

The box office value of subjects in which such film celebrities as Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin, Bessie Love, Mary Miles Minter, Warren Kerrigan, Charlie Ray, Louise Glauem, Dorothy Dalton, William Russell, the Sidney Drews, Mabel Taliaferro, Viola Dana, and a host of other stars appear, will be proven, it is said, at these special trade showings.

State rights buyers and exhibitors of standing and repute who are interested in securing territorial rights on Photoplay Magazine Screen Supplement should write Mr. Quirk.

Toronto, Ont.—On Sept. 20, at the Colonial Theatre, Universal's new serial "The Red Ace," was screened for Toronto exhibitors. Six episodes were shown to nearly every exhibitor in Toronto and it was unanimously agreed that it was one of the best serials that has ever been published. Each episode is full of that punch which brings the patrons back and Universal had many requests for bookings. The plot of this serial is laid in Canada and deals with the German spy system.

REPAIRS OF AUDITORIUM THEATRE IN CHICAGO STALLS "EYES OF WORLD" PREMIER

W. H. Clune Feature Scheduled for Eastern Opening Sept. 21, Delayed Because Army Draft Men Could Not Finish Work on Theatre on Time

Calling of the national army quota from Chicago to the training camp at Rockford was one of the chief causes of an embarrassing delay in holding the Eastern premier of "Eyes of the World," the new Clune feature, at the Auditorium, Chicago.

The original date for the first showing was Friday evening, September 21, set after conference with contractors who are redecorating the big theatre. The W. H. Clune representatives in Chicago were assured that the theatre would be in readiness by that date. But the contractor failed to reckon with the call of the national army men to service. He had planned to employ one hundred decorators, but was able to obtain the service of only twelve.

Spence C. Rogers, Mr. Clune's personal representative in Chicago, was informed on Wednesday evening that it would be impossible to remove the scaffolding upon which the men were working before Thursday of the following week, and the opening date was necessarily set for that time.

An extensive advertising campaign, embracing not only the ordinary channels but several hundred newspapers in towns surrounding Chicago, had been carried out in connection with the presentation, entailing a loss of fully $10,000 to the Clune organization.

HUTCHINSON PLANS EXPENDITURE INCREASE ON FILMS AT AMERICAN'S COAST PLANT

"We Expect to Put All Productions on Still Higher Basis in Point of Quality," Says President on Return to Chicago After Survey of Santa Barbara Activities

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, Inc., who has just returned to the home offices at 6227 Broadway, Chicago, from an extensive survey of the studios in Santa Barbara, Cal., has declared himself for a general plan that will include largely increased expenditures for the company.

And this despite the fact that just now the majority of the producers are looking for experts to show them how to cut down expenses instead of increasing them.

"We expect to put all our productions on a still higher basis in point of quality," says president Hutchinson, "and to keep our pictures at the standard of excellence for which we plan, will mean the expenditure of even larger sums of money than we have been using in the past. Our aim is always for the very best that can be produced in pictures, and while we do not intend to throw away any money, we expect our expenses to keep pace with the world we have always set in the picture world.

"I have recently added Margarita Fischer to our stars and this gives us an organization of the highest class of screen artists, comprising Miss Fischer, Mary Miles Minter, Juliette Day, William Russell and Gail Kane. In order to reach their best development each department connected with our picture production must maintain a corresponding degree of quality of direction as well as production. Efficiency is bound to be high priced, but we intend to have only the most artistic talent, trained writers, capable directors, expert camera men and altogether a highly efficient technical and construction staff in all our companies."

ISSUE DATE OF "ADVENTURER" WITH CHAPLIN IN DOUBT

The date of publication of the forthcoming Mutual-Chaplin special, "The Adventurer," has not yet been set, despite the fact that the production was expected to be ready for exhibitors by September 1.

The film scenes have been delayed, first by the illness of Mr. Chaplin and then by an attack of sickness which kept his leading voice, Edward Purviance, from the studio for more than two weeks.

The issue date will be announced by the Mutual Film Corporation as soon as it is certain, but no announcement will be made until that time to prevent the possibility of postponement.

REX WEBER VICTIM OF REAL AUTO ACCIDENT
AS HE PLOTS REEL ONE

Rex Weber, director of the Titan Pictures Corporation, with offices in the Century building, Chicago, while rushing to the Rothacker studios on Diversey Parkway, to stage a comedy automobile accident he had just planned, met with an accident Sept. 22, when his taxi collided with a Broadway street car that looked funnier than the one Mr. Weber had planned making, but which resulted in a broken rib, as well as damage to the taxi.

Mr. Weber was making a diagram of the "set" when the crash came and his head went through the taxi door in a style the most adept Keystone comedian could not beat. He is confined to his home in Edgewater.

Toronto, Ont.—It is announced that E. Cronyn, formerly vice-president of the company which controls the Strand and York Theatres, Toronto, is to become president, taking the place of the late H. J. Rock, of Buffalo, who was killed in a recent automobile accident. It is understood that there will not be any changes made in the management of these local houses.
Julian Eltinge in

“THE COUNTESS CHARMING”

Lasky-Paramount comedy-drama; five parts; published September 17.

As a whole: Entertaining
Story: Good
Support: Excellent
Photography: Excellent

There are plenty of ways for exhibitors to exploit “The Countess Charming” so that there will be no empty seats in the theaters. Julian Eltinge’s fame is a big factor. Not every one has been able to see this player enacting two roles in one production on the speaking stage and a desire to see him on the screen will bring them out. There is an entertaining and humorous story handled in a very fine manner. The cast is well brought out and the photography and settings are in keeping with a well done production.

The supporting cast includes Florence Vidor, Edythe Chapman, Tully Marshall, Gustave von Seydartz, Mabel Van Buren-Eltinge, Homer, and Mrs. George Kewa. The scenario is by Gardner Hunting from the story by Gelett Burgess and Carolyn Wells, Direction by Donald Crisp.

The story: Upon insulting the Vandergriffs, leaders of the North Shore, Capt. Eltinge, of the Royal Navy, is forced out of society. Determined to be near his sweetheart Betty and to win over the society snobs, he becomes the Countess Raffelski. He takes the North Shore colony by storm. At the many social festivities value has been stolen and the guilty person cannot be found. Suspicion is thrown upon the countess and in order to escape all, Stanley, spreads the rumor that the countess is dead. He wins Betty and with the money from the stolen jewels he is able to make a large donation to the red cross fund.

Grace Darmond in

“THE GULF BETWEEN”

Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation feature; seven parts

As a whole: An achievement
Story: Fascinating
Support: Exceptional
Photography: Natural color

The Gulf Between” makes one feel as if the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow of promise had been found. The miracle of natural color photography is actually with us and most satisfactorily so. Nature itself offers no more exquisite color than has been reproduced by the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation. The quaint story is well told by Anthony Kelly, in scenes of infinite humor, pathos and tenderness. The director has developed the theme in perfect accord with the nearest realities of life. The picture satisfies.

The delicate coloring of Grace Darmond made her work that of rare beauty. She was supported by a perfectly chosen cast, including Edna Goodrich, Charles Vidor, Lila Lee, Mrs. Mountjoy, G. De Carleton, Fortier, J. Dally, Will Hopkins, Virginia Lee, Miss Harris and little Violet Axzell.

The story: Little Marie Farrell, through the carelessness of her nurse, is lost, and believed to be drowned. She has wandered on to the ship of a smuggler, who finds her and brings her up as his own. Her own parents adopt a boy to help them forget their grief. The girl grows up with no memory of her former life. The adopted boy moves in the smart set in Mayport, and his parents try to make a match between him and a society girl. Marie is brought to her adopted sister, as the old captain feels she would have the care of a loving woman. She meets young Richard Farrell and they love each other. The Farrells do everything in their power to separate the young people, but through the help of the Captain, the marriage is accomplished. There is a stormy interview between the parents and the bridal pair, during which the captain sees a portrait of Marie as a baby, realizes the truth and tells the story of Marie’s life. The family is happily reunited and Marie and Richard spend their honeymoon on board the captain’s ship.

Taylor Holmes in

“FOOLS FOR LUCK”

Essanay Perfection comedy-drama; five parts; published October 1.

As a whole: Splendid
Story: Good
Support: Excellent
Photography: Fine

“Fools for Luck” is a splendid photoplay. There is no plot to the story nor has the Essanay Company attempted to use one. It is just a plain, everyday tale of a plain, everyday man, Taylor Holmes, in the character of Philander Jepson, does the things which any ordinary man would do. The film tale is not artificial and there is no exaggeration. But there is good, clean entertainment, plenty of comedy and, what is most essential, human appeal.

The exhibitor who has booked the first of the Taylor Holmes productions and the patron who has seen the first of these pictures no doubt are waiting for more.

There is every reason to believe that exhibitors will find this offering an excellent box office attraction. And no doubt there is even rebooking possibilities in this production. The patron at the neighborhood houses who see it will tell their friends, who undoubtedly will ask their neighborhood manager to show it again.

TAYLOR HOLMES AND SUPPORT IN SCENE FROM “FOOLS FOR LUCK” (Essanay Perfection)

To attempt to describe just how good Taylor Holmes is, is not an easy matter. He puts himself into his role in a way that makes one feel the needs of the character being portrayed. He is given good support in Helen Ferguson, Bobbie Bolder and Frankie Raymond. The story is by Kennet Harris and direction by James Winder.

The story: Philander believes in the rabbit foot and the horseshoe, and also thinks it brings bad luck to spill salt or walk under a ladder, and wouldn’t think of leaving a room, if he had come back for some forgotten article, without sitting down and counting eleven. One night he accidentally walks under a ladder and loses his girl. The next day he loses his position. Then his bank roll dwindles away and before he knows it he is penniless, and has to live in a half bedroom. He stakes his last chance on the firm of Johnson Company and is successful in getting a position. He makes an impression with his employer and is told to take a vacation, but to be prepared to come back at a moment’s notice to accept the position of auditor. He goes to South Haven, looks up Brunhilda and, just as all misunderstandings are cleared away, gets a telegram to return at once and become auditor. The throwing away of all the superstitions eventually brings a happy ending.

Ella Hall in

"THE SPOTTED LILY"

Bluebird drama; five parts; published October 1.

As a whole: Interesting
Story: Wholesome
Star: Vivacious
Support: Excellent
Settings: Elaborate
Photography: Clear

"The Spotted Lily" is the rather incongruous title of the Bluebird offering for October 1. The story was written by J. Grubb Alexander and Fred Myton and was directed by Harry Solter. It is a sketchy little tale of two love affairs reaching over two generations. Both France and America are used as locale for its working out. The settings are of the usual Bluebird standard and the picture abounds in excellent photography.

ONE OF THE BIG SITUATIONS IN "THE SPOTTED LILY" FILM PRODUCTION (Bluebird)

Ella Hall plays well the role of the little French peasant girl who is deserted by an ardent lover and later appears as the daughter of the same woman. She receives good support in the work of Victor Rottman as Jean Duval. Gretchen Lederer is cast to advantage in the role of Senia Maroff.

The story: Yvonne is wooed by Anatole, but a more ardent lover wins her heart and hand. Later she is deserted and returns with her baby. Anatole, her former sweetheart, who has become a violin maker and priest, takes her in. The baby grows to womanhood and is wooed by Jean Duval. Jean meets her at the good priest's hut and plays upon his violin. The war breaks out and the Hun invades the village. The priest, Jean and Yvonne escape and sail for America. Jean's playing on the boat attracts the attention of Senia Maroff and when poverty overcomes the little group in New York, Jean goes to Senia's apartment for aid. She promises to make a great artist of him and he becomes enamored of her. Through the sacrifice of little Yvonne, however, he is brought to realize that happiness lies only with her and he returns home with his first love.

Mme. Petrova in

"SILENCE SELLERS"

Metro drama; five parts; published September 21.

As a whole: Average
Story: Melodramatic
Star: Charming
Support: Piquant
Settings: In keeping
Photography: Clear

"Silence Sellers" is a good production. The story is melodramatic and it has been well produced. Mme. Petrova wears some handsome gowns and some beautiful furs, and makes a charming appearance.

One of the peculiarities in this production is that after the title, "The Mist of Dawn," a cuckoo clock strikes eight.

The story tells of a young girl and a young man who are engaged. Also, of another young girl who loves a man, is supposed to be a blackmailer. Laura and her fiancé lose their engagement. Laura finds herself in an embarrassing situation. Time passes and she thinks no more of it until she is informed by the editor of the town paper, that unless she invites certain people to her house party he will expose her. To avoid notoriety, she does as the editor says. She finds, however, that her fiancé has written this paper and, believing him to be guilty, she denounces him. Later he proves that he is a member of the federal secret service and has evidence sufficient to convict the obnoxious editor, there is a happy reunion.

THE CONQUEST PROGRAM

The Edison Company has launched the Conquest program, which is released through the Kline system of exchanges. The series of one-reel comedy-dramas "T. Haviland Hicks, Freshman," and a two-reel boys' story, "Gallagher," is a one-reel educational, showing the making of gold pieces in the Philadelphia mint, and a split reel showing the training of sailors, and a trip through the Holy land.

"T. Haviland Hicks, Freshman," is an amusing story of a freshman's experience at a noted college. The sophomore's plan all sorts of hazing stunts, but the watchful freshman proves too much for them, and after they have been beaten and squelched in every one of their efforts they are ready to meet the freshman on the same grounds. The story is amusing and interesting. It should amuse all boys, as well as adults. It is pure and wholesome.

"The Conquest," is a story of a girl who wins a prize by acting as a substitute for the boys. The story, and yet there is no reason why girls should not be interested in it.

"Gallagher" is the kind of a story that will make the young boy sit up in his seat and admire the hero. And probably when he gets home he will dream of himself in a like predicament. Since nearly all boys yearn to be detectives and enjoy newspaper work, there is every reason to believe that every boy will consider this a winner. This story is of a young office boy desirous of becoming a detective. When a real detective comes into the office the boy follows him. Through his cleverness Gallagher is successful in placing under arrest a most notorious murderer,gets the story to his paper, and the opposition papers know anything about it, and wins a large reward and a good position.

"Turning Out Silver Bullets," the title of the educational, is the kind of a picture that can be run either with the program or can be booked as a filler with a dramatic subject. The entire process of making gold pieces is shown in an interesting manner.

Another subject that will awaken the latent spirit in the young boy is the training of sailors. The entire training of a boy goes through to fit himself for the Marine Corps is graphically depicted. At this time this offering should prove successful. It will run as a program in itself or as a filler. A one-reel is a trip through the Holy Land. All the interesting scenes mentioned in the Bible are pictured.

After seeing one of these programs, there is no doubt but what many will go back to the "Family and home" for a picture. They know they can take the family and know something will be offered on the screen which will be enjoyed by young and old alike.

Wally Van in

"LOVE AND PEP"

Wally Van's comedy; two parts; published state rights.

As a whole: Entertaining
Story: amusing
Star: Capable
Support: Picturesque
Settings: Splendid
Photography: Clear

"Love and Pep" is a bright, clean comedy, well written, produced, and acted by Wally Van. He deserves much commendation for good work along the three lines. The settings are all chosen with taste and the photography is especially good. The cast gives Mr. Van able support.

The story: Wally Pep grows dissatisfied on his father's farm and longs for a more exciting life. His mother has no sympathy with his liking for automobiling and resents his wasting time tinkering with their machine instead of feeding the chickens. Pictures in magazines stimulate his imagination and he runs away in search of the city brand of "chicken." He becomes chauffeur in the Wiggins family, where he proves himself a prophet. Wally and Wiggins become partners, in order to make love to the daughter of the family, he disguises himself as a girl in a bathing suit, and while he is disporting himself on the beach Mr. Wiggins falls a victim to his charms.
Norma Talmadge in
"THE MOTHE"

Select Pictures drama; six parts; published October 14

As a whole... Average
Story... Interesting
Star... Charming
Support... Simple

Photography... Good

Taken from the standpoint of Norma Talmadge as an attraction, exhibitors no doubt will have little difficulty in making "The Mothe" a successful box office attraction, for surely the name of Norma Talmadge in electric lights means something and the production of the human appeal has not been lost. While the story is interesting, there is something cold about it which keeps the little bubbles of enthusiasm from flowing over. And yet there probably it is a class of audiences which would find this picture interesting.

Edward Jose must be given credit. At all times he has placed Miss Talmadge in a position and surrounded her with settings that bring out all the beauty and charm of this young star. In view of the interior and exterior sets is well done. The photography is very good.

Supporting Miss Talmadge are Frank Kingdon, Hassam Short, Donald Hall, Maude Allen and Eugene O'Brien.

The story: Unhappily married, Lucy Spencer turns to other men for association, while her husband pursues the trail of Mr. Marbridge, a notorious character. The arrival of Captain Aucheaster arouses in Lucy all her pent-up love, Spencer, in order to obtain money from Lucy, pretends to be jealous and demands half her estate for keeping the matters of her associations with Aucheaster quiet. But for the sake of her two children Lucy refuses. Angered, Spencer goes to the apartment of Mrs. Marbridge and demands money from her. When she cannot get what he wants, he beats her. Lucy threatens to kill herself and he endeavors to gain possession of the revolver. In the struggle Mrs. Marbridge is killed and Spencer's accused of the murder. The fact that the state's attorney is the husband of Lucy saves her husband from disgrace. He promises to leave her forever, that she might pursue her happiness with Captain Aucheaster.

As an example of athletic prowess, William Desmond's performance in "Flying Colors" would be hard to top. He ole-vaults at school, thus winning the admiration of Anne; he ole-vaults through a plate-glass window at night and overcomes a pair of crooks that have him locked out. Then he arranges the crooks, one under each arm, back to the house they had hired and makes off with their boat. Capt. Lansing, picture audiences will like "Flying Colors" for the stunts it contains, if for nothing else. The story is by John Lynch and L. Cecil Smith, and does not contain much original material. The direction by Frank Borsage is good and helps out the cakplot.

The story: Brent Brewer, famous athlete of Yale, is cast drift by his rich uncle and told to shift for himself. He seizes employment as a detective and is assigned to watch West at the Craig Lansing home. He discovers Capt. Drake, whose picture reposes in the lounge's gallery, is a guest at the Lansing home. During Lansing's absence, Drake, who has entered into a flirtation with Mrs. Lansing, enters her room and attempts to embrace her. She screams and arouses the house. Lansing returns unexpectedly as Drake and Brewster are leaving his wife's room and Brewster assumes the blame for the intrusion. A moment later the family jewels are found to have been stolen and Drake and Brewster miss each other. Then follows an artful plot to the village inn, finds the door barricaded and vaults through a high window, captures the thief and drag him back to Lansing's home, where, a moment later, a warrant arrives for Drake's arrest. Then it is left for Brewster to take his wife's happiness, as Drake is taken away.

Where an audience enjoys a motion picture production from the standpoint of the star, "The Girl Who Couldn't Grow Up" will undoubtedly find a warm welcome. Margarita Fischer, in her role of Peggy Brockman, is very likeable and she is full of life and injects all sorts of amusing pranks into the story. The story is that of a devoted girl who has been spared her youth and is now an old lady, yet she still has the energy of a young girl. She decides to play a prank on a lord, who is to be the honored guest, and rowing out to his yacht she bores a hole in a small boat. The boat starts sinking and she calls for help. She is rescued by the lord, who has sent his steward to attend the ball. Mutual attraction springs up, which results in both attending the same college. They elope from the college and are married, and later they are arrested because they have stolen a motorcyce which they eloped. When Mrs. Brockman is informed that her stepdaughter is Lady George Raleigh, she is highly indignant.

The role of Alice Avery is not the most appropriate one for Julia Sanderson, but she manages to carry it through with success and her charming personality and beauty will no doubt bring fame to the favor. The story is of a cheerful type and centers around two women and a man.

Some pretty sets in a well furnished artist's apartment have been used. Some of the good old-fashioned country scenery has been used most appropriately. One of the best stages are the scenes in which a boy of a room has been used, together with a bevy of chorus girls and chorus men. There is little doubt but what the average motion picture patron will enjoy "The Runaway."

In addition to Miss Sanderson, the cast includes Ada St. Clare, Alice's accomplice; Plowden, Josephine Morse, Norman Trevor, Rex McDougal, Edward Fielding, James C. Malade, Stanhope Wheatcroft, W. H. St. James, Robert Tamsey, Sheridan Tamsey and Edward Broadley. Direction by Dell Henderson.

The story: Alice Avery, unable to stand the discipline of her pious aunt and uncle, runs away to New York and goes to the studio of Richard Danforth, an artist, whom she had met. She is happy here until one day she believes that Richard loves her. She learns that he is leaving the city and joins at chorus. And when the leading lady quits, she is selected to play leads. On the opening night Danforth and his friends attend the theater and he recognizes Alice. Immediately after the show Richard tells Alice how much he loves her and she gives up her stage career to become his wife.

“THE EDGE OF THE LAW”
Butterfly drama; five parts; published September 24

A DRAMATIC SCENE FROM “THE EDGE OF THE LAW”
(Bluebird)

Excellent photography, good acting and direction make this a first rate box office attraction.

The story: Nancy Glenn, known as “The Spider,” a young girl pickpocket, dressed in male attire, meets Ralph Harding who has become interested in social welfare work on New York’s East Side. He persuades the detective who is about to arrest “The Spider” to let her go. Upon her return to the “dip” headquarters of “Pop” Hogland’s pawnshop, she is upbraid for not bringing home more money. Phinny Drew, a pupil of Hogland’s, suggests that “The Spider” could be used to better advantage if she was dressed up as a woman and he plans to establish her in the upper West Side to assist in “pulling off” some real “deals.” “The Spider” flees from the apartment, however, after she has been enticed thence, and is struck by Harding’s automobile in the street. Harding takes her home and overhearing the physician’s remark that she may suffer from amnesia, she assumes the role of a girl who has lost her memory. Ralph’s mother makes her a companion and upon meeting Drew again she refuses to acknowledge that she knows him. Several thefts in the Harding home are being traced by a detective who formerly knew Nancy on the East Side. Drew is exposed by Nancy and Ralph’s fortune which he had invested in a bogus mine, is saved.

E. WARREN ANNOUNCES SALE OF RIGHTS ON “SOULS REDEEMED” FILM

Edward Warren reports the sale of the following territories for “Souls Redeemed”: Louisiana, to Pearce & Son of New Orleans; Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey, to the Ideal Film Exchange of Philadelphia; Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, to Southwestern Art Dramas, Inc., of Dallas; Michigan and Ohio, to Tri-State Film Exchange of Detroit; Greater New York, to Elkh Photoplays, New York, and Up-State New York, to Veribest Pictures, Inc., of 47 West Swan street, Buffalo.

The foreign rights have been taken over by the Piedmont Pictures Corporation, so that practically the entire world rights have been disposed of.

Negotiations are pending for the few remaining territories.

Peggy O’Neill, Frank Morgan in “THE PENNY PHILANTHROPIST”
Wholesome Films Corp. drama; seven parts; published September 24

“The Penny Philanthropist” concerns a wholehearted Irish girl, who, though poor, is always helping somebody and setting them on the right road to happiness. It is the type of picture which will undoubtedly interest the majority of picture patrons. The work of Peggy O’Neill and Frank Morgan register very well and Miss O’Neill is the sort of player which audiences will like to see.

The story: Tom Oliphant’s father has been arrested for bank forgery, a crime of which he is innocent. Tom declares to get vengeance upon Andrew Kimbalton, because Kimbalton refused to help the elder Oliphant. Wlien an attempt is made to blow up the Kimbalton home, Oliphant is arrested. Peggy, a little Irish girl, who has befriended Tom, believes him innocent and does everything in her power to free him. She wins the sympathy of Kimbalton, who has always purchased papers from her, and Tom is freed, as well as the elder Oliphant. Tom gets a good position in Kimbalton’s factory and he and Peggy become engaged.

Ethel Clayton in
“THE WOMAN BENEATH”
World drama; five parts; published September 24

“The Woman Beneath” sets forth the familiar story of the society debutante who marries a wealthy Westerner for his money and later, when she thinks his money is gone, comes to love him.

It has been well produced and offers an hour of good entertainment. The picture was well directed by Travers Vale. The story was written by Willard Mack.

Ethel Clayton is seen as the beautiful but impecunious daughter of designing parents, who marries Tom Connolly (played by Curtis Cooksey), a mine owner, attracted by her beauty. Miss Clayton’s acting and her gowns, as always, will please her female admirers. Others in the typical World-Brady cast are Craufurd Kent, cast as the villain; Isabelle Berwin as Mrs. Fairchild, Frank de Vernon as Mr. Fairchild, and Margaret Waring as Mrs. Connolly.

The story: Tom Connolly, a rich mine owner from the West, falls in love with Betty Fairchild, a New York society girl, much sought after by Rupert Brantley, a man of the world. Tom is summoned to his home by his father and witnesses the death of his sister Ellen, who has been betrayed. He later marries Betty and through her indifference to him they become as strangers to each other. To bring Betty to her senses he purposely suffers imprisonment in prison and tells her that he is ruined. Mrs. Fairchild urges her daughter to divorce Tom at once, but Betty refuses to desert him. She sells her jewels, cars and house, and together they establish a home in Harlem. Tom’s mother finds some old letters of Brantley’s sent to Ellen, which disclose his treachery. She sends them to Tom, but Betty opens them and goes to Brantley, telling him he must leave the country to save his husband from having his name made public. Tom finds her in Brantley’s apartment, but the letters have been burned. Brantley, afraid of the consequences should Tom learn of his relations with his sister, leaves the country, and Tom confesses the ruse regarding his lost fortune.

“SHALL WE FORGIVE HER” FROM STAGE PLAY, WITH JUNE ELVIDGE

NEXT FILM ON WORLD PROGRAM

Another World-Picture Brady-made picture adapted directly from the speaking stage is “Shall We Forgive Her?” next to be shown in this series. The play in its original form was written by Frank Harvey, the author of many dramas which were successful in this country and Europe. “Shall We Forgive Her?” toured America season after season for several years. June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley assume the principal roles. The scene is laid partly on the frontier and partly in New York.
SES GOODRICH, MINTER, HOLMES AND RHODES APPEAR IN FEATURES
ON MUTUAL PROGRAM OCTOBER 1

Edna Goodrich, Mary Miles Minter, Helen Holmes, Billie Rhoades and George Ovey are on Mutual’s film schedule for the week of October 1. Miss Minter appears in “Queen X,” the second of her Mutuals, and Miss Minter in “Her Country’s Call.” Billie Rhoades appears in “Some Nurse,” the first of a new series of Mutual-Strand comedies.

“Queen X” is a serial dramata around the crusade of the federal authorities against a gang of oriental smugglers. It was written by Edwin M. Stanton, assistant district attorney of New York, who conducted the government’s fight on the orientals. Miss Goodrich’s first Mutual production, “Reputation,” was a revelation of the star’s popularity from the box office angle, it is said.

Miss Minter in “Her Country’s Call” is the second of the new series of Minter Musicals presented in October. Miss Minter is now working under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham. “Her Country’s Call” follows “Charity Castle,” which was pronounced a Minter masterpiece.

Miss Minter is cast in “Her Country’s Call” as a girl of the moonshine mountains, the daughter of a Civil War colonel, stolen during war-time by a bootlegger, who has been reared to despise the flag by the mountaineer whom she thinks is her father.

Respect for the flag is taught the girl by a young captain of secret service and the mountain child sounds the alarm which saves the border town from attack by outlaws. She finds her own father and sister and acquires a handsome husband.

Some Nurse” First of New Strand Series

“Some Nurse” is the first film of a new series of Strand-Mutual comedies, featuring Billie Rhoades, the comedienne. She is supported in the pictures by Jay Belasco, who appeared with her in a series of successful one-reel productions a few months ago. “Some Nurse” is built on a clean, funny story. It will be issued October 2. The second comedy on the week’s schedule is “Jerry in Yodel Land,” a one-reeler, featuring George Ovey, the star in the series of one-reel Cub Comedies, which are published through Mutual. The issue date is October 4.

Helen Holnes in “The Lost Express”

The third chapter of the new Mutual serial, “The Lost Express,” is issued Monday, October 1. Helen Holmes does some thrilling stunts in “The Wreck at the Crossing,” which is the title of the chapter. She rides on the roof of a speeding passenger train, gives battle to a gang of ruffians, leaps to a cable stretched across the track, and crawls, hand over hand, to a telegraph pole. Before the chapter ends she has another thrilling experience. The automobile in which she is racing is struck by the train at a grade crossing, hurled twenty-five feet, and demolished. The action of the chapter is fast and the story moves with great rapidity.

Two Topical Releases

The topical films for the week include Reel Life No. 75, scheduled for October 1, and Mutual Weekly No. 144, scheduled for October 3. The weekly contains the current news up to the hour that the film is made up. Reel Life covers the following subjects: “Dogs of War,” “The Sign of a City,” “Making Army Rifles,” “Japanese Dwarf Plants,” and an animated cartoon from life, entitled “The Chorus Girl Who Hesitates Is Lost.”

OLIVE TELL, EMPIRE STAR, POSES FOR ARTISTS AFTER COMPLETION OF “THE UNFORSEEN” PRODUCTION

Olive Tell, after the completion of her first Empire All-star production, “The Unforeseen,” has been devoting her time in having new photographs taken, in posing for celebration artists and submitting to the questions and cross-examination of interviewers and writers of the leading motion picture and women magazines.

Miss Tell is a recent recruit from the stage, where she appeared in leading roles from the very start. Her first Empire All-Star production was adjudged so satisfactory when shown for the first time in the company’s projection room, that its issuance was brought forward one month. The Mutual Film Corporation will publish “The Unforeseen” in October instead of November, as at first planned.

THE WEEK’S BEST BET IN PICTURES

“The Yankee Way,” William Fox comedy, in five parts, with the genial George Walsh. George is at his best. He will drive away the blues and elminate the grouch. A scream from reel 1 to “The End.” Try it. The title should be enough to stand ‘em outside the box office during these stirring times. And George is some stepper when he gets going, and adds zip and pep to the stories. This one stretches its nose out under the wire ahead of all others this week.

In the Big Money Places This Week

“The Countess Charming,” Paramount, five reels, with Julian Eltinge.

“Fools for Luck,” Essanay, five reels, with Taylor Holmes.

“Rasputin, the Black Monk,” World, seven parts, with Henry Hull.

A awful slow week—only one producing company enjoined.

EXHIBITORS HERALD

TAYLOR HOLMES AND WASHBURN
STAR IN TWO ESSANAY FEATURES ON PERFECTION PROGRAM IN OCT.

Essanay's October offering on the Perfection Pictures program, George Kleine System, distributors, includes two multipe-part comedy-dramas and a continuation of the weekly films through General Films, is "Fools for Luck." Taylor Holmes heads the feature list in his second Essanay production, "Fools for Luck." This is a screen version of a story by Kenneth Harris, entitled "Talisman," which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Based on the prevailing human weakness, superstition, and portraying the ludicrous efforts of a young man to "work a rabbit's foot" in a love affair, it presents Mr. Holmes in a role of subtle humor of the type in which he won his fame on the stage. The picture has a screen time of sixty-five minutes. It will be issued October 8.

A week following the publication of "Fools for Luck," Bryant Washburn will make his first appearance on the Perfection Pictures program in a five-part comedy-drama, entitled "The Fibbers." The story, written by James W. Adams, a magazine writer, hinges on the theory that while it is all very well not to fib to your wife, still, by the same token, your wife should not fib to you. It has been aimed to give Mr. Washburn a role affording him the amplitude for his humorous portrayals which were so well liked in "Skinner's Dress Suit," one of his recent successes. Virginia Valli appears as his leading woman. "The Fibbers" has a screen time of sixty-five minutes. It will be issued October 15.

DOROTHY DALTON WILL MAKE
PARAMOUNT DEBUT IN NEW INCE
DRAMA ENTITLED "THE PRICE MARK"

More than ordinary interest is attached to the announcement that Dorothy Dalton, the star of Thomas H. Ince, would appear in Paramount pictures. For her Paramount debut a strong story with a wide diversity of locale, and big dramatic appeal, has been chosen, the title of which is "The Price Mark." The picture will be in charge of Roy Neill, who is one of Mr. Ince's most experienced directors, but the latter will supervise all of the situations. "The Price Mark" will be issued in October.

Miss Dalton will be surrounded by a cast which includes William Conklin, a versatile actor of juvenile leads who has had wide stage and screen experience; Thurston Hall, who has been a leading man in stock, in various productions for the stage, and on pictures; Adele Farrington, a character actress and comedienne of much ability; Edwin Wallock, Dorac Matthews and Clio Ayres, all well known players.

"The Price Mark" is described as a story located in New York and Egypt and involving the life of the American Quarters Latin—the studios of the artist. For the settings representing the city of Cairo some of the most work ever accomplished will be evidenced, while the interior scenes are said to be very elaborate.

"LEST WE FORGET" RITA JOLIVET FILM TO BE SHOWN TO TROOPS OF ALLIED NATIONS IN FRANCE

In accordance with an offer made through M. Tardieu and M. Stephan Luzanne of the French High Commission in America, Rita Jolivet, star of "Lest We Forget," and her husband, Count Cippico, have arranged personally to take Miss Jolivet's picture, "Lest We Forget," which is now nearing completion, to France, after prints have been made for the American theatres. Miss Jolivet proposes to show the film in all the large centers of military occupation behind the French front. This will include the concentration camps of the American troops as well.

On account of the patriotic nature of the film the representatives of the French government have expressed themselves as extremely pleased that the various soldiers of the allies in France will have opportunity to see this screen presentation of causes contributing to the American entry into the war.

Miss Jolivet, having braved submarines on several occasions, is not the least concerned over this feature of the trip she has planned. She was on the Lusitania at the time that big liner was sunk by a German submarine, this incident in fact being one of the central scenes in her picture.

"THE PRICE OF A GOOD TIME" NEW LOIS WEBER FEATURE OPENS IN N. Y. AT BROADWAY THEATRE OCT.

Mildred Harris will be featured. The cast includes Kenneth Harlan, Anne Schaeffer, Helen Rosson, Alfred Allen, Adele Harrington and Gertrude Aster. Lois Weber and Philip Smalley are the directors and Allen Siegel is the photographer.

"The Price of a Good Time" very dramatically tells the story of two department store girls who work side by side and to whom various experiences fall. It is the first piece produced entirely in Lois Weber's new studio at Universal City.

ONE OF EFFECTIVE SCENES FROM "THE PRICE OF A GOOD TIME"

Oh, M-A-R-Y

Mary MacLane, the Butte, Mont., girl whose book, "The Story of Mary MacLane," startled and almost shocked the country several years ago, has become a film star.

Miss MacLane has been engaged by Essanay and will be featured in a super-feature entitled, "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," by that company.

The picture will take up the heart affairs of Miss MacLane, which she treated with such frank realism in her story. She gives some idea of her opinion of men, as she gleaned it from her actual life experiences, in the following statement:

"I have the passionate, sensuous gray eyes of the weary courtisan and the virginal pink lips of the cloistered nun. I have a slim, young body and it was my vanity that saved me from many a slip between the cup and the lip.

"I am egotistical, but not more than the rest of the world. I am only more frankly egoistic than the rest."

"I have had loves to which I have given my heart's blood by the gallon.

"From drunk men, from false teeth, from a fish too long dead, from a dread mood of discontent—kind devil deliver me."

Miss MacLane is now writing her own scenario at the Essanay studios. Arthur Berthelet will direct the picture, which will be in six or seven reels.

FOREIGN SALES DEPARTMENT IS OPENED
BY GENERAL ENTERPRISES FOR FEATURES

Increasing Scope of New Concern Causes Expansion in Home Office;
M. R. Fink, Marketing Statistician, Is Placed in Charge

Attestig to the rapidly increasing scope of the newly formed General Enterprises, Inc., A. H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin announced this week that a department especially devoted to the handling of films for foreign sale has been added to their organization. At its head has been placed M. R. Fink, a film executive of several years’ experience, who brings to his new duties a mass of facts and figures covering the foreign market situation, the result of five years intensive study of the subject.

Mr. Fink at present is engaged in disposing of the foreign rights to the McClure Series, “The Seven Deadly Sins,” which were recently acquired by General Enterprises, Inc. It is said several contracts have been closed whereby the “Seven Deadly Sins” will be shown in countries outside of the United States and Canada.

General Enterprises, Inc., has also secured the selling privileges for the entire world of Henry W. Savage’s production, “Robinson Crusoe,” an adaptation of the story which has been translated into every language on the globe. A deal is now pending for the acquisition of three noted film successes of the past year starring well known screen players. Mr. Fink contemplates the removal of his offices from 1600 Broadway to larger quarters in the near future, owing to the volume of business which General Enterprises, Inc., is handling in the recently established foreign department.

CLARA K. YOUNG COMPLETES “MAGDA” AND STARTS “SHIRLEY KAYE” FEATURE

Clara Kimball Young, who has just completed “Magda,” her first production by her own organization under the management of Harry L. Garson, has already started work on “Shirley Kaye,” which will be her second film.

Joseph Kaufman, who has just completed Billie Burke’s new picture, “Arms and the Girl,” will direct Miss Young instead of Emile Chautard, who is busily engaged on the picture now being made by Mme. Lina Cavalieri.

Corliss Giles has been engaged to play the lead. This will be Mr. Giles’ first appearance on the screen. Mr. Giles has been the leading man of the Bonstelle Stock Company in Detroit for the past five years, and played the role of John Rawson in “Shirley Kaye” with that company last summer.

The play is well known for its successful run and as the vehicle in which Elsie Ferguson made a big success. The screen version is particularly adapted to Miss Young’s talents, it is said. It is to be issued some time next month.

MUTUAL TO ISSUE
NEW COMEDY FILM WITH MISS RHODES

First of Series of Forty-Four One-Reel Plays Reaches Screen
October 1

Billie Rhodes, the little comedienne, comes back in one-reelers on the Mutual film schedule of October 1.

The Mutual Film Corporation has just concluded negotiations for a series of forty-four one-reel comedies starring Billie Rhodes, supported by Jay Belasco. They will be issued weekly. The first film is issued October 2.

The schedule for October includes: Tuesday, October 2, “Some Nurse”; Tuesday, October 9, “Firing Father”; Tuesday, October 16, “For Sweet Charity”; Tuesday, October 23, “And Along Came Mary.”

Miss Rhodes scored a distinct success in a series of eight Mutual-Strand comedies published early in the year and they were so successful from the box office point of view that John B. Freuler, president of the Mutual, began negotiating to secure another and a larger series of productions of the same type and quality.

A well balanced cast was selected to support the star. The productions are what are known in the language of the trade “society comedies.”

Toronto, Ont.—Although Ontario is a dry province, occasionally there is one slipped over, and in this case it was a motion picture operator who attempted to project the pictures in his house while intoxicated. His license was suspended for two months as a warning to other operators against drunkenness. The authorities claimed that he endangered the lives of patrons.

AMERICAN’S FOREIGN SALES REPORTED BIG

Richard R. Nehls, general manager of American Film Company, reports a satisfactory bulk of foreign shipments for the past week. Foreign markets regard the American features with a favorable eye.

"A Crooked Romance"—September 30 (five-reel Astra drama, with Gladys Hulette).—Mary Flynn and her father open the safe at the Cannon home, but are caught at it. Mary escapes; her father is arrested. Mary goes to the country and when she has earned sufficient funds she returns to the city. She finds a baby in the park and takes it to her home. In order to provide for the baby she becomes the operator of an opening safe. Again she is arrested by Cannon and when she pleads to see her baby once more he consents. He is surprised when he sees the baby and brings his aunt to the house. The aunt is willing to adopt; Mary as the baby's big sister and all ends well, for it develops that Flynn isn't Mary's right father.

"Under False Colors"—September 25 (five-reel Thanhouser drama, with Frederick, Warde and Ogla).—Olga is escaping from Russia, goes to America for safety. She meets Vera, a young American, who is on her way to an American home to remain until after the war. The boat on which they are traveling is torpedoed and Vera dies of exposure. Olga goes to the Colton home, posing as Vera. She joins a secret band of her countrymen and makes never been known out of the way. Vera saves her life and then Colton shows Vera and the other members of the gang that their leader is working for his own riches only. When Colton's son returns and tells his father that he loves Olga his father is very willing that they marry.

PARAMOUNT

"In Bed—In Bad"—September 24 (one-reel Keystone comedy, with Victor Moore).—Vic works very hard at the office and everybody is worried over the state of his health, but he only laughs. He has completely lost his health in his life. When he gets home one evening his wife insists that he go to bed and she calls a doctor. The neighbors, learning that Vic is sick, come in to see him, and each one suggests a different doctor. The wife calls all of the doctors. They finally decide that he must be operated on for appendicitis. He asks the cause and is informed lack of exercise. He immediately starts to take some by heating each one of the doctors.

EVENTS OF GREAT REVOLUTION IN FILMS OFFERED BY NEW RUSS PICTURES CORP.

Pictures Record Stirring Events in Throwing Off Rule of Czar and Formation of New Republic; People at War Under Two Different Administrations Also Shown

The New Russian Pictures Corporation has bought the films of the Great Russian Revolution and war pictures, imported last month by the Skobelooff committee, and the sales of which has been for the relief of the Russian soldiers and prisoners of war.

These new pictures are the sole record of one of the greatest events in the history of the human race, the living memorial of a great people, for centuries under the yoke of tyranny, at last rising to the realization of their power, and overthrowing the most autocratic government in the world. They show the Russian people at war, first under the rule of the Romanoffs, with the country honeycombed with Teutonic intrigue, and later genuinely fighting for their country under a popular administration.

They are pictures which will enable the people of this country to better understand the tremendous forces at work in the Russian mind, the inspired courage and devotion to duty in the hearts of the soldiers of the people. Hundreds of thousands of people swarm the streets of Petrograd, wild with joy in their newfound liberty, and hundreds of thousands follow in stately procession the bodies of their comrades, who gave their lives that the New Russia might live.

It is significant to note that the impression made by them on Samuel Roth- ag, the director of the Rialto Theatre, New York, and one of the keenest exhibitors in the industry, was such, that for the first time in the history of the Rialto the regular program was dropped and the revolutionary pictures made up the bill for the entire week. The Overland Film Company is distributing the films for the New Russian organization, and Samuel Krallberg, president of the former company, states that there has already been a large demand for territorial rights. The pictures are being sold at the state rights market.

“THE CONQUEROR,” WITH WM. FARNUM, IS FINISHING LAST OF RUN AT N. Y. GLOBE

Picturesque Nashville, Tennessee, of 1825 Pictured in Stirring Romance of Noted General Sam Houston; Production Is Replete With Thrills and Fine Photography

_“The Conqueror,”_ the stirring William Farnum photodrama based on the heroic life and romantic times of General Sam Houston, is in its second week at the Globe.

William Farnum personates Houston and his portrayal of one of the most famous characters in American history is realistic, it is said.

Sam Houston’s is a story which, replete with action, with thrills, with passages which touch the heart, is of the sort that seldom finds its way to the screen, and when it does, given proper production, makes a substantial photodrama success. Mr. Fox has given “The Conqueror,” an excellent production, it is reported.

The battle scenes, showing Houston leading the Texans against the Mexicans, are realistically done, and some of the most impressive, beautiful night scenes have been taken.

The early days of Tennessee—the Nashville of 1825 is shown in all its quaintness, and there is the Cherokee Indian village at nightfall, and the wild ride of the brave as they answer the call to arms, that makes an exciting spectacle.

Through the action of the story runs a love story—the story of Sam Houston’s love for Eliza Allen, the fairest rose of Tennessee.

Mr. Farnum is supported by a good cast. Opposite him, as Eliza Allen, is Jewel Carmen, and others who give excellent performances are Charles Clary, J. A. Marcus, Owen Jones, and three Indian chiefs, William Eagle Shirt, Chief Birdhead and Little Bear. “The Conqueror” will close its engagement at the Globe on Sunday night, Sept. 23.

START A BLUEBIRD DAY IN YOUR HOUSE
The latest recruit to the "week run" films is no other than exhibitor Chas. Z. Schaefer, manager of the Casino Theatre. The initial feature is Universal's "Come Through," which opened Sept. 5, raising the admission fee to 15 cents, and all Charles is doing is smiling—just one big smile after another.

We note the drippings from the pen of Jack Lait, the well-known scribe, will be filmed under the direction of the Chicago Tribune. The pictures will be two reelers. The first of the stories will be "Bungalow Isle," which soon will be produced at the Rothacker studios.

Jack Schwartz, former road representative for the Reliable Feature Film Co., has devil old "Chi" for the State Film Co., of Detroit. Henceforth, that little busy right of his will be slippin' his contract mail to the home town of Hughey Jennings' Tigers.

The J. P. Seeburg Co., 1902 Republic Building, has been a veritable rendezvous for many well-known exhibitors the past ten days, where the new Seeburg-Smith Unit orchestra is being demonstrated to them.

James McQuade, of the Moving Picture World, is a busy "boy" these days, taking a wee fling at old Broadway during the week of Sept. 17. Have a care, "Jamie," 'tis a long way from home that ye are.

Winfield Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Film Corp., passed through the city Sept. 19, enroute for New York, completing his recent Western trip to the numerous Fox branch offices.

R. R. Nehls, general manager of the American Film Co., after a wild session with the "bucking goat," is being showered with congratulations by his many friends on his successful entree in the Birchwood Lodge, Sept. 5. It couldn't have been a such a terrific jostling—for Dick looks just as good as he ever did, and apparently enjoyed every bit of the "session," eh, wot?

Lester Sturm is back again in old Chi for the Fox Film Corp., and believe us, "Les" is sure welcome. He's one of the "old guard" and hasn't an enemy in the world.

They tell us Chicago filmdom is to have two clubs very shortly—the Film Art Club and Motion Picture Club. Talkin' about them World Series struggles—just keep your eagle eyes on these clubs.

Dwight Furness, chemist for the American Film Company, is receiving the glad hand from his associates upon his appointment as First Lieutenant to the

PETTIJOHN BRINGS PEACE TO WARING UTICA EXHIBITORS

Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, spent Thursday in Utica, N.Y., attending a meeting of the Utica exhibitors. For some time past there has been a split among Utica exhibitors. Three factions have been in the field and it was impossible to get any concerted action by the exhibitors to any movement in their behalf. Recently some of the leading exhibitors in the various groups saw that in order to get anywhere it was necessary for co-operation and all factional differences were settled so that the local organization in Utica is a strong body of exhibitors determined and militant for their rights.

The meeting was addressed by Mr. Pettijohn and many present joined the A. E. A. While in Utica, Mr. Pettijohn conferred with William Fait, Jr., treasurer of the A. E. A. The organization was ninety days old on Sept. 20, and after an examination of the books, it was found that not a single bill was left unpaid and that there was a substantial balance in the bank.

ARTHUR ASHLEY ENGAGED AGAIN BY WM. A. BRADY

Arthur Ashley, who recently added acting for the legitimate stage to his acting and directorial capacities for the World Film Corporation, has decided to continue in pictures for another year, rather than leave the screen for the stage.

William A. Brady signed Mr. Ashley for his Playhouse production, "The Man Who Came Back," and was so pleased with the performance of his film actor and director that he signed him up for the Chicago run of the new stage play.

In the meantime, Mr. Ashley was assigned to the direction of Mr. Brady's spectacular melodrama of the incidents leading up to the Russian revolution, "Rasputin, The Black Monk," which now is running at the Park theatre.
Toronto, Ont.—The Globe Films, Limited, announce that they have secured the first-run rights for the Ogden Picture "The Lust of the Ages" featuring Lilian Walker. The concern has also been successful in obtaining the Canadian rights from General Enterprises, Inc., for "The Warrior."

Toronto, Ont.—It has been announced that the new Allen Theatre, Toronto, which has been under construction for some time is to be opened on October 15. This new theatre has caused considerable comment and there is no doubt that it will be filled to capacity the opening week.

Calgary, Alta.—O. D. Cloaky, new manager of the Allen Theatre, announces the Allen Theatre will have a new policy. The Allen will continue to show Paramount Pictures, but will change three times a week during the coming year. The evening prices have been raised, but the matinee schedule will remain the same as before.

Mr. Cloaky, well known orchestra leader in the West, has been engaged as leader of the Allen Paramount Concert Orchestra. A change has been made in the organist, to enable Mr. Cloaky to work throughout the season with the orchestra. Heretofore this has been impossible and there is no doubt same will be a very great improvement.

Toronto, Ont.—State Rights Features, of Canada, announces many splendid bookings on the new Alice Howell comedies. Among these is Mr. John C. Green, of Galt, Ont., who has contracted for the entire series.

London, Ont.—The Empire Theatre, London, Ont., has changed hands, the new manager being Mr. King of Goderich, Ont. It is also rumored that Mr. Hirsch of the Princess Theatre, St. Thomas, has sold his theatre to Mr. King.

London, Ont.—It was a distinct shock to the motion picture industry in Canada to learn of the death of Wally Davidson on Sept. 19. Mr. Davidson had been ill about three weeks and on the evening of his death was to have left the hospital. Mr. Davidson started his career with the Pathé Company, then joined the forces of the Universal Film Co., where he served for two years. He left Universal Company and from there went to the Specialty Import Co., where he was manager. to become manager of the Metro company.

Toronto, Ont.—The Colonial Theatre, Toronto, might well be called the "New Colonial." This theatre has been re-decorated inside and out and Mr. McMillan is to be congratulated on his good taste. The interior is a veritable fairy-land, the walls being painted pale blue with a panel effect. In each panel Mr. McMillan has had a picture painted in suitable colors, the pictures being framed with a gold band of painting around each one. The walls are papered with drapery of cretonne. The exterior of the house is painted white with a striking contrast of mahogany doors and trimmings. The Colonial is a first-run "Universal" house.

Toronto, Ont.—As a warning to other exhibitors, Mr. McNally of the Bonita Theatre, Toronto, was fined $20 and costs because he took charge of the operator's booth when he was not licensed to do so, and then in a statement explained which badly damaged the theatre and necessitated the closing of his theatre for two weeks. Besides the damage done to the theatre, Mr. McNally's hands and face were burned in trying to extinguish the blaze at close quarters. However, Chief Inspector Elliott pressed this case, in order to warn other exhibitors against the practice of taking their operator's place when not licensed to do so.

EXHIBITORS FAVOR HOFFMAN POLICY

The Hoffman Foursquare policy of simultaneous distribution of all its features is meeting with favor among exhibitors. It is announced that first-run booking for all pictures now ready to be distributed through the Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges, exhibitors in the country commending the newly established policy, it is announced by M. H. Hoffman.

Demand is reported for "One Hour" with Zane Grey and Allan Hale, "The Great White Trail," the Wharton story of the North in which Doris Kenyon is featured, "The Silent Witness" with Gertrude McCoy, and "Should She Obey."

J. WARREN KERRIGAN, WHO BROKE LEG IS OUT OF HOSPITAL

J. Warren Kerrigan has left the Cottage hospital at Santa Barbara, Cal., where he was taken when his right leg was broken below the knee by the fall of his horse four weeks ago. He remained at the hospital three weeks. The physicians then decided that he had progressed so favorably that it would be safe for him to return to Los Angeles.

Walking with the aid of crutches, and resting his leg on supports on the train, he made the journey without mishap. He was met at Los Angeles station by Robert T. Kane, vice-president of the Paralta Plays, Inc., and Robert Brunten, manager of the Paralta studios at Hollywood, and a number of his company. Mr. Kerrigan will remain at the home of his mother in Hollywood until he is sufficiently recovered to resume his work before the camera. His physicians state he will be able to walk without crutches in two or three weeks. Mr. Kerrigan's first Paralta play, "A Man's Man," will be issued Sunday, the 23rd. His second film, Frederic Chaplin's "Turn of a Card," is in the hands of the Paralta editing board and will soon be ready for publication. A change in the title is contemplated and a new one may shortly be announced. Mr. Kerrigan's third Paralta production will be begun immediately he is able to work.

BLACKWELL AND EVELYN GREELEY TO APPEAR TOGETHER IN SEVERAL FORTHCOMING BRADY-MADE FILMS

Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley are to appear together in several approaching World-Pictures, including “The Burglar,” “The Good-for-Nothing,” and “The Ladder of Fame.” This is in pursuance of Mr. Brady’s policy of keeping certain of his principal players in association through a long series of productions, so that when any given star is announced in a new play the public will know the identity of his or her principal companions in the cast. The assignment of Miss Greeley to be Mr. Blackwell’s featured leading lady is said to have aroused an increased demand for the already popular Blackwell picture plays.

MABEL JULIENE SCOTT, WHO STARS IN BEACH’S “SIGN INVISIBLE FILM” GIVES SOLDIERS 600 SWEATERS

Mabel Juliene Scott, who appeared in the role of Neita in “The Barrier,” Rex Beach’s story of the Klondyke, is doing her part in war relief work at the head of a Woman’s Auxiliary in New York and has had 600 sweaters knitted for the boys who are going to France. She distributed the sweaters at the cantonment at Ayer, Mass., in person and with each sweater she handed the soldier boys an aluminum cup in a leather case.

Miss Scott has been appearing before the camera in the leading role in the screen adaptation of Rex Beach’s story “The Sign Invisible,” which Edgar Lewis has been producing at Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y. Since finishing her work in this feature, Miss Scott will consider several offers to appear in pictures, which recently were made her by other producers.
PATHETO TO DISTRIBUTE RUSS ART FILMS;
N. S. KAPLAN SIGNS AGREEMENT TERMS

Moscow Theatre Plays Adapted to Screen and Enacted by Noted Stars Soon to be Published to American and Canadian Exhibitors

One of the big deals of the new season in the motion picture industry has just been completed, the contracting organizations being the Russian Art Film Corporation and Pathé. By the terms of the agreement signed by Pathe and N. S. Kaplan, representative of the Moscow Art Theatre in this country, all the screen productions of this company will be distributed in the United States and Canada by Pathé's organization. Negotiations for the sale of the rights in other countries are well under way.

With the success of his plans assured so far as America and Canada are concerned, Mr. Kaplan is negotiating for Russia and will leave Vancouver on October 25, to continue in Moscow the production of film features for Pathé. Unless government obstacles intervene he will have as his party an American cameraman and laboratory manager, thereby assuring the continuation of the Russian repertory under the best possible auspices. The launching of the repertory in America has been a big task because of the handicap of cutting and titling the pictures in New York, thousands of miles from the base of production. This handicap will be eliminated under the new program and the features will arrive in this country practically ready for release.

"As I intimated last week," said Mr. Kaplan in discussing the details of the agreement with Pathe, "I have obtained the co-operation of one of the most important distributing organizations in the United States to market my productions. In fact, I am convinced that so far as Russian Art Films are concerned, Pathe is the most important distributing organization and will have the experience of this company in handling foreign films is a guarantee that Russian Art Films will be introduced to American audiences under the best possible auspices. Before I return to Russia I shall deliver to Pathe twenty-six completed five and six reel features. Long before this repertory is all published I shall be sending other and better pictures to America to continue the program. In addition to this repertory there will be a series of special features."

N. A. M. P. I. ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEES PRESENTED BY BRADY ARE APPROVED

Amendment to By-Laws Voted Increasing Membership of Executive Body From Nine to Twelve Members; Permanent Expo. Board Picked; Report Shows Thefts of Film Increases

The administrative committees of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry for the ensuing year were perfected on Thursday, September 20, at the quarterly meeting of the board of directors, when President William A. Brady, announcing the appointment of members of the executive committee which were approved by the board and comprise the following:

At a special meeting of the members of the Association held prior to the directors' meeting, an amendment to the by-laws was voted increasing the membership of the executive committee from nine to twelve.

Expo Body Announced

President Brady announced the appointment of a permanent committee on expositions as follows: William A. Brady, president, ex-officio; J. A. Berst, J. E. Brulatour, Arthur S. Friend, J. H. Hallberg, Gabriel L. Hess, W. W. Irwin, P. A. Powers and William L. Sherrill.

The directors contend that with the two expositions for next year the manufacturing, distributing and equipment companies should not be called upon to participate in any additional expositions, balls or similar propositions where advertising space is solicited, and it was decided to refer all such matters to the joint exposition committee of which Executive Secretary Frederick H. Elliott will act as secretary. Announcement has previously been made that an exposition will be held in New York next February followed by one in Boston in July, on both of which will be under the joint auspices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America.

Reports Show Theft Increases

The directors received reports showing a great increase in film thefts throughout the country, and acting upon recommendation of the committee was appointed to formulate plans which are to be presented at a joint meeting of the producers and distributors to be held during the first week of October. The committee will meet at the Association's headquarters, Friday, September 28, at 9 a.m., and is composed of the following: P. A. Powers, Universal Pictures Corp.; Ricord Gradwell, World Film Corp.; K. A. Rowland, Metro Pictures Corp.; J. A. Berst, Pathé Exchange, Inc.; Arthur S. Friend, Famous Players-Lasky Corp.; Walter W. Irwin, Vitagraph, and the Motion Picture, Mutual Film Corp and Stephen A. Lynch.

A communication presented from the Rev. Christian F. Reiser requesting cooperation on behalf of the National Association was granted and Executive Secretary Elliott was given power to arrange for the programs which Dr. Reiser and his associates may require representing the International Board of Sunday Schools, comprising five million children.

Goldwyn Made Member

The Goldwyn Distributing Corporation was elected as a member of the Association and will be represented in the distributors' branch by President Samuel Goldfish. The following individual members were elected: Benj. H. Grimm, John P. Chalmers, James L. Hoff, George J. Balsedell, Archibald MacArthur, Jr., Randall M. White, James A. Milligan and Anthony P. Kelly.

The National Association of the Motion Picture Industry has been elected to represent the film industry of the Commerce of the United States of America and will be represented in that great body comprising all of the important industries, railroads and commercial organizations by President Brady and Secretary Elliott.

The organization of the several branches has been perfected with the exception of the general division which is to be called together early in October. Adolph Zukor is chairman of the Producers' Committee, Walter W. Irwin, chairman of the Distributors' Branch and J. E. Brulatour, chairman of the Supply and Equipment division.

It was reported that the Service Bureau, which is a new and important adjunct of the National Association, will be ready for business just as soon as headquarters can be established.

LITTLE LORNA VOLARE IN NEXT TALMADGE FILM

Little Lorna Volare, the screen star, will appear with Norma Talmadge in Grace Miller's picture, "The Secret of the Storm Country," now being filmed at the Talmadge studios. This will make Lorna's third appearance with Miss Talmadge who also was a member of the casts of "The Law of Compensation" and "The Man from Toronto."
NEW YORK RUN OF BRADY’S “RASPUTIN” FILM EXTENDED THROUGH BIG DEMAND

Heavy Call for Tickets Causes Park Theatre to Offer Film to Patrons for Another Fortnight; “The Burglar.” With Blackwell Comes Next

The New York run of “Rasputin,” the World-Picture Brady-Made film, at the Park Theatre has been extended for the present, due to the insistent demand for tickets of admission.

The only unoccupied time on the books of the Park when it was decided to place “Rasputin” before the public immediately, covered twelve days beginning September 12. Another attraction had already arranged for a fortnight following the limited “open time” available for the World Picture, which in consequence was announced for twelve days only.

From that beginning the pressure upon the seating space of the Park Theatre has been in excess of the capacity, and efforts to secure an extension of time have been constant. The management holding the key to this situation had figured upon securing a New York showing for its own use, and did not take kindly to suggestions of an indefinite postponement, so that it was not until four days before the termination of the World’s first lease that monetary and other inducements proved sufficiently alluring to open the way for a renewal.

This gives “Rasputin” an extra fortnight in its present quarters and provides the producing company with a chance to look about for another theatre thereafter.

I cannot be mistaken in expressing the view,” said William A. Brady, Director-general of World Pictures, “that the exhibitors of program features will benefit greatly, not alone from the New York reception of this big Russian photoplay, but from other immediate offerings which we are supplying.

We shall presently follow ‘Rasputin,’ carrying its all star cast and metropolis endorsement, with the publication of ‘The Burglar.’ Carlyle Blackwell plays the lead in this production. Little Madame Evans and Evelyn Gleeley are featured with Mr. Blackwell.

“Many persons consider the stage play from which this screen drama was made the best product of all Augustus Thomas’ one and highly successful career as a dramatist. In any case, I will guarantee its complete effectiveness as a photoplay.”

“CLEOPATRA” WITH THEDA BARA TO APPEAR FIRST ON BROADWAY FOR N. Y. AUDIENCES

Theda Bara, the William Fox star, will be seen for the first time on Broadway in New York in a sumptuous production of “Cleopatra.” In this photodrama the greatest siren of ancient times, whose charms and machinations were wielded by Theda Bara, who, it is said has depicted with a fidelity that is uncanny, the wondrous beauty and the subtle cunning of the historical Siren of the Nile.

Never before in the history of photodramatic art has a more artistic and lavish production been attempted, it is stated. William Fox, following out his policy of producing the best in films, spared no expense in surrounding his star with a supporting company of excellent players, and with elaborate stage settings.

Blaze Broadway will first see the William Fox Theda Bara Super-picture “Cleopatra” before it is issued to exhibitors throughout the United States and Canada.

EXHIBITORS SHOW LIVELY INTEREST IN THREE NEW H. HOFFMAN FEATURES

“Fringe of Society”, “One Hour” and “Great White Trail” Attract Attention; Sales and Advertising Manager P. V. R. Key Makes Statement

Three new feature-pictures, in which more than ordinary interest is being shown by exhibitors, are the H. H. Hoffman-Edison trio, “The Fringe of Society,” “One Hour,” and “The Great White Trail,” the concern announces.

P. V. R. Key, manager of sales and advertising for M. H. Hoffman, Inc., is not a believer in “overshooting” the mark in predicting exceptional qualifications or the product he has to offer.

Finds His Ideas Right

“When I entered the motion picture business,” said Mr. Key, “I was informed that sledge-hammer methods of advertising were more effective than any others. Dignified procedure, my advisers said, could not be practiced to any extent.

“A few months’ experience and study of existing conditions force me to pause for consideration. I am willing to concede that others who have been long in this interesting trade they speak; yet they are liable to mistake, and in this specific instance I fear that they have overlooked the effect of exaggeration of so many who have claimed that every thing in sight for their pictures is like the politics of certain parties are inclined to do on election night.

There can be no harm in speaking well of the produce, but the merchandising of it is good. If it isn’t, then no reputable organization will carry such merchandise. Hoffman-Foursquare, I am glad to say, has a meaning. This meaning is that a picture offered must have quality above the average and must be commercially attractive.

LAUDS BACKER FILM

“The Fringe of Society,” which the George Backer Film Corporation recently completed, appears to have every element required of an excellent feature. The story is real drama, with splendidly maintained suspense and a stirring climax. The direction certainly reflects the skill and finesse of Robert Ellis, while the cast, in which Ruth Roland and Milton Sills co-star, is distinctly out of the ordinary.

In “One Hour,” by mutual enterprise of J. Herbert Frank appear in “The Fringe of Society,” as do George Larkin, Ollie Kirkby, Jules Cowles and Tammany Young. Experts who have been seen with this feature indicate by manner and words that this feature is one worth watching. It is in seven parts.

“The Great White Trail,” produced by Harry Rapin, and in which Zena Keefe and Alan Hale are featured, impresses me as a picture likely to be much talked about in the very near future. The theme is a sequel to ‘Three Weeks,’ and in certain respects ‘One Hour’ has that elusive element which we choose to term distinction.

Could anyone have foreseen how their picture speak of it in terms of praise not to be misunderstood.

The Great White Trail,” which is different from the two others, shows the Whitman brothers at their best. Here is a picture so fine in fiber and so entertaining that picture patrons will lean back after they have seen it, with sighs of satisfaction. And Doris Kenyon has surpassed herself in another feature in which she has appeared.”

DIRECTORS SHOULD TALK WITH EXHIBITORS ON FILMS, SAYS MUTUAL STAR

“Every director ought to make it his business to come in contact with the exhibitors, as often as possible,” said Anita King, the new Horkheimer-Mutual star, whose first production, “The Girl Angle,” is to be issued October 8. “The exhibitor comes in contact with the people. The people stop to tell him as they go out his place, what they think of his picture, why they like it and why they do not like it. The exhibitor represents the pulse of the people.

“Often the director will cut out entirely the little touches an author introduces in his work, as if to tell the audience these are situations which are the public most enjoys. It is the little human touches that reach them and that hold their right before them.

“Neither is the audience satisfied entirely with youth and beauty. It looks for something more real than either can give. Therefore, a good director would only meet the exhibitors. They would be a decided help to the acting staff of a company producing the pictures.”
PARADE OF U. S. SOLDIERS IN LONDON AND WAR EVENTS IN GAUMONT FILMS

Business Men Worth $20,000,000 Mobilize Resources for War are Pictured in Film Weekly No. 143; English King Shown Saluting Stars and Stripes

If there be any pessimists among us who doubt the power of the United States to wield a decisive blow in the world war, their doubts will be dispelled when they see No. 143 of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly, which has its initial showing Sept. 26. One subject in this issue pertains the parade of American soldiers through the streets of London, where they are reviewed by the King and Queen, members of Parliament, and thousands of enthusiastic Britons. Stranger sights may yet be seen, however, and with the utmost confidence the Gaumont Company promises its patrons that, if the Kaiser will only fight enough, the Mutual Weekly will yet show victorious American troops parading the streets of Berlin. A scene showing King George saluting the Stars and Stripes is vivid proof that at last the two great nations with one tongue are allies indeed.

Another subject in this issue causes especial regret that, because of certain complications, Gaumont pictures are not now being exhibited in Germany. For, at Atlantic City, American business men representing a capital of twenty billion dollars pledge their entire resource for the successful prosecution of the war.

These two subjects by no means complete the topics of timely interest in this issue of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly. California's native sons and daughters celebrate their state's sixty-seventh birthday at Sacramento. Many slickers are captured in the ship "Anvil," on the way to Mexico. The Japanese Mission visits the tomb of Commodore Perry, who established the cordial friendship between the two nations for more than sixty years. Our new army figures prominently in some of the other pictures. And in the last, but by no means the least attractive subject, many charming costumes from Fifth avenue will give pleasure to the feminine spectators.

HAROLD BOLSTER STARTS WORLD TOUR

OCT. 4 TO EXTEND GOLDWYN POLICY

Goes First to Sydney, Australia, to Establish Branch, and Continue to India, Java, Dutch East Indies, China, Japan and Other Countries

Harold Bolster, who recently resigned the vice-presidency and general management of the General Film Company to join the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation as general manager, leaves next week for a trip around the world to begin the extension of Goldwyn activities in foreign countries.

Sailing from San Francisco on October 4, Mr. Bolster goes first to Sydney, Australia, where he will establish headquarters in that commonwealth. On his arrival at Sydney, Mr. Bolster will find that Goldwyn already has paved the way for him by sending on ahead experienced organizers and salesmen who carried the first Goldwyn productions with them several weeks ago. Trade showings will be held at Melbourne, Sydney, Brisbane, in Christchurch, New Zealand; and arrangements completed for a regularly maintained distribution in the antipodes.

As soon as the Australian business is disposed of, Mr. Bolster will move on and arrange for deliveries in Melanesia, India, Java, the Dutch East Indies, China, Japan, the Philippines and Hawaii, by which time it is expected that he can visit Europe for the organization of a Goldwyn selling organization in the principal countries on that continent.

Entering the Goldwyn organization two months ago, Mr. Bolster has devoted all of his time and energy to the organization of Goldwyn's export department. By making his world tour he is carrying out the fixed Goldwyn policy of having all important work of organization both in America and abroad performed by home office executives, which guarantees that the Goldwyn sales methods and system of exploitation will not be deviated from in any respect except to conform, where necessary, to national requirements in other lands.

BRENNON SUES TO RESTRAIN ILIODOR FROM ACTING IN NEW ROMANOFF FILM

Injunction Secured Restraining Ben Blumenthal, Isaac E. Chadwick and Export and Import Co. in N. Y. From Disposing of "Tyranny of Romanoffs" Play

Papers have been served restraining Iliodor, the "Mad Monk," from having his picture taken more than 23,000 times, despite being necessary to record his version of "The Downfall of the Romanoffs." This is but one clause in an injunction obtained from Judge Hough, Sept. 17, in the United States Court for the Southern District of New York, restraining E. Chadwick and the Export & Import Film Company, Inc., from exhibiting, advertising, selling or otherwise disposing of a motion picture production called "The Tyranny of the Romanoffs," and purporting to have been made with Iliodor in the leading role.

According to the affidavits filed, the issue seems to have been less the manner in which the late House of Romanoff was depopulated than the use of the name Iliodor, to which the Iliodor Picture Company claims certain specific rights. The Iliodor Picture Company owns "The Fall of the Romanoffs," produced by Herbert Brenon, and which will have its initial showing at the Broadway Theatre, in New York. The monk, Iliodor, acted the leading role in this production under alleged terms in his contract which gave the motion picture concern the rights to reproduce the story of the Romanoffs. It seems that the late monk Rasputin, confidant of the deposed Czar and the Russian Royal family,

The Iliodor Company, through its attorneys, O'Gorman, Battle & Vandervelt and Gabriel L. Hess, stated that the certain value imparted to its production "The Fall of the Romanoffs" through the original production investment together with a heavy expenditure involved in an extensive advertising campaign beginning three months before the first advertisement expounding "The Tyranny of the Romanoffs," would be seriously damaged by the alleged illegal competition.

A court hearing of evidence demanded of the injunction will take place at an early date on the regular calendar.

LOEW SIGNS BIG CONTRACT TO SHOW SELECT'S PICTURES

The signature of Marcus Loew has just been secured by the New York offices of Select Pictures Corporation to a big contract whereby the Loew theatres are to get a number of Select films for about seventy days' run in Loew's Greater New York chain of theatres.

Among the features called for in this—one of the largest contracts which the new Select company has written to date—is the new Norma Talmadge picture, "Our Dancing Daughters," written and directed early date in the Loew theatres. This is a play made from the novel of the same name by William Dana Orcutt, and depicting life in a very gay social set. Norma Talmadge, the star, is seen in the role of a young woman who has made a loveless marriage and who permits her suitor to go ahead, in order to hide her disappointment. The picture was directed by Edward Jose.

Other features secured by the Loew theatres in this booking include Hobart Henley's picture "Parentage"; Herbert Brenon's "The Lone Wolf"; "The Whip," a screen presentation of the Big Drum; "The Last Laugh," a W. C. Fields melodrama; and "On Trial," the film version of a recent New York stage success.
"FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS" WILL HAVE N. Y. PREMIER AT BROADWAY THEATRE

Herbert Brenon, Producer of Picture Depicting Downfall of Ex-Czar Will Personally Supervise Details of Presentation

Following a campaign of exploitation and advertising, both in the motion picture trade journals and daily newspapers, Herbert Brenon's production, "The Fall of the Romanoffs," is to have its metropolitan presentation at the Broadway Theater, New York.

The producer put his entire force upon this engagement being reached recently, Herbert Brenon himself took full charge of his presentation arrangements, obtained the Broadway Theater, personally supervised all the details and management of this public showing, obtained billboard space, and even aided in the arrangement of the musical score for this historic drama of Russia.

The great daily drama of the real Russia, the panorama of a government in process of dissolution, changing daily, naturally provided Brenon with opportunities for still further improvements in its realising its showing at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, and he took advantage of these wherever possible. This involved trimming and partial rearrangement of his negative, the making of new scenic units for the metropolitan run, and the preparation of other prints for territorial buyers.

The Biograph Picture Corporation now is ready to sell territorial rights on "The Fall of the Romanoffs" and purchasers will be able to obtain the production almost at the moment when it is enjoying success in New York and while the interest in the real Russian drama in Europe is at its highest.

STORY OUTSHINES SPECTACULAR POINTS IN JOHN W. NOBLE'S "SHAME" FEATURE

Production Depends for Its Success Upon Heart Interest Tale, Says Jules Burnstein, Who Is Marketing Play on State Rights Basis

John W. Noble's state rights offering, "Shame" is claiming attention because of the fact that it depends for its success upon the heart interest of its deeply absorbing story as much as it does upon its spectacular features, declares Jules Burnstein, who is marketing the film.

In this feature Mr. Noble makes use of a prologue to establish the innocence of a respectable girl whose daughter, as the leading character of the story proper, is made the scapegoat of society. Although the prologue and main drama of "Shame" are inseparable, each tells a story of singular interest and power that would enable it to stand alone as an intelligent treatment of a subject worthy of deep and serious discussion.

DRAMA OF WAR AND ROMANCE IS FIRST COMMONWEALTH FILM WITH CHARLOTTE

Story Concerns Sensational Expose of Spy Activities; Jack Meredith, Leading Man, Cast in a Big Role Opposite the Noted Skater

Charlotte, who is said to occupy the same position in the realm of artistic skating as Pavlova or Adeline Genée do in the dancing field, is to be featured by the Commonwealth Pictures Corporation of Chicago, in a screen drama of war and war times written by Bob Lee, newspaper writer, and produced under the direction of Oscar W. Egle and Cortlandt J. Van Deens.

In this play the noted skater will be offered in one of her greatest roles, under the direction of her various talents. The story concerns the machinations of spies, who are attempting to secure a gun owned by a government at war. The hero is the inventor of the gun. He has it hidden away in a remote part of a wild country, but his secret hiding place is discovered by the villain and after this there is a three-cornered battle of wits between the hero, the villain and the heroine, the latter in the person of Charlotte.

As a special feature of this picture, an actual veteran of the war is also shown in operation, with Charlotte, giving a demonstration of her genius as a skater, at which time she makes a sensational disclosure of the presence of spies. While the story is melodramatic in many particulars, there is a strong love theme running through it.

The hero is impersonated by Jack Meredith, a well known picture star. Charlotte is but nineteen years of age, but is internationally famous as a skater having won foremost place in that line of work in Europe, where she was popular before coming to America. She was the special feature with the "Hip, Hip, Hooray" production which had a long run in New York and Chicago.

BRYANT WASHBURN SIGNED BY PATHE

Bryant Washburn, for many years an Essanay star, has joined the Pathe forces and will appear in roles of many forthcoming features under that brand. Mr. Washburn appeared with George Fawcett in many stage successes. Since 1911 Mr. Washburn has been with the Essanay company, appearing in "The Promised Land," "The Three Scratch Cycles," "The Girl Who Made for Jones," "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Skinner's Bubble" and "Skinner's Baby."

F. DENTNET MADE CHIEF OF GENERAL

Word comes from New York of the election of Frederick Dennett, a newcomer in the film industry, to the position of President of the Universal Film Company. At a recent meeting of the directors of the General, Mr. Dennett was chosen as the company's new head.

BLACKTON'S FILMS FOR PARAMOUNT START IN OCTOBER

Rather than be hastened in his productions for Paramount and run the risk of impairing the artistic merit of his plays, J. Stuart Blackton has determined to postpone his advent as a film producer for Paramount. Accordingly, there will be no Blackton production among the Paramount October film, contrary to a former announcement, and the first Blackton photoplay will not appear until November. Mr. Blackton thereby gains a margin of a full month which will enable him to conserve to the utmost degree every detail of artistic production in preparing his adaptations of the famous Sir Gilbert Parker novels for the screen.

"WILD GIRL" WITH EVA Tanguay is EARLY SELECT PLAY

Among the early films on the Select Pictures' list is "The Wild Girl," the picture in which Eva Tanguay is presented for the first time on the screen. On account of Miss Tanguay's popularity as a vaudeville star, the Select Pictures branches have received many inquiries regarding the publication of this new feature.

Harry Weber, who has been largely responsible for the showing which Eva Tanguay has made as a vaudeville attraction, is highly pleased over the splendid prospect for Miss Tanguay's first picture.

Seldom, in the course of a year, is there a cinema production offered to State Right Buyers which furnishes the genuine thrills, merriment, and absorbing interest seen in

George Loane Tucker's master feature production—

“I Believe”

The producer of “THE MANX-MAN” has, according to the consensus of opinion of press and trade, as expressed after viewing the premiere at the Rialto Theatre—in “I BELIEVE” given to the screen the most unique, the most forceful, the most logical, and incidentally, the most timely motion picture of the year.

The Best Advertised Woman in the World

MAXINE ELLIOTT, who on October 7 makes her screen debut in "Fighting Odds"—Goldwyn's third production—has had and still receives more remarkable publicity than any living woman.

Not merely in her native America, but throughout the world, her fame and reputation have paved the way for a tremendous public interest in her first motion picture.

In "Fighting Odds," by Roi Cooper Megrue and Irvin S. Cobb, two famous authors, Miss Elliott lives up to the public's anticipations and expectations.

She is beautiful; she is emotionally powerful and thrilling; she is the Maxine Elliott that the mind pictures her to be wherever her name is mentioned and audiences everywhere will rush to see her in your theatre.

Behind this famous name, this powerful play and its noted authors Goldwyn, for the further benefit of exhibitors, has conducted a nation-wide campaign of exploitation that means box-office profits.

EXHIBITORS are facing today a more formidable type of oppression than has ever previously appeared.

Every exhibitor, even the most influential, is powerless to combat this oppression alone.

Under normal circumstances organization is a very good thing; under the present circumstances it is absolutely vital for the protection of the rank and file of exhibitors.

There is but one safe course for every exhibitor to pursue unless he is content to see the profit taken out of his business and eventually his theater itself taken out of his control.

The safe course is to join a national association and the only national association giving any promise of usefulness, the only national association which has not already betrayed the exhibitors of the United States is the American Exhibitors' Association.

As every exhibitor knows, the real menace overing over the interests of the men who operate motion picture theaters is the Paramount-Artcraft scheme of an unreasonable rental charge, an unreasonable advance deposit system, and all driven down the exhibitor's throat by the threat of withdrawing productions with players of great reputations despite the fact that exhibitors themselves have been the greatest factor in building up these reputations.

The Paramount-Artcraft plan to make commercial slaves of the exhibitors of the United States and Canada must be vigorously combatted. This cannot be done by the exhibitors alone; it can only be effected by the organized effort of an important number of exhibitors banded together in an association which is directed by men of ability and energy and which is aimed to promote the interests of exhibitors and not designed for the interests of a few, as is the case with the Ochs league.

The American Exhibitors' Association is an organization which can be counted upon to keep itself free from ventures that might necessitate selling out to the enemy, as had been done by the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America.

If any additional evidence is necessary to demonstrate fully that the Ochs league has sold out to the enemy, that it is not "of, by and for the motion picture exhibitor" it may be had in the fact that, although the exhibitors of the United States are facing a genuine peril in the high rental-separate advance deposit scheme of Paramount-Artcraft, no word of this peril has been mentioned in that yellow-backed "friend of the exhibitor," the Trade Review.

Here is a concrete example in proof that Ochs crowd in its publishing venture adopted a course which was destined to lead to the betrayal of the exhibitors whom they professed to represent.

The joint effort of the American Exhibitors' Association and the Ochs league might be a good thing to curb the menace at hand, but the Ochs league through its publishing venture has sold out to the enemy and cannot be relied upon to advance any proposition vital to the interests of exhibitors unless such a course is approved by that little band of men who have dreamed a dream of monopoly of the film industry.

Consequently there remains only the American Exhibitors' Association to be relied upon for protection in this crisis.

We do not believe that the Paramount-Arctraft pictures should be absolutely boycotted, but we do believe that the exhibitors of the United States and Canada should make an orderly and organized representation to the officials of that group of interests and demand that the utterly absurd system of separate deposits be eliminated. Exhibitors through their organization also should give formal notice that in every instance where an attempt is made to exact an unreasonable rental through threat of selling the service to the opposition, the product of a company responsible for such a threat should be ignored entirely.

The exhibitor who stands alone is waging a losing fight; he should give his support and his membership to an organization equipped to aid him in his fight and one which is not sunk in the mire of parasitism.

Such an organization is the American Exhibitors' Association—join now!

THE MUSIC TRUST BOYCOTT

More than 1,000 exhibitors of the great Rock Mountain district in the vicinity of Denver, Colo, have placed a boycott on copyrighted music compositions controlled by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. This so-called trust proposes to tax exhibitors ten cents per set for the rendition of its music. The music combination is upheld in collecting this tax by the Supreme Court. This group of Western exhibitors, using a "Exhibitors' Herald" editorial for propaganda, is making a concerted stand. Not one of the thousand theater operators will pay "trust music."

Their boycott means victory. This handful of men are setting an example which could be followed with profit by exhibitors in all sections.

MARTIN J. QUIGLEY.
II. P. THEATERS MUST BEAR SHARE OF U. S. WAR TAX

Measure also Placing Levy on Raw Stock of Producer Now Before Senate for final Approval; Film Houses Will Contribute $67,000,000 Yearly

Washington, D. C. (Special to Exhibitors' Herald)—That motion picture houses, as well as manufacturers of films, must bear their share of the $3,000,000,000 tax was definitely decided on Saturday by the Congressional Conference Committee on the War Tax Bill.

The measure was reported out of the committee September 29, and went to the Senate for final approval. It will go to the President, it is expected, for a signature approving the end of the week. Under the provisions of the tax measure the modified rate on raw and exposed film is restored and motion picture theatres charging from ten to twenty-five cents admission, which it was thought would be exempt, will have to pay their ten per cent

The new schedule will go into effect on December 1, instead of November 1, as originally planned.

The five-cent houses will be exempt from the tax war. It is expected a total of $67,000,000 annually will be raised from the tax on film theatre admissions.

The tax will be collected by means or stamps, the lowest to be issued will be for one cent. In all cases where a fraction of a cent is involved the Government will pay by receiving the benefit of the doubt. Thus a two-cent stamp must be purchased with a 15-cent ticket and a three-cent stamp with a 25-cent ticket.

Several conferences have been held between the Senate Committee on Finance and motion picture exhibitors and manufacturers, and for a time it was thought that both raw and exposed films, and motion picture theatres would be exempt, however further going into the matter further and discussing the question with representatives of both stage and motion picture theatres, it was thought best to tax the poor man's amusement and let it bear a part of the war taxation.

Film Theater Tax Biggest

The ten per cent tax on stage theatre admissions, it was ascertained, would only raise about $25,000,000, while if it was applied to motion picture theatres they could be relied upon to contribute fully $67,000,000 per year.

It was also determined in the case of a place the maximum charge for admission to which is five cents, or in the cases of shows, rides or other amusements, the maximum charge for admission to which is ten cents. No tax is to be levied on admissions where the proceeds insure exclusively to the benefit of religious, educational or charitable institutions, societies or organizations, the profits of which are not distributed to stockholders or members of the association conducting the same.

BRADY SCORES FUNKHOUSER ON CENSORING; PLAN TO CURB "CAZAR"

“All We Ask Is Square Deal,” World President Tells Subcommittee; Seek to Adjust Powers of Chicago Board

A plan is on foot to curb the powers of Chicago’s motion picture censor “cazar,” Major Funkhouser, and adjust the powers of the censor board.

A committee under Alderman Walter P. Steffen was appointed chairman of a sub-committee by Chicago city council judiciary committee on September 23 to consider an amendment to the motion picture ordinance.

William A. Brady, president of the World Film Corporation, and the N. A. M. P., appeared before the committee and protested against Major Funkhouser’s attitude against certain films.

“We have no desire to present immoral pictures,” said Mr. Brady, “but Major Funkhouser is absolutely unfair and unjust in his rulings on motion picture films. Drama is drama and it is founded upon the eternal triangle. The Secretary of the Treasury said he owed more to the motion pictures for the success of the last Liberty Loan campaign than anything else. All we ask is a square deal.”

A committee of twenty-five of the most representative manufacturers, it is said, will be sent to Chicago to talk over the matter with the committee.

Until then, there is no clear and unmistakable interpretation of the city ordinance contrary to the present standards, the Second Deputy of Police will continue to censor films as heretofore.

Funkhouser Makes Statement

Major Funkhouser in a statement to the press in answer to recent criticisms says:

“The censoring of motion picture films is controlled by an ordinance passed by the city council of Chicago, laws passed by the state legislature and decisions by the Supreme Court of Illinois.”

The ordinance seeks to prohibit the showing of “Obscene and immoral representations,” which menace the welfare of society and of so-called historical pictures depicting scenes in which crimes and malicious mischief prevail.

The Supreme Court decision holds that the ordinances apply chiefly to five and ten cent theatres which are frequented by children and persons whose station in life entitles them to protection than the well-to-do classes.

SANGER CORP. IS IN BANKRUPTCY

The Sanger Picture Plays Corporation was duly adjudicated bankrupt on August 22, in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. The first meeting of creditors will be held on October 5, in the office of John J. Townsend, referee in bankruptcy, 31 Nassau street, New York.
OCH'S PAPER A POLITICAL ORGAN;
CANADIAN FILM EDITOR CHARGES
Merrice R. Nutting in Editorial Writes Publication Slights A. E. A. in Which Dominion and U. S. Exhibitors Are Interested; Awards "Medal" to Bush

Characterizing the "Exhibitors Trade Review" as a political organ rather than a paper run in the interest of the exhibitors of the country, Merrice R. Nutting, editor of the Canadian Motion Picture Digest, charges that the Ochs weekly does not print the news of the American Exhibitors' Association, an organization in which the exhibitors of Canada and the United States are more than slightly interested and as a subscriber to that publication demands that all the news of the exhibitors be printed. In a recent editorial under his signature, Mr. Nutting says:

"One of the strongest arguments that can be used for organization is the successful convention recently held in St. John, N. B., and one of the best signs that the members of the Exhibitors' League of the Maritime Provinces realize the value of co-operation, was the readiness with which they responded to the invitation by C. C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, to become members of that body. During the convention meeting when affiliation with American associations was discussed, the matter was shelved until the next annual meeting, as several of the members thought that owing to the recent break in the M. P. E. L. of A. and the forming of the A. E. A. they were not sufficiently familiar with the objects and scope of these associations, and they preferred that the League take no official action in this matter.

Thirteen Men Join A. E. A.

"Mr. Pettijohn remained over one day after the convention and although the majority of the visiting exhibitors had returned to their homes he succeeded in securing thirteen managers who joined the American Exhibitors' Association, paying their dues for the ensuing year. This shows great progress along organization lines for some of the very men who were first to join the American Exhibitors' Association were the ones who were the hardest to get in the Exhibitors' League when it was formed two years ago.

"After reading the story of the St. John convention in the 'Exhibitors' Trade Review,' issue of Sept. 22, without hesitation we award the medal to Mr. Stephen Bush, the editor of aforementioned publication. The article he wrote consisted of two hundred and sixty-eight lines of matter, of which one hundred and fifty-seven lines were devoted to what was said and done by those present, together with all the official business of the League, while the remaining one hundred and eleven lines was used by Mr. Bush to tell the readers of the 'Exhibitors' Trade Review' what his remarks were on that occasion. That means that 45 per cent of the space used in the 'Exhibitors' Trade Review' was for the self-exploitation of one Stephen Bush. Mr. Bush is a very able speaker, as he should be; that is his business. His remarks on organization were good, but also very, very general in their application. The same remarks would have had equal weight had Mr. Bush was in Butte, Mont., or Nashua, N. H., and we do not doubt but what the exhibitors in those localities have listened to the same remarks from Mr. Bush. But as Mr. Bush will probably have a lot of explanations to offer if he continues with the 'Exhibitors' Trade Review,' he is probably wise to stay on the fence. Again we admire your modesty, Mr. Bush.

Paper Slights A. E. A.

"The 'Exhibitors' Trade Review' is supposed to be published of, for and by the motion picture exhibitor. As this text appears on the front cover page we will have to take their word for that. But if this is the case we think there is history being made in certain branches of this industry in which the American and Canadian exhibitor is intensely interested, and which the 'Exhibitors' Trade Review' fails to mention. We have not yet seen recorded in any issue of the 'Exhibitors' Trade Review' the activity or success of the recently formed American Exhibitors' Association. We do not hold a brief for the American Exhibitors' Association, but if we were Mr. Bush's competitor we would think there were some基础 for an article such as Mr. Bush has written recently.

TWO MEN JAILED ON FILM THEFT CHARGE BY MUTUAL IN N. Y. RAID

J. A. Huffman, Exchange Owner, and Joseph Quadrini, Exhibitor, Accused of Filching Chaplin Print. Bound Over to Grand Jury

New York—Sidney A. Huffman, owner of a film exchange at 729 Fifth avenue, and Joseph Quadrini, an exhibitor owning a theatre at Smith and Hackett streets, Brooklyn, were arrested after a police raid on Huffman's place by detectives and bound over to the grand jury after a police court hearing before Judge Corrigan this week.

The arrests followed investigations by secret service men attached to the Mutual Film Corporation, from which offices a print of Charlie Chaplin's comedy, "Easy Street," disappeared. Warrants were secured for the men's arrest. He was taken to the theatre owned by Quadrini and confronted with the latter, but neither will make a detailed confession and both were held.

Advance Steps Against Pirates

The arrests constitute a further step in the campaign being conducted by the Mutual Film Corporation against film pirates all over the country. In the course of the Mutual secret service department's activities many arrests have been made and several convictions secured in Chicago and elsewhere. Information now in the hands of the officials if the corporation render probable a large number of arrests in various parts of the country.

"There will be no more civil prosecutions of film thieves by the Mutual Film Corporation," said Samuel Field, general counsel, in announcing the determination of the Mutual to push the cases against Huffman and Quadrini to the limit.

Holds More Evidence

"We have evidence now which will permit us to proceed with entire confidence against film thieves in various parts of the country who have been masquerading as legitimate dealers, and, under this disguise, robbing wherever opportunity presented. All prosecutions in the future will be in the criminal courts and they will be conducted with the utmost rigor of the law."

The investigation which has been in progress for many months has covered the principal cities of the United States. It is understood that many other raids are contemplated.

RUSS REVOLUTION AND BATTLE LINES FILMS NOW OFFERED TRADE BY OVERLAND CO.

After Successful Showing at Rialto Theater in N. Y. Official Record Films are Re-Edited to Eight Reels; Production Depicts Upheaval in Newest Republic

The new pictures of the Russian Revolution and behind the Russian battles, recently purchased from the representative of the Skobelev Committee, which brought these official reel-records of Russia, to the Russian Film Company and distributed by the Overland Film Company, are now ready to be shown to the public.

After the most successful presentation at the Rialto Theater, New York, Samuel Correll, president of Overland, felt that the pictures could be even better arranged, and that nothing should be left undone to place a subject of this magnitude before American audiences in the most possible light. Accordingly, he asked one of the most experienced editors and title-men in the business, and placed the picture entirely in his hands, with the result that the events are chronologically laid out according to the best authorities and the struggle of the ancient struggle carefully made. From twenty-four thousand feet of film, the editor has selected the most essential material and put it into eight reels of one thousand feet each, and has managed to tell the story of the great events in a masterly manner.

David V. Pickett, manager and also editor of the Russian Film Company, is an enthusiastic supporter of this arrangement of the picture. He is one of the foremost exhibitors in the industry, being the owner of the Pickett Film Company, and a keen judge of pictures. He has great faith in these new pictures, and feels that a great subject such as this should be arranged so as to best suit the American taste.

The pictures are being run this week at the 68th Street Theater, New York, in their new arrangement, and all criticisms so far have been most favorable. The theater has put aside their entire program as was previously done at the Rialto, in order to give them the showing that they deserve.

INDIANA EXHIBITORS HEAR PETTIJOHN; GOES TO CHICAGO

Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, left New York Thursday to attend a meeting of the directors of the Indiana local of the American Exhibitors' Association. Frank J. Rembusch, chairman of the organization committee of the A. E. A. and Mr. Pettijohn addressed the meeting of the Indiana directors and outlined to them the work already accomplished by the association.

Following the meeting of the Indiana directors, which was held in Indianapolis on Friday, September 25, Mr. Pettijohn left Chicago to address another gathering of exhibitors interested in the American Exhibitors' Association.

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK WIDENS INTERESTS IN FILM INDUSTRY

After Launching Norma Talmadge and Arbuckle he Makes New Affiliations

Joseph M. Schenck, president and treasurer of the Norma Talmadge Film Corporation, New York, has made rapid strides in the film world since his first venture into the field more than a year ago.

Mr. Schenck, who, as manager of Norma Talmadge and Roscoe Arbuckle, successfully launched these two popular players' own producing companies, has acquired larger interests and new affiliations. It is announced, the details of which will be made known soon, and big things are expected from him.

CHICAGO TO HAVE TWO NEW HOUSES

Alexander Flower, theatre operator, has acquired the northwest corner property at 327th street and Forest avenue, Chicago, for a stated consideration of $40,000. Mr. Flower is having plans prepared for an 1,500 seat theatre to be erected on the site at a cost of $200,000. A new motion picture theatre will be erected on West Madison street, near Western avenue, Chicago, which will have a seating capacity of 1,250. The theatre has been leased to Lubliner & Trinz, the Chicago theatre owners, for ten years from April 1, 1915, at an annual rental of $212,000.
MUSIC TAX SITUATION IS EXPLAINED
FOR EXHIBITORS BENEFIT BY PETTIJOHN

Tells of A. E. A. Conferences with A. S. of C. A. P. in Effort to Aid Theater Men in Securing Compositions Controlled by Society

"There seems to be considerable doubt among exhibitors over the Music Tax question," said Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, in reply to a question relative to the situation between the exhibitors and the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

The facts of the case as it stands today are more or less befuddled through misunderstanding among the exhibitors as to the rights of the publishers to demand a tax," he continued. "The Supreme Court of the United States has rendered a decision in favor of the owners of copyright music enabling them to charge a license fee for the privilege of playing their music. Under the law they are in the right, but it is possible to reach an amicable arrangement with the publishers, I believe, whereby the exhibitors who wish to play their music will not suffer any great hardship through playing their music.

"The American Exhibitors' Association in several conferences held with gentlemen representing the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishehe has been making an effort to convince these gentlemen that their schedule of licenses as applying to motion picture houses is impractical and too high in price. In these conferences we are trying to do something for the motion picture exhibitor who wants to play music controlled by this society, a license for which, under the law, must be procured.

"The motion picture exhibitor who does not care to use this music and who could conduct his program without playing music coming within this class can avoid the license by not using this music.
The various trade papers have been and I understand will continue to furnish information as to the companies and their music, the use of which does not require this license.

"To sum the whole proposition up so there will be no further misunderstandings, we will endeavor, first, to obtain what concessions we can for those exhibitors who desire to use music upon which a royalty must be paid, and sector, to furnish as much information as possible to the exhibitors who do not care to use this music letting them know just what music can be played without paying a license."

In a statement issued last week from this office it was the intention of the A.
E. A. to let exhibitors know just what the legal situation is that they may know just what concerns them when they are notified by the society to procure a license or to cease using certain music.

VIRGINIA PEARSON SOON
STARTS NEW FOX FILM

Virginia Pearson, the William Fo-star, who has been enjoying a brief vcation away from the camera, will b-gin in a few days on a new produc-
Harry Rapf, who has now entrenched himself in the front line of motion picture producers, announces Florence Reed's first vehicle under Mr. Rapf's management. He also produced "The Mad Lover" with Robert Warwick, and "One Hour," which served Zena Keefe and Alan Hale.

The production of "The Struggle Everlasting" will be given sumptuous mounting. To preserve the fine insight into the subtleties that he gave to the stage production of "The Struggle Everlasting," Edwin Milton Royle is in constant attendance at the studio.

AMERICAN FILM CO. PROJECTOSCOPE IS ON SALE TO TRADE

Excellent business is reported on the American Projectoscope, which is controlled by the American Film Company. Chicago offices. It is now on sale to the trade. The first of the new model came out of the Chicago factory this week, and Earl Thompson, of the Educational Equipment Company, New York, who had ordered six machines for delivery as soon as they could be turned secured it. He was so well satisfied, it is said, that he doubled his order to twelve machines instead of six.

L. LESSER GOES WEST TO REST ON DOCTOR'S ORDERS

In pursuance with instructions from a physician to attend to no business whatsoever for at least the next month, L. Lesser has returned to his home in San Francisco, having sufficiently recovered from his recent attack of typhoid fever to take a trip to the coast. Since its introduction, Mr. Lesser's project, the national state rights organization, has made rapid progress. Concrete announcements pertaining to it will be made to the trade, and its business resumed, upon Mr. Lesser's return to New York early in November.

OLORADO M. P. CO. WILL MAKE FILMS NEAR PIKE'S PEAK

Colorado Springs, Col.—Jean Louis DeFoz, of Chicago, announces the formation of the Colorado Motion Picture company, whose second stage will be in Denver. The new company expects to make a number of films in the Pike's Peak region, including pictures of Denver attractions.

Work will be started about October 20, a two-reel comedy-drama, the various scenes of which will be enacted by Denver residents. The field of which will be chosen by Mr. DeFoz.

FLORENCE REED AND JAMES KIRKWOOD EXCHANGING VIEWS CONCERNING NEW RAPF FILM

Mr. Rapf will discuss the new film with Miss Florence Reed, who has just returned from London. The film, "The Struggle Everlasting," will be shot in the South of France, and is expected to be completed early in the spring.

THE FIBBERS’ WITH WASHBURN, TO BE ISSUED ON OCT. 15

Bryant Washburn’s new comedy-drama, "The Fibbers," will be published by Essanay October 15 on the perfection picture program. Trade showings of the five-reel picture are now in progress at George Kleine’s branch office.

"The Fibbers" is announced as another typical Washburn production, presenting the star in the same humorous type of characterization which made the Skinner pictures successful. Virginia Valli plays the feminine lead in "The Fibbers." The picture has a screen time of sixty-four minutes.

FIRST FEATURE OF OGDEN CO. IS TITLED “THE BLOT”

Ogden, Utah.—"The Blot," the first film production of the Ogden Feature Film Company, announced for the Altahmbra theatre.

All of the scenes were photographed in Ogden city and the company claims a record for the production on account of having completed the five reels in three weeks.

“CANDY KID” IS NEXT BILLY WEST FEATURE

The next King-Bee Films Corp. comedy for publication following "The Chief Cook," issued Oct. 1, will be Billy West in "The Candy Kid." In this picture President Burstein has his daughter Naomi playing an important part.
ALAN DWAN WILL DIRECT FAIRBANKS

Douglas Fairbanks has engaged Allan Dwain to alternate with John Emerson in staging his Artcraft productions. The name of Allan Dwan is well known in the film industry. His Famous Play- ers pictures followed by successful Fair- banks films, "Manhattan Madness" and "The Good Bad Man" was popular with all of Douglas' well known plays, placed Dwain among the most noted directors, which was probably the reason Triangle put him in charge of their Eastern produc- tions. Dwan has tendered his resigna- tion to take immediate effect and is due in California October 13, to start on a new Fairbanks vehicle.

Both Dwan and Emerson now have sole charge of the Fairbanks-Artcraft productions, although each will work inde- pendently on their respective films.

WALTHALL WILL BE A BEAU BRUMMEL IN "ROBE OF HONOR" FILM FOR PARALTA

Reproduction of One of Great Chambers of N. Y. Supreme Court Will Be Used in Drama Adapted from Dorrance Novel, Which is a Story of a Judge

For the first time in his long career as a screen star Henry B. Walthall will have an opportunity to wear a great variety of clothes in his forthcoming production which will be a visualization of "His Robe of Honor," taken from the book by E. S. and J. F. Dorrance and produced by Henry B. Walthall Pictures Corporation, under the exec- utive direction of Paralta Plays, Inc. In this story Mr. Walthall will be seen as an unscrupulous yet wealthy law- yer, who later becomes an upright judge. Throughout the entire production he ap- pears as a man of fashion.

After the consummation of the agreement between Mr. Walthall and Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., which placed Mr. Walthall in the position of an independent star-manage- he spent several days in New York visiting the most fashionable tailorin- establishments to secure the very latest most up-to-date wearing apparel pos- sible.

Among the big settings that will b required for the filming of "His Robe of Honor" will be an exact reproduction of one of the great chambers of the New York Supreme Court. To get the setting correct in every detail it was necessary to secure the services of a artist who made a sketch of the origina- room, which was sent to the studio in California, where the reproduction will be built. So massive is the setting the when completed it will occupy the entire floor space of one of the largest stage in the studio.

"AMERICA'S MISSION" TO BE FIRST FILM MADE BY CABANNE AT HEAD OF NEW CO

Noted Director Made Vice-President and Production Chief of Zenit Film Corporation; Will Produce Six Big Features Yearly

The formation of the Zenith Film Cor- poration, under the laws of the state of Delaware, brings another feature film producing concern into the field. The personnel of the new company is as follows: J. Sanford Harger, president; William Christy Cabanne, vice-president and director in chief of productions; W. John Baird, treasurer, and Robert J. Huntington, secretary. Executive offices have been opened in New York city and it is the intention of Mr. Cabanne to produce six five- to eight-reel features a year. "America's Mission" is to be the title of the first production, which will be published about November 1. The title was suggested by Samuel Gompers, pres- ident of the American Federation of

P. A. BLOCH MADE N. Y. BRANCH HEAD OF GENERAL FILM

During the last week several impor- tant advances in the personnel and scope of the sales organization were made by General Film Company. The most conspicuous shift was the transfer of P. A. Bloch from the Philadelphia managemanship to the New York establish- ment to succeed H. H. Buxbaum, who has re- signed.

To succeed Mr. Bloch at Philadelphia, Frank E. Samuels has been appointed, taking charge at once.

A General Film branch office has now been opened at Portland, Ore., with W. E. Matthews in charge, transferred from the sales force of the San Francisco office. Beginning October 15, General Film will have an office at New Haven, Conn. J. M. Cummings has assumed the management of the Cleveland office.

KERRIGAN STARTS WORK AGAIN AT PARALTA STUDIOS

J. Warren Kerrigan has recovered from the broken leg he suffered several weeks ago at Santa Barbara and is back at the Paralta studios at Hollywood at work on a feature to be incorporated into his second Paralta play, "Turn of a Card," which was substantially finished at the time he was injured.

JEWEL BUYS TWO NEW FILM PLAYS

ERNEST SHIPMAN WILL HANDLE PRODUCT OF INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS ON OPEN MART

Establishes Own Business in N. Y. for Selling to State Rights Buyers, Circuits and Programs; Will Export Through Chester Beecroft

Ernest Shipman announces to the trade that he has started in business for himself as New York representative for his independent producers and will handle their product in the open market, selling to state rights buyers, circuits and programs, in America, and will export through the well organized offices of Chester Beecroft, for the foreign field.

Shipman's business is matrimonial. He marries the producer and the buyer o one another. They meet under the most favorable business circumstances, ask a bit, flirt a bit, and then sign a contract of mutual understanding.

Quick film marriages of this nature are the direct result of pre-education upon Shipman's part. He takes the ride by the hand, talks to her like a father, and removes all ideas of inflated values. The groom, more experienced by much buying of brides in the open market, is warned not to be too exacting. Soon a satisfactory match is made and thousands of film theater patrons enjoy the results.

If a bride should not be quite ready to make her debut, Shipman places a complete laboratory at her disposal, where she can re-dress, and powder up a bit, take in and re-title, until ready for the inspection of the groom and his friends, and arrangements are concluded with the most active mediums of publicity, whereby the wedding will promptly be made known to the film fans in all parts of the world.

As Shipman says: "I have started something."

50,000 GLASS STUDIO BEING BUILT AT LASKY PLANT ON PACIFIC COAST

Simultaneously with the arrival in California of Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, it was announced that the Paragon studio and laboratories in Fort Lee, N. J., which have been operated under lease by the concern for a number of months, have been purchased outright.

In addition to this, a $50,000 glass enclosed studio is to be erected on the Lasky property in Hollywood. These two important additions to the already large equipment of the company will greatly facilitate production during the coming winter.

Mr. Lasky announces that he is planning to carry on the greater proportion of the producing activities on the west coast and that there is great probability that one or two of the stars now engaged in the Eastern studios will be transferred to California within the next month or so.

M. M. STEARNS, MAGAZINE WRITER, IS ENGAGED BY AMERICAN AS EDITOR

Myron M. Stearns, for many years special contributor to Century, Forum, and other prominent magazines, under the pen name of John Amid, has been engaged by the American Film Company as assistant editor of the scenario department, under Clifford Howard, editor.

TWO SCENES FROM "THE CANDY KID" AND POSE OF BILLY WEST

BESSIE BARRISCAL LEVELS "WITHIN THE CUP"

Bessie Barriscale has finished work on "Madam Who," Harold MacGrath's military secret service romance, and has started production of her third Para art picture, "Within the Cup," under the direc-tion of Raymond B. West.

The story of this play was written by Monte M. Katterjohn and relates the career of a daring young literary woman. The atmosphere is strictly Bohemian. The opening scenes are laid in the Latin quarter in Paris and then shift to old Greenwich village, New York. A big feature of this picture will be a students' ball, typical of the "Bal Bullier" of Paris.

Mr. West spent a month in the reference department of the Los Angeles public library looking up authorities for this picture, especially relating to the student life in Paris.

Miss Barriscale will be seen in a very unique and artistic costume in the ball room scene. She will dress her part in this incident exactly as such a complex woman as she will portray would be likely to dress under the circumstances.

"FIRING FATHER" IS THE SECOND STRAND THROUGH MUTUAL

"Firing Father," a one-reel comedy, is the second of the new series of Strand-Mutual comedies starring Billie Rhodes. It is scheduled for publication Oct. 9.

"Firing Father" deals with the trials and tribulations of a pair of lovers, who eventually outwit the girl's father by means of a fake conflagration.

The new Mutual-Strand series opened Oct. 2 with "Some Nurse," the first of a series of forty-four one-reel comedies. Billie Rhodes is the star in the series, supported in most of the series by Jay Belasco.

ILLY WEST IS SEEN AT HIS BEST IN THIS LATEST COMEDY WHICH IS SAID TO BE THE FUNNIEST OF THE SERIES SO FAR PRODUCED. (King Bee Film Corp.)
BRENNON'S FIRST INDEPENDENT FILM WILL BE "KISMET" WITH OTIS SKINNER

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me" From Pen of Hall Caine Also Secured for Production; Will Make Films to Suit Exhibitor. He Says

Three weeks ago Herbert Brennon purchased from Lewis J. Selznick, Mr. Selznick's entire interest in the Herbert Brennon Film Corporation, half of which was controlled by Mr. Brennon, the other half by Mr. Selznick. Mr. Brennon has taken over the entire stock, and has commenced making pictures in his studios at Hudson Heights, N. Y.

Mr. Brennon announces that he plans to make pictures with no other end in view than the wants and needs of the exhibitor, whom Mr. Brennon feels is the vital factor in the motion picture industry, and in pursuance of this policy, and firmly believing that, on the merits of a photodrama rests its true worth, he has purchased the rights of two of the biggest subjects on the market, "Kis-met" with Otis Skinner, and "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," the novel by Hall Caine.

STARTS WITH BIG MATERIAL

With these two pictures, together with "Empty Pockets," the novel by Rupert Hughes, now in the course of production, Mr. Brennon begins his career as an independent producer.

Mr. Brennon's statement upon entering the field for himself is as follows:

"Less than three weeks ago I bought out Mr. Selznick's interest in my company, as I wished to have an absolutely free hand in the making of my pictures; and believing that if anyone should have a half interest in these pictures, it should be the exhibitor. The industry is forging ahead rapidly, and I am determined to keep pace with it.

"I realize more fully today than ever before, and I think every manufacturer should realize it now if he hasn't before, that unless the exhibitor gets a square deal the entire motion picture industry must collapse. Huge intermediate profits must cease.

EXHIBITOR BIGGEST FACTOR

"In making pictures it will always be my policy to keep in close touch with

The man who shows the picture to the public, the exhibitor. It is his pulse whose beats indicate the condition of the body of the motion picture public as a whole. You can't fool the exhibitor with flambouyant advertising. He is going to look at his box once or twice and nothing else. Words don't prove anything, but facts speak for themselves.

"As for the pictures themselves, I can't tell you how firmly I believe in the story first, last and all the time, and it shall be my policy to consider first, last and all the time, the story, irrespective of any star. In pursuance of this policy, I have commenced immediately to get control of subjects which I feel are at once dramatic and possess big drawing power for the box office.

GETS SKINNER'S SIGNATURE

"On Thursday, September 29, a representative of mine was on the 'Twentieth Century Limited' for Chicago and within twenty-four hours had obtained Otis Skinner's signature to appear on the screen in his great dramatic success,
"Kismet." On Friday, September 29, another representative was on his way to Ithaca, where he obtained the motion picture rights of 'The Woman Thou Gavest Me,' from Hall Caine's American agent, Dervent Hall Caine. It is to subjects of this kind that I intend to devote all my energies.

"I am very much opposed to the star system as a whole, but provided the story can stand on its own merits, and the artist is one who unquestionably is a drawing power, I waive my policy for the time being.

"To my mind, Mr. Otis Skinner stands absolutely alone as America's greatest dramatic actor. 'Kismet,' by Edward Knoblock, to me is the greatest romantic melodrama of the last two decades. Otis Skinner, like all great artists, served his apprenticeship by traveling over the entire United States year after year. His name is a dramatic byword in every community which possesses a theater.
He stands for all that is highest in dramatic art, and I consider it an honor and a privilege to have secured his name to a contract which guarantees his appearance on the screen.

STAR A DRAWING POWER

"Mr. Skinner has appeared in many plays, but no exhibitor will question the drawing power of 'Kismet,' and, realizing that this combination of Otis Skinner and 'Kismet' has already met with great success, will look forward anxiously to the day that he announces it in electric lights, or in the more modest communities in canvas over his theater entrance.

"As a further proof of my determination to give the exhibitors photodramas which mean financial profits to him, I was fortunate enough to secure Hall
Caine's greatest novel, 'The Woman
Thou Gavest Me.' As I hardy believe there is one exhibitor in a hundred who hasn't read this story, I think the bare announcement that it is to be done is sufficient. I shall commence work on Mr.
Caine's story in November."

DIRECTOR FRAZEE WILL MAKE NEW UNIVERSAL FARCES

The latest addition to the directing force at Universal City is Edwin Frazee, well known producer of comedies who will direct two-reel subjects.

Frazee is the director of a number of successful Keystone comedies, including "Crooked to the End," "The Village Vampire," "An Oily Scoundrel," "Bathtub Perils," "Love Will Conquer," and "A Favorite Fool," in which Eddie Foy and Seven Little Foyes were starred.

He also produced "Social Pirates" and other comedies for the Fox Company.

A new company of players has been organized by Production Manager Mc-Rae for Director Frazee. The productor is Stanley Laurel, who recently was one of the featured players at the New York Hippodrome. Rena Rogers who has been appearing in Vogue comedies, will play for Frazee's feminine role and Neal Burns, who is well known through his work in Christie comedies will be the juvenile man.

THREE SCENES FROM THE AMERICAN STAR PRODUCTION, "HER COUNTRY'S CALL" NEW THEATER CO.
MERGES INTERESTS OF A. HAMBURGER

chain of Film Houses Absorbed as Chicago Business Men Enter Field

With the organization of the Continental Theaters, with headquarters in the Malls building, at Wabash avenue and Adams street, Chicago, another circuit of theaters in Chicago changes hands. The new company has taken the offices formerly occupied by the Alfred Hamburger Theatrical Enterprises, and in Hamburger will be the director-general of the corporation.

Back of the new concern is said to be several Eastern capitalists, as well as influential Chicago business men who are just entering the motion picture theater business in the central states on a large scale.

Announcement will be made soon of the acquisition of at least one large loop theater, now completed, and another that is to be built.

The new concern, through Mr. Hamburger, has secured all first run pictures of the Artcraft and Paramount combination, for its circuit of theaters.

I. H. VAN LOAN, NOW IN HONOLULU WITH COMPANY MAKING "HONEYMOONERS" SERIAL

Publicity Man Makes First Appearance Before Camera in Film for Peter Pan Film Corporation Which Is Being Made in Trip Around World

The first publicity man to combine acting with his duties is H. H. Van Loan, who left a few weeks ago for a trip around the world for the Peter Pan Film Corporation, and who, from the latest reports, has reached Honolulu.

The "junkman," as he is more familiarly known, has enjoyed quite a few adventures during the past two or three years. He has accomplished many things for the sake of publicity for the various firms he has been connected with, but has never posed before a motion picture camera.

It was Van Loan also who put Sarah Bernhardt's artificial limb in the limelight, at the time the Bluebird Company published "Jeanne Dore," in which the great French tragedienne made her screen debut.

Accompanying him on his trip, which will include practically every country in the world, are Gertrude Cameron, the famous "Battleship Bride," who is to play the leading role in the series of be known as "The Honeyymooners"; Peggy Aldrich, who is also a film actress and William Aldrich, an expert cameraman.

This is to be the first world-serial ever made, and the scenario, which is being written by Van Loan calls for a series of one-reelers, each one complete, which will carry the audience entirely around the globe before the final reel is reached. In addition to its unique features, it will be the longest serial ever put out by any film company, as it promises to run 100 weeks.

MARY McALISTER IN "HUBBARD" FILM SCHEDULED OCT. 29

A travesty on Old Mother Hubbard of the nursery rhyme, "who went to the cupboard to get her poor dog a bone," has been made into a five-reel comedy drama by Essanay for its six-year-old star, Little Mary McAlister.

The picture sets forth, in treatment of the lightest vein, the theory that times have changed but little since Old Mother Hubbard's time. And, while her cupboard was bare and her poor dog had to go boneless then, the high cost of living in the present day would enable them to fare no better now.

The picture is entitled "Young Mother Hubbard," and it will be published on Perfection Pictures program October 29.

The film has a screen time approximately of sixty-five minutes.

"THE PUBLIC DEFENDER" FIRST OF SPECIAL RAVER SERIES, NOW IS COMPLETED

Play Is Appeal for Equal Rights Before the Law; Frank Keenan, Alma Hanlon and Robert Edeson Have Stellar Roles in Production

"The Public Defender," the first of a series of big special screen productions treating of problems close to the minds of the masses, announced for presentation by Harry Raver, has been completed and now is ready for the market.

Aside from the fact that "The Public Defender" is built on a basic idea of equal rights before the law, and that its cast contains the names of three great stars, in the persons of Frank Keenan, Alma Hanlon and Robert Edeson, it presents a strong and strong entertainment values, it is said.

"The Public Defender" is a drama of keen conflict between the opposing forces of right and wrong, founded on the book of the same name by Mayer C. Goldman.

That the theory advanced so eloquently in "The Public Defender," which declares that every municipality possessing a public prosecutor should elect or appoint a corresponding public official whose mental equipment and legal attainments equal the qualifications of the former, is sound and of practical value, is acknowledged in the success of the nineteen "Public Defenders" established recently in various cities of the United States.

The story is simple and direct. There is said to be a strong element of suspense running throughout the narrative, and its heart interest is of the human everyday sort. The screen story was written by Mayer C. Goldman and Frank W. Harris.

That the technical detail of criminal procedure, which has an important bearing on the big situations of this drama, is minutely correct is vouched for by the fact that its authors, Messrs. Goldman and Harris, are both practicing attorneys and active members of the New York Bar. The adaptation was made for the screen by Frederick Rath.

POSE OF GEORGE WALSH AND TWO SCENES FROM FOX FILMS
J. W. NOBLE’S NEW “SHAME” FILM LAUDED
BY BURNSTEIN FOR STATE RIGHTS QUALITY

Finishes Cutting and Titling of First Big Feature Made by Noted
Director for Distribution on the Open Market; Gives Reason Why Production Will Succeed

With no market assured by contracts or advance deposits, the special state rights picture depends for success strictly upon its merits, according to the view of Jules Burnstein, general representative for John W. Noble, who has just finished cutting and titling his first big feature, "Shame," produced under his own management for distribution on the open market.

"A director knows that his productions, staged for a large distributing company, are assured a certain amount of booking so long as they do not fall below the average of high-class program pictures," said Mr. Burnstein. "But producing for the so-called open market is an entirely different proposition. If your picture is only average, there is very little chance of its success. The chances of success are in good proportion to its merit above the merit of the usual run of features. First of all, the story must contain a big idea. It must be a story the mere announcement of which will attract more than ordinary attention. Then cast, staging, acting and mounting must be as much above the ordinary as brains, time and money can make them."

"Mr. Noble, according to my ideas, is one of the few high-class directors measuring up to the "special-production" standard. He showed his grasp of the situation by the selection of his story—a stirring, heart-interest story, intensely interesting, highly dramatic and built upon a big idea which promises to cause wide discussion in the homes of the masses, as well as in the halls of learning. Then he handled his subject in a manner worthy of its importance and gave his production that atmosphere of stupendousness so necessary to make it stand out as extraordinary and worthy of unusual exploitation."

“MOTHER” G. L. TUCKER’S SIX REAL FEATURE
PUT ON STATE RIGHTS MART BY McCLURE

Film Produced in England, Stars Elizabeth Risdon, of Stage Note
Who Now Is Playing with Wm. Faversham

What is regarded by some critics of the motion picture drama as the most artistic picture George Loane Tucker has ever directed has been secured by Mc-Clure Pictures and will be offered by this company on a state rights basis.

The film of “Mother” was produced in England, amidst the beautiful scenery of the Dartmoor section—the country of “Lorna Doone” and “Westward Ho.”

Elizabeth Risdon, who makes her appearance this week on the American stage as leading lady in William Faver-sham’s production of Shaw’s play, “Mes-alliance,” and who starred in Mr. Tuck-er’s production of “The Manx-Man,” plays the title part in “Mother.”

The film is a rendering of Ehen Phill-potts’s novel, “A Mother of Dartmoor,” and the story deals with the influence a mother’s love has over her wild, headstrong son.

Ives, in a wonderful series of scenes in moonlit forest, is discovered poaching. He flies to his home and succeeds in hiding his stolen game, but his mother, for her son’s salvation, makes a supreme sacrifice of her pride and feelings, and reveals him as the culprit. Ives goes off to prison with curses on his lips and leaves the mother brooding over the words he hurts back at her—"You are not fit to bear the name of ‘mother.’"

Ives swears he will not return home after he is free and the scene in which his mother waits for his footsteps on the night he leaves the prison is one of the most touching that has even been screened. The mother’s love triumphs at last and the hard spirit of the son bends to the gentle influence of the heart that never lost faith.

TRADE PRINTS OF TUCKER’S “MANX-MAN”
FILM NOW IN ALL GOLDWYN BRANCHES

Trade prints of Hall Caine’s greatest story, “The Manx-Man,” are being placed in all Goldwyn offices throughout North America this week and early next week exhibitors in the various territories will be invited to see George Loane Tucker’s production, which now is available to all exhibitors under the open booking policy.

Brand new prints have been shipped to all the western and coast points and there will be no delay in the trade presentations in which, judging by inquiries received, exhibitors everywhere are much interested.

The successful run of this production for a month at The Criterion Theatre,
New York, and Marcus Loew’s booking of “The Manx-Man” for sixty-two days in his various theatres. Every Goldwyn office in the United States and Canada will now be able to answer the many inquiries they have received by showings of the production itself.

JAXON CORP. TO MOVE

The Jaxon Film Corporation, now located in the Candler building, New York, will move on October 1, it is announced, to Room 608 Commercial Trust Co. building, 1451 Broadway, New York.

MRS. E. R. DESSEZ
TOURS FOR KLEINE CONQUEST FILMS

To Call on Educators Promoting Better Picture Movement and the Edison Features

Mrs. Elizabeth Richey Dessez, head of the Community Service Department of the George Kleine System, whose function it is to promote the interest of both exhibitors and theatre patrons in the Conquest Programs produced by Thomas
A. Edison, Inc., and issued by the Geo.
September 21, for an extended tour of the country on behalf of Conquest Programs.

MRS. ELIZABETH RICHHEY DESZEZ.
(Geo. Kleine System)

Mrs. Dessez will visit, among other points, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit, Albany, Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Roanoke and Norfolk. She is calling upon the leading educators, journalists and social workers in each city visited and seeking their co-operation in supporting the Better Film Movement throughout America.

Everybody in the film industry recalls that Mrs. Dessez became nationally known a few months ago when, with Mrs. Philip Speed of New York City she successfully established the first series of children’s matinees in New York City and surprised exhibitors by making their children matinee performances the most profitable of their entire week.

Toronto, Ont.—“Come Through,” the great crook melodrama starring Herbert Rawlinson, played at Sheeh’s Hippodrom
Theater, the entire week of Sept. 24.
This film was one of the best drawing cards that this theater has played in many a day, and the S. R. O. sign had not to be displayed.

An added feature that made the film a success was the fact that Herbert Rawlinson was a former Ontario boy, having lived in St. Mary’s, Ont. This fact was widely advertised.
Shirley Mason in
"THE APPLE-TREE GIRL"
Edison-Perfection comedy-drama; five parts; published
October 1

As a whole ................. Splendid Story ..................... New and interesting
Support .................. Well chosen
Settings .................. Excellent
Photography .............. Fine

"The Apple-tree Girl" should prove one of the most popular productions issued for some time. The story is speicely handled. Every little detail has been given attention and from the beginning to the end it should appeal to spectators.

The exterior settings are beautiful. The lovers of golf will find it pretty hard to sit still in their seats when Miss Mason drives that little ball over the green. The farm settings are of the kind which bring mental visions of the old ho-neted before one. This play offers diversion from trite melodramatic subjects. It is the kind that makes one leave the theatre with a smile and a pleasant thought for one's worst enemies. Exhibitors who show this subject to their patrons will give them a treat.

Miss Mason is well supported by Ray McKee, Paul Perez, Essie Stevens and Joyce Fair. The picture has been directed by Alan Crosland, from the story by George Weston.

The story: When Charlotte, who is plain and not good looking, saves her present so many attentions, he decides to do something which will make her well liked,

The alert exhibitor cannot afford to keep "The Corner rocer" from his screen. It is a rare good film—not the best film that was ever made—but the kind of film that will amuse d and satisfy, and will fill the house.

It is taken from the play by Adolph Phillips which ran for 900 nights in New York City and gives the inimitable Lew Fields a role that he alone knows so well how to handle.

The story is well told, has "punchy" subtitles and a very capable cast in support of Mr. Fields, the old stage favorite, cluding Madge Evans, the young screen star, Lilian Cook, Justine Cutting, William Sherwood, George Cowl, Pinna Nesbit, Robert Gordon and Stanhope Wheatcroft. The acting is meritorious throughout.

The story: Charles Wendel, the kindly old grocer, adopts little Mary Brian upon the death of her widowed mother, and she soon becomes the dominating spirit in the home. Years pass and Wendel proposes taking his son Ralph into partnership. Ralph prefers a position in a bank and his father secures for him. Anxiously to make money fast, he is lured into a scheme to form a large company to pass crooks. He forges his father's name to a check and draws out $100,000 which the crooks promptly make off with. When confronted with the check the elder Wendel is forced to sell his property and go back to his push cart. Ralph, accused of the murder of one of the crooks, is a fugitive. Upon the confession of the real murderer, however, he returns to the little farm his father has established and a happy reunion follows between he and Mary.

"Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp" is a charming picturization of an old fairy tale which should please young and old. It carries one into the land of make-believe, into an atmosphere of excitement, mystery and romance. The directors of the picture have held up Aladdin's Lamp to light our way back to lost illusions and the air castle building days of our childhood. The settings are particularly ambitious and the photography is unusually good.

Francis Carpenter and Virginia Corbin have added noticeably to the laurel wreaths they are winning for themselves.
The work of little Gertrude Messinger as the "Lady in Waiting" places her in the stellar class. The rest of the cast includes Violet Radcliffe, Lewis Sargent, Buddy Messinger, Fred Turner and Alfred Paget.

The story: The Princess, daughter of the Sultan, is beloved by the Magician. She looks past him to Aladdin, the son of a poor tailor. After Aladdin finds the wonderful lamp he wishes for riches and wins the hand as well as the heart of the Princess. The Magician steals the lamp from him and abducts the Princess, carrying her far into the desert, where the genie of the lamp builds him an enchanted palace. Aladdin follows the caravan, but his camel driver deserts him and he is left to perish in a sand storm. The Princess has sent for help and her messenger finds Aladdin in time to revive him.
They are both picked up by the Sultan's Bedouins and all fly to the enchanted palace, where, after a fierce battle, they are victorious and Aladdin and the Princess are married and live happily ever after.

After a great deal of slapstick comedy fillers on a program, the George Ade fables certainly should come as welcome comedy features. This one is entertaining and has excellent slang sub-titles, which are not in the least offensive, and the film carries a good moral. In the cast are R. Paul Harvey, U. K. Houpt, Katherine Amos and John Cossar.

A SCENE FROM GEORGE ADE’S FABLE OF THE PRINCE FORTUNATUS WHO MOVED AWAY FROM EASY STREET AND SILAS WHO MOVED IN. (Essanay)

The story: Claude, at the age of twenty-one, receives a large inheritance and, accustomed to ease, he continues to draw on his inheritance without ever adding anything to it. Silas has to work for his livelihood and at the beginning he hates Claude for his wealth. However, at the age of forty, Silas has accumulated a fortune equal to what is left of Claude’s and they become friends. Finally Claude is forced to seek work and the first place he goes to is to Silas, but after a short time Silas shows very plainly that he does not want Claude to work for him. The result is that Claude has to shop for his wife, who runs a boarding house, while Silas rides about in beautiful machines and lives in the beautiful home.

This Ade fable is an enjoyable and humorous one, both from the standpoint of the subtitles and the players’ portrayal of their various roles on the screen. It should prove a successful offering to picture patrons. Virginia Valli, playing opposite Rodney LaRocque, does some keen work.

The story: Herbert loves Loretta, but when in his company she treats him very coldly, although secretly she admires this man who dresses like the men in clothing store ads. One day Herbert becomes desperate and invites Loretta for a ride. As they go along he puts on more speed and they are going at a pretty fast pace when Herbert turns his machine into the river. Loretta demands to be taken out, but when Herbert refuses she attempts to walk out, but the depth of the water forces her back into the car. Herbert’s only condition for leaving the river is that she say she loves him. Unable to do anything else, Loretta finally confesses that she admires cave man methods of courtship and says the word with the three letters that will get her out of the river.

“Under False Colors” is an interesting story written around the Russian revolution, but for the most part the scenes are laid in America.

Although Frederick Ward, the able tragedian, is cast as an American capitalist, who is financing the revolution, and brings into play every bit of his strong personality and wonderful stage experience. In support, appears Robert Vaughn as Jack Colton, his son; Jeanne Eagles as Countess Olga, and Carey Havings as Mrs. Colton.

The plot is full of action and contains plenty of suspense. The direction of Emile Chautard is superb and the photography clear throughout. The story was written by Lloyd Lonegan and is a photoplay that should please the most exacting audiences.

The story: Colton sends his son Jack to Russia to complete the details of a loan to that government. While there Jack assists the Countess Olga, who is portrayed by, out of the country. She sails for America and on the same steamer meets Vera Ladislaus, who is going to make her home with the Colton. The steamer is torpedosed and Vera loses her life. Olga, upon arrival in New York, poses as Vera, to secure information in the Colton home, as she has been told he is aiding the Russian government. Becoming established in the home, the kindness of the Coltons makes her regret her position. Jack’s return home, and the arrival of Vera’s father, an old friend of the Coltons, complicates matters. However, upon Colton’s statement to the assembled Russians at their head quarters that he is in reality helping the cause of freedom Olga’s true feelings toward the Coltons, and especially toward Jack, are seen.

There is enough Western scenery, riding, shooting an cowboy to make “The Secret Man” appeal to the average motion picture patron, and admirers of Harry Carey will find him the same bad man, who is always doing some one a good deed.

In the cast supporting Mr. Carey are Edith Sterling, Morris Foster, Vester Pegg, Bill Gettig, Steve Clemente, Elizabeth James and Hulda McLean.

The story: Cheyenne Harry escapes from the prison en while escaping comes upon the body of a little girl throw from a runaway horse. He picks the little one up and is concerned on his way is from the assistance of Harry. The mother is told that little girl is dead and she loses her reason. At a church burial the little girl is to be auctioned off to the highest bidder. Mother and daughter recognize each other and the mother mind is restored with the assistance of Harry. Mol and her husband are reunited, the sheriff is happy to find Annabelle is his niece, and in appreciation of Harry’s kind acts allows him to go free.

Harold Bell Wright's novel, "The Eyes of the World," made its Eastern premier in picture form at the Auditorium theater, Chicago, September 27, with the usual excellent Clune embellishments. It was well received by the large audiences and has continued to draw good houses daily. The picture is being presented by special arrangement with the Book Supply company, Chicago.

A viewd in the retrospect, there are two features of "The Eyes of the World" that stand out from all the rest. They are the remarkable photography and the excellent orchestration. He incidental music fits into the picture as the film itself fits a sprocket.

It is a good picture, but not at all a great one, the difficult task of putting the beautiful language of Harold Bell Wright's 844-page book into 8,000 feet of cold celluloid being a monumental one. The popularity of the book, however, will awaken anew interest in the film version of the story among the thousands of Mr. Wright's readers. There are Aaron King, Sybil Andres, Edward Taine, Mrs. Taine, James Rutlidge and Conrad LaGrange, looking just as every one fancied they ought to look.

"Her Country's Call" is a truly Mary Miles Minter subject. Theater patrons will find Miss Minter just as charming and lovable as ever and undoubtedly this production will prove to be mighty interesting. The story has a patriotic trend; soldiers are seen drilling, the American flag unfurled to the breeze, the spirit of '76, the death of John Paul Jones as he uttered the words: "Don't give up the ship" and other little patriotic touches which will make the youngsters applaud and fill the hearts of the older patrons with the American spirit of patriotism.

Mary Miles Minter has been surrounded with a capable cast, including Alan Forrest, George Periolat, Margaret Sulley, Henry A. Barrows, Ashton Dearholt, Nellie Widen and Spottiswoode Aitken. The direction is in the hands of Lloyd Ingram.

The story: Jim Slocum is captured by the home guard for bootlegging and his daughter is left in the care of Captain Neville and his maiden sister. Marie Tremain, who is jealous of the attention the captain pays Jess tells her that she should not stay and disgrace the captain and his sister and then the army dance Jess runs away and goes to her old home in the mountains. Here she hears the leader of the mountain raiders planning to capture the ammunition supply. With great speed she listens to the plans and sounds the bugle call. The home guard is rounded up in time to save the ammunition and Jess becomes the heroine of the hour. The next day Captain Tremain receives a letter from Slocum telling him that Jess is his own daughter and that she had been stolen as revenge. Jess finds a father, sister and later a husband in Captain Neville.

"Life's Whirlpool is a regular Niagara Falls, so to speak, for Esther, the principal character in this latest Metro production. It is a series of tragedies, starting with the death of Esther's consumptive father and ending up with the awful death of her husband. The story is based on the front of the European conflict is shown (staged somewhere in New Jersey), with hundreds of extras lying around "dead" as an extra added tragic feature.

Ethel Barrymore is particularly well suited to her talents and she far outshines the balance of the cast. The photography is excellent and on the whole the picture has been well directed by Lionel Barrymore. The story, however, is supposed to depend upon one tragedy after another for punch.

The story: Esther, upon the death of her father, is advised by her kindly neighbors to get married. She is forced to sell the homestead and marries a domineering old miser, who lives with his eleven sister. Because she passes the time of day upon the street with young men, her husband becomes jealous. He chokes her when he finds a letter to her from a former friend and she decides to leave him. While escaping with her son she is detained in the arms of a farmer, who tries to embrace her. She shoots him dead, and a posse arrests her for the death of her husband, who has been found strangled in his library. However, the death confession of the real murderer clears her of her husband's death and the return of her former friend from France completes her happiness.

“The Bab’s Diary” taken from the Saturday Evening Post story by Mary Roberts Rinehart—is a comedy-drama of the type best suited to Marguerite Clark’s winsome personality. Nothing she has ever done quite equals her vivacious and irresistible “Bab” so adly portrayed in this delightful “sub-deb” story. The various situations of the little girl who is forced into the background in favor of her elder sister, and who says she will get married and “end it all,” furnish fine humor and should prove immensely popular with all classes of picture-goers.

The comedy has been well handled by Director J. Searle Dawley; an excellent company surrounds Miss Clark, including Nigel Barrie as Carter Brooks, Leonora Morgan as Jane Gray, Frank Losee as Mr. Archibald and Jack O’Brien as Harold Valentine.

The story: Barbara Archibald objects to being pushed into the background and, determining to give the family something to think about, declares she is in love and is about to get married and end it all. She is amazed at the effect of her remark and thereupon invents a name for her lover and buys a photograph of a likely looking chap to impersonate him. Matters become complicated when Carter Brooks, an old friend of the family, announces to Bab that he knows her new-found friend and promises to bring him to a party at which Bab may meet him. He also volunteers to deliver an impassioned love note she had penned to her imaginary sweetheart, to Valentine—the name she had chosen for him. An actor made up like the photograph is introduced to Bab and persists in his attentions until she flees from the house. She thinks of the love note and goes to the actor’s apartment to secure it. An alarm is raised and she is found by the police apparently drowning in the bathtub, into which she had fallen. Matters are straightened out at home and Bab is sent back to school in disgrace. The subtitles are extracts from Bab’s diary and furnish much of the fun of the photoplay.

THE CONQUEST PROGRAM

In program number 10 of the Edison Conquest series of publications there is some exceptional material for the family or children’s entertainment.

“Your Obedient Servant,” adapted from the beloved story of “Black Beauty,” is the three reel feature. As the story has been a never-ending source of joy, this excellent film version, also, should prove as entertaining. “Dan Paulson” has been cast in the role of Black Beauty and the acting of this wonderful horse is nearly human. None of the interest of the written story has been lost, and with the story told in the first person and good direction, it is a feature that should prove very popular.

“A Duke for a Day” is a two-reel offering of a comedy type featuring Raymond McKee. The story has been well handled and offers good entertainment. Raymond McKee’s work is enjoyable.

The world famous “Pied Piper” story has been done in one reel and makes an interesting short subject. It is a costume play out of the ordinary and because almost everyone is familiar with this story it should have its appeal from that angle as well as the manner in which handled.

One reel of beautiful scenery with various types of trout fishing finishes this interesting program.

“The Devil Dodger” is a western narrative woven around a Vermont minister, a gambler and a dance hall girl, with the stalwart Roy Stewart in the leading role. Stewart is excellent. Triangle picture devotees though will be rather disappointed in this slow moving, uninteresting story. It lacks real heart interest and appeal. The action drags and the human touch is not there. It is decidedly below the Triangle standard.

Jack Gilbert appears in the role of Roger Ingraham, the dominie, and his work is a bit lifeless. He is impressive at times, but usually unread. Wagner essayed the role of Fluffy, the dance hall habitue. Her work lacks the fire of sincerity. A score of extras in western attire furnish background.

The story is the usual western tale of the minister who seeks health in a wild and woolly town. “Silent” Scott, a gambler, is the dictator of the community, and when the “Devil Dodger,” as he terms the Rev. Roger Ingraham, attempts to hold meetings in the domine’s house and calls him “Silent” and the Reverend have an argument. Discouraged at not receiving remittance from his past parish, he goes to the gambling house determined to pick a fight with “Silent” and thus end it all, but he has been told it is suicide to slap “Silent’s.” He falls exhausted across the “lay-out” and Fluffy begs to be allowed to take him home, “Silent” gives her the opportunity to win him on the drawing of a card and she wins. Being nurse-back to health the dominie wins the hearts of the rough men of the camp and even “Silent” closes his gambling den for meeting on Sunday. During a duel between “Silent” and “Bowie” the minister is shot and “Silent” and Fluffy ride away together to seek a new and better life. Cliff Smith directs J. G. Hawkes wrote the play.

A George Walsh production that full of action and swift-moving in every respect. “The Yankee Way” is just such a film—and for patrons who enjoy the style of picture there is little doubt but what it will gain wide popularity.

George Walsh allows no grass to grow under his feet this play, as he is continually on the run and jump. He lives, entertaining and interesting.

There is everything to indicate that the exhibitor catering to patrons who like this type of picture will have no difficulty in making this a successful box office feature.

Endo Markley and the entire cast afford Mr. Walsh support. The story has been handled cleverly by Direct. Richard Stanton.

The story: Dick Mason starts a riot in a cabaret to protect an unknown young lady, whom he has come to admire very much. He is sent to jail, but his father effects his release providing he will go to Lithuania and protect his cattle cession there. Dick goes and learns that the girl for whom he had been arrested is none other than the princess of the Balkan country, ruling a tootin’ throne. Count Vortel is anxious to gain possession of the throne and up until with three minutes of the fatal hour it looks as though his aim will succeed. But Dick Mason, in a truly American fashion, rescues the princess and things look much as if some day might be the prince of Lithuania.

"Conscience" is a picture containing a strong lesson and remarkable example of quadruple exposure photography. It is impressive throughout, but one cannot help wishing one might see the trial of a better woman than the scene herein. The star's keen characterization, however, does much to enhance the story that drains the dregs of immorality. Gladys Brockwell has created a sumptuous and vicious little pagean. She is supported by a commendable cast including Largorie Daw, Eugene Ford, Eve Southern, Genevieve Plain, Douglas Gerrard, Edward Cecil, Harry Lonsdale, Colin Chase and Bertram Grassby. Perkins and Lucifer are driven from heaven to work out their salvations on earth. They incarnate in the bodies of Ruth Somers and her guardian, Dr. Norton. Her guardian's pernicious influence leads Ruth through a series of immoralities, which haunt her on the eve of her marriage. After receiving a message from a man whose sweetest heart killed herself because Ruth stole his love, Conscience appears and aids Ruth's astral body to a trial within herself. In hocus-pocus visions she sees her misdeeds erased and work done for her. She brushes them aside and excitedly appears for the edding ceremony. This is interrupted by the man who wrote the message. He denounces Ruth, whose prospective husband turns from her, and she is left alone with her conscience. Her guardian, the incarnation of the devil, thinks to lead her further into evil, but she prays for forgiveness, hitch free her from the spell.

The story: Theodore Crosby is advised that in accordance with the provisions of his uncle's will he will have to spend the old Crosby ranch for six months. He further learns that a "bad man" threatens to kill the first person who takes his abode on the Crosby ranch. The entire affair appeals Theodore and he makes preparations to make the ranch. The will further provides that Teddy must marry his cousin, Dorothy Stuart. Dorothy and her mother come to the ranch and while riding one day Dorothy is kidnapped by some raiding Mexicans. Teddy succeeds in rescuing her and then they are both caught by "Horned Toad" Smith, and with plans to brand Crosby. Just as he is ready to put the iron on Teddy's arm he recognizes Teddy as the man who had saved his life when attacked by the villagers. Teddy is freed and he and Dorothy are married and live happily on the ranch.

ANITA KING AND GAIL KANE STAR IN TWO FIVE REELERS SCHEDULED ON MUTUAL PROGRAM FOR OCT. 8

Miss King appears in the first of her series of Mutual-Horkheimer pictures, scheduled on Oct. 8, with "The Girl Angel," her initial production, to be released on that date, together with "Southern Pride," a five-reel Mutual-American drama starring Gail Kane. The week's schedule includes "Firing Father and "Jerry and the Bully," the Mutual-Signet photonovel starring Helen Holmes, two comedies and two topicals.

In Miss King's first picture she has the role of a two-fisted, tough woman, a person very near self-sufficiency, who detests, despises and distrusts the male of the species to an intense degree. Miss King has done the part remarkably well, it is said. The production is in five reels. Joseph Ryan occupies the principal role in the switching cast.

Miss Kane has a new kind of role in her new picture, "Southern Pride." She is assigned to the part of the proud daughter of an old but impoverished Creole family, loved by two men and loving one—the everlasting triangle. Young Sigmund Bow is a thief of family heirlooms to throw a touch of mystery into the story. The settings are typically southern and thoroughly up to the American Film Company's standard.

TWO COMEDIES ON WEEK'S SCHEDULE

There are two comedies on the schedule for the week. "Firing Father," the sequel of the popular Mutual-No. 33 one-reel pictures starring Billie Rhodes, and "Jerry and the Bully," a one-reel Cub featuring George Ovey.

Exhibitors in all parts of the country showed keen pleasure at the announcement that Mutual would release a series of forty-four Strand comedies starring Miss Rhodes and extraordinarily heavy bookings have followed the news. Miss Rhodes is supported by Jay Belasco. "Firing Father" is scheduled for October 9 and "Jerry and the Bully" reaches the screen October 11.

CHAPTER IV—"THE LOST EXPRESS"

The serial for the week is "The Oil Well Conspiracy." Chapter IV of "The Lost Express," the Mutual-Signet fifteen-chapter photonovel starring Helen Holmes. Chapter IV takes the production to the point where the Mutual would release a series of thirty-one Strand comedies starring Miss Rhodes and extraordinarily heavy bookings have followed the news. Miss Holmes is supported by Jay Belasco. "Firing Father" is scheduled for October 9 and "Jerry and the Bully" reaches the screen October 11.

QUEBEC'S $20,000,000 BRIDGE COMPLETED AFTER DISASTER AND DEATH SHOWN IN GAUMONT REELS

On September 11, 1916, the 5,000-ton central span which was to complete Quebec's $20,000,000 bridge fell into the St. Lawrence river, killing ten workmen. This was the second failure to raise this immense span into position. After more than a month of work, the central span of the Mutual Weekly, issued October 3, the third and successful attempt to complete this monster bridge. With a cantilever length of 2,830 feet, a clearance which will allow the passage of the tallest masted ships, the Quebec bridge is the greatest in the world, surpassing the famous bridge across the Frith of Forth, near Edinburgh. Even a 16-story building would not extend above the main posts, and more than 65,000 tons of steel went into its construction. A number of scenes in this issue of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly keep us in close touch with our new army. At Camp Mills, Long Island, the Secretary of War reviews $7,000 "Rainbow for her," Seattle bids farewell to one of its most beloved ships, and presents each man with a basket of good cheer; San Francisco says good-bye to the "Grizzlies," a regiment composed entirely of Westerners, and the only regiment the government has permitted to be formed in the West; historic Lexington tells its recruits God-speed on the identical spot where their Revolutionary ancestors assembled 112 years ago to fight for freedom; in Boston, engineers receive instructions in building foundations for big guns; the first dental ambulance is exhibited in New York City; society girls of the National Capital send a live cub mascot to General Pershing; and in France, our soldiers join with the poutus in honoring the birthday of Lafayette.

War news, however, is not allowed to monopolize the entire newspaper, many other topics of news interest demanding a showing. The fashion department this week is "for men only," and the latest Fall models for sport and business are pictured in all their splendor.

BILLY SUNDAY IN DRIVE ON DEVIL AND WAR SCENES FROM EUROPE IN UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

With the exception of a series of pictures showing the opening of Billy Sunday's fall campaign at San Francisco, where it is predicted the athletic evangelist will make the direct take to the Pacific Ocean, the 19th issue of Universal Current Events is devoted exclusively to military subjects.

The reception accorded our troops in London also is pictured. In addition to interesting human interest studies of the crowds, intimate pictures are given of King George V, Queen Mary, and the Queen Mother Alexandra, besides close-ups of Premier Llloyd-George, American Ambassador Page and Admiral A.P. Davis. "Truckin' at Wellington Barracks" Universal's cameramen obtained some of the finest shots that have come out of London in months.

Another thrilling review, recently staged on the narrow streets of Italy, is that of King Albert of Belgium, "the hero without a country," watching his battle-worn veterans pass before him in full campaign regalia.

A series of Official French War Pictures have also been added to this reel, giving a graphic idea of the celebration held in Alsace-Lorraine a few weeks ago upon the arrival of the French General Sirshauer with his troops in one of the cities of the province that has been under Prussian domination from 1871 until very recently. The joy of the liberated French populace is expressed in characteristic fashion.

Throughout the reel occur many unusual bits of photography, while the titling has all of the popular appeal that has made other issues notable.

CAREY STARS IN "THE SECRET MAN"—BUTTERFLY FEATURE FOR OCT. 1

Harry Carey is the star of the Butterfly picture schedule for October 1. "The Secret Man" is the title of Carey's starring vehicle, and gives promise of being the most popular feature in which he has yet appeared on the Butterfly program.

Romance and mystery are blended in the story, which details one of the neglected chapters in the career of Cheyenne Harry. The likable road agent is serving a term in the Arizona penitentiary on a charge that he believes is unjust. So he takes the first opportunity to escape, via the reus wagon, and before his supposed has been discovered, boards a transcontinental flyer and hides himself in the compartment which has been reserved by Henry Beaufort, a young Easerman on the way to his uncle's ranch near the Mexican border. Beaufort has been secretly married to Molly Harris, the sister of the local sheriff, during a previous visit, and their child being cared for by a family of Mexicans, who are continually pressing Molly for more money. Cheynne Harry sees letter from Molly, together with her picture, among Beaufort's papers in the Paris. He has hardly put them down when Beaufort enters, and after one glance covers the outlaws with a revolver. After hearing Harry's narrative, however, Beaufort gives him a charge of clothes and helps him to leave it train in safety. Harry then finds work on a ranch not far from Beaufort's destination, but his identity is discovered by sleuth, and he is forced to take to the trail. The opportune circumstances follow for the return Beaufort's kindness, and he rises nobly to the occasion.

Carey is supported by Edith Sterling, Vester Pegg, Elizabeth Jenzes, and other Butterfly favorites.

CHICAGO CINEMA CIRCUIT IS FORMED TO RENT FILMS FOR MID-WEST EXHIBITORS

Clyde E. Elliott Made President and General Manager of Concern Which Will Supply Features and State Rights Plays; Theaters Seek Franchises

The Chicago Cinema Circuit was formed this week in Chicago for the purpose of aiding exhibitors in Chicago and surrounding states to secure first-run feature film productions as well as state right attractions.

Clyde E. Elliott, for the past two years sales manager for the Paramount Picture Corporation, has resigned to accept the presidency and general management of the new company. Mr. Elliott, in the following statement, outlines his plans:

"Our idea would be to accept in our organization such theaters as are representative of the best in the Central States, thereby enabling us to cooperate more fully with the various distributing agencies and producers.

"The new organization will not confine itself to the city of Chicago alone, but to neighboring states also. There will be a direct co-operation between each member enjoying a franchise with us, as well as sharing the many years' experience of those associated with us. All of this will be included in the services rendered. The exhibitor will have back of him an entire organization making purchases amounting to hundreds of dollars a week, and we will also buy state rights productions for first run presentation throughout our territory. I am confident, from the film people to whom I have spoken, that our proposition will be the biggest of its kind ever attempted in the Central States, a great many theaters having already made application for franchises.

"Our offices will be in the North American Building. Albert Selig will act as secretary and treasurer."

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN WILL BE PRESENT AT N. Y. SHOWING OF "THE CO-RESPONDENT"

To Make Trip From Andersonville, N. C., for Premiere Scheduled Oct. 7 at Broadway Theater; Jewel Controls Film Made by Advance Moving Picture Corporation

Elaine Hammerstein, young star of Advanced Motion Pictures, on October 5, will make a flying trip to New York, from Andersonville, N. C., Blue Gap Mountains, where she is working with Ralph W. Ince, to be present at the premiere at the Broadway Theater on October 7, of the Ralph W. Ince production, "The Co-Respondent," in which Jewel Productions, Inc., presents her in the title role. She will return to Andersonville the following day to complete work on her second Advanced feature. While in the city Miss Hammerstein will be the guest of Jewel Productions, Inc., whose invitation she has accepted to come to New York for the day.

"The Co-Respondent," the first of Advanced Motion Picture offerings, was purchased from Lee Shubert, Arthur Hammerstein and Ralph W. Ince last week by Jewel Productions, Inc. It is adapted from the stage success of the same name by Rita Weiman and Alice Leaf Pollack. Irene Fenwick brought it to the Booth Theater two years ago and it proved one of the successes of the season. Wilfred Lucas plays opposite Miss Hammerstein and the cast includes George Anderson, Robert Cain, Richard Neill, Winifred Harris, Josephine Morse, Hattie Horne, Jennie Mayo, Charles Smith and others.

MME. PETROVA TO EDIT DRAMA DEPT. IN BIG MAGAZINE

One of the secrets of attaining renown in the field of motion pictures is to possess beauty, intelligence, and a background of experience that creates public interest. Mme. Petrova has them all and she is about to capitalize them to a high degree through the editorial work she has undertaken for a prominent woman's magazine.

The Ladies' World, in a series of announcements in leading magazines, made known the fact that Petrova has agreed to edit a monthly department of information concerning matters of dramatic poise and expression. It is stated in addition that the story versions of the plays to be produced by Petrova Picture Company, which films are to be published through the First National Exhibitors Circuit, are to appear in The Ladies' World simultaneously with the appearance of Petrova pictures on the screen.

CLAIREE WHITNEY IS ENGAGED FOR
C. K. YOUNG FILM

Claire Whitney has been engaged for the screen version of Shirley Kaye, the second Clara Kimball Young picture by her own organization, under the management of Harry I. Garson, now underplay at Thanhouser Studios, New Rochelle.

She is cast in the role of Daisy Magen, a young girl who wishes to break into society through the influence of Shirley Kaye, played by Clara Kimball Young.

Miss Whitney is well known in the film field, having been four years before the manager seen in many successes, the most notable being “The Nigger,” in which she played opposite William Farnum.

She also appeared in “The Plunderer,” “When False Tongue Speaks,” “Under Two Flags,” “Heart and Soul,” with Theda Bara, and “The Ruling Passion,” in which Miss Whitney played the star role.

BIG NEWS "BREAKS" OF WEEK TO APPEAR IN GAUMONT REELS FOR WEEK OF OCT. 1.

Will Be Featured by Newspapers, Is Announcement

The first film of the Gaumont Company for the week of October 15 is Gaumont-Mutual Weekly No. 146, which reaches the screen on Wednesday, October 17. The current topics which will appear in this issue will be those headlines in the newspapers of about that date. It is, of course, no more possible to predict the contents of No. 146 than to foresee what news events will occupy the pages of the daily papers. But Gaumont cameramen are everywhere on the alert, and as soon as important news "breaks" it will be shown in the Mutual Weekly.

Like a literary magazine, the Gaumont screen is a "Rolling" Life, carefully prepared in advance of publication. It is therefore possible to state the contents of No. 146, which will be issued this coming October 18. Two cameramen were sent to Panama and points on the Gulf of Mexico to photograph the feature subject in this number, "The Panama Industry." This industry is shown in its entirety, from the planting of the banana tree, to "eyes" among decaying jungle vegetation to the unloading of perfect bunches by machinery in the United States.

Hardly less interesting, and probably houses will deem it of greater importance, is "When Dishwashing Is a Pleasure," which illustrates a recent invention which allows the sanitary washing of each dish in clean, separate water in a way which will not injure the prettiest or most delicate hands. The Gaumont Company promises to show other inventions to lighten housework in succeeding issues.

The other subjects in this number are: "A Colonial Church in South Carolina," which was saved from destruction during the Revolution by the coat of arms of George III; the making of a crane bracket by "A Primitive Jeweler," and "An Optical Illusion," an animated drawing from the humorous weekly, "Life," which proves that the chorus girl did not kick off the minister's "lid."

"MADAM WHO," FIRST BARRISCALAE FILM
FOR PARALTA SEEN AS BIG SUCCESS

President Carl Anderson and Concern's Officers Proclaim Feature One of Season's Hits After Exhibition in New York;
Is War Interest Drama

Bessie Barriscals second Paralta play, "Madame Who," founded on Harold MacGrath's military secret service story of the same name, adapted to the screen by Monte M. Katterjohn, was recently screened in the Liberty Film exchange, and now is showing on Broadway in New York.

A private projection of the new photoplay, which is planned for the last Monday for Carl Anderson, president of Paralta, and other officers and attaches. The film impressed those who saw it as the opening of the season of "Madam Who." Paralta has an attraction which should prove to be one of the season's successes.

While the story is told in an atmosphere of camp, trench, and battle, the war interest is entirely secondary to the dramatic portrayal of a determined young woman who becomes a military secret service agent to avenge the death of her father and brothers, who have lost their lives in action.

Reputed woman, Jeanette Beaufort, played by Miss Barriscal, matches wits with the most shrewd and experienced military secret agents of the enemy. Endeavoring to capture them, she is herself captured by eleven men, all of whom are masked. Ten of them are unknown to each other, but only their leader knows them all.

To save her life, "Jean" is compelled to marry one of them. As the ceremony is performed by the leader, who is a professional, she suffers a peculiar tattoo mark on the wrist of the man to whom she is being married.

With this mark as a clue, "Jean" begins search for her unknown husband as an incident to her activities for her government, but the mysterious sign hinders her more than it helps and leads her into an entanglement of mystery and intrigue which is only solved at the very end of the story.

"Smilin' Through," which did the photographic work, has greatly added to his reputation in "Madam Who," which will be Miss Barriscal's first Paralta release. The story, "Ros e o' Paradise" will follow this production, which will be followed by a third Paralta play, "Within the Cup."
CHICAGO TRADE EVENTS

Rex Weber, director of the Titan Pictures Corporation, which concern is producing a series of timely comedies, or the American Military Relief Association, received some stiff jolts September 22 in a speed trip to New York, while en route from the Selig to the Roether studios. A Lincoln avenue car and the sturdy Saffron Susie tried to argue matters on a speed-trip road and Harry Bushy's vehicle had the edge in the fuss, knocking cab and Rex curb, breaking an axle and spilling sal Weber. To get results, be sure and use one of those "English tanks" the fans now know so much about, in the next encounter.

J. C. Gilmore, one of "the road's regulars," is surely burning up for the jewel productions, judging from the neat little pile of "Come Through" and "Sirens of the Sea" contracts piling up in Manager Eli Van Ronkel's office.

Speaking of "Sammies," you all should have lapped the embryo office, Dick Tracy in the service of ceremonies 22, weekend. He looks his part and we're ill for you, Dick, old scout.

F. J. Flaherty, formerly of the Universal, now is managing the local exchange or the Hoffman-Foursquare features, located in the College Building, and from his way the dust is flying it looks as though "the modest violet" has a block of winners for his many exhibit friends.

"Tis murmured that the busy trio, ones, Linick & Schafer, have closed with the peerless D. W. Griffith, securing all his productions for initial screenings in Chicago at their Orpheum Theatre. No wonder Georgie Moore is purring the gladness smiles as the autumn leaves begin to fall.

"Hank" Ford, the famous "can" manufacturer of Michigan, now is making deliveries on his Ford Weekly, the current events films par excellence, to the Indiana and Illinois exhibitors, through Geier & Herz, local distributors. And they are great, so we've been informed, leave it to "Si" and "Umbrella" Herz o'pluck bargains.

We have it confidential that Pauline Frederick, who recently became Mrs. Jack, was literally smothered with congratulations in Washington upon the happy day. Listen—besides there is more than one Mr. Mack in this old S. The P. A. Mack for the Universal and Bluebird local offices is too busy tearing down pencil points on the old address sheets to flirt with Dan Cupid's arts, as yet.

Fred Becroot, now advertising manager for the News, visited Chicago during the week of September 24.

Leave it to Sig Fauler for being asleep. They tell us Sig just sent in "double order" on the little admission pasteboards for the "Sirens of the Sea," which is playing at the Bijou Dream for a week run.

Edwin Silverman, Chicago manager for Butterfly Pictures, is back in the city after a week's frolic on old Manhattan. He seems bent. Waderman, mean, "pleasure bent?" Slip us the dope, Ed, old top.

The Chicago Association of Commerce built the Chicago building, carries a caption in a recent article which is "Chicago Appreciates Its Film Industry," and in the story a very interesting resume of the business of the American Film Company is recorded, with special mention regarding its up-to-the-minute president, Samuel Hutchinson.

"Ah! Tis an ill wind and all that sort of stuff, you know," gurgles Ed Donahoe, purchasing agent for the American Film Company. Ed had been pulling the Sherlock Holmes act on a certain tired member of the feline fraternity which had been nursing Ed's favorite hair on various cool evenings on the North Side. On the big night, said cushion was lavishly showered with sharp-pointed thumb tacks, but Kitty-cat wised up and located a comfy place, where a splendid view of the pained expression on the night watchman was had, as he sleepily flopped into the comforts of the old hair cushion.

Jos. Skiboll, district manager of Metro Pictures, flew into the city for a brief visit October 1.

Dr. W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, is in the city on a brief business trip.

MARY CHARLESON TO STAR IN WALLTHALLS' NEWEST FILM PLAY

Miss Mary Charleson, who has become very popular through her work while appearing opposite Henry B. Walthall in many of his greatest successes of the Ostend stage, has been engaged as leading woman with the Henry B. Walthall Pictures Corporation, whose productions will be made under the executive direction of Paralta Plays, Inc. Miss Charleson has won the distinction of appearing as leading woman for this star after a wide and varied experience in the halls of dramatic fame. Her father was one of the famous "heavies" on the stage of Ireland, the country in which he was born, and she made her first appearance behind the footlights as a baby in arms. Since that time she has been connected with the stage until her entrance into motion pictures. Among some of the pictures in which she has appeared with Mr. Walthall are "Burning the Candle," "The Saint's Adventure," "The Truant Soul" and "Little Shoes." She has been associated with Mr. Barnes of New York, "The Prince Chap," "Sealed Lips," "Passers-By" and "The Country That God Forgot."

BIG CHARIOT RACE OFFERS THRILL IN NEW FOX FEATURE

Horses Four-Abreast in Spectacular Scene of "Cleopatra"; Theda Bara Stars

A spectacular chariot race, with horses four abreast, followed by more than five hundred mounted men, speeding around mountain roads above the rolling Pacific, forms one of the most exciting scenes in the Theda Bara superpicture, "Cleopatra." William Fox, who produced the elaborate screen drama, will present it soon at a big Broadway theater in New York.

FUNKHOUSER PLANS NEW FIGHT TO STOP CHICAGO SHOWING OF "SPY"

Despite the Court Ruling, the Major Decides Fox Patriotic Feature Must Be Taken From Chicago Screens; W. R. Sheehan Authorizes a Sweeping Fight

Major M. L. C. Funkhouser, head of the Chicago Board of Censors, has decided to make a further fight against the continued showing of the Fox patriotic film, "The Spy." Notice has been served on Zellers & Schwartz attorneys representing the Fox Film Corporation, that a motion will be argued before United States District Judge Carpenter, for the suspension of the preliminary injunction under which the picture now is being shown in twelve Chicago theaters each day.

This decision on the part of the major probably indicates a determined fight by the Fox people against the whole system of censorship as it exists in Chicago.

W. R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Corporation, was in Chicago Wednesday, September 19, in conference with local attorneys and C. W. Pichlarth, district manager, over eliminations ordered in "The Conqueror," an American historical film, and "When a Man Sees Red," a story of the American merchant marine. Mr. Sheehan is understood to have authorized sweeping contests of the major's decisions in all cases relating to Fox productions.

Toronto, Ont.—Alice Howell Combining the two decided a success in Canada, judging from reports received at the State Right Features head office at Toronto. Two of the best theaters on the Strand and Loew's, Yonge street, Toronto, have booked these comedies for an early showing.
EXHIBITORS

TO BE GOOD

Butterfly screening to the in conjunction Coulson, called pastel is various and with body's in "Redemption" Bach, presented reservation and distribution of the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, among the sales force on the Screen Magazine.

Toronto, Ont.—Mr. Jerry Ruck, one of the best known film salesmen of Ontario, who has been with Universal for a good number of years, is now continuing his efforts in a better territory throughout Western Ontario. Mr. Ruck is the enterprising young man who carried away the prize of a gold watch in the last sales contest inaugurated by the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, among the sales force on the Screen Magazine.

Toronto, Ont.—Butterfly Picture, "Straight Shooting," will be seen at Shea's Hippodrome, Toronto, week of Oct. 1, made by Mr. Arnt of this theatre is anticipating a splendid business on this western picture.

Toronto, Ont.—The Imperial Theater, under the management of Wm. Sturgess, is making considerable improvements in honor of the picture "Redemption," which has been installed an electric sign, which is said to be one of the finest show signs in this city and has also made arrangements to inaugurate vaudeville in connection with pictures.

Toronto, Ont.—Raymond S. Peck, publicity manager for Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, was in Detroit last week, confering with W. A. Bach, who was formerly in charge of the Canadian publicity for Universal. Mr. Bach is on a tour to the various exchanges throughout the United States, and while in Detroit, Mr. Peck took this opportunity of seeing him and discussing various publicity plans in connection with the company in Canada.

Winipeg, Man.—Messrs. Micky, Rose and Bert Lubin, were in Winnipeg lately opening offices for the Globe Films. Mr. Lubin went to Winnipeg office and Mr. Rose will go on to Calgary and open an office there. From Calgary Mr. Rose will handle the entire Western territory. Globe Films has brought in the Metro Feature "The Sacker" and also "Redemption" and Billy West Comedies.

Toronto, Ont.—Some very elaborate plans now are under way by the Moving Picture Distribution Committee, the new organization which has been appointed by the Dominion Government to work in conjunction with Food Controller Hanna.

The committee is to have charge of distribution throughout Canada of all films dealing with the conservation of food and allied interests and the first film to be made and which is to be presented to the people by the Food Conservation Committee is called "Everybody's Business." This film will be shown at the Regent Theater, St. Loew's Toronto, the entire week of Oct. 1. "Everybody's Business" is an English film and approximately 1,500 feet and delivers a powerful message along war lines. A feature of the film is the thrilling submarine scenes. It is a vivid, snappy story, and has the sanction of both British and Canadian Government authorities.

Immediately following "Everybody's Business," other films dealing with the Food Conservation and "Win the War" movement are being shown by the Canadian people through this committee.

During the week of Sept. 24, a special film was shown at the Regent Theater, Toronto, called "Redemption," which tells the people something about conserving white bread, bacon, and other food products. This film was well received.

Toronto, Ont.—"The Public Be Damned" was shown at the Strand Theater, Yonge street, the week of Sept. 24. This picture was advertised extensively and advertised advertising which is being done for food conservation campaign. This picture is very timely and played to capacity business all week.

Toronto, Ont.—"Birth," which was shown under the auspices of the Globe Films, Limited, which concern the Canadian right, played to splendid business at Massey Hall the week of Sept. 24. The film was shown to women only, which is a unique feature, as far as the picture business in Canada is concerned, as this is the first time in the history of the country a picture has been shown to women only. All previous efforts to play the picture along this line have failed to secure the sanction of the censor boards, but evidently the lessons of this film got over with it in good style.

Toronto, Ont.—The funeral of Wally Davidson, held Saturday, Sept. 22, was very largely attended by all the film men of Toronto and vicinity. The late Mr. Davidson, who was one of the best known exchange men in film circles in Ontario, died very suddenly after a short illness.

Winipeg, Man.—The operator's and musician's strike in the city of Winnipeg has been brought to a satisfactory close. The musicians, operators and exhibitors compromised. The strike was very successfully handled by the theater managers and none of the theaters were closed at any time during the trouble.

Toronto, Ont.—Globe Films Limited had a screening on Thursday, Sept. 23, for the exhibitors of Ontario of the first feature film made by her own company, the title of the subject being "The Lust of the Ages."

Toronto, Ont.—A number of well known film men in Canada are joining the Globe Films Limited. Sam. Glazer, formerly with the Monarch Films, and Messrs. J. and S. Kaplan of Famous Players have joined the Globe force; also that Mr. Arrow of the Monarch Films has joined Globe as chief accountant.

Toronto, Ont.—T. Coulson, former manager of the Photodrome, has again resumed the management of this live downtown theater. Mr. Coulson left the Photodrome to manage the Globe Theatre.

ARTISTS SKETCH

For one of the scenes made recently for first Petrova Picture at the biographic studio, which Madame Petrova has rented until the completion of the Petrova studios, practically all the artists in Washington Square were coralled. Among them are many well-known magazine cover illustrators.

The set for which Berry North, Mme. Petrova's studio manager, secured New York in search of real artists, is laid in a large studio in Paris where dozens of art students are sketching from one model. Since their easels are shown toward the audience, Mme. Petrova and Director George Irving decided that ordinary "supers" would not do, and that real artists must be secured. The opportunity to be photographed while actually at work on a pastel or wash drawing appealed very strongly to those who have already arrived, as well as to the "near artists" of Greenwich Village and Washington Square, and they flocked to take part in Petrova's picture.

One of the young women, Miss Beatrice Sherman, the miniature and silhouette artist, who was the official "silhouettist" at both the Panama-California International Exposition at San Diego and the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, made several silhouette studies of Madame Petrova which have proved so interesting that they will be used in the same manner as photographs have been used in the publicity work for the Petrova Pictures.

Baltimore, Md.—Henry W. Webb, president of the Parkway Amusement Company, controlling the Parkway, Strand and McHenry Theaters, announces that a new theater will be erected at Charles street and Lafayette avenue.

Toronto, Ont.—Mutual productions held a virtual monopoly on downtown Toronto during the week of September 17. Four big theaters, all within a block of each other, played Mutual pictures on the same day. The four houses are on Yonge street, the principal thoroughfare of Toronto. Gail Kane appeared in "The Bride's Silence" at the Strand, September 20, 21 and 22. William Russell, in "Pride and the Man," was the attraction at His Majesty's Theater, September 20, 21 and 22. At the Red Mill, William Russell appeared in "My Fighting Gentleman" the same three days.

"Lone Star," featuring William Russell, was the attraction at the Empress Theater, September 20, 21 and 22. Just off Yonge street the Maple Leaf Theater played Gail Kane in "The Serpent's Tooth," and "The Vampires." At the vaudeville theater, George Ovey was seen in a Mutual comedy.

"THE STORM WOMAN" FEATURING CLAIRE MCDOWELL WILL LEAD UNIVERSAL PROGRAM FOR OCT. 1

Universal's film schedule for the week of October 1 is headed by a Gold Seal drama, "The Storm Woman," featuring Claire McDowell. The major part of the production consists of a fanciful tale of the tragic life of an Italian woman who is seen every day sitting at a conspicuous post in a big city, with a cage of fortune-telling parakeets before her. The mysterious figure, shrouded in a black shawl, has aroused the curiosity of a cub reporter, who wishes he knew her life story. For a plate of beans and a cup of coffee a broken-down writer agrees to tell him the tale. It proves to be a recital of griping interest, rehearsing the wrongs suffered by the young Italian girl at the hands of an adventurous tourist, her pursuit of him to America, and her final vengeance. The curiosity of the cub seeks further particulars; the parakeet woman, is highly amusing and a complete surprise.

A Nestor comedy, "Pete the Frowler," is the other film for the same day. Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts are the featured players in this film.

For Wednesday, October 3, an L-KO two-reel comedy, "Counting Out the Count," featuring Billy Bevan and Lucille Hutton, is provided. It's all about a Count who wanted to marry Lucille but which Lucille didn't want to marry.

The same day Universal Animated Weekly No. 92 will appear. A two-reel Star Featurette, "A Prairie Romeo," with George Hernandez, is scheduled for Thursday, October 4. This is a western comedy-drama, in which Hernandez takes the part of a banjo-playing Romeo. His serenade meets with a reception decidedly unpleasant at the hands of the boss of the ranch, where his Juliet is employed, as he proceeds to drown his sorrows in the time-honored fashion. Another comedy this one a Joker, featuring Gail Henry and William Franey and titled, "Her Naughty Choice," appears the same day.

Universal Screen Magazine No. 39, with its picturization of timely educational topics, is scheduled for Friday, October 5 and in addition the popular trio, Max Asher, Dave Morris and Gladys Tennyson, will be seen in "Kicked in the Kitchen," a Victor comedy.

"The Lion's Lair," a Bison two-reel animal drama, featuring Eileen Sedgwick and Fred Church, is listed for Saturday, October 6. There are many thrilling situations, in which elphant play an important part. The same day Universal Carries Events, No. 21, is scheduled, with "The Masked Marvels," a Joker comedy, with Gail Henry and Milton Sims.

PUBLICATION DATES OF ALL FOX OCTOBER FILMS MOVED BACK

A change just made in the monthly schedule of Willia Fox's Special Features results in setting back one week ea. of the pictures originally scheduled for October. The revised order of films places "A Rich Man's Plaything" for the week of September 30, instead of "Conscience."

Following is the new schedule: September 30, Velas Suratt in "A Rich Man's Plaything:" October 1, Gladys Broc- well in "Conscience," October 14, Virginia Pearson in "Th Shalt Not Steal!" October 21, June Caprice in "Miss U. S. A. October 28, George Walsh in "This Is The Life."

Two Standard Pictures will be issued. These are "Wh a Man Sees Red," with William Farnum, Oct. 7, and "Alacia and the Wonderful Lamp," the second of the Fox Kidd productions, which with Farnum opened recently at the G. E. Theatre in New York.

"LES MISERABLES" FILM PROGRESSES

Work progresses rapidly now, due to the clear wealt on "Les Miserables." William Farnum's coming product Those who have seen the first reels of the subject pronunc it Mr. Farnum's very finest picture.
INDUSTRY FACES CRISIS BECAUSE OF HIGH RENTALS, SAYS HOFFMAN

sees Death of Small Theaters and Discontinuance of Exhibitions in Vaudeville Houses Unless Saner Prices Prevail

A timely warning was sounded this week to the film trade for the prevention of vaudeville theaters from discontinuing the use of motion pictures altogether, and to keep alive the small motion picture theaters which are threatened with extinction because of the advanced prices of rentals by Mr. Hoffman, through P. V. R. Key, sales and advertising manager for the Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges.

Mr. Hoffman makes a plea for saner prices, which he points out is for the credit of the producer, distributor and exhibitor. In his statement, he says:

"If there ever was a time when those of us in the production and distributing fields of the industry should pause and consider, it is right now. We are racing to the rear with the reins lying loose on the backs of our horses, who are traveling so fast for safety.

Asks for Saner Prices

"Unless we tighten our reins by curbing film costs so that rentals are possible on the basis of sane prices, we are certain to suffer a shrinkage of profit—just as sure as two and two make four.

"Fair prices must always be had, prices commensurate with the value of motion picture product. But once the fifty-point in prices is passed the danger period arrives. That period is now esent, and it behooves the constructive element in the industry to heed the danger which is near. Therefore, I say:

"Big volume in film sold and rented is turned the heads of many concerns the trade. This volume, increasing by bit, has created a situation incorrecly diagnosed by those who neglect to ok sufficiently far ahead for the turns at are ever arising in this most sensitive of all industries.

"Today the industry is face to face with conditions that require the most drastic and preventive losses to producers and distributors on the one side, the exhibitors on the other, and the turning up of many hundreds of thousands of dollars in picture patrons away from the theaters to spend their amusement money with vaudeville houses and legitimate theaters devoted to drama exclusively.

Quick Action Necessary

"This state of affairs must not be permitted to go on. Prompt action is necessary, imperative! For unless corrective measures are quickly applied, the motion picture picture is likely to find itself minus a larger percentage of public attendance at motion picture theaters than it can afford to lose.

"Personally, for the organization I represent, I can say that we shall do our full share to assist in bringing conditions back to normal. And as I never criticize anything for which I am not able to offer a remedy, I want to say this:

"Hoffman-Foursquare intends—and has been doing—ever since its inception—hiring for volume in that degree which will permit the taking of smaller profits on each booking. By such course we can secure the gross profit necessary on even greater quantities of business this method will bring—something that would be impossible if we were to insist on the last penny from every individual exhibitor.

"If others will only proceed similarly everybody will be benefited. We certainly cannot allow exhibitors to see their patrons going elsewhere for their amusement—to fields where the motion picture picture is not used. For if these patrons do go elsewhere the exhibitors will require a smaller number of features; not only that, they will want to economize by passing the superior product for that which is obviously inferior.

Vaudeville Houses Turning

"With the gradual ascendancy of higher prices for desirable features, the vaudeville theaters are confronted with a situation which they must weigh well. Rather than pay from $3,000 to $1,000 a week for a big picture, they are beginning to turn, once more to vaudeville acts instead; acts which will cost less and be more in keeping with the vaudeville form of entertainment.

"As for the small motion picture theaters, the raising of admission prices made compulsory by the rise in rentals have sent their patrons to more desirable theaters. And as this has occurred, the motion picture theaters of the next grade above have lost patronage to those of the next grade above. Similarly, the big theaters—to a considerable extent—have found patrons preferring to pay the same admissions for vaudeville or drama. The remedy lies in the elimination of waste in production; of curtailment of large salaries to so-called executives which are not earned; of a united stand against paying prohibitive salaries to stars, salaries which cannot be earned, and of inexperienced capital passing before plunging into senseless extravagance."

ANITA KING

(Horkheimer-Mutual)

FIRST ANITA KING FILM ON MUTUAL'S SCHEDULE OCT. 8

Miss Anita King, widely known as a screen favorite, makes her initial appearance in Mutual pictures October 8, when "The Girl Angle," the first of a series of productions which she is to make at the Horkheimer studios for Mutual, is published. Miss King went west several months ago under contract with E. D. Horkheimer to appear in five-reeel features. She was placed at work under the direction of Edgar Jones on "The Girl Angle," from the story by L. V. Jefferson. "The Girl Angle" is laid in the West. Miss King is cast as a self-sufficient woman from the East, who, betrayed by a man on her wedding day, has resolved to live her life henceforth entirely away from masculine influence and without masculine assistance.

MR. BRANDT, M. P. E. L. OFFICER NOT ARRESTED: WAS IN CIVIL CASE

"Exhibitors Herald" hastens to correct any false impression which may have been conveyed to readers by Charles C. Petti-

John's statement in an article stating the arrest of Mr. Brandt, executive secretary of the M. P. E. L., which appeared in the issue of September 29.

The proceedings are of civil nature and Mr. Brandt was not placed under arrest. Mr. Pettijohn made the statement in his official capacity as general manager of the A. F. A.

The action in question was not a proceeding under the criminal statute, but was filed under the civil statute on the basis of an infringement of a copyright. The suit of the case is Shapiro, Bernstein & Co., Inc., vs. the Holtz Amusement Company. The latter concern operates the Albany Theater, Brooklyn, N. Y., of which Mr. Brandt is manager. The files marks of the proceeding reveal that this case was filed August 15, 1917, and that the defendant answered on Sept. 1, 1917, through its attorneys.

The complaint in substance charges that the Albany Theater played a copyrighted musical composition entitled "Naughty. Naughty. Naughty" without having procured a license to do so. Mr. Brandt or some officer of his corporation was served with a summons to appear and answer to the complaint of the plaintiff, and he appeared.

We will present at the Orpheum the biggest pictures that can be bought at any price, changing our program every Sunday and Thursday."

JAKE WELLS CALLS
A. E. A. DIRECTORS
MEETING ON OCT. 4

Will Discuss Matters of Vital Im- portance at N. Y. Headquar- ters Session

President Jake Wells of the Ameri- can Exhibitors' Association, has called a meeting of the directors of the A. E. A. to be held at the offices in the Times building, New York City, on Thursday, October 4, at 11 o'clock. Many matters of importance will be dis- cussed at the meeting and an announce- ment of vital interest to the exhibitors will be made at the conclusion of the meeting.

The rapid growth of the American Exhibitors Association has proven without a doubt that the real exhibitors who take pride in their business have desire an organization founded upon business principles and feel that in the A. E. A. they have an association that will as complish something in their behalf. To fight that representatives of the A. E. A. have made in Washington against a prohibitive tax on motion picture theater and the efforts now being made to reac some satisfactory agreement over it music tax have demonstrated that the officiers of this association are working solely in the cause of the exhibitor.

BILLY WEST
(King-See Comedies)
THE most brilliant, spine-thrilling patriotic drama ever made into a motion picture—a picture to challenge the pride and the conscience of all humanity.

Thousands of men organizing and drilling to fight the battle of civilization. Thousands of men marching away to the front and into the jaws of death.

Before your very eyes nations banding together in a blood brotherhood against a common enemy.

Heroes and cowards transformed into supermen of gigantic courage walking and scurrying into a living hell of shells and fumes to bring in the wounded from artillery-raked plains.

Women showing their bravery in the home and at the camps; women living through the Inferno of battle to nurse and stimulate their men to victory; women risking certain death to be near the men they love.

And the arrival of the Stars and Stripes on the battlefront in France in a climax that brings audiences up to their feet with cheers—

Those are the exciting things you see in Captain Edwin Bower Hesser's photopanorama, "FOR THE FREEDOM OF THE WORLD," which will be distributed exclusively throughout all lands by Goldwyn Distributing Corporation under an arrangement made with Ira M. Lowry and his associates, the producers of this great picture.

This completed picture is being made ready for quick release and trade showings are now being arranged for all Goldwyn offices. Write or telegraph at once for bookings and information.

Sirs,

I want you to know that after experimenting with several other makes of machines we have finally decided to adopt the Simplex projector simply because we have been convinced that there is nothing on the market that will give the results obtained from the Simplex projector.

As you know the Rialto standard demands the very finest work possible, regardless of expense, and it is the aim of the writer at all times to improve and to not alone satisfy the standard but to make it better and better. And no one knows of the writer’s work better than you. Having invented the Simplex machine for the theatre after these experiments I am a tribute to you and your product that I know you will be glad to receive.

Very truly yours,

CHICAGO
CRIMINAL EXTRAVAGANCE IN WARTIME

A BIG outstanding fact which frequently causes the thoroughly sane outside commercial world to stop and wonder curiously at the motion picture industry is the fabulous salaries exacted and paid certain of the "big stars."

The productiveness of any business which has yet appeared upon the face of the earth can be tested beyond reason; and the extraordinary drain which has been placed upon the motion picture industry in the way of veritable fortunes paid for the services of stars is leaving in its wake a variety of most sinister symptoms.

The exhibitor's share of these irrational salaries is the exorbitant rental fee which makes very remote, in many cases, the prospect of profitable operation of his theatre; the distributor's share is the limiting of his market and the producer's share—the producer who has retained his sanity in the face of unreasonable salary demands—is to have meritorious productions passed over for the fictitious allurement of a "big star's" name.

Commercial jealousy, that venial trait which attends in some quantity every walk of business life, is the quicksand foundation upon which the entire structure of fabulous salaries has been reared. In ordinary times such a course is pretty much the exclusive business of the individuals concerned, but with the nation at war and the government practically shouldering the burden of a dozen countries' battles the absurdity of paying out thousands upon thousands of dollars in excessive salaries is nothing short of criminal.

We might as well face the situation soberly: The motion picture industry escaped by a hair's breadth the imposition of a tax at the hands of Congress that would have been utterly ruinous, and, during the deliberations of the committee, contemplation of the excessive tax was predicated on the apparent ability of certain companies to pay salaries which have never been even nearly duplicated in the history of business.

The excessive salary almost brought this disaster upon the film business and in case of the enactment of such a law Congress would undoubtedly have had little difficulty in justifying its position, inasmuch as a tax is aimed to reach all within the class and the weak must be affected with the strong.

Undoubtedly the popular player is a big asset to the business. Such a player develops a following that can be attracted to the theatre under the most unfavorable circumstances. But measured in dollars and cents there is a definite limitation to the worth of any player or all the players now before the public—and the worth falls far short of a million or a half million dollars annually.

Neither the motion picture industry nor any other business can pay individuals a half million dollars a year for their services. Such a course is utterly without economic justification. The only way that such can be done even temporarily is to burden and hinder the proper development of the business and eventually bring it very near collapse.

Exhibitors have come to recognize that they can make a profit with certain players of nation-wide popularity but, unfortunately, in certain instances they have not also recognized that they can only make such a profit by being able to rent the picture at a sane, reasonable price. Regardless of the popularity of the player there is a definite limitation to the amount they are able to pay, because there is a definite limitation to the possible revenue, due directly to restricted seating capacity.

The exorbitant salary is the distinct invention of certain producers: the exhibitor had no voice in its making and he cannot be expected to bear the burden of its existence indefinitely.

Pettijohn Promises Sweeping Reforms For All Exhibitors

A. E. A making big drive to wipe out exorbitant rentals unreasonable deposits, and pay for return shipments of film, he tells Chicago branch; asks members' solid support

Promising theater owners that the American Exhibitors' Association will wipe out exorbitant film rental prices, which prevail under the "star system," control the practice of paying for return shipments of film, put an end to unreasonable advance deposits, and get a twenty-five per cent reduction in the music tax demanded by the publishers, A. E. A. last week admonished exhibitor-members. C. Pettijohn of the Chicago A. E. A. branch to solidify and stand firmly back of the national organization which is making a drive to better conditions for the exhibitors throughout the United States and Canada.

The biggest majority of Chicago's most representative exhibitors concluded a speech-making tour of the various Canadian, Eastern and Central States A. E. A. branches. The tour was a prelude to an important meeting called by President Jake Wells, at the national headquarters in the Times Building, New York, October 4, which was attended by officers, directors and exhibitor members.

"The quick growth of the A. E. A. has proved that theater owners who take pride in their business have long before this time desired an organization founded upon strictly business principles," said Mr. Pettijohn. "But it is quite obvious that no great degree of success can be reached in purging the industry of its vils unless we have perfect union and more money.

Could Have Beaten Tax

"Members must not only pay their membership fees, but they must donate to the treasury what they can afford. If we had had $3,000 more with which to carry on the fight against the ten per cent tax in Washington, the A. E. A. alone could have brought about its defeat."

"Give me fifty members in each state, and I can go to any film manufacturer and concern and get pictures for A. E. A. exhibitors at reasonable prices. We will be able to book Paramount pictures, not at $100 a day, but get them for $45."

"Paramount will not refuse to rent its pictures to a large combination of exhibitors, when the concern can actually handle on any large group of theater owners, and remit them rental at a much lower rate than originally fixed.

Wants 3,000 at Detroit

"I want three thousand A. E. A. members at the Detroit convention in 1918. After this, I hope to talk to every exhibitor. It will be a vastly different feeling in the industry toward the exhibitor. There will be a considerably lower rental prices, and believe me, exhibitors who are members of this organization will not have to pay advance deposits or return express charges on films.

"Many exhibitors wonder why the A. E. A. did not affiliate with the N. A. M. I. The best such an affiliation would do for the A. E. A. would be much useless ability. The N. A. M. I. signed and approved a brief for a ten per cent x upon exhibitors to be levied by the government. Lee A. Ochs also signed it as a member of his league and said it was a member of N. A. M. I. Neither of these organizations has been of any material value to the business men operating motion picture pictures.

"The situation, in brief, is this: down New York there is a crowd in the A. M. P. I. Whenever this crowd will insult me, somebody calls up Lee. Lee accordingly sends wires to the executive members of his league and gets their approval. Ochs and the N. A. M. P. I. got exhibitors to approve signing the brief favoring the ten per cent tax which these exhibitors were virtually forcing themselves to pay.

Hold Stock in Paper

"About twenty-two members of the N. A. M. P. I. hold stock in Ochs' trade paper, and there are not three hundred members in Ochs' league. The Chicago branch has twenty-two members, most of whom are not exhibitors, and they are affiliated with exchanges. Yet the N. A. M. P. I. recognizes this league, and would not take us into the N. A. M. P. I. simply because we would not sanction things this organization might do to hurt the exhibitor.

"The A. E. A. never will panhandle with expositions and trade shows to get money for written letters to its members about things which might be good for exhibitors, but which ideas never are carried out.

"So far the American Exhibitors' Association has spent $6,000 in cash to do things for the exhibitor. We have done things, and we will do still greater things which will not only benefit American and Canadian exhibitors who are members of the A. E. A. but will benefit every exhibitor in both countries whether or not he may be a member of another exhibitors' organization.

Gets Music Tax Cut

"We now have an agreement with the music publishers giving A. E. A. exhibitors who wish to play the copyrighted music a twenty-five per cent cheaper rate. Other exhibitors have to pay the full rate. Ochs is asking exhibitors to remit $3 to fight the music combine. The Supreme Court upholds the copyright law allowed composers and publishers of music, and Ochs cannot beat it. The truth of the matter is

Chicago Exchanges Asked to Move From "Loop" by Underwriters Board

Pathe and Art Drama's Fires Cause Investigation; Plan Seen as Only Measure to Avoid Repetition of Conflagrations Which Destroyed Much Property

As a result of the Pathe and Art Drama's fires a quiet investigation has been conducted by the Board of Underwriters of the various buildings housing the exchanges in Chicago; and it is said the exchanges have been asked to move out of the business section to avoid a repetition of these fires.

The Mallers building on Wabash avenue and the Consumers building on State street now are the headquarters of several of the large exchanges. The companies have been working with the Underwriters' committee and a plan has been worked out to segregate the exchanges a block south of the city. A site has not yet been decided upon, but it is planned to have a fire-proof structure, such as the Godfrey building in New York City, where films may be stored without danger of destruction from fire.

Herbert Lubin of General Enterprises, Inc., was removed from his home in New York, September 29 to the Stern Hospital on West End avenue, suffering from an acute case of appendicitis. An immediate operation was necessary, owing to the advanced stage of the disease. The operation was performed by Dr. William Engel, a noted surgeon, who states that Mr. Lubin passed successfully through the ordeal. An early recovery is looked for.

Worsley to Direct
Rhea Mitchell in New Paralta Play

Wallace Worsley will direct Rhea Mitchell's first independent star picture, made at the Paralta studios in Hollywood, to be published under the executive direction of Paralta Plays, Inc. Mr. Worsley is an actor and director of wide experience, both on the stage and screen. He made a notable appearance as "Henry Jenks" in support of J. Warren Kerrigan in "A Man's Man."

BRENNON'S BUSINESS OFFICES MOVED TO HUDSON HEIGHTS

Herbert Brenon has transferred his business offices to his studio on Hudson Heights where he has erected a special building.

Since breaking relations with Lewis J. Selznick, Mr. Brenon has given up his offices in the Godfrey Building and with the entire staff of the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation he has transferred his offices to the new headquarters.

His offices on Hudson Heights have been fitted out with all modern equipments and have been built with the idea of increasing their size as necessity demands.

SCENES FROM "YOUNG MOTHER HUBBARD"

A TRAVESTY ON THE OLD FAIRY TALE FEATURING LITTLE MARY MEALISTER (Essaner)
U. S. Tax Is Death Blow to Big Per Cent of Ten-cent Houses

Charles C. Pettijohn in the following statement declares that he believes the federal tax on motion picture theatres as it now exists will put out of business twenty-five per cent of the theatres now charging ten cents for admission. He also makes a plea to every exhibitor in the country to make a complete report thirty days after the tax goes into effect, to the headquarters of either of the exhibitor’s organizations, giving the executive’s figures upon which to base an appeal in December, at least for the exemption of tax on theatres charging ten cents for admission. His statement follows:

“The war tax will cause a great hardship, especially on theatres which have a ten-cent admission charge. The motion picture exhibitors of the United States have been most willing to do their bit for Uncle Sam. Their screens have been at the disposal of the government for war loan, food conservation, Red Cross and other government propaganda work. I have never heard of a single theater in the United States refusing to cooperate in this great work.

“I believe that the tax as it now exists will put 25 per cent of the 10-cent houses out of business. Another 25 per cent will take the chance of raising the price, or dropping back to a 5-cent program. And probably 10 per cent will be able to continue a 10-cent program as before.

As the tax now stands, the film theatres throughout the country will be taxed to the extent of $67,000,000 per annum, while the speaking stages theatres will pay only $23,000,000 in taxes.

Chaplin Leaves Mutual Corp. and Starts
His Initial Comedy Film for National Circuit

Los Angeles, Cal.—Charles Chaplin having completed his contract with the Mutual Film Corporation, has started work on his first production for the First National Exhibitors Circuit under his $90,000 contract. He will produce eight comedies of two-reels each in eighteen months.

John Jasper, who has been with Chaplin for some time at the Lone Star studios will continue in the same capacity under the new Chaplin contract.

1. S. Battalion Appears in “Les Miserables”
Film in Uniforms of French Soldiers

In order to secure men with military training to represent the French guard in the filming of the William Fox spectacle, “Les Miserables,” at Fort Lee, N. J., recently, a battalion of soldiers from the 71st regiment, encamped at Van Craldand Park, New York, was borrowed for the occasion.

While most of the 71st regiment men were in French uniforms, others which did not necessitate their appearance before the camera were detailed to other work, and during a lull in picture taking these men in khaki conceived the happy idea of having their pictures taken in the “Paris” street, where they expect shortly to be seen in reality. Cameras were produced and snapshots taken of the soldiers sitting at Parisian cafe tables, under awnings and before signs in French.

Brenon Recruiting
Character Actors for “Empty Pockets”

Herbert Brenon is recruiting the character actors for his latest product, “Empty Pockets,” from the novel written by Rupert Hughes, from the ranks of the Jewish actors and actresses on New York’s East side and also from the ranks of Broadway’s foremost players.

Bert Lytell who made his screen debut in “The Lone Wolf” with such success will be again seen in this picture while Barbara Castleton will play the role of Muriel Schuyler.

Mr. Brenon has engaged Kitty Gallanta, as Maryla, Malcolm Williams as Perry Merrifish, Susan Willa as Red Ida, Henry Leon as Angelo Angeloillo, Ben Graham, Thorton Baston, Frank Nelson, Joseph Chailles, Germaine Bourville, Inex Shannon, Peggy Betts, Mr. Ackman, Mr. Rothstein, Nathan Marcus, Ethel Kaufman, Peggy Shaw, Mrs. Mandel and Mrs. Rosen.

Fx’s “Aladdin” Is in Last Week at
N. Y. Globe Theatre

Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp,” Alman Fox’s film adaptation of the fascinating Arabian Nights tale, has lasted its third and last week at the 504 Theatre in New York.

U. S. TICKETS SEEN AS AID
“Amy understanding is that this matter will be regulated in such manner that the tax will be paid by the persons seeking admission.

“If the government would print tickets in the sum of 11c, 17c, 22c and 26c, and sell these tickets to motion picture exhibitors for 1c, 2c, 5c and 3c. It would simplify the detail work at the box office of the theaters and insure the government a full return on the tax without a separate checking.

“Every exhibitor in the United States will make a complete report 30 days after the tax goes into effect, to the headquarters of either of the exhibitors’ organizations, it would give us some intelligent figures and something upon which to base an appeal in December, at least for the exemption of tax on 10-cent admission.

ADMISSION RAISE NECESSARY
“THe exemption of 5-cent admissions only was, in my opinion, a mistake: 5, 10, 15 and 25-cent theaters should have been exempted or no theaters should have been exempted. It is not the best thing for a business which is trying to elevate itself to encourage their lowest form of work and place the burden upon those who are trying to raise the standard.

“The prices of food commodities have continually climbed and the prices of almost everything has been advanced. It appears now that admission to motion picture theaters will have to be raised. There is nothing to do between now and next December but make the best of the situation, and prepare to intelligently show by carefully compiled figures that the tax on 10-cent theaters should be eliminated in December.”

Alice Brady Starts First Select Picture, "Her Silent Sacrifice"

Well known players to appear in supporting cast of film under direction of Edward Jose in Paragon Studio at Fort Lee

Work was begun this week in the Paragon Studio at Fort Lee on the first of Alice Brady's Select pictures. The name of this production has been changed from "The Red Mouse" to "Her Silent Sacrifice." The former title was that under which the play by Henry W. J. Dam was produced when it was given its New York presentation. The scenario of "Her Silent Sacrifice" was prepared from this material by Eve Unsell.

In the cast which is being selected to support Miss Brady are Robert Payson Gibbs, Henry Clive, Blanche Craig and Edmund Pardo. The production is being directed by Edward Jose, whose "Poppy" and "The Moth" have been Norma Talmadge's two most successful productions.

The story of the picture is that of a young girl who enters into a bargain with an old rose of a prince by the terms of which she secures fame for the starring artist whom she loves. How this obligation is met forms the central theme of "Her Silent Sacrifice."

Adolfo Roca Opens Cuban Doors To U. S. Films with Mutual Plays

Prominent Havana Importer and Distributor Closes Contract Through Oceanic Corp. to Handle Production in Island Republic

Some months ago negotiations were started by the Oceanic Film Corporation and Adolfo Roca, who is a prominent film importer and distributor of Havana, Cuba, for the establishment in Havana of a proper representation of the different films issued under the Mutual banner.

Matters were brought to a head by Mr. Roca making a special trip to Chicago, where he conferred with the Oceanic Film Corporation and the executive powers of the Mutual Film Corporation. The result of the visit was a confirmation of a contract running into six figures, whereby Mr. Roca will devote his energies, and his efficient organization to the distribution of the well known Mutual productions. As a proof of the initial impulse that he is giving to placing Mutual films at the pinnacle of the industry in Cuba, Mr. Roca has made arrangements whereby they will first be shown in the "Gran Teatro Fausto," which theater compares very favorably with the "Strand" or "Rialto" of New York.

It is a well known fact that due to the machinations of certain Cuban importers, American films were deliberately kept out of Cuba, but Mr. Roca very readily saw in the productions of the Mutual Film Corporation just that class of subjects that he knew would appeal to all the different elements that make up the Cuban audiences, and which belief he substantiated by entering into the aforementioned contract.

ROTHACKER VISITS CAPITAL

Watterson R. Rothacker, head of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company of Chicago, has been in Washington, D. C. on business connected with the war co-operation committee for the motion picture industry, of which William A. Brady is the head. Mr. Rothacker also is a member of the advisory board of the American Red Cross Bureau of Motion Pictures.

PETTJOHN PROMISES REFORM

that Ochs is not really fighting for the exhibitors, but he is asking the exhibitors to contribute money to fight the case of Mr. Brandt, executive secretary of the Ochs league, who is being sued by the publishers on a charge of playing music in his theater in violation of the copyright law.

The title of this case as filed in New York is Shapiro, Bernstein & Co., Inc., vs. the Holtz Amusement Co. The latter concern operates the Albany Theatre in Brooklyn, N. Y. The suit hinges on whether the theater played a song entitled "After You, My Love," Snaggletooth, or whether it did not. It amounts to an argument in court. This is where the money will go which is contributed by exhibitors to fight the music tax.

Used Business Diplomacy

"The A. E. A. has made no fight against the decision of the Supreme Court, but has conferred with the publishers who have given us a twenty-five cent cheaper rate, and where an exhibitor will show the A. E. A. that he is not making more expenses with his theatre through the agreement with the A. E. A., we will get him completely exempt from paying any tax and he can play the copyrighted music. We went at it in a business way, and accomplished great deal for the exhibitors."

Other A. E. A. officials who accompanied Mr. Pettitjohn and who talked with exhibitors of the Chicago branch were Frank J. Rembusch, president of the Indiana local, and national organizer; Steffes of Minneapolis, who leads the Minnesota state branch, and A. C. Zieg, secretary of the Indianapolis local.

Brenon's "Romanoff"

Film Gets Another Week on Broadway

Despite all announcements to the contrary "The Fall of the Romanoffs," Herbert Brenon's latest screen play did come to a close this week at the Broadway theatre where it has been running for the past two weeks.

Efforts have been made on the part of the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation for the past week to get the agreement to give them an extra week let on the theatre. Previous bookings seemingly made it impossible, as these were changed, and the feature will continue another week.

"The Fall of the Romanoffs" has been the past two weeks been playing to houses.

Housewives League Endorses Food Fix

The National Housewives' League organization of vast influence throughout the country, through its president, Mrs. Julian Heath, has endorsed the film drama, "The Public Be Darned."

In a letter to Arthur S. Kane, general manager of the Select Pictures Corporation, Mrs. Heath characterizes the picture as most opportune and deserving of assistance in adjusting the food control situations.
Williamson Bros. Completely Reorganize to Widen Scope of Activities, is Report

The Williamson Brothers, of New York, who were the originators and producers of submarine film attractions, are preparing to widen the scope of their activities, it is reported, and with this end in view have effected a complete reorganization of the company.

The new executives under the reorganized concern are as follows: G. M. Williamson, president; J. E. Williamson, co-president and G. Vernon Meakin, secretary-treasurer. The directors are F. Cathey, Wm. H. Griffin, G. M. Williamson, J. E. Williamson, G. Vernon Meakin and J. E. Holley.

Through the invention of the inverted periscope the Williamsons were able to take undersea pictures that opened an exclusive field for photoplays and their "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" and "The Submarine Eye" won instant favor with motion picture theater patrons. It is said the company is preparing many innovations in the way of original undersea dramas that will surpass anything they have attempted heretofore.

with more than forty of the greatest artists of stage and screen. All of the stars who appear in this picture donated their services free of charge as a patriotic undertaking and the companies in whose studios the pictures were taken and in whose laboratories they were prepared for distribution have given their services without thought of compensation.

Ten Concerns Are Named

Distribution of the finished product is placed in the hands of the Committee of which Adolph Zukor is chairman; the other members of which are Marcus Loew, William J. Ziegler, Roy Del Ruth and George K. Spoor. This committee has arranged for ten of the largest distributing concerns, all of which are members of the National Association of Motion Picture Industry, to handle the actual distribution of the pictures through their various exchanges. In order to avoid any possibility of confusion each episode has been assigned exclusively to two of the ten companies as follows:

The first episode will be handled by Universal and Vitagraph; the second by Metro and Paramount; the third by Fox and Goldwyn; the fourth by Pathé and Triangle; the fifth by World and Select. Each of these ten companies will have five episodes of each picture and one episode which it has been designated to handle.

Under this arrangement it will be necessary for any exhibitor who desires to show any five episodes to take into immediate contact with either concern in the respective five groups which are handling the distribution. In other words, if he wishes to show any five episodes he must obtain the first either from Universal or Vitagraph as he finds more convenient; for the second he must take either from Metro or Paramount and for the third either to Fox or Goldwyn and so on until he has completed the five episodes.

No Cost to Exhibitor

Exhibitors are earnestly requested to facilitate the handling of these pictures to the greatest possible extent and it is particularly called to their attention that the pictures are to be booked absolutely without any cost to themselves, inasmuch as there is no rental charge and the express charges are borne by the respective exchanges.

The campaign will open immediately and exhibitors are urged to get into touch with the exchanges of any one of the ten companies listed above which are handling the production.

Rex Ingram Joins Walthall Company

Rex Ingram, the well known photoplay director, who has been responsible for many of the most notable Bluebird successes, has been engaged by Robert Brunton, director of productions at the Paralta studios in Hollywood, Calif., to direct the making of "His Robe of Rosary" in which Henry B. Walthall will make his debut as an independent star-manager, under the executive direction of Paralta Plays, Inc. Mr. Ingram, whose name and reputation are looked upon as one of the most capable men on the western coast.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN TWO SCENES FROM "THE MAN FROM PAINTED POST"

Jus Edwards to Write Music for Robards "Mothers of Men," Suffrage Propaganda Film

H. J. Shepard of Shepard & Van Buren, the representative of the Willis Robards feature, "Mothers of Men," announces a novel scheme for the exploitation of the big suffrage propaganda picture. In fact, it is the first time that advertising campaign of this kind has ever been attempted in the industry.

Joseph W. Stern, one of the largest music publishers in the business, and one of the most successful in the exploitation of popular songs, is putting out a number written directly around the picture. The music of this march song has been written by Gus Edwards. The words carrying the thought of the piece are by Will D. Cobb, a lyric writer, entitled, like the picture "Mothers, Men," and its sentiment and swing must help but make it an instantaneous hit with the public.

The large department stores and also the largest syndicate of five- and ten-cent stores throughout the country has contracted to display and carry the song, which will be published simultaneously with the picture. It will be sung by baret singers, and also on the vaudeville stage over the entire country. In short, everything that can be done to bring it to public notice will be accomplished. A unique cover which has been designed for the music will be used as a twenty-four sheet poster for the picture, so that the two will be definitely connected throughout.

It is felt that this will be one of the most successful and satisfactory campaigns ever undertaken, and the picture ought to sweep the country. It is certain that such a campaign will be of inestimable service to the exhibitor, for the picture will practically be made before it is even released.

In addition to the above, a popular and well-known author has been engaged to novelize the picture, and that also will be put on the market as an addition to the advertising program.

Such a book cannot fail to find instant popularity with the public, for the theme is one which will interest every woman throughout the country, as it answers many questions which have been the subject of hot debate during the past few years.

D.W. Griffith Taps Directing Talent of John G. W. Fredricks for "Caprice"

D.W. Griffith, who is always interested in bringing his methods to the highest possible artistic level, has engaged John G. W. Fredricks to direct his forthcoming production "Caprice" and give the world what in his opinion will be a genuinely modern picture.

Mr. Fredricks is a native of France, where he studied and by whom it is claimed to be the most advanced cameraman in the business.

Douglas Fairbanks Joins M. G. M.

Douglas Fairbanks, long known as the king of the silent screen, has joined the M. G. M. organization as an owner and producer, with the immediate goal of being a "picture maker." His next picture will be "The Man from Painted Post," and it is reported that he has arranged to produce the picture under the conditions that he will be the producer, publisher, and distributor of the picture. This is a very unusual arrangement, and if successful will mark a new departure in the motion picture industry.

CRITERION THEATER OF ATLANTA SIGNS
SELECT PICTURES

Sig Samuels Will Show Entire List of Concern's Features Produced This Year

Select Pictures, through the Atlanta (Ga.) representative, Walter Price, has just signed a contract with Sig Samuels proprietor of the Criterion Theatre, to play the entire list of Select pictures during the coming season. The Criterion Theatre is unique among picture houses in this section of the South, in that this theatre puts on feature plays for a solid week's run, and the one picture constitutes the entire program.

The Criterion is a new house situated on Peachtree Street in the heart of Atlanta. The week run feature was constituted by the owners about five months ago and has proved a great success. There is no doubt largely due to the splendid exploitation methods used by House Manager Paterson in presenting a traction to the Atlanta public.

POSES OF CHARLOTTE, THE SKATER, AND JACK MEREDITH

Carl Laemmle Takes Control of Bluebirds; Managing-Director to Supervise Activities

Manufacturer Will Have Charge of Producing and Distributing All Forthcoming Features; to Broaden Concern's Policy and Introduce Innovations

Having finally arranged his otherwise extensive motion picture holdings so that he will have time to devote himself to his favorite interests, Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Co., has taken over the active control of both the production and distribution of Bluebird photoplays. From the time this series of program features was introduced to exhibitors and their patrons, nearly two years ago, the details of production have been carefully supervised by Mr. Laemmle at Universal City, Cal.

The increased activities in Bluebird affairs, which Mr. Laemmle now assumes, as managing-director, will involve his full participation in the most important advances the series has made since its establishment; making a broadening of policy that has for some time been contemplated, and the introduction of innovations still to be announced. Every matter of policy, distribution, production and advertising, in all essential details, will, in future, have the managing-director's personal attention.

"Bluebirds of the past have fulfilled our every expectation," says Mr. Laemmle. "It is to Bluebirds of the future that I will now devote myself in an active and personal manner. My interests in Bluebird have been controlling from the outset, but the multiplicity of kindred assets have kept me so well occupied that I could not apply myself to anything apart from the details of Bluebird productions. The preparation of our attractions for the screen has always been under my supervision, but I am now assuming additional charge of every other detail of Bluebird affairs. The arrangements I have perfected for the forwarding of my other moving picture interests gives me the opportunity I have eagerly sought—to closely devote myself to Bluebird's every department.

The new season is under way, our maturing plans are fast adjusting themselves and this seems to be the very time for me to act upon the earnest promptings of our stockholders and become managing-director of Bluebird's interests. Of first importance to exhibitors and the general supporting public that has made Bluebird an abundantly successful program will be the announcement of Bluebird's "Star-Cycle," in which six talented players will star at the head of selected organizations arriving in stipulated succession—each star appearing every sixth week in a new production created especially to enhance the talents of the individual player."

Skating Carnival Scene for Commonwealth Film with Charlotte to Be Made Oct. 1

Six Reel Production Featuring Noted Ice Skater and Jack Meredith Being Made in Chicago, Progresses Rapidly, Spanuth Announces

H. A. Spanuth, president of the Commonwealth Pictures Corporation of Chicago announces that work is progressing rapidly on the concern's initial feature production in six reels, which stars Charlotte, the noted ice skater.

The skating carnival, which, when finished, will be the biggest scene in the picture, will be photographed October 15, at the Arena, Chicago's largest ice skating palace.

The picture now is being assembled and the first reel, which has been screened, is remarkable in many ways, it is said, not only for its photographs, but also for its picturesqueness, its action and general interest. Jack Meredith, the leading man, is supported by a good cast. Oscar Eagle, director, expresses himself as highly pleased with the film, and others who have seen the play are enthusiastic over it.

LIBERTY LOAN MEN SELL MANY BONDS
AT ESSANAY PLAN

Solicitors for the second Liberty Loan found open doors and check books for their canvass of the Essanay plant at the launching of the campaign the week October 1. When a delegation representing the Chicago committee called on the plant they were informed by Geo. F. Spoor that the studio was theirs on a trip through the plant netted the solicitors many sales of bonds.
Goldwyn Will Aid Exhibitors by an Ad
Campaign in the Saturday Evening Post

Focus Attention of Public on Theatres in Which Concern's Productions Are Being Shown; Is Start of a Vast Publicity Plan to Introduce Stars and Plays

Goldwyn Pictures, now launched throughout America, will be further induced directly to the American public through the inauguration in the Saturday Evening Post, beginning October 3, of an advertising campaign to aid exhibitors who are playing Goldwyn productions.

Despite the fact that by the contracts of responses of the public Goldwyn has already proved the drawing power of its stars and the productions thus far anounced, Samuel Goldfish felt that there as still one big step to be taken to focus the attention of the nation's population on the theaters in which these productions will be seen in all communities.

Wholesome Films
Takes New Office
In Chicago “Loop”

Concern Moves From Consumers to College Building, 207 S.
Wabash Avenue

The Wholesome Films Corporation, chicago, of which M. J. Weisfeldt is general manager, this week moved its general offices from the Consumers's building to the College building, 207 south Wabash.

This concern launched its initial feature, “The Penny Philanthropist,” Sep-ember 15, dealing direct with exhibit-ts and inaugurated the policy of paying press charges both ways to any point the United States.

Washington-Lafayette Meeting Paralleled in Pershing-Joffre Affair in “Lest We Forget”

Historical Episode of 1776 Depicted in Rita Jolivet Feature by U. S. Troops; German Invasion of Belgium to Offer Spectacular Scenes

No expense is being spared in the production of “Lest We Forget,” the international film drama in which Lewis
J. Selznick will soon present Rita Jolivet, the French actress.

A battalion of United States troops from the national camp at Yonkers was engaged to represent a meeting between the armies of Washington and Lafayette, and a similar meeting in modern times between those of Joffre and Pershing. The costuming of the men was under the supervision of Miss Jolivet, and the scenes were staged in Van Cortlandt Park, New York City.

Despite the fact that the scenes for which the soldiers posed will occupy less than a minute in the showing, in the finished picture every detail of equipment was faithfully carried out.

A French village was also built, as well as a complete trench system, and other details of the European war will be reproduced, such as the German invansion of Belgium and Northern France, and the destruction of Bois Les Rose.

ETHEL CLAYTON IN SCENES FROM “THE DORMANT POWER”
Essanay Program of Features

Ready for Trade Up to 1918

Notable Players Have Big Roles in Dramatic and Comedy Films Now Ready; Again Issues Chaplin and Ade Plays

A complete program of feature productions up to the first of the year are ready for exhibitors, Essanay announces this week.

Taylor Holmes, the noted stage comedian, in “Fools for Luck,” the current release, heads the list.

“The False One,” the next October film, is a comedy-drama based on married life, starring Bryant Washburn and Virginia Valli.

Little Mary McAllister, Essanay’s six-year-old star, will appear next in “Young Mother Hubbard,” a travesty on the old nursery story, written especially for the little actress by Charles Mortimer Peck.

Mr. McAllister will hit his third screen appearance in “Two Bit Seats,” the action of which was adapted from the American magazine story of the same title, by Gladys Franklin. Miss Clayton appears in the leading feminine role. The picture deals with a young spendthrift who can’t afford midnight suppers, and a girl who refuses to make him, but encourages thrift. The spendthrift reforms, then they call a minister.

There is plenty of action in “The Kill Joy,” in which little Miss McAllister, plays the only feminine role in the picture. The story concerns a child who is the idol of a rough-and-tumble mining camp.

“The Small Town Guy,” Mr. Holmes’ fourth picture, is taken from the Munsey Magazine story, “The Picture of Innocence,” by Freeman Tilden. Mr. Holmes enacts the role of a small-town hotel clerk who unconsciously becomes the tool of bunco men, and Miss Ferguson plays the part of the sweetheart who rescues him.

Jack Gardner and Miss Ferguson play the leading roles in “Gift of Gab.” “Sadie Goes to Heaven,” is the title of another Little Mary McAllister picture, adapted from the same novel to which appeared in Good Housekeeping magazine. The foregoing pictures all have a screen time of approximately 65 minutes. They are being published on the Perfection Pictures program through the George Kleine exchanges.

In addition, new prints of the original Essanay-Chaplin comedies will be issued monthly. Also, new Fables written by George Ade, with a screen time of twenty-five minutes, are being published monthly through the General Film Co.

A picture in which Mary McLane, the author of unconventional books, will play the vampire in one of her own works, “Men Who Have Made Love to Me,” soon will be ready for exhibitors. It will have a screen time of 65 minutes.

Beginning Dec. 1, twelve educational and scenic subjects, with screen time of fifteen minutes each, will be published. Also, a series of fifteen-minute “slapstick” comedies will be ready soon.

A new subject based on Japanese life, starring Tsuru Aoki, and Frank Borzage will be an early film. The title is “The Curse of Iku,” and the screen time is 75 minutes.

Ernest Shipman to Handle Only Best Film Plays in His N. Y. Clearing House

Ernest Shipman, who has established a New York Clearing House for feature pictures, states that he will handle none but the best, as quality and not quantity will be the slogan of his outfit. Only those owners of ex-museum picture must agree to a fair and reasonable market price being asked for their product before Mr. Shipman will place them before the state rights buyers.

“Infated quotations not only delay operations but in a great many cases, lose first and best opportunity for a quick sale,” says Mr. Shipman.

“Buyers are becoming wise by experience. Their value is timeable. First impressions are best, and a campaign or a trade stunt is rather expeditious number of success, than to cause my avenues of distribution by a lot of medium product. Two out of ten pictures. Nine of them would never have been made if the producers had considered the demands of the market before they started to manufacture. Two out of ten being held at a high price by the owners. When a reasonable profit basis has been agreed upon I will be only too glad to exploit them, for they are both splendid, and will get money for the state rights buyers and exhibitors.”

Schwerin Reports

Good Trade for Pittsburgh Select

C. F. Schwerin, who recently assumed the management of the Pittsburgh office for Select Pictures, announces a brisk trade on the new concerns’ productions in the Pennsylvania territory.

Mr. Schwerin is a well known figure at Pittsburgh exchange circles, and widely known among exhibitors throughout the entire territory, where he is exploiting Select productions.

“Travelaugh” Film

To Be Issued by Universal Mfg. Co.

In addition to his duties as the feature cartoonist of the Animated Weekly, H. Mayer has just made an arrangement with Universal whereby he will do a unique series of “Travelaugs,” to be issued monthly during the coming year.

The first of these humorous commentaries on life as it is lived in the highway and byways of the metropolis was recently shown at the Broadway Theatre, where it aroused much favorable comment. It is entitled, “New York As Seen By H. Mayer,” and will be published throughout the country without delay. As a combination of photography and cartooning, the reel has a refreshing element of novelty that lifts it out of the class of the stereotyped travel trip screenland.

Cameraman Joins Army

Willard Van der Veer, cameraman who recently returned from a trip through the West Indies for Gaumo Company’s screen magazine, “Red Life,” has enlisted and is now serving in the cinematographic section of the Sigm. Corps. He expects to start for France at once.
Metro Films to Distribute Hoffman Plays in Canada; Five Features Now Are Ready

Entire Output of Foursquare Productions Will Be Published to Dominion Trade Through Principal Exchanges at Toronto and Montreal

One of the most important transactions of the past month in the motion picture distribution field was concluded this week in New York between M. H. Hoffman, Inc., and the Metro Films Service of Canada. M. H. Hoffman and J. J. Unger, representing their respective organizations, arranged for the distribution of the entire Hoffman-Foursquare product in Canada through the Metro Films Service, whose principal exchanges are situated in Montreal and Toronto.

"This arrangement," said Mr. Hoffman, "could not be more satisfactory if I had installed entire staffs in both Toronto and Montreal exchanges. Mr. Unger’s organization is so well equipped to serve Hoffman-Foursquare Canadian patrons that I would add nothing to what he has, and is preparing to include, in both his exchanges in order to handle our product in the same way we would handle it if we had no affiliations whatsoever.

"Special salesmen already have been engaged to devote themselves solely to the booking of Hoffman-Foursquare pictures; there will be special departments that are Hoffman-Foursquare in every respect—bookings, bookkeeping, auditing, shipping, advertising and other service.

"The advantages in establishing such a co-operative arrangement with Mr. Unger’s distributing company are of peculiar advantage in Canada and will work to our advantage. Knowing all this, I feel particularly gratified, because Canada could not be more advantageously handled under any different plan.

"The first pictures to be distributed in Canada will be 'The Bar Sinister,' 'The Sin Woman,' 'Madame Sherry,' 'The Silent Witness,' and 'The Fringe of Society.'"

Theda Bara in First Broadway Appearance Oct. 15 at Lyric in Wm. Fox’s "Cleopatra"

Delineator of Vampire Roles Appears in Costly Screen Version of Shakespeare’s Drama as Serpent of the Nile; 30,000 Persons in Big Scenes

Theda Bara will make her first Broadway appearance at the Lyric Theatre in New York on Monday night, October 15, in a film drama, "Cleopatra," founded on the play by Shakespeare and Sardou. Theda Bara will portray the Queen Cleopatra.

The film was photographed last summer in California, William Fox, the producer, acknowledges the assistance of the Egyptian department of the Metropolitan Museum in bringing out true historical values in the picture. The scenario is by Adrian Johnson. The completion of the film, according to the Fox Film Corporation’s statement, represents the co-ordinated playing of 30,000 men and women, and the large expenditure in the erection of Egyptian and Roman cities and paraphernalia true to historical type. Three months were spent in its production, under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards. The story depicted takes place in Rome and Alexandria and covers the period from Cleopatra’s meeting with Caesar through the various episodes in her life, to her death in Alexandria. An elaborate musical setting has been arranged to accompany the presentation of the picture.

Sven Reel State Rights Film Made in El Paso, Texas, Has Realistic Scenes

El Paso, Tex.—The Pasograph Mov- ie Picture Corporation, is putting the finishing touches to its big seven-reel state rights production at the studio here. This is the concern’s first production. One of the most important scenes of the story was recently taken at the studio representing a palatial home. Several prominent citizens participated in the filming of the scene.

Director James Keane is a firm believer in atmospheric reality and besides having real food served by a caterer from the Hotel Paso del Norte, had a number of El Paso’s prominent physicians seated at the table headed by Dr. W. R. Jameson.

It is expected the picture will be completed this week. More than 230 scenes having been photographed during the past three weeks.

Three Poses of Juliette Day, American Star

Miss Day, who is well known on the speaking stage, stars in “The Calendar Girl,” to be issued by Mutual Film Corp. October 15.

(Mutual)
"The Adventurer" with Chaplin
To be Issued October 22

Feature Completed After Weeks of Delay Announced for Publication Through Mutual by President John R. Freuler; Star Seen in Role of Convict

"The Adventurer," next of the Chaplin-Mutual specials, will be published October 22. This announcement was made by John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation upon receipt of a telegram from Los Angeles announcing that the film, completed after weeks of delay, on its way to the Mutual's executive offices in Chicago.

"The Adventurer" has met with innumerable adventures in the course of its completion. Just as the final scenes were about to be taken Mr. Chaplin became ill. He was well enough to appear in the studio for only a few days when Edna Purviance, his leading woman, was forced to go to the hospital for two weeks.

After the last scenes were finished and Mr. Chaplin began his task of cutting the 20,000 feet down to 2,000, it was found that certain of the scenes, destined to remain in the film, were not done to the satisfaction of the comedian and he ordered retakes.

Syd Chaplin, the comedian's brother, who had been in the East, arrived at Los Angeles to help in the final cutting of the production.

"The Adventurer" portrays Mr. Chaplin in the garb of a convict and many of the most comical situations in the film occur during scenes where he is pursued by the prison deputies over the Sierra Madras.

New Comedy-Drama Is Promised In American's Fischer Pictures

"A Daughter of Joan" Will Present Star in Novel Vehicle, says President S. S. Hutchinson; Producer Is Pleased with Scenario

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, is greatly pleased with the scenarios selected for Margarita Fischer, who has just returned to the American Film Company, having recently signed a contract for the coming year under which she will produce an entirely new kind of comedy-drama. Hutchinson Lauds Star.

"Miss Fischer is considered one of the best comedy-drama artistes in the screen world," says Mr. Hutchinson. "She has won a remarkable popularity and standing and we regard her as one of the best of the established screen stars. She began work for the American Film Company on September 10, on a scenario written especially for her, called "A Daughter of Joan". It is something new in films, being a comedy-drama with a melodramatic punch.

"We feel that this picture will give her full scope for her distinctive ability and we are sparing no expense in the production. It keeps away pretty well from any straight war matter, tragedy of any variety, heavy themes or propaganda. The American Film Company will adhere strictly to its present policy of producing only screen dramas of exceptional character and cheerful atmosphere. Miss Fischer, therefore, will star in pictures that are delightful in unexpected plot, with plenty of stirring atmosphere and wholesome fun and punch."

Staff of Trained Writers.

"Our studio plans for the winter will tend to keep each star definitely within a certain orbit—the distinctive lines in which they already have marked success and popularity. This will in no way limit them to any accusation of a sameness of subject of treatment. Our staff of writers now include only those trained in the task of writing and selecting stories of varied interests, which will enable each star to specialize without becoming monotonous."

"Public Defender"
Film Is Described in Raver Booklet

Sketches of Stars and Many Elaborate Illustrations Concerning Play in Pamphlet

A booklet descriptive of Harry Raver's big screen production "The Public Defender," is announced as ready for distribution. The book consists of eight pages of artistically laid out type matter, is printed in three colors, and contains numerous illustrations. The illustrations run all the way from cartoon pages on the "Public Defender" movement which have appeared in hundreds of newspapers supporting the plan the picture advocates, to reproductions of all the important scenes from the play. Sketches of the careers of the stars seen in the leading roles of the film Frank Keenan, Alma Hanlon, and Robert Edeson—interesting sidelights on the production, and other pertinent data relative to the film as an entertainment—are presented in an attractive and interesting manner.

The "Public Defender" is based on the book of the same name by May Goldman, a New York attorney, and man responsible for the inauguration of the movement.

Work on the New
Harry Rapf Film in N. Y. Progress

Florence Reed, who stars in the picture, is supported by such well known screen players as Milton Sills, Irving Cummings, E. J. Radcliffe, Edwin Hoyt, Bert Hall, Wellington Flate and Ed C. Jones. "The Struggle Everlasting" will be published by the Rapf Productions about November 1, on a rights basis.

prison. His wife decides to free her husband and put Blake here belong. Through the old method of vampiring, Copley succeeds in securing the evidence which frees her usband and puts Blake behind the bars.

Dorothy Phillips in "BONDAGE"
Bluebird drama; five parts; published October 15

As a whole: Interesting Story: Dramatic
Star: Likeable
Support: Agreeable
Settings: Suitable
Photography: Satisfying

The story of "Bondage" is an interesting one, rising at ties to excellent dramatic heights, and throughout the play the type that appeals to picture patrons. Dorothy Phillips some very good work in her role as Elinor Crawford, t of sensational stories in a newspaper, and she has been rounded with a good cast which includes William Stowell, then Lederer, Gertrude Astor and J. B. McLaughlin.

The story is by Ida May Park.

The story: Elinor Crawford is very much in love with Vawtry, who loves her, but he marries Eugenia Darth cause of her wealth. His marriage is a great shock to or; she loses interest in life, her position and friends.
Weakened condition she meets Evan Kilvert, a prominent er from her home town. Kilvert sympathizes with her of the fact that she does not measure up to his zal of a wife, he marries her. Elinor meets Vawtry one learns that his wife is dead and that he still loves her.
aming of deceiving her husband and afraid of Vawtry, or leaves the town. Her husband believes she has left Vawtry. On his way to Vawtry's confession he and her meet. He takes her home, goes to Vawtry and learns Elinor had had nothing to do with him. She is forgiven her husband and there is a happy ending.

Frank Keenan, Alma Hanlon, Robert Edeson in "THE PUBLIC DEFENDER"
Harry Raver's drama; six parts; state rights

As a whole: Thrilling
Story: Gripping
Stars: Excellent
Support: Splendid
Settings: Unusually good

"The Public Defender," under the masterful direction of Burton King, is a strong enough argument to remove the blindfold from the eyes of Justice, and to persuade that goddess to install in every state in the union such an office.
It is a rousing plea for justice for the down-trodden and one that must be answered. It brings home the realization that not until a Public Defender is established will every man recieve a square deal in the courts. The production is worthy the most serious consideration and unlimited patronage.

Frank Keenan, Alma Hanlon and Robert Edeson give living, breathing, thrilling portrayals of their respective parts.
John Sainingpolis and Florence Short deserve special mention.
The rest of the capable cast includes C. H. Martin, John O'Keefe, Louis Sterns, James Sullivan, Wm. B. Green, J. K.
Roberts, Tex LaGrove, Helen Connell, W. A. Cronin and Elaine Ivanov.

The story: David Moulton is discouraged by the loss of his position in a law office, because of an affair between his wife and his employer. His wife secures a divorce, naming the pretty little stenographer, Mary Reed. Mary saves David from committing suicide and they learn to love each other.
Rose, the ex-wife, tires of David's former employer and goes to another lover, the president of a bank where David is employed. She soon ruins him and then they plan to throw suspicion on an employee. David is chosen. The president fixes the books, asks to have David watched and then tells David to work that night at the bank. The net closes round the unfortunate man. Morrison, the president, loses his glasses and falls down the elevator shaft at the bank. David is arrested for the murder. The employer who first stole his wife is now district attorney and easily wins a conviction against the man too poor to retain counsel. David is condemned to die. Mary Reed tries to secure a pardon, but can do nothing until a Public Defender is installed in office.
She goes to him in desperation. With state funds at his command, he investigates the case, finds David innocent and stays the execution. The death house cannot be reached by train, telephone or automobile, and to save David Mary must reach the prison within an hour. The son of the judge who condemned the man takes Mary in his aeroplane and they reach David just as he is being prepared for the electric chair.

Helen Spencer Joins King-Bee

Miss Helen Spencer a well-known comedienne has been added to the roster of the King-Bee Films Corporation and will assist Billy West in making King-Bee Comedies. Miss Spencer was featured in all the Vitagraph O. Henry comedies.

THE "HERALD'S" REVIEW SERVICE

The dominant aim of the reviewers on the staff of the EXHIBITORS HERALD is to supply the exhibitor with the information necessary to enable him to appreciate intelligently the production under consideration—to know if the picture is exceptional, if it is of standard quality, if it is suitable in theme and treatment to his requirements. The review department is absolutely essential to every person who books pictures. Its independence, strict impartiality and fairness guarantees an accurate estimation of every important production published.
Walt Whitman in
"THE TAR HEEL WARRIOR"
Kay-Bee-Triangle drama; five parts; published September 30

As a whole ... Good

A very ordinary piece of film fiction is "The Tar Heel Warrior," by J. G. Hawks, and produced under the direction of Mason M. Hopper. It tells the familiar story of the old Southern "Colonel" whose plantation is about to be swept away because of lack of funds due to the hard times; his trip to New York to borrow money from his grand-daughter to save the old homestead; of his subsequent disgrace and the usual happy ending. The story drags and lacks "punch."

Walt Whitman is the Col. Dabney Mills of the piece, and gives a very good characterisation, being a noble example to his grand-doughter, Ann Kroman, as Betty Malroy; William Shaw, as Paul Darrell; James McLaughlin, as James Adams; Dorcas Matthews, as Anna Adams; Thomas J. Guise, as Major Ames; George West and Clara Kransfit as the colored servants. Flashies of New York city's financial district, Times Square and the Woolworth building are given with some trite sub-titles.

The story Threatened with the foreclosure of a mortgage on the old plantation, the Col. Dabney Mills goes to New York to borrow the money from his granddaughter's husband, James Adams. Adams, however, is in a big deal in Wall street and is unable to loan the Colonel the money. A partner calls at the home and leaves $3,000 with the Col. to be handed to Adams the following day. A friend of Dabney Mills persuades him to invest the $3,000 in a "sure thing." The market breaks and he loses the money. He returns to the plantation later and finds that his granddaughter has married a nephew of his grand-daughter. In the meantime Adams has made a fortune and he and his wife dash off to save the old Col. They arrive just as he is about to blow out his brains and the story ends happily.

"The Girl Angle" is the story of a young woman who goes homesteading because on her wedding night she has been deserted. She looks upon men with hate. It is a western story, with plenty of western scenery and the sort of action that interests picture patrons. Undoubtedly the film will prove an interesting subject.

Anita King makes her debut under the Mutual banner and proves herself a likeable young lady. She is well supported by: Robert Ensminger, Ruth Lackey, Joseph Ryan, Frank Egan, Bernard, William Reed, Gordon Sackville and Mollie McConnell.

The story: Maud Wainright, with her faith in men shattred because one has disappointed her, goes out west to take up a homestead. The sheriff and a notorious person, known as "Three Gun" Smith, both are interested in Maud, but Maud treats them scornfully. The sheriff, not knowing much about Smith, warns the girl against him and one night when Maud sees Smith and his men hiding in some flowers, she misunderstands their visit and holds them off at the point of a rifle. Smith has the girl captured and taken to his shack. On going through his belongings she finds some mail sacks and believing she has been a robber, asks the sheriff to arrest him. The next day she finds a bungalow which she had not noticed before. On going through it she finds that Smith had fitted it up for her. She is repentant when she finds papers identifying him as a detective. Maud then endeavors to help Smith and by ransacking the home of the sheriff she finds evidence to prove him guilty of the various thefts. Justice is meted out to the sheriff and Smith and Maud find happiness in the little bungalow for two.

"The Girl Who Made Good" is an average production with a fair story. The picture has a highly dramatic theme which gives Violet McMillan opportunities to display emotional acting ability.

Other members of the cast are Barbara Conley, P. Pembroke, A. E. Witting, Charles Maillife, Gertrude A. L. M. Wells and Sherman Bainbridge. The film was directed by Eugene Moore. The scenario was written by C. J. Johnson, Jr.

The story: After the death of their mother, Ellen is adopted by wealthy parents, while Nancy is adopted by a woman who marries a drunk. Nancy becomes a thief, and when Ellen escapes from her home, takes her sister away from the new home and they take up quarters in a boarding house. They are discovered by orphan asylum investigators. Ellen is taken back to the home, while Nancy escapes. She goes to the office of Chester Noble, and asks for assistance. He sends her to his mother, who adopts her and later adopts little Ellen. Nancy and Chester marry.

"THE MAN FROM PAINTED POST"
Artcraft comedy-drama; five parts; published October 1

As a whole ... Good entertainment
Story ... Energetic

"The Man from Painted Post" is minus much of the spark and humor of former Fairbanks productions for some time and is kept so busy riding over the plains of Wyoming, rounding up cattle "rustlers" and saving a school teacher in distress, that he has little time for humor.

Fairbanks climbs up the side of a barn, puts to rout a band of bad-men in a saloon while he dangles from a rafter and whips a dozen men in a little cabin. But film theater patrons will be a tripe disappointed in his latest effort. William Hart has been a member of the cast, but apparently can't understand the story as though Doug was trying to steal "Bill's" stuff. Regular Fairbanks patrons expect something a little more original from the smiling comedian.

The story is taken from Jackson Gregory's short story or titled "Silver Slippers" and was written for the screen by star himself. The picture was directed by Joseph Henabery, who being his first picture under the Artcraft banner. Interesting art tratamiento is shown and the photography is fine throughout. Fairbanks assisted in his fun making by little Frank Clark, a ten-year- old boy whose antics are exceptionally comical.

In "The Man from Painted Post," the role of Hopper is cast by Much Mullen, Herbert Standing as Warren Bronson; William Lowry, Charles Rose, Rhea Haines, as Wade-He Madden; Charles Stevens as Tony Lopez and Eileen Percy, who again enacts the femininity of her character, playing an adorable, in-the-counry girl.

The story: "Fancy Jim" Sherwood, the man from Painted Post, turns to the business of hunting "bad men" who infi the cattle country of Wyoming, after a derelated character called "30-30" Smith shows up and kills his sister. He becomes proficient in handing a six-shooter and joins the detective force that protects the cattle from rustlers. Continued loss from the Big and Little Laramie district call him hence and order to allay suspicion as to the real identity of the man who has purchased a ranch. He soon finds "Bill" Madden is responsible to cattle thefts. Also that "Bill" is forcing his attentions on girl school teacher from the East. Sherwood falls in love with her and "needs some protect a—watch dog for instance." Sherwood soon learns Bill Madden is none other than "30-30" Smith, and renews his forts to place the man under arrest. In an attempt to stop him the ranchers of the area are unsuccessfull. When he finds himself in an exciting battle in an old "deserted" ca where Madden and his gang have hidden the school teach. There is the usual sunset and fade out as the two ride to the west together.
Augustus Thomas' delightful play, "Editha's Burglar," loses none of its charm or appeal by being transferred to the screen and as presented at the Park Theatre, New York, last week drew applause from the spectators.

The play has been carefully staged, well directed and acted by a typical World-Brady cast, headed by Carlyle Blackwell. Mr. Blackwell's interpretation of the role of the burglar tugs at him as one of the most finshed screen players of the day. He gives to the role, a difficult one, a human touch which should win for him the plaudits of all theatre patrons.

Mr. Blackwell is ably assisted by little Madge Evans, a pitiful little actress, who is excellent in the role assigned to her. Evelyn Greeley, who does good work as the wife, and by osina Henley, a pretty and intelligent little actress. The film is directed by Harley Knoles and he has made this previous version of the play with as much finesse as "Bought and Aid For." a previous stage play produced by the World-Brady company under his direction.

The story: William Lewis, a college student, fails in his ambition because of his association with the wrong set, which deals for a living. A policeman is killed during one of the burglaries and Lewis runs away from school. For five years he spends his time with thugs and pickpockets and steals when the necessity arises. He meets and falls in love with a wealthy girl while looking over the house of a prospective victim. They elope, are married and return to the girl's home. Lewis is appointed teller in a bank and when his former companions plan to rob the town bank, they blackmail him to divulge the combination of the safe. One of the burglars is caught and tells on Lewis. He is arrested and tried for the murder of the policeman and sentenced to twenty years in jail. Escaping from prison, a guard shoots him as a sinner and later when a body is found it is identified as that of Lewis by a friend of the supposedly dead man's wife. Thinking him dead, her wife remarries. Later he returns, breaks into a home and Editha, her own child, discovers him. He sees his wife's picture and realizes that he has taken her liverwreck in his pockets. The child's step-father comes into the room and Lewis tells him he has secured a divorce in the rest. As Lewis leaves an officer shoots him. Before he loses consciousness, he is cleared of the charge of murder and dies surrounded by his little family.

"The Trouble-Buster" is not up to the high class of former Vivian Martin productions and if it were not for the grace and charm of the young lady there would not be much to the production. The story is very weak; the subtitles, supposed to be humorous, become tiresome at times, and throughout it is not the sort of picture that will appeal to intelligent audiences. Support: Miss Martin, Miss Neil, Miss Carpenter.

The story: At the death of her father Michena is threatened to be sent to a German asylum. She escapes and becomes the companion of "Blackie" Moyle, a newsboy. Donning his cloting she too sells papers. One night she is lured to a flat by Tip Morgan, a crook. "Blackie" rescues her, but in the struggle he is blinded. Michena is in a fast statue which he made and which she calls the trouble bustier. She takes his to the art exist and it wins immediate favor. "Blackie" gets the credit and money and with this he has an operation performed on Michena's head. Michena has taken her abode with suburban folks as maid and one day as she is paying Tip "silence" money, "Blackie" enters the scene. Drives the villain away and declares his love.

The story: Lois Atwell and her widowed sister, with no money left to pay their rent, go to live in a house left them by their uncle, which is known as being haunted. The same evening Ted Rawson is sent to spend the night in the haunted house as a part of college hazing. When the girls hear somebody breaking into the house they believe him a housebreaker and Lois holds him captive at the point of a gun. A real thief also is hiding in the haunted house and when he sees the girls in trailng white gowns he believes them to be ghosts and departs hastily. Although Lois cannot believe her housebreaker to be a real one, she does so until he tells her who he is and until the police catch the real culprit.

Roscoe Arbuckle in

"OH DOCTOR"

Arbuckle-Paramount comedy; two parts; published September 30.

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle in his role of Doctor I. O. Dine, in his latest production, is funny. Many of the situations are time-worn, but portrayed by this inimitable fat man they should bring laughs wherever the film is shown. Mr. Arbuckle has surrounded himself with a cast that appreciates humor, and plenty of it has been injected into this picture.

Undoubtedly exhibitors will find that this picture will cause as many laughs as any of Mr. Arbuckle's previous farces. He is dealing with a doctor who bets all his money on a horse and loses it. He becomes entangled in the meshes of a vampire, but when he hears the voice of "his master," his wife, he finds himself in a serious predicament.

With the assistance of a uniform, stolen from a policeman, he manages to get away. He tries his luck again with the horses and wins plenty of money. While he walks down the street, wife relieves him of it all and leads him home, although she is half his size.

As a whole: Entertaining

Story: Good

"A Rich Man’s Plaything" is not the sort of film one might be led to believe it is by the title. It tells a straightforward story of an attractive factory girl, desirous of bettering conditions in the tenement district, who is put to the test of choosing between love and duty, and who wins an honest love in the end.

In the role of Mary Grandon, Miss Suratt is particularly pleasing. She is supported by a well chosen cast including Edward Martindel, John Dillon, Charles Craig, Robert Cummings, and others. But it is Miss Suratt who steals the limelight from all the others.

The story is by Randolph Lewis, and was staged by Carl Harbaugh. Good clear photography predominates.

"THE SEA MASTER"

American-Mutual comedy-drama; five parts; published Oct. 22

As a whole: Satisfying

Story: Good

Stars: Well cast

Support: In keeping

There is enough novelty in this latest William Russell picture to make it sufficiently interesting to the majority of patrons. It is a story of the sea, well told. There are several good free-for-all fight scenes, and one especially thrilling fight between Mr. Russell and Francelia Billington, staged in a hangar and with the aid of a sailboat. Mr. Russell has selected a good supporting cast in Clarence Burton, Francella Billington, George Fischer, Perry Bank, George Abern and Joe King.

The story: The sea is the setting, and the sea is the background. The behavior of the characters is much as one would expect of sailors, and the sea is a natural element in the plot. The story is well told, and is a good one for the sea."}

Where Bryant Washburn is liked "The Fibbers" will evidently find favor since it is a true Washburn production. There are many humorous points to the story and for those who desire to amuse it will prove five reels of fun.

Supporting Mr. Washburn are Virginia Valli and Joe Cossar. The direction is by Fred E. Wright. The settings of the Cort home are well chosen as are the exterior settings. The photography is clear.

The story: When Barbara Cort and her husband have a dispute, the manager gets into a fight with the man and is injured. "The Fibbers" continues his actions with great jealousy. An account in the newspapers announcing the appearance of the play clears Barbara's actions. And when Barbara reads that she is the wife of the man who is designing the house for Mrs. Stoddard, Peter's actions are cleared. At the end of the story they live happily ever after.

There is an interesting story in "The Calendar Girl" and undoubtedly it will find its appeal among patrons of motion pictures. Of especial interest to the feminine members are one beautiful gown and the bathing costume worn by Miss Day, which should arouse considerable comment. Ashton Dearholtays, opposite Miss Day and Luther Johnston is the "bad man. The rest of the cast does some good work.

The story is a feature of William Wallace Cook's novel, "The Old West Per Contract," which attracted so much attention when it appeared in the Argosy Magazine some time ago.

The plot of "49-'17" has many unique elements. In the main it tells the story of a well-to-do judge, one of the pioneers of the gold rush of '49, who has become bored with the ease and quiet of civilization and decides to recreate the old mining camp of Nugget Notch in the Sierras where he and his partner were once kings of the shovel and pan. He gives his secretary, Tom Robbins, carte blanche to put the old camp on the map again, and at the expense of a modest fortune, Tom finally has a regular gold-digging settlement in full swing. Judge Brand goes out to take charge of the camp. He is welcomed by a number of old-timers, and is almost immediately involved in an exciting mystery affecting the identity of one of the residents of his community, a beautiful young girl, known as Lady Ann, and commonly supposed to be the daughter of Pa Bobbett, the proprietor of the general store. "Gentleman Jim" Raynor, a professional gambler, who has taken up his quarters in the saloon, also has a hand in the proceedings, and events crowd upon one another until the solution of the mystery is brought about unexpectedly. Donna Drew is supported by Joseph Girard, Leo Pierson and Jean Hersholt.

Edna Goodrich to Star in "Her Second Husband" Showing

A Social Menace to Homes

A drama which hits at the heterogeneity of the American introduction, and illustrates the folly of inviting casual business acquaintances home to dinner, is the subject of "Her Second Husband," by Hamilton Smith, in which Miss Edna Goodrich stars.

The author, who also wrote "The Vampire," "The Cheats of Fortune," "Girl Detective," "Mysteries of the Grand Hotel," and many other film dramas, had Miss Goodrich in mind for the star part when he began this portrayal, which is intended to show the folly of compelling a wife to receive in her home on terms of social familiarity, the acquaintances of her husband to whom he desires her to be nice "for business reasons."
Two Speaking Stage Stars
Lead in Big Feature Films
On Mutual's Oct. 15 Schedule

Two stars of the speaking stage, each in her second Mutual production, are listed on Mutual's schedule of films for the week of October 15. Miss Ann Murdock appears in "The Beautiful Adventure," a picturization of the Charles Frohman stage success, and Miss Juliette Day, star in "Upstairs and Down" and other Broadway successes, comes to the screen in "The Calendar Girl," a five reel comedy drama.

"The Beautiful Adventure" is from the story by Robert de Fers, G. A. de Callavert and Etienne Ray. The little French heroine runs away on the morning set for her wedding to the man of her parents' choice, with the man she loves, flees to her grandmother's home in the country where grandmother naturally accepts them as bride and groom. There ensues the beautiful brouhaha.

Juliette Day's second Mutual film is "The Calendar Girl." This play deals with the experience of a pretty model in a modiste's shop, who goes to the beach to display an attractive bathing creation and becomes involved in complications with a newspaper reporter, a calendar printer and a rich young lawyer.

Chapter V of "The Lost Express"

"In Deep Water," the fifth chapter of "The Lost Express," Helen Holmes' latest Mutual serial photomontage, is released October 15. Heavy bookings have been reported on the new serial, and they are increasing rapidly as exhibitors are discovering the success with which first run exhibitors are showing the production. Each chapter is full of sensational importance, it is said.

There are two comedies on the Mutual schedule for the week. Billie Rhodes appears in the third of her new series of Strand Mutual one reelers, "For Sweet Charity." She is supported by Jay Belasco and a capable cast. George Ovey appears in "Jerry's Jam," another one-reel production in which Ovey appears as Jerry. "For Sweet Charity" is issued October 16 and "Jerry's Jam" on October 18.

Two Topicals on Schedule

"A Daughter of the Gods" Will Be Issued to Theaters on a Rental Basis, Is Announcement of Fox

William Fox announces that "A Daughter of the Gods" will be issued to the motion picture theatres of America on a rental basis beginning Sunday, December 2.

This successful production, whose box office value has been fully demonstrated in theatres all over this country, as well as abroad, at a scale of prices ranging from $1 to 25 cents, has not played anywhere at a lower scale. The Kellermann picture will be for general publication through the Fox Film Corporation Exchanges, and is now available for booking. It is in eight reels.

"A Daughter of the Gods" with Annette Kellermann is one of the best advertised pictures available for booking by the exhibitor. The picture has been publicized as probably the best film production, and the result is everywhere evident.

The very nature of the picture, coupled with the aquatic activities of Miss Kellermann, and the advertising they have received, will undoubtedly count when it is offered in the motion picture theatres.

"The Judgment House" Is Blackton's First Paramount Film for Nov. 9

J. Stuart Blackton's first production for Paramount, "The Judgment House," by Sir Gilbert Parker, will be issued November 9. The story is in itself appropriate to the times because of the military touches and the battle scenes depicting incidents in the Boer war.

"Dining on Wheels" While Speeding
80 Miles an Hour Is Picturesd in Gaumont Reels for October 22

The featured subject in Reel Life No. 76, which will be issued October 22, is, "Dining on Wheels; or, How the American Traveler Is Fed." This subject not only pictures how people are fed while speeding eighty miles an hour, but shows how the cooks and waiters are trained in special schools.

There are other subjects in Reel Life No. 76 which deserve more than passing mention. A Colorado enthusiast has filmed with twenty expeditions the story of the Continental Divide to obtain the eggs of "The Rocky Mountain Jay," which lays only in the winter. Enos A. Mills, the distinguished author-naturalist, is one of the characters in this story, which together with others in "Queer Trees of Trinidad," is a remarkable example of double-exposure photography shows "Then and Now; or How High Living Cost Wins the Race," a comparison of today and when grandfather was a boy. The same, or rain-tree, is pictured with others in "Queer Trees of Trinidad." Two animated drawings from "Life" complete the reel.

The Gaumont-Mutual Weekly No. 147 is published October 24. This news reel is made up only of the latest news events of importance. War news will be featured, the Gaumont Company having its own staff of camera men in France and the United States, as well as all over the world; and no other type of national or international importance will occur without being pictured in this foremost of news weeklies.

HAWAII HAS NO CAPITAL FOR ESTABLISHING FILM CORPORATIONS

Motion picture projects for Hawaii, so far as they relate to the launching of corporations with island capital for the general business of making photoplays and associated film products, have not materialized. While the Hawaiian field has been largely exploited in the production of filmed scenes, use has been principally for educational and lecture purposes, commercialized motion picture projects which thus far have been presented to the residents of the islands have called for local investment rather than the supply of capital by mainland investors.

With a large percentage of days of the year free from clouds, and with sunshine and clear weather practically always dependable for the greater part of the year, films from Hawaii have been very successful, particularly in scenes of the ocean, the shore, and the mountains.

Several mainland promoters have come here during the past two years seeking companies, but always with a view to obtaining island capital. Local citizens, however, have not felt that they are ready to enter the field. The conclusion has been drawn, it is stated, that until mainland promoters have been shown how films made in Hawaii result in a profit to those who finance them there, the opportunity to be worked out so the results may be readily shown, attempts to finance such plan here will be unsuccessful.

"Freedom of World" to Be Issued
By Goldwyn; Drama on War
Shows Canadian Troops in Camp

Goldwyn Distributing Corporation announces that it will distribute "The Freedom of the World," one of the big productions made as an outgrowth of the world war.

Under a contract between Ira M. Lowrey and his associates, producers of this spectacular picture, and Goldwyn, the latter obtains the exclusive rights for world-wide distribution.

"The Freedom of the World" was filmed in Philadelphia and Canada, with thousands of Canadian troops in uniform shown in the picture prior to the time when the local story switches to the French battle-line. This production carries a dramatic story, and has as its star, E. K. Lincoln supported by Barbara Castleton at Romane Fielding.
Jule and J. Allen Secure Select Films for Canada Publication

Select Pictures has closed a contract with Jule and Jay J. Allen, the Canadian exhibitors, whereby their chain of theatres throughout Canada will play all Select Pictures. The signing of this contract makes the Allens probably the largest single distributors of pictures in the industry. The firm now controls the rights for Canada to Artcraft, Paramount, Select and Monarch pictures, as well as a number of important individual productions.

By their Select Pictures contract the Allens obtained the Canadian rights to the entire Select Star series, including 'The Adventures of Carol,' starring little French photoplaygirl Young and her own company, the first of which, "Magda," is now being issued; the Norma Talmadge pictures, beginning with 'The Moth,' which was published last week; the Constance Talmadge series, 'The Goldilocks,' and the Constance Talmadge, "Daughter of the CANAL," which is scheduled for early distribution, and the picture tarring Alice Brady, the newest star on the Select list.

MARIE DRESSLER HAS BEGUN ENGAGING PLAYERS FOR NEXT COMEDY FILM FOR GOLDWYN

Established in her own studio at Hollywood, Cal., Marie Dressler has begun engaging players for her second comedy or Goldwyn distribution. The name of the piece has not been announced, and beyond the fact that the scenario was written by the comedienne herself, little is known of it.

The comedy will be of the Tillie type that Miss Dressler as made famous on stage and screen. "The Scrublady," completed and approved by Miss Dressler just before she left for California, will be issued throughout North America, October 28.

"SECRET OF THE STORM COUNTRY" WITH NORMA TALMADGE FINISHED

Miss Norma Talmadge has finished the final scenes of 'The Secret of the Storm Country,' by Grace Miller White, and soon will start work on her next film.

This latest Talmadge feature will be published following 'The Moth.' It is a sequel to "Tess of the Storm Country," by the same author, which has also been seen on the screen. Of the scenes for 'The Secret of the Storm Country' were made in Ithaca, where Miss Talmadge and her entire company spent two or three weeks, among the scenes where original scenes of the story were laid.

The picture has been made under the direction of Charles J. Littler, who came directly from California for the purpose.

J. P. Fink Tours Eastern Cities

Showing "Warrior" Film to Buyers

In keeping with the unusual interest displayed by buyers and theatre men throughout the country in "The Warrior," the seven-reel screen offering featuring Maude, star of "Cabiria," Arthur H. Sawyer, of General Enterprises, Inc., announces that J. P. Fink has left New York on a special eastern tour embracing several cities.

Mr. Fink, a departmental head of General Enterprises, Inc., and an expert market statistician, will carry with him in his trip two copies of "The Warrior," and special screenings of the film spectacle will be held under his direction in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and other cities for prospective buyers.

World Retitles Madge Evans' Film

Little Madge Evans' newest World-Picture Brady-Made was titled "The Adventures of Carol." Instead of "The Little Austin," as formerly. Like previous photoplays centering around the World's "kiddie star," this one carries a main story about grown-ups, with whose loves, sorrows and joys the adventures of the little girl are closely interwoven. The waning of the diminutive Carol in the play extend from Riverside Drive, New York, to the extreme south, and she travels by freight, foot and hay wagon.
Committee to Probe Film Thefts
Is Appointed by N. A. M. P. I.

At a meeting of the committee appointed to investigate film thefts, held at the office of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry on Friday, September 29, definite plans were agreed upon with a view to putting a stop to the theives and selling of films which has commonly been increasing during the past year through an elaborate system, which is international in its scope, and has cost the industry upwards of a million dollars.

A sub-committee, consisting of P. A. Powers, treasurer of Universal Film Manufacturing Company, and W. W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph V. L. S. E., was appointed to complete the necessary arrangements and with full power to act on behalf of the producer and distributor branch of the National Association.

It is expected that the activities of the alleged gang of film thieves will be seriously interrupted just as soon as the National Association committee's plan is put into effect. It is also proposed to secure the cooperation of the Federal authorities in checking up all film export shipments for the purpose of investigating the shipments and to put a stop to any stolen prints being sent out of this country.

GOLDWYN TO DISTRIBUTE "MANX-MAN" FILM THROUGHOUT UNITED STATES AND CANADA

George Loane Tucker's picturization of Hall Caine's most famous story, "The Manx-Man," is to be distributed throughout the United States and Canada by Goldwyn Distributing Corporation. This picture is just completing a four week's run at the Criterion Theater, New York, where it has played to big business and won the praise of all the New York newspapers, as well as the approval of exhibitors in the metropolitan territory.

As a result of a contract between Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, and the late Henry J. Brock, one of the most popular novelists in all modern literature, "The Manx-Man" comes under Goldwyn's complete control and gives the Goldwyn offices in North America another attraction with great selling power. This production has not been present anywhere on this continent except at the Criterion Theater, New York, and already it has been announced with a strong advertising campaign.

Reuss & Wetter Put a New Motor Grease on the Film Market

United Theatre Equipment Corp. and Loew Circuit Operator Use New Product for Machines

After several months' test a new motor grease has been put on the market by Leonard A. Reuss and Rudolph Wetter. Mr. Reuss for the past five or six years has been the chief electrician of the Nicholas Power Company, while Mr. Wetter has been working in the repair department of the same company for several years. Their product is known as "Leonard's Motor Grease." Among the many dealers of motion picture accessories throughout the country who have adopted this new grease the most prominent is the United Theatre Equipment Corporation, and the chief operator of the Marcus Loew circuit of motion picture theatres has also adopted this grease for use in those houses.

It is claimed by Reuss & Wetter that the use of a light oil or vaseline on small motors has been known to cause trouble at the bearings and form the constant trouble exhibitors and operators experience with their motors. "Leonard Motor Grease" is readily recommendable to users of motors on account of its general excellence. The new firm of Reuss & Wetter has opened an office at 21 Broadway, New York City.

Universal Gets 3 Noted Writers

During the past fortnight Universal has added three authors of considerable note to the scenario department on the lot. They are Charles Kenyon, J. Edward Hungerford and Captain Leslie T. Peacock.
Ann Murdock Makes Second Film Appearance in "The Beautiful Adventure" Empire Play

In "The Beautiful Adventure," the screen play adapted from the stage production "The Bride," by A. de Castellvet, Ann Murdock will make her second appearance, having appeared as leading lady under Charles Frohman when he produced it in the Lyceum Theater, New York, in 1914. It was in "The Beautiful Adventure" that Miss Murdock sprang into stardom overnight. In order to make the screen adaptation the Empire All Star Corporation has constructed a complete house, an exact replica of a French home, at its studio at2 Greenwich, Long Island. It is about this house most of the screen pictures have been made.

"The Beautiful Adventure" tells a romantic love story of Helene de Treville, a little French girl, and her love for her handsome cousin, Andre d'Eguzon. A scheming aunt, however, has engaged her to wed a wealthy, statistic-loving fool. The play begins on the wedding morn, with Helene in her bridal dress and veil. Andre suddenly appears unexpectedly, having had his way. They try to, tears off her veil and flies with her lover to her old home in the country. The resulting complications are amusing, the players enjoying thinking they are married—but so deftly handled the whole is a most romantic and beautiful adventure.

In support of Miss Murdock appears David Powell, as Andre, Ada Boshell, as the grandma; Carl Sauerma, who has the role of Stephen, Vera Fuller, Miss Lleurin, as Jeanne, and Kate Sergeant, as the Countess d'Eguzon, all of whom have appeared in Broadway stage productions.

G. W. Landon Gets Nicholas Power Co.

Advertising Post is Made Associate Manager; Concern Disposes of Nine More Machines

Nicholas Power Company, of New York, announces the appointment of G. W. Landon to the position of associate advertising manager.

Among the recent installations of machines by the Power Company are those at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J.; Reserve Officers Training Camp, Plattsburg, N. Y.; Loew's Victoria Theatre, New York; and Loew's Orpheum Theatre, Boston. A Power 6B machine is being used at the National Theatre, Washington, D. C., in connection with Major Pullman's addresses to soldiers.

Bessie Barriscale Starts Production of "Within the Cup"

Bessie Barriscale and Director Raymond B. West have begun work on "Within the Cup," her next Paralta play, written by Monte M. Katterjohn. Miss Barriscale will take on the role of "Thibie Lorraine," an erratic young literary woman and artist, attempting to make a career for herself. The scenes of the play are laid in the Latin Quarter of Paris and in old Greenwich village, New York.

President Carl Anderson has advised the Paralta studio forces to disregard expense in the production of "Within the Cup" and he expects that each successive picture on the Paralta program will prove more expensive and better than the one that preceded it.

Ed De Berri of the De Berri Scenic Co., who recently returned from Kenosha, Wis., tells us "Smiling" Charley Pacini’s Majestic Theatre now is complete. This theatre has just been completely re-decorated, and with its new Da-Lite-Screen, is one of the prettiest film theatres in the central west, so two one Ed De Berri. It must be so, because this is the fourth Da-Lite-Screen Exhib. Pacini has installed in his various houses.

Some more gladyses tidings for ye attentive ears. Charles E. Ashley is honeymooning with his bride in old Gotham. He was married Sept. 24 to Miss Gretchen Frase of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Ashley will be at home, 3100 Leland Avenue, upon their return. Lucky fellow!

M. J. Weisfeld, general manager of the Wholesale Films Corp., tells us his company’s initial film feature, "Smiling," has made its debut to the Chicago fans over the Continental Theatres Corp. circuit, comprising the former Almer Hamburger Theatrical Enterprises theatres.

"Watty" Rothacker now is in Washington, D. C., showing our Uncle Sam what real Chicago "pep" is. Leave it to him; he’s alive with it.

Roscoe “Fatty” Arbuckle hit old Chi for a brief sojourn Oct. 6 en route for the Balboa Studios, Long Beach, Cal.

Tom Moore arrived in town during the week of Oct. 1 to begin preparations on the latest Selig feature, "Brown of Harvard," in which he is to play the stellar role.

Herbert Warren, who writes scenarios for "Fatty" Arbuckle and who is directing productions, was a forced traveling companion with the "large" party on the way to the coast. Sept. 24 Herbert was married to the dainty and winsome Valerie Berbere, well known vaudeville. Never mind old boy, "true love never," etc.

Ike Shlank was seen hazzaring up and down Peacock Alley, Congress Hotel, Oct. 5. What’s the idea, Ike? Looks as though some news is lurking in this system.

F. P. Dillon has just been placed in charge to manage the Longacre Comedies, featuring Alice Howell for the city and Illinois.

That handsome young Celt that has been giving the local exhibits, the O. O. for the past few weeks is the "tin can route" by Hank Ford, is no other than Jack McFarlane, offering "The Deemster," which is controlled by War- ren & Clark for this territory.

Max Cohen blazed into the local trade Oct. 5 with a five-carat (praps) light in the silk shirt front and a Grimful of film bargains. "Nothin’ to it," sigs Max, "as soon as they lamp me out comes the little cheque book and the sale is closed."

Norman Samish of the Amassive Thea- tre and a number of Clinton, Iowa, friends were in Chicago the week of Oct. 1. Norn likes our tall buildings and everything.

They tell us—H. A. Spanuth, president of the Commonwealth Pictures Corp., was almost on the verge of "noivos prostration" owing to the ter- rible strain he has been under hurrying production on his company’s initial feature which stars the famous "Charlotte," We think it must have been "fountain pen paralysis," judging from the couple of hundred yards of cheques he was working on some time ago.

J. F. Young is about to become ac- quainated with a bundle of U. S. green goods each from now on, recently becoming a McFarlane, to the sales staff of Paramount Pictures in the Illinois ter- ritory. You have our glad hand, Jimmie. Go to it!

Frank Zambrone, president of the Unity photoplays Co., announces his company will give a special private screening of Geo. Loan Tucker’s master feature production "I Believe," at the Ziegfeld Theatre, to which the clergy of the city and environs have been invited, the morning of Oct. 15.
Toronto, Ont.—Lloyd Evans, a popular member of the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, office staff, has decided to do his bit to make the world safe for democracy. Mr. Evans has enlisted in an important branch of the service, where his abilities in accounting lines will be very useful to his government.

Toronto, Ont.—Manager McArdis, of Shea's Hippodrome, is doing splendid business this week with the Butterfly picture, "Straight Stamping." He is making a special bid for business and he is getting it. He has specialized in banners on his feature and also took a special banner special to introduce the Toronto theater-going public of his Butterfly picture.

Toronto, Ont.—A stirring war film, "Everybody's Business," which is being pushed by the Distribution Committee of the Food Controller's Office, is being shown this week at the Regent, Shea's and Loew's. Clair Hagen, general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, who is a member of this distribution committee, states that this film was received in a splendid manner by the Toronto theater goes.

It carries a strong message to the Canadian people on food conservation and also has a splendid story that holds the interest. Some maneuvers of a number of ships of the British fleet are shown in detail. This film was taken under the direction of the British government and all facilities were placed at the disposal of the producing company to get exceptional scenes. This is the first film to be issued, dealing with the food situation in Canada by the distribution committee.

Toronto, Ont.—W. F. Sexton, manager of the Family Theater, Toronto, is spending a few weeks holidays at the Monolith House, Muskoka, resting up for the rush of business this winter. Mr. Sexton is one of the oldest exhibitors in Toronto.

Toronto, Ont.—The following exhibitors were in town during the past week: Ernest Moule of Brantford, John C. Green of Galt, and Leo Longo of Kitchener. Mrs. Moore, who is running the Moore's Theater in Grimsby, spent a day and a good deal of cash in an extended shopping tour. Her visits to the exchanges were nothing more than "Hello, good-bye."

Toronto, Ont.—Manager Mitchell of the Regent Theater, Toronto, used a spectacular stunt for advertising "The Slacker," the week of October 1. He flew two large aeroplane kites from the roof of the theater, from which were attached circulars telling the word "The Slacker." This feature is exceptionally timely, as arrangements are being made to call the first draft under the new Conscription Law in Canada.

Toronto, Ont.—Another innovation of the Regent Theater, Toronto, is a new form of ticket which does away with the war tax tickets, being a combination of war tax tickets and admission tickets. The Regent Theater have these special tickets printed by Bryant Bros., who also turn out the government tickets. A strict check is kept on the number of tickets used by the theater, also the number printed by the Bryant Press, and in addition Manager Mitchell makes an official report of tickets sold to every month to authorities. The new arrangement saves considerable time when tickets are sold at the box office, and also in bookkeeping.

Toronto, Ont.—W. A. Willison, the government's representative on the recently formed Moving Picture Distribution Committee, which was formed to distribute the government pictures on Food Conservation in Canada has been made official war correspondent in France, and Mr. Roy Weaver will succeed Mr. Willison in the food controller's office and also on the distribution committee.

Toronto, Ont.—Mr. Jules and J. J. Allen, of Famous Players Film Company, have secured the rights in Canada for distribution of Select Pictures, it is announced.

Toronto, Ont.—W. J. Craft, formerly of Kalem and other companies all over Canada, is taking motion pictures as a record of the lives of returned ex-servicemen in the dominion.

These pictures are being taken under the direction of the Military Authorities' Commission, and prints are to be issued throughout the Dominion and in England and France as an educational feature, to show what the government is doing to rehabilitate returned soldiers and civilians.

The pictures show the life of a crippled soldier as he arrives in Canada on the Atlantic steamer from overseas and include his welcome by the home town folks, and, finally, how he is cared for at a military hospital, and the manner in which he is given his vocational training, so as to take his place in civilian circles as an able and respected citizen.

Toronto, Ont.—The doors of the Atlas films of Canada, Limited, in the Imperial Bank building, Yonge and Queen streets, Toronto, have been closed and the business is being wound up.

Toronto, Ont.—"Con" Jones, of the Orpheum Theater, Vancouver, recently passed through the city. Mr. Jones is the man who made such a hit last summer by booking multicolored real pictures for the Orpheum and then turning over the net proceeds regularly to the patriotic or charity institutions. At some times it was necessary for Mr. Jones to turn the people away from his house.

Toronto, Ont.—"Birth," which is being handled in Canada by the Globe Films Limited, has been running to capacity houses in Massey Hall. This picture was passed by the censors for women only, and this alone attracted attention, as it is the first time in the history of Toronto that a feature has been shown in this way.

Winnipeg.—The new manager for the Winnipeg office of the Specialty Film Import, Limited, is W. H. Mitchell. This company distributes Pathé films throughout the Dominion.

Winnipeg.—The Empress Theater, Edmonton, Alberta, under the management of John Hazza, celebrated the fourth anniversary of the opening of the theater by presenting the Goldwyn "Folly of the Circus," September 17 to 20. The feature was shown six times a day, from 11 to 11, with orchestral accompaniment.

Manager Hazza announces that there would be an increase in the general admission price of 15 cents for evening performances and 5 cents and 15 cents for matinees, but a section of the ground floor has been made a "semi-reserved section," to which the admission will be 20 cents. Tickets for this section will be sold in advance and purchasers are left to select their own seats upon arrival to see a show. The evening price for the unreserved balcony is 25 cents.

ESSANAY MEN ARE "DOING THEIR BIT" IN STUDIO DRILL

Although many Essanay actors and studio employees either enlisted in the army or navy, or were selected for the new national army, those remaining behind are intent on "doing their bit."

George K. Spoor has turned over Studio C of the Essanay plant for drilling purposes two nights a week. Nearly a hundred actors and other Essanay employees, drill several hours. They represent a unit of the new Illinois Home Reserve Guard, organized by the state officials to replace state militia units called for war service.

Bluebird to Adapt Published Stories for All Future Films

The management of Bluebird photoplays has come to the conclusion that printed stories, either in book form or as magazine features, make the best photoplays. Consequently, arrangements have been made to show screen versions of popular novels and fiction narratives in a majority of future films. Several of the more important contracts have been announced.

"Anthony the Absolute," by F. Hopkinson Smith, along with "The Old Fashioned Gentleman," by Richard Harding Davis, will be made up by Rupert Julian productions with Ruth Clifford starring and Mary Philbin in support. Another story by the late Mr. Davis will be presented by Joseph De Grasse with Franklyn Farnum the star of "The Scarlet Car."

Mae Murray will have Louise Winter's novel, "Princess Virtue," as the basis of her latest screen offering, "Call," from the pen of Samuel Merwin will be presented by Carmel Myers under her second Bluebird. "Heart's Blood," a story from the pen of Elaine Sterne, will have Dorothy Phillips as its star when it reaches the screen shortly after the new year begins.

"The Desire of the Moth," created by Rupert Julian, with Ruth Clifford the star will be presented Oct. 22, and "The Girl by the Roadside" from Varick Vanardy's pen, will become a Violet Mersebeau Bluebird during December.

TAYLOR HOLMES, ADE, CHAPLIN
SUPPLY MATERIAL IN ESSANAY FILMS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Taylor Holmes, Charlie Chaplin and George Ade, the household humorist, supply Essanay's entertainment material for the films to be issued the coming week.

Mr. Holmes, who formerly was a stage star, will be seen in a comedy-drama entitled "Tools for Luck." The picture is a screen version of Kenneth Harris' story, "Talismans." It will be issued on the Perfection Pictures program, October 8.

The second of the Essanay-Chaplines, which will be issued through General Film Company, October 13, is "A Jitney Elopement." This second completed set of new prints of all the pictures Charlie Chaplin made for the Essanay.

The next George Ade Fable, to be published through General, is entitled "The Fable of All That Triangle Stuff as Sized Up by the Meal Ticket." This two-reel feature will appear October 12.

H.'MacMahon Starts Literary Aid Bureau in N. Y. for Producers

A novel idea of helpfulness to producers is put forward by Henry MacMahon in the establishment of his Literary Bureau, which was opened on October 1 at 321 West 55th street, New York.

"Every film executive and publicity manager needs outside help or information in a hurry, quite often," says Mr. MacMahon. "The regular staff is tied up with other matters or the needed facts are not available without digging in the libraries and some thorough interviewing. For instance, a point in history, drama, art or science baffles producing director or scenario chief; or, there is an unusual number of writing orders to be executed; or, perhaps, it is imperative to get in touch with some important personage for an interview and a story. I purpose to meet this long-felt lack of supplemental service. Whatever your literary problem is, bring it here. I can solve it for you, or I can put you in touch with the one who can solve it."

Having done extensive research work for D. W. Griffith and many other producers, Mr. MacMahon is peculiarly qualified for this branch of effort.

C. E. SHURTLEFF LEAVES N. Y. TO OPEN ST. LOUIS SELECT EXCHANGE

C. E. Shurtleff, sales manager of Select Pictures, left New York this week on a trip for several days, the main object of which will be to open a Select exchange in St. Louis. The new branch is in addition to the eighteen other Select Exchanges now operating in the United States.

The St. Louis exchange will be placed in charge of Edward W. Dustin, formerly of the Pathé organization and until recently the Triangle Branch Manager in St. Louis.

Universal Starts
a New Studio at Big Coast Plant

Work was begun this week upon the construction of another electric lighted studio at Universal City.

When this building is completed there will be three similar studios at the plant. Unlike the others, the new structure will be built entirely of wood and there will be 125,000 feet of lumber in the building. Its hundred-foot trusses have been designed to carry heavy loads and experiments made with them indicate that automobiles can be suspended from the trusses without their weight affecting them in the least.

The new electric lighted studio will be 100 feet wide and 300 feet long, just 100 feet shorter than the largest studio where the directors work at night and during inclement weather.

This new studio building, which is being erected under the supervision of Fred Stark, superintendent of construction at Universal City, is being built with Milton Moore, technical director, will be completed in about four weeks, a month or more in advance of the rainy season. With this additional improvement the twenty-four producing companies at present operating at the Big U plant will have more than adequate accommodations for the special work the Universal management has in contemplation for the coming winter months.

Motion Picture
Ambulance Fund
Is Raising Money

Mrs. J. Stuart Blackton and her co-workers for the Ambulance Fund of the Motion Picture Players, announce that they are meeting with success in raising sufficient funds to purchase and equip with a year's supplies nine ambulances for France.

The Ambulance Fund, with headquarters at 1 West 6th Street, New York, is a branch of the Stage Women's War Relief. Mrs. Blackton is chairman, Miss Bess Meredith, vice-chairman, Miss Nancy Palmer, who has already qualified as an ambulance driver, and expects to go "over there" for service before Christmas, is secretary and Miss Anne Scott, manager. The Picture Players' Division was originally organized to raise funds for comfort kits to be sent to our boys.

Spokane, Wash.—The Washington Motion Picture Corporation, the new Tyrone Power Enterprise, has secured a lease on land in Minnehaha park, upon which it will erect a modern studio. The lease covers the dancing pavilion and other buildings in the park, giving the new company much natural scenery with which to work.
'Ashes of My Heart,' First Berg Film for State Rights Stars Barbara Castleton

Story Is an Adaptation of Edith Blinn's Novel, One of the Most Popular Books Last Season; Thrilling Tale Called Powerful and of Vital Interest

Harry Berg, who has recently entered the states rights field as a producer, is busily engaged in selecting stories for the plays in which he is to star Barbara Castleton. He is putting particular care upon this branch of the work, feeling, as he does, that a story of particular merit is necessary to the success of a picture on the states rights market.

"The producer's problem," he says, "in this field of work is a particularly difficult one. In the first place, he must select a story that is adaptable to his star; one that is a fit vehicle for her talents. On the other hand, he must find a story which is above the ordinary program picture, and which may be circulated as a territorial feature.

"In the case of Miss Castleton, the problem is somewhat simplified, for her experience has been such as to enable her to undertake practically any type of role successfully. Consequently, I have been able to concentrate my attention on securing strong, virile stories, which, backed by Miss Castleton's personality, I feel sure will compare favorably with any films on the states rights market.

"One of the best stories that I have found is 'Ashes of My Heart,' by Edith Blinn. This book was one of the most popular novels of last season. The story is one of thrilling, vital interest, and is one that will afford Miss Castleton ample opportunity to display her versatility. The problem which it presents is the old one of heredity versus environment. A girl, born of a gambler father and a mother addicted to the use of drugs, as a baby is placed in the sheltered seclusion of a convent, and reared for eighteen years without the knowledge of her parentage. What would she do upon suddenly finding herself entirely her own mistress? Will she follow her heritage of instinct for dissipation, bequeathed to her by her parents, or will the strict training of the convent be sufficient to hold those instincts in check? This is the problem that Miss Blinn presents and solves, and in the process has evolved a story which will make a most remarkable picture.

"I have not yet decided what the first film will be. Several stories are under consideration, and an announcement will be made shortly definitely outlining our plans."

Greiver & Herz Get Two Big Features for Trade in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin

"Mother Love and the Law" and "Trooper 44," Two of Seasons Film Successes, Ready for Publication to Exhibitors in Three Central States; Both Have Notable Stars in Big Roles

Greiver & Herz, the Chicago distributing concern which issues big feature films to the trade throughout the Central States, have secured the rights to "Mother Love and the Law," made by Crystal Photoplays Company of Chicago, and "Trooper 44," produced by the E. I. S. Motion Picture Corporation.

These features will be distributed to exhibitors in the states of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. "Mother Love and the Law," which is founded on the sensational dramatic case of Dolly LeGarderwood Matters, which gained national attention during hearings in a Chicago court, features Mrs. Matters in the leading role. George A. Siegmann, who formerly was with the David Wark Griffith forces, directed the production.

The star roles of "Trooper 44," which was directed by Roy Gabin, were enacted by George Soule Spencer and Miss June Day. The film story depicts the romantic adventures of a mounted trooper, and a pleasant love theme has been carefully worked into the action of the play.

Miss M. J. Scott to Star in New Lewis Film Production

Mabel Juliene Scott, whose work in the role of Nencia in the Edgar Lewis production of "The Barrier," will long be remembered, is soon to appear in an other screen adaptation of this popular author's books. Miss Scott plays the role of Jeannett in "The Sign Invisible," being produced under the direction of Edgar Lewis from the scenario by Anthony Kelly. Many of the scenes of the photopla were produced by Mr. Lewis' compan at Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y.

Mme. Petrova's Co. Filming Scenes for Initial Play

Madame Olga Petrova and the cast the first picture now being made by Petrova Picture Company have been spending the greater part of this week taking exteriors on the estate of Mr. George Pratt at Glen Cove, Long Isal. Several of the scenes called for in the scenario, which was written by Mme. Petrova herself, are laid in the Kingdom of Barmark, where the love scenes between The Crown Prince (Thomas Holding) and the beautiful American girl who later becomes his morganatic wife (Petrova) take place in the Royal Gardens. Consequently an unusually sumptuous est. was required, and Mme Petrova is suit- ed in having Mrs. Pratt volunteer a use of her, beautifully kept law attractive swimming pool, sunken gardens and dense woodland.
emine Theatre Patrons to Get Favors in Houses Showing Blackwell's 400th Film

World Film Corp. to Commemorate Occasion Said to Be Entirely Unique in Cinema History; Star Has Been in Screen Plays Seven Years

Carlyle Blackwell, who stars in World-pictures Brady-Made, is working on his four hundredth screen play, in each of which he has acted the principal mascu- ne role.

To commemorate the occasion, which is entirely unique in cinema history, the World Film Corporation has adopted measures to provide a souvenir for every feminine member of each assemblage in theaters where it is shown. Mr. Blackwell has been a screen player for seven years and is entering his eighth. His first film drama in which he appeared was the Vitagraph version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a feature production considered altogether immense at that time. He remained with Vitagraph for nine months, appearing in pictures of one and two reels apiece. The actor then joined Kalem for a year, and afterward he had a long engagement with Paramount-Lasky-Famous, spending a part of his time in New York and the rest in California. In December he will have been for two years with World-Pictures Brady-Made. This confines itself to the production of pictures, each of five reels or more. The name of the photodrama to the feminine patrons of which special souvenirs are to be given will be announced shortly. The reason for the delay is that the play is being prepared under a working title which serves merely to identify it in the process of production as against the other six now as always in the making of the World studio.

A permanent name may not be decided upon until the drama is fully completed. Mr. Brady does not permit his output to be finally titled until all the members of his staff have had a chance to make suggestions based upon viewing the finished film.

"Honeymooners" to Be Next Film Vehicle for Norma Talmadge

"The Honeymooners," a comedy-drama written for the screen by Eve Unsell from the story by Lloyd Sheldon, will be Constance Talmadge's next Select picture. It is said the play gives the star excellent opportunity to display her comedy talent. Miss Talmadge, her director and company now are at Niagara Falls, N. Y., where the greater part of "The Honeymooners" will be staged.

Miss Talmadge's first Select picture, "Scandal," is announced for early publication.

IMPORT FILM CO.
OFFERS HISTORY
REELS OF FRANCE

"Birth of Democracy" Shows "Reign of Terror" Period and Fall of Robespierre

"Democracy has been a much-used theme in autumn motion picture productions. The present world war naturally has offered tremendous inspiration for this type of picture, and producers are carrying the idea to the limit in all varieties of films.

One of what is said to be the best of this kind recently put upon the market is "The Birth of Democracy," published by the Export and Import Film Company, Inc. Ben Blumenthal, president of that organization, has held several private showings for the benefit of various critics, and the picture has been well received.

The story deals with the period of the French Revolution, known as the "Reign of Terror," and shows the final winning of liberty through the sacrifice of the French people. As a matter of history the picture is a faithful reproduction of the life of that period. All the famous characters of the time are portrayed; the martyrs on the way to the guillotine, the tribunal where accusation means death, and lastly the portentous scenes in the Convention, depicting the fall of Robespierre and the end of the "Reign of terror" which had plunged all France into a bloody nightmare.

TEN FIVE-REELERS ON OCT. SCHEDULE OF MUTUAL FILMS WITH NOTED STARS

Olive Tell, Stage Player, Makes Screen Debut in "The Unforeseen;"
Anita King, Edna Goodrich, Mary Miles Minter and Others
Are Featured in Big Plays

Ten five-reel productions with “big stars only” are scheduled for October by the Mutual Film Corporation under its schedule of “two a week,” which was inaugurated September 1, 1917.

The month will bring a new star to the screen. Miss Olive Tell, an actress of the speaking stage, will be seen in her first picture, “The Unforeseen,” October 22.

Miss Anita King’s first picture under the Mutual banner, “The Girl Angle,” is set for publication October 8. Miss King has been engaged by E. D. Horkheimer to appear in a series of star productions for Mutual.

Miss Edna Goodrich, whose first Mutual picture was “Reputation,” is on the October schedule twice, in “Queen X” and “A Daughter of Maryland.” Miss Mary Miles Minter’s “Her Country’s Call,” is on the list for October 1, and “Peggy Leads the Way” is listed for October 29.

Month’s Schedule Outlined

The months schedule includes: October 1, “Queen X,” the second of the series of Mutual-Miles Minter productions starring Miss Goodrich, from the story by Edwin M. Stanton, assistant district attorney of New York, and deals with the federal crusade against a gang of Oriental smugglers.

“Her Country’s Call,” the second of the new series of Mutual-Edna Goodrich productions starring Miss Goodrich, is in the West with Miss King in the role of a woman who hates the male of the species and gets into conflicts with cowboys and sheriffs.

“Southern Pride,” the sixth of the series of American-Milton Kane, casts Miss Kane as the daughter of an old, aristocratic, but impoverished, Southern family, loved by two men and loving both.

October 15, “The Beautiful Adventure” is Miss Murdoch’s second picture, an adaptation of the Charles Frohman stage success.

October 22, “The Unforeseen” is Miss Olive Tell’s first motion picture, one of the series of Charles Frohman’s plays in pictures produced by the Century Star Corporation for Mutual. Miss Tell is a speaking stage star of magnitude and “The Unforeseen” was chosen as the vehicle for her picture debut.

“The Sea Master” is the second of the new series of William Russell productions, following “sands of Sacrifice.” It gives Mr. Russell a new role as a hero of a sea story.

October 29, “Peggy Leads the Way” is the third of the new series of Miss Minter’s Mutual productions. The story is laid in the big forests of California.

“A Daughter of Maryland,” the third of the series of Mutual productions starring Miss Goodrich, casts the star in the role of a beautiful girl of the old Southland.

“FALL OF ROMANOFF’S” FILM IS OFFERED FOR SALE TO EXHIBITORS ON TERRITORIAL BASIS

Feature Which Depicts Collapse of Russian Autocracy, Abdication of Czar, and Historical Developments, Is Lauded by Press
at New York Showing

Following close after its initial presentation to a big audience at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, Herbert Brenon’s new feature, “The Fall of the Romanoffs,” depicting the collapse of the Russian autocracy and all of the developments since the abdication of Czar, is now offered for sale on a territorial basis. This is said to be the best and biggest of all Herbert Brenon’s productions.

The trade press reviews of the production, as well as the reviews of the New York daily newspapers, are unanimous in their approval of the picture.

Realizing that the new counter revolution in Russia and the likelihood of still further dramatic changes in the stage setting of a nation’s governing forces would make “The Fall of the Romanoffs” of even greater value to territorial producers, Herbert Brenon, the day following its first public presentation of the picture rushed the negative to the laboratories with a heavy order for prints. This will enable the Iliodor Picture Corporation to make a quick delivery of the production to purchasers, enabling them to in turn play or offer the picture while interest in the actual Russian drama in the daily papers is at its highest.

In building this great picture around the figure of Iliodor, the former spiritual adviser of the Czar, and having Iliodor in the flesh before his camera, Herbert Brenon exercised great judgment in the selection of his splendid cast, utilizing such popular stars as Nance O’Neill, Alfred Hickman, Katherine Galanta, William E. Shay, Mlle. Marcelle and a dozen others of almost as great popularity on the screen. The address of the Iliodor Picture Corporation now is 16 East 42nd street, New York City.

“The Auction Block”

Newest Beach Film Has Strong Cast

In “The Auction Block,” the photoplay made from the Rex Beach novel, soon to be issued through Goldwyn, an unusually capable cast of players will be seen.

Ruby De Remer plays the role of Lorelei Knight, the red headed girl whose greedy parents and scheming brother bring her to New York to put her on the auction block for sale to the highest bidder. Roland Del Ray, son of a former motion picture star, was the boy who was played by Alec Francis, well known to picture fans.

Other players in “The Auction Block” are Florence Johns, Dorothy Wolfe, Walter Hitchcock, Ned Burton, Charles Graham, George Cooper, Francis Joyce, Bernard Randall and Peter Lang.

She Sought to Defeat That Thing Called Love

ALL her life a beautiful woman stifled the impulses of her heart. She would not believe. She would not trust. She would not forgive the one who had destroyed her faith in man.

Picture Jane Cowl in such a role—beautiful, appealing, powerful. A woman of charm and emotion; a woman to set men's hearts athrob, but a woman who unyieldingly said to men: "Stand back."

This is the keenest, biggest and most compelling drama that Goldwyn, thus far, has made into a picture. Again you get a great story, featuring a great star by a famous author when

White A. C. Special Carbon

Pure White Light

The Carbon That Changes A. C. to D. C.

The new white A. C. carbon means noiseless operation, a pure white light and steady burning. Operators who hitherto have felt that A. C. was not desirable for moving picture operation have completely reversed their position due to the splendid results obtained by using the WHITE A. C. SPECIAL.

No more eye fatigue, no more roaring noise. Everybody in the audience satisfied. An investigation of the possibilities of these carbons will highly repay you.

In localities where D. C. cannot be obtained they are the salvation of the moving picture operator.

White A. C. Special Carbons are put up in packages of 25 sets consisting of 25 12-inch Carbons and 50 6-inch Carbons in both 5/8 and 3/4-inch sizes.

Prices as follows:

- 25 sets, 5/8-inch combination... $3.75
- 100 sets, 5/8-inch combination... 15.00
- 25 sets, 3/4-inch combination... $4.50

Cutting Down Production

A veritable silver lining to the cloud of war taxes now descending over the motion picture business is that the footage tax on film will inevitably work toward the desired goal of cutting down the volume of production.

It has been generally agreed for sometime that many of the grossest economic evils of the business are directly traceable to the over-production of film. This accounts for the poor return on a large number of very creditable productions which are thrown in competition with a vast lot of inferior stuff which never should have been made.

Now comes the United States government in a most paternal attitude and levies a tax of one quarter cent on negative film and one-half a cent on positive film.

The natural result of this added burden in production costs is that the smaller producer—who in many cases is the producer of the inferior stuff—will be discouraged from further efforts involving the additional expense. While it also will be a burden to the larger producers it undoubtedly will not affect their activities to any considerable extent.

Even in the case of some of the larger producers the footage tax will tend to cause production to be limited somewhat and the inevitable result of this will be better pictures and more profit for producer and also the exhibitor.

Prosperity Ahead

The motion picture exhibitor in reality has little to worry over the proposition of the admission tax. While at the outset it may have a slight tendency to discourage attendance, this tendency will not in any way remain permanent, for the simple reason that the public will not abandon amusement and no better amusement value is obtainable anywhere than the motion picture at the prevailing prices.

The wartime history of the motion picture in England, Australia and Canada is that despite heavy taxation, a money stringency and a large percentage of the male population abroad for overseas duty, the film theatre has constantly grown in popularity and has been passing through a period of considerable prosperity.

There is every reason to believe that the film theatres of the United States will be similarly fortunate.

* * *

“Motion pictures are at once the most expensive and the cheapest form of amusement before the public—most expensive as far as the cost of production and cheapest as means of entertainment to the public.”

The above pertinent observation of Hiram Abrams goes a long way toward explaining the current economic complexities of the motion picture business.
The Repeater Pays

T

HE following paragraph by Herbert Kaufman seems to have a particular application to a few angles of the film trade, particularly the state rights field:

"Emptor" isn't expected to "caveat" nowadays —business has outgrown the "buyer beware" theory.
It bred disputes, wasted time, created enmities and litigation and other extravagances. The bankruptcy court proved that cheating did not pay.
Honesty is far more profitable. People deal so much more readily when they are assured of fair play. Clerks used to take three times as long to make a sale when every little purchase was a battle between slickness and incredulity. The one-price system is the highest form of efficiency. Some hotel managers and wholesalers could very advantageously invest a season working behind the counters of a first class retail establishment. They'd learn that the quickest way to get a lot of money is to get a lot of regular customers—that good will is an annuity—that there's no real profit in a single transaction. It's the repeater who pays dividends.

THE Film Art Club of Chicago has been born.
We look to see this association evolve into the pacemaker for social organizations within the film trade.

A FACT that seems to be lost sight of by certain distributors is that a limited seating capacity means ability to pay a certain rental fee—and nothing more. When an exhibitor in reviewing his balance sheet finds that even with a capacity patronage he is still losing money, it is not difficult to understand his lack of good will toward certain film publications.

UNLESS surface indications are grossly misinterpreted there is growing a violent sentiment against the exorbitant rental and the unreasonable advance deposit which will bear fruit in wholesale contract cancellations. But in the meantime the observation of this growing sentiment by a number of wise heads may result in the desired readjustment.

YOU cannot reasonably expect to exhibit
"Strand" and "Rialto" pictures at nickelodeon prices—and make a profit. MARTIN J. QUIGLEY.

Selig Sells Part of Co. to Sherman-Elliott, Rumor

Half Million Reported to Have Been Paid for Half Interest in Pioneer Producing Concern; to Make Big Features at Chicago and Coast Plants

According to a report current in the trade in Chicago this week, William N. Selig, pioneer motion picture magnate, has disposed of a portion of his holdings in the Selig Polyscope Company to the Sherman-Elliott interests of Minneapolis.

The Sherman-Elliott Company, with which Harry A. Sherman is no longer connected, is composed of a group of important Minneapolis business men, and acquiring an interest in the Selig company they contemplate assisting the company to branch out extensively, it is said. Under the new arrangement Mr. Selig is known everywhere as a thorough student of cinematography and the producer of a long list of successful photographs, will have direct supervision of the producing activities of the company and thus undertake the filming of several large subjects.

It is reported that nearly a half million dollars was paid Colonel Selig for a half interest in his holdings, which include big coast studios, a wild animal menagerie and a large Chicago plant.

Under the new arrangement Mr. Selig will supervise the production of big features, while the exploiting and marketing of the films will be in charge of the two men. A new corporation is to be formed through a chain of exchanges. "Brown of Harvard" now is being picturized by the Selig Company and the rights for "Ben Hur" are being negotiated for as a big special feature.

Selig Factor in Industry

The Selig Polyscope Company has long been a factor in the film field. It was one of the original "big six" film manufacturing firms of the infant industry and successfully exploited many original features which were not only shown throughout America, but in many foreign countries.

Detroit A. E. A. Branch Planning Big 1918 Convention in July

Both American and Canadian Exhibitors Will Participate in Furthering Constructive Work Already Launched

Detroit, Mich. (Special to Exhibitors' Herald)—Plans already are under way for the biennial convention of the American Exhibitors' Association to be held in Detroit next July. Every effort is being put forth by the Detroit branch of the A. E. A. to make this first convention a noteworthy one.

Every large city in the country, as well as every state in the Union, will be represented, and from reports Canada will also send a strong delegation to participate in the constructive work already launched by this progressive body.

At a meeting of the Detroit branch of the A. E. A. held Thursday, October 11, following officers were elected: George Wilber, president; Harry Oppenheim, vice-president; John Brennan, treasurer, and King Perry, secretary.

Film Cans Grow Scarcer and Price Advances 300 Percent

Exchanges throughout the country are feeling the pinch of the war god's demands through the shortage of film cans. They are growing scarcer almost daily and orders placed with manufacturers months ago remain unfilled.

Where two years ago these cans could be purchased in large quantities for a few cents apiece, the price has now jumped 300 per cent, and many exchanges have found it necessary to make arrangements for securing supplies with orders placed months ago.

Owing to the Interstate Commerce regulations, which make it a criminal offense to market new merchandise, the cans are an absolute necessity to the business.

All of the large exchanges have sent out appeals to exhibitors urging them to return every available reel receptacle in their possession.

Blanche Bates Signs to Star in Features for Edward Hunter

Blanche Bates, the well known actress, has signed a contract with Edward Hunter, the producer, to appear in his forthcoming productions, it is announced in New York this week. Miss Bates has left for California, where she will appear in several five-reel features, to be produced at the coast. This will be Miss Bates' first appearance in motion pictures.
N. A. M. P. I. Picks Members to Get U. S. Films for Allied Nations

Will Have Entire Charge of Selection and Shipment of American Product to Russia, France and Italy During War

What is considered by officials both in and outside of government circles as one of the greatest contributions to the war is the volunteer offer of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, through its War Co-operation Committee, to appoint several of the best known film company executives in this country to have entire charge of the distribution of American films in Russia, France and Italy during the period of the war.

European war pictures also will be included in the plan which is to be worked out in conjunction with the National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Association, which is erecting hundreds of buildings in these European countries for the entertainment and recreation of the soldiers.

In response to a personal request made by President Wilson during a conference with President Brady, Arthur S. Friend, P. A. Powers and J. A. Berst, at the White House on Thursday, President Brady issued a call for a general meeting of the industry which was held at the headquarters of the National Association in the Times Building.

The desire of the President of the United States as expressed at the White House conference was fully explained by President Brady, and it was decided to organize the American Cinema Commission in Europe under the supervision of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry. President Brady then called for volunteers and following this various suggestions were made as to the personnel of this commission, and that they should be men fully acquainted with the industry in all its branches, particularly the distributing end and should be executives and organizers fully capable of planning for the collection and distribution of American and European films in the countries to which they are designated.

P. A. Powers, treasurer of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, was unanimously chosen as the Commissioner for France. Walter W. Irwin, general manager of Vitagraph, was requested to take the Commission for Russia. The appointments are to be filed with President Wilson. J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of the Pathe Exchange Inc., was chosen for the Commission for England.

It was the consensus of opinion that an American Commissioner should be chosen who will have under his sole jurisdiction the selection of all the films to go to these countries as well as the appointment of assistants and a staff which will be immediately organized for this purpose. Jules E. Brulatour, representing the Eastman Films, and treasurer of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, was the unanimous selection for the head of the American Cinema Commission, with headquarters in the United States. Mr. Brulatour reported that he had talked over the long distance telephone with George Eastman, president of the Eastman Kodak Company at Rochester, N. Y., who volunteered the fullest co-operation possible from the company's organization in France in connection with the distribution of films in that country.

In connection with the great task which is placed before the American Cinema Commission is the selection of millions of feet of film which is to be sent abroad. There were several volunteers to assist Commissioner Brulatour in this country, among them being Samuel R. Rothapfel of the Rialto Theatre; Adolph Zukor, Famous Players-Lasky Corporation; Samuel Goldfish, Goldwyn Pictures Corporation; B. N. Busch, World Film Corporation, and Al Kaufman of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Workingmen Ask Sunday Opening of Schenectady Houses

Schenectady, N. Y.—(Special to Exhibitors Herald.—Concerted action is being taken to have motion picture theaters reopened on Sundays. A petition containing more than 30,000 signatures has been filed with the City Trades Assembly, asking that the motion picture theaters be thrown open on the Sabbath, as the workmen of the city consider them a necessary and inexpensive amusement.

All the picture houses of the city were closed several months ago, following a decision of Justice Edward C. Whiting. What action the Trades Assembly will take is not known, but it is expected that the demands of the thousands of citizens will awaken the city authorities to the needs of the public and that Sunday shows will be restored.

N. Y. M. P. Corp. Gets Injunction Against Artcraft Film Play

Preliminary Writ Issued Halting Showing of "Narrow Trail" On Technical Plea

The New York Motion Picture Corporation has been granted a preliminary injunction restraining the Artcraft Pictures Corporation from showing "The Narrow Trail," William S. Hart's first Artcraft picture, in the state of New York, produced by Thos. H. Ince.

The New York Corporation filed a bond in the sum of $7,500 and based its suit on the fact that "The Narrow Trail" was written by C. Gardner Sullivan, an employee of the New York Motion Picture Corporation, that it was directed by Lambert Hillyer and acted in by Sylvia Bremer, all of whom were under contract with the New York Corporation. The matter will be heard before the Supreme Court Justice Edward G. Whittaker this week.

Harry Siegal, Gets New Russian Film For New England

Harry Siegal, manager of the Feature Film Corporation of Boston, has bought the rights in all New England to "The Tyranny of the Romanoffs," the new Russian picture published by the Export & Import Film Company, Inc. He is enthusiastic about his new purchase as he feels confident that there is a great future in store for the picture throughout the territory.

The rights for New York and also New Jersey have been taken over by E. Hadick, of 146 West 46th st, New York City, and he also predicts a brilliant future for the new picture.

Aside from these, Mr. Blumenthal, president of the Export and Import organization, has several other deals large territories under way, which he expects to close during the early part of this week.
Film Industry Feels Pinch of War Tax Nov. 1

Exhibitors Must Collect on Tickets and Make Monthly Returns Including a Report to Collectors; Footage Revenue Will Amount to $2,750,000 Yearly

With the signing of the war revenue bill by President Wilson, beginning November 1, both the manufacturer and exhibitor will feel the first severe effect of the war. Theatre admissions, with the exception of houses charging five cents, raw film and positives will be taxed. The theatre operators will have to make returns each month to the collectors of internal revenue amounting to ten per cent. With estimates that four hundred million feet of film are made and used annually, the industry will be taxed on footage approximately $2,750,000 yearly.

Every exhibitor must collect the tax from patrons entering the theatres, make out a written report and turn the money over to the collector. Every exhibitor should confer with the collector previous to November 1 and find out just how he wishes exhibitors to make the monthly returns.

The bill, as passed by congress, and signed by the president, follows:

Section 700. That from and after the first day of December, 1917, there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid (A) a tax of one cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid for admission to any place, including admission by season ticket or subscription, to be paid by the person paying such admission: Provided, that the tax on admission of children under 12 years of age, where an admission charge for such children is made, shall in every case be one cent, and (B) in the case of persons (except bona fide employees, municipal officers on official business, and children under 12 years of age) admitted free to any place at a time when and under circumstances under which an admission charge is made to other persons of the same class a tax of one cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof of the price so charged to such other persons for the same and similar accommodations to be paid by the persons so admitted, and (C) a tax of one cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof paid for admission to any public performance for profit at any cabaret or other similar entertainment to which the charge for admission is wholly or in part included in the price paid for refreshments, service, or merchandise:

In the case of persons having the permanent use of boxes or seats in an opera house or any place of amusement, or a lease for the use of such box or seat in such opera house or place of amusement, there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid a tax equivalent to ten per centum of the amount for which a similar box or seat is sold for performance or exhibition at which the box or seat is used or reserved by or for the lessee or holder. These taxes shall not be imposed in the case of a place the maximum charge for admission to which is 5 cents, or in the case of shows, rides, and other amusements (the maximum charge for admission to which is ten cents) within outdoor general amusement parks or in the case of admission to such parks.

No tax shall be levied under this title in respect to any admissions the proceeds of which inure exclusively to the benefit of religious, educational or charitable institutions, societies or organizations, or admissions to agricultural fairs none of the profits of which are distributed to stockholders or members of the association conducting the same.

The term "admission" as used in this title includes seats and tables, reserved or otherwise, and other similar accommodations, and the charges made therefore.

Section 702. That every person, corporation, partnership, or association receiving any payments for such admission, dues, or fees, shall collect the amount of the tax imposed by Section 701 from the person making such payments, or (B) admitting any person free to any place for admission to which a charge is made shall collect the amount of the tax imposed by section seven hundred from the person so admitted, and (C) in either case shall make returns and payments of the amounts so collected, at the same time and in the same manner as provided in section 503 of this act.

Section 503. That each person, corporation, partnership, or association receiving any payments referred to in section five hundred shall collect the amount of the tax, if any, imposed by such section from the person, corporation, partnership, or association making such payments, and shall make monthly returns under oath, in duplicate, and pay the taxes so collected and the taxes imposed upon it under paragraph two of section five hundred and one to the collector of internal revenue of the district in which the principal office or place of business is located. Such returns shall contain such information, and be made in such manner, as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may by regulation prescribe.

The motion picture theatres will pay approximately $67,000,000 per annum, while the ten per cent tax on stage theatres will raise only $23,000,000.

his Chicago office from New York, where he secured the rights to the series of photoplays featuring the noted delineator of western characters, will place on the market as the first of these pictures "Every Inch a Man."

Charles Z. Schaefer of the Casino Theatre, Chicago, has contracted with Strand Film Service to exhibit these plays each month. The productions
Mr. Kline points out, are the best veciles in which Hart has appeared on the screen. All of these films have appeared as special attractions on the programs of the most representative Broadway theatres in New York.

O'Loma Corp. Seeks Capital to Start
A Film Reservation

The O'Loma Photoplay Corporation, of Davenport, Iowa, is endeavoring to interest Augusta, Ga., capitalists in a proposition to establish a motion picture producing reservation near Augusta.

The corporation wishes to purchase a small area on which to build its studio and control construction on adjacent tracts of land with the purpose of requiring the building of types of houses which would be of assistance to them in motion picture production.

Playwright Royle
Helping Rapf, Make
New "Struggle" Film

Edwin Milton Royle, the playwright, in the screen version of whose allegorical production, "The Struggle Everlasting," a Florence Reed is appearing for Harry Rapf, is at the studio daily, working with Miss Reed and co-operating with Benne-Mess, who is adapting the piece. James Kirkwood is directing the production which is said to be produced on a lavish scale. Miss Reed is supported by Milton Sills, Irving Cummings, E. J. Radcliff,
Edwin Hoyt, Hall, Wellington Platt and Fred C. Jones.

Miss Reed and her associates have just returned from Seal Harbor, Me., and are now at the Biograph studio in the Bronx.

"The Struggle Everlasting" is expected to be completed about November 1 and will be published on the state right basis.

Fair, Square Deal to Industry
Pledged by Judge W. L. Ranson

Fusion Candidate for District Attorney of New York Offers Protection if Supported, at A. M. P. A. Dinner in N. Y.; James
Quirk Flays Dishonest Advertising

Judge William L. Ransom, fusion candidate for district attorney of New York, and James Quirk, publisher of Photoplay Magazine of Chicago, were the speakers last Thursday at the weekly luncheon of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, Inc., which was held at Keen's Chop House on West Forty-fourth street.

The candidate for district attorney, during his address, placed himself on record as declaring that the and the balance of the fusion ticket in New York City depended largely upon the motion picture exhibitors of the greater city to this structure of the election of the ticket sure. He explained this by declaring that the motion picture is the greatest vehicle for propaganda because it reaches persons that may be reached in no other way.

Pledges Fair, Square Deal

Judge Ransom also pledged himself to give the motion picture interests a fair, square, above-board deal on every question affecting the interests, and went on record as being against the promiscuous issuance of warrants where it appeared to be a certainty that the person named in a warrant would appear upon request.
He pledged himself to conduct the most vigorougs prosecution of dishonesty and exaggeration in advertising, and said that in this matter he would work hand in glove with the members of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers.

Mr. Quirk devoted most of his remarks to the advertising situation, and bewailed the fact that there was not more honesty in motion picture advertising. Even with this structure he acknowledged that the advertising of motion picture producing and distributing companies had improved one hundred per cent during the last year or two. He scoffed at the use of the superlative in motion picture advancing and declared that the use of the superlative made the advertising dishonest on its face.

President Arthur James, of the A.
P. A., called the attention of Mr. Quirk to the fact that the use of the supervative, especially by the representative co-panies of the industry, was fast being discarded, and predicted that the use would be discarded altogether.

To Kill Dishonest Ads

As a result of the discussion on dishesty in advertising, as well as at request of the Board of Review, Vice Johnson was appointed a committee to confer with the members of
Board of Review and with the Village
Committee of the Associated Advertiнее Clubs of America with the idea of issuing an active campaign to stamp dishonesty advertising, even to the ext of bringing criminal prosecutions advisable under the "Printer's Ink"

Harry Reichenbch, who recently turned from a trip abroad, reported the recruiting poster prepared for the government by the Associated Mo-Picture Advertisers, the slogan on is: "It's worth living under, its worth fighting for," is the most promi-American recruiting poster in Paris is in general use everywhere, placed every Red Cross booth, every hos-and in every shop where souvenirs sold.

It was also decided to hold a film premiere dinner on November 8, which be the first of the monthly beef dinners to be held by the assoc during the winter months.

IRVING CUMMINGS AND RUTH SINCLAIR ARE THE FEATURED PLAYERS IN THIS PHOTOPLAY. (Berg Productions.)
The Maid of Belgium” With Alice Brady Is Third World Feature to Go on Broadway
Will Get Metropolitan Exploitation Before Placed on Program and Published to Exhibitors at Regular Price; Follows Successful “Burglar” Play

“The Maid of Belgium,” in which Alice Brady is the star player, is the third consecutive World-Pictures Brady-made to be independently exploited on Broadway before going to the World program at the regular program price. These special productions in New York,” says Director-General William A. Brady, “had several purposes in view. In the first place, we had contended that the regular price World-Pictures were of equal moment in everything but length with the special price pictures of greater mileage sold on the state rights plan, and the Park Theatre showings enabled us to test the proposition through responses from the public.

Began With “Rasputin”

“We began with ‘Rasputin, the Black Monk,’ a seven-reel feature—published in that number of reels because it contained so much really vital material that we could not possibly condense it into smaller space. We presented this on three or four days’ notice and without a quarter of the volume of advertising almost invariably preceding the launching of a state rights venture. The public broke down our doors in a futile effort to get in at the opening, and thronged the theatre thereafter. Apparently our contention was being upheld. But ‘Rasputin’ was in seven reels. Perhaps length counted, after all.

“Burglar” Was a Success

“So we presented ‘The Burglar,’ in six reels—a photoplay reflex of the stage drama of the same name by Augustus Thomas, which had enjoyed country-wide popularity years before. This too was launched with little or no preliminary ostentation. It was received with the greatest of favor by the public and the newspapers. Two of New York’s very large and important institutions of learning—the Boys’ High School of Commerce and the Merchants’ and Bankers School—made this picture play the subject of competitive essays among their pupils.

Evidently the question of length was of minor importance—still, there was nothing like making sure, so we are at this writing just putting forward Alice Brady in ‘The Maid of Belgium,’ a five-reel picture of current life in Belgium and America. The reception of this play will be known to the public in advance of the appearance of this interview, but I am not disturbed about the outcome. The production, play and acting are up to the standard of World-Pictures, with which the public is obviously well satisfied—although it is a matter of course that we never cease trying to make the next photoplay better than the last one.”

Lina Cavalieri Finishes Big Scenes of “Eternal Temptress” Film for Paramount Star Now Completing Street Scenes Laid in Venice and Rome at Fort Lee Plant; Delineates Role of Beautiful and Notorious Woman

Lina Cavalieri, the noted prima donna, and now a star of Paramount productions, has finished the portion of “The Eternal Temptress,” her first Paramount film, in which she appears and has departed from the studio at Fort Lee. Director Emile Chautard now is completing the other scenes which make up the photodrama, principally street scenes in Venice and the poorer quarters of Rome.

After passing the Church of San Marco which has been reproduced in the studio lot, a turn of the corner presents a disreputable district, with washings of every kind and color, floating in the breeze, children playing in sand heaps, peddlers, washermen, cobblers, vegetable dealers and dozens of gar- rulous denizens, at every hand. The setting is one of the most effective that has been devised for this picture. Because it is a common enough scene, the difficulty of making it accurate was no less great. Even the heaps of refuse without which no poor quarter in a Latin city would be complete are reproduced.

The antiquated methods of washing clothing in a barrel, the cobblers’ tools which must have been excavated from some Roman trash pile of years’ accumulation, the foreign looking vegetables, strings of garlic predominating, the cob- bled streets, in short, a hundred and one minor details unimportant individually, but collectively realistic.

These scenes, too, will form only a small part of the completed photoplay, which concerns the life of a beautiful and notorious woman, and a great many of the settings are extremely beautiful, including the interior of Venetian palazzos, etc.

THREE BIG MOMENTS IN FORTHCOMING PARAMOUNT ARTCRAFT FILMS.

“Herald is True Friend of Western Exhibitors”

Salt Lake City,
P. O. Box 35,
Sept. 18, 1917.

To the Editor,
“Exhibitors Herald”:

Wish to congratulate you upon the fine appearance of the "new" "Exhibitors Herald" issue of Sept. 15. The western exhibitors have always felt that your magazine was their one true friend and we are glad to see you grow so big and prosperous.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) ALEC MURRAY.
Exhibitors to Get New Chaplin
"Adventurer" Feature on Oct. 22
Star Appears in Striped Garb of Convict in Opening Scenes; Plate of Ice Cream Which Drops Down Low-Cut Back of Woman Gives Big Comedy Situation

"The Adventurer," next of the series of Mutual-Chaplin specials, will be ready for exhibitors October 22. The first print of the two-reel comedy was received at the Mutual executive offices early last week and the original screening proved that it was fully up to expectations.

Charlie makes his entrance through a pile of sand, garbed in the striped uniform of a convict. He creates endless amusement by his efforts to escape the pursuing guards and finally streaking, in which he emerges at the beach just in time to rescue fair Edna’s mama. As a reward he is taken to Edna’s home where she, to his joy, is revealed by jealous Eric and the guards come after him.

Perhaps the funniest touch of the comedy is the incident of the awkward dish of ice cream. Charlie pushes the cream out of the dish in his efforts to drink what has melted. The frozen mass drops into Charlie’s trousers whereupon he undergoes much discomfort until it emerges out of the leg of the trouser. To cover his embarrassment and his suffering, Charlie kicks the offending piece of cream off the edge of the balcony, where it drops down the low cut back of one of the women bridge players below. There ensues an embarrassing and exciting few minutes while the frightened woman retains her modesty and her clothes.

There are several million motion picture theatre patrons throughout the length and the breadth of the land who have been waiting many weeks for the next Chaplin. Half the theatres in the land will have Chaplin lobby displays during the week of October 22. Chaplin’s name will be more in the public prints during that one week than the name of any other player.

"Honor System" Ad Infringement Case Is Won by Wm. Fox
Virginia Court Grants Writ Halting Exploitation of Another Film Through Misleading Publicity

On the ground that William Fox’s rights to the title, "The Honor System," have been infringed in advertising another picture in the Victor Theater at Richmond, Va., the State Court, sitting at Richmond, has granted the Fox Film Corporation a temporary injunction, restraining the use of such advertising.

It was alleged on behalf of the Fox interests that W. F. Hassell, in giving publicity to a film; "A Convict’s Honor," had subordinated the real title, and so emphasized the honor system idea as to mislead the public into the belief that the famous Standard Picture, "The Honor System," really was being shown. The plaintiff’s contention was that the defendant was playing upon the publicity given to "The Honor System," which is one of the best known and most successful pictures on the market, and wrongfully utilizing it to his own advantage and profit.

Nat Stronge Aiding U. S. in Presenting A One Reel Picture
Nat Stronge, who recently severed his connection with Vitagraph—L. S. E. publicity department, has been drafted by the Military Training Camps Association, which is working in conjunction with the War Department, in presenting a one-reel motion picture entitled "Who Leads the National Army?" After doing all possible in the line of his patriotic duty Mr. Stronge will become actively engaged in the film industry in an executive capacity with one of the large distributing companies.

Sculptor May Make Replica in Bronze of Giant Maciste

If Permission is Granted General Enterprises Will Distribute Miniature Casts to Exhibitors

R. Fink, one of the departmental heads of General Enterprises, Inc., who is at present touring throughout the southern circuit in the interests of "The Warrior," the seven-part film spectacle starring Maciste, the hero of "Cabiria," has communicated to A. H. Sawyer at the home office a very interesting request made by a prominent sculptor of Baltimore, Md.

The modeler in question was one of the large audience who witnessed a private screening of "The Warrior" given by Mr. Fink at one of the exclusive clubs of the southern city during the past week. Struck by the classic physique of Maciste, the Italian giant, who appears in the leading role of the play, the sculptor expressed a desire to execute a figure in bronze of the herculean player.

A. H. Sawyer, of General Enterprises, Inc., which firm controls "The Warrior" for the United States, is deeply interested in the project and working towards its furtherance has dispatched a cable to the Ital Film Company of Italy, requesting permission to have the statue made. If the Italian firm is agreeable, the Baltimore sculptor will proceed with the modeling from a life size photograph of Maciste, especially prepared for the purpose.

Mr. Sawyer plans to have miniature reproductions of the figure made, which will be distributed to the exhibitors who show "The Warrior" as a unique variety of lobby display.
“OVER THE TOP”

with J. B.

Today it is money that talks in pu- pers, and as we write we wonder whether Adolph Zukor remembers the Imanov Company and the good old days in Pennsylvania when “East Lynn” was a running play and Julia Hurley nished the voices! I doubt it, it’s ten years ago.

Ben Grimm is off the fray and Al Green is covering second for him while he is tossing a few hard ones into German trenches.

Graves follows Grimm, but this is not prophetic. George Graves simply got his eye after Grimm and is going with the film revision. “More power to both of them.”

When ad solicitors and insurance agents bother the good old nosologist Vlr Bates too much he generally recommends “Lacto Bacilline—Bulgaria.” In other words, your propocophen is prolapsed. The agent feels better when he leaves, but he is minus the rict of his quest plus the Paralta Plan.

Mitchell Lewis pulled this one last week: “Drafted actor stepped up to the quartemaster’s window and inquired, ‘Is it a war?’ ‘No,’ replied the quartemaster, ‘Men in this war wear uniforms.’ ‘Well, just for it, I hope you lose your war.’” (Uncert pitch.)

Bert Ennis is about the busiest little boy writer in New York just now. He is putting the space for “The Avatar” than you could shake a stick at. The Austrian army tried for days to put the finishing touches to Maciste, but failed. Bert killed him off and directed him in two weeks. The Metropolitans dally for it, as well as the trade journals. That’s going on.

“The Savage” with Ruth Clifford Brings Centennial for Bluebird

Will Open at Broadway Theatre, New York, for Week’s Run, Commencing Sunday Night, Oct. 21

Bluebird No. 100, entitled “The Savage,” with Ruth Clifford the star, will be exhibited at the Broadway Theatre, New York, for a week, starting Sunday night, October 21, beginning then the Bluebird season at that point. There will be further announcements of the proper celebration of Bluebird’s first centennial, plans for which are now being formed by Managing-director Carl Laemmle.

The program was inaugurated January 24, 1916, with the publication of “Jeanne Dore,” with Miss. Sarah Bernhardt the star. This feature, like several other Bluebird subjects was purchased on the open market, in pursuance of the policy originally announced by Bluebird and still in vogue. As for the great majority of films, they were produced at Universal City, excepting the plays in which Violet Mersereau has starred; they were turned out at Bluebird’s Leonia (N. J.) Studio, where Miss Mersereau still operates.

Established on the idea, advanced by Shakespeare, that “The Play” is the Thing, the management progressed consistently with a policy that made the play the principal factor in Bluebird appeal, the leading players being featured rather than used as customary with program organizations. But in the natural course of events the “stars,” by the merits of their performance and personality, became conspicuously associated with the program announcements. Exhibit is very much a sort of perquisite, the most of their opportunity to profit by the growing popularity of these individually “featured” players and “starred” them in their own right.

Thus have stars been created along with the advancing good repute of the Bluebird product as measured from the viewpoint of plays, production and photograph; until Dorothy Phillips, Violet Mersereau, Ruth Clifford and Franklin Farnum have become so favorably associated in the public mind with Bluebird products that a composite of attractiveness and popularity has been greatly created with these players as the moving force in box office effectiveness.

Bluebird’s “star cycle,” completed by the engagement of Mac Murray and Carmel Myers, to augment the force of principals in screen artistry, has thus been established—six stars to appear in stated succession, each one arriving every sixth week, in plays that shall be selected to best suit the individual talents of each star. In this way, by gradual process of the fittest surviving, Bluebird ends its first hundred screen accomplishments with a policy that still maintains its original purpose, plus the added benefits of individual personalities that makes both the player and the play “the thing.”
"Mothers of Men" Made Ready for Market
by Willis Robards; Titling of Film Changed

Woman Suffrage Party Committees Command Picture at Private Showing and Advise Improvement in Lines; Screen Play to Get Wide Showing

Willis Robards, who recently brought East the suffrage propaganda picture, "Mothers of Men," has been making some important changes in the arrangement and titling of the picture, and now has it practically ready for the market.

A short time ago, under arrangements made by his representative, H. J. Shepard, of Shepard & Van Loan, Mr. Robards held a private showing for representatives of the National Woman's Party and the Woman Suffrage Party, in order to get their opinion as to the accurate details of the picture. The two committees were very favorably impressed, and congratulated him upon his work.

However, there were several small details, most of which lay in the titling, which they felt could be improved.

Mr. Robards accounts for this as owing to the fact that he obtained all his data for his picture from suffragists in the Western states, and that the point of view differs on various questions in various parts of the country.

"It was for this reason," he says, "that I was particularly anxious for the representatives of the parties in this section of the country to see and criticize the picture, and adopting their ideas as well as those in the West, I can now take a happy medium, and make the picture national in its scope, which is the necessary qualification for a picture of this type."

Mary Garden Starts Work on "Thais." First of Her Goldwyn Plays Under Noted Directors

Prima Donna is Met at Fort Lee, N. J., Studio by Officials, an Hour Later She Begins Work Before Camera in Initial Screen Production

Mary Garden, the noted prima donna this week started work at the Fort Lee, N. J., studios essaying her first venture into motion pictures as a star in Goldwyn productions.
Miss Garden was welcomed by the entire Goldwyn executive organization: Samuel Goldfish, president; Edgar Selwyn, vice-president; Margaret Mayo, and members of the Advisory board. Goldwyn's production "Thais" with Mary Garden as the star, was under way within an hour after her arrival at the studio. It is under the direction of Hugo Ballin and Frank Crane. Mr. Ballin is the widely known artist who joined the Goldwyn staff at the outset of its career, and whose splendid work shows in "Jubilee Mina" and other Goldwyn films. Mr. Crane is a justly popular director, whose most recent work has been the direction of Mrs. Vernon Castle for the Pathé organization. These two men will collaborate in the making of "Thais," the former giving more attention to the artistic phases of the picture while Mr. Crane will handle the technical direction. David Ailes is chief cameraman.

U. S. to Issue "Who Leads the National Army" Film to Exhibitors Through the Triangle

One-Reel Picture Showing Men Are Efficiently Trained and Properly Cared for; Shows Interesting Scenes in Big Officers Camps; Theatre Owners Asked to Book Picture

The method by which the exhibitors are requested to contribute to the cause and spread the propaganda of "Efficiency of Officers" is through booking the one reel motion picture entitled "Who Leads the National Army!"

Unlike many one-reel pictures, "Who Leads the National Army!" has a story running through it.

The picture opens with a scene at a club and the decision of one of the club members to apply for registration at the Officers Training Camp. Then follows a series of events, snappy action of splendid direction and photography, the mental, moral and physical examination; acceptance of applicant, arrival at camp with hundreds of other applicants; panorama of camp, setting up exercise, manual of arms, signal practice, bayonet charge, going over the top, digging trenches, attacking trenches; President Wilson returning the candidates, redeeming the War Department pledge of a square deal, Secretary of War Baker signing commission—and finally, well trained, efficient officers ready to lead the National Army.

The picture was made at all of the Officers' Training Camps, including Plattsburg, Fort Sheridan, Harrison, Meye and Nicaragua, after which it was turned over to a practical film editor, who assembled it and brought it to perfection.

Triangle Distributing Corporation has volunteered to undertake the distribution throughout the country and also volunteered to return to the Military Training Camps Association every cent received from the rentals, in a furtherance of the idea of universal military training especially among the younger generation.

The motion picture exhibitors are asked to book the picture in exactly the same manner as they would book any other one-reel subject and their attention is called to the fact that they may be sure that they are patriotic and spread the propaganda absolutely without cost to themselves.

The publication dates have been arranged according to territory served by each Triangle branch exchange, as follows:
October 22—New York, Buffalo, Boston, New Haven, and Cincinnati; October 29—Philadelphia and Pittsburgh exchanges; November 5—Chicago and Milwaukee exchanges; November 12—Cleveland and Buffalo exchanges; November 19—Detroit, Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis exchanges; November 26—Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, Washington exchanges, November 23 to December 24 to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Denver exchanges.

West Point Cadets Pose for Initial Olga Petrova Film

For the first time in the history of West Point, the whole military academy turned out one bright sunny morning last week to pose as part of a motion picture story. Many films have been taken of the cadets in special exercises, on drill and parade and so forth by various companies, as current news events, but never before have the students been actually the plot of a six-reel feature. The privilege granted Mme. Petrova by the Commandant is indeed unique.

In this first of Petrova's pictures in the formation of her own organization the story has to do with the national marriage of an American girl to a crown prince of a foreign country. The crown prince, which part is played by Thomas Holting, whom Mme. Petrova recently entered into contract with, for her next four pictures, comes to America for an important mission, and while in this country reviews the officers of the future.

Many beautiful views are made of lawns at West Point of Madame Petrova and the handsome crimson men, and part of it, also, which they were photographed with the students.
Export and Import Co. Restrained From Showing "Romanoffs" Film

Ilidor Pictures Corp. Gets Ruling From Judge C. M. Hough in N. Y. Court That Copyright Has Been Infringed

The Export & Import Film Company, Inc., is forbidden, in a decision handed down last week by Judge Charles M. Hough in the Federal Court for the Southern District of New York, to exhibit or sell a motion picture entitled "The Tyranny of the Romanoffs, with Ilidor." Judge Hough, in extending the temporary injunction recently obtained by the Ilidor Pictures Corporation, directs that it remain in force as against the defendant company: Benjamin Bluenthal, its president; and J. E. Chadwick, represented as the purchaser of the greater New York and New Jersey rights to the production.

Judge Hough bases his decision on the assumption that the rival Ilidor picture threatens an infringement of copyright and points out the following interesting reasons for his action: "I assume that the defendant Export & Import Film Company's photoplay deals with entirely different scenes, times and surroundings from those employed by plaintiff. I am of the opinion that Ilidor is not a Romanoff, and the Sixteenth was different from the Twentieth Century, even in Russia. This is common knowledge. "But when a copyright play is registered as "The Fall of the Romanoffs" and Ilidor is a prominent character therein, defendants' acts in advertising the 'Tyranny of the Romanoffs' with Ilidor are nonsense unless intended to create the belief that the play so named did or does deal with the same matters naturally suggested by "The Fall of the Romanoffs" with Ilidor as an actor.

"Here there is plainly such unfairness, but there is a threat of infringement also by the appropriation of name, and actual infringement in the simulation of Ilidor's costume in advertising matter. "I am satisfied that defendants have pirated one of plaintiff's copyrighted photographs of Ilidor."

Eva Tanguay Makes Screen Debut This Week in "The Wild Girl" Through Select

Eva Tanguay makes her first appearance in motion pictures this week. As "wild girl" in "The Wild Girl," distributed by Select Pictures, she enters a new phase of her theatrical career. "The Wild Girl," which was written especially for Miss Tanguay by George Towsner gives her exceptional opportunities, it is said, and she is supported by able cast. Stuart Holmes plays the part of Vosho, the villainous gypsy, who tries to trap the little "wild girl" into marriage, and Tom Moore is the rescuing hero. Miss Tanguay brings to her interpretation of the title role all the action which has distinguished her on the stage, her picture of the little southern heathress raised by roving gypsies, is an appealing one.

Miss Tanguay's entrance into the film world is a notable occurrence. She is one of the most popular entertainers on the stage.

Miss Tanguay is being presented on the screen by Harry Weber, who has been her manager in vaudeville for a number of years, and "The Wild Girl" will be distributed through the Select Exchanges.

MAE MURRAY IN SCENES FROM HER FIRST BLUEBIRD PRODUCTION

"Co-respondent" Film Opens at Broadway

The Broadway Theater has returned to its old policy, that of continuous showing of motion pictures. The opening attraction this week is "The Co-respondent," a six-part photoplay produced by Ralph W. Ince, adapted from the dramatic stage success of the same name, which was presented at the Booth Theater two years ago with Irene Penwick in the title role. Elaine Hammerstein has been selected to interpret the stellar role on the screen.

There is much suspense in this drama of newspaper life which has its locale in New York City and a fashionable summer colony of New England. The dramatic climax is preceded by many exciting scenes which involve one of the great daily papers.

There also are several short subjects on the program such as: Weekly news events, educational and scenic pictures, and a two-part comedy. Special music has been arranged by James C. Bradford, who has won much renown during his four years directorship of the Broadway orchestra.

UNIVERSAL TO HANDLE BIG BOY SCOUT FILM

Universal has arranged with the Trans-Atlantic Film Company, Ltd., of London, to handle "Boy Scouts—Be Prepared," the eight-reel production devoted to the work of the huge army of wide-awake English boys headed by Lieutenant-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who are accomplishing so much in the way of home defense and auxiliary service, while their fathers and brothers are at the front.

Throughout the United Kingdom the production is being issued in eight single-reel episodes, and is said to be creating considerable stir, as it is backed by the entire membership of the Boy Scouts Association. Every boy in this huge organization has been enlisted in the movement to put the series over with flying colors, and as a result, exhibitors are reporting big business. Baden-Powell and many other famous British military leaders appear personally in the various episodes.

THREE SITUATIONS FROM "PRINCESS VIRTUE," MISS MURRAY'S FIRST VEHICLE UNDER THE BLUEBIRD BANNER

(Bluebird)
Strong Cast Will Support Walthall in Initial Paralta Film “His Robe of Honor”

Mary Charleton to Delineate Role of Roxana Frisse as Leading Lady; Picture Story Concerns Shyster Lawyer Who Becomes Upright Judge Through Good Woman

From shyster lawyer to an upright justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York is the career of the hero of “His Robe of Honor,” from the pen of Ethel and James Dorrance, which will mark his debut of Henry B. Walthall as a Paralta star.

The story is full of revelations and carries its audience into the upper reaches of the underworld. The hero grows with his opportunities, however dishonorable the means he employs to his end. And end itself he makes worthy, through ambition awakened in him by the love of a woman. The love interest of the story is intensely human, it is said.

When the story appeared in book form, a short time ago, it created widespread interest and was endorsed in most complimentary terms by many of the foremost judges and reformers of the country. In visualizing the story, it will be possible to present it with a wider range and with broader strokes than were possible in type, and it promises to be the crowning achievement of Mr. Walthall’s career.

Miss Mary Charleton, who has already achieved much distinction, appearing with Mr. Walthall in many of his former screen portrayals will be seen in the role of Roxana Frisse, a part which should afford her many opportunities for exceptional work.

Florence LaBadie, Noted Film Player, Dies in Ossining N. Y.

Demise Followed Nervous Breakdown and Injury in an Auto Accident

Miss Florence La Badie, the noted Thanhouser film actress, died on Saturday, October 13, at the Ossining (X. Y.) Hospital, following several weeks’ illness. Miss La Badie suffered a nervous breakdown and was internally injured in an automobile accident which occurred while driving to her residence in New York City about two months ago.

With her fiance, Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, Miss La Badie was driving near Ossining when the machine and when the brakes failed to hold the car upset. Miss La Badie being injured internally.

Florence La Badie was born in Canada in 1890, and was educated in New York City. As a screen star she appeared in many features, her earlier Thanhouser films being “The Star of Bethlehem,” “A Case of Poverty,” “The Lonely Heart,” “The Illitory” and “Her Life and His.” She was the heroine of “The Million Dollar Mystery,” “God’s Witness,” “The Wrong Man,” “War and the Woman,” was published by the Pathe Company.

Lois Wilson, whose work in “A Man’s Man,” in which she appeared with J. Warren Kerrigan, received high praise, will be seen in the role of Laura Nelson, a young society girl, whose high ideals and noble nature win back the manhood of the man who is about to become a tool in the hands of a grafting political machine. “Boss” Nordhoff, who typifies the brutal political leader, corrupting the judiciary to further his ends, has been given to Noah Beery, Jr., who has established a reputation for this kind of work with screen audiences. Before going into pictures he appeared with much success on the stage and will be well remembered for his interpretation of the role of Jud Toller in “The Trail of the Lonesome Pine.” J. J. Dowling, whose character work in old men’s parts is a feature of Paralta productions, will interpret the role of Bruce Nelson, the lawyer of the traction interests. Robert Parland, Nelson’s partner, will be entrusted to Ray Laidlow, while Fred Montague will be seen as “Million Mulligan,” a shady character engaged in blackmailing. Eugene Parlette, who is known for his juvenile character screen work, has the part of Clifford Nordhoff, brother of the “Boss.”

Carrots,” the amusing little stable boy, who helps the courting of Julian and Roxana Frisse, has been allotted to Guy Newhard, a young actor.

Mae Murray Appears as a Bluebird Star

Nov. 12 in “Princess Virtue” Feature

Noted Player Follows Carmel Myers, Another New Star, Who Comes to Screen a Week Earlier When “Star Cycle” Gets Under Way

Bluebird announces to exhibitors that Mae Murray, will appear as a Bluebird star, November 12, in “Princess Virtue.” Carmel Myers, another star new to the series, will be introduced a week earlier, when Bluebird’s “star cycle” gets underway.

Franklyn Farnum and Ruth Clifford also contribute to the November offerings and the “cycle” will be completed when Dorothy Phillips and Violet Mersear appear in December. Hereafter every Bluebird star will contribute to the series at stated intervals of six weeks, in plays especially selected to fit the individual star.

Carmel Myers’ offering, November 5, will be “The Lash of Power,” an old fashioned melodrama. Her leading man will be Kenneth Harland.

Mae Murray will take her place among Bluebirders November 12 in “Princess Virtue,” directed by Robert Z. Leonard Wheeler Oakman will be her leading man.

Bluebird No. 100 will be distributed November 19 on the regular program. Ruth Clifford stars in this film, entitled “The Savage.” Before features reach the series it will be exhibited at the Broadway Theatre in New York, starting the Bluebird season at that theater. Monroe Salisbury will be Miss Clifford’s leading man in this latest of Rupert Julian productions.

The November issues will be completed Thanksgiving week in the appearances of Franklyn Farnum, with Claire Du Brey and Rosemary Theby, his leading supports, in “The Winged Mystery,” a comedy-drama based on O. D. Stuart’s story.

In November, Franklyn Farnum in Joseph de Grasse’s production of “The Winged Mystery,” will be the third Bluebird to be exhibited at the Broadway Theatre in New York, in the season of full week showings that begins there, October 21, with “The Savage.”
Following Completion of "Empty Pockets" B.W. Brenon Will Make Five New Features

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me," and "Kismet" Starring Otis Skinner Will Be Next Plays Started by Noted Director; Others Come Later in Year

Following the completion of "Empty Pockets," Herbert Brenon announces that within the next twelve months he will make five new productions.

Two big subjects have already been secured, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," the novel by Hall Caine, and "Kismet," with Otis Skinner. Mr. Skinner will begin his work in "Kismet" next summer. Otis Skinner, it is further announced, has consented to appear in one production only; so from all accounts in "Kismet" this great actor will make his first and last appearance.

Horkheimer to Produce "Right to Live" On Stage and Screen at Same Time

One of Foremost Stars to Appear in Leading Role of Spoken and Silent Drama to be Shown Simultaneously on Broadway; Production Planned for Seven-Reeler

One of the foremost women stars of the stage and screen is about to be presented by H. M. Horkheimer, in a new play that will have the novel distinction of being offered on Broadway simultaneously both as a spoken and silent drama. It is called "The Right to Live."

The film version will be in seven reels, at the Balboa Studio, where the stage production is also being handled.

"I have had this play for four years now," said Mr. Horkheimer, while discussing his novel project. "Production has been delayed for the want of the right star to play the leading role. And last I have found her, after combing the entire amusement world, thoroughly. Meanwhile, the play has been worked over until it is a big hit."

In all dramatic literature, I do not believe there is a more potent story of the inexorable fight for human happiness. As a play, there are unlimited pictorial possibilities in the piece and an acting role for the star which has never yet been surpassed on the stage: while the spoken version teems with lines and situations which are bound to grip. I am not announcing the identies of star or author, but particularly since he promises to offer the same star in both versions.

Work is already in progress on the photoplay production. By the time that several weeks have passed and a film and made ready for issuance, the stage play will be ready and the same cast rehearsed in it. Then the two will be revealed for the first time. In this way, it is expected that the one will help to advertise the other.

Alice Brady Honor Guest at Theatre Opening in Capital

Star Leaves Select Studio to Attend Opening of Knickerbocker in Washington, October 13

Alice Brady, the Select Pictures star, haled work on the first of her new series of pictures, "Her Silent Sacrifice," last week in order to keep a promised made several weeks ago to attend the opening of the Knickerbocker Theatre in Washington, D. C.

Several weeks ago when the exhibitors of Virginia and neighboring states were holding their annual convention at Ocean View, Virginia, H. M. Crandall, director of a chain of theatres popularly known as Crandall's Circuit throughout the south, approached Miss Brady, who was attending the convention with her father, William A. Brady, president of the World Film Corporation, and made known his plans for the star to be present at the opening of his new theatre.

The magnificent Knickerbocker Theatre, which Mr. Crandall has built in Washington, was formally dedicated on October 13. Miss Brady was the honored guest of the management on this occasion.

Nicholas Power Co. Has a Big Display at N. Y. Trade Show

Cameragraphs Are Displayed at Annual Motor Expo; Many New Sales Recorded

Among the big exhibitors at the annual Electrical Exposition and Motor Show, New York, is the Nicholas Power Company, and display of cameragraphs. The booth is in charge of A. J. Lang, A. L. Raven, F. J. Bird and G. W. Landon.

Among the recent important installations of machines the Power Company announces eleven machines placed at the National Y. M. C. A., Petersburg, Va.; ten at Camp Meade, Baltimore, Md.; four at Fort Riley, Kansas; one each at U. S. Interment stations, Hot Springs, Ark., Camp Mills, Hempstead, L. I., U. S. S. "Bridge." They also visit the Exhibitors and new Power Cameragraphs installed at the Fordham Theatre, Bronx, N. Y., and Rockaway Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y. Two new 6B machines, equipped with incandescent lamps for a throw of 80 feet, were installed in the Globe Theatre, Richmond, Va., recently.

Exhibitors Complain to Be Adjusted in Communities, Is New Plan of the A. E. A.

All Questions to Be Taken Up by Committee of Theatremen in Cities Where Evil Exists With Companies at Fault, Pettitjohn Declares

Numerous complaints against the advance deposit system have been received at the offices of the American Exhibitor's Association, Times Building, New York City, from exhibitors in all parts of the country. Believing in treating fairly with all branches of the industry and always ready to hear the other side if the facts are not so, Mr. Pettitjohn, general manager of the A. E. A., has inaugurated a plan of having all these questions taken up by a committee of exhibitors in the cities where the evil exists with the company or companies at fault. In every instance where this plan has been adopted, the advance deposit company has made a concession to the exhibitors.

"The plan has been adopted," said Mr. Pettitjohn, "that the most efficacious method of dealing with the advance deposit question is to have the exhibitors take up the matter by communities and have the exhibitors in each community where this system is abused stand together in opposition to it. If the exhibitors stand together in this way they can eliminate the advance deposit system in that community.

"Up to date, wherever this method has been followed, the exhibitors have been able to get concessions which were beneficial to them and have straightened out many difficulties that have confronted them for a long time."

"Men Who Made Love to Me" Film Starring
Mary MacLane Will Have Elaborate Sets

Essanay Using Most Expensive Props Yet Employed at Studio on Forthcoming Drama Which Presents Noted Author in Leading Role

Some of the most elaborate and expensive sets ever used in a picture are being employed by Essanay in the forthcoming drama, "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," in which Mary MacLane, the author, appears herself in the leading role.

One set represents an apartment in a richly appointed hotel. It contains eight rooms, arranged so that glimpses of all other seven rooms are obtained when the camera is trained in the spacious library.
Where the average set can be erected in a few hours, Director Arthur Berthelet consumed several weeks in completing the apartment.

Another interesting scene is staged in the sunken gardens of a summer resort hotel. The setting is correct in every detail. As an instance of the care being exercised by Director Berthelet, in a sun room scene there is a wicker bird cage that blends with the wicker furniture.
Mr. Berthelet held up the scene half a day until the right kind of a canary could be found for the cage.

Nurses’ Daring on Battle Fields Shown
In "For the Freedom of the World" Feature

Ira M. Lowry's Big Production with War Theme Is Being Distributed Through Goldwyn; Shows Women Under Fire

"For the Freedom of the World," Ira
M. Lowry's big production which is being issued through Goldwyn Distributing Corporation offices, comes closer to showing the actual conditions of European warfare than any of the productions ever achieved for the screen.

The several million persons who last week in New York City witnessed the parade of 30,000 women nurses in the Red Cross march down Fifth Avenue, will see the Red Cross nurses under fire, at work back of the battle line, in the field and base hospitals and fulfilling their erands of mercy under conditions exactly similar to those that confront them in battle.

One of the greatest thrills in the picture is given to spectators when the coward in the drama rushes across a shell-swept field and rescues a wounded man and brings him safely back to the trenches.

Trade prints of this production already have been inspected and shipped to Goldwyn Distributing offices in North America and special exhibitor showings will be held next week to facilitate the prompt booking of this war panorama.

Producers Recognize Justice of Fight Against Deposits, A. E. A. Letters Show

That the campaign against the advance deposit system waged by the American Exhibitors' Association is beginning to be recognized by some of the producers as a just fight is shown by the following letter received by L. H.

O'Donnell, president and general manger of the O'Donnell-Eskridge Amusement Company, Washington, Indiana, from the Metro Pictures Service, Inc., Chicago, Illinois:

Mr. L. H. O'Donnell,
Washington, Ind.

Dear Sir:

Our representative, Mr. Mitchell, states that during his last call you mentioned that you would be glad to do business with Metro, your only objection being to the deposit required by our company, as you did not care to have film exchanges conduct their business on your money.

If this is the only objection it is not a very serious one and can be easily overcome. It would be satisfactory for us to have you put up an amount in escrow with your local bank equal to two weeks' film service, the interest on which amount could be paid to you, and the bank could pay us in the event of your desiring to cancel or violate your contract.

"THE HEART OF EZRA GREER"
Thanhouser-Pathe drama; five parts; published October 7

"The Heart of Ezra Greer," written by Lloyd Lonergan, is a fairly pleasing film with Frederick Warde in the role of a faithful old man servant. Warde is a past master of expression and with stronger vehicles in which he could show his worth, would soon be a factor in filmdom. In the present instance he is given no opportunity. The part is small and he is surrounded by mediocre players with the exception of the two Badgley children.

The subtitling is weak; there is little suspense and the obvious play for heart appeal. The direction was in the hands of Emile Chautard, and aside from considerable padding in the first reel, was capably handled throughout.

The story: Greer, a kindly old servant, has saved and stinted to put his motherless daughter through college. She falls in love with a wealthy fellow student and elopes with him believing he means to make her his wife. When disillusionment comes she is ashamed to return to her father and supports herself and child by sewing. In the meantime the father enters the young man’s employ as valet and when the millionaire’s child is left at the house, he persuades the man of wealth to save the baby from the foundling home. The young man has fallen in love with a "baby vampire," but the advent of the child fills his soul with remorse and he quits the "vampire." While out with its nurse the child is injured in an auto accident and taken to the hospital. Here, Mary, who has become a nurse, meets her father and the man who wronged her. Greer attempts to kill Jack but realizing his repentance is sincere, allows a proper marriage.

William S. Hart comes to the screen in a rather conventional western tale under the Artcraft banner. Mr. Hart is credited with having written the story himself. It was pirated by Harvey F. Thew. The photoplay has been well produced with the usual care as to details which lend conviction to the story.

It is the story of a Western road agent who meets a beautiful young lady while holding up a stage coach, follows her to San Francisco, and eventually reforms through her influence. Mr. Hart is the highwayman Ice Harding, while Sylvia Breamer essays the role of Betty Werdin, the niece of a vice king. Fritz, Hart’s famous Pinto pony, also plays an important part. The Nellies, Thieves Para, and Miss Delp are all given their due.

"49-'17" is one of those productions which makes one move from one side of the seat to the other, open and close the eyes, and then finally drop off to sleep without the slightest effort. It takes four reels to understand what the story is about, and only an alert audience will get it at all.

The cast are Joseph Girard, Leo Pierson, Mrs. Witting, George Pearce, Harry Hattenberry, Donna Drew and Jean Hersholt. The scenario is by Ruth Ann Baldwin, and the direction is by the same person. No reflections can be cast on the settings and photography, as they are both good.

The story: Tom Robbins, secretary to Judge Brandon, goes to the west to reorganize the town of Nugget Notch for his employer, which had been abandoned for some time. The first person he meets is Ann Bobbett and the usual happenings—he falls in love with her. Gentleman Jim, who seems to hold some kind of power over her father, demands that Tom leave her alone. One evening Jim takes all the money, horses, guns and ammunition out of the town and leaves with Ann. He is pursued by the villagers, caught and plans are made for his punishment, but he eludes his captors and escapes. Going down a steep precipice, he falls and is killed. The spell is lifted from the Bollbets and Tom and Ann pursue their happiness.

THE "HERALD’S" REVIEW SERVICE

The dominant aim of the reviewers on the staff of the EXHIBITORS HERALD is to supply the exhibitor with the information necessary to enable him to appreciate intelligently the production under consideration—to know if the picture is exceptional, if it is of standard quality, if it is suitable in theme and treatment to his requirements. The review department is absolutely essential to every person who books pictures. Its independence, strict impartiality and fairness guarantees an accurate estimation of every important production published.

"THE DESIRE OF THE MOTH"
Bluebird western drama; five parts; published October 22

As a whole... Full of action.
Story... True western.
Star... Fine.
Support... Excellent.
Settings... Splendid.
Photography... Good.

Although there is no connection between the title of the picture and the story, "The Desire of the Moth" is full of action. Cowboys do some daring riding, and as a western drama it should prove of interest to any audience.

The cast includes Ruth Clifford, Monroe Salisbury, W. B. Bainbridge, Rupert Julian, Milton Brown and W. Sears. The story is by Elliott J. Clawson and the direction by Rupert Julian, who also gives an excellent characterization of a southern gentleman.
The story: Stella Vorthis befriends Cristopher Foy, who is to be prosecuted by her father for horse stealing. When the colonel finds Foy is a southerner he drops all prosecution. The kind act converts the bad man into a good man and Foy and Stella become engaged. The sheriff is jealous of Foy and plans to get him out of the way. His efforts are foiled by John Wesley Pringle, a Southern man in love with Stella. With the sheriff and his crooked allies brought to justice, Pringle gives Foy and Stella his blessing and goes sadly on his way.

Olive Tell in
"THE UNFORESEEN"
Empire-Mutual drama; five parts; published October 22

As a whole... Good.
Story... Well told.
Star... Interesting.
Support... Ample.
Settings... Splendid.
Photography... Fine.

The story of "The Unforeseen" is told in a manner that should make it appealing to the majority of picture patrons. It is an interesting story, although one frequently used. The exterior settings are simply wonderful and the photography enhances their splendor. Olive Tell makes her screen debut and will undoubtedly soon become a screen favorite. She is given excellent support in David Powell, who is rapidly coming to the fore as an ideal screen hero. The other members of the cast, including Lionel Adams, Fuller Mellish, Eileen Donnes and Helen Courtney, all handle their parts well.

The story is from the pen of Robert Marshall and the direction is by John O'Brien. A pretty dance by Miss Donnes is one of the artistic touches injected into this picture. The marching of soldiers down New York's Fifth Avenue has been well worked into the story.
The story: Walter Maxwell, a novelist, and his friend Captain Haynes, have seen Margaret Fielding in the rooms of Traquair. The young people were planning an elopement, but the same evening Traquair learns his fortune is lost and refuses to marry Margaret, ending his life the next day. Maxwell goes blind and Margaret accidentally comes upon him staggering aimlessly through the woods. Her sympathy is aroused and after a friendship of some time her sympathy turns to love. They are married and live happily together. Maxwell has an operation performed which completely restores his sight. He is disappointed when he finds that the woman he has loved so much is the woman who occupies his apartment. Not knowing her innocence he prepares to leave her forever, when he receives a letter from Traquair, written before his death, explaining her innocence. They are happily reunited.

"THE SLEEPING MEMORY"
Metro drama; five parts; published October 15

As a whole... Good.
Story... New.
Star... Fine.
Support... Ample.
Settings... Splendid.
Photography... Satisfying.

The story of "The Sleeping Memory" is new and it will undoubtedly appeal to the motion picture patron who is tired out with comedy and lugubrious drama. The story will appear wholly improbable to those patrons not familiar with advanced science, but it will entertain.

Emily Stevens has a difficult role and handles it capably. Mario Mariner is the hypnotist, Frank Mills as the hero, and Walter Morton as John, an admirer of Miss Stevens, are all well cast and handle their roles well. The direction is by George Baker.
The story: An eminent brain specialist, and an eminent scientist and hypnotist, experiment on the brain of Eleanor Marston to prove their theory that by an operation a sound mind might be made unstable and susceptible to hypnotism. After the operation Eleanor remembers nothing of her past. She makes her home with Dr. Fiske, who is responsible for the operation. He soon finds himself falling in love with his innocent victim and regrets his action. Dr. Halkar, against the wishes of Dr. Fiske, continues to use his hypnotic influence over Eleanor. Johnson, a former admirer of Eleanor, comes to her rescue and in a struggle both Halkar and Johnson lose their lives. Fiske again operates on the brain of Eleanor and she is completely restored to her senses and Fiske and Eleanor become engaged.

"TWO-BIT SEATS"
Essanay-Perfection comedy-drama; five parts; published November 12

As a whole... Good.
Story... Cheerful.

Support... Fine.
Settings... Faithful.
Photography... Clear.

To see Taylor Holmes on the screen is a treat. There is a capability and humor about this star that arouses interest from the start and without a doubt theatre patrons will enjoy his work in "Two-Bit Seats." Taylor Holmes and his supporting cast do fine work in this film and exhibitors can feel sure that their patrons will find it entertaining. Mr. Holmes' supporting cast are Sydney Ainsworth and Marjeroni Clayton. The direction is by James E. Windom.
The story: Dick Mason meets Alice in the lobby of a large theatre. He finds her to be just the girl for him and a friendship springs up, which slowly ripens into love. Dick takes Alice to the theatre one evening and buys tickets on the main floor, but after the theatre Alice tells him he would rather occupy "two-bit seats" at the rear, where the action is. One evening when leaving the gallery entrance Mason meets his employer and the next day when he takes Alice to his office, he feels sure that he will be discharged, but the manager promises him a job if he can succeed in making Alice his wife and he does.

An interesting ride on the roller coaster and chutes, filmed in Chicago's Riverview Park, are some of the features of this production and exhibitors, by inviting their patrons to go on the rides with Mr. Holmes and Miss Clayton, might use this as novel advertising. The advertising would be truthful in that the camera man sat on the front coach of the roller coaster and the scene it gives one the sensation of riding on the coaster. The same is true also of the scenes where the chutes are used.

where it was shown this week.

The story: Magda Lovberg, fond of music, longs for a career. She coincides with the young minister, who is in love with her, and he persuades his superlative to allow her to go to the city to study music. Instead he asks for her hand and Lovberg approving the match, gladly consents.
Magda is furious when she learns of this turn and decisions to be-tome the minister's wife. Her father, in a fit of temper, drives her from home. She is befriended by a wealthy woman who gives her an opportunity to study music in London, and she is making rapid progress when the lady is called away. Magda, left alone in the city, goes to live with friends in a studio.
Here she meets a former resident of her home town and is tricked into a marriage with him. She is deserted shortly afterwards and to earn a living for herself and little boy, she is forced to sing in the streets and music halls. After years of struggle her talent is recognized and she is invited to give a concert at a fair in her home town. Here she again meets the father of her child. He asks for her hand in marriage, and she refuses, returning to her work. Her works denounces him, and her father overhearing the quarrel, threatens the scoundrel with exposure. Her love for the minister returns and she tells him to wait and perhaps some day she will marry him.

"MOTHERS OF MEN"

H. J. Shepard's Political Drama; five parts; published state rights

As a whole: Entertaining
Story: Melodramatic
Cast: Splendid Settings: Typical
Photography: Good

"Mothers of Men" is an interesting dramatic forecast of what may happen to state politics when the people are told off old. It is a well-told story of a woman's intense struggle to be true to her high principles against her temptation to be weak to save her own husband. Hal Reid has written the story and Willis Willards directs with talent and thoroughness. Both these men play big parts in the production and are ably supported by Dorothy Davenport and Mrs. Hal Reid. Miss Davenport's work as the woman judge and later the governor is extremely well-told, sympathetic and thrilling.

The story: Clara Madison is the successful leader of the suffragist party. She is wowed and won by Worthington Williams, a leading lawyer who has been fighting the yellow methods of the editor of the "Morning Democrat." After her marriage, Clara Williams becomes judge and closes the saloons on Sunday. She also decides against her husband in a case tried in her court and the editor of the Morning Democrat prints particularly odious headlines. Williams has a fiery interview with him and they come to blows. Mrs. Williams is nominated for governor and her husband is drawn into a plot by two Italian saloon keepers who wish to injure her for damaging their business. They send for him on the pretext of getting the Italian vote for his wife while he is in their company one of the men throws a bomb into the "Democrat" office, killing the editor. All the men are caught, tried and convicted. Mrs. Williams is elected and all eyes are on her when she has the power to pardon her husband. She resists the temptation to make an exception in his case and lets the law take its course, trusting in a higher power to save him, for she believes in his absolute innocence. On the gallows the faithful Italian contains and Williams is freed. He and his wife rush to meet each other and are reunited and cheered by the vast throng that had gathered for the public execution.

"CAMILLE"

Fox drama; seven parts; published—

As a whole: Well done
Story: Interesting
Star: Fine
Support: Ample
Settings: Wonderful
Photography: Splendid

The admirers of Theda Bara will find her an excellent Camille. The story has been handled in excellent fashion and should prove several reels of entertainment. The settings and costume have been selected with excellent taste. Special mention must be made of the wonderful interior sets and the splendid photography and tinting.

There is at the present time, two productions on the market by name of "Camille." In thinking of these pictures, exhibitors must remember that one is a cheaply gotten up production, while the Fox feature is a lavish production. While the cheaper one might insult picture patrons the Fox version has been done in a high class fashion.

Since the role of vampire has been a Theda Bara creation, so the role of Camille is a perfect fit for Miss Bara. She is given excellent support in Albert Roscoe, Walter Law, Alice Gale, Claire Whitney and Glen White. The scenario is by Adrian Johnson and the direction by J. Gordon Edwards.

The story: Armand Duval, son of the proud but poor house of Duval, loves Camille, a notorious Persian beauty. His love for this notorious woman means that his sister, Celeste, cannot marry the man she loves, so the father goes to Camille and begs her to give Armand up, which she does. This arouses the anger of Armand, who demands her one evening in public. Count De Varville challenges Armand to a duel. The count wins the duel, wounding Armand in the arm. Believing that Camille loves him no longer, Armand does not show up. Camille tells him that Camille is dying. He goes to her and after a few words she passes away in the arms of her lover.

Dustin Farnum in

"NORTH OF 53"

Fox drama; five parts; published September 23

As a whole: Good feature Story: Vibrant
Star: Excellent

Settings: Typical
Photography: Adequate

"North of '33" pleased large audiences at both the Alcazar and Boston Theaters, Chicago, where it was shown last week. It is a story of life in the open, taken from the novel written by Bertrand Sinclair, and what the film lacks in plausibility is more than made up by Dustin Farnum's virile acting. Winfred Kingston appears opposite the athletic Mr. Farnum and is subject to two insanable rough treatments at the hands of her modern cave-man lover.

As a whole this is an enjoyable piece of screen fiction with plenty of action. Strong types of actors have been chosen to interpret the various roles and the sets and outdoor scenes splendidly carry out the northern atmosphere.

The story: Hazel West, a stenographer in a small Illinois town, is annoyed by the attentions of her rich employer. She is compelled to seek employment elsewhere to save her reputation and goes to a northern settlement as a school teacher.

DUSTIN FARNUM AND WINIFRED KINGSTON IN A SCENE FROM "NORTH OF FIFTY THREE." (Fox.)

Here she meets "Roaring Bill" Wagstaff, about whom there is an ugly story relative to the sudden death of his partner Joe Brooks. Hazel becomes lost in the woods and Bill finds her. The rough northerner falls in love with the pretty girl and anything to win her love he forcibly takes her to his cabin deep in the mountains. Here she learns to love him, though crying bitterly that she hates him, and when she accuses him of being a murderer, he thinks all is over between them and takes her back to the settlement. His name is cleared by the confession of the real murderer and he rushes to Hazel with the good news.

H. J. Shepard's Extra Special; five parts; published State Right

As a whole: Of great interest to "Fans"
Cast: American and National Leagues Support: Typical Photography: Faultless

The Baseball Review of 1917 will pack the theatres with all the "fans" in America. The game is played by the champions of both leagues, the Chicago White Sox of the American and the Giants of the National. All the teams of both leagues are shown in action, and the subtitles written by "Bugs" Baer, a sport writer of the New York World, are greatly to the enjoyment. Each member of each team shown in a close-up which is a feature that is guaranteed to please the small boys. And the acknowledgment the men make to the introduction to the camera includes fifty-seven varieties of ways to lift a cap, which is in itself a novel no other picture offers today. Seeing this picture will be like having a complimentary ticket to the big game.
Corona Cinema Company Presents

"THE CURSE OF EVE"

Paramount drama; five parts; published October 15.

As a whole.............. Good Story ............. Interesting Cast ............... Fair Acting .......... Excellent Settings ............... Excellent Photography .......... Excellent

"The Call of the East" is a story of a young Japanese nobleman, his novel method of revenge and his final retribution of hatred when love lights the way. This is a draggy play that would be handled better, the convincing in the hands of the mediocre players. The excellent Lasky cast headed by Sue Hayakawa manage to inject enough action to make it interesting, and it can be classed as an average program picture, in spite of the usual Lasky care as to detail and the interior scenes are very beautiful.

The story: Sheila Hepburn, the half-sister of Alan Hepburn, is the daughter of a Japanese. While visiting Alan, who employed in Tokyo, she attends a festival with her father, and is dressed as a Japanese. Here meets Arai Takada, a faithful Jap. Alan has betrayed O'Mitsu and her brother, Arai ans a terrible revenge. Alan loses heavily at cards to the Jap to forget his losses accompanies Arai to his country home. Here he is about to be thrust into a pool of quicksand to die. When his sister appears upon the scene, she has been warned Arai's plans. Takada sees that they do not meet. Finally agrees to release her brother when she wins his love and spect in that manner being escaped from a prison, and strikes he Jap down. Sheila bursts into tears and runs to the fallen man and Alan realizes that it is the "call" the East and departs.

Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nielsen in

"OVER THERE"

Lewis J. Selznick's drama; six parts; published November 1.

As a whole.............. Excellent Story ............. Agreeable Cast ............... Average Acting .......... Good Settings ............... Excellent Photography .......... Excellent

"Over There" is a thrilling, rousing story of an eleventh-hour struggle for American citizenship. It is directed by James Kirkwood, which insures success, and the scenario a particularly well written one by Charles Richman. Richman's work on the battle front and Miss Nielsen's impressive scene driving the ambulance through the firing line lift this picture far above the rank of the patriotic pictures of the hour. The excellent supporting cast includes Gertrude Ederle, Walter McGrail, Walter Hiers, James A. Fury and Vesta Shelly.

The story: Montgomery Jackson and Betty Adams, son and daughter of two old aristocratic families, are betrothed. When war is declared Monte holds back instead of rushing to the colors. Because of his constitutional weaknesses he is unduly sacrilegious. The rest of the story should be considerably shortened. The cast includes Edna May, Marion Warner, Carolin Sela, Marla Lyle, Miss Grissom, Miss Bessarre, Edward Corcoran, Jack Standing, Raymond Loewy, etc., and is a true blue of the Kurz.

The story: A minister takes his text for his sermon on his text and delivers a narrative sermon about a young life which deals with the story of Eva Stanley, who engaged to John Gilbert. John is sent on a government mission and on the way to his post meets the past-cast of Leo Spencer, brother of the District Attorney. He engages her to be his secretary and she intercepts all his letters to Dr. Burton, John's best friend, persuades him to relieve her situation. He refuses her but consents to help John by ameliorating her condition. She scorns secretary discovers it and reports it to the district attorney. Dr. Burton and John are both convicted at a trial and serve their sentence. At the termination of six terms John unites Eva for his life has outlived the test.

Helen Hesperia in

"CAMILLE"

Hanover-General drama; six parts; published October 7.

As a whole.............. Very ordinary Story ............. Alexander Dumas' tragedy Cast ............... Convincing Support .......... Excellent Settings ............... Excellent Photography .......... Excellent

"Camille," Alexander Dumas, Jr's immortal tragedy of Marguerite Gautier, the courtesan reclaimed by her love for Armand Duval, as presented at the Rose theatre, Chicago, last week, "sent them away smiling. Dumas didn't write "Camille" as a play to be funny, but as presented by a foreign cast of mediocre players with Helen Hesperia, "the queen of the Parisian cinema," at its head, it proved too much for serious-minded audiences. Cinema patrons laughed and walked out before it was finished. The title was sufficient to lure picture-goers into the theatre, but the film wasn't strong enough to hold them there.

Helen Hesperia, who attempted to portray the woman who moved not wisely but too well, had no chance. She was not exactly the type of woman Dumas had in mind. She was too healthy by far and lacked much of the spontaneity of the passionate Marguerite. One feared the consequences should she throw herself into the fray Armand, but luckily she refrained from any demonstrative love making and died gracefully at the feet of her lover and in full view of the camera. The evening of the characters and the effects used were an odd mixture of black and white clothes and models. The atmosphere of this Hanover Film Company production was good. Exhibitors who haven't any conscientious scruples and wish to capitalize on the name will no doubt catch a few with this poorly made "Camille."

David Powell Now Working on "Her Sister," New Empire Corp. Play

David Powell is now at work on his sixth picture for the Empire All-Star Corporation. Last February Mr. Powell was engaged to support John Barrymore in "Outcast" and to play the role of Geoffrey, a part he knew by heart, having played it with Elsie Ferguson in the stage play.

Then came "The Impostor," and again Mr. Powell was cast as leading man opposite Miss Murdoch with Dell Henderson directing.

"The Richict Girl" and "The Beautiful Adventure" followed in succession, after which Mr. Powell took a rest. Now he resumes his work it was with Miss Olive Tell in a series of new pictures. "Outcast" issued Sept. 10. was such a success and Mr. Powell received such favorable notices that the next picture "The Beautiful Adventure," to be published Oct. 15, is eagerly looked forward to.

At present Mr. Powell—having just finished "The Unforeseen" with Olive Tell—is at work in "Her Sister" with the same star.
"END OF THE RUN," A RAIL DRAMA STARRING HELEN GIBSON LEADS UNIVERSAL PROGRAM OCT. 23 WEEK

A railroad drama of absorbing interest, titled "The End of the Run," is the Gold Seal film which opens the week's Universal program for the week of October 23. Helen Gibson is the featured player. Val Paul, O. C. Jackson and George Williams are prominent in the cast. The story deals with the crooked operations of Giles Stafford, a brakeman on Jim Durman's train, who makes a hobo divide a quantity of counterfeit money with him for the privilege of riding on the train. He has been rebuffed by Nona Durman, Jim's daughter, but not until after he has found out that Jim, distrusting banking institutions, keeps all his money in a fruit jar. He breaks into Jim's house, and, stealing the money from the jar, substitutes counterfeit bills. Jim passes some of the bad money and is consequently under suspicion. Stafford's guilt is discovered by Nona who sets out on horseback to overtake his train and capture him. And she does it.

A Nestor comedy, "A Fire Escape Finish," featuring Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, appears the same day. It is a story of an elopement, culminating in a wedding on a fire escape while the jealous rival dangles from the ladder.

Jennings McAlister's Western, No. 25, is published Wednesday, October 24, which is also the publication date of a two-reel L-KO Comedy "Fat and Furious." Merta Sterling and Al Forbes are the leading players. Louis Baskette is the star of the feature for Wednesday, October 25, entitled "Little Marian's Triumph." The story concerns the eventual career of a child with a marked genius for dancing which at last finds expression despite many handicaps. Miss Baskette is supported by a cast composed of Fred Moore, Bessie Souter, Lydia Yeaman Titus and Walter Belasco. The same day William Franey and Gale Henry will appear in a Joker comedy entitled "The Tightwad." Gale Henry, as the dutiful wife, gives her penny-pinching spouse an object lesson in his efficiency naturally should be good for many hearty guffaws.

Henry Murdock and Mildred Davis will appear in a Victor comedy of errors known as "What'll We Do With Uncle?" Friday, October 25. The 42nd issue of the Screen Magazine will appear the same week.

Max Aker and Gladys Tennyson are the featured players in "A Wise Dummy," the Joker comedy for Saturday, October 27. The 27th issue of Current Events, devoted to the latest happenings in the world of work and play is also scheduled the same day.

Neil Hart and Vivian Rich will co-star in a two-reel Bison drama "The Getaway." This is a western drama.

During the week, the second episode of "The Red Ace," Universal's big outdoor mystery serial, will be shown in theatres outside of Greater New York. This episode is entitled "The Lure of the Unattainable."

Current Films With Noted Stars Are Announced by Essanay Co.

Current Essanay productions, published on the Perfection Pictures program through the George Kleine exchanges, include comedy-dramas starring Taylor Holmes, Bryant Washburn, Virginia Hall, Helen Ferguson, and Little Mary McAllister, and a new George Ade Fable.

The comedy-dramas, entitled "Fools For Luck," "The Fibbers" and "Young Mother Hubbard," contain the two predominating Universal appeals.

"The Fibbers," in which Mr. Washburn and Miss Valli play the leading roles, deals with the adventures of a young married couple, and is full of amusing situations.

"The Fools For Luck," directed by Taylor Holmes and Helen Ferguson, have made a screen success, it is said, of Kenneth Harris' story "Talisman," which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, the title on the screen being "Fools For Luck."" "Young Mother Hubbard" is a story of the plights of four little orphans, abandoned by their step-father. Little Mary McAllister plays the role of the little mother to the other three orphans.

George Ade fables deal with movie fans themselves. The picture, "The Fable of the Film Fed Family," unfolds the story of a family too proud to visit the movies. They spent all their money on high priced theaters. Then, one by one, they began to sneak to the movies. They meet each other in the theater, and finally admit that they were wrong in ever condemning the screen.

Consistency, Thy Name is a Jewel

"The Play's the Thing," is to be Triangle's new play according to a recent announcement. And straightway concern names a half dozen "stars" who will be "features" in forthcoming plays.

Plot of Big Photoplay of the Week

"The Stolen Pie"

Mary Muffin's father dies in Belgium and when the Germans invade her hut she goes to America on the Lusitania, which is torpedoed in the North Sea and Mary is picked up by a very rich man who is just going to commit suicide because he lost two strains. He lures her to a roadhouse at Broadway and Forty-seventh street and is just about to embrace her when her lover arrives from Chicago, marries her and the villain dies. The death scene of the villain are delightful.

THE WEEK'S BEST BET IN PICTURES

"Bah's Diah," Paramount. Five Parts, With Marguerite Clark. Very, very good, says the erudite critic. The family can see it, and laugh itself to death. On the level, even the tired old man will forget the tribe tried to touch him for five, and smile. Rent this one, and the meanest man will laugh and come again to your film palace for more peace of mind. Marguerite certainly is the gay young thing in this piece. There are some luscious melons scheduled for the screen. Leading these is Charlie Chaplin in "The Adventurer," Mutual's excellent attraction October 22. This truly is the nonpareil of its class. Book it, and you'll clean up in c-a-s-h.

Official Cut-Outs Made by the Chicago Board of Censors

Mooney Bomb-Throwing Case Being Investigated by Wilson Shown in Oct. 15 Gaumont Reels

A few days ago the American newspapers carried a story that President Wilson had taken up the famous Mooney case and ordered a thorough inquiry into this laborman's conviction for the alleged Preparedness Day bomb crime, in San Francisco, on July 2, 1916. All the principals in this noted case, which has now become of international interest, are shown in the current issue of the Mutual Weekly No. 146, which is published October 15. Mooney's conviction has been called "a most shameful perversion of justice" and has created interest from San Francisco to Siberia, because of Mooney being one of the leaders of the Russian freedom movement. His following in other countries is such as to make him of international importance and the President was told that his alleged "chauvinism" has a great bearing on the Russian situation today.

As usual, news of a war nature is also shown in this number of the weekly. Camp Kearney, a Western cantonment, where 40,000 "Liberty Boys" will rehearse for the world's drama, is shown as being one of the first of the 16 cantonments to be completed. Fair young missionaries of the New York Bible Society are seen at Camp Mills, distributing bibles to every soldier who will accept one, as the boys of squadron "A" are saying their last good-bye to their friends in New York.

War news, however, does not monopolize the entire number, as many other topics of news interest are shown, such as new styles in early fall coats for women; our new ambassador to Japan: the man who invented the free energy generator and who claims his invention will revolutionize all power systems and is more powerful than any imagination can conceive. This invention has created so much interest that Congress is now investigating it. Those who are on the inside of the secret tests which are now being conducted, say that the invention will undoubtedly win the war for the United States.

N. A. M. P. I. Will Make Effort to Correct Incomplete Address of Film Shipments

Action Is Result of Loss to Distributors and Request by Import Express Concerns; Offers Exchange Means to Track Lost Reels

Carelessness in the addressing of film shipments is causing much loss to distributors, exchanges and exhibitors, and one of the import express companies, having been unable to deliver many shipments, has requested the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, through its Transportation Committee, of which William L. Sherrill, president of the Frohman Amusement Corporation, is chairman, to lend its aid in an endeavor to assure more careful attention to shipments in the future. E. E. Bush, traffic manager of the American Express Company, in a recent letter to the National Association states that these shipments have accumulated so rapidly of late that they have no further space at their terminals in which to store them. At the present time two safes are utilized for this purpose but the terminals have accumulated so much that a surplus has built up around the safes constituting a serious hazard. In fact, this official states the matter is so imperative that it will be necessary to enforce a rule in their classifications applying to the transportation of explosives and other dangerous articles by express which provides that when shipments of this nature are refused and cannot be delivered within forty-eight hours after arrival, they must be disposed of by storage in a safe place or by sale or destruction, when it is evident that storage on the carrier's property will be a source of real danger.

With a view to relieving this condition the distributors and exchanges are offered the facilities of the National Association in an effort to trace lost shipments for a period of one month if the shipments have been made. The transportation committee of the National Association is working in complete accord with the traffic departments of all the express companies, which have extended every courtesy to the committee. This service through the National Association should prove of inestimable value to those exhibitors and exchanges throughout the country, acting as a central clearing house and incidentally saving the ships much trouble and inconvenience, as well as the expense of sending telegrams to hundreds of express agents throughout the country.

Through the courtesy of the National Association a shipment from a well-known company, valued at $1,054.88, was located and immediate delivery made as soon as the necessary information was given to the express company which was holding the shipment owing to incomplete address. Film shipments valued at many thousands of dollars are now being held by the express companies, and the exchange managers are requested to check up their lists, forwarding a copy of the same to the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Times Building, New York City, which will advise the proper official of the matter and the destruction of the film owing to the hazard and danger to the public involved.

Lieut. Wells Hawk
Assigned to Navy Dept. Publicity Work

Lieut. Wells Hawk of the United States Navy publicity bureau has been assigned to the Navy Department to give a wider scope to the publicity work of the Navy. He was transferred from the publicity bureau in New York to Washington last week, and now is sending out service stories of the work of the armed guard and forces in France. Mr. Hawk was instrumental in widely advertising Mary Pickford's first picture and the Aircraft program, and should make good in pushing the campaign for recruiting.

Bluebird Plans to Billboard Entire U. S. on "Star Cycle"

Canadian Cities Also to Get Sheet Posters in Big Ad Campaign

Before Nov. 1, billboards in every important city in the United States and Canada will carry twenty-four sheet postering to introduce Bluebird's "Star Cycle" to the theater-going public. William de Lenz, Bluebird's designer, has designed a dignified and at the same time ornate pastor to attract the passer-by and make familiar the features of Mae Murray, Ruth Clifford, Dorothy Phillips, Carmel Myers, Violet Mersereau and Franklin Furnam, who constitute Bluebird's "Star Cycle."

The six facial representations will hang in as many medallions, within a border of effective coloring, with very little type-matter to detract from the emphasis that is intended to apply to the individual pictures. In this way Blue bird believes that cooperation with the exhibitors will be effectively obtained and to that end the selection of city has been carefully made.

The schedule has been prepared so contracts for posting have been close in more than 500 cities, including every state in the Union. The length of showings varies in some localities and the posting starts Oct. 15 and will have begun in every contracted locality by Nov. 1.

MUTUAL PRESS SHEET CONTAINS ADS TO AID EXHIBITORS WITH FILM

Program cuts, lobby posters, muscues and catch line ads, for exhibitors use in advertising "The Girl Angle," the front-page feature produced by Horkheimer for the Mutual Film Corporation, are embodied in the press sheet being distributed to exhibitors. Anita King, the latest of the popular stars to come under the Mutual band, is featured in "The Girl Angle."

Goldwyn's Second Group of Pictures

With Galaxy of Stars Is Announced

Goldwyn Pictures announces for publication as its second group of four pictures the following: Mae Marsh, in "Sunshine Alley," November 4; Mabel Normand, in "Joan of Plattsburg," November 18; Madge Kennedy in "Nearly Married," December 2 and Maxine Elliott in "The Eternal Magdalene," December 16.

In "Sunshine Alley" Mae Marsh is said to have a role unlike anything she has ever done before. Robert Harron will appear as leading man in this film.

Mabel Normand's first Goldwyn picture "Joan of Plattsburg" is a comedy with a pathetic touch, thousands of the soldiers at Camp Plattsburg, N. Y., taking an active part in the picture. It was first announced as "Joan of Flabibus" but the title has been changed, at the suggestion of Miss Normand hers and the Mutualistic, Joe Smiley, John W. Dillon and Louis Sturey appear in the cast.

"Nearly Married," Edgar Selwyn forces comedy, brings Madge Kennedy the screen for the second time. The picture was directed by Chester Withey and Miss Kennedy is supported by Thomas Meighan, Smith, Alma Tell and Hedda Hopper.

Robert McLaughlin's play "The Eternal Magdalene" gives Martha Ellis a ample opportunity to play her histrionic ability upon the screen.

The bomb misses fire and strikes a lady’s parasol. He rushes to her rescue and throws the bomb into Tony’s story. Damaging the place badly, Billy is taken into the store of Hugo and makes himself a general nuisance. He and Hugo get into a fight, the result of which is that Hugo falls into a pit of rattlesnakes. Just as he is about to climb to safety his fast hold is shot away from him and he is left to his doom in the wilderness.

PATHE

“Stranded In Arcady”—October 14 (five-reel Astra drama with Mrs. Vernon Castle).—Lucy Millington wakes up to find herself in a wilderness confronted by Donald Prime. Lucy or Donald do not know how they got there. Prime is an author and believes that women are unable to do anything alone, but when Lucy gets the food and prepares it and then plans ways for their escape he has different thoughts about one woman at least. The captives of a gang of desperadoes have an easy escape when Girdler, Prime’s friend, and his party arrive. They get back home in time to find that a Mrs. Wells and the leading bandit of the outlaws are endeavoring to collect some money coming to Lucy and Prime, but with the arrival of the real individuals their plan is frustrated.

TRIANGLE

“Cassidy”—October 21 (five-reel Triangle drama, with Dick Rosson).—Cassidy determines to rob a certain house in order to get money to get back to New York. He goes in at a window and is caught by the owner, the district attorney, who is disabled through a sprained ankle. Cassidy in a fit of coughing, falls at the attorney’s feet, arouses his sympathy and Grant gives him sufficient money to carry him back. Going to the saloon for a drink, he learns that some men have captured the attorney’s daughter. In a terrific struggle he rescues the girl. The next morning he goes to the freight yards, falls asleep in a vision sees the Manhattan skyline and the outstretched arms of the girl he loves welcoming him.

“The Firefly of Tough Luck”—October 21 (five-reel Triangle drama, with Alma Rubens).—The Firefly leaves her parasitic husband to go to Tough Luck to become a famous actress. She becomes a favorite with the men and wins the love of Danny Ward, a young Yale athlete. A rich mine is located and the Firefly is given her share. Her parasitic husband returns on the eve Danny proposes to her. He breaks into the assay’s office, is caught and driven from the town. Firefly accompanies him with the money given her as her share. Danny and two men follow at a distance and soon upon the Firefly with her husband. They capture both men and he falls into a pit of rattlesnakes. Just as he is about to climb to safety his fast hold is shot away from him and he is left to his doom in the wilderness.

CLAIR HAGUE, HEAD OF UNIVERSAL IN TORONTO, GETS GOVERNMENT FILM POST

Appointed Member of Picture Distributing Committee of Food Controller’s Office at Ottawa; Body Has Power Over All Films Handled by Dominion

Clair Hague, general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company of Toronto, has received his appointment as a member of Motion Picture Distribution Committee of the Food Controller’s office at Ottawa. Mr. Hague’s colleagues on the committee will be Messrs. Allen of the Canadian Famous Players and C. A. Willison, Chief of the Educational Department of the Dominion.

Mr. Hague’s experience in the film and theatrical world has been varied and dates from the time he joined his brother in the business. He made his start with the Allen Brothers Company in Canada, and was connected with that concern for three years. He then became associated with the George Keule Feature Company, where he filled an important position for two years. The old Canadian Film Company was the next to claim his services, and when this company amalgamated with the Canadian Universal Film Company, Mr. Hague remained as local manager. In April, 1915, when a reorganization of Universal interests was in progress, Mr. Hague was appointed general manager for the Universal Film Company in Canada, a position which he has held ever since.

There are at present several exchanges under Mr. Hague’s control.

The committee of which Mr. Hague is a member will have jurisdiction over all films handled by the Dominion. It is understood, whether relating to food conservation or not. There is no revenue attached to the office, but the committee sits in consultation with considerable authority. By the appointment of two practical film men of the standing Messrs. Hague and Allen, the government has given evidence of its desire to conduct the business of the committee in a manner that will win the support of film manufacturers and distributors on broad, patriotic grounds.

At the second annual convention of the Maritime Films Exhibitors’ League held last week at St. John, New Brunswick, the delegates unanimously pledged themselves to co-operate with the Motion Picture Distribution Committee in every possible way to make its work of immediate benefit to the public at large.

Both Mr. Hague and Mr. Allen expect to be called to Ottawa soon to inspect a number of films that have been submitted to the Government for propaganda purposes, relating to the conservation and economical preparation of foods.
Richard R. Nehle, general manager of the American Film Company, has been elected president of the new Motion Picture Club of Chicago. The policy of the new club will be to limit the membership to 100 and thus far some of the best known film men of the city have placed their names on the new club's membership roll.

J. T. Rucker, head cameraman for the Universal Current Events and Animated Weekly, is in town “covering” the Six-Giants series, besides getting hand weary mitting his numerous Chicago friends.

Al Friedlander and George Levy, well known travelin' film experts, are now associated with the Unity Photoplays Company.

Take it from us them's sum damsels out there in the American Film Company, on the North side. Not to be outdone by the boys who left for Camp Grant, they have organized a “Benefits Committee” with Miss Margaret Nygard as “chairlady.” The gals are making a weekly collection to purchase tobacco, confectionery and reading matter, besides devoting a few evenings each week knitting sweaters for the Sannies.

Who says these film players are not versatile? Give a look—we have an automobile salesman in our midst in the person of Romaine Fielding, who is flitting with the gas vehicles.

Florence Higley, erstwhile member of the local Paramount publicity department, now is associated with that “live wire” gang, Cahill-Igoe Co. We understand she has been appointed “cleraperon” to little Cico Toodles, the film kid.

That new Da-Lite screen that Sig. Fader recently installed in his Bijou Drum, but he was there mal 'sum bit, too. Even Sig. perches in one of the chairs to take a slant at the pictures.

Cloud Saunders is surely havin' his troubles these days. Cawn find paper and ink enuff to register the piles of “Indo-tolerance” bookin's that are swampin' the local offices in the Schiller building. Tis pitiful, aint it?

Even the gladness rays of Old Sol were there to welcome Theda Bara, the vampire par excellence, as she whiled away the time awaiting the “Century” for New York en route from the coast October 13.

Have yez all seen that bit of old Erin flin' about the Loop these days? Ask “Dad” (Diamond, the sign artist), he knows.

We cawnt say how that Six-Giant frolic of October 12 hit William Farquhar, but he was there. All smiles, too. We left before the “lucky seventh,” though.

Art McMillan, inventor of the American Projectoscope, which is being put out by the American Film Company, is just chock full of projection dope these days, and it's good stuff, too. Seems to run in that McMillan clan, the way.

Looked like a Fox day in the old Loop, Sunday, October 14, with Jewel Carmen, Frank Lloyd and Abe Carlos, special representatives, giving us all the O. O.

“Elected”

If you all don't think walking is a great exercise, E. P. Grohe and Joe Lyons can prove it. Ask Jack O'Toole; he gave 'em the recipe!

The management of the Garfield Theater 2844 West Madison stree, is giving the school kiddies a matinee October 20, to witness a showing of the first episode of “The Fighting Trail” serial.

The week of October 15 must have been “at home” for the local Universal and Bluebird exchanges, judging from the many visitors who registered. Among those who registered were Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal; Joe Brandt, general manager of Universal; Julius Stern, president of L-Ko comedies, and Ben Lederer, manager of the Universal and Bluebird exchanges of Des Moines, Iowa.

We hear that C. R. Plough, well known as “Pop,” has been elected president of the new Film Art Club, which shortly anticipates making us all sit up and take notice. Congratulations, “Pop,” old top, and may success be with you and the club.

The well-known Austin Theatre, 5619 West Madison street, has once more thrown its doors open to Edward Wright, formerly of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, will guide its destiny this time.

Exhibitors Should Raise Admissions With War Tax, Says Harris P. Wolfberg

Harris P. Wolfberg, head of the Harris P. Wolfberg attractions, Pittsburgh, who has finished a tour of eastern cities for the sole purpose of investigating the war tax situation, says exhibitors are meeting the high price era in the least businesslike manner of all business.

“Paradoxical as it may seem,” he says. “The motion picture exhibitor who is by nature of his business a man willing to take chances, is hesitating today at the greatest crisis which has struck the industry since its birth.

“From all sides comes additional expenses which have been piling up every month of the year. To top it all comes the burdensome war taxation; and yet exhibitors have been hesitating to raise the price of admission.”

Rex Ingram, Noted Director, Starts on Walthall’s Feature

With the acquisition of Rex Ingram, as a director, the Paralta Plays, Inc., has secured one of the most talented producers in the business.

Rex Ingram

Mr. Ingram has a long list of successful pictures to his credit. Among those he directed are “The Great Problem,” “Broken Petters,” “The Chalice of Sorrows,” “The Pulse of Life,” “Reward of the Faithless” and “Black Orchids.”

He is now at work at the Hollywood, Cal. studios of the Paralta organization, directing Henry B. Walthall in his first independent picture, “His Robe of Honor.”

In Cincinnati and several other towns I passed through last week exhibitors are actually charging the same admission price that they charged four years ago.

“There is hardly a business that can be mentioned in which a raise in price has not occurred, and yet the motion picture exhibitor has been holding off every day. I do not see what he is waiting for. Each day he is waiting is certainly losing money, because there is not the slightest doubt in my mind that the motion picture patron will pay an increased admission price and will understand the increase and take it in the right spirit. As I see it, the move is simply a question of good business judgment; not nerve. What the exhibitor needs right now is confidence in the intelligence of the public.”
BARBARA CASTLETON TO STAR IN BERG’S FILMS FOR THE STATE RIGHTS MARKET

Overland Film Company Will Distribute Several Forthcoming Productions to Trade; Plays Will Be of Merit, Is Promise; Cast Is Selected to Support Star

It will be of interest to those employed in the state rights field to learn that Harry Berg, of the Overland Film Company, is preparing to place several excellent films on that market. Mr. Berg has just secured a two-year contract with Barbara Castleton, who will appear in Berg Productions.

In a recent interview at his office, at 729 Seventh Avenue, Mr. Berg said concerning his plans for the coming season:

“I have felt for some time that there is room in the state rights field for the output of a company devoted entirely to that branch of the industry. Many producers make their productions with no definite idea as to where they are to be exhibited. In the case of productions with a good one and of exceptional merit, it goes on the state rights market; if it is just ordinary, the owner gets it on one of the big programs, where it will be covered by some one else’s better work.

My idea in forming this new company is to produce our pictures up to a certain standard; that is, so that they qualify as real state rights productions. For this reason I have selected a star of Miss Castleton’s popularity. She has an excellent record in the motion picture field, and has played in many notable successes. We are all convinced that she will become popular with exhibitors. George Sheer will personally supervise every feature we turn out, which eliminates any doubt as to finish and care in production. A company has been selected to support Miss Castleton.

“There is one thing, however, that most producers do not realize, and that is the importance of the story in a state rights picture. Having procured the services of some well known star, they feel that the mere use of her name and personality will put the picture over. This may be very true of the program picture, where an exhibitor is showing a succession of stars, but it often causes the ruin of a state rights production. The producer must have an exceptional story to work with in order to put it in that class. I have talked this point over with Castleton, and she agrees entirely with my contention. Consequently, we are taking our time in selecting our scenario material, and are selecting only those stories which will have a powerful appeal and a lasting interest to the American audience. In a short time we will be in a position to make a definite announcement as to the date and names of Miss Castleton’s films.”

Mr. Berg has already started on a number of the films centers of the country in the interests of the Overland Company, where he will screen the productions of the company for the various state rights buyers, and develop the various territories for the coming Berg films.

“Babes in the Woods” Adapted to Screen by Fox Will Be a Spectacular Feature

Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin Have Leading Roles in Play Directed by C. M. and S. A. Franklin; Story Has Short Modern Prologue

A new Fox spectacle, adapted from the fairy tale “The Babes in the Woods,” which is several reels more than ordinary feature length, is the newest of this class of features.

Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin, who created the leading roles in Fox’s “Jack and the Beanstalk” and “Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp,” both of which were exhibited at the Globe Theatre, on Broadway, give the same demonstration of dramatic ability that has distinguished their first two productions.

C. M. and S. A. Franklin, who directed “Jack and the Beanstalk” and “Aladdin,” supervised the making of “The Babes in the Woods.” The photoplay spectacle was filmed in the Grand Canyon, Colorado; in the box Fox studio at Hollywood and in the mountains and valleys of California and in Hawaii. The natural settings are said to be particularly beautiful.

All the charm of the original of “The Babes in the Woods” has been retained in the celluloid version, and not a few of the memorable scenes of the story gain greatly through visualization. Especially fine is the episode in the Witch’s cottage. The house itself is a structure of gingerbread, stick candy and hot-cross buns. The Witch makes her entry upon the scene with the immortal lines, “Nibble, nibble, little mouse, who’s nibbling at my little house?” The story has been invested with a short modern prologue and epilogue.

100 Extras Appear in “The Pest,” Newest Billy West Comedy

In “The Pest”, which has just been made by Billy West and the King-Beex comedians, at Bayonne, N. J., more than one hundred extra people were used. This is said to be the funniest as well as the most elaborate two-reeler made by the King-Beex Films Corporation.

“Mothers of Men” Is Shown to Buyers in N. Y. by W. Robards

Picture Which Features Dorothy Davenport Well Received. Song to Be Issued With Film

Willis Robards, who has brought east the big Suffrage propaganda picture, “Mothers of Men,” which has been written around the picture by Gus Edwards and Will D. Cobb, has planned to use this song as part of the tremendous advertising campaign for the picture. The song will be displayed and sold by the largest syndicate of five and ten cent stores throughout the country, and will be issued simultaneously with the picture. Mr. Stern is most enthusiastic about the proposition and believes that the result cannot fail to be successful.

Oliver Tell Works on “Her Sister,” New Empire Corp. Film

Having finished filming “The Unforesen,” the five-reel feature to be published October 22, which will introduce Miss Oliver Tell as a solo motion picture star, the Empire All-Star now is engaged in making a motion picture from the stage play, “Her Sister,” in which Ethel Bar- rymore starred under Charles Frohman’s management and which proved such a decided Broadway success. Miss Tell showed in “The Unforesen” that the charm which made her noted on the stage registers well on the screen, and her power of dramatic expression loses nothing through being portrayed before the camera.

In “Her Sister” she has a difficult dual role to enact. Part of the time she is a young American girl and later appear as an Egyptian Sireeess.

AMERICAN GETS $2,000 WORTH OF APPLIANCES FOR BELL & HOWELL

The American Film Company plant: Chicago this week received $2,000 worth of new appliances for the Bell & Howell cameras. These are the latest devices for visions, iris and vignetting. This line in line with the policy of Samuel Hutchinson, president of the company who returned from an inspection trip the west coast studios and who plans thoroughly equip every department of the studio, no matter what the cost may be.

Mutual Plastering Country With Ad Sheets Exploiting "Lost Express"

Twenty-two sheets are going up from one end of the country together and newspapers are printing big display copy in every city where the serial has been booked as Mutual's co-operative advertising campaign on "The Lost Express." Helen Holmes' latest photoview, gets under way.

The "Lost Express" was exploited by the Mutual, pioneers in serial distribution, on new and special co-operative advertising plan, by which the advertising appropriation which heretofore has been spent in one large amount at the time of the initial screening, was collectively divided among member cities where the picture is showing at the time it is showing.

The plan included the posting of twenty-four sheet posters so that wherever a poster is seen announcing "The Lost Express" or news-advertising exploiting the new Helen Holmes production, the picture is running at a nearby theatre. In almost every instance where paper is posted or newspaper advertising carried, the prospective patron will be able to read just exactly where and when the picture will be shown.

The co-operative advertising plan was evolved after long experience in national advertising of serial productions and a thorough investigation by the Mutual Film Corporation into the various plans of exploitation and producing companies, which had been motion picture concerns as well as inquiry into the merchandising campaigns of various other industries.

R. T. Kane, Paralta Vice-President Quits Studio for Army Service

Robert T. Kane, vice-president of Paralta Plays, Inc., has become a soldier in the National Army and is now in training at Camp Lewis, American Lake, Washington. Noted for his genial smile which has proved an inspiration to the entire company at the Paralta studios at Hollywood in many a busy hour since this institution was organized last May, he never lost it for a moment when called to the colors, notwithstanding the personal sacrifices military service imposes on him at this time.

"Like a true American he only 'smiled some more' when the call came and met the sympathetic remarks of his associates with the manly reply—'It's all in the day's work. The country needs us all. I'm for the tanks and will do what is required of me with all my heart. I hate to leave you and my work here, naturally; but I am needed.'"

The night before Mr. Kane's departure for Camp Lewis, the Paralta plans of expulsion and producing companies gave him a farewell dinner at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Nearly two hundred persons were present and every branch of the company was represented, Nat I. Brown, general manager of Paralta Plays, representing the New York interests.

Robert Branton, manager of Paralta productions, presided, and, after the dinner, presented Mr. Kane with a handsome military wrist watch on behalf of the Paralta studios staff and company. Mr. Kane, who was among the guests, presented Mr. Kane, on behalf of Mary Pickford and herself, with a gold shaving set and with it expressed the hope of his early and safe return to the Paralta studios.

Mayfair Corp. Gets Beautiful L. I. Scenes in "Persuasive Peggy"

When the American Red Cross desired the most artistic and beautiful spot in the country for their pageant which was presented recently with such marked success, its members decided upon the estate of Roland B. Conklin at Huntington, L. I. All the artists and officials of the company, including the stars of the production, were present for the event, agreed upon the choice of the location, declaring it was beautiful if a more beautiful place could be found.

This statement caused the officials of the Mayfair Film Corporation much satisfaction for early in the summer they had used this site as a background for a number of important scenes. Many beautiful views were secured as the little star, Peggy Hyland, ran down the wide, circular grass and stone steps and followed their female in the late, following the sun as it moved across the sky.

This location was used as one of the backgrounds in "Persuasive Peggy," in keeping with the company's policy of having settings all artistry.

"The Warrior" Film With Maciste to Be Shown N. Y. Union League Club Members by General Enterprise

In line with the remarkable popularity which "The Warrior," starring Maciste, the hero of "Cabiria," has attained since its premiere at the Criterion in New York, Messrs. Sawyer and Luilin, of General Enterprises, Inc., which controls the United States rights in "The Warrior," are in receipt of another request from a private source, asking a screening of the picture.

The Union League Club of New York, one of the most exclusive clubs in the city, numbering among its members leaders in all walks of life, is the latest petition for showing of the wonderful spectacle. Mr. Sawyer has arranged to screen "The Warrior" for the club and its guests in its grand picture room.

An orchestra has been especially engaged for the occasion and several members of the Italian diplomatic corps are expected to be present to witness the daring feats performed by Mr. Maciste, who is at present doing his "hit" in the front line trenches.

Seized Austrian Liner Loaned to Rita Jolivet for "Lest We Forget"

The interest which the United States Government is showing in the forthcoming Selznick production, "Lest We Forget," is spectacularly illustrated in the present instance, which was furthered this week when the Collector of Port permitted the star and her company to work aboard great liner, Martha Washington.

The Martha Washington is one of the Austrian steamers which was seized by the government at the opening hostilities with Germany, and is one of the largest interocean vessels in port. Visitors are excluded from these ships, in the case of Miss Jolivet the Government officials hot.

One of the big scenes in "Lest We Forget" is the sink of the Lusitania, and a number of spectacular and stirring effects were borrowed from the "Lusitania." Old U. S. ships were taken aboard the big duplicate of the ill-fated steamer which has been built on the studio lot. The dry-lust Lusitania is an exact replica of the other, top tilted on its beam with one of its four smoke stacks almost submerged. At one with searchlights playing across its slanting decks and t'wot mob scenes in full swing, its realism is said to be gripping.

Earle Fox Is Leading Man for Constance Talmadge in a New Comedy-Drama "The Honeymoon"

Earle Fox has been chosen as leading man in "The Honeymoon," the new Constance Talmadge picture, which now being filmed. Mr. Fox though one of the youngest of the screen has come rapidly into prominence during the last year. His most notable work has been with Miss Maude Fearringer, and aseward Marliaut withNormals in "Panthea."

Miss Talmadge and her company are now in Bule where work on "The Honeymoon" is being rapidly pushed. is an original comedy-drama by Lloyd Sheldon, screenwrite by Eve Usnell.

It was during Miss Talmadge's work on "Scandal" that her director, Charles Gilson, discovered her comedy capabilities, and persuaded her to choose a vehicle suitable for exercise. This has been procured in "The Honeymoon," with a tale of two young people off for their wedding trip to Niagara. The action is replete with complications and quite amusing situations which Miss Talmadge makes the most of.

Ethel Clayton's new World-Press, Alasted publication, Oct 1, is "The Dormant Power," which it shows the reclamation of a young man of real ability who has allowed himself to drift until he faces a desperate situation. As this is about to engulf him, a little girl wishing camp comes to his rescue and the money saved to buy a piano, and this act of self-sacrifice is to be the manhood that is in him. Montagu Love plays the fateful role.
Four big stars in a variety of pictures make up Mutual’s schedule for the week of October 22. Charlie Chaplin’s latest feature, “The Adventurer,” a two-reel comedy, is scheduled for today, October 22.

Miss Olive Tell is presented on October 22 in the first of five appearances in Charles Frohman’s stage successes in motion pictures. “The Unforeseen,” a five-reel drama, William Russell comes to the screen on the same date in the Sea Master,” a drama of Barbary coast and the sea.

The sixth chapter in “The Lost Express,” Helen Holmes’ latest photovision, is issued October 22.

The week’s schedule includes two comedies, both one-reelers: “And Along Came Mary,” starring Billie Rhodes, and Jerry’s Soft Snap,” starring George Ovey. The list carries topicals, Mutual Weekly and Real Life.

Exhibitors Await New Chaplin.

Chaplin’s forthcoming comedy, “The Adventurer,” has been eagerly awaited for more than two months by exhibitors. The production long overdue, owing to the invasion of the Lone Star Studios by illness, and Mutual’s branch offices have been besieged with inquiries for weeks as to the publication date of the forthcoming feature. “The Adventurer” shows Chaplin in the garb of a convict, taking his escape over the rocky coast of southern California up among the Sierra Madre mountains. Olive Tell, the well known Frohman stage star, makes her in appearance in Frohman stage plays in “The Unforeseen,” picture presentation of one of Charles Frohman’s most successful comedies. “The Unforeseen” was originally staged by Mr. Frohman’s Empire Theatre, New York, in 1902, and enjoyed a long and highly successful run. Miss Tell is supported by an able cast, headed by David Powell. The picture is directed by John B. O’Brien.

Russell in “The Sea Master.”

“The Sea Master,” the October 22 film starring William Russell, provides the American-Mutual star with one of the most sensations of his screen career. Russell is cast as skipper of a Pacific coast tramp, of doubtful reputation and an ugly hybrid crew. The opening scenes are laid in the gorgeous Barbary coast, where the rough and ready skipper rescues a pretty girl from the clutches of a dive keeper. His efforts to make her his woman tailing, he makes her his wife, and it is not until the last scenes of the picture that he wins her trust and love.

“High Voltage” Next “Lost Express.”

“High Voltage,” the sixth chapter of “The Lost Express,” Mutual-Signal photovision starring Helen Holmes, brings thrilling mystery picture closer to its climax. Helen pens a number of thrilling stunts.

“The American Traveler” the fourth of the new series of Mutual comedies starring Billie Rhodes, supported by a Belasco, is scheduled for October 22. The Cub comedy of the week, Jerry’s Soft Snap,” is scheduled for October 25.

Mutual Weekly comes to the screen October 24 with pieces of the world’s latest news, including scenes among the American troops in France. Real Life, the weekly film magazine, carries the following subjects: “Queer Trees in Trim,” “How the American Traveler is Fed,” “High Cost of Wages Wins the Race,” and an animated drawing from Life titled “The Apparel and Not the Man Guilty.”

Montagu Love Asked to Appear at N. Y. Motion Picture House

Montagu Love, star of World-Pictures Brady-made, has been with widespread request for appearances in person in sing picture theatres in New York and nearby cities. He specially devoted his nights for more than a week to going are the crowds in Loew’s principal houses in Manhattan, Brooklyn, the Bronx and Newark, in connection with the promotion of “Rasputin, the Black Monk.”

The New Service Bureau of the National Association of The Motion Picture Industry Abolishes Agency and Commission Abuses for Artists, Directors, Assistants, Cameramen and All Other Workers in Motion Pictures.

No longer is it necessary for those seeking employment of producers or distributors of motion picture to pay exorbitant or double commissions or put up with any of the evils which have caused them loss and annoyance in the past.

All of the important producing and distributing organizations are now members of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and they have organized a Service Bureau to protect the thousands of men and women who wish to work for them.

Through this Service Bureau you may register without cost and one registration will be known to the entire industry, and each member of the Association will utilize the Service Bureau in quest of future employees, players, artists and technical aids.

The Service Bureau Ends All of the Abuses and Humiliations to which Players and other Employment Seekers Have Been Subjected.

The Service Bureau will do away with the granting of special favors to agents; of the payment of extra commissions, the insults suffered by feminine artists, and the unscrupulous casting and employment agencies operated outside the control of producing companies.

Mr. Wales Winter, a man of proven reputation and integrity, has been placed in charge of the Service Bureau and this important work under strict instructions to conduct his negotiations in arranging for the employment of those registered in the Bureau upon a fair and equitable basis.

It is important that all artists and those seeking employment remember that all of the important producing and distributing companies will seek their employees through the Service Bureau, beginning Monday, Oct. 15, 1917, Suite 320-321 Longacre Bldg., 1476 Broadway, New York City.

was as follows:

UNUSUALLY ENTERTAINING

ARTISTIC VALUE: Dramatic interest of story: Good

EDUCATIONAL VALUE: Fine

MORAL EFFECT: Good

GENERAL COMMENT: The picture depicts with vividness the dramatic effect and fidelity labor conditions in the Central American States which have never been presented to American audiences. It will have a wholesome effect in stopping wage slavery.

NOTES:

ENTERTAINMENT VALUE—This term applies to those films that are entertaining to see, or for children or the general public.

EDUCATIONAL VALUE—This term applies to those films that are instructive in science, or in any educational field, or that are useful, and that appeal to various or different classes of people and are generally of great importance to the betterment of the nation.

MORAL EFFECT—This term applies to the moral effect of a picture color consciousness or un-moral tendency.

The term "MORAL EFFECT" is defined primarily in terms of "artistic value" and "educational value." The appreciation of moral effect is subjective but is based on the general common sense of the people.

Shifting the Footage Tax

THE effort which is being made by a number of producers and distributors to shift immediately the burden of the government's footage tax on motion picture film onto the shoulders of the exhibitors has roused a storm of protest, according to communications we have received during the past week.

In the majority of cases the exhibitors claim that the footage tax was designed by the government to be levied on producers and distributors and not on exhibitors. From surface indications their position is quite correct.

Despite the storm of protest there is every indication that a large number of exhibitors would have accepted the additional cost placed on the film without a protest had not certain distributors sought to claim not only what would fairly cover the tax which the government will exact from them, but also a good sized amount in addition.

It is against this unwarranted burden that the great number of protests from exhibitors are directed, and we believe their position is very safe in refusing to meet these demands.

In practically every branch of commercial activity the ultimate consumer will be compelled to meet the cost of the various taxes which the government will levy against the product which he consumes. Eventually patrons of motion picture theatres will pay the cost of footage and any other additional taxes that may be levied.

But in the meantime not only the cost of the footage tax but the additional burden which has been imposed by certain producers and distributors will be charged up to the exhibitor. This is manifestly unfair. Because of the admission tax, to go into effect on November 1, it will be quite impossible for a great number of exhibitors to raise their box office admission charge immediately.

We see no good reason why the footage tax, even without the addition which has been made to it in certain cases, should be met by the exhibitor. It is a tax which has been levied on film: if the Eastman company raises the price of raw stock a quarter or a half a cent a foot the distributor does not come to the exhibitor and say: "The price of this picture is $40.00 a day; if you want the picture you will have to pay in addition a quarter of a cent (of whatever sum is allotted to the exhibitor), because the Eastman company has raised the price of raw stock."

The case is identical: the government tax is an addition to the cost of production and should be borne by the producer and distributor.

But exhibitors must not for a moment think that they can eventually escape the cost of the tax. Even if they escape the payment of the tax as an individual item they will be compelled to meet it eventually when it is absorbed in the guise of a higher film rental.

It must be recognized that this contemplated action by certain producers and distributors is only a move in self-defense; many of these companies are not operating with a profit and to meet the footage tax individually would mean disaster.

While it probably will mean the same in the long run we believe exhibitors are entirely correct in their stand that the tax should not simply be handed on to them in its original form, and here and there something added to it for good measure.

The solution to this and several other problems is higher admissions. Even without the footage tax many producers cannot continue to make the type of productions which they have set as a standard without obtaining a greater revenue.

In certain cases exhibitors must pay more for their film, and in turn receive more from the public for exhibiting it.

But let the footage tax—at least in its original form—stay where the government has put it.

** * **

Those who believe the exhibitors of the country should have a real, and not a dummy organization, would do well to follow closely the activities of the American Exhibitors Association. In so doing they will find additional proof from week to week that the A. E. A. is a real organization, composed of real exhibitors who are fighting valiantly to accomplish real results.

THE ever alert Mr. M. H. Hoffman sees in the substantial increase in admission charges which has been effected by New York managers of stage attractions and is soon to be followed by theaters elsewhere throughout the country, a very hopeful indication for the film industry. The outlook from that angle undoubtedly is promising, and it promises a larger attendance and an excellent possibility of introducing the necessary increase in box office charges for film theaters.

** * **

The various complications arising out of the admission tax and the footage tax point unwaveringly to the utter necessity for a uniform increase in box office charges. The public must be compelled to meet an additional outlay—as it is being compelled to meet an additional outlay for everything else that it is purchasing.

Relay of Footage Tax Creates Big Controversy

Exhibitors Face Grave Situation in View of Admission Levy and Addition to Rental Prices; Necessity of Increase Box Office Charge is Seen; Early Adjustment Expected

A situation of great acuteness has developed during the past week, following the receipt by exhibitors throughout the country of letters from producers and distributors informing them that they are to be charged with the footage tax which has been imposed by the government as a war tax measure.

The various local branches of the American Exhibitors' Association have called special meetings with a view to effecting an understanding with producers and distributors regarding the tax charges which are to be added to the price of film rental.

From producers' plans, an early adjustment of the matter will be made and exhibitors will take steps to increase the price of admission, where such a plan is feasible, and pass the burden of the tax on to the public.

Make Public Pay

In Chicago, Lubliner and Trinz, who operate a chain of important theatres throughout the city, plan in cases where the supplementary admission charge has been ten cents, to raise immediately to thirteen cents, leaving a margin of two cents to cover the admission tax and making the entrance fee to the theatres fifteen cents.

In cases where the charge has been fifteen cents it is planned to increase to eighteen cents under the same arrangement.

Where the effect of the admission tax and the distributor's addition of the footage tax to the price of rental is still more severe, the charge is thirteen cents, leaving a margin of two cents to cover the admission tax and making the entrance fee to the theatre fifteen cents.

Exhibitors Protest

At a meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association of Chicago on Friday, October 19, the question of tax on the addition to film rental prices which has been made by distributors, was the chief topic. Following the meeting a representative committee was formed to call upon the Universal exchange and filed a request that the proposed addition to the price of film rentals be held in abeyance.

The following is the letter sent out by Universal exchanges to customers:

To All Exhibitors:

You are, no doubt, aware that Congress, under an act of Oct. 3, 1917, placed a war excise tax on the rental of motion picture films, therefore the manufacturer has been compelled to make an additional charge of 15 cents per reel per day to cover this tax.

Example: If you were using a 5-reel feature, at the present price of film rental, this would be billed as usual with an additional charge of 75 cents per day. This would result in a rental of $4.75 as against a rental of $4.00. In spreading the tax in this way, the manufacturer feels that no one exhibitor will feel the added cost, and that the charge is equitable to all.

This charge becomes effective Oct. 16, and will be added to all film rentals as long as the war excise tax remains in effect.

Yours respectfully,

John J. Lubliner
Managing Director
Metro Picture Exchange

The quote above is continued in the following section:

Metro Letter

In the case of the Metro Pictures Service, Inc., a brief resume of the situation was incorporated in the letter to customers:

Gentlemen:

Commencing Oct. 4th the United States Government has imposed a war tax of three-quarters of a cent a foot on all exposed film being released by any film exchange. Commencing Oct. 15th you will be charged 15 cents a reel a day additional tax, together with your service, this tax to take care of the extra cost of prints on accounts of the tax imposed by the government.

While we realize that it is somewhat of a hardship on some exhibitors, the fact remains that it is impossible for us as a film distributing company to pay this tax and exist. If Metro were to pay this tax, the cost would be to us approximately $4,000 a week, and to companies who are releasing more subjects than we are, the cost would run in some cases as high as $6,000 a week. In any one week, one exhibitor will not exceed $8.00 a week for his entire service and the National Association felt that the exhibitor could stand this slight tax inasmuch as the patron of the theater is compelled to pay the tax imposed by the government on admissions.

We will send you within a few days a rider to your contract with a clause therein in which you will agree to pay this additional tax, and for the present the price of the picture in your box office is a whole week, we hope that you will see your way clear to sign and return this rider immediately.

Assuming you of any cooperation at any time, we are

Yours very truly,

Metro Pictures Service, Inc.

The letter of the Pathé Exchanges follows:

Dear Sirs:

Please be advised that there will be an additional charge of 10 cents per reel for each day in addition to film rental on every reel of film used on and after Oct. 16 because of the United States war excise taxes imposed on motion picture film. These war excise taxes will be charged as additional rentals as long as the United States war revenue act of Oct. 3, 1917, remains in effect.

Enclosed we hand you invoices for the above mentioned war excise tax on films which we have previously billed to you; please be so good as to inspect the same and pay them as usual.

Million Dollar Company Formed to Buy and Distribute Feature Films

Will Supply Big Productions Direct to Theatres to Do Away With Middlemen and Exchanges; Frank Hall, President and General Manager Outlines Plans

The United States Booking Corporation, with Frank Hall as its president and general manager, is the latest organization to enter the booking field. The company plans to eliminate expensive productions direct to theatremen.

It is said the newly formed corporation is the result of many months of preparation and study and a thoroughly perfected plan of procedure has been mapped out. Frank Hall is president of the new organization and Mr. William Lubliner, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Hall will also act as general manager.

Committee to Select Films

Twelve special productions are planned for the first year, their selection being entrusted to a committee on which exhibitors and exchange men are equally represented. The pictures considered by this "Committee of Selection" will not only number all productions that appear on the state rights market, but will include the special efforts of well known directors who contract in advance to make exceptional pictures for outright sale to the organization.

By purchasing the world rights for cash and not selling territorial rights to separate buyers, it is planned to eliminate the usual long draw-out selling campaign, with the extra profits involved in separate deals which the exhibitor is forced to pay for through high rental charges. Everything new is also promised from the distribution angle. Exchanges now firmly established will be used to care for the prints of the new organization.

Representatives' Territory

A representative of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, located in each territory, will take charge of the company's business, using the exchange for his headquarters, but working under complete instructions from the main office in New York City. He will oversee the maintenance of a carefully figured out one-price rental schedule.

An important feature of the plan is the guaranteeing by the corporation of big box office business and the elimination of the high rental prices as other special pictures procure for distribution. They claim that this can be accomplished by paying the producer a legitimate profit on his production and booking it direct to the theatre, thus eliminating the high profits enjoyed by means of the practice now prevalent, of treating all big hits as mediums for collecting rentals that work a hardship upon many exhibitors.

Universal Cuts Out Short Films to Concentrate on 5-Reel Features

Curtailment Affects Many Employees at Coast Plants; War Given as Cause for Radical Change; Big Plans for “Bluebirds” and “Butterflies”

The Universal Film Mfg. Company will discontinue all of its short reel subjects and confine itself to the production of five-reel features under the Bluebird and Butterfly brands, commencing November 1.

As the result of the curtailment in manufacture, a large number of people were dropped from the Universal City (Cal.) staff and a general retrenchment is looked for in all departments. All but eleven companies making Bluebird and Butterfly films, will be dropped. These will include the Nestor, Joker, Victor, Gold Seal, Star Featurette and Bison brands.

The retrenchment will affect a number of persons in the different departments, especially in the scenario department, from which the following writers were released: C. B. Hoadley, Leslie T. Peacocke, William Parker, Edward Hurstfeld, Arthur Statter, Henry Wulff, King Victor, Shelly Sutton, J. G. Alexander and R. W. Dillon.

The two prominent comedians, Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, after November 1, will find themselves without a company, with a contract that still has one year to run. They are not working at present and will leave the Coast for New York to take up the matter with Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal.

The war tax is given as the cause for the radical movement, but it is believed that the change in policy is due to the fact that more money can be made by concentrating efforts on Bluebird and Butterfly features than by retaining companies making the short subjects.

Robert H. Cochran in an interview last week said, relative to the Universal's position:

“At the present time the Universal Film Manufacturing Company has on hand about 350 one- and two-reel films, which have never been shown. They are to be released in the usual rate of time this will stretch over at least a year’s time. There will, however, be no further production of pictures of this length as a result of the war tax, which will render them temporarily unprofitable.”

New Trinity Film Co., Seeks Location at Madison, Wis., to Produce Biblical Films

A. D. Allison, Former Director of London Film Company Launches $100,000 Enterprise; Will Spend $70,000 for Buildings and Equipment; Clergymen to Be Directors

The Trinity Film Company, a new $100,000 motion picture producing concern, has secured a charter and is seeking a location at Madison, Wis. The venture is being launched by A Dorian Allison, former director for the London Film Company, London, England, and for a number of years with the Pathé Company, Paris.

The new corporation, will produce Biblical, historical, educational and industrial pictures and it is planned to expend $70,000 for buildings and equipment.

The directors of the new company will be chosen from some of the best known church men in the state, and ministers of each denomination will be on the board of censors. Professional talent will be employed for the leading roles and about 500 extras will be used in the first picture.

“Associated Theatres” of Minneapolis Elect Temporary Officers Until Meeting Dec. 17

Executives Picked to Serve Sixty-five Days When Stockholders Go Into Session; H. L. Hartman of New Palace, Mandan, N. D., Made President

The board of directors of “Associated Theatres, Inc.” held a three days’ session in Minneapolis last week and elected the following officers to serve sixty-five days, until the first general meeting of stockholders, Dec. 17th:

The Bankers’ Trust and Savings Bank, Minneapolis, was made trustee of the funds and also the depositary for the organizing fund.

All the moneys already received from exhibitors for stock was turned over to this bank and the bank is pledged to return 50 per cent of this money to the individual exhibitors if the organization is not completed with six hundred theatres by February 25, 1918.

It was decided to incorporate under the laws of Minnesota and to strictly comply with the most stringent rules of the Federal Trade Commission and the various state “blue sky” boards.

Kerr, Fowler, Schmitt & Furber, the well-known firm of Minneapolis attorneys, was engaged to handle the legal business of “Associated Theatres, Inc.”

It was decided, wherever possible to do so, to organize each town solidly and attempt by the advanced simplified plan of marketing and distributing to save each exhibitor a big percentage of his present-day expenses.

“Sins of the Sons” Seeks Court Order For Chicago Showing

The producers of the film, “Sins of the Sons,” through their attorneys in Chicago, have filed a brief in the Appellate Court for a writ to compel Second Deputy Superintendent of Police M. L. C. Funkhouser to grant a permit for the picture to be shown.

The brief filed recites that in Major Funkhouser’s testimony he does not state what there is in the film which is immoral, and adds: “We are compelled to rely on the fact that I, the Great Funkhouser, have said the picture is immoral and that’s enough—see!”

The attorneys for the producers claim the cross-examination of the Second Deputy of Police discloses his lack of education, refinement and artistic sense.

“Lest We Forget,” Newest Big War Drama Starring Rita Jolivet, Now Is Completed

Production Now Being Cut and Titled for Both French and American Trade Will Be Ready in Four Weeks; Good Offer Made for Continental Rights

“Lest We Forget,” the new war drama, starring Rita Jolivet, was completed this week. Leonce Perret, the French director, Miss Jolivet and Count Cippico, now are directing the cutting and titling of the production.

The scenario of “Lest We Forget” was written by these three persons and both English and French versions prepared. Miss Jolivet has already translated about two hundred of the French titles in Mr. Perret’s script into English for the first titling of the picture, and is now at work on the remainder.

Two negatives were made on this production from the first, one having a slightly different version of the picture from the other. One of these negatives, when properly cut and assembled, will be shipped to France, as good offers already have been received for the Continental rights to the picture. It is expected that the American version of “Lest We Forget” will be ready in another three of four weeks.
New York Exhibitors
In W. A. Brady Meeting
Resolve B. O. Increase

New York, Oct. 22.—(Special to the Exhibitors Herald)—At a meeting of exhibitors of Greater New York called by William A. Brady and held at the Playhouse, New York City, on Monday, October 22, a resolution was passed recommending that all exhibitors add 10 per cent to the present price of admission.

A committee was appointed to confer with a committee of producers and distributors to devise ways and means to compel exhibitors to abide by the resolution.

The exhibitors' committee which acted in the matter was composed of the following prominent New York exhibitors: Messrs. Burman, Greesman, Whitman, Hering and Wolf.

The following film companies were represented at the meeting: Universal Film Manufacturing Co., World Film Corp., Fox Film Corp., Goldwyn Pictures Corp. and Pathe Exchange, Inc.

An additional committee composed of Messrs. Ascher, Manheim, Cowen, Stein and Weinstock were appointed to wait on various distributors to urge a reduction of the 15 cents per reel tax which has been added to film rental prices.

TAX CREATES CONTROVERSY

you will please include the several amounts in remitting for film rental. On all invoices billed from this office after today, the amount of the war excise tax will be added along with the other taxes. Yours very truly.

Other large distributors have sent out similar letters.

Creates Big Issue

While it is expected that at an early date an amicable adjustment of the controversy as to just how the footage tax will be met will be arrived at between exhibitors and distributors, there is every indication that there will be a great deal of wrangling before the final agreement is reached.

The Eastman Kodak Company, which furnishes practically all the raw stock used by American manufacturers, announced on October 18 that the additional one-fourth of a cent tax would be added to the price of film. This increase the manufacturers of motion pictures were compelled to meet at once.

Hutchinson Interviews

The following statement concerning the tax measure has been issued by Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company:

The increase in the price of film must mean a great difference to the producer, naturally. It will necessitate a general readjustment of the film industry in order to meet this new tax. But the motion picture industry has already done much for the government and can do still more.

Taxation must be heavy in every line of business in war time. We must do our part—and do it without grumbling. It is useless to whimper over spilled milk—but we can take care not to spill any more than is necessary in the future.

I refuse to take a pessimistic view of the situation. I believe that both the government and the film industry will be the gainer of this taxation. It will bring us in close touch with one another and while the film men have an opportunity to learn something of the problems of the government, the latter will be able to ascertain something of the difficulties under which the pictures must be produced and the manner in which the money must be raised for expenses. It will do us both good and perhaps the film men will be taught how to protect their interests better than they have in the past.

I am of the opinion that this tax will speedily bring about a reorganization of the film business that will put it on a sound and enduring basis. The government cannot afford to be without the motion picture industry, for it has become an integral part of the nation. We want to work for the government and with it. Out of this taxation is going to develop a new future for the motion picture.

The American Film Company will meet the new condition as we meet any new business condition—and keep right on producing good pictures. We will not impair in any way the quality of our productions.

Statement by Rowland

Richard A. Rowland, president of the Metro Pictures Corporation, has the following to say on the tax question:

The Congress has seen fit to impose special taxation upon the motion picture industry and that settles the matter. The motion picture industry will pay the taxes and the patriotic thing for us all to do is to see that the Government gets as large an amount from the industry as is possible.

While the taxes are heavy, and in some cases undoubtedly a great burden, I see no reason for worry. As with all taxes, the public who have been taxed the ultimate consumer, namely, the public, will foot the bill. If the manufacturer now selling at the lowest possible mark, a market keen with competition is forced to spend more money either in taxes or production, the price of his product must go up, or he must cease to do business.

Therefore, it will, of course, be necessary for the manufacturer to increase his price to the distributor, and the distributor must advance his price to the exhibitor, and the exhibitor must increase his price to the public. In my opinion, a five-cent raise in the price of motion picture theatre admissions will cover nicely the footage and the admission taxes, and not impose a real hardship upon anyone.

The advance to the exhibitor will not exceed ten cents a reel per day, and ten-five-cent admission advances will cover the show tax. This leaves all the rest of the admission advances for the theatre, out of which their own tax can be met.

The situation lays the foundation for an advance in motion picture theatre prices which is already needed, to continue after the war. The whole matter is a nutshell of the United States needs money and needs lots of it. We, as Americans, will endeavor to see that Uncle Sam gets as much as possible.

“The Planter” Seven-Part Mutual Special Seen as Season’s Feature

Big Picture Version of Herman Whitaker’s Novel Staged in Tropical Mexico Is Expose of Conditions; Exhibitors to Get Play Featuring Tyrone Power Nov. 12

The Mutual Film Corporation announces “The Planter,” a seven-part spectacular adventure drama, featuring Tyrone Power, as its first big special feature of the season. “The Planter” will be available at Mutual exchanges November 12.

This production is presented by F. M. Manson, head of the company which produced the picture in Southern Mexico. The Planter” is the picture version of the novel of the same title, written by Herman Whitaker, a well known writer of fiction.

Mutual claims for this picture exceptional box office value on its value both as big drama and its decidedly unusual setting and able casting. The picture is said to have been lavishly produced at a big cost as it required the movement of the entire producing company to locations in Southern Mexico, and the use of many hundreds of extras, the destruction of a native village and consideration of native property.

Clasped a “Strong” Story

“The Planter” may be classed as a “strong” story. It is full of situations similar to those which have found favor with the public to box office profit in the past of the popular, and features. It is a love story and incidentally an expose of life and labor conditions in tropical Mexico.

“We are pleased,” observed President Freuler of Mutual, to have a feature that is full of strength and power and box office value which does not depend for its interest on exaggeration or distortion of its proper, native, interest. “The Planter” is clean. ‘The Planter’ is big and must be presented in a big way.

The cast includes Lamar Johnstone, who as a hero comes close to taking the lead away from Tyrone Power, Lucile King, in the role of a native girl of rare beauty; Louis FitzRoy, famous for his character work; George O’Dell, best known for his able work in earlier Triangle pictures; Mabel Wife and Carmen Phillips.

The tropical locations give the action of the drama a highly colored background of extreme faithfulness, conducting largely to the convincing character of the production. The photography is excellent, owing to capable technical work and the abundance of good working light in the tropics.

Reports gathered by Mutual from the public libraries of the country indicate a large demand for “The Planter” in book form and incidentally a growing interest in Mexican fiction and travel books is in evidence.

The Mutual publicity department is preparing an exceptional line of advertising aids for the exhibitor in connection with “The Planter.” Special music scores will be prepared by Joseph O’Sullivan.

Unusual lobby display and posters are also in preparation, in the hands of artists especially retained for work on this production. The paper to be issued will include two one-sheets, two three-sheets, a six-sheet and a special sixteen-sheet.

There will be two art slides, a variety of cuts, and an attractive window card.

The production portrays the adventures of white men engaged in the rubber trade, these being set forth among wild natural surroundings, pictured in the Isthmus country.

The story related is that of David Mann, son of a rich widow of Northfield, Maine, who has invested in one of these plantations. Young Mann is sent to the isthmus by unscrupulous promoters in the hope that they may hold fuller sway over the financial resources of his mother. He comes in contact with Ludwig Hetzer, the evilly disposed manager of an adjacent estate, a feud growing up between the men which results in the latter’s death at the hands of slaves, after David has encountered him in a series of exciting episodes involving a beautiful Mexican girl with whom the young northerner has fallen in love.

Moral Angle in Story

A fascinating feature of the play is a beautiful young slave girl, who according to the custom of the country, is sent to look after the affairs of Mann’s household, and who regards herself as “his woman,” being puzzled and char- grined at his refusal to accept her, as holding that relationship and using every artifice of her sex to overcome his northern scruples.

There is a yellow fever outbreak in the native settlement and young David fights to win his life and at the same time the affection of the beautiful senorita who has been his good angel through many trials.

The exodus of the slaves in the yellow fever panic, the appalling force of a tropical storm, the horrors of a stockade fire and the deadly tangle of a jungle forest, are all vividly pictured.

Tyrone Power, star of “The Planter,” played Bassanio with Sir Henry Irving in his last appearance at the Lyceum theatre, London, as “Shylock.” Lamar Johnstone, one of the best known men of the motion picture stage, plays David Mann to Power’s Hertz, and the two make a very strong combination.

Holmes Starts Fifth
Film “Uneasy Money” for the Essanay Company

Taylor Holmes, former noted stage comedian, now being featured by Essanay in five-reel comedy-dramas, has returned to Chicago after a trip to New York is at work on his fifth picture, “Uneasy Money,” a five-part comedy-drama adapted to the screen from the Saturday Evening Post story of that title by Pelham Granville Wodehouse.

Mr. Holmes takes the part of an English lord in this new feature.

The picture will be issued early in December, following “Two Bit Seats” and “The Small Town Guy.” Mr. Holmes’ latest productions, “Fools for Luck,” Mr. Holmes’ second picture, was published October 8.
Big Business Rules: Fastening on Film Industry, is Declaration of W. A. Brady

Principles Used in Steel, Leather, Rubber, Automobiles and Other Trades Rapidly Entering Picture Production Field, Says Director-General in Resume of World's Activities

A recent visitor to the Peerless studio in Fort Lee, where World-Pictures Brady-Made are carried from birth to maturity, expressed astonishment at the discovery that no less than seven distinct playphotos were in course of simultaneous production.

"The last time I was here a few months ago," said this observer, "four motion pictures were being made at the same time, and nearly everybody about the place, seemed to think the extreme limit of productivity had been reached, so far as this plant was concerned. What is the answer—or isn't there any?"

"The answer," replied Director-General William A. Brady, "is intensiveness of productivity, which follows surely on the heels of efficiency.

"There is no doubt that the World studio is surely, if slowly, creeping over the entire manufacture of motion pictures. It is quite naturally pleasant to reflect that this corporation has been the leader in carrying efficiency and intensiveness to its present development, the more so as its effect upon the business in general is sure to be vastly beneficial in the long run."

"When I cast my eye over this studio as it is conducted at present—with its seven directors handling as many stars and companies, each in a new play—and conjure up the condition as it was about two years ago, the whole thing seems like a dream, or a fairy tale, or the ravings of some idealist."

"Seems Like Dream"—Brady

"At that period we had two studios, the Peerless and Paragon, both representing the very latest state of equipment, and each calling for a very large weekly expenditure. The output rarely exceeded two, or at the most, four productions at the same time. There was no such thing as order."

"Everything was in the hands of the directors. Such a thing as questioning one of these gentlemen was plain heresy. They were accountable to nobody. Many were conscientious, and some were not, but the main fact was that system was totally absent; and the leakage was enormous."

"The task of correcting this disastrous situation was not only big, but often discouraging in the extreme. At times it required action so drastic that observers insisted it could not be done—but it was. Further, the work became more and more concentrated until finally we were able to release the Paragon studio entirely.

Output at Maximum.

"At the present moment we are producing more pictures than at any time in our history, and what is more, they are better, bigger, more pretentious pictures than those of any previous period. Efficiency and intensiveness do not contemplate skimping, or cutting down Quality, by any means. They mean putting your money where it will do the most good—with the sky the limit where a result can be had—and getting the last ounce of effort out of every part of the producing machinery."

"This is the big idea that is beginning to make itself felt in a noticeable degree all over the manufacturing end of the industry. The effort no longer is to see how many continents a producing plant can be spread over, or how much money can be thrown away, or how top heavy a business structure can be made."

"In place of all this, the same principles which have made big business in steel, leather, rubber, automobiles, harvesters, and many other branches of industry are gradually and surely making big business in the pictures."

“Daughter of Destiny” Selected as Title for First Circuit Film Starring Mme. Petrova

Completed Play Now Being Cut and Titled; Concerns Adventure of An American Girl in Hotbed of European Intrigue; Starts New Picture at Once

“Daughter of Destiny” is the title selected by the Petrova Picture Company as the name of its initial feature production, starring Mme. Petrova, the noted player.

The method by which “Daughter of Destiny” was chosen is unique in the art of selecting motion picture titles. Twenty-five titles were proposed—some by Madame Petrova and her staff, some by the officers of the Petrova Picture Company and the remainder by officers of the First National Exhibitors Circuit, through the exchanges of which “Daughter of Destiny” is to be distributed. A list of these titles were then submitted to the members of the circuit, with the request that each select what he considered the most appealing and attention-getting title. “Daughter of Destiny” was chosen by a large majority—and its selectors are men who know the box office value of a good title.

“Daughter of Destiny” is now completed, and Director George Irving is cutting and titling the film. At a private showing arranged by Mr. Collins for Mr. Rothapfel and other officers of the Circuit, Madame Petrova was warmly congratulated, and it was enthusiastically predicted that the picture would fulfill every promise made for it.

“Daughter of Destiny” pictures the romantic career of a beautiful American girl. Her father is an American Ambassador whose embassy has its set in a hotbed of European intrigue. The girl soon finds herself entangled in a web of diplomacy, and her love affairs have a way of tangling themselves, too. Through many exciting adventures she holds true to her American ideals, and in the end, through sheer Yankee pluck, emerges triumphant.

Madame Petrova will begin work at once on the production of her next picture. This picture, like the first, will be made at the Biograph Studio on 17th Street. The director and the staff for the second picture will be announced shortly.
Exhibitors Will Gain Big Business by Stage Theatre Price Boost, Says Hoffman

Plan of N. Y. Managers to Charge $2.50 for Seats Previously Sold at $2.00, Will Send Thousands to Film Houses, Avers Distributor

Looking into the future, M. H. Hoffman, president and general manager of Hoffman Bros. Pictures, sees great advantages for the motion picture industry through the announced intentions of the stage theatre managers to raise seat prices.

According to Mr. Hoffman, the plan of New York managers to charge $2.50 for seats previously sold at $2, raising in proportion to other seats, as well as down, is certain to send thousands of new patrons into the motion picture houses. Mr. Hoffman declares that what holds true of New York will come to pass throughout the country.

"The picture," said Mr. Hoffman, "is essentially designed for the masses. I have always felt that while many thousands of people patronize stage theatres, the stage theatre also feels interested in the motion picture that they form the smaller percentage of the total patrons who go regularly to picture theatres.

"But now that stage theatre managers feel it necessary to increase their seat prices from 50 to 25 percent, I cannot refrain from speaking of my thoughts in this regard. I believe that pictures could have occurred. I believe I am right when I say that immediately this change of prices in the so-called 'regular' theatres goes into effect, that the motion picture exhibitor will find his business jumping forward. Within thirty days thereafter I predict the motion picture theatres of the United States will discover a marked increase in their receipts as nothing else than the raising of seat prices in stage theatres.

"Without seeking in any way to criticise the proposed action of theatre managers who feel increased seat prices to be imperative, I wish to state that with the picture steadily gaining in popularity as a form of amusement—that such methods are sure to be attended with threatened loss of patronage to the stage theatres.

"However, what they lose will be gained by exhibitors—especially those keen enough to recognize the chance which offers to hold the new business which comes into their respective houses.

"What I hope these exhibitors will likewise recognize is the necessity of securing the best pictures obtainable. If these men will pause to consider that their increased patronage may be maintained permanently if they will book only the best pictures, then the industry will profit by the approaching increased cost of legitimate seat prices."

Mary MacLane Stars in Own Love Story Film for Essanay Co.

Exhibitors soon will be offered a novelty feature by Essanay. The title is "Me, Who Have Made Love to Me." It is an elaborate comedy-drama, starring Mary MacLane herself, the noted authoress of unconventional books and magazine articles, and the writer of the story on which the picture is based.

Director Arthur Berthelet has spared no pains nor expense to make the setting of this love story as expensive as the wonderful apartments Miss MacLane describes in her story. One set alone, representing seven rooms of the apartment contains thousands of dollars worth of the most expensive furniture, pictures and rugs. When the camera is trained on the spacious library of this set glimpses of the other six rooms are revealed through wide doors.

The story deals with the love adventures of Miss MacLane, and is based on truth. In fact, Miss MacLane was really wooed by each of the six male characters in the picture. Their real names are not used.

Mr. Berthelet experimented with the love making methods of the six suitors and shows, in turn, how their attentions were received. By Miss MacLane. The authoress appears in all the roles. The story, while the picture is far different from the usual type of vampire stuff. In the first place, it has none of the morbid themes that are usually associated with "vampy" films. It might be called a comedy-drama with a vampire playing the lead.

Edna Goodrich Play "Her Second Husband" Flays Social Life

A film play that seems destined to make its mark on the social life of the country is "Her Second Husband," written by Hamilton Smith for Miss Edna Goodrich. The film will be published through Mutual.

Although the piece is referred to by its author merely as a drama of modern life, it preaches a forceful sermon against the heterogeneous habits of certain social coteries that thrive within hall of Wall Street and carry their associations of the market into their homes.

The play is one that suits Miss Goodrich admirably and seems likely to prove one of her most powerful mediums of photodramatic expression. The scene is laid in New York among the striving newly rich of the "war brides" contingent. It vividly portrays the extravagancies of the "social bounder" and the embarrassments of "society" due to the new invasion.

Big Feature Rights Get S. & S. Film Play "Whither Thou Goest"

Lee L. Goldberg, secretary and treasurer of the Big Feature Rights Corporation, has closed contracts with Joseph S. Klotz of Klotz & Streimer, Inc., for exhibition rights in the state of Kentucky for "Whither Thou Goest."

General Enterprises Makes Sale Record with "The Warrior" Which Stars Maciste

Four Western States, New Jersey, Alaska, Canada and Other Big Territories Sold. Dominion Rights Buyers Use Six Copies, Which Is Four More Than Usual

What is considered in film circles a remarkable record, has been made in the sale of state right territory by Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin in their marketing of the seven-part screen feature, "The Warrior." Secured by General Enterprises, Inc., of which Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin are the moving spirits, just six weeks ago from Harry Raver, who introduced the spectacular starring Maciste to America, "The Warrior" was heavily exploited by a big publicity and advertising campaign reaching from coast to coast. Immediately following the launching of the exploitation drive bids were received from sixty-two representative state right purchasers in the country, many of them coming direct to New York from distant points in order to personally close the contracts.

Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin announced this week that in addition to the sale of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia to the Rowland-Clark interests of Pittsburgh, Pa., the following contracts have been negotiated for territorial privileges to "The Warrior." W. S. Brewster, of the Jordan-Brewster Company, Seattle, has acquired "The Warrior" for the four western states embraced by Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington. Mr. Brewster also obtained the rights to distribute "The Warrior" in Alaska.

The Civilization Company of Newark, has been allotted the state right privileges for New Jersey.

The Globe Films, Ltd., of Toronto, Canada, to which organization the Canadian rights for "The Warrior" were sold, have broken all records in the matter of prints used on a feature in this territory. Six copies of "The Warrior" are in use throughout the Dominion which is four copies above the usual number of prints required for exhibition purposes for the average screen offering.

Mr. Sawyer states this week that four contracts for additional territory would be closed with prominent buyers within the next few days, and the rapidity with which state rights for the General Enterprises, Inc., feature are being bid for has more than met his expectations.
EXHIBITORS HERALD

“Who Leads The National Army,” Film Shown in Patriotic Eastern Theatres

Atlantic Seaboard Exhibitors, Oct. 22, Flashed One-Reel Feature of Training Camp Life on Screen; Cinema Is Being Distributed by Triangle

Hundreds of motion picture exhibitors throughout New York, the New England States and Northern New Jersey, on Monday, October 22, added to their patriotic obligations by running the one-reel picture, “Who Leads the National Army!” a film authorized by the government, promoted by the Military Training Camps Association of the United States, and being distributed by the Triangle Distributing Corporation as a patriotic duty.

The response of the exhibitors in the territory covered by the territory served by the New York, Buffalo, Boston and New Haven Triangle exchanges apparently was almost unanimous when they were asked to run the picture as a part of their program. Hundreds of them immediately volunteered to book the picture in place of some other one-reel subject and pay exactly the same rental price that they would pay for the other short subject for which they substituted “Who Leads the National Army!”

To Use Funds for Training

All funds derived from the rental of the picture are to be used in the first big gun of a campaign for universal military training, particularly with the younger generation. The plan is to establish camps throughout the country at which boys from 14 to 19 years of age will be given a course of one or two months each year in military tactics, under regular army men. The time at which the boys will attend these camps will be so arranged as not to interfere with their school attendance and will be without expense to the attendants.

The first object sought to be obtained through the showing of “Who Leads the National Army!” is to demonstrate to the people of the United States, and especially by relatives of those affected by the draft, that the officers of the National Army are efficient, well-trained men, thoroughly capable of taking complete charge of the physical and moral welfare of the men of their commands.

Depicts Camp Life

This object is attained in the picture by showing just exactly the training through which the officers were forced to undergo before they receive their commissions. They were “rookies” in everything and were treated as the rawest “rookies” that ever reported at a cantonment. Their military education started at the ground and gradually ascended the military ladder until they were capable of taking command. In this ascent many of them fell by the wayside, only sixteen thousand of about forty thousand applicants having the fortune to eventually become officers.

All of this training is present in the picture.

“Who Leads the National Army!” will be presented in volume in the districts of the New York, Buffalo, Boston and New Haven exchanges for the week of October 25, after which a few prints will be left in each of these exchanges and the balance will be shipped to the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Triangle Exchanges, where the drive will be made during the week of October 29.

J. J. Laughlin Made Representative For Wolfberg in Ohio

J. J. Laughlin has been appointed special representative by the Harris P. Wolfberg Attractions, of Pittsburgh, Pa., to the Cleveland office in the North Ohio territory. Mr. Laughlin will handle bookings for “To-day,” and “The Mad Lover.”

Thorton M. Eckert, who is in charge of the Cleveland office for Wolfberg Attractions, has met with such success in exploiting the film “Caine’s Story,” “The Deemster,” and “The Crisis,” that he has been given full charge of the first National Exhibitors film, “On Trial,” and will book it for the entire state of Ohio.

Goldwyn to Issue Mary Garden Film "Thais" to Exhibitors at Regular Rental Price

Quarter of Million Dollar Production, With Noted Star, to be Published December 30 at No Advance to Customers

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation makes an announcement of interest to exhibitors everywhere, with the statement that its next production, "Thais," in which Mary Garden makes her screen debut, is the most ambitious venture of its kind ever issued by Goldwyn. It is produced at a cost of $100,000, and will be the first of Goldwyn's new features to be issued on a rental basis. The production, according to the statement, is to be followed by a new series under the Goldwyn banner.

In a letter to exhibitors, Mr. Goldfish said: "The production has been made at the cost of $100,000, and will be issued under the Goldwyn banner to exhibitors at a rental of $30. I believe every exhibitor will agree with me that this is the largest possible output for a film of this nature, and the production is the result of the best talent available. The script is written by a world-known playwright, and the cast includes some of the most celebrated names on the stage. The production is a complete success, and I am sure that every exhibitor will be satisfied with the results. I am proud to announce this production to you, and I hope that you will do all in your power to support this venture."
$100,000 Paid for "Fall of The Romanoffs," Herbert Brenon Film, in New York State

Groups of Capitalists Form Syndicate to Exploit Feature Depicting Birth of Russian Democracy; Purchase Price Is Called a Record

With the New York state rights selling for $100,000, "The Fall of the Romanoffs," Herbert Brenon's spectacular picture drama, depicting the birth of Russian democracy, has established a new film record. The purchase was made from A. H. Wood, the theatrical producer and half owner of "Romanoffs," by Mr. Berman, in conjunction with Mr. Brenon, through J. Berman as sales manager of the New York territory.

"The Fall of the Romanoffs" has just completed a three weeks' run at the Broadway Theatre, where it attracted capacity business at a two dollar sale of prices. The successful Broadway run is looked upon as a test of the production's remarkable appeal. As one critic expressed it, no film drama in the history of the silent drama, has ever been based on a subject of such world wide interest. The whole world has its eyes today on Russia, The struggle of Russia for freedom, the theme of "The Fall of the Romanoffs" has held the attention of every nation.

The fact that A. H. Wood, who is considered one of the most astute managers in the theatrical world, invested a half interest in the production, testifies to the box office value. Mr. Wood has won a remarkable reputation for his skill in picking stage successes.

Mr. Berman, who will be sales manager of the production, states that the sales should exceed any individual screen offering ever made.

Mr. Berman was selected by the purchasers of the New York state rights, because of the great success he attained in handling Mr. Brenon's "War Brides." Mr. Brenon knows the New York field of exhibitors and theatres thoroughly, and is considered as the ablest exchange manager in his field.

His New York offices will be announced shortly.

"Jackie of the Navy" Mutual Feature is Now in Big Demand

With the country in the throes of an outburst of patriotism and with sailors everywhere in the streets, few productions have had a more remarkable revival than "Miss Jackie of the Navy," the five-reel Mutual film starring Miss Margaret Fischer.

"Miss Jackie of the Navy" was a success from the date of release and has been playing to large crowds and heavy bookings. There has come, however, during the last few weeks, an exceptional demand from exhibitors for the production, those who have taken advantage of the public's demand for pictures of this particular type have found "Miss Jackie" a big box office attraction, it is said.

Chandler and Wright of the American Theatre, Montrose, Colo., have written the following letter:

"When can we have return date on Miss Jackie of the Navy? It has taken immensely here. Pleased everybody. Would very much like return date."

King-Beef on Coast

It has been definitely decided by Louis B. Berman, president of the King-Beef Films Corporation, that their new studio will be located in Los Angeles, Cal. Immediately following the making of their latest two-reeler, entitled "The Musician," in which Billy West plays a musician, they will take a special car on route to the Coast, arriving there before Nov. 1st.

"Over There," New Patriotic War Feature Will Be Issued on Open Mart by Select Six Reel Charles Richman Corp. Play Starring Anna Q. Nilsson Contains Big Points of Trench Warfare With Strong Dramatic Story

Select Pictures Corporation has taken over Charles Richman's latest photoplay, "Over There," and is publishing it through Select Exchanges.

"Over There" is a patriotic photodrama in six reels, produced by the Charles Richman Pictures Corporation, with Charles Richman and Anna Q. Nilsson as the stars. The cast also includes Gertrude Berkeley, who won renowned as the mother in "War Brides," and Walter Hiers, who has played the role of a just friend to so many heroes and heroines of screenland.

"Over There" is notable for its war scenes, which rank with the best war scenes produced outside of the actual fighting lines, it is said. The battle areas in this picture are extensive. Instead of a few yards of trenches and sandbags, hundreds of feet are covered by a really menacing system of counter trench work.

These trenches were constructed under the supervision of Lieutenant W. A. O'Hara of the Twenty-fourth Battalion Canadian Expeditionary Force, who participated in the trench warfare in France.

The story of "Over There" is based on the influence exerted on a really brave man by pre-natal happenings which cause him to fear that he will prove to be a coward when put to the test. This failing results in his placing himself in an unfortunate light to his friends and comrades and in the breaking of his betrothal by the girl whom he is about to marry. Later, under stress of circumstances and compelled by the call of duty the fear of cowardice is proved to be a bugaboo and courage wins out on the battle front. Many patriotic scenes punctuate the picture.

The acquisition and distribution of "Over There," by Select Pictures marks the fulfillment by the Select Company of its announced policy of open booking of productions of merit.
Brennan to Follow "Empty Pockets" Film
With Fantasy, "Kismet," Starring Skinner

Plays Big Production for First Independent Picture: "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" From Hall Caine's Book Also Obtained

Herbert Brennan, the director-producer, announced a declaration of independence this week. In becoming an absolutely independent producer, Mr. Brennan is the only big director entirely without entangling screen alliances. Mr. Brennan is also the star devotee through his creation of the Annette Kellerman fantasies, including "A Daughter of the Gods," and of the Alla Nazimova productions, "War Brides." Mr. Brennan has just proven his discernment and knowledge of the public taste by producing "The Fall of the Romanoffs," which was built around the Russian autocracy and the birth of the new freedom. "The Fall of the Romanoffs" came into the Broadway Theatre last October 21, and since the premiere performance has played to capacity business. The advance sale was a record breaker. In fact, no picture drama since "The Birth of a Nation" ever started its public career with such marked success.

Man of Ideas

"The Fall of the Romanoffs" is Mr. Brennan's best production. Brennan is a man of ideas, distinct ideals and a determination to provide a picture immediately following the presentation of "The Fall of the Romanoffs" Mr. Brennan announced his independence.

The announcement came from a hospital bed, where Mr. Brennan underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Postgraduate Hospital. Mr. Brennan had personally supervised the preparations for the Broadway opening and attended the first performances.

Mr. Brennan now is in absolute control of the corporation bearing his name. Other interests have been purchased. Mr. Brennan has practically finished "Empty Pockets," visualized from Rupert Hughes's mystery romance.

Has Big Scenes

Mr. Brennan has also arranged to present Otis Skinner in Edward Knoblock's "Kismet," and intends to make it the greatest production of his career. The Knoblock fantasy of the days of Haroun-al-Raschid offers wonderful opportunities with its sumptuousness of mise-en-scene, the story sweeping through crowded bazaars, thronged mosques, glittering palaces, harems with pools of bathing girls, and even the desert itself.

The presentation of Mr. Skinner on the screen has unusual significance. Up to last week he had refused every motion picture offer.

Mr. Brennan's other big announcement is the furthering of Hall Caine's widely popular novel, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me." Mr. Brennan has arranged to present this romance with its widely discussed handling of religion and divorce on the screen.

Enthusiastic Reception of "Spreading Dawn"
First Jane Cowl Film, Expected in South

With the publication of Jane Cowl's first Goldwyn picture, "The Spreading Dawn," from the story by Basil King, in The Saturday Evening Post, the noted emotional actress of the speaking stage will be seen for the first time as a star in a number of cities of the south.

What managers of the speaking theatres have declared a Southern predilection for musical comedy and farce, has kept Miss Cowl in her tours from being booked south of the Mason and Dixon Line, and Southerners have come to know her only through her reputation as a favorite in the Northern cities where she has appeared. That the managers were utterly wrong in their estimate of native appreciation is proved in the booking in the South. Miss Cowl's present venture as a picture star. The picture field is utterly independent of the system of booking which brings attractions to the speaking theatres, so no handicap was offered in that direction.

Leading theatres in a number of southern cities are paying high prices for the privilege of showing "The Spreading Dawn."

"SUNSHINE ALLEY" NEXT MAE MARSH FILM
GIVES STAR CHANCE TO DO STELLAR WORK

"Sunshine Alley," Mae Marsh's next starring vehicle, under the Goldwyn banner, was written by Mary Rider. It is said to fit the capabilities of the little star especially well and gives opportunity for the full display of her talents. The story is replete with human interest and allows the star to develop her part in her own inimitable way.

The advertising possibilities of "Sunshine Alley" are many. Special lobby decorations in the way of cut-out animals and lithographs mounted on compo-board are suggested by the Goldwyn company, as well as photo-gelatin portraits of Mae Marsh.

"Sunshine Alley" is being given wide publicity, which can be enhanced considerably by securing the cooperation of local S. P. C. A. or Audubon societies. A large part of the production is played by animal actors and it is said to teach kindness to birds and animals, a subject heretofore untouched upon the screen.
Exhibitors and patrons should not be disappointed with "The Son of His Father," as it is a fitting production for this popular star to make his appearance under the Paramount banner. Mr. Ray's talent is given a wide range in characterizing Gordin Carboy, and he handles the role to a perfection which will no doubt please the most fastidious. The production is a clean, high class comedy which can be shown intelligent and refined audiences with as much confidence as it can be run to the class of audiences with lesser intelligence.

Mr. Ray is well supported by Viola Vale, Robert McKim, George Nichols, John K. French, John P. Lockney and George Hoffman. Victor Schertzinger directed the production. The story is adapted from Ridgewell Cullum's novel. The settings have been very well chosen and the photography is excellent.

The story: Gordon Carboy, the spoiled son of a wealthy father, owner of several railroads, is sent out by his father to turn $3,000 into $100,000 in six months, as Gordon has said he can do. He meets Silas Mallinsbee, who resides at Buffalo Falls, and is anxious to have the railroad build a station at that point. Mallinsbee cannot come to an agreement with Blossom, Carboy's representative. Gordon takes things into his own hands, has Blossom made a captive and the next day when his father arrives, he also is made a captive. Using his father's code, Gordon orders the train crew to Buffalo Falls, and construction is begun. After the work is well under way, Gordon brings his reports to his father, who is proud of his son. And then, the little love affair which had been going on between Gordon and Hazel, daughter of Mallinsbee, comes to a head, and Hazel promises to become Gordon's wife.

Charles Conklin in
"A PULLMAN BRIDE"
Mack Sennett-Paramount comedy; two parts; published Nov. 18

A production with suggestive comedy and vulgar humor best describes "A Pullman Bride." If an exhibitor is anxious to keep his high class patrons it will be well not to book this comedy. But if he wants to entertain audiences with nauseating risque comedies here is a good one. Little more can be said about it.

The story tells of a waiter, in the guise of a count, who marries a rich girl. They go for a honeymoon and on the train encounter many misfortunes, which, portrayed as they are, often disgust.

THEDA BARA APPEARS IN THE TITULAR ROLE OF THIS SCREEN STORY OF THE SIREN OF THE NILE, WHICH IS SAID TO HAVE COST MORE THAN $500,000 AND IN WHICH MORE THAN 1,000 PERSONS TOOK PART. (Wm. Fox)
Roy Stewart in
"ONE SHOT ROSS"
Kay-Bee-Triangle drama; five parts; published October 14.

As a whole: Average
Story: Good
Star: Enchanting
Support: Smart
Settings: In keeping
Photography: Clear

Audiences at the Lake Shore theater, Chicago, enjoyed "One Shot Ross," the Triangle feature, starring Roy Stewart, assisted by Josie Sedwick, Jack Richardson, Louis Durham and William Ellingford. The story was written by Lambert Hillyer and directed by Cliff Smith. It is typical western melodrama, with tough dance hall, stage coach holdups and rugged western characters, well acted and well staged amidst sagebrush-covered mountains.

The story concerns a daredevil reformer who cleans a town and puts to rout a gang of bad men with his trusty gun. He is also successful as an amateur detective and by assuming insanity gains information that enables him to capture the ringleader of a gang of thieves. He is rewarded in the end by a pretty miss whose father's name he has cleared of wrongdoing. This is an average feature for those who like lots of shooting in their picture plays. Chicago censors cut out so many scenes it made the picture very jumpy and left much to imagination.

The story: "One Shot Ross" cleans up a tough town by intimidation but in doing so shoots the father of a little child. He moves on to another town, is injured in a stage coach holdup and nursed back to health by Nan Sheridan, Jim Butler's girl. Jim, Butler and Hillyer attempt to win the love of Nan and when she repulses him he forces a minister to marry them. In the meantime Butler's henchmen have stolen some cattle and while driving them off, "One Shot" blows up a mountain, trapping the gang. He learns of Nan's predicament and saves her from Butler's rage, as well as exonerates Nan's father, who has been accused of sharing in the stage coach loot.

Mrs. Vernon Castle in
"STRANDED IN ARCADY"
Astra-Pathe drama; five parts; published October 14.

As a whole: Likeable
Story: Pleasing
Star: Enjoyable
Support: Suitable
Settings: Splendid
Photography: Excellent

Motion picture theatre patrons will enjoy "Stranded in Arcade" and will be pleased with Mrs. Vernon Castle, who undertakes some daring swimming feats in a seemingly easy manner. Miss Castle displays great ability to get across the screen this production, which is very successful and the photography is excellent. Elliott Drexel, Pell Trenton and Georgio Maeroni support Mrs. Castle. The scenario is by Philip Bartholomae and direction by Frank Craven.

The story: Lucy Millington and Donald Prime find themselves stranded on a seemingly deserted island. Prime is the author of a book in which he writes of women as knowing nothing and being useless. Lucy Millington soon shows to Prime that at least some women can do many things. While endeavoring to make their escape they find themselves attacked by ruffians and things begin to look bad for their safety, when two of Prime's friends come upon the scene. Donald and Lucy rush to learn they are heirs to a large sum of money. They make a dash to the attorney's office and find the reason they were stranded is that someone else is trying to claim the fortune. They are successful in getting the right to it, and Lucy Millington becomes Lucy Prime.

Charles Chaplin in
"THE ADVENTURER"
Lone Star-Mutual comedy; two parts; published October 22.

Every action of Charlie Chaplin in "The Adventurer" will make theatre patrons laugh. This undoubtedly is even better than any previous Chaplin comedy. Every exhibitor will make money with it. Charlie is an escaped convict and his efforts to elude his captors are exceptionally laughable.

The story: After eluding the prison guards, Charlie rescues the mother of a beautiful young lady and is taken to her home. He is afraid he will be caught and even the sound of a champagne bottle being popped from a champagne bottle forces Charlie to throw up his hands.

A jealous suitor of the young lady notifies the police that the convict is near by and several guards endeavor to catch him. The chase goes on inside the house, up stairs, and just when the guards think they have him, Charlie eludes them. One of the funny situations is when Charlie, at his wits end, dons a lampshade and the guards walk right by him.

A big, burly guard captures Charlie, but Charlie introduces him to his lady-love and while the guard is shaking hands, Charlie again escapes. As the film ends the guards are still chasing him.

Ethel Clayton in
"THE DORMANT POWER"
World Drama; five parts; published October 22.

As a whole: Good
Story: Melodrama
Star: Fine
Support: Ample
Settings: Excellent
Photography: Clear

There is a class of motion picture patrons who find delight in stories dealing with domestic difficulties. The exhibitor catering to this class will undoubtedly find "The Dormant Power" a well selected subject. The story has been handled in such a manner that theatre patrons will not be able to guess the outcome until it is worked out to its ending. Ethel Clayton at all times gives her role a pleasing interpretation. In "The Dormant Power," Edward Langford and Muriel Ostriche handle their parts well.

The story: Christine Maxwell is unhappily married and constantly thinks of Carl Randolph, whom she had once helped regenerate. Her husband, an unscrupulous businessman, steals an invention from one of his employees and then murders him when the employee discovers the plan. The dead inventor's wife and Carl Randolph plan to prosecute Maxwell. Frightened, Maxwell demands his wife win Randolph's silence, but Christine fails. When Maxwell learns the truth, he attacks his wife. The wife of the man he murdered, who is employed in his home, aids him. The maid is tried for the murder of Maxwell and is exonerated. Christine promises her that all proceeds from her late husband's invention will be turned over to her and then Christine and Carl pursue the road to happiness.
Herbert Rawlinson in
"THE MAN TRAP"
Bluebird drama; five parts; published October 29.

As a whole: Good
Story: Well Handled
Star: Likable
Support: Plenty
Settings: Faithful
Photography: Clear

There is a well developed plot in "The Man Trap" and the outcome of the story is not divulged in the second reel, as is frequently the case, but the story is not at all times easy to follow. However, many audiences will enjoy the unfolding of this screen drama. Herbert Rawlinson makes a clean cut hero and his work registers good. His supporting cast consists of Ruby LaFayette, Sally Starr, Jack Nelson, Mark Penton, Frank MacQuarrie and Hal Wilson. The direction is by Waldemar Young.

The story: R. H. Steadman and Inspector Finch, holding civil positions, find themselves in a tight place and decide to fix the evidence of their guilt upon John Mull, a young newspaper reporter. The trick works and Mull is sent to prison. He escapes and plans revenge upon both Steadman and Finch. Burton Grange is in love with Bess Miller, niece of Steadman.

A TENSE MOMENT FROM "THE MAN TRAP," FEATURING HERBERT RAWLINSON. (Bluebird.)
Steadman objects to Grange and when the young people plan an elopement, Steadman and Grange have an argument. Grange strikes Steadman, and believes he has killed him, but Steadman recovers. While Grange flees, Finch comes upon Steadman and kills the latter in another fight. However, Grange not knowing of the second encounter, thinks that he is guilty of murder. When John Mull hears that Steadman is dead, he goes to Finch to get revenge and finds the papers which caused him to be sent to the penitentiary. Mull captures Finch and takes him before Grange's father, who is district attorney. The third degree forces a confession from Finch that he killed Steadman. Grange, not knowing of the confession and believing he killed Steadman, blames Bess. This estranges the sweethearts, and Bess finds that John, a former suitor, is the man she really loves, and the picture closes showing her as a new member of the Mull family.

Mme. Petrova in
"MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY"
Metro drama; five parts; published October 22

As a whole: Good
Story: New
Support: Adequate
Settings: Suitable
Photography: Agreeable

There is originality in the story of "More Truth Than Poetry" and a variance in the role of Mme. Petrova that should win an audience almost from the start. Mme. Petrova has an opportunity to show her versatility in a role other than that of a cold, dignified woman of the world and she handles the part of Vera Blair in a satisfactory manner.

The originality in this production lies in the part where Mme. Petrova takes over the leading part. Undoubtedly this is a sort of production that will prove appealing to the majority of audiences. Mahlon Hamilton and Violet Reed are among Mme. Petrova's supporting cast.

The story: While waiting for her fiancé to take her to the theatre, Eleanor, a novelist, dictates a story to her stenographer. She tells of Vera Blair, who is married to a law-yeaver client. John thinks she has been to help a rich home, and does all in her power to help her husband, who is possessed of latent will power. One of their friends kills a man for making love to his wife and Blair is given the case. This makes the man and becomes successful. With success comes neglect of wife and one night Vera, finding her husband in a hotel with another woman, kills him. She is tried for murder and freed by the unwritten law. At the close of the thrilling drama Eleanor and her fiancé make preparations for their departure to the theatre.

Alice Brady in
"THE MAID OF BELGIUM"
World-Brady drama; five parts; published October 15

As a whole: Brilliant
Story: Excellent
Support: Splendid
Settings: Excellent
Photography: Splendid

"The Maid of Belgium," with Alice Brady in the title role, sets a new standard of excellence for the World-Pictures. It is a gem of the first water, a vivid, vivid story of a charming girl whose spirit becomes derailed by the horrors of the Belgian bombardment. Alice Brady is splendid in this chargeable theme far removed from the usual picture, and Alice Brady's sterling portrayal of the heroine proves her a star of exceptional ability. If she has an ambition to play in a Shakespearean production, this characterization gives promise of an Ophelia that will go down in history.

She was excellently supported by a cast including Anthony Merlo, Louise deRigney, George MacQuarrie, Richard Clarke, Lotta Bernal.

The story: In the little town of Saint Michele the bombardment of the enemy kills practically all the citizens and disfigures Adoree, a Belgian girl. She is found with broken doll near the road and is adopted by Mons, wealthy American tourists. They return to America and Adoree's childish ways rouse in the husband the old longing for children of their own. Adoree faints at the garden party given by the Hudsons and the physician who is called tells Mrs. Hudson that Adoree faces the responsibility of motherhood. Mr. Hudson is called away on business and Mrs. Hudson plans to adopt the baby when it is born and to tell her husband that Adoree is the new mother. This is done, all goes well until the pangs of mother love consume Adoree and she steals her child. The family believe they have been dowered and dynamite the lake to recover the bodies. Adoree has hidden on an island, but the shock from the dynamite restores her memory. In the hospital she tells her past, her marriage to the Viscount de Michelet and the doctor goes to Mrs. Hudson to tell her the baby must be restored to the court, who had had the affair with the maid-off-duty. The child is restored to her and the Viscount, who is in America collecting funds for Belgium, is brought to her and their happiness is restored.

"FATTY AT CONEY ISLAND"
Arbuckle-Paramount comedy; two parts; published Nov. 4.

Vulgarity creeps into this Arbuckle comedy despite Mr. Arbuckle's emphatic pronouncement that he would make clean, wholesome farces.

Persons with refined tastes will be insulted at the situations in many cases.

There are many comical points in "Fatty at Coney Island" which are clever, original and funny and some that do not reach the objectionable, but for the exhibitor catering to the high class audience this production should be rejected.

Addison Field, who was lucky enough to get away from his wife and does so by concealing himself in the sand and watching her maneuvers by means of periscope. After she is well out of the way he embarks for Coney Island, where he meets a group of men, which he becomes a favorite with the men. Wife appears on the scene and when the wig is lifted things begin to happen to Fatty.
Adequate photography and settings are good. The cast includes Margery Wilson, Edwin J. Brady, Frank Brownale, Wilbur Highy, Ray Smith, Charles Alton, and George Chesbro. The story: Lupine kills Pierre DuFere during an argument about a card game. Wild Sumac, Lupine's adopted daughter, is accused of the murder and placed under arrest. Jacques Fontaine loves Sumac and decides to help her. He is suspicious of Lupine and finally forces him to confess to the crime. The villagers are making preparations for burning Sumac at the stake, but she is rescued. She then finds out that Lupine had killed her father, that her father was the brother of Armand DuFere, father of Pierre. She also realizes that she and Jacques love each other.

Mary McAlister in

"YOUNG MOTHER HUBBARD"

Essayan-Perfection drama; five parts; published October 29.

Exhibitors who have found the brilliancy and charm of Baby Mary McAlister a drawing card with their patrons, will undoubtedly find "Young Mother Hubbard" just as successful. Though she is widely known as Baby McAlister, after seeing her in this picture, it is hard to think of her as a baby. Her acting has a finesse which is frequently lacking in the work of more experienced stars, and this combined with a charming winsomeness, should make of little Miss McAlister a strong attraction for exhibitors. Undoubtedly this will prove an appealing production to most picture fans. Director Berthelet should be given credit for the excellent direction and the splendid cast of children players chosen to supply the story.

The story: The step-father of Mona Fairfax finds it too difficult a task to provide for the four motherless children left in his care by his dead wife and he abandons them. Daniel Banning, who lives in the same block, a well-to-do young man, adopts the rent and finding the father gone and the children alone, he turns them over to the welfare society and each child is given a home with a very ghoulishly kind woman. Mona, the oldest, pleads for one last evening together. This is granted, and in the small hours of the night the children steal away. They wander to the home of Banning, and his maid, having sympathy for the children, takes them in. Banning is very much displeased, but little Mona soon wins her way into his heart and Banning plans to adopt them. The welfare society patrons, finding their charges gone, trace them to the Banning home, and while Banning is out looking over his farm they steal the children. Banning is notified and starts in pursuit. He denounces the welfare society for their action and tells them he will adopt the children legally.

Jane Cowl in

"THE SPREADING DAWN"

Goldwyn drama; six parts; published October 13.

"The Spreading Dawn" is a good production. Undoubtedly patrons will tell their exhibitor friends this after having seen the picture. The story is an enjoyable one and exceedingly well handled. The photography is excellent and the settings are of the very best. Miss Cowl has none of that camera consciousness which so many stage stars bring to the screen, but is at all times natural, beautiful and charming. She is given excellent support by Orme Caldara, Harry Springer, Florence Fillin, Harry Stephenson, Alice Chapin, Helen Blair, Ceci Owen, Mabel Ballin, Edmond Lowe and Mrs. Edith McAllan. The direction is by Larry Trimble.

The story: Georgina Vanderpyle loves Capt. Lewis Nugent, but her aunt, Patricia, will not allow her to marry, and as proof she has sent Miss Vanderpyle to Georgina's father. Leaving another letter of explanation to Patricia, but Patricia has never opened the letter, Georgina coaxes her to read it. Patricia does and learns of her husband's innocence. Asking his forgiveness, she goes to meet him in the spreading dawn.

THE CONQUEST PROGRAM

While the Edison program No. 11 does not contain as much interesting material as previous issues, the material is not trite and undoubtedly it will prove interesting to film theatre patrons.

If the entire program is not used there are several one-reel subjects which would make excellent fillers. These are both entertaining.

"The Story The Keg Told Me," by Adirondack Murray, is a three-reel subject telling the story of a miser, who has lost interest in life, neglected his daughter and wife through his quest for gold. He goes to a lonely island and delights in his gold. One day his conscience begins to hurt him and he goes to a small lake and hurls the gold into it. He returns to the shore and dies. The story of this production is that a camper finds the barrow of gold in the water, brings it to shore and a spirit seems to come from the barrel and tells this story.

"Wild Arnika," featuring Raymond McKee, is a farcical comedy that should please most persons and bring out many a laugh. The story concerns an animal trainer, who when receiving an invitation requesting his company at a masquerade, believes the invitation includes his animals, and so he takes them all to the masquerade and creates a sensation.

"Getting Acquainted With Bees" is a fascinating one-reeler, showing the various devices used for getting bees under control when taking the honey from the combs, and how, after they are accustomed to their keeper, they will tend his honeycomb. This is a reel so entirely different that it should please.

Another interesting feature is entitled "Man's Triumph Over the Mighty Forest," showing the handling of trees from the woods to the mill. The logs are hauled to the mill, they are put aboard trains and boats and shipped to markets.

Some scenes in far off India, and how a cab conceals himself in a sea shell, completes the program.

Film Star Sells $100,000 Worth of Liberty Bonds to Hub City Admirers

Marguerite Snow, the noted picture star, made a personal appearance at the Park Theatre, Boston, Mass., October 22 and 23, and through the courtesy of Manager Thomas D. Soriero, Miss Snow sold Liberty Bonds for the Manufacturer's National Bank at their booth in Houghton & Dutton's, one of Boston's largest department stores.

Originally booked to appear in Boston only one day, so many of Miss Snow's admirers were turned away from both the Park and Houghton & Dutton's that she was persuaded to remain a second day. Miss Snow was tendered a dinner at the Hotel Lenox by Manager Soriero and George A. Feke, manager of the World Film Corporation's Boston branch.

At Houghton & Dutton's Miss Snow succeeded in disposing of more than $100,000.00 worth of Liberty Bonds. Miss Snow also started a little tobacco fund of her own for the benefit of the drafted soldiers at Camp Devens, situated at Ayer Mass., and so well did the patrons of the Park Theatre respond to Miss Snow's appeal that Manager Soriero decided to continue the fund indefinitely.
Edna Goodrich, Miss Minter and Helen Holmes Are Stars on Mutual’s Oct. 29 Program

Edna Goodrich and Mary Miles Minter lead Mutual’s schedule of films for the week of October 29. Miss Goodrich stars in “Rah Rah Maryand” and Minter in “Peggy Leads the Way,” both five-reel productions. The week’s list includes two comedies and two tropicaals.

“A Daughter of Maryland” is the third of the series of Mutual productions featuring the beautiful Miss Goodrich. It provides her with a role admirably suited to her talents and she has done it so well that it has been pronounced by those who have seen it to be one of the best bits of acting in which Miss Goodrich ever appeared.

The picture casts Miss Goodrich as a pretty and haughty southern girl. The production was directed by John B. O’Brien and an especially notable cast was selected to support the star.

“Peggy Leads the Way,” Minter Play

“Peggy Leads The Way” is one of the most delightful pictures in which Mary Miles Minter has appeared in many months, it is said. Miss Minter is cast as the daughter of a poor but indolent father, who runs a small store in a country town and lives in poverty to keep his daughter in a fashionable boarding school.

The child, kept away from home for years, finally spends her vacation allowance for a trip home and discovers the exact state of affairs. Whereupon “Peggy” begins to clean house, drive out the “sitting-up” closets and re-establish the family fortunes. In the meantime she falls in love with a rich young man and her career in storekeeping ends in a romance.

The picture was directed by Lloyd Ingraham and is in five reels. Ashton Dearholt plays the leading role with a capable supporting cast.

Helen Holmes engages in an exciting automobile race with a passenger in “The Race With the Limited,” Chapter VII of “The Lost Express,” the new Mutual-Signal photomurial, scheduled for publication in first run houses on October 29.

“The Lost Express” is a mystery story. It involves the disappearance of an express train, a secretformula for granulating gasoline and a secret and rich gold vein in a mountain mine.

Two Comedies and Two Tropicaals

The comedy films of the week are “A Two-Cylinder Courtship,” one of the one-reel comedies starring pretty Billie Rhodes, and “Jerry’s Lucky Day,” a two-reel Cub, starring the famous “Two-Cylinder Courtship.” Miss Rhodes is supported by Jay Belasco. It is one of the cleverest of the Strand-Mutuals. Its issue date is October 30.

The publication date of “Jerry’s Lucky Day” is November 1. Chapter VII is issued on November 8, and Chapter VIII is issued on November 15. The two-reel pictures of the construction of America’s new wooden fleet, pictures important industries in Argentina and a dry land periscope. The animated drawing from Life, a part of the reel, is entitled “Had Your Mining Stock Paused Out?” Mutual Weekly, the regular news reel carrying pictures of the news up to date of publication, comes to the screen on October 31.

Rex Beach’s “The Auction Block” Story of City and Small Town Now is Ready For Exhibitors

“The Auction Block,” from Rex Beach’s novel, is now ready for publication through Goldwyn Distributing Corporation offices throughout North America, it is announced. It is a busy town story and a small town, blending the two environments and people.

The story concerns Lorelei Knight, the daughter of a crooked country town politician and a shrewd, nagging mother. She is beautiful but that her mother has never allowed her to turn a hand to household tasks for fear she will mar her physical attractions, which the mother hopes to turn to monetary profit.

Lorelei’s brother, Jimmy, who has inherited dishonesty and shrewdness from his parents, makes an engagement by mail for Lorelei to be seen by the manager of New York’s most famous “girl show.” She is engaged at sight and her family moves with her to New York with the avowed intention of putting her on the matrimonial auction block to be knocked down to the highest bidder.

She is bought in marriage by the dissolve son of a millionaire, who appears to have more money than he really has. When she discovers this and he learns that she does not love him there is an awakening which results in pronounced domestic unpleasantness.

When Lorelei becomes the reigning beauty of the night world in which she lives, her black sheep brother, impatient of the battle between Mrs. Goodrich and the blackmailer, and other crooked schemes, which ultimately threaten to involve Lorelei in a murder committed by another victim of “auction block” society. With the danger which thus menaces her, is tied up the solution of her domestic situation. Her dissolute young husband, disinherited by his father, is forced to work; but while he meets with success in business, his craving for liquor is not wholly conquered. Not until Lorelei leaves him does he come to a full realization of his mistake, and win her love. When they are happy together the advent of a baby brings about a reconciliation between the young husband and his parents.

Paralta Studio and Activities Pictured as Prelude to Showing of “Madame Who” Film in New York

A large and appreciative audience witnessed the special showing of Bessie Barriscale’s second Paralta play, “Madam Who,” at Aeolian Hall, New York, last week. As a novelty, scenes in and about the Paralta Studios at Hollywood, Calif., were also shown, which gave the spectators an idea of what a motion picture production plant looks like.

The various buildings and big exterior sets constructed for “A Man’s Man,” “Turn of a Card” and “Madam Who,” were pictured, and the southern mansion utilized in filming the last named play. The open-air and glass covered stages with directors and companies working; the property rooms and department heads working; new buildings; new sets are seen. The new direction problems and the carpenter shops and planing mill were shown. Jessie Boothe, Monte M. Katterjohn, Hayden Talbot, Frances Guinan, William Horwitz, Thomas J. Geraghty and other scenario writers were caught at their machines.

Vice-President Robert T. Kane, in consultation with Robert Brunton, manager of productions, was pictured as well as active operations of making titles, assembling films and other interesting parts of the work of making a big production. Miss Barriscale in “Madam Who” was then shown.

N. Y. 71st Men Go “Over the Top” in Fox’s “Les Miserables” Film

In Fort Lee, N. J., William Fox has in preparation a film version of Hugo’s “Les Miserables.” Standing on the big studio lot is a reproduction of the San Antoine district of Paris, nine city blocks in extent.

Men with real military training were needed to personate the guard for those scenes in “Les Miserables” depicting the Revolution of July, the fighting in the streets behind barricades, the clashes between the citizenry and the National Guard of France. Through the courtesy of the officers of the 71st, Frank Lloyd, under whose direction William Farnum is making the picture, obtained the services of a large number of an Chaplin Emerges From Sand
Like Caterpillar in Opening
His New Comedy "Adventurer"

Charley Chaplin's latest Mutual comedy, "The Adventurer," which will be out October 22, opens with a novel comedy angle in which the inimitable farceur, who is being sought high and low by armed squads of aentiarymen from which he is supposed to have escaped, emerges like a striper caterpillar from the sand of the beach, leaving a deep hole behind him into which the astonished guard tumbles backward, while Charlie makes good his escape for the tune being:

"The Adventurer" is made up of one continuous effort on the part of Mr. Chaplin's pursuers to corner him, and an amazing number of narrow escapes on the part of the star, each of which is more comical than the last.

The play opens on the sea beach, with Chaplin in his convict stripes and the little round cap of the penitentiary inmate. There is a view of rough and rugged coast with some precipitous cliffs up and down which Chaplin leads his pursuers, eluding them with flit-footed dexterity for which he is noted.

Becoming wearied of the sport of being shot at by the guard, Chaplin exchanges his suit of stripes for the bathing trights of a fashionable beachcomber, and, thus disguised, he proceeds to save the life of the fair Edna Purviance, as well as that of her mother, the former having gotten in deep water while trying to save the latter.

Chaplin executes the rescue with his usual nonchalance and incidentally gives a fine exhibition of swimming and diving. This is the first Chaplin picture, by the way, in which the comedian's skill at water sports has been demonstrated.

Of course, the gratitude of the beautiful young woman whom he has rescued prompts her to make Charlie her guest at the family mansion and it is there that he arouses the hostility of a Count, who is paying his hostess attention. The Count recognizes Charles as an escaped convict, but the tables are cleverly turned on him by the former who diverts suspicion to the foreigner by drawing whiskers on his own picture in a newspaper, thus making it resemble the Count instead of himself.

Despite this subterfuge, Charlie, habited in a borrowed dress suit, is traced down by the guards, who break into the house and begin an extraordinary pursuit up and down stairs, over balconies and in and out of folding doors, the agility of Chaplin in eluding them being characterized by rather more than his usual oddity of gesture and expression.

Throughout his wild leaps over balustrades and all sorts of obstacles, Chaplin preserves his gravity of visage, varying this with a comical grin whenever it appears that for the moment he has eluded his enemies.

Fox Exclusive Feature Series
Will Star Tom Mix, Cowboy Actor

William Fox announces as the latest star of the Fox Exclusive Feature Series, Tom Mix, one of the most noted cowboy actors of motion pictures.

For the last ten months Mr. Mix has been starring in comedies on the Fox program. His entry into the five and six-reel class of subjects should attract much attention among exhibitors.

The type of drama in which he will appear, will be largely Western, and will afford Mix ample opportunity to display his riding "stunts" which have gained him the title of most fearless of screen players. Tom's picture work is merely a chapter from the adventurous story of his life.

"By The Sea" An Early Chaplin Comedy,
Scheduled by Essanay

The next Essanay-Chaplin film, "By the Sea," is one of the first of the series on which the famous comedian built up his reputation. At the time of its original publication, it proved one of the most popular of the Chaplin series, and is sure of a warm reception on its return engagement. It has a running time of twenty-five minutes and will be issued through the General Film Company, November 10.
Maxine Elliott Theatre in N. Y.
Used by Paramount as a Studio

Maxine Elliott's theatre on 39th street, New York, became for one afternoon recently a Paramount studio, when Marguerite Clark enacted some of the playhouse scenes in "Bah! My Man's Idol," third of the "Sub-Deb" stories from Mary Roberts Rinehart's series of highly amusing tales in the Saturday Evening Post. Also some three hundred extra people constituting an audience of elite first-nighters saw Miss Clark act in a theatre which was not, for the moment, a theatre but a studio; and while she acted it was not for the audience but for the camera—or rather for future screen audiences. As a matter of fact the audience was not an audience at all but a company of actors. In fact, the entire affair was an involution of contradictions; a paradoxical turning of the theatre upon itself, so to speak.

THIS WEEK AT DOWNTOWN CHICAGO THEATERS

ZIEGFELD—Arca, "The Narrow Trail," with Wm. S. Hart.

Holmes and Mary McAlister Are Featured in Essanay Co.

Program of Films Next Week

Essanay's offerings to exhibitors this week consist of a comedy-drama starring Taylor Holmes, the comedian, a comedy-drama starring Little Mary McAlister, and two George Ade Fables. The Holmes picture is entitled, "Two Bit Seats," and is full of amusing situations, with a light romance running through the story. It has a screen time of sixty-five minutes and will be published through the George Kleine exchanges November 5.

Little Mary's picture, "Young Mother Hubbard," while containing much comedy, has a dramatic appeal. The principal characters are all children, especially well acted and staged and has a screen time of sixty-five minutes. It will be issued October 29 through the Kleine System.

The fables, which have a screen time of twenty-five minutes each, are "The Fable of the Uplifter and his Dandy Little Opus," and "The Fable of the Girl Who Took Notes and Got Wise and then Fell Down." All Ade fables are published through the General Film Company, Inc.

Gaumont-Mutual Weekly Ready Nov. 4.
Gives Happenings Throughout World

The Gaumont-Mutual Weekly has its first showing on November 4, and No. 119 of the news reels will reach the theatre on the same day. There will be many scenes showing important happenings throughout the world. War news will be featured, and it is planned to present pictures in that issue which have been taken by Gaumont photographers on the actual battle front.

The second Gaumont publication of this week will be No. 56 of its screen magazine, Reel Life, which will be issued on November 5. There are five attractive subjects, including an animated drawing, "The Great Divide."
Fire Destroying Grain Worth $2,000,000 Featured in Gaumont Reels for Oct. 21

Brooklyn Elevators Containing Cereal for Shipment to U. S. Allies Burn While Cameraman Records Spectacle for News Film; Other Interesting Subjects Scheduled

It is quite evident that German spies, or other enemies of the United States and its allies, will do all they can to destroy our supplies of food. The fire in the Brooklyn elevators, which destroyed grain intended for shipment to our allies, was evidently of incendiary origin. For conditions as they started, Gaumont photographers were on the scene. The result is shown in some of the most startling fire scenes ever photographed, which will appear in No. 147 of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly, to be published Sunday, October 21. It is probable that this fire will lead to the guarding of all food or other war materials, as this predominates in this number of the Mutual Weekly. In New York City, env voys of the Allies are received at City Hall as guests of the Southern Commercial Congress, now in session; Governor Whitman makes a patriotic address and advises everybody to invest in Liberty Bonds; and the U. S. Signal Corps instructs the fair guests of the big hotels in flag signaling. In Washington, Governor Denny reviews the Coast Artillery of that state. In collecting old shoes so that the leather can be used for other purposes, Fresno, Cal., sets an example which all towns should follow. A picture that needs no title shows a marine bidding his family farewell.

Among the pictures from other countries is one showing French soldiers who accompanied the War Mission to Russia, marching through the streets of Moscow.

Scenes of general interest show the sudden opening in the Great Lakes of the big freighter, "The War Hound," a big tonement blaze in San Francisco; and Mayor Mitchel of New York City, turning on the water from the completed Catskill system. The new styles in Fall Coats complete the reel.

Better Trade at Theatres Causes Becker to Issue "Who Is Your Neighbor" Earlier

Amusement Conditions Show Such Big Improvement General Manager Becker of Master Dramas Features Decides to Publish Play Now Instead of in Winter

"S. Rankin Drew's 'Who's Your Neighbor?' was shown to the trade press immediately upon its completion last summer," says Herman Becker, general manager of Master Dramas Features, Inc., which concerns owns the world rights. "But in view of what we thought would be a slight depression through war conditions," he continues, "I decided to hold the film for territorial sale until winter. But I guessed wrong. Amusement conditions as a whole have never been so good as right now and it would be a mere waste of time to keep a big picture off the market.

'I have a right to speak of amusement conditions as a whole.' My interests are not only picture ones, but I produce for vaudeville also. The latter connection showed me just what the theatres are doing. A demand for my acts set in. 'Time' suddenly became easy to fill. And it was easy to fill for the houses felt a freshered public patronage, due no doubt to the desire of the people to bear their war burdens better. I reports from my acts showed that in every district played, the theatres were being better patronized. I believe that the English showed the same reaction to entertainment after they went into the war, but that the theatres did no obviously better business until a full year after the outbreak of the war. Here it has been different, for the public showed the desire of theatrical relaxation almost immediately."

Quotes "Herald" Review

Actuated by these facts, Mr. Becker has already opened the winter sales campaign of 'Who's Your Neighbor?' and in his letters to the trade phrases from the EXHIBITOR'S HERALD criticism are prominently quoted.

Already Washington, Colorado, Nevada, Oregon, Arizona, California, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, Northern New Jersey have been closed and deals are pending in New York, Southern New Jersey, Mexico, Pennsylvania, Porto Rico, and several of the South American countries. The American popularity of the picture is indicated in the endorsement of Robert W. Helber, famous reformer and secretary of the New York Committee of Twelve, to the effect that the country would be better off if the people "took more interest in their neighbors and found out for themselves just who and what they are." Similar endorsements have been given by other prominent Americans.

Three Stars in Film

Willard Mack wrote "Who's Your Neighbor?" S. Rankin Drew, who directed the feature, now is in France, according to Mr. Becker, where he is serving with the American Ambulance Corps. Mr. Becker states that it is Mr. Drew's intention to produce another Willard Mack play when conditions would permit his return from Europe. Three stars now employed by Mr. Drew in the "Who's Your Neighbor?" cast: Christine Mayo, Evelyn Brent and Anders Randolf, with Frank Morgan and William Sherlock in support. Director Drew called for the stars to work a week after finishing the picture.

General Manager Becker has had advertising ads prepared to go with the picture. Among these are four-color, 1, 3, 6 and 34-sheet lithos, two styles of window cards and half sheets, 8x10 lobby display photos, twenty to a set; four sizes 23x29; hand-colored; thirty subjects 11x14, and display frames to match in imitation of genuine Florentine marble; announcement slides and 3 posters in four colors on extra heavy three-play canvases; advertising mats from fourteen lines single column to a half page, one and three column newspaper cuts of scenes and players make a striking "reasons why" herald.

Mary Garden Makes Flying Trip to Florida to Get Desert Scenes

Mary Garden, the newest Goldwyn film star, who has just started work on technical, is making a flying trip to the South, accompanied by directors Ballin and Crane, a publicity man, several cameramen and a still photographer, to secure several desert scenes. It will take about six hours to film the scenes for which the thousand-mile trip is being made.

He will have pictures of the sand dunes, temples, houses and streets of Alexandria, called for in the story, are being built at the Fort Lee studio for the balance of the story, which will be taken on Miss Garden's return from Florida.

King-Bee to Celebrate

Nat H. Spitzer, sales manager of the King-Bee Films Corporation, has invited all the sales managers of the various exchanges throughout the United States to come to New York Thanksgiving week to celebrate the success made by Billy West comedies.

SELECT PICTURES CORP. OPENS NEW EXCHANGE

The Select Pictures Corporation has established new exchanges in Detroit and Minneapolis. Mr. E. W. D. Ward will be in charge of the Detroit exchange, which is located at 906 Peter Smith building, and he will have the greater part of the staff in Michigan.

The Cincinnati office is in the Strand Theatre building and will be under the supervision of Sam E. Morris, manager of the Cincinnati Exchange. Southern Indiana, including Indianapolis, will be served from this exchange.

The St. Louis Select exchange will be under the management of E. W. Dunn, which will serve southwestern Illinois, southern Kentucky and St. Louis will be served.

The Pittsburgh Exchange has been placed in charge of Harvey B. Day.

Her father is angered when Beth tells him that she is to marry the young Northerner. One evening, while looting Treadwell's safe, Ripley is surprised by the appearance of Treadwell. There is a struggle and Treadwell is killed by Ripley. Ripley and Standish then fight. Standish killing Ripley.

"A Two-Cylinder Courtship"—October 30 (one-reel Strand comedy with Billie Rhodes and Jay Belasco).—Jay and Billie, unable to overcome father's objections, plan to marry. Ripley, a Fast Track man, succeeds in an auto, but the gasoline gives out, so he calls his lawyer and tells him to halt the pair. The lawyer, dressed as a minister, meets Jay and Billie. They are delighted at finding a minister and accompany him to his home, where they are trapped. They endeavor to escape by a ladder of sheets and blankets when father comes in. The husband and while father is trying to decide whether they escaped by the ladder or not, they run out of the door. A minister comes along and from the window father witnesses their marriage.

"Jerry's Lucky Day"—November 1 (one-reel Cub' comedy with George Ovey).—Jerry meets a hobo. Both being hungry they make plans to get a good meal. A detective hides his disguise in a nearby bush. Jerry plans that he will go to the restaurant, order a meal and when time comes to pay he will drop a plate out of the window and the hobo, in disguise, will arrest him. The plan works and then they reverse the affair. The hobo throws one plate out of the window after another, but Jerry has become interested in his sweetheart and forgets everything. A policeman comes along and arrests the hobo. Jerry is successful in apprehending a notorious crook, saves his sweetheart from robbery and with the money he receives as a reward he frees the hobo and everybody is happy.

Reel Life—November 8 (one-reel Gaumont weekly).—Safety Last showing how many automobile accidents might be prevented; The Pipe Organ, showing the manufacture of the pipe organ; A Cord tire machine, showing a $40,000 machine cress-crossing the cords used in the manufacture of automobile tires; The Story of Water, how it begins on the mountains, and how it goes into the streams, and in the valley a peaceful river, used in electricity and fertilizing the lands, cartoon, "It Wasn't the Colic."

PARAMOUNT

"Home Defense"—October 22 (one- reel Klever comedy with Victor Moore).—Vic and the boys are very fond of cards and every night they start a game and play until morning. The wives get tired of it and break up the game. After much planning they decide to organize a home defense league and by telling that they will have something to do they still continue their games. The wives organize a first aid society and one night come to the club house to see the boys drill. They have a lot of fun, make all sorts of uniforms and knowing nothing about drilling, they go through it with a will. Everything goes all right until the water brings up the usual refreshments. A few pieces of the uniform, a few pieces of the parchment, made from the husbands win.

TRIANGLE

"The Stainless Barrier"—October 28 (five-reel Triangle drama with Irene Hulin, Betsy Shelton, who has been planning to receive money willingly sacrifices the money to her brother, a parasite and the dupe of En derleigh, a shyster promoter. It is necessary for Enderleigh and Dick to flee public notices of Betsy and her aunt. In a struggle between Enderleigh and Dick, Dick kills Enderleigh. Dick is tried and confesses to the crime because Enderleigh had ruined his sister. Betsy is engaged to Calvin Stone, but she sacrifices her good reputation and happiness in order to free her brother. Stone suspecting Dick and the falsehood behind it all, makes Dick confess his cowardly act. Betsy's good name is restored and all ends well.

Rights ‘Mother-Love and Law’ Films Are Bought for 3 States by Greive & Herz

Chicago Distributing Concern Gets Seven-reel Feature From Crystal Corp. to Issue in Indiana, Illinois and Southern Wisconsin

Crystal Photoplays Corporation announce that the rights to "Mother-Love and The Law," the new seven-reel feature drama, have been sold to Greive & Herz, of Chicago, for Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin.

This deal was consummated some time ago, but news regarding the deal was held in abeyance because of an auxiliary deal having been closed whereby the picture now is being shown in the "Loop," at the Casino Theatre, 58 West Madison street.

In speaking about this picture, Mr. Greive of Greive & Herz, said: "Many people in this trade knowing the big price we paid for "Mother-Love and The Law," have manifested great surprise, but our judgment has been vindicated, our advance bookings have been large. Within a very short time fifty-two theatres have requested bookings on "Mother-Love and The Law." They realize the interest that the public will exhibit in a picture in which Dolly Ledgerwood Matters takes the lead and also as she is going in the fight for baby Irene, now in the possession of Margaret Ryan, the Canadian girl, who also claims to be the mother of the baby, will go down in history as one of the most bitterly fought cases in court annals. The story was so remarkable and so intensely interesting that oil newspapers all over the United States and Canada for many weeks. The Matter cases overshadow all the famous Smith and Daughters in England, which attained world wide notoriety. Another feature of interest is the reality that is depicted in many of the scenes where Mrs. Matters herself took part in the actual occurrences in her strenuous life."
Chicago Trade Events

George West, manager of the Langley Theatre, was a busy youngster the past few days, showing his brother, Billy West, the funny little film comedian, the many sights about the old home town. Just as soon as the entire Billy West company of fun makers arrived from New York City, Billy joined them in their special train to the coast, leaving early evening, October 24.

Joseph Roach of the Triangle scenario staff, has been called to the colors. Joe and his charming wife, Ruth Stonehouse, have a host of friends in old Chi, from the days when they were both affiliated with Essanay.

F. J. Flaherty, manager of the Hoffman Foursquare Pictures, has certainly arranged a business office to talk shop with his numerous exhib friends, that can aply be termed novel, neat and noiseless. And leave it to the "modest" one to arrange a suitable name and the little signature on those contracts, eh Francois? R. O. Lawhead, sales manager, is now covering Illinois and Iowa on a general trip. Herbert P. Morgan has just been appointed sales representative for the Indiana territory.

Abie Stern, manager of the L-Ko studio, Universal City, paid the boys of the local office quite a lengthy visit on his way to New York.

Allan Dwan passed through the city October 8 on his way to the coast to join Douglas Fairbanks' directorial staff, alternating with John Emerson on forthcoming Fairbanks features.

Looks to us as though Spence Rogers, personal representative for W. H. Clune productions, is not satisfied with offering the exhibs films par excellence but must show them "some speed" by way of a Packard speed creator, and from what we hear—It's enough—they tell us Spence was born in a Stutz racer and his play room was one of those ovals where a mile a minute was a disgrace to register.

If you think Doug Fairbanks has "peeped" in film land, you all should have been on the Northside October 21. He had the regular "Four-Minute" squad, who are so busy now with the Second Liberty Loan, cheated a mile and the best part of it. Doug got their dough.

L. Van Ronkel announces that for the future Bluebird photoplays will be screened for the exhibitors and the press Wednesday mornings, instead of Saturday as heretofore.

Beware, ye fair maidens of the film theaters, usherettes and cashiers, A. M. "Hensum Jeck" Silverman, the Swedish nightingale, is in our midst again. He is now warbling for "The Deemster," the feature being handled exclusively in this territory by Warren & Clark. He reports encore galore.

Someone of a curious trend of mind, quizzes us: "What kind of a car is that which H. J. Bayley, manager of the local Vitagraph office, recently requested the photos of his salesmen to be run in the Family Journal and for which the salesmen have received an additional $3-for-25 cents postcard size to Bayley, modestly murmured as his second attempt at posing before the camera. The other was a group tin-type, which the other fellow gave Tom. Shh, don't let the government get next to such wilful waste.

Herman Wolfgram, sales manager of the Universal Milwaukee office, was in the city last week under the doctor's orders, but the trouble. He could just about whisper audibly enough to explain that he had lost his voice purveying Universal service. Listen, Hermie, we believe you, but with those Sox-Giants series just past, you've got to admit, the alibi has a sour flavor.

Marguerite Snow arrived in the city October 21 and will while the time away with friends in town for a brief visit.

Maurice Fleckles, manager of the state rights features for Universal, breezed into town last week from Broadway, letting the Twentieth Century, conductor clip his commutation card for another fourth in less than 2 weeks. Sign a year's contract Maury, mebbe they have special discounts.

H. J. Bayley, manager of the local Vitagraph office, recently requested the photos of his salesmen to be run in the Family Journal, Tom Delaney, upon slippin' one of his 3-for-25 cents postcard size to Bayley, modestly murmured it was his second attempt at posing before the camera. The other was a group tin-type, which the other fellow gave Tom. Shh, don't let the government get next to such wilful waste.

General Enterprises to Show "Mother" Film

"Mother," the six-reel feature recently produced by George Louis Tucker, will be shown in the terminals of Sing Sing this week. A request has been received by the General Enterprises, Inc., from the chairman of the Mutual Welfare League of the New York state prison, asking for a showing of the film, featuring Elizabeth Risdon, because of its strong appeal.

Mr. Tucker will appear in person at the conclusion of the performance and give a short address on motion picture making in general and on his film "Mother." The picture was made in England, under the direction of Mr. Tucker, and was shown at the instigation of a prominent prison official of London to the inmates of the penal institution. Miss Risdon, the English star, was present at the showing and has the following to say:

"As the various scenes of "Mother" were unfolded before the eyes of the assembled convicts a noticeable change in the emotions of the prisoners could be discerned. The usual stolid faces lighted up or became overcast as the story progressed. One man near whom I was sitting, wiped away a tear with his coat sleeve, while the attitude of the entire assemblage testified to the appeal which a mother's influence still made to the criminal hearts.

At that point in the picture where the erring son prays aloud for forgiveness to a vision of his dead mother, an audible sob escaped one of the 'shut-ins.' The tableaux had undoubtedly awakened in some unregenerate heart tender thoughts of a boy and mother who 'used to be.' The following day I was somewhat surprised to receive a note from one of the prisoners who had witnessed 'Mother.' In a finely written hand and beautiful English he said, among other things, that the picture had left an indelible impression upon him and his mates. He had written his own mother that day for the first time in many years and solemnly assured me of his intention to 'go straight' immediately his present term had expired.

Miss Risdon highly prizes the letter in question.

Hyland Joins Pathe

Peggy Hyland, noted English player, has abandoned the Mayfair Film Corporation and agreed upon an elaborate feature with Pathe, on Monday, October 22. Miss Hyland was only associated with the Mayfair company for a few months, her previous connection having been with the Vitagraph company.

Chicago A. E. A. Moves to New Quarters in the Mallers Building

The Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association, the Chicago A. E. A. branch, has moved from the North American building, on State street, to more commodious quarters in the Mallers building, on Wabash avenue. This action was made necessary owing to the rapidly increasing membership and volume of business to be handled by the association. A booking department has been established in room 706 Mallers building.

The new quarters are partitioned off into separate rooms for the officers, a meeting room and stenographer's office, and have been furnished with golden oak chairs, writing desks and directors table.
The new Allen Theater of Toronto is rapidly nearing completion and will throw open its doors to the public in a few weeks. Without question this theater, which occupies an excellent site in the downtown district of Toronto, will be the theater de luxe of the Dominion. In keeping with the high policy it has already been set by the Allen Brothers, contracts have been closed with Canadian Universal Film Co. Limited, for the Screen Magazine to be shown in this house for a period of one year.

Finley Nature Study Subjects are going to be handled in Toronto by J. R. McKenny, who will take these interesting pictures under his Bluebird wing. Mr. McKenny, who has just returned from a tour of inspection of various exhibitors that the concern will take these pictures as soon as an opportunity affords. Mr. McKenny believes that with these films the exhibitors can make an excellent profit and have it. Films of educational interest seem to be very popular in the Toronto territory just now.

The Motion Picture Distribution Committee of the Food Controller's Office, is making arrangements to show the second Food Conservation Film throughout Canada. The title of the first film was "Everybody's Business," which was shown a few weeks ago in the leading houses in Toronto to large audiences.

The film now being booked is entitled "Waste Not, Want Not." It is an English film. The committee has received six prints for Canada. The film goes into detail, showing how food can be prepared with the least waste and also showing to what splendid purposes even the least bit of food can be put by the careful housewife. Mr. Hague states to the correspondent that the Food Controller's Office Officials are very enthusiastic about the manner in which the film is being utilized to bring home vital facts to Canadian people. The Government realizes that in the film they have at their disposal a power second to none but the press for the dissemination of the public intelligence.

Announcement of importance to the film trade in Canada has been made by the Superfeatures Limited. The film company has closed all negotiations for the purchase of the entire Canadian rights to the feature "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," and have already secured some splendid bookings in the larger theaters. Mr. Chas. Stevens, who is general manager for the Superfeatures Limited, is one of the best known film men in the industry in Canada and has always been noted for big winners. He has cleaned up on "The Whip," which he controls in Canada with such success that has amazed Ontario, and it is still the talk of the industry.

"Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" has never been shown to Canadians, although practically every exhibitor knows of the picture through the extensive advertising campaign which was conducted on this picture when it was shown in the United States. The first booking will likely be in one of the largest houses of Montreal for a two weeks' run. Mr. Stevens is at present in Montreal closing negotiations in Montreal. The film will likely come to Ottawa and then to Toronto.

Mr. Phil. Kaufman, general manager for Globe Films, Ltd., is leaving Toronto for a trip throughout Western Canada for the purpose of inspecting the newly opened offices there. During Phil. Kaufman's absence, Mr. J. A. Kaufman, manager of the Montreal territory, will make headquarters in Toronto.

Globe Films, Ltd., announce that the first Lillian Walker Feature, "The Lust of the Ages," has been booked through Ontario and will have its first showing in the Madison Theater, Bloor St., Toronto. This theater also played "Birth," to women only, which film is being issued by Globe Films, Ltd.

The Empress Theater, Calgary, was reopened early this month under the management of I. Wener, after it had been renovated and redecorated to make it one of the most attractive in the smaller houses in Calgary. Mr. Wener decided on a policy of mixed program of high class film features and stock vaudeville for the house.

Groves Walker Company, controlling a circuit of houses in Western Canada, announces the formal reopening of the Empire Theater, at Saskatoon. G. A. Stuart is the manager of this house.

Globe Films, Ltd., Canadian distributors of Lillian Walker’s "Lust of the Ages," screened this film in Toronto for the first time under dramatic circumstances. The film was to be shown to exhibitors on Thursday night, Sept. 27, at the Rialto Theater, Toronto. A few minutes before the start of the screening a great fire broke out in a large building directly opposite the Rialto, causing a loss of $250,000. The assembled exhibitors could not get out of the theatre on account of the police lines and the screening took place without interruption in spite of the possibility of the fire spreading.

NORMAN KERRY, PARALTA STAR TO FIGHT BOCHES

Norman Kerry, leading man for Besse Barrasscle in the forthcoming Paralta play, "The Rose O' Paradise," has leaped from actor to aviatory in a few brief hours and is now in New York on his way to Canada with a commission in his pocket as a lieutenant of the Royal Flying Corps.

D. W. Griffith from War With Big Scenes for Spectacle

D. W. Griffith arrived in New York this week after spending several months on the battlefields of France and Belgium. Mr. Griffith has been working in cooperation with the British war office filming scenes on the battle fronts. He was in the front lines of the Allies and went very close to the German trenches.

He announced that he will incorporate these scenes into a mammoth war spectacle which he is now bringing to the screen. Mr. Griffith has drawn long shots that heretofore could never have been taken.

HAMBURGER DENIES OPPOSITION TO OCHS

In a news story in last week's issue of the Exhibitors Herald it was stated that at a meeting of the Ochs league in Chicago Alfred Hamburger, director-general of the Continental Theatres, Inc., "admitted to exhibitors that they could expect little co-operation from the national league officers.

Mr. A. Hamburger states that this does not correctly set forth his position; that he has confidence in the national officers and that he is in accord with their efforts and policies.

Fox Sunshine Comedies to Solve Problem Program Problem, Say Producer

Director Henry Lehrmann Has Made Series of Best Two-Reel Farces in World for Exhibitors, Picture Magnate Asserts

William Fox, after two years of experimenting and at a big financial expenditure, presents to exhibitors Sunshine Comedies.

In Sunshine Comedies Mr. Fox believes he has solved the exhibitor’s most troublesome problem—the comedy for the program. As an exhibitor himself, Mr. Fox was forced to the realization that the selection of this part of the program was the most vexing with which an exhibitor had to contend.

Why can’t we have better comedies? was Mr. Fox’s constant demand of his managers and producers.

“We are getting the very best the market affords,” he was told.

Out of this situation came Mr. Fox’s ambition to make the best comedies in the world.

To Make Best in World.

“I am going to make the best comedies in the world,” Mr. Fox declared.

“I am going to be the first in the field or I will not offer a single comedy to an exhibitor.”

Mr. Fox sent for Henry Lehrmann, who, while admittedly a master comedy director, was regarded as “too expensive” for the average producer.

“I want to make the best comedies in the world,” Mr. Fox told Mr. Lehrmann when they were brought together.

It is my ambition to make comedies on a scale commensurate with my other productions. Do you think you can do it?”

“But it will be an expensive undertaking,” Lehrmann said.

“I do not care what they cost,” Mr. Fox told him. “What I want is to produce the best comedies in the world—remember now, I say the best comedies in the world.”

“Who is to be the judge of whether or not they are the best comedies in the world?” asked Mr. Lehrmann.

“There is but one judge of any production in which I may be interested,” Mr. Fox said. “That is the public. The public judges without prejudice, and it is the public that you must please.”

“Now, go ahead and make me the est comedies in the world,” Mr. Fox continued. You have the entire resources of the Fox Film Corporation behind you and you will not be hurried, take your time, experiment all you please, but remember I want the best, I want the real the only thing that I demand.

On this basis Henry Lehrmann began making Sunshine Comedies a year and a half ago. His efforts to enable every exhibitor to make the best comedies in the world went unrewarded. He worked quietly and quickly.

He made a Pacific Coast, in a specially-staged event. When Mr. Fox revisited the Coast last spring, he saw the fruits of Mr. Lehrmann’s work.

Is Certain of Success

“Your comedies appeal to me, but remember it is the public that must be pleased,” he told Mr. Lehrmann.

Continuing his work and Mr. Fox is confident that in offering Sunshine Comedies he has realized the ambition of his producing the best comedies in the world.

Discussing Sunshine Comedies and the making of comedies, Mr. Fox declared it to be the most difficult proposition in the film industry.

“Sunshine Comedies have demonstrated that it costs as much, if not more to make a two-reel comedy than it does to make five-reel dramatic features,” Mr. Fox said. “We have not spared time nor money in making Sunshine Comedies and I am sure we are offering exhibitors the best comedies ever made. They should not be confounded with ordinary comedies. They are not ordinary comedies. They are two-reel comedy productions.”

“If the public does not believe them to be the best comedies over offered, I shall withdraw every one of them. I do not want to produce ‘among the best’ comedies. I am going to have the best or none.”

“Never were comedies more needed than now. With all the world at war, there is no need of horrors and the high cost of living and being entertained. Nothing is more refreshing to the tired mind of the average person than good comedy. I am going to give the public not good comedy—but the best comedy.”

A Word to Exhibitors

“In planning to issue Sunshine Comedies, I have to have in mind that every exhibitor, no matter what his financial strength, may be able to book Sunshine Comedies. Before an exhibitor books a Sunshine Comedy, he wants to go to the nearest Fox exchange and look at one of the comedies. If he is doubtful or skeptical, I do not want him to buy a single copy until his opposition plays one, and then go to his competitor’s theatre and listen to the laughs. That will convince him.”

Lehrmann has demonstrated that he has the stuff of which the great director—to the making of comedies is an art—as much as so was painting to Rembrandt or Music to Liszt, or singing to Patti. He knows, as do we all, that to be a success, a comedy must be clean, free from vulgarity, as full of action as a rapid fire gun and with a laugh for practically every foot of film. The last is the final test of a comedy.”

Sunshine Comedies are going to be published every other week—two a month—twenty-six a year.

The first three Sunshine Comedies to be issued with the dates are: November 11, “Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells”; Sunday, November 25, “A Milk-Fed Vamp”; Sunday, December 9, “His Smashing Career.”

In addition to the three films announced, there are eight other Sunshine comedies ready, and in the entire 11, there is not a second-rate comedy—everyone is a masterpiece of comedy—comprising a veritable world’s storehouse of mirth.

HOFFMAN DOES AWAY WITH ISSUE DATES ON ALL FILMS FOR FOURSQUARE BRANESHC

Ancient methods of booking subjects on publication dates have been done away with by Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges,” declared M. H. Hoffman, vice-president and general manager of his organization on his return to New York a few days ago from his western trip. From now on there will be no such thing as an issuance date in any of our service stations.

“Every Hoffman-Foursquare exchange will be ready at any time to supply the demands of the exhibitor, and will issue any desired feature the moment prints and advertising material are ready for runs. Because of this, exhibitors need not look for advance dates on any picture we control. They have merely to examine our list of subjects available and act accordingly.

There is one thing, however, I wish to emphasize: the elimination of issue dates does not mean that there will be no protection of first, second or third runs. A regular run will be amply guarded by our division and branch managers, whose instructions to salesmen will be clear in this matter.

“It is my belief that this policy—which I regard as a long step in the direction of advancement—will work to the advantage of both exhibitor and public. When an exhibitor requires a certain production we have we will see to it that he gets it. The fact that some of our pictures may not suit his need of that particular moment will not prevent him from getting those of later production, which he can use.

To the exhibitor running a theatre may readily see, and will be protected under our system as well as any other. It is simply that our method, which is new, has all the advantages of the old system and none of its disadvantages. An exhibitor interested in the tail-end feature may have it: ‘the last will be first,’” whenever he says the word.

Washburn Goes West

Bryant Washburn, the former Essanay, who recently signed with Pathe, left Chicago on October 20 for Los Angeles, Cal. His contract with Essanay does not expire until January 1, 1918, but by mutual agreement the film star was released. He will start work at once in several photoplays in which he is to be featured.

Houston Tex. — Maurice F. Barr, former advertising manager for the Saenger amusement Co. of New Orleans, has succeeded Harry Van Demark as manager of the Isis Theatre. Mr. Barr is a former New Orleans newspaper man, but has been in the motion picture business for the past ten years.
William Fox Assembles New York Exhibitors to Discuss Methods to Solve Tax Problems

Various Methods of Handling Government Levy on Admissions Are Considered; William A. Brady Is Among Speakers

An exhibitor's emergency meeting was called by William Fox, at the Hotel Astor, Friday, Oct. 19; two hundred exhibitors were present. The purpose of the meeting, as outlined by Mr. Fox, was to seek the consensus of opinion as to the best method of applying the new war tax to the theatre ticked sales.

Many suggestions were made as to what was the best method, but a motion was made and unanimously carried that the tickets would be sold at the regular price, plus 1 cent war tax on 10 cent tickets, plus 2 cents on 15 cent tickets, plus 3 cents on 20 cent tickets, etc. No special form of ticket was selected or decided upon, but the opinion of those present seemed to be that the plan outlined by the Exhibitor's Herald i.e., to make an audit each day of the number of tickets sold and refund a corresponding war tax is the most feasible. William Brady addressed the meeting, by courtesy of Mr. Fox, and stated among other things, that the president of United States had conferred the highest commendation and honor on the moving picture industry when he appointed Walter Irvin, Patrick A. Powers and Francis Marion as picture ambassadors to three of the allied countries.

Quoting the chief executive, Mr. Brady, said: “The moving pictures may yet win this war.” Mr. Brady made a plea for solidarity and organization of the theatre trade in the solid body which would stick together.

Fox Explains Meet

William Fox labored hard and successfully to show the exhibitors exactly what he intended as many of the exhibitors were under misapprehension as to what the nature of the meeting was. An exhibitor, whose name could not be obtained, made a plea that the business be henceforth classed as a profession and not as an industry and stated that this was the time to raise all admissions, to abolish nickelodians and to gain the title of “profession.” This exhibitor was very earnest in his efforts, but Mr. Fox found him out of order.

Lee Ochs demanded the floor and tried to stampede the meeting and do a little personal advertising as President Mrs. Fox about her own private interests. He was somewhat discourteous to Mr. Fox when he stated that another meeting had been called for Monday for the very purpose that this meeting was called for, but Mr. Fox showed him the error of his way, and promptly relegated him to a seat in the rear of the hall.

Exclude Non-Exhibitors

W. H. Hallaneen, of Brooklyn, injected a little humor into the meeting when he got the floor and said that the hall was well sprinkled with heads and people who hadn't any theatres. Mr. Fox asked all those who were not theatre owners to stand up, whereupon the front rows took it as an opportunity for an asparagus bed, in the height of season.

When the non-taxables went to the rear of the hall, order was restored and the meeting proceeded. During the proceedings a messenger entered the hall and handed Mr. Fox a message, whereupon Mr. Fox announced, in clarify, “Mr. Dole, your theatre burning.” Then, Mr. Fox announced that he was requested to break the new.

Romayne Superfilm Co.

Will Produce Big Spectacular Film

The Romayne Superfilm Company, Ltd., has begun the production of a number of spectacular feature the concern announces. The films will include historical, allegorical, mytho- logical, industrial, etc., and it is stated that each play will cost $100,000.

George L. Hutchin has been engaged to act as supervising director. Mr. Hutchin received a fundamental training in spectacular work at the Mx Gras at New Orleans. He did "his bit for the Columbia Exposition, Chicago, the Welles Prophet parades at St. Louis, the Knights of Elektra, Milwaukee;" Hudson-Fulton Exposition, New York; the Lewis & Clark Exposition, Portland; the Alaskan-Yukon Pacific Exposition, Seattle, and other national and for two years he conceived and built many of the most popular pageants, parades and spectacular features of the Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco. Mr. Hutchin conceived and built the beautiful "Fire of 1811." He has now been noted for this ever since.

The Romayne Superfilm Company, H. Y. Romayne, president, has closed option on a twenty-acre tract of wooded land which is to construct one of the largest and most complete studios in America. The present studio is at Hollywood and their general offices in the Marsh-Strong Building, Angeles.

For Freedom of the World” To Be Issued by Goldwyn Corp. Give a Panorama of War

A vivid presentation of what the million men of the new National Army are doing to make themselves fit soldiers for the United States service in France, will soon be flashed before motion picture patrons and members of the Allied forces, by the new patriotic photoplay, “For the Freedom of the World,” made by Mr. M. Lowry, and to be issued shortly through the world by the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation.

In the course of the story of this patriotic panorama of the present war, the hero enlists in the Foreign Legion of Canada—a favorite avenue for red-blooded Americans anxious to see quick and active service in defense of the rights of democracy—and goes through the course of training prescribed by the High Command of the Allied Armies after the most thorough of trials at the actual front.

This means that spectators of “For the Freedom of the World” will not have to content with the tedious parades, drills and marches which have figured hitherto in “military spectacles” as the only alternative to scenes of battle. Mr. M. Lowry’s production shows all the fascinating details of actual training in trench warfare through which the members of the new National Army must pass before they can go “over there.”

Not only the military side of the war will be filmed, plays so directly upon the interest of millions of Americans in the life their kinsmen and friends are now leading under the guidance of Uncle Sam, it is declared.

Under Ocean Scenes of “Queen of the Sea,”

Kellerman-Fox Play, Soon to be Filmed

Having completed the Bar Harbor portion of the new subsea picture “Queen of the Sea,” which Miss Annette Kellermann is making for William Fox, the company now is finishing up the studio scenes preparatory to making the deep sea scenes of the film.

In order to find water of the proper temperature in which Miss Kellermann and her mermaids and sirens of the sea can work, it will be necessary for these scenes to be done either in Florida or in California.

Director John G. Adolfi is undecided whether to go to California or Florida. Should he decide upon California “Queen of the Sea” will be made on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The introductory part of the picture having been made at Bar Harbor on the Atlantic. Even though he goes to Florida the range of the picture will have been from Maine to the southernmost bit of continental United States.

In the making of the under-sea portions of the picture Mr. Adolfi will have the assistance of the officials of the United States Fish Commission, which is vitally interested in the success of the apparatus which has been designed for the photography of scenes under water.

with Iliodor former confess to the Czar

A. H. WOODS, the theatrical producer and half owner of "The Fall of the Romanoffs" with Herbert Brenon, has sold the New York State rights of the production for the record breaking sum of $100,000. The purchasers, a group of capitalists, were won by the sensational three weeks' run at the Broadway Theatre, where, at a two dollar scale of prices, the picture-drama drew absolutely capacity business—proving the tremendous office value of Mr. Brenon's masterpiece.

With the eyes of the world centered upon Russia's struggle for democracy, "The Fall of the Romanoffs" stands as possessing the widest appeal of any screen-drama ever made.

THE SYNDICATE OF PURCHASERS FOR NEW YORK STATE HAVE SELECTED SOL. J. BERMAN, THE ABLEST EXCHANGE MANAGER IN HIS FIELD, TO HANDLE THE NEW YORK STATE TERRITORY. Berman, who first came into prominence with his phenomenal booking of Herbert Brenon's "War Brides" in the New York territory, states that the sales will exceed any individual photo-drama ever produced. It has been determined to book "The Fall of the Romanoffs" at once in the Motion Pictures Theatres of New York State, thereby giving exhibitors an immediate opportunity to take advantage of the remarkable New York run and metropolitan advertising campaign.

KITTY KELLY, WHO CAME TO NEW YORK TO SEE THIS PICTURE SAYS, IN THE CHICAGO EXAMINER

"The much-talked-about "Iliodor, or the Fall of the Romanoffs," of Herbert Brenon extraction is now a public fact, showing twice daily at the Broadway Theatre, where quaint little Russian peasant girls, as costume goes, find you your dollar-and-a-half or less seats.

Comparisons are odious, perhaps, but sometimes things lay themselves open to them. So seeing "Iliodor" after "Rasputin" is like seeing the substance after the shadow. This Brenon offering has dignity, depth and force, the seasoned quality of caretaking production that stamps it as a masterpiece.

That sincerity is the strength of its appeal. It seems so honest that one hangs on it as the truth. There is good production to it, interesting and magnificent settings, splendid playing.

... It holds the house tense, and when Rasputin falls the tenseness bursts forth in an avalanche of applause.

And as pictorial humanized history "The Fall of the Romanoffs" shines forth."

"The Moth"

Both fans and exhibitors have been loud in their praises of this new picture in which the star of "Panthea" and "Poppy" rises to new heights—in a screen play greater than either of these former successes. It is a superb picture, telling a dramatic story: a young girl—a tragic marriage—the pace that kills—and the way out! "The Moth" is big!

The New Service Bureau of the National Association of The Motion Picture Industry Abolishes Agency and Commission Abuses for Artists, Directors, Assistants, Cameramen and All Other Workers in Motion Pictures.

No longer is it necessary for those seeking employment of producers or distributors of motion picture to pay exorbitant or double commissions or put up with any of the evils which have caused them loss and annoyance in the past.

All of the important producing and distributing organizations are now members of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and they have organized a Service Bureau to protect the thousands of men and women who wish to work for them.

Through this Service Bureau you may register without cost and one registration will be known to the entire industry, and each member of the Association will utilize the Service Bureau in quest of future employees, players, artists and technical aids.

The Service Bureau Ends All of the Abuses and Humiliations to which Players and other Employment Seekers Have Been Subjected.

The Service Bureau will do away with the granting of special favors to agents; of the payment of extra commissions, the insults suffered by feminine artists, and the unscrupulous casting and employment agencies operated outside of the control of producing companies.

It is important that all artists and those seeking employment remember that all of the important producing and distributing companies will seek their employees through the Service Bureau, beginning Monday, Oct. 15, 1917.

William Fox announces the arrival to stardom of Madame SONIA MARKOVA.
Hats Off to Freuler!

GENTLEMEN, hats off to John R. Freuler, Mutual Chief! Mr. Freuler has agreed to let the footage tax stay where the government placed it.

Await Government’s Rulings

As in practically every commercial line, so in the motion picture business has the imposition of the various governmental taxes caused a great deal of confusion, not so much from the nature of the taxes themselves as from the fact that at this early date it is impossible to obtain a correct interpretation of the various provisions of the law as it will be applied to the various activities of the film industry.

For the exhibitor and others it will be well to be as patient as possible for the time being, and meanwhile study the text of the law as it seems to apply to their particular cases. While some time necessarily will elapse it will not be long before authoritative rulings are issued by the Treasury Department which will set at rest speculations as to just how the law is to operate.

* * *

Patriotism and Taxes

It now develops that the tax measure as applied to the motion picture industry apparently has been framed in some particulars either without due regard to the motion picture business or else a lamentable lack of information as to the exact nature of the business.

In either case, without being over-optimistic, it may be presumed that the coming session of Congress will bring about a change which will accomplish what the government really has in mind to do—that is, exact from the film industry a sum that will be its fair share of the cost of the nation’s defense, and nothing more.

During the readjustment to the new conditions many individuals and companies will be put to quite a little hardship, but as it is the film industry’s opportunity to “do its bit” the loud and impatient howls that are issuing from several sources are very much out of order.

* * *

A State Rights Fraud

We have encountered a new form of state rights thiery. This time it comes in a rather ingenious guise.

The plan is something like this: A war pictorial is sold for a particular territory. After a lapse of a few weeks another picture of a similar nature comes back into the same territory. The picture, of course, carries a different name and is supposed also to contain new scenes. But in reality the picture is half new and half old.

Certain new scenes have been placed in the picture and the desired footage is obtained by taking scenes out of the old picture and pasting them in. Because of the similarity of many pictures of this type it frequently is necessary for a close inspection to be made before the fraud is detected.

Almost every business has its corps of tricksters, but work as crude as this certainly cannot be profitable for very long.

The surest way to end this practice is for state rights buyers to purchase only pictures which have an identity before the trade and which have been announced by a responsible owner.

* * *

The Exposition Co.

The formation of the exposition company, recently announced in New York, to conduct trade shows seems to be a step forward in making the best out of a difficult job.

Without question, there has been widespread dissatisfaction regarding the manner in which many of the previous shows have been conducted and the lack of actual results. Obviously, many of the grossest difficulties of the past can be eliminated through the operation of the shows by a regularly constituted company which shall be truly representative of the various branches of the motion picture industry.

While the newly formed exposition company cannot be said at this time to be fully representative of the industry, it has called together a number of individuals who represent big interests in producing, distributing and exhibiting.

With this much accomplished to date there seems to be an excellent prospect that with the progress of the work there will be evolved a more representative membership that will be able to work in unison and will be able to eliminate many of the evils that formerly attended trade expositions and will also be able to direct these trade gatherings along lines that will insure profit to companies and individuals that participate.

Mutual to Absorb Footage Tax

M. H. Hoffman Also Announces That There Will Be No Additional Fifteen Cents Per Reel Charge

The best news of the week for the American exhibitor is the following message from President John R. Freuler of the Mutual Film Corporation:

Oct 26, 1917

To the Exhibitors of the United States:

We are pleased to inform you that the Mutual Film Corporation will absorb the special war excise tax imposed on film, and that it has instructed its branch managers to this effect in a telegram under date of October 25th, reading as follows:

CANCELS ALL WAR EXCISE TAX INSTRUCTIONS AND OPERATIONS MAKE NO CHARGES OR COLLECTIONS. GOVERNMENT PERMITS US TO PAY DIRECT WITHOUT PASSING TAX ON TO EXHIBITORS. DESTROY ALL STAMPED CONTRACT BLANKS AND DISCONTINUE USE RUBBER STAMP ON VOUCHERS. NOTIFY EXHIBITORS STOP. HAD PREVIOUSLY UNDERSTOOD THAT LAW REQUIRED US TO CHARGE TAX TO EXHIBITORS AND BELIEVED THAT EXHIBITORS SUPPORTED FIFTEEN CENT TAX CHARGE PROPOSED BY NATIONAL ASSOCIATION MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY IN WHICH EXHIBITORS ARE REPRESENTED.

This means the Mutual Film Corporation will pay the war tax on film.

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION.
John R. Freuler, President.

Up to the present time the only other distributing company that has agreed to absorb the footage tax and not pass it on to exhibitors is M. H. Hoffman, Inc.

The announcements of these two companies will be received with great satisfaction by exhibitors everywhere, as the prospect of meeting the additional footage tax has created great apprehension among managers of motion picture theaters.

The first announcement of the Mutual policy to absorb the footage tax was made to the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association of Chicago, which is the local organization for the American Exhibitors Association.

The American Exhibitors Association, through its general manager Charles C. Pettijohn, is planning to make a big effort to prevail upon distributors to compromise on the footage tax and not seek to compel exhibitors to pay fifteen cents additional on each reel of film used.

With a view of seeking an adjustment of the footage tax a special meeting of the local members of the American Exhibitors Association was scheduled to be held in Chicago on Tuesday, October 30. At this meeting Mr. Pettijohn planned to be present and offer his plan for bringing about a compromise in the matter.

Jack Standing
Popular Star Dies at Coast

Death Ends Career of Leading Man; Appeared on Stage

Los Angeles, Cal.—Jack Standing, the popular star, died here on October 25. Mr. Standing was well known upon the screen having appeared in Lubin, Pathé, Famous Players and Fox pictures for number of years.

In “Fanchon the Cricket,” he appeared in support of Mary Pickford, and is leading man in the Fox productions “Labor” and “One Touch of Sin.” Mr. Standing also appeared upon the making stage in support of Henry Mill, Olga Nethersole, Cecilia Loftus and Margaret Anglin. Eleven years ago Mr. Standing was a member of the New Theatre Company of Chicago, which played in the Central Music Hall.

His father, Herbert Standing, and two brothers, Guy and Percy, have also on distinction as motion picture actors. Jack was born and educated in London, England.

U. S. To Eliminate Footage Levy; Officials Agree to Single Charge

Informal Decision of Treasury Department Drops One-Half Cent Positive Print Tax for One-Time Payment of $5 Per Reel

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30—(Special to Exhibitors Herald.—The treasury department in an informal decision yesterday placed itself as favoring the abolition of the 3/4-cent footage tax on all positive films. In its stead a tax of $5 a reel, to be applied but once, will be imposed.

This decision comes as the first real indication that the motion picture industry will be successful in its fight to alter the government’s plan to place the tax on a print each time it is issued.

The government officials in their discussion of the matter, it is said, were of the opinion that films are in the same class as automobiles, musical instruments, etc., upon which the tax is applied only once.

It is also believed that the activities of the various film companies in aiding the war department and other governmental bodies in spreading the war propaganda was instrumental in the conclusion of the treasury officials.

It has been contended, since the start, by producers and distributors, that if the tax as now in effect is continued, it will prove ruinous to the film industry.

M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Assumes Film Tax to Relieve Exhibitors’ Excessive Burden

Foursquare Pictures to Be Sold at Regular Rental Price; Means Sacrifice of Thousands of Dollars

Exhibitors booking Hoffman–Foursquare pictures will not be asked to pay anything extra beyond the regular price for features. This decision was reached a few days ago, after careful consideration of the exhibitors’ rights, by M. H. Hoffman, Inc.

“The determination,” said P. V. R. Key, sales and advertising manager, “is merely the outcome of Mr. Hoffman’s impregnable stand for the exhibitors. He has always stood with them in their struggles to make their theatres more than commonplace mediums for financial return and time invested in them.

“A former exhibitor himself, Mr. Hoffman knows the difficulties confronting the majority and that few motion picture theatre proprietors can expect an adequate profit without exercising the purchase and showing of pictures. It is this keen sympathy which Mr. Hoffman feels for the exhibitors which first prompted him, in establishing Hoffman–Foursquare exchanges, to insist upon a policy of booking prices that should be as consistently low as was possible.

“When President Wilson signed the positive-print war tax bill,” continued Mr. Key, “it was evident that the exhibitor faced an added burden, unless distributors were willing to share the load, if their wisdom was not sufficient to cause them to assume the entire burden.

“While the decision of Mr. Hoffman means that Hoffman–Foursquare must sacrifice thousands of dollars during the approaching year by assuming the expense attendant upon this positive print war tax, he feels that this task should be cheerfully approached. His contention is not alone that it is a patriotic duty, but that the loyalty shown Hoffman–Foursquare pictures, by exhibitors, commands exceptional reciprocation.”

Mabel Normand Makes Tour of N. Y. Theatres and Speaks for Loan

Mabel Normand, the screen comedienne and Goldwyn star, made a whirlwind speaking tour of eighty New York City theaters on Sunday night, October 22, in behalf of the Liberty Loan.

Beginning at 8:30 in the evening at Marcus Loew’s American Theater, Miss Normand made a two-minute talk to an audience on the roof-top theater and, a few minutes later, met the audience in the main floor theater. Thereafter, she averaged one theater every fifteen minutes, appearing at the Strand Theater at 9 o’clock. Miss Normand received an ovation from the large audience.

Marcus Loew’s New York Theater came next at 9:15 and was followed by trips to Loew’s Circle, Loew’s Lincoln and Loew’s New York roof. The last stop of the evening was at A. L. Shakman’s 81st street theater.

In the course of the evening Miss Normand faced a total of 18,000 persons.

Chicago Faith in Motion Picture Industry Shown by Big Building Operation Gain

If there is any doubt as to Chicago’s belief in the future of the moving picture industry this will be dispelled by an investigation of the files of the city’s building commissioner. If the information to be obtained there can be taken as a criterion, Chicago is well under way to become the motion picture theatre center of the world.

Despite the high cost of materials and the general tendency toward retrenchment, because of war conditions, more than a score of motion picture theatres are now in the course of construction, representing investment running into the millions.

The opening of the Central Park Theatre, owned by Balaban & Katz, located at Central Park and Twelfth street, and of the Peerless, Ascher Brothers’ newest theatre at Grand and Oakwood boulevards, last Saturday night, marked the completion of two of the many now under construction.

The Central Park theatre contains many novel features and is an up-to-the-minute playhouse. In the opening Saturday night Dorothy Dalton appeared in her first Paramount picture, “The Price Mark,” directed by Thomas H. Ince.

The new play house has a seating capacity of 2,600. It abounds in special picture setting variations and its high lights are especially fitted for productions showing reproductions of places in Cairo and other Egyptian locations.

The string of theatres owned and controlled by Herman Schoenstein & Sons will be led by the Atlantic, 3941-43 West Twenty-sixth street. It will seat 2,000 persons and is being built at a cost of $215,000. It is expected to open during the Christmas season.

Marguerite Snow Is Honored Guest at Chicago Luncheon

A luncheon in honor of Marguerite Snow, the film star, was given on Tuesday, October 25, at the Hamilton Club, Chicago, by Daniel F. Crilly.

Miss Snow was accompanied by her publicity director, T. E. Letendre, and was on her way back to New York after attending the motion picture ball at Indianapolis on October 20. The following were Mr. Crilly’s guests: A. E. Curtis, Mosaicgraphy; Daniel F. Crilly; Wm. K. Hollander, News; Kitty Kelly, Examiner; Oma Moody Lawrence, Post; Luella O. Parson, Herald; Casper Nathans, Billboard; J. R. Murray, Exhibitor’s Herald.

City Council to Pass Graded License Law; Chicago Aldermen Favor Immediate Action

Loss of Revenue to City Through Small Exhibitors Being Forced Out of Business; Big Factor in Decision of Law Makers

Failing, they say, in their efforts to obtain co-operation from the exhibitors, the members of the city council of Chicago are now in the mood to frame and pass without further discussion with the theatre men an ordinance which will provide for a graded license fee for motion picture theatres.

With the advent of theatres with larger seating capacity came a resultant less than eighty small houses went out of business and their places were taken by fifteen large theatres.

"It is absolutely necessary that a graded scale of license be put into effect," said Mr. Lohman, "both for the protection of the city, property owners and the small exhibitor.

"From my observations, it has been the case where a large picture house is erected in a neighborhood there has been the failure of four or five small exhibitors in that vicinity.

"Some steps have got to be taken to keep the small exhibitor in business. The city needs the revenue and when a property owner has remodeled his building to house a picture theatre, if his tenant is forced to close through the erection of a large picture house in the neighborhood, he has a white elephant on his hands."

General Enterprises Acquires "The Liar" a Six-Part Drama Dealing With City Life

Company Gets World Rights to Film Directed by William A. Haddock; Jane Gail and Stanley Walpole in Cast

Through the consummation of a contract negotiated by Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin, General Enterprises, Inc., has purchased the negative rights for the entire world to "The Liar," a six-part drama dealing with a subject of great public import. The picture was directed by William A. Haddock, who made "Paid in Full" and other film successes. It has a notable cast, headed by Jane Gail, former Universal star, and Stanley Walpole, who has appeared in many World Film productions.

The strong sex interest which pre-dominates throughout the six parts of "The Liar" has been most effectively and delicately handled by Mr. Haddock and the picture points a strong moral for the innocent girl who is unaware of the dangers which lurk behind the bright lights of Broadway and its famous "midnight life."

Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin are offering "The Liar" for state right sale and have placed the marketing of the film for the foreign trade in the hands of M. R. Fink, a departmental head of General Enterprises, Inc.

THEATRE MEN URGED TO PREPARE B. O. STATEMENTS IN FULL

The following bulletin has been sent out by the American Exhibitors' Association:

To All Exhibitors:

An intelligent box office statement for the month of October, compared with the same kind of a statement for the month of November will reveal facts upon which to base our contention that many ten-cent theaters will be compelled to discontinue because of the war tax. Box office facts and figures for these two months are desired from every exhibitor operating a ten-cent house. These statements should be full and complete, showing receipts, expenditures and profits for the month, with an additional statement showing the investment of capital bringing about the profit if any.

If we receive enough of these reports to show the effect of the tax upon the ten-cent theater, something may be accomplished in December. Comparison must be made upon these two months, as they are the only months intervening.

Prepare these reports and send them to the headquarters of either of the exhibitors organizations, so that they may be tabulated and put into proper shape for presentation. These reports should be in our hands not later than December 5.

This is important to every exhibitor operating a ten-cent theater, and we should have hundreds of these reports in our hands by that time. Start working on your October report now.

Jewel Carmen Becomes Full-fledged Fox Star To Be Featured in Future Productions

Heroine of "Tale of Two Cities," "The Conqueror" and "When a Man Sees Red" Elevated to Stardom for Her Beauty and Ability

William Fox announces the creation of another star and presents the name of Jewel Carmen. Miss Carmen has been with the Fox forces less than a year as leading woman for William Farnum, and is advanced to stardom because of her dramatic ability and unusual beauty.

Miss Carmen has been in the East for the last two months for the making of scenes in "Les Miserables," in which she appears as Cosette. She will leave for the Western studios soon to begin a series of special features in which she will have the chief part.

Four Years in Films

Although Miss Carmen has been in motion pictures about four years, she scored her greatest success recently in her characterization of Eliza Allen, in "The Conqueror," the eight-ree drama based on the life of Sam Houston. Miss Carmen's portrayal of Eliza, the belle of Nashville, is one of the most interesting and deftly done screen heroines of the season.

Miss Carmen's first Fox appearance was in the role of Lucy Manette, opposite William Farnum, in the picturization of Dickens "A Tale of Two Cities." She also had the leading feminine part in "American Mulatto," and took part in "To Honor and Obey." The five productions already cited, need only one other to complete Miss Carmen's record with Fox films. The drama in point is "When a Man Sees Red," said to be the strongest "fighting" story William Farnum has ever had.

Has Magnetic Personality

"Miss Carmen possesses a magnetic personality," said Mr. Fox, in speaking of his new star. "She has, too, that ilusive quality which one master of stagecraft called, for want of a better term, 'charm.' It is one of her greatest assets."

Fairbanks Sells Liberty Bonds in N. Y. and Chicago

Film Star Expects to Sell Million Dollars Worth on Flying Trip

Douglas Fairbanks, the film star, has ceased activities before the motion picture camera to "do his bit" for his country.

When the first Liberty Loan was announced he purchased $100,000 worth of Liberty Bonds, and upon conclusion of his newest Arctraft picture, "Reaching for the Moon," Mr. Fairbanks gave his staff a vacation, while he commenced a coast-to-coast tour of the country in behalf of the Liberty Loan. On his trip from Los Angeles to New York, he sold $500,000 worth of bonds.

Sunday morning, October 31, he arrived in Chicago, and was met by a delegation from the local Liberty Loan flying squadron. He immediately started to work on his campaign for Liberty Loan bonds. Max Goldstine, general manager of the Arctraft and Paramount Pictures in Chicago was the first to purchase, signing for a $2,000 bond. The second purchase was made by Melvin S. Flynn, 112 South Michigan avenue, and after this the campaign was conducted through the hotels and theaters of the city during the entire day. At 10 o'clock Mr. Fairbanks again started westward.

While in New York during a two days' traveling campaign of the big department stores and theaters, as well as other Liberty Loan headquarters, he made forty-two appearances, selling over $2,000 worth of bonds. Mr. Fairbanks is now in a state to California and expects to sell $1,000,000 worth of bonds on reaching Los Angeles, where he will end his campaign in connection with the second loan.

"THE BELGIAN," SIDNEY OLCOTT'S FILM STIRS LARGE STRAND THEATRE AUDIENCE

Termed a Classic by Invited Guests at New York Showing; Approved by Belgian Authorities; Offers Received From Buyers

Sidney Olcott's production, "The Belgian," from the story of Frederic Arnold Kummer, author of several novels and successful plays, was shown to an invited audience at the Strand Theatre, New York City, Thursday, October 25.

Mr. Olcott, who produced the Kalem masterpiece, "From the Manager to the Cross," directed many Famous Players films, among them Mary Pickford in "Madam Butterfly" and "Poor Little Peppina"; Marguerite Clark in "Seven Sisters"; Valentine Grant in "The Innocent Lute" and others.

Director Olcott has contributed to the screen, according to the Strand audience, another motion picture classic. "The Belgian" is a dramatic document of social, military and economic conditions of that stricken country. No drama of recent years, it is said, contains more dramatic incidents. Belgium has stirred the imagination of the world's greatest literate, who have made it the shrine of universal sympathy as well as the future tombstone of militarism and autocracy.

Olcott's production of the Kummer story has received the general approval of the Belgian authorities in this country. It is the first of four big production planned for the coming year, and in the light of his previous work it is safe to assume that coming Olcott productions will be of undoubted worth.

Mr. Olcott states that immediately after the first presentation he received many offers, both from the state rights buyer and large distributing corporations, for the world rights to, "The Belgian."
Hoffman-Foursquare Exchanges to Handle Serial Written by Chief of Secret Service

Telling of German Spies Activities to Be Pictured by Whartons—Hoffman Concern Will Place Film Throughout United States

After lengthy deliberation, M. H. Hoffman, Inc., has finally been chosen as the distributing organization best fitted to look the forthcoming serial that is being written by Chief of the United States Secret Service William J. Flynn, which will present the machinations of the Imperial German Government against America.

For the first time the untold story of how German spies have done and tried to do to us will be set forth. The advantage of its presentation in picturized form need not be dwelt upon, when one pauses to consider that the Bible has no idea of the lengths to which Germany has gone to cripple the United States, and that all these details (proper sequence) will be shown in the William J. Flynn serial, its importance looms to a magnitude difficult to scribe.

Having such a motion picture feature, is only natural that its distribution should impress those identified with it as a matter of imperative concern. This requires, primarily, a method of distribution which will enable every exhibitor in the United States to show Chief Flynn's serial. Such a campaign necessarily demands a degree of concentration possible only to the distributing organization occupying a peculiarly fortunate position.

It was largely due to this fact that M. H. Hoffman, Inc., through its Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges, can approach the distribution plan with that degree of efficiency essential. Freed from the necessity of having to devote attention to too numerous features, and not being tied to program procedure, the Hoffman-Foursquare exchange managers and attaches will be able to devote their energies to this serial in the measure required to put it into the thousands of motion picture theatres which will want it.

The Planter" Reveals Social Conditions in Mexico Known to Few Americans

Lowering Mountains, Rich Plantations and Broad Rivers Are Part of Little-Known Country Shown in Mutual's Special Feature

"One-half the world doesn't know how other half lives" is a truism that has been completely vindicated thousands of times, but never more strikingly than in new Mutual special dramatization of "The Planter," Herman Whitaker's exciting story of the rubber plantations in southern Mexico. This is something more than a mere motion picture. It is a revelation of social and civil conditions that few Americans have known to exist on this continent and as well a scenic panorama of engaging interest.

The prevailing idea of Mexico is that it is a sandy desert, covered with cacti and overrun with vandoliered bandits, but here is quite a different Mexico—a tropic region, covered with jungle so dense that the machette is in constant use to cut trails through it.

There are towering mountains, too, and reed thatched stockade villages, in which plantation hands are herded. The old Spanish monasteries rear their battlemented walls here and there in most unlikely places, and broad rivers sweep along whose names would be hard to identify on any map.

The new play, in which Tyrone Power is starred, forms one of the most interesting of recent motion pictures.

Aside from its scenic and other fascinations, "The Planter" is an engrossing drama of love.

Lund to Direct Russian Actress in First Fox Film

William Fox has obtained the services of O. A. C. Lund as director for Sonia Markova, the Russian star whose acquisition was announced recently. Mme. Markova has been busily at work for some time at Fort Lee, N. J.

Fox Film Corporation now has what is probably the largest directorial staff of any one motion picture producing company. Fifteen film makers are engaged in Mr. Fox's eastern and western studios. Four of these men do comedies under the supervision of Henry Lehrman. The other directors are: J. Gordon Edwards, R. A. Walsh, Frank Lloyd, John G. Adolli, Richard Stanton, Carl Harbaugh, Kenean Buel, Bertram Bracke, Harry Millarde and O. A. C. Lund.

Oscar Lund, who has charge of the direction of Mme. Markova's initial starring vehicle, has been identified with stage and screen nearly all of his life. He was born in Stockholm, Sweden.

A large cast has been assembled to support Sonia Markova in the film. The principals include Sidney Mason, who played Blackie Daw in the stage production of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford"; William Lampe, David Herbst, Albert Tavernier, Anita Navaro, Edith Reeves and Julia Stuart.

W. W. Hodkinson Re-enters M. P. Business
With Feature Distributing Organization

Former President of Paramount and Triangle Forms "W. W. Hodkinson Co." and Opens Offices on Fifth Avenue, New York

W. W. Hodkinson, founder and first president of the Paramount Pictures Corp., and recently president of the Temple Distributing Corporation, announces his re-entry into the motion-picture business with a distributing company to be known as the W. W. Hodkinson Company.

Mr. Hodkinson has made important producing connections, which will be announced next week. He stated last Friday that he was re-entering the business with a definite plan of procedure, and a full recognition of the difficulties under which the exhibitors are at present operating.

"I entered the business as an exhibitor," said Mr. Hodkinson, "and my contact with the exhibitors of the country and with their problems has always been a very close one. I am coming back into the business at this time because I feel, in common with many thousands of men in all branches of the industry today, that the present critical situation requires other medicine than a mere readjustment of details of the business side of relationships between exhibitor, distributor and producer.

G. L. Tucker's Film "Mother" Receives Board Commendation

It is rare for a six-part feature to pass the keen scrutiny of a censoring committee of the National Board of Review without the necessity of a single elimination, The latest production of Geo. Loane Tucker, "Mother," sponsored by McClure pictures, has accomplished this feat and in addition has received warm praise from the chairman of the reviewing committee.

Mr. Sherwood, the gentleman in question, and a member of the National Board of Review, expressed himself as highly pleased with the wholesomeness of "Mother" throughout the entire six parts which comprise the Tucker offering. He remarked upon the grateful absence of purient sex interest and sensationalism so prominent in many of the present-day picture offerings, and commended highly the artistry of Elizabeth Risdon in the difficult role of Mother, praising her sympathetic and intelligent handling of the part.

"Mother" was passed in toto by the Board and will be published to the various state right buyers exactly as produced by George Loane Tucker from the novel by Eden Phillpotts.

"My company will be a distributing organization pure and simple, and I can say now only that my plan is to give a service to the exhibitor in the way of selection of pictures and guarantee of quality which will be really worth the price of distribution. I have no state rights pictures or individual groups of picture to distribute, but a plan which will give the exhibitor something he can get his teeth into and hang onto.

"I have given my own name to the new company because it will stand only for the things which I am willing that my name should be given to, and as a guarantee that I am in it for all that I am, all that I have learned and all that I believe about the motion picture business."

Mr. Hodkinson resigned as president of the Triangle and Superciputres about six months ago, and during the summer took his first vacation since he entered the business ten years ago. His "coming back" just now cannot but be regarded with genuine interest by everybody interested in motion pictures.

Mr. Hodkinson has associated with him in the new company, Raymond Pawley, former treasurer of Paramount and also of Triangle during Mr. Hodkinson's presidency. The new company has taken offices in the Harriman Bank building, 527 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

G. L. TUCKER'S "MOTHER" RECEIVES BOARD COMMENDATION

In the Vitagraph film Mr. MacDonald appears in support of Mildred Mannin and a strong cast. His pleasing personality and easy stage appearance should meet with instant favor with motion picture patrons.

JULES BURNSTEIN PREPARES TO LAUNCH "SHAME" NEW JOHN W. NOBLE FEATURE

Jules Burnstein is preparing to launch the new John W. Noble picture, "Shame," which will be distributed on a state rights basis.

Mr. Burnstein has been devoting his time exclusively to the E. K. Lincoln Grey Seal Serial since it was launched last spring. While his duties as vice-president and general manager of the Monmouth Film Corporation have made him a familiar figure on Broadway during the summer, the mysterious Jimmy Dale has called him out of town at frequent intervals and has recently made a trip through New England while announcing at the same time the coming of the John W. Noble feature.

ALICE BRADY IN "MAID OF BELGIUM" FILM

Herbert Brenon Buys Hudson Heights Studio and Becomes Sole Owner of $250,000 Plant

Independent Producer Obtains Complete Control of New Jersey Property; Buildings Modern in Detail to House Big Staff

Herbert Brenon is now the sole owner of his large studio property at Hudson Heights, N. J., a business transaction involving the firm having just been consummated. By this deal, Mr. Brenon becomes the biggest single factor in the film industry today.

Mr. Brenon recently acquired control of the producing corporation bearing his name, purchasing the other interests in the organization. This gave him complete control of production.

The producer then turned to the purchase of a studio to insure complete freedom and scope for his extensive plans. The studio property which he has been occupying was owned by William G. Bunstead, the Jersey City capitalist.

Negotiations have been progressing for several weeks, being briefly held up by Mr. Brenon's operation for appendicitis. The final papers have just been signed by Mr. Brenon, who has resumed active production at his studio.

Model Studios

The studio property includes some two and a half acres of land, two studio buildings, laboratories, administration building, garage and carpenter shop. The studios are model ones of concrete and steel with every up-to-the-minute detail of equipment. They have a complete electrical equipment, with Cooper-Hewitts, etc. The larger studio has a floor space of 10,000 square feet, while the other studio building has floor space of 50,000 square feet. The construction of the studios, by means of sliding sides and balconies, permits of unusually long shots, ranging up to 150 feet. One hallroom scene in "The Fall of the Romanoffs" revealed the great depth possible.

A large outdoor stage, the first in the east, is being constructed on the property. Aside from this, there are, atop the studios, two outdoor spaces, each 50x40 feet, which are utilized for exteriors. The two studio buildings have forty individual dressing rooms and four star dressing rooms. Adjoining the studio buildings is a restaurant capable of handling 500.

Offices at Plant

The administration building houses the private offices of Mr. Brenon, his general business office and the departments of exploitation and accounting.

Mr. Brenon's plant, with its completely equipped laboratories, handles a motion picture from actual filming to the finished positive print. This assures him exactly the sort of work that he desires in every department.

Studio's Big Staff

The plant has a staff of 500. George Rush is studio manager. The photographic department is headed by J. Roy Hunt and technical department by George Fitch. George Edwards Hall heads the scenario department, with Joseph Ezechel as assistant.

The studio also has its own title man and printer. The laboratories, fitted with six developing machines and four printing machines, have room provided for a staff of twenty-five girls.

The Hudson Heights studios have been occupied by Mr. Brenon since their construction in June, 1916. On August 7th, Mr. Brenon started his first production there, "War Brides," and his subsequent productions, "Lone Wolf" and "The Fall of the Romanoffs," were also made there. Every scene of "The Fall of the Romanoffs" was taken on the studio property, proving the possibilities and efficiency of Mr. Brenon's studios.

JEANNE EAGLES STARS IN NEW WORLD FILM

A photoplay, as yet unnamed, the scenes of which are laid in Belgium at the outbreak of the war, is now in the making by World-Pictures Brady-Made. The picture, in which Jeanne Eagles will star, is said to contain a number of impressive military scenes depicting some of the most significant historical episodes of the great conflict.

Exhibitors Approve of Goldwyn Plan to Exploit "Thais"

Mary Garden Film to Be Sold to Customers at Regular Rates

The announcement made in the Herald last week that Goldwyn Pictures Corporation would give its customers the Mary Garden production "Thais" at no advance in rental prices has won the approval of exhibitors.

"Thais" involves a big expenditure of money besides the salary that Miss Garden receives and the high price paid to M. Anatole France for the use of his story.

Samuel Goldfish and his associates feel that the basis of exhibitor confidence, as in any other business, is honorable treatment of a company's customers. That all Goldwyn exhibitors are entitled to the best the company creates. They know that no producing organization ever formed has been able to make all of its productions attain one hundred per cent perfection and it is their feeling that the exhibitors who obtain the regular output of the company are entitled to the exceptional productions at the same rental prices they are called upon to pay for other pictures under their contracts.

Walthall Completes "His Robe of Honor" First Paralta Film

Word has been received from the coast studios that "His Robe of Honor," which will mark Henry B. Walthall's debut as a star in Paralta Plays, has been completed.

The picture is a seven-reel production adapted for the screen by Julian Louis Lamothe from the popular novel by Ethel and James Dorrance. The story was selected from a number submitted by many of the best known writers and is entitled "His Robe of Honor." It is held to be an exceptional opportunity, it is said to appear in the kind of role which has won for him his greatest popularity and a delineator of dramatic types.

Supporting Mr. Walthall are Miss Mary Charleson, Miss Lois Wilson, Miss Mary Berry, Jr., J. J. Dowling, Bessie Hunt, Mr. J. S. Dorrance, Fred Montague and Eugen Palette.

Hoffman's Mid-West Exchange to Handle 25 Features a Year

Twenty-five features a year will be handled through the Hoffman-Four square exchange in Chicago, according to F. J. Flaherty, manager, who is busily engaged getting his offices in shape.

Seven states will be under the juridiction of the new Chicago office at Mr. Flaherty expects to have six sales men attached to his offices in the states included in the Chicago territory: Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri and North and South Dakota.

J. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corp. Organizing
Large Sales Force to Handle Output

Will Make Country Wide Drive Before Publishing "Zeppelin's Last Raid" Ince Production—Well Known Men Engaged

Having disposed of the preliminary details preceding the launching of the J. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, rank Hall and William Oldknow, leading spirits in the new concern, are now engaged in organizing their sales forces.

No publication date for the first production, Thomas H. Ince's new specta-tcle, "The Zeppelin's Last Raid," has et been announced, but the sales division already has begun a country-wide drive to spread the doctrine of co-operation among exhibitors and reports from all points indicate a prosperous future for the new enterprise.

A number of men who have held important posts with well-known picture concerns have cast their lot with the new undertaking. Among the best owned, perhaps, is Joseph Partridge, vice president of the Triangle-Distributing Corporation. He will hold a similar post in the new organization.

Alexander, Foreign Agent

William Alexander, who has been with the Fox Film Corporation, since the inception of that concern, will serve as an important capacity with the new corporation. Mr. Alexander has had many years as foreign representative for Fox in all parts of the world. In that period Mr. Alexander established twenty-two branches for the Fox enterprises, a chain of branches that girdled the globe.
He visited more than 10,000 picture houses in the United States, Canada, South America and Great Britain.

Another important post will be handled by Lynn S. Card, who sold his interest in the L. S. Card Booking Corporation, the New Jersey exchange of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, to affiliate himself with the U. S. organization. Mr. Card will devote his efforts to the development of New York territory for the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation.

New Jersey Representative

Louis D. Lyons will represent the new organization in New Jersey, where he has had long experience. Mr.
Lyons formerly represented Pathe and served with the Mutual and the Civilization Film Corporation. His wide acquaintance among exhibitors in that territory makes him a valuable acquisition.

The Goldwyn Distributing Corporation has received a post card containing the most remarkable proposal for film salesmanship yet found in America. It comes from a manager of a theatre many miles from New York, and reads:

Dear Sirs: Kindly forward sample pieces of film from "The Manx-Man," each to be about five yards in length, and taken from different parts of the picture, as I wish to make a careful examination before booking. Pieces must arrive not later than
Oct. 28, 1917, to be of any use.

The Goldwyn Corporation and the Manx-Man Company, Inc., makers of the film, are naturally flattered at this evidence of the widespread popularity of the Hall
Caine story and the interest roused by the film. The executives, however, are a trifle disconcereted at the correspondent's request. They are puzzled over just what sort of test the eight disconected portions are to be subjected to.

Select's Sales Manager Studies Field
Reports Middle West Conditions Promising

Exhibitors Turning Towards Higher Class Films and Two-Day Runs, Says C. E. Shurtleff; Despite Increased Expense Profits Reach Higher Level Than Formerly

C. E. Shurtleff, sales manager for the Select Pictures Corporation, has just completed a three-weeks' tour of central west cities, including St. Louis, Kansas City, Des Moines and Pittsburgh, and reports that conditions are most favorable for the producer who has the highest grade of pictures to sell.

Mr. Shurtleff has been visiting Select branches and establishing an office at St. Louis under the management of E. W. Dustin.

According to Mr. Shurtleff, there is a general recognition on the part of the exhibitors of the advantages accruing from showing only highest grade pictures and running them for more than one day. Runs of two or more days are becoming much commoner than heretofore.

Demand "Star" Films

With this movement is the accompanying demand for star pictures, and only the very best of these. Also there is a willingness on the part of the exhibitor to pay a much higher price for these attractions than he has been accustomed to paying for the program features which he has been showing under a policy of daily changes.

As an example, Mr. Shurtleff told of an exhibitor in a small city in the middle west who had never paid over $12.50 for a picture. This amount was paid for program features which he was able to show for one day only. This exhibitor has now paid Select Pictures as high as $100 for star pictures which he proposes to show for runs of two days each. What is most promising is the fact that the exhibitor reports better business and better profits for himself under the new arrangement.

Mr. Shurtleff also cites other instances of exhibitors who have changed from the one day run to the two day run program with success.

One of the contracts signed up in the territory visited by Mr. Shurtleff was with A. H. Blank, one of the largest of the middle west exhibitors. Mr. Blank's contract calls for all Select Pictures for his Garden Theatre in Des Moines, one of the premiere houses of the middle west. Select attractions will also be played by Mr. Blank in his Davenport, Iowa, theatre.

LAEMMLE EXPLAINS TEMPORARY SUSPENSION OF SEVERAL UNIVERSAL FEATURE COMPANIES

Approach of Cloudy and Rainy Season Given as Reason for Shut-Down—Will Not Affect Serials, Current Events Nor Weekly Films

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Co., has issued the following statement concerning the temporary suspension of some few producing companies at Universal City, Cal. This announcement will be of general interest to the trade and of particular importance to exhibitors of the Universal product:

"Until we know exactly how seriously the war tax is going to affect us," says Mr. Laemmle, "and until we are positively convinced that the exhibitors will co-operate in collecting the money from the public, we intend to take advantage of the fact that we have accumulated the largest reserve stock of negatives in our career by laying off several feature companies for about four weeks.

"This will not affect the production of serials, because we are not far enough ahead on these negatives to suspend producing them. The same thing, of course, applies to the Animated Weekly, the Current Events and the Universal Screen Magazine because of the fact that it is impossible to have a reserve supply of negatives on news events.

"The fact that the cloudy and rainy season is about at hand helped us to arrive at this decision, for we have not quite enough electric lighted stages in Universal City for all our companies. By suspending operations until we have used up a certain amount of our big reserve supply of negatives, we avoid the heavy loss of having several companies lying idle on cloudy or rainy days. This, by the way, happened only last week, entailing a loss of approximately $15,000.

"Mr. Laemmle adds that it has taken a long time to arrive at the point where they have accumulated enough high class negatives to carry out this economic policy. In fact, this is the first time they have been in a position to take such radical steps. The temporary suspension has given rise to various rumors, and it is to prevent any possible misapprehension of the true situation that the Universal Company issues the official announcement.

Buys $10,000 Bond to Aid Uncle Sam

Announcement was made this week by Harry G. Kosch, treasurer of General Enterprises, Inc., that his organization has purchased $10,000 worth of Liberty bonds, the second issue of which is being offered to the public of the United States.

Mr. Kosch negotiated the transaction for General Enterprises, Inc., through one of the New York banks, and stated that his firm, which controls "The Warrior" and other film spectacles, feels extremely gratified at the opportunity to assist the United States Government by a purchase of the current bond issue. The General Enterprises, Inc., has established offices in the Longacre building, 1470 Broadway, New York.

Present Law Will Ruin Business
It Is Claimed—Seek President’s Aid on Measure

New York—Special to Exhibitors Herald)—A committee, of which William A. Brady is chairman, and composed of F. A. Powers of Universal, J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe, and Arthur S. Friend of Paramount, went to Washington this week to protest against a construction of the motion picture tax law which, they contend, would ruin the business as it stands. It is the hope of the committee that they will be granted an interview with President Wilson.

It was asserted that the producers and distributors are willing to pay a reasonable one time footage tax, amounting to about $3 a reel, but that if the law is so framed as to require a tax be paid every time a film is rented it would be ruinous.

Alice Brady Finishes First Select Picture

Alice Brady has finished her first picture, "Her Silent Sarifee," for Select Pictures. In the new production Miss Brady is seen as a Brittany maid in love with a struggling young artist. The picture will be issued through Select exchanges soon.

"RAFFLES" WITH JOHN BARRYMORE AS STAR, SAID TO BE AN ARTISTIC PRODUCTION

Hy-Class Company Will Market Film on State Rights Plan Through Hiller and Wilk, N. Y. Brokers

While the largest distributing companies have made every effort to secure the Hy-Class Producing Company's premiere feature, "Raffles," The Amateur Cracksman," in which John Barrymore returns to the screen in the role made famous by the late Kyrle Bellew, it has finally been decided to publish "Raffles" in the state rights plan.

The reason for this decision was the desire to establish a standard so high it would be unjust to the Hy-Class Productions to have them placed along with features lacking the quality that the executives of the company have determined to maintain.

In addition to making their features as artistic as possible, the aim of the company is to produce books and plays having established publicity value in combination with stars of unquestioned reputation, such as John Barrymore and Forbes Robertson.

Hiller and Wilk, the well-known state rights brokers, have been appointed exclusive selling agents for "Raffles." The photoplay represents six months of effort on the part of the producing staff, headed by Director George Irving, in addition to the investment of thousands of dollars spent in securing a cast and settings. The picture rights of "Raffles" are said to have cost considerable.

John Barrymore heads the cast in a role that will endear him to everyone who sees the picture, it is said. Other members of the cast are Frederick Perry, H. Cooper Cliffe, Christine Mayo and Evelyn Brent.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION FILED BY NEW YORK FILM CONCERN

The Continental Photoplay Corporation of New York has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. In the petition the liabilities of the corporation are put at $9,529, with assets of $5,500.

The principal creditors of the company are Alonzo Bivona, $1,500; Daniel Vitiello, $4,210; Antonio Morino, $1,000; and Gabriel Citarella, $1,400.

Rothacker to Make Chaplin Prints for Exhibitors' Circuit

The First National Exhibitors' Circuit of New York City has entered into a contract with the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company of Chicago, to print and develop positive prints of its pictures for distribution.

The Chicago firm will handle the Charles Chaplin comedies as well as other films controlled by the First National Exhibitors Circuit, and will ship them to all parts of the world.

The contract was awarded the Rothacker Company after a careful study of the situation was made by J. D. Williams, manager of the First National Exhibitors Circuit and a committee of members consisting of Aaron Jones, Chicago; Robt. Lieber, Indianapolis, and H. Schwabke, Philadelphia. The contract was signed by S. L. Rothapfel and H. Schwabke for the Exhibitors Circuit.
WM. A. BRADY GUEST OF HONOR AT BANQUET
GIVEN BY NEW ENGLAND M. P. EXHIBITORS

Mayor Curley and Other Notables Attend Meeting Held at Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston; World Program Highly Regarded

William A. Brady, general manager of World-Pictures Brady-Made, was the guest of honor Tuesday night, October 25, at the meeting of the New England motion picture exhibitors, held at the Copley Plaza Hotel, in Boston.

The occasion was of much more than ordinary importance. At Mr. Brady's table, in addition to Mr. Brady, were Mayor Curley of Boston, former Governor Walsh of Massachusetts, and other men of national renown. After Mr. Brady had finished his address to the assembled guests, he took occasion to make himself personally acquainted with as many of them as he could in the time at his disposal.

"I found these men an exceptionally thoughtful and clear-headed body," said he.

"About three hundred of them were present, representing Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut, doing business in all the cities of consequence, in what is the most thickly populated section of this country.

"I particularly wanted to get the views of these men on certain matters—more especially the program vs. the special price features, and I was entirely surprised, as well as gratified, with the result. I found the opinion to be practically unanimous that the program was increasing in strength every day, and that its ultimate survival over all competition was regarded as a sure thing.

"A score of those with whom I conversed went out of their way to commend the World for having given exhibitors 'Rasputin' on the regular program at regular prices, and they also took pains to extol the merits of 'The Burglar,' 'The Maid of Belgium,' and the general line of pictures we have been producing.

"To own faith in the program is well known and has never wavered for an instant. But if there had been so much as a wobble in my inner consciousness this Boston experience would have straightened me up in a jiffy.

LIKE WORLD SERVICE

"I discovered also during the evening that these exhibitors regarded our organization with a high degree of confidence. The thing I like above all else in the World service," said the owner of several theaters in one of the largest cities of this territory, "is that I can depend on the staunchness of your representatives. In other words, they do not try to 'kid' the exhibitors, or boost your pictures unreasonably, or misrepresent anything, and this highest degree of exhibitor likes to be treated on the level as much as anyone else, and appreciates the consideration when he gets it."

"The speaker made it clear that he had nobody specially in mind as illustrating the contrary side of his declaration.

"One of the great advantages of the program system to the exhibitor, my informant proceeded, 'is that he can become well acquainted with his sources of supply, by constant dealings, and thus weed out the unstable or misrepresented products in favor of the ones which come through exactly as stated.'"

POSSIBILITIES OF MAE MARSH IN "SUNSHINE ALLEY" OUTLINED FOR EXHIBITORS BY GOLDWYN EXPERTS

Star—Mae Marsh is known the country over as the "whim girl of the films." Everything she does is so invested with spontaneity that her work is refreshing to a marked degree, and nothing she does is in the least mechanical. She is known throughout the world as the bright star of "The Birth of a Nation" and of "Intolerance," not to forget a number of famous shorter screen features, among them "Man's Gene-

Lobby—There is opportunity for much special lobby decoration on this feature in the way of live or cut-out animals. An exhibitor might secure, either through some visiting attraction or through some lithograph agency, a number of poster pictures of animals that might be mounted on a compound backing, propped by a back brace, and silhouetted for use in odd corners about the lobby. The co-operation of some local furrier or taxidermist may be enlisted and small stuffed animals' dressed in quaint clothes like human beings.

Special Co-operation—Through the large part played in the production by animal actors, the active co-operation of the local S. F. C. A. or Audubon Society may be secured in their campaigns to teach kindness to birds and animals. "As much as this is the first screen contribution to their cause, they will doubtless enlarge their activities as an increase attendance at the local theater.

Newspapers—The above mentioned angle will afford opportunity to all local newspapers and magazines for not only mention in the news columns, but also on editorial pages. The production is unique in this regard. In addition, there is in the publicity mateial in the press sheets which may be secured in duplicate at Goldwyn branch offices, designed to meet the requirements of all newspaper departments.

There are also cuts and mats of varying sizes.

Circularization—The nature of this play is such that it will appeal to all classes of people. There is human interest in that it levels all class distinctions. However, as this is an English play that is clean in every respect, advantage may be taken to make a special drive for family trade and especially for the patronage of children. Through circularization, a local stationer may be able to supply an inexpensive card or folder having a color picture of a small puppy which may be surcharged on this with little trouble by the regular house printer.

Other Accessories—For poster work there are two litho proofs, a litho or rotogravure, well suited to uses in the lobby and about the theatre premises. There are two kinds of litho sheets and a litho twenty-four.

In addition to other accessories in preceding paragraphs, there are also lobby "still photographs," measuring 8x10 and 11x14. Star portraits are photo-gelatine 22x28 and 8x10. Slides are available for projection purposes.

Catchlines—"The Quaintest Play of a Quaint America." As mentioned before this is an admirably qualified advertisement for advertising purposes. There may also be suggested, "The Screen's First Plea For Dumb Animals," as the caption for a "Burglar.""

The exhibitor is urged to make the most of the Goldwyn trademark, which has become recognized by the great theatre-going public as a trademark of quality.

Owl Features Gets Territorial Rights to
"Her Bargain" Film

Phil Lewis, manager of the Owl Features, Inc., has just closed a deal with Charles T. Rankin whereby he secures the Illinois and Southern Wisconsin rights for the big Horsley production, "Her Bargain."

The story was written by Frederick B. Bennett and features Mary McFarlen. The story is woven around a girl who, while on a visit to her aunt in the East, takes part in an amateur theatrical and becomes the center of her efforts to get a footing she strikes a bargain with an unscrupulous theatrical promoter.

The story is said to be replete with stirring situations any many tense mom-

WAR TAX SLIDES ASK SUPPORT FROM PUBLIC

In an effort to overcome the possible of a drop in attendance at motion picture houses, the war tax effort has already resulted in the lowering of the tax. The Exhibitors Supply Company of Chicago has prepared a number of slides and box office notices to emphasize the amount of the tax. In most cases making an appeal to the patriotism of the public in the mate-

The box office signs, which bear the price of admission with the added tax are on black paper with silver letting and are framed ready to be hung in every theater. The slides, of which there are five different kinds, are in red, white and blue.

Each carries a different message. "Every dollar will help in the drive for liberty" and "A chance to do you bit in accordance with the U. S. government law" is the general tone of the messages carried on the slides of the public.

To say that "Bab's Burglar" is just as good, if not better than the first of the sub-deb stories, "Bab's Diary," is probably sufficient for most exhibitors. Exhibitors who are on the look-out for high-class, entertaining productions for discriminating audiences would do well to look up this new series of Marguerite Clark pictures. Leone Morgan, Richard Earlelnes, Frank Losee, Gabriel O'Madigan, Helen Greene, William Hinckley and Guy Combs are the supporting cast. J. Searle Dawley directed.

The story: Bab's father decides to give her an allowance of one thousand dollars a year with nothing extra. Bab, believing herself in possession of a small fortune, buys violets for everyone of her teachers, an automobile, and then for the upkeep of the automobile she spends the rest of her money. In balancing her books she finds that she has sixteen cents left for the year. But father is right there to help her out. Bab is anxious to marry her sister, Lella, off to the extent that she might be treated as a young lady and then, mistaking the young man for a burglar, she interferes with her sister's elopement. Disgusted with her failure to assist Lella she retires, not knowing that she has saved her sister from the hands of a fortune hunter.

Triangle seems to be running to western stories of late. "The Firefly of Touch Luck," however, possesses an interesting plot, with unusually fine western embellishments. Alma Reuben is thoroughly at home in the role of a poor dance hall girl, but the best bit of character work to come to the screen in some time is contributed by J. G. Hawkes. In his "Touch Luck" Baxter arouses interest in this picture, which would otherwise fall flat by reason of less finished artists assigned to the other male roles.

The photography is excellent and Mason Hopper's direction is all that could be desired. J. G. Hawkes furnished the story. The picture pleased audiences at the Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago, where it was shown last week.

The story: Firefly is married to a worthless youth, who urges her to go to Baxter City, a mining camp, to make a living for herself and himself, not knowing that the town has been deserted by all save the mayor and "Touchy Luck" Baxter, for some time. Baxter is coaxed into a game of cards by "Happy" Jack Clarke, a gambler, who agrees to spend thirty days in Baxter City if he loses. Clarke loses and goes with Baxter. On their journey back, they come upon the prospector form of Firefly, the cabaret girl. The two also find Danny Ward, who had jumped off a train at the junction and wandered into Baxter City. Exhibitors should be able to make capital out of the Select Company's newest product, "The Wild Girl." Eva Tanguay is known in almost every town, and yet outside of the large cities a great majority of people have never had an opportunity to see this eccentric vaudeville star on the speaking stage. It is interesting to watch her work, and many of her eccentricities, reproduced on the screen, make her retreasing and different from most screen stars. Then the story of this production is somewhat out of the beaten track and has been well handled. Tom Moore is the hero, and Stuart Holmes, as the villain par excellence, adds one more laurel to his ability as the bad man. The direction is by Howard Estabrook.

The story: Leander Martin dies, leaving his daughter in the care of kind gypsies. She is known as the Firefly, and when she becomes a young lady is married to Andrio, the bad man of the gypsy tribe. Firefly makes her escape and falls into the hands of Donald McDonald, a young newspaper editor. She has a letter which proves her to be the lost niece of the wealthy Mr. Martin of Meadville. Her identification established, Firefly becomes an inmate of the Martin home, disclaiming Martin's sister and crooked son. Firefly loves Donald, but when she believes him married she returns to the gypsy tribe. Donald, hearing of her disappearance, notifies the sheriff. They attack the gypsy encampment, and Firefly is made to realize that Donald loves her.

THE "HERALD'S" REVIEW SERVICE

The dominant aim of the reviewers on the staff of the EXHIBITORS HERALD is to supply the exhibitor with the information necessary to enable him to appreciate intelligently the production under consideration—to know if the picture is exceptional, if it is of standard quality, if it is suitable in theme and treatment to his requirements. The review department is absolutely essential to every person who books pictures. Its independence, strict impartiality and fairness guarantees an accurate estimation of every important production published.

The charm of Edna Goodrich is always there and in her role of a Southern girl, with a mind of her own, she will no doubt prove a delight to her admirers. “A Daughter of Maryland” is a fair enough story and undoubtedly audiences who like this class of production will be pleased with the offering. Miss Goodrich is supported by Miss Hopkins, Hazel Strickland, Carl Brickett, Jack Jenkins, Charles Martin, Florence Miller, Morgan Thorpe, S. J. Burton and Myra Brooks. The direction is by John B. O'Brien.

The story: Beth Treadway is engaged to Ripley, her father's lawyer. John Standish, a Northerner, is hired by an old southern gentleman to beautify his home grounds. Beth dis likes the young Northerner, until one evening he rescues an old slave from a burning shack. Ripley, needing money and being double-crossed by Beth, decides to rob the Treadway safe. Treadway catches Ripley in the act and in the struggle, Ripley shoots Treadway. The shot is heard by Beth and Standish, who are planning to elope. Investigation throws suspicion on the old slave rescued by Standish, but when the servant finds a piece of a pajama belonging to Ripley, in the dead man's hand, the identity of the true murderer comes to light. He tells his story to the court, and is stopped by Standish and in a struggle between the two men for possession of a revolver, Ripley is killed. Beth and Standish are finally made happy.

Perhaps a great deal of the success of "Jack and Jill" will depend upon the appeal factors. This story and the plot new to motion pictures. It is well told and the New York bowery slang in the subtitles is good, although frequently patrons can not see the humor in this sort of subtitles. Jack Pickford's performance is one of the chief points in the story and their versatility is well proven. Other members of the cast are Leo Houck, Don Bailey, J. H. Holland, Hart Hoxie, Col. Lenone and Beatrice Burnham. The direction is by William D. T. Mann. Several slight discrepancies have crept in the story.

The story: Jack, an east side New York light-weight fighter, becomes the dupe of a frame-up fight in which he knocks out a champion and is led to believe he has killed the man. He might have gone to New Jersey and been on the job. The next day he finds himself in Texas, where cowboys decide to have a good time with the tenderfoot. Jill, his pal and sweetheart, gets the money which was coming to Jack for fighting, and when she hears from him she, too, goes to Texas. She arrives on the ranch when most of the cowboys are away and the Mexicans are planning a raid. When Jack hears of her presence he rushes to the ranch and arrives just in time to prevent the Mexicans from attacking the house. He knocks out several of the Mexicans and by this time the cowboys have arrived to find out why Jack was in such a hurry. The Mexicans are driven off and Jack becomes the hero of the hour. He is given a steady position with the ranch and he and Jill live happily.

The story: Paul Rogers is sentenced to prison for a theft of which he is innocent and his sister Lena swears to avenge him. The judge Grant, has become a prominent attorney and he becomes smitten with her. She lures him on and when he asks to marry him she tells him some day she will be his. Grace Cunard that evening she carries the judge's brother and the announcement comes as a blow to the judge. Paul is released from prison and goes to the home of the judge and shoots him. Lena confesses to the crime, but the judge is exonerated and not been killed, tells the police it was a man. In the next room Paul, a consumptive, lies in a coughing fit from which he never recovers. The judge tells the police it was an accident and Lena and her husband live happily on.
The story: Beatrix Vanderlyke, the beautiful and spoiled daughter of wealthy society leaders, is capricious and dangerously curious about life. She is too busy with their receptions to give her the attention and careful guidance she needs. They hope to bring about a marriage between her and Pelham Franklin, a conservative man of the world. With all the other men of the community, they can hold a gayer time than with Franklin, and she becomes seriously involved in a flirtation with Sutherland York, an attractive rake, who persuade her to come to his bachelor quarters at night. She is seen entering the building, and in terror over the scandal she asks Franklin to let her say that they had been secretly married and that she was coming to his apartments, which are in the same building in York’s. He rises to the occasion and there follows a series of situations during which Franklin exacts the penalty for the favor. THE PLANTER

Mutual drama; seven parts; published November 12.

Though "The Planter" has obviously been written for the worldly-wise, it is a splendidly produced picture. The story has been handled in an excellent manner, the settings are very well selected, the photography clear, and the work of the cast fine. Tyrone Power's acting especially is something that theater patrons do not have an opportunity of seeing every day. It is dramatically powerful. If your patrons are of the sophisticated class, "The Planter" should appeal to them. The story is from the novel by Herman Hasker; the direction is by Thomas N. Heffron.

The story: David Mann, a pampered son of a rich widow, goes off to the Wild West to prove himself a man. His first step in the plan he plans to bring about is his refusal to accept the slave, which is customary for any man to have. By doing this he arouses the enmity of Hertz, his neighbor, and the love of a beautiful Mexican girl. Hertz decides that the Mexican girl shall become his wife and during Mann's absence he attacks her in her cabin. Hertz's slaves escape, attack him and set fire to his plantations. Hertz has made the girl a prisoner in one of his burning shacks and as her death seems certain she is rescued by Mann and there is a promise of a happy-ever-after ending.

There is a strong plot and a virile story in "Trouble Makers," making it all the more fitting for Jane and Katherine Lee's comedy. A pleasing romance is unfolded, and a puzzling tragedy mystery cleared up, as the result of a series of pranks perpetrated by the little stars, and its climax carries a punch, but becomes thoroughly rehearsed, a tense story has been told. Kenean Euel directed it.

Mr. Breese, in the leading role of the new Raver production, will have a part entirely to his liking, one which permits the exercising of the full scope of his strongly developed powers of dramatic technique. Edmund Breese has been conspicuously successful as a stage star, having appeared at the head of such important companies as "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Third Degree," and "The Master Mind." Mr. Breese duplicated his stage success on the screen as the star of "The Spell of the Yukon," produced by Metro; "The Walls of Jericho," a Fox picture; and the film version of "The Master Mind." Edmund Breese and a carefully selected company of picture players will be associated with Mr. Breese in his first Harry Raver production. The picture will be directed by Burton King. Work on the new Breese picture will start immediately at the Raver studios in Yonkers.

Fox Expansion Policy Indicates Confidence in Trade Prosperity

Confidence not only in the general future of the motion picture industry but in the immediate prospects for greatly increased business is indicated by William Fox in announcing policies made this month regarding arrangements for strengthening and increasing the numerous companies under Fox Film Corporation management.

In the face of war taxes on positive and negative films and on theatre admissions, Mr. Fox, who has been described in public as "having an uncanny sense of foreseeing public taste and demands," and who has had a long and uninterrupted series of business successes, is going steadily ahead with the development of ambitious plans for expansion. He has announced the creation of two new stars and the association of his growing organization with two more actors prominent in the world of comedy. In all, the announcements of the month indicate the formation of not less than five new companies.

Jack Goldberg Claims Authenticity For "On the Italian Battle Front"

Jack Goldberg, 1439 Broadway, New York City, believing that the true state of his picture, "On the Italian Battle Front," has been misrepresented by certain stories published in trade journals, has written the Herald a communication explaining in detail the situation and enclosing the following communication from his attorney, Sidney Rosenbaum:

Mr. Goldberg,

1439 Broadway,
New York City

My dear Mr. Goldberg:

Answering your inquiry as to the result of the motion made by the Italian American Commercial Union and the Fort Pitt Theatre Corporation against you in the United States District Court for this District, for an injunction to restrain you and all persons acting in concert with you from exhibiting and licensing your war pictures, "ON THE ITALIAN BATTLE FRONT," upon the ground that same were not genuine war pictures.

Upon this point the proof showed absolutely that your pictures are genuine war pictures taken on the Italian battle front, as advertised and represented by you, and the Court denied their motion in this respect.

(1) To restrain you from advertising your pictures as "author- ized by the Supreme Command of the Italian Army."

The proof upon this point showed conclusively that the photographs which you are now exhibiting were "duly authorized by the Supreme Command of the Italian Army." The Court denied their motion in this respect.

(2) To restrain you from using the title, "ON THE ITALIAN BATTLE FRONT," because of its similarity to the title used by the defendants, "THE ITALIAN BATTLE FRONT." Upon this point the proof showed beyond contradiction that you have adopted this title and widely advertised it long before was adopted by others. The Court denied their motion in this respect.

As to the use of the word "official" in connection with your pictures, a definition of the term "official" was placed before the Supreme Court. The Court said that, if you have never used the word "official" and have no intention to use the term, there is no contradiction on this point. The Court said you were free to use your pictures in any manner.

The Court decided that if the plaintiffs would show in their advertisements and upon their films the period covered by their pictures, you should do the same in connection with yours, a proposal to which, under your instructions, I readily agreed.

Therefore, I have the pleasure to state that you are entirely at liberty to proceed to exhibit and license your pictures under the title, "ON THE ITALIAN BATTLE FRONT," and to describe the same as duly authorized by the Supreme Command of the Italian Army.

Feeling sure that the vindication secured in the above proceeding is a gratifying one to you as to me, I remain

Yours very truly,

S. R.

STAR OF "STRUGGLE EVERLASTING" ENTERTAINS CAST WITH STAGE PLAYS

When Florence Reed opened Monday night, October 22, i.e. "Chu Chin Chow," at the Opera House, New York, she had as her guests thirty photographers who have been working with her in the film version of Edwin Milton Royle's "The Struggle Everlasting," which originally served as a stage vehicle for Florence Roberta Levey.

Miss Reed has been "doubling" for several weeks, divided her time between "Chu Chin Chow" rehearsals and the photograph in which she will star under the management of Harry Rapo, Mr. Royle, director James Kirkwood and Mr. Ra were also in the theater party.
Pickford, Fairbanks and Ferguson
Stars of November Artcraft Films

In "The Little Princess," the Artcraft feature for November 5, Mary Pickford again portrays the role of a child. As Sara Crewe, the heroine of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's book, Miss Pickford has scored another hit, it is said, and has been more than adequately captured by her performance in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" will see her in another role equally pleasing.

Miss Pickford plays the part of a girl who is suddenly plunged from wealth to poverty. She has been bribed in India, where her father was a captain in the British army, and then misfortune overtakes her and she becomes a scullery maid in the fashionable boarding school where she has been a valetudinarian and her fair widow's weeds brings comfort in the companionship of Becky, the little slavely of the institution.

Frances Marion wrote the scenario, and Marshall Neilan directed the production. On November 26 Artcraft will issue "Reaching for the Moon," in which Douglas Fairbanks stars. In the film he is hot, stabbed, dumped into a canal, has his food poisoned, and battles on a narrow ledge, high above ground.

The photoplay is taken from the book of the same title by Mary S. Watts and deals with the duty of society toward, nameless and friendless children. It does not make its appeal through maudlin sentiment, but rather through the courageous spirit of a plucky girl who wins recognition in spite of disadvantages of birth and environment.

Essanay's New Educational Series
Shows American Authors as Anglers

"Fishing in New Brunswick," the first of a new educational series being produced by Essanay shows a score of noted American authors in camp near Fredericton, N. B., where salmon fishing is at its best. Included in the group are Fred Lardner and Jack Latt of the Chicago Tribune, Hugh Allerton, of baseball "dope" fame; Grandville Robinson, noted screen writer; Bill McGehee, and Maximilian Foster of the Saturday evening Post.

Far from the noise of their desks in the states, these men keep the American reading public amused, prove themselves most adept Walton's. The scenic effects are wonderful, some of the battles to land the finny giants are very exciting.

ORTHCOMING SCREEN PRODUCTIONS
FEATURE SEVEN NOTED STARS

Studies on both sides of the continent are busy turning out feature productions for the Mutual program. At last a score of five reel features are already completed and many more are well under way.

Margaret Fischer, who recently joined the forces at the studio of the American Film Company, Inc., Santa Barbara, has completed "A Daughter of Joan," the first of her Muorth-Comings. Miss Fischer is working on her second production, under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham, who has been erecting the Mary Miles Minter pictures.

Rusell in "Alladin's Night"

William Russell has finished "Snap Judgment," a five-reel cure built on a story of a man and his dog and is at work on "Alladin's Night," a five-reel production based on New York's gay life. Both productions are under the direction of the Sompland "A Daughter of Joan," the first of her Muorth-Comings. Miss Minter is on her first sea pic-ure, "The Fate of the Sally Ann," a five-reel drama scheduled for November 26.

At the Empire studio, Glendale, L. L., Ann Murdock has completed "My Wife" and "Please Help Emily," her latest stage success, and is at work on "The Richest Girl," a Frohman story of today. Miss Murdock is working under direction of John O'Brien.

"Her Sister" for Olive Tell

Miss Tell is now producing the second of her picures, "Her Sister," an adaptation of the Frohman stage production of success in "The Unforeseen," the first of her pictures, indicates big things from her in the future.

At the Herzkeimer studio Miss Anita King has finished "Petit Canal, Pants," and is at work on "The Princess Incognito," a story of would-be society. Miss King's first production under the Mutual banner was "The Girl Angle," a fiveree western, which has been very successful from the box office standpoint.

Edward Goodrich, whose first three productions for Mutual, "Reputation," "Queen X" and "A Daughter of Maryland" have proven popular with the American public, has finished "American Gypsy" and is busy on "Her Second Husband," a story of society and business.

Kleine Co. Issues Attractive Poster
To Boost Perfection Pictures Bookings

An attractive and valuable poster, covering every phase of the big advertising campaign for Perfection Pictures, is being sent out by the George Kleine System, Chicago, this week. It measures 17x24 inches, is in two colors and gives Perfection Pictures exhibitors complete details of the national advertising campaign launched to help them.

A number of unique advertising helps have also been compiled for exhibitors, such as five and six-color posters for lobby display, press sheets, cuts, slides, etc. These can be obtained at the Kleine System exchanges, which are listed in the Filmlines also.

One new Perfection picture is to be issued every week, presenting such well-known stars as Taylor Holmes, Shirley Mason, Mary McAlister, Jack Gardner, Bryant Washburn and Virginia Valli, in stories by some of America's foremost writers, produced by the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company, Thomas A. Edison, Inc., and George Kleine—pioneers in the industry.

Scenes for "The Planter" Film
Made in Mexican Tropical Lands

"The Planter," the seven-reel film spectacle adapted from the novel by Herman Whitaker with Tyrone Power in the leading role, scheduled for publication by Mutual on November 12, was actually taken in the country in which the scenes of Whitaker's book are laid.

Mr. Whitaker himself went with the producing company into Mexico and lived in that tropical region with the whole company of actors, directors, cameramen and their aids during the months which it took to film the tropical scenes.

The result is some of the best scenic effects that the motion picture camera has ever caught. There are wonderful glimpses of mountains, gorgeous sunsets and most effective scenes through the jungle country.

In addition to the realism and accuracy of the settings, the story has been told with an accuracy that has seldom if ever been reached in pictures.
The THE PERISCOPE

By Fuller Pep

Patriotism means standing in front of a motion picture theatre and deploring the high cost of amusements. Go inside and help win the war by dropping your pennies into the war tax box.

Pennsylvania censors have decided to let the film "A Sleeping Memory" sleep. They have refused to grant it a license until certain scenes are deleted.

Pop's Gone to the Movies

"Gail Kane, she of the maple syrup voice and gazelle eyes, called upon friends at Balboa studio, Long Beach, the other day."—From Balboa graphs.

We hasten to announce that Mildred Mildew is the latest film star to organize her own company. Miss Mildew in her first production will essay four roles, that of a maid, an ingenue, a dowager and a blushing bride, thus keeping down expenses to a minimum. When asked if she liked camera work she coyly replied: "Oh, yes, I used to play in stock and I'm used to small audiences."

Gail Kane in "A Game of Wits"

Tops Mutual Feature Program
For Week of November 5

Gail Kane heads Mutual's list for the week of November 5 in "A Game of Wits," a five-reel comedy drama produced by the American Film Company, Inc., under the direction of Henry King. The schedule carries two comedies, a topical and a two-reel serial.

"A Game of Wits" is a clever story, well told and shows Miss Kane to advantage. It is said to be even better than "Souls in Pawn," Miss Kane's latest screen success.

Aitken to Support Miss Kane

Supporting Miss Kane in the picture are Spottiswoode Aitken, George Periolat and Louis J. Cody.

The story is built around the successful effort of a pretty, girl, who frustrates the efforts of an aged and rich admirer to marry her, and saves at the same time the family fortune which he has threatened to destroy unless she becomes his bride. Before he gets through the veteran lover is quite sure of his bargain.

The comedies for the week of November 5 are "Mary Merry Mixup," a one-reel Strand and "Jerry and the Vampire," a one-reel Cub. Billie Rhodes is cast as a flitting bride in "Mary Merry Mixup." Jay Belasco is the suitor, banned by Mary's pa, who sneaks into her house as a butler and is exposed in the arms of a maid by his own wife.

Date of Week Changed

Mutual Weekly hereafter goes to the screen on Monday instead of Thursday.

"The Mountain King" is the title of Chapter 8 of "The Lost Express," the fifteen-chapter Mutual-Signum serial. It introduces another mystery into the photoplay, the Thurston gold mine known as "The Mountain King." The conspirators begin a struggle to prevent the Thurston estate from working, the property and falling in that, attempt to steal the gold which has already been smelted.

Fox to Publish "Babes in the Woods" and Mme. Markova's First Film in No

The Fox Film Corporation announces for November 1, a spectacular film, "The Babes in the Woods," the Sunshine brand of William Fox-Henry Lehrman comedies, and Mme. Sonia Markova, William Fox's new Russian star, whose engagement in films was chronically last week.

Besides Mme. Markova's initial production, there will be published by Fox three other feature pictures. Markov photoplays will be placed among the one-a-week, 52-yy films. The titles and dates of the new special features are: November 4, June Caprice in "Miss U. S. A."; November 5, Sonia Harkova in "The Painted Madonna"; November 11, Virginia Pearson in "All for a Husband"; November 25, Glad Brockwell in "A Brand Soul".

"Miss U. S. A." June Caprice's new vehicle, is described as a "red, white and blue story, infused with patriotic th". It is said to be the most dramatic subject which Miss Cap has made to date. In the supporting company appear Will Courtleigh, Jr., Frank Evans, Tom Burrough and Al H. Harry Millarde is the director and Randolph Lewis the aut of the scenario.

Sonia Markova makes her debut on the screen on November 11 in a photoplay called "The Painted Madonna," directed by O. A. C. Lund, the newest member of the William J. directorial staff in the eastern studios. "The Painted Madonna" is a drama of pathos and power.

Virginia Pearson's forthcoming film, "All for a F band," which Carl Harbaugh has in work, will be a dirt novelty among the films of the year.

Benjamin Bracken is progressing rapidly on "A Brain is a Snake," an unusual photodrama from a story by E. L. Sheldon. The members of Miss Brockwell's company are well-known photoplay artists.

"SHAME" FILM READY SOON

John W. Noble's production "Shame," with Zene Keen in the star, is announced for early presentation by Jules Burns.

THE WEEK'S BEST BET IN PICTURES

"A Game of Wits," American-Mutual production, five parts, with Gail Kane. A 60-horse power, 12-cylinder photoplay that will not miss fire. Gail's many admirers will welcome her with open arms in this nifty vehicle, and anyone who doesn't have a good laugh at "A Game of Wits" must have a deep-seated, ingrown grouch that's too festered to be operated upon. Book this pic, and grow round-shouldered, Mr. Exhibitor, carrying the receipts to the bank. It will get the coin and send 'em away with a smile.

Other Best Bets

"The Spreading Dawn," Goldwyn, five parts, with Jane Cowl.
"The Adventures of Carol," World, five parts, with little Madge Evans.
"Bab's Burglar," Paramount, five parts, with Margaret Clark.
"Cleopatra," Fox special, nine parts, with Theda Bara.

The Film Supply Company of Portland, Ore., is publishing a snappy little four-page magazine every Friday, entitled "Reel Stuff," devoted to Butterfly, Bluebird, and other Universal films. Good stuff, Editor Collins.

Improving on U. S. Films

In England it has been found necessary to change the subtitles in many American motion pictures because the idiom of Americanese has not proved understandable to the English mind. For example, the hero is not permitted to say: "Jumpin' bobcats! Drop that gat!"

Instead, the English subtitle reads:
"My word! Cease annoying the young lady."

Illinois Supreme Court judges have just decided that ticket scalpers can scalp if they wish to. The scalpers beat the judges to it by about thirty years.

Change in Fox Schedule for October

Delay in the screening of "Miss U. S. A." due to the slight accident which befell June Caprice, the star of the William Fox subject, has made necessary another change in the Fox schedule for October and November. The Scarlet Pimpernel will be issued for the week of Oct. 28, instead of "Miss U. S. A." The latter will be issued the first week in November.

Bluebird Company Goes to Cal. Mts. to Secure Scenes for Next Photoplay

Ruth Clifford, Monroe Salisbury and a large company of players with Director Rupert Julian of Bluebird Photoplays, left, for the week for the Bear Bernardino Mountains in Southern California, where he will film the exteriors of a new picture of the rugged west. The story is by Elliott J. Clawson, but its title has not yet been decided upon.

Director Julian himself will appear in this picture playing the role of a miner who has many trying experiences in his dealings with his fellowmen. Miss Clifford has a very congenial role in the forthcoming Bluebird photoplay, and Monroe Salisbury, who plays opposite the little leading lady, has been cast for a part that Director Julian says will be certain to add to his screen laurels.

Exchange Men and Managers Vie to Win Bonus for Booking "Who Leads National Army" Film

Sales of One-Reel Military Training Picture Multiplying Through Offer of M. T. C. Association; Nat Stronge's Idea

"Who leads the National Army," the one-reel military training picture being distributed by the Triangle Distributing Corporation to help the government grow certain that drafted men would be trained, is possibly the greatest example of modern marketing, and probably the most profitable undertaking ever in the history of motion pictures. The promotion plan worked out by the Triangle Distributing Corporation and Nat Stronge is carrying the project to a success story which is destined to become history.

When Mr. Stronge was drafted by the promoters of the picture to send it along to a patriotic and financial success, he immediately charged the Triangle Distributing Corporation with the task of obtaining the bonus for the manager.

Ascher Brothers Issue Handsome Booklet on Their Twelve Chicago Picture Houses

Ascher Bros., of Chicago, who control twelve motion picture theatres throughout the city, have issued a handsome booklet, announcing the opening of the fall and winter season 1917-18.

The pamphlet is printed in three colors and contains exterior and interior views of the theatre, and the location of Columbus, Lakeside and Chateau theatres, as well as photographs of many of the big stars, with short sketches on each.

The Ascher Bros., sum up their success in the following, which they term a "Romance of the Movies."

From the proverbial "shoestring" to the greatest chain of motion picture theatres in the world is the reward of Ascher Bros.’ devoted efforts to advance the greatest industry of modern times.

Opened in 1910

In September, 1910, when picture theatres were still in their infancy, Ascher Bros. opened their first theatre with a seating capacity of 300. One year later the President Theatre was acquired and heralded as the finest exclusive motion picture theatre in Chicago. It was at this theatre that Ascher Bros. began their rapid strides towards establishing their high standard in picture presentation. Three theatres were added to their small chain on the South Side within the following year.

The public clamor for better environments was heeded soon after and the North Side witnessed an imposing scene when, on September 4, 1913, the beautiful Lakeside Theatre on Sheridan road was opened to the public.

In rapid succession during the same year Chicago saw the opening of the Columbus, Theatre at Fifty-third street and Ashland avenue, the Frolic Theatre at Fifty-fifth street and Ellis avenue, the Calo Theatre at Clark street and Bal-

Ralph Ince Completes "The Battle Cry" Film for Jewel Distribution

Ralph W. Ince, producer of some of the most successful films that have been made, returned to New York this week from Andersonville, N. C., Blue Gap Mountain, where the final scenes of "The Battle-Cry" have been completed.

He will soon start work on "Step by Step," which star Lucille Lee Stewart. This multiple reel film has been adapted from the stage play of the same name and it is said to be one of the most dramatic features yet to reach the screen.

The Jewel feature, "The Co-Respondent," which has just closed its engagement at the Broadway Theater, New York, with Elaine Hammerstein in the title role, was completed in just three weeks. "The Argyle Case" and "Today," former Ince successes, occupied four and five weeks each, in production.

Most of the scenes of "The Co-Respondent" were made in New York City, and all of the newsreel scenes were made in the editorial and composing rooms of the New York Times. The rural scenes were made near Bangor, Me., and a stretch of clear weather resulted in the very fewest retakes that Mr. Ince has so far encountered.

Technical and Detail Perfection Promised

In First Petrova Film for National Circuit

The first Petrova picture, which is to be issued the latter part of this month through the First National Exhbitors' Circuit, is the only film in the annals of American Cinematography, it is said, that a motion picture production is being put upon the screen with all the technical and requisite atmosphere worked out with the consummate skill of a connoisseur. The story, dealing as it does with court life, calls for several foreign settings of beauty.

In these scenes, the "business" transacted is absolutely true to locale and national custom—not guess work. There are scores of officers, diplomats, functionaries, and dignitaries of all kinds and all of them are correctly dressed and correctly mannered—not just a foolishly festooned mob trying to look "swell." The hussars is hussar all through, not infantry as to trouser legs and naval as to tunic. Baron Devitz, the regisseur, and Director George Irving, have taken infinite pains to comply with Mme. Petrova's desire to have all the detail correct. The diplomat is all diplomat and 70 percent nondescript. The Crow Prince is a tall, lean, a nonpolice regal automaton, and being a captain in the Royal Navy he is dressed strict accordance with his rank, with his aide-de-camp is two stripes lower — a sub-lieutenant. Moreover, the Crow Prince is not suffered to prance in his dress uniform all the time, a common trick of the average director. He wears gala when the occasion requires. Otherwise he is arrayed in smart, fatigues, uniform or multi, as the occasion may require. Each suit follows suit, of course. Even the royal orders and decorative worn by the Crow Prince are chang according to the uniform he wears. The are a few official details of this calib throughout this unusual production which is full of the rarest of all scientist attributes— atmosphere.
GENERAL

"The Fable of the Back-Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks"—November 10 (two-reel Essanay—Ade table with Russell McDermott).—When Sylvester begins reciting pieces at school his folks believe he is meant to be a statesman. One summer she decides to surmise the truth. A neighboring dislocated store is very much of a surprise to herself. She cleans out everything and starts over. Her wares are so attractive that business becomes good. The millionaire Gardiners buy up all the mountain regions and plan to make a hunting lodge of it. The people are angered at being put off the forest grounds and threaten to burn out Gardiner. Peggy's money. The situation is desperate and the Gardiners are nearly flooded out. The morning after the storm there are the servants and no meals. Gardiner decides that the situation is desperate. Where there is Lego, happy after a warm breakfast, clerking. Peggy changes an exorbitant note to the food. He gives it back, but no one can cook it and the guests depart in anger. Gardiner goes back to the store, where Peggy prepares her brother, but Jack does not know that this decides that Peggy is just the girl for Clyde.

"The Mountain King"—November 5 (Episode 2, "The Lost Express," Signal serial with Helen Holmes).—Helen and Murphy, the detectives, who think the lost express train is skillfully hidden by means of camouflage. General Thurston urges that they look carefully under the snow, which(this) decides to accompany the railroad detective Young Bonner, is something of a handicap to Helen because he follows her, but Jack does not know that this decides to accompany the railroad detective Young Bonner, is something of a handicap to Helen because he follows her, but Helen snubs Bonner, which sends him on his way, but then Helen regrets her action and Bonner is restored to good favor.

"Mary's Merry Mix-up"—November 6 (one-reel street comedy with Billie Rhodes and Jay Belasco).—Jay and Billie are married in spite of father's objections. Jay sees Billie kiss a man, who is followed by her husband and he decides to disguise himself and become a butter in the household that he might watch his wife. The maid falls in love with him and he finds himself in many tight situations, but when he learns that Ernie is Billie's brother, explanations follow and there is a happy ending.

"Jerry and the Vampire"—November 7 (one-reel Cub comedy with Billie Rhodes and Jay Belasco).—Jerry, a fellow asleep in the sand, is a vampire that dreams of finding a magic ring. He slips it on, wishes for money and immediately his hands become full of it. He goes to a cafe where he becomes a favorite with the ladies. A great motion picture vampire comes in with a villain and they decide to get Jerry's money. The vampire hires Jerry to her apartments, where the villain enters, posing as the injured husband and demands Jerry's money. The villain then knocks him down and the vampire pulls his ear. He awakens to find himself bitten in the ear by a lobster.

GOLDWYN

"The Auction Block"—(Goldwyn drama with Ruby De Remer).—Lorelie Knight, a widow, holds a dud auction at which she is outbid by a millionaire. Her domestic life is an unhappy one. Her husband is disinherited.
by his parents and is forced to go to work. His success is handicapped by his craving for liquor. Lorelie, unable to stand it longer, leaves. This brings her husband to a full awakening and he strives to earn Lorelie's love. Lorelie returns to him and the advent of a baby reconciles the young husband with his parents.

TRIANGLE

"Fighting Back"—November 4 (five-reel Triangle drama with William Desmond).—While searching for a stray cattle some cowpunchers come upon an exhausted man, who gives his name as John Smith, and because he could ride he is given a position on the C-O ranch. He accepts the rebukes and abuses of the cowpunchers without challenge and is known as the strange weakness. One night he meets a little dancer known as the Fury and urges on by her, he turns upon the boys whenever they make fun of him. He beats the owner of the dance hall, who is jealous of his attentions to the Fury, and then he and the Fury go back into Mexico. Here he tells the Fury of how he had been accused of the theft of some valuable papers and had his commission taken away from him. As he finishes his story, some cowboys approach him and tell him that his name has been cleared and that he will be restored to his post. And a new life opens for the strange weakness and the Fury.

"Up or Down"—November 4 (five-reel Triangle drama with George Hernandez).—Mike, released from prison, meets Allen Corey, a novelist who cannot make good. They go west and neither having funds, Mike goes to work that Allen might finish his story. He cannot find the right sort of ending, and Mike perpetrates a number of bold robberies, which gives Allen the necessary atmosphere and his story is a success. Allen wins the love of Esther Holister, a pretty western girl, and Mike, clearing his hands of crimes, returns all the valuables stolen and starts out anew, his secret safe.

VITAGRAPH

"The Love Doctor"—October 8 (five-reel Vitagraph drama with Erle Williams).—Dr. Brandt loves Rose Deming, who does not respond to his affections. Blanche Hildreth is infatuated with the doctor and does everything in her power to win him. Rose is injured and only an operation on her brain and the substitution of new brain cells will help. The doctor believes by putting some of Blanche's cells into Rose's brains Rose will respond to his love. The operation goes beyond bounds. Rose responds and the operation is performed and they become engaged. Then Rose elopes with another lover and some time later they take her from the slums. Another operation is performed by putting some of her brain and all the weaknesses are removed and she goes to a convent where she spends happy, useful years and the doctor becomes the contented husband of Blanche.

THE INDEPENDENT PRODUCER

Edwin Milton Royle

Let me say I am only an observer on the side lines, and I do not pretend to speak with authority as to the great motion picture business, which is both an art and an industry. Its evolution is so constant and so swift I doubt if anybody can catch any very definite idea and pin it securely to the wall for observation. However, here are some of the things that are passing or are past.

Old things are past or are passing. All or most of the tricks have been played. All the situations have been used. The public can no longer be astonished. Production is no longer an object, but an accessory. The trade mark of the big producers no longer means very much, for they produce pictures that are good, bad and indifferent, and only the good count.

Picture Going Through Evolution

The moment for the public is the seduction by the hero, or her reputation and personality. Even that is passing or will pass. The very success of Apollo Jones in one picture makes it increasingly difficult for Apollo to repeat in the next. The picture is going through the same evolution already accomplished by the spoken drama. Once they went to see John Drew. Now they ask what he is playing.

Hitherto the author has been conspicuous by his insignificance. The manager paid the acting celebrity a salary equivalent to a important slice of the British national debt and gave the author a meal ticket—perhaps neither was worth the price. The business methods are changing, and must change. Undoubtedly some second string men have jimmied their way into the motion picture industry, but in the long run such men cannot compete with legitimate business men.

There have been and will be changes, but the one essential thing that has not and will not change is the demand for—a good story well told, and so the authors will eventually come into their own. From the author's standpoint the one encouraging feature of the present situation is the independent producer.

The big firms with large staffs, huge plants and enormous output no longer beckon to the author. In the first place they treat him with curious want of consideration. We will admit that there is "nothing new under the sun." The only thing that is new is the individual's point of view.

Calls Rewriter a Story Spoiler

There are lots of men who know as much and many who know a great deal more about the American industry than I do. The only thing that could make "The Squaw Man" of value was my point of view, but the average manager, having bought the author's point of view wavers the author aside and employs a rewriter to deliberately change that point of view. The author's work is thus made the work different and unique consequently disappears. I do not wish to give the impression that this happened to "The Squaw Man," but I have had the unpleasant experience of seeing what I thought was a big story absolutely disappear in the hands of the rewriter.

The big firms having bought the author's ideas apparently do not want the author co-operation or the further exploitation of those ideas. The big firms, making good, bad and indifferent pictures can by and through the good, force the bad and indifferent on the market, but that does not compensate the author who has a book or a play kicked into the bad and indifferent clutches to the detriment of his reputation and the further sale of his product.

Independent Producer Only Hope

The independent producer is the author's present hope for the independent producer must make good. His only chance is to make a picture that everybody wants, and he gives it a personal care, a personal touch, that is of great value if he is a man with an instinct for beauty and for drama.

I have been having an agreeable and a hopeful experience with one of our most important independents—Mr. Harry Rapf. Mr. Rapf exhibited great courage and initiative in even thinking of doing my play, "The Struggle Everlasting," which will star Florence Reed. It is a modern morality play and if he succeeds in translating its symbolism into pictures he will have done something new and original and perhaps important.

Again I have had the unusual experience of having my advice and co-operation invited by Mr. Rapf and his very able director, Mr. James Kirkwood, in the working out of this difficult subject.
They tell us the Chicago Arena presented quite a delightful bevy of feminine pulchritude the morning of October 26, enhancing the attractive Charlotettes in the midst of the scenes of the initial film feature for the Commonwealth Pictures Corp., in which she is starred. By the way, H. A. Spanuth, president of the Corporation, informed us he couldn’t find his skates. Pretty tame alibi, we’ll say.

Frank Zambreno, president of the Unity Photoplays Co., put quite a “scoop” over on the local field, in the acquisition of the official films of Camp Logan, Houston, Texas. This should give the mid-West exhibitors an excellent opportunity of handling a very effective greeting to their many patrons from the boys overseas. This is being composed exclusively of the various military units from Chicago and environs.

Arthur S. Doud, manager of sales for the Universal Big “3” Current Events, Screen Magazine and Animated Weekly, pulled into the city week of October 31, for an indefinite stay, on a boosting campaign which will cover the country.

Eugene “Billy” Hamburg, lobby display expert, left Chicago with info to the effect his firm is to shortly engage in the creation of toys for the kiddies, such as pianos, doll houses, etc. They have arranged to occupy the 4th floor at 102 N. Fifth Ave. This will give this live-wire enterprise a considerable bulge on floor space, as their display and chassis business will continue as heretofore.

Apropos as regards Pat H. J. Bayley’s sentiments, The Select’s Lobby Losers. Them’s ours too, old top, with the addition of “Come across or Go across,” this nation should have no “Betweeners.”

Richard R. Nehls, manager of the American Film Co., will be the guest of Mrs. Mary Fisher, president of the Illinois Woman’s Press Association, Nov. 1. He will render an address on the “Psychology of the Motion Picture.”

We note that Alfred Hamburger, deputy-general Continental Theatres Corp., will for the future operate the President Theatre, 50th St., between Calumet and South Park Aves., formerly operated by the Ascher Bros. circuit. The house will be entirely overhauled and redecorated to comply with the artistic ideas of the new management.

Harry Berg, of the Overland Film Co., swung into Chicago Oct. 26 on his whirlwind trip through the western territory, leaving for Kansas City.

W. R. Rothacker, after much strenuous steppin’ between Washington, New York City and home, is slippin’ himself into the office of West at Ecton- sior Springs. You know, a little golf, horse-back and an occasional fling at bridge-whist can work wonders with the most tired of us earthly mortals.

M. M. Wolf, formerly of the Milwaukee Universal office, has been transferred to the Chicago branch in charge of the supply department.

Bennie Beadell, one of Chi’s old-timers, is now affiliated with the Select Pictures and has been a very busy chap glad handing his numerous exhibit friends in his new cozy corner, Consumers Bldg.

Lester Cuneo, native son and well known Metro player, has been doing the local film palaces, giving the fans a chance to O. O. his interesting self. Splendid chap, too.

Oh boy! Did you all lamp that color riot Cresson Smith, Metro’s manager was sportin’ ALL DAY, Oct. 19? ‘Twas marvelously and supremely electrified. With a nifty green sartorial outburst, a raw-throated blaze of yaller silk was gathered about his E. & W. & for one buck. Some blend, we’ll shout.

In building his new business block at 200-18 West Madison street, Theodore F. Brett has planned to include a theatre which will seat 1,250 persons. Other theatres now in the course of construction and which will open soon are Schaefers’ Brothers’ Crystal Theatre, 751 West North avenue; the Woodlawn Theatre, 651 West Fourth Street, to cost $250,000, and the Broadway-Strand in Marshall Square, owned by Marx, Goodman & Marx.

Fred C. Aiken, Select’s Chicago Manager, Former General Executive, in New Post Began Career in Motion Picture Field Ten Years Ago. Familiarity With Conditions in Chicago Makes Him Valuable Official for Select

Fred C. Aiken has been appointed branch manager for Chicago of the Select Pictures Corporation by Arthur S. Kane, general manager of the corporation. Mr. Aiken was installed in his new position last week by Sydney E. Abel, executive office representative of Select. Mr. Aiken is one of the most popular exchange executives in the Chicago territory and is also considered one of the most efficient. He has been prominently identified with the activities in the West for nearly a decade.

Ten years ago he made a beginning in the field as a partner of Samuel S. Hutchinson, present head of the American Film Company. Hutchinson and Aiken were associated in the Theatre Film Service, and when that concern was absorbed by the General Film Company in 1910 Aiken became branch manager for the General. On leaving the General Film Company he entered the states rights pictures field, in the interest of Colonel William M. Selig of Selig Polyscope Company, and has been very successful. "The Garden of Allah," the big Selig spectacle, was one of the latest productions which Mr. Aiken handled in the central west territory as a state rights proposi-

Clue to Missing Train Disclosed in Chapter 8 of "The Lost Express"

The first indication of what happened to the missing passenger train in "The Lost Express," Mutual’s fifteen chapter photoviel starring Helen Holmes, comes in Chapter 8, of the serial, published by Mutual November 8 under the title "The Mountain King." Helen Thurston, Miss Holmes, and Murphy the railroad detective follow the crooked secretary, Pits, into the mountain and from the people of the hill country get the first clues to the whereabouts of the train which mysteriously and completely disappeared in the first episode of the thrilling serial.

Murphy has been commissioned by Helen’s father, General Thurston, to find the lost train at any expense and Helen determines to join him in the search.

"For Freedom of World" Being Rapidly Booked Through Goldwyn Corp.

Goldwyn offices throughout North America are reporting heavy bookings and sending in contracts for the war photodrama, "For the Freedom of the World," made by Ira M. Lowry and associates.

Every phase of the nation’s activity, all of the preliminary stages of preparation and the war in all its actuality, are depicted as a part of the drama which forms the story of "For Freedom of the World." Great enthusiasm has been aroused by trade showings of this picture held in the Goldwyn offices. The accessories and lithographs prepared for the production are commented upon also as being ideally chosen for the promotion of the picture.

The film exchanges of Ontario, as well as the rest of Canada, and also the exhibitors in various Canadian houses, are face to face with a very serious problem owing to the conscription law in the Dominion. Other provinces have been affected by the conscription proclamation which was issued a few days ago by the National government in which all men between the ages of 20 and 34 are now considered as soldiers on leave. This class is known as A Class and comprises bachelors and widowers without children and those not married before July 6, 1917.

Conscription is going to be strictly enforced in Canada and already the exhibitors are feeling the pinch as a large number of operators come under the A. 1. class. There will be a serious lack of returns until the war is won and take some valuable employees. It is altogether probable that women will have to be used to fill many of the positions now occupied by men.

The Grand Opera House, Toronto, opened recently under the management of Herbert Brenson's big production, revealing the intrigue of the Russian court. A special orchestra supplied music for the pictures. Prices for the feature ranged from 25 cents to $1.00.

According to General Sales Manager Soskin of the Monarch Film Company, their two productions, "The Public Be Damned" and "Beware of Strangers" are in big demand. "The Public Be Damned" is an especially timely feature, as the government is advertising strongly the food conservation campaign and this subject is on the same theme.

It is announced that Aubrey M. Kennedy, a prominent film man of Winnipeg, Man., has been appointed manager of production with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, New York City.

Barney Jacobs, recently appointed manager of the Connaught Theatre, Montreal, Que., is expected back on the track of the world feature, "A Self-Made Widow," featuring Alice Brady.

Although the Provincial Board of Moving Picture Censors for British Columbia had approved "Damaged Goods," the city of Vancouver has made a request that the picture be not shown in any theater of that city.

It is announced by the Fox Film Company, Toronto, that the first run of "Jack and the Bean stalk" in Canada will be at the Grand Opera House, the third week in December. This feature will be put as a road show throughout Ontario.

Manager Minnienick of the Grand Theater, London, Ont., has announced that the future policy of this theater will be to book nothing but multiple-reel subjects, particularly state right features. He will present some of these with each feature to fill out the programs. Among features he has already booked are "West of the Rockies," "The Redemption," "The Public Be Damned," "Jack and the Bean stalk," "The Honor System," and "The Conqueror."

The Patricia Theatre, London, Ont., is giving double feature matinees. Two features are being presented every afternoon while the regular feature attraction only is shown at night. For some time the Majestic Theater, London, has been showing five reel-features each matinee, changing them three times each week.

Raymond S. Peck, editor of the Motion Picture Bulletin in Canada, has received the following message from the Hon. W. J. Hanna, food controller for Canada:

"Realizing the possibilities of the motion picture theatre as an influence in almost every Canadian community, I have authorized the formation of a motion picture committee to organize the educational work of the food controller's office for the requirements of the situation."

"This committee consists of one representative from my office and leading representatives of the motion picture industry in Canada—Messrs. Jule and Clair Hague, who have patriotically volunteered their services."

"I count on the patriotic spirit of Canadian producers in Canada and in co-operating with these gentlemen towards giving the greatest possible publicity to the special films and slide produced for the information of the public on the important war measure of food control."

T. O. Byerle, manager of Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., Montreal, was in Toronto this week, calling on the importer, with Clair Hague of the Canadian Universal Film Co. Ltd. Mr. Byerle states that conditions in Montreal at the present time are very encouraging.

G. A. Margetts, manager of the Canadian Universal Film Co., Limited, of St. John, N. B., has been laid up with a siege of sickness for the past few weeks. Latest reports state that Mr. Margetts will be out and around in a few days.

It is announced that Charles A. Garner has been appointed as Canadian general manager of the K. E. S. E. Mr. Garner was formerly Toronto branch manager of the Mutual. The new general manager states that before February next he will have six branches of the K. E. S. E. in operation in Canada. This will likely include offices in St. John, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver.

James Travis, formerly Pathe manager in Toronto, has become the manager of the Mutual Exchange, succeeding C. A. Garner.

A few nights ago Roland Bottomley, male star in the Pathe serial, "The Neglected Wife," made a personal appearance at two of Toronto's theatres. Bottomley is now a recruit in the army and received an ovation. He appeared at the Imperial theatre, Queen street, east, and also at the Playtoom, Danforth avenue.

That the government realizes the importance of moving pictures for delving strong messages to the general public is witnessed by the fact that a 700-foot trailer, to boost Canada's latest war loan, called "The Victory Loan," pictures pictures incident, was made under the direction of A. S. Arason of the Regal Films. Regal Film Limited, are prepared to supply a print of this trailer at any exhibitor requesting it and free of charge.

Otto Elliott, chief moving picture inspector for Ontario, is looking for films being shown which have not been censored by the Ontario censor board. On account of the close proximity of Ottawa to Montreal, many Montreal exchanges have been sending in films that have not been censored in Ontario. A similar print had been censored and the exchanges evidently thought enough of it. However, several current films have been seized in Ottawa because there was no censors' approval tag in the reel boxes. It has been suggested that when pictures are examined and approved by the Ontario censors that duplicate tags be made out for the Montreal prints of the same reel. During the past week thirty-two uncensored reels have also been seized in Montreal. The provisional treasurer will fine the companies $25 for sending out uncensored films.

Notices were sent out to all Ontario exhibitors to display the official notice cards, which were distributed by Chairman C. E. Armstrong of the Ontario board of censors in a prominent place in their lobbies to inform the public that all pictures shown in their theatre had been censored and that the certificate of censor tag would be shown to any patron on request.

"Public Notice—The Ontario Board of Censors' certificate of approval of films is available for the purpose of identification of films being shown in Ontario theatres. Failure on the part of the management to display the certificate of approval on the screens constitutes an offense under the theatres and Cinematograph Act.—The Ontario Board of Censors."

Knickerbocker House at Capital Opens With Distinguished Crowd

“Betsy Ross” World Feature Starring Alice Brady Is Initial Offering in Elaborate Theatre; U. S. Officials, Diplomats and Stars Attend

Washington, D. C.—(Special to “Exhibitors Herald”—The new Knickerbocker Theatre, said to be the most modern in playhouse construction, was opened here recently with a most distinguished audience, including Government officials, army and navy officers, diplomats and men prominent in business life. The opening was in the nature of a social event long to be remembered.

Guests representing many of the motion picture companies and well-known film stars were also present through Col. Barry Bulkeley’s invitation. Among the guests were Rose Tapley, Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne, Alice Brady, Carlyle Blackwell, Kitty Gordon, June Elvidge and Wm. A. Brady, director-general of World. The initial film offering was “Betsy Ross,” in which Alice Brady played the title role.

A dinner was tendered the guests of the evening by the board of directors of the Knickerbocker Theatre Company, immediately after the performance, on the roof of the theatre, at which Col. Bulkeley presided.

The Knickerbocker is believed to be one of the most artistic and elegant theatre structures in the capital, and is described as America’s most exclusive photoplay theatre. It reflects refinement and taste in its superb construction and appointments, far in advance of the present era of innovations in photoplay theatre construction.

Honolulu Soon to Attract Producers, Says Van Loan, There Filming Peter Pan Play

Calls Island Ideal Spot for Picture Making and Predicts Construction of Studios. Company Taking Scenes for “The Honeymooners” Serial

That Honolulu soon will attract motion picture producers and result in the construction of studios is the opinion of H. V. Van Loan, who is in charge of an expedition sent to Hawaii by the Peter Pan Film Corporation, of New York, to make a scenario serial, which will necessitate a trip around the world, which will require two years. The film will be published under the title of “The Honeymooners.”

“I believe that Honolulu is an ideal spot for the motion picture producer,” Mr. Van Loan declares in an interview in the Honolulu Advertiser. “It cannot be surpassed for natural beauty, which is a very important part of picture making, especially where most of the action calls for outdoor experiences. You hop on this island all that is needed to make a picture beautiful, and I do not think that the stories of Southern California can be compared with what nature has to offer us here.

“When I think of the idea I feel that when I say that the Peter Pan Film Corporation is the first company to send a party here for a prolonged stay, having as its object a complete set of pictures of the habits, customs, sports, industries and beautiful places of the Hawaiian Islands, Mr. William Aldrich, who is the director, and in charge of the production end of the work, has succeeded in obtaining what is due to the island here. He is grateful for the many courtesies which have been shown him by the various city departments and the public in general.

Interesting Features Filmed

“Honeymooners”

“Honeymooners”

He has taken pictures of the Polo Team, the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, the Waikiki Beach, the Pearl Harbor, the pineapple plantations, the Pali, the Punch Bowl and numerous other places of interest in and about the city and island. In addition to these, he has an excellent and spirited scene of the surf riders, who were recently caught on fifteen miles off Honolulu, and which I think will prove one of the best, if not the most interesting fight scenes with which we have ever been shown on the screen. The shark fought for nearly an hour, right before the lens of the camera, and though he was captured at the very last, he remained with him for five hours later when they towed him into Young’s Wharf. He measured eighteen feet, and weighed about eight hundred pounds.

“The Hawaiian wind and surf that the surf riders are absolutely the best ever photographed by a motion picture camera. The average cameraman is not daring enough to stick his head out in an out-rigger and face the big seas as they break over the beach, and the result is that other cameramen have been satisfied to photograph what they could within a safe distance of the shore. But Mr. Aldrich went out and caught the riders as they were coming in, and those who have seen the pictures of the Honolulu wind and wave that they are the best ever taken at Waikiki.

Gertrude Cameron Stars

“In our party is Gertrude Cameron, who appeared with Crane Wilbur as his leading lady during the time he was with Pathé Frères, and was later starred with the Universal company. She plays the lead in the series, which will start here, and be published under the title of “The Honeymooners.” Mr. Aldrich, who is also well known as a film actress, and has appeared in many big productions, is also a member of the company.

“We expect to be here about four weeks more, and during that time will take pictures of the volcano and other interesting scenes. Mr. Aldrich intends to make a double exposure of the volcano, something which has never been done before by a cameraman. And those who happen to visit the Strand Theatre in New York at some future date, will see this wonderful picture of this great crater, with double exposure and all its natural tints.

“From here we are going to the Far East, our first stop being Yokohama where we will spend some time reproducing the beauties of Japan, which are forever interesting and entertaining to Americans.”

RELIEF FOR EXHIBITOR SEEN IN A. E. A. MEETS WITH MUSIC PUBLISHER

Representatives of the American Ex hibitors’, Distributors’, Exhibitors’, Exporters, and Publishers’ Association have had several important meetings recently relative to the music tax, as applied to motion pictures. The outlook for the exhibitors is very satisfactory and it looks as if the publishers will concede certain points.

E. C. Bulkley, general manager of the American Exhibitors’ Association, in discussing this problem said:

“The result of our conferences will be published soon, and we will have bear fruit. They are ready to make some concessions, but we are endeavoring to protect the small exhibitors whose activities are dwarfed by the troubles that the load he is carrying has reached the breaking point. When this question is finally settled a new era of amity will be made from the faces of the A. E. A.”
Determined that the motion picture industry shall contribute to the promotion of the second great Liberty Loan, the committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, which has been appointed to co-operate with the Secretary of Treasury in the promulgation of the loan, has already completed its plans for the distribution and exhibition of the remarkable Liberty Loan film in which forty of the most celebrated stars of the stage and screen appear, together with numerous prominent public characters.

The second Liberty Loan picture comprises five distinct subjects, each about five hundred feet in length, any one of which is a complete episode in itself. It is explained by the committee that any one of the five episodes can be shown by exhibitors in any sequence, as there is no reason to believe that any one film follows another. The subject of the films are all of a distinctly patriotic and historical nature, presenting upon the screen in the persons of the most distinguished stars the greatest characters in the history of the country—the signing of the Declaration of Independence and twenty or more other memorable events in the history of our country are thus enacted upon the screens by these great stars, always with a view to kindling a great patriotic spirit.

Wilson in Production

The picture was conceived and assembled by Herbert Lytton, with the cooperation of the committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, of which Adolph Zukor is chairman. Other members of the committee are Marcus Loew, J. E. Brulaur, W. W. Irwin and George K. Spoor.

Distribution Fixed

Chairman Zukor appointed A. L. Lichman, sales manager of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, as a committee of one to supervise the distribution of the production, of which there will be five hundred prints in all. It is the purpose of the committee to have these five hundred prints shown in as many communities and theaters as is possible during the time that the campaign for the second Liberty Loan is in progress.

Miss Reed Wears Stunning Gowns in Rapf Production

While several of the "still" taken of Florence Reed in Harry Rapf's production of "The Struggle Everlasting" would suggest that the costumes were furnished by Thorley, the florist, it is a fact nevertheless that Miss Reed has contracted a heavy burden in the variety of costumes that are necessary to carry her through the many scenes of Edwin Milton Royle's play.

Miss Reed perhaps establishes a record for she makes more than forty changes, and the quality of her gowns is shown in the label of the celebrated Mme. France.

Miss Reed also has a modiste at the studio and the noted star is kept busy with her screen work and preparing herself for her role in the stage spectacle, "Chu Chin Chow," now playing at the Manhattan Opera House, New York City.

"Building Wooden Fleet" to Affect U-Boat Losses Shown in Gaumont Oct. 29 Reels

Screen Subject Will Go Far in Assuring Public Transportation Problem Is Solved: "Important Industries of Argentina" Are Shown

The first single-reel produced by the Gaumont Company for the Mutual Program for the week of October 29 is No. 148 of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly, which will be published on Wednesday, October 31. Like its predecessors, this issue of the Weekly will contain only the latest happenings of interest to the entire country. It will have a section devoted to pictures taken by staff photographers of our soldiers here and abroad.

The other reel will be the Mutual film magazine, "Reel Life," No. 19, which will be issued Thursday, November 1. In this issue are two subjects of more than usual importance. "Building Our Wooden Fleet," which was taken in co-operation with the Southern Pine Association, will go far toward assuring the public that our transportation problem is solved. Southern sawmillers paid little attention to the controversy as to whether we should build steel or wooden ships, but ran night and day, and the result is that they are far in advance of the rate promised, and now are ready to complete one wooden ship every working day. As Germany is now sinking only one ship every second or third day, it will readily be seen that if other sections of the country are building in like proportion, the submarine menace is about ended.

The other subject of timely interest is "Important Industries of Argentina." This great southern republic ranks second only to the United States in its production of cattle and wheat, and it is now prepared to do its part toward supplying the nations which will soon be its allies in the war against Germany.

Shorter, but greatly entertaining subjects, describe: "A Dry Land Periscope," which will enable a boy to see any ball game, no matter how high the fence; "An Unusual Foster Mother," a cat which treats small chicks as though they were kittens; and "Had Your Mining Stock Panned Out," an animated drawing from the humorous weekly, "Life."

Funkhouser Films

Maj. Funkhouser, censor savant of the Chicago board, has become a national character in the film world through his interference with the activities of the various important film companies in their efforts to exhibit their product within the confines of the city of Chicago.

Now, the Major is not a bad sort, but he seems to be cracking under the strain of being the cinematographic conscience of a city of 3,000,000 people. In his latest bid for popular attention he charges the motion picture industry with being “money mad.” He launches the terrific indictment that the chief aim of producers in making a picture is to see how much money they can cause it to bring in through the box office window.

Haste should be made in correcting such an opinion as this and the Major should be speedily assured that producers are in the film business solely for their health’s sake and certainly are not impelled with any sordid ambition of commercial gain.

The really high spot in Funkhouserian good judgment is his assertion that “next to the cabarets the pictures are one of the greatest agencies for immorality in Chicago,” and this in face of the fact that Chicago has been squandering large sums of money in the maintenance of the Funkhouser censor board, ostensibly for the protection of the city’s morals.

In another portion of the Funkhouser address to which we allude the Major charged to the defense of his “Americanism” and urged the thought that those who have attacked him for being “pro-German” merely took this course to divert public gaze from their own sinister motives. Whether or not the attack against the Major on the grounds of pro-German leanings was utterly without foundation may be gleaned from his published reason for refusing to permit the exhibition of the Fox production, “The Spy.” The Major in that instance claimed—and previously in the case of “The Little American”—that pictures of this type would excite prejudice against the nation whose villianies were exploited, just as if anybody cared how much prejudice was excited against a nation that our own country is seeking to bring to its knees with shell and bayonet.

An indication of the Major’s intimate knowledge of the business he is censoring is evidenced in his assertion that eighty per cent of the patrons of motion picture theatres are women.

Concluding his illuminating remarks, the Major says:

“I have been called an old fogy. I grant it.”

So, we guess, that makes it unanimous.

Let the Public Pay

Exhibitors who are agreeing on any basis whatsoever to absorb the admission tax are making a grievous error. This levy was imposed by the government with the view that it was to be paid by the public. Congress has expressly declined, for very good reasons, to pass a tax of ten percent on the gross receipts of motion picture theaters.

The very good reason prompting Congress to this decision was the knowledge that the film theaters of the country could not pay such a tax and survive. In the place of such a measure the admission tax as now in force was adopted.

As the EXHIBITORS HERALD has repeatedly urged box office charges should be increased wherever such a plan is feasible, but a very bad precedent is being established by some exhibitors in absorbing the admission tax regardless of whether or not there has been an increase in the box office charge.

Our attention has been directed to the fact that in certain instances exhibitors have announced that with a fifteen, twenty or twenty-five cent admission, which is in effect on occasions when the larger feature pictures are exhibited, the theater will absorb the government tax. Obviously, this will create a good deal of confusion and in our opinion cannot help but eventually work to the detriment of exhibitors.

The admission tax is a tax on the public—so let the public pay it.

FREDERICK L. COLLINS, president of the Petrova Pictures Corporation, has made a wise move in retaining the services of S. L. Rothapfel of the Rialto Theater, New York, as "pre-production counsel."

The plan which Mr. Collins apparently is aiming to put in operation is the frequently-urged effort of censoring in the script, thereby eliminating at a single stroke the inconsistencies which ordinarily run through a picture and are only cut out after a screen test of the film.

Without question many companies are squandering vast sums of money in the production of scenes, angles of the story, etc., which, in many cases, an intelligent study of the script by some one properly qualified would render very obvious that such could not be consistently retained in the finished print.

In an alarming number of instances negative footage is consumed in making stuff that never has a chance to be shown to the public; sometimes because it transgresses accepted rules of convention and often because it is merely "footage" and rather detracts than adds to the telling of the story. It is feasible in many cases to eliminate much of this stuff in the script, thereby avoiding the wasted time and money of allowing it to run into production.

Exhibitors Struggle With War Tax Problems

Latest Advices From Department of Internal Revenue Give Clear-Cut Explanation on Application of Levy Footage Assessment Matter Still Before the Treasury Department

Clouds which settled over every phase of the motion picture industry as the result of the government's war tax are gradually being dispelled and a clearer understanding developing but surely bringing order out of the chaos which existed in the early days of uncertainty.

Latest advices from Washington are reassuring that a modification of the first interpretation of the footage tax law will be made and only a one time tax on films be imposed. This in itself removes one of the greatest causes of worry to the film industry.

Exhibitors all over the country are adjusting themselves to the collection of the one cent tax on admissions, and though the ends used in performing this new duty, indications are that confusion will be in a short time be a thing of the past.

Imposing of Tax.

The most recent opinion from the department of revenue states plainly from now on the admission tax is to be collected and what the amount will be.

Only the theatre whose maximum charge is 5 cents is exempt from the tax. Here only a part of the theatre is given or to 5-cent seats the tax must be collected on all admissions.

In some an exhibitor is running a part on week days and increases his price for Sunday performances, the tax col-

Must Clear House.

It is the custom of some theatre owners to charge admission of 3 cents for afternoon performances and then increase the price for the night show. When this is done, the exhibitor must clear his house before putting on the evening show. If he then has to pay the tax for the afternoon performance.

Children under 12 years of age pay a tax of 1 cent regardless of the price charged by the theatre—be it 10 cents or dollars.

Theatres where the maximum charge on admissions is more than 5 cents will have to pay the tax on admissions unless they are situated in an outdoor amusement park, and tax admission to which is not more than 1 cent.

Two Classes Exempt.

Only two classes are exempt from paying the one cent tax. They are members in arms and city officials who enter theatre on business.

Those entering the theatre on complimentary tickets must pay the tax in accordance with the price charged by the theatre.

The tax went into effect on November 13 and although no forms have been provided by the Department of Internal Revenue for returns from the exhibitor, he should keep a record dating from that day.

Amount of Tax.

The law provides for the collection of one cent tax for each 10 cents or a fraction thereof collected as admission.

Where a combined charge of 5 and 10 cents is made for admission, 2 cents tax must be collected on each ticket. Houses making an admission charge of 15 or 20 cents must collect a 2-cent tax on each admission and on a 5 or 10-cent admission, 3 cents.

Federal Courts to Make Decision on "Camille" Film

Fox Company Again to Take Up Fight with Funkhouser Censorship Board

The Federal courts will be again asked to act as arbiter in the fight of the Fox Film Corporation on "Czar" Film, "Chicago's one man censorship board."

This time "Camille," the Fox film for which Funkhouser has issued a "pink" permit, will be the bone of contention. According to C. W. Eckhardt, home office representative of the company, the legal battle will be begun this week.

Last August the Fox corporation, through its attorneys, appeared before Federal Judge Alschuler and obtained a temporary injunction restraining the city from interfering with performances of "The Spy." Later on the city filed a petition with Judge Carpenter, asking that the injunction be dissolved. Judge Carpenter refused to act in the matter and referred them to Judge Alschuler. The last lawyer decided to change his original decision and the injunction became, in effect, permanent. A similar injunction is sought for "Camille."

The court in granting the injunction held that the producers had lived up to the letter of the city ordinance.

"The Tiger Woman," another Fox film is still being held up by the censorship board.

Mr. Eckhardt stated that his company was unalterably opposed to the "pink" permit. He pronounced it a misnomer, pointing out that in many instances where such a permit is issued the board has already "cut" and changed the film.

Cleveland Faces Sunday Shut-Down of M. P. Theatres

Court Puts Film Shows in Class With Theatrical Attractions. One Arrest

Cleveland, 0.—(Special to Exhibitors Herald)—Possibility of the Sunday film show here passing out of existence became nearer a reality with a decision of the Appellate Court finding William Standen, a Medina county motion picture exhibitor, guilty of illegal Sunday operation.

He had been previously found guilty by the Probate Court of Medina county.

Standen based his appeal from the decision of the first court on the grounds that motion pictures are not theatrical or dramatic performances, which are prohibited by the state law. The Appellate Court declared the motion picture theatre in this class. The jurisdiction of the court includes Cleveland.
Michigan Exhibitors Refuse to Pay Tax Imposed by Mfgs.

Action Taken at Largest and Most Enthusiastic Meeting Ever Held in Wolverine State; Pettijohn Speaks

Detroit, Mich.—[Special to Exhibitors Herald.]—Michigan exhibitors will not pay the 15-cent per reel tax imposed by many of the film manufacturers. In a meeting rife with enthusiasm and exceeding any previous gathering in the way of attendance, held at the Hotel Statler here on October 25, the motion picture theatre owners refused point blank to let the manufacturers "pass the buck" to them.

More than four hundred exhibitors were present at the meeting, which was addressed by C. C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association; Ward N. Choate, chairman of the Michigan committee of four-minute men, and a representative of the internal revenue department who discussed the war tax.

Pettijohn Draws Cheers

Pent up enthusiasm of those in attendance broke out of bounds when Mr. Pettijohn, at the close of his address, made a strong plea for closer affiliation and a get-together movement by the exhibitors to fight the various evils which are constantly looming up, and also adverse legislation.

The speaker took the stand that the public should pay the war tax on admissions and added that he so construed the law.

Tax Stand Made

As to the 15-cent tax per reel to the exhibitor, he opposed it, and emphatically stated that it was a tax on the producer and distributor and should not be passed on to the theatre owner.

Mr. Choate thanked the exhibitors for their co-operation in spreading the war propaganda of the government and assured that the same assistance be given as freely in the future.

Footage Tax Absorbed on Wholesome Films

Wholesome Films Corporation will NOT charge the footage tax up to exhibitors.

This announcement came this week from M. J. Weisfeldt, general manager, who informed the EXHIBITORS' HERALD that Wholesome had rejected the plan of passing the footage tax on to exhibitors.

"The Wholesome Films Corporation," said Mr. Weisfeldt, "in the operation of its mail order plan of distribution desires to make it very plain to exhibitors that our aim is to make it as easy as possible for theatre owners to make money by using Wholesome service.

A fundamental principle of our plan is big volume and small profit. We certainly are not seeking to "hold up" the exhibitors and for that reason we will not pass the footage tax on to exhibitors."

"Dupers" Indicted for Stealing Film "Joan the Woman"

Three Men Charged by Federal Grand Jury With Theft of Cardinal Co's. Spectacle

Fred Beck, Lewis Weiss and Leo Singer were indicted by the federal grand jury of New York, October 27, on charges of conspiracy to infringe upon a copyright of the film "Joan the Woman."

The production is the property of the Cardinal Film Company. Representatives of the film company charged that the indicted men stole a positive and took it to New Jersey, where a negative was made. The men were recently arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock in New York and were held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,000 each.

Shamrock to Enlarge San Antonio Plant

The Shamrock Photoplay Corporation of San Antonio, Texas, is contemplating enlarging its plant. One company now is producing two reel Western films for Ultra Company of New York, and the enlargement is made necessary to take care of additional products.

The enlargement when completed will give the Shamrock Photoplay Corporation facilities to take care of any class of pictures.

U. S. Exhibitors Establish N. Y. Offices to Prepare to Launch Country-wide Drive

Special Representatives Located in Exchanges to Assist Exhibitors and Book Pictures; Foursquare System Exchanges to Be Used—"Zeppelin's Last Raid" First Film

Arrangements for the launching of a country-wide business drive in the interest of the newly organized U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation are being rushed to completion. Within another week the organization will be in full operation with executive offices in the Times Building, New York, and branches in every important city in the United States and Canada.

The New York headquarters, under the supervision of Frank Hall and William Oldknow, include the accounting, booking, publicity and advertising departments. The staff took possession on October 29 of offices comprising the entire top floor of the Times Building at Forty-second street and Broadway.

Distribution of the U. S. productions in many of the large cities of the country will be handled by the Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges. The Southern territory will be in charge of Mr. Oldknow, who operates a chain of exchanges in the principal cities south of the Mason-Dixon line, with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia.

Chain of Exchanges

The Frank Gersten exchange will handle distribution in New Jersey. The Canadian territory also will be covered by the Foursquare system, which has made a record of efficient salesmanship under the direction of M. H. Hoffman. The U. S. system will be marketed by a system of exchanges that girdle this country and Canada, numbering in the aggregate about twenty-five different branches.

A special representative of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation will be stationed in each of the aforementioned exchanges and it will be his duty to attend solely to the exploitation of the U. S. productions. He will book the pictures and assist exhibitors in the war of promotion.

Organizing Sales Force

The work of organizing the sales force in the western territory is in charge: Joseph Partridge, formerly with V. S. E. in New York and later affiliated with the Triangle Distributing Company; Mr. Partridge will place U. S. representatives in exchanges west of Philadelphia. He will visit Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Columbus and Toledo.

Mr. Partridge will arrange trade showings of "The Zeppelin's Last Raid" to Thomas H. Ince's spectacle, the first film of the new enterprise. Trade showings will take place this week in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Boston. Showings of "Those Who Follow," released by Paramount, the sequel of the U. S. pictures, will follow. A publication date for either product has been announced. The Ince spectacles are being prepared for a country-wide release, and the exhibitors will be given the option of taking the showings or not later than November 15. No bookings are being accepted in advance of the trade showings.

Exhibitors Take Up Film Tax
With Big Chicago Distributors

Theatremen Protest and Threaten Cancellations—Rembusch Flays Ochs—Frank and Beatty Take Lead in Move

Exhibitors and certain distributors of Chicago have clashed over the 15-cent per reel tax on films, and the former claim a victory in the first battle "to take the world safe for exhibitors."

In a special meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association, Chicago branch of the American Exhibitors' Association, held Tuesday, October 30, a committee was appointed and given cancellations of twenty exhibitors controlling forty-two houses, with instructions to confer with officials of the Klein System to give them the alternative of taking the war tax or accepting the cancellations.

At the meeting held Friday, November 9, the committee reported that George Keine, through Manager Jenner, agreed to collect the war tax where it was imposed, but where the books of the company showed that the business of the exhibitor was not enough to warrant the company paying the tax his contract would be cancelled upon thirty days' notice.

Patie Also Criticized

The committee was then empowered to take similar action against other companies.

A resolution was passed calling upon all the members of the association to hold at once to the offices in the Malleys and ceding cancellations of every service they handle for the use of the "war" committees.

Considerable argument was brought to bear that Patie should be the first to have the concerted actions of the exhibitors. The chief reason advanced by the opposing was that Patie had already held up films when refusal was able to pay the tax.

Beatty Aroused Members

The committee was also appointed at a special meeting of the Chicago Theatre Owners' Association for the purpose of assuring ways and means of collecting the 10 per cent war tax on admissions receipts.

Edward T. Beatty of the Linden, Harp and Beach Theatres was the moving spirit of the meeting. He was considered enthusiastic and appeals to the members of the association to show their fire spirit and backbone which finally resulted in drastic action being taken.

Frank Rembusch, national organizer of the A. E. A., explained the ticket tax, pulled the 15-cent per reel war tax to exhibitors and scathingly denounced Mr. Ochs, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, in several short speeches.

Urges No Let-up.

The determination of the association to let one film company feel the mailed fist came after a particularly strong plea by Mr. Beatty to fight the thing to a finish.

"Our president, Mr. Krung," he said, "has in his hands now the names of practically every film exchange in Chicago which have received instructions from New York not to hold up films upon the refusal of exhibitors to pay the 15-cent tax."

"What does this mean? It is simply that the New York people think that if they let the matter go along for a while that we will go to sleep as usual and when this tax gets up to a large amount you will face a lawsuit."

Rembusch Flays Ochs.

National Organizer Rembusch characterized the 10 per cent tax as a "boner" pulled by Congress. He stated that the entire action was started by the producers without consultation with the exhibitors.

"It was to be expected of the producers," he said. "They appeared before Congress and urged this 10 per cent tax on the exhibitor. They grabbed Lee Ochs and took him along with them. He appeared before Congress with them and there he betrayed the exhibitors. He even wired to exhibitors to support the measure, and many of them did so by telegrams to Congress."

Mr. Rembusch intimated his belief that by concerted action the tax might be repealed.

Five new members joined the association at the meeting.

War Tax Has No Effect on M. P. Attendance

Inquiry at several Chicago "loop" theatres and outlying houses, by a Herald representative this week, brought forth the information that so far the added admission cost, on account of the war tax, had not affected business to any appreciable extent.

Many of the downtown theatres raised prices from ten cents to fifteen cents, this to cover the war tax, and to avoid handling pennies. The scarcity of pennies entered into the decision of the managers in fixing the fifteen cent price, it is said.

Officers Chosen to Manage 1918 Film Expositions

Wm. A. Brady President of Exposition Company New York Show to Be Held in February

Organization of the Motion Picture Exposition Company which will manage two film expositions to be held next year, was completed at a meeting held in New York October 29.

William A. Brady, president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, was chosen president of the new corporation. The other officers are Lee A. Ochs, vice-president; J. H. Hallberg, vice-president; J. A. Berst, treasurer, and Louis F. Blumenthal, secretary.

Frederick H. Elliott, executive secretary of the National Association, was made general manager of the Exposition Company and will take charge of the exposition to be held in the Grand Central Palace, New York, February 2 to 10, 1918. Samuel Grant of Boston will be his assistant. Mr. Grant will have charge of the Boston exposition to be held in July and will be assisted by Mr. Elliott.

Fred H. Hartman, of Chicago, and William Hilkemeier, of New York, were appointed as assistant managers for both the New York and Boston shows.

Exhibitors' Circuit Gets "Empty Pockets", Through Deal with H. Brenon Film Corp.

Organization's Purchasing Board Unanimous in Selecting Screen Version of Hughes Novel to Be Circulated Throughout U. S. Bert Lytell in Leading Role

One of the important transactions of the week is a deal that has just been consummated between the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation and the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc., whereby the latter organization has acquired the distribution rights for Herbert Brenon's "Empty Pockets," by Rupert Hughes.

The Brenon-Exhibitors' combination came as a surprise to the industry. The officials of the Brenon Corporation consider it one of the highest compliments ever paid their producer and director, Herbert Brenon, because the transaction was entirely endorsed by the entire purchasing board of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

"I am exceedingly proud of the honor accorded our institution by the august shewmen of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit," says Mr. Brenon. "I realize that every director of that organization is a shrewd and keen exhibitor—each a representative man in his section of the country. An organization which has as its purchasing board such men as S. L. Rothafel of New York, T. L. Tally of Los Angeles, H. S. Schwalbe of Philadelphia, Fred Dahlkem of San Francisco, Aaron Jones of Chicago, Robert Lieber of Indianapolis, E. H. Hulsey of Dallas, and J. D. Williams of New York, could not be otherwise."

"Empty Pockets" was adapted for the screen by Mr. Brenon from Rupert Hughes' novel. It is a mystery story of New York life, which is said to be extremely effective on the screen.

Bert Lytell, who played the title role in "The Lone Wolf," has the principal male role in "Empty Pockets," while the cast numbers Barbara Castleton, Susan Willa, Katherine Galanta, Peggy Betts, and other well known players.

NON-TAXABLE MUSIC FOR BIG THOS. INCE "RAID" PRODUCTION

Almost as notable as the production itself, and certainly an adjunct, is the music played as an accompaniment to "The Zeppelin's Last Raid," the Thomas H. Ince feature soon to be seen as the initial release of the newly organized U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation.

Max Winkler, who has prepared scores for many important films, arranged the music for the Ince production and selected only music against which no author's tax is levied.

It is said that he so perfectly timed to the action of the play, so unobtrusive and in such fine accord with the theme the screen is unfolding before the eye that one can only regard it as an integral part of the production.

Henry Siegel Becomes Select Branch Manager

A new executive has taken charge of the New York Exchange of Select Pictures, Henry Siegel becoming branch manager. Mr. Siegel had previously been assistant manager.

Henry Siegel's rise to the executive command of the New York Exchange is the result of ability plus hustle. His first position in the motion picture industry was with the Pittsburgh exchange of the World Film Corporation, when Lewis J. Selznick was general manager. He was promoted to the New Jersey branch, later leaving that organization to handle Blue Bird's in New Jersey.

When the Selznick enterprises were organized, Siegel was one of the first to join the Selznick forces, being for a time in charge of the New Jersey exchange. Later he was brought into the central office as assistant manager of the New York Exchange.

Films Valuable Adjunct to National Army Work

The United States Government and the National Y. M. C. A., in their general program for the entertainment of the New National Army, consider motion pictures as the most important and most popular form of amusement, and considering the large number of motion picture projection machines recently installed at the various army cantonments it would appear that motion picture have become as much a part of army life as any other form of instruction given to the enlisted men.

"For Freedom of the World"—Timely Film Being Distributed by Goldwyn Exchange

"For the Freedom of the World," Ira M. Lowry's photo spectacle, which is distributed to exhibitors through Goldwyn exchanges, is declared to be one of the most timely patriotic motion pictures ever produced.

At a time when the entire group of civilized nations is engaged in making the world safe for democracy; when virtually every home everywhere is feeling the pinch of war and millions of lives are being sacrificed the appeal of this drama is universal. It is not a propaganda picture, in the ordinary sense of the word, for the story tells one of absorbing interest quite apart from any other appeal. Yet it is an educational feature of the highest order.

TWO SCENES FROM "HIS ROBE OF HONOR"

It shows the whole possible career of a young man who enlists in the service of his country, from concentration camp to front; it shows the work of the Cross nurse; the life in the trenches, other details of the war machine.

Regarded as a spectacle, it presents the screen some of the most powerful battle scenes ever recorded. The photographic work was done under the eye of men who had participated in real war, and knew how to develop realistic co-operation of the Canadian government as enlisted in the work been the officials felt that the film was authentic document designed for good of all people.
Wholesome Films Corporation's Plan
Direct-by-Mail Booking Is Successful

Company Eliminates "Red Tape" Methods and Pays Express Charges Both Ways on Films—Postage Stamp Its Salesman

Exhibitors all over the country are daily attesting the success of the mail order "fair and square" booking plan adopted by Wholesome Films Corporation of Chicago.

The plan is based upon honest intention, upon the belief that the exhibitor is honestly inclined. A two-cent stamp is the Wholesome's alesman. It will bring complete formation about the Wholesome plan and the resultant benefits to the exhibitor. The ease with which Wholesome features may be booked, the fact that Wholesome pays express both ways and the fact that Wholesome is enabled to offer features at less than feature prices has met with the approval of the exhibitors.

There is less trouble and "red tape" in the operation of the direct-by-mail booking plan than in the branch system of distribution. The plan enables exhibitors to obtain unusual features at reasonable prices.

The originally announced plan of Wholesome Films Corporation to give exhibitors feature films with thrills, love, romance and the right kind of adventure always of an entertaining and wholesome nature is being strictly adhered to.

"Within the Cup"
Story of Bohemia
Next Paralta Film

Bessie Barriscale believes that in Lottie M. Katterjohn's original story, "Within the Cup," which she is now producing at the Paralta studios in Hollywood, Cal., she will have one of the best, romatic roles she has ever played.

The story opens in Paris, where the heroine is trapped into a morganatic marriage by a German nobleman. She leaves Paris and returns to New York, where she is the Bohemia of Greenwich Village, he reigns as the most popular novelist and playwright of America.

A novel scene in "Within the Cup" will be a grotto restaurant, which will picture the unique resorts which have now become the fad of the frequenters of Greenwich Village, the home of Bohemia in New York. Miss Barriscale will be engaged on this production for several weeks. It will be her third Paralta play, allowing "Rose o' Paradise" and "Madam Who."

L-KO OFFICERS SHIFT

The Stern brothers, of L-Ko, changed places on the map last week. President Julius Stern departed from New York for the L-Ko studios at Hollywood, Calif., immediately upon the arrival of his brother, Abe Stern, treasurer of the company, from the Pacific Coast. While President Julius is in California, Treasurer Abe will remain in New York, to manage L-Ko affairs in the Mecca building.

B. Ennis in New Post; Joins McClure Staff

Bert Ennis, former publicity director for General Enterprise, Ind., and who successfully exploited "The Warrior" film, has been appointed publicity director for McClure Pictures. He is dispensing "copy" from his new office at 25 West 44th street, New York.

CHICAGO THEATER OWNERS COMMENT EXCHANGE FILMS FOR ABSORBING F.I.M. TAX

A resolution was introduced by a special committee of the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association of Chicago, at a meeting of that body last Friday, commending the Mutual Film Corporation for its stand in absorbing the tax on films. By a unanimous vote the resolution was enlarged to embody the names of other companies which had taken similar action.

THE RESOLUTION

Whereas, the motion picture distributors of the United States have, arbitrarily and unjustly, and we believe unlawfully, decreed that each reel of film shall be assessed 15 cents to cover the Federal war excise tax; and, whereas, this assessment, now in force, works an undue hardship upon the exhibitors of motion pictures and jeopardizes his business; and, whereas, the Mutual Film Corporation, Triangle Film Corporation, United Artists Corporation and others have announced their determination to absorb the war excise tax and instructed the managers of their various exchanges to cancel the 15-cent assessment; therefore, be it resolved by the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association, that the thanks and commendations of its members be extended to these various film corporations for their fairness and justice in meeting this situation.

Be it further resolved, that the members of this organization endeavor, whenever and wherever possible, to book the productions of these various corporations not only as a matter of principle, but because of the high standard of quality in production which is maintained by these various film corporations, and urge similar action upon the part of exhibitors not affiliated with this organization.

Be it further resolved, that this resolution be spread on the records of this association, copies to be sent to the various other affiliated organizations of the American Exhibitors' Association, with a request that they take some similar action, and that a copy be sent to the executive committee of the organizations above mentioned.

The members of the special committee are E. Thos Beatty, Louis H. Frank and W. J. Mulligan.
Paralta and Allied Interests’ Films to Be Distributed by W. W. Hodkinson, Inc.

“A Man’s Man” with J. Warren Kerrigan First, to Be Followed by “His Robe of Honor,” “Madam Who,” Turn of a’Card,” “Within the Cup,” and Others

The productions of Paralta Plays, Inc., and its allied producing companies, will be distributed to exhibitors through an organization now being formed by W. W. Hodkinson. Its offices are at 527 Fifth avenue, New York City. This answers one of the questions that has interested the moving picture section of Broadway since early last September, when the statement was made that Paralta would not publish through a channel previously announced.

Affiliation between Paralta and Mr. Hodkinson’s new company will mean much to exhibitors. Mr. Hodkinson entered the motion picture industry as an exhibitor, and, therefore, has intimate knowledge of every condition that exhibitors have to face. His long experience in connection with the General Film company, and as president of the Paramount and Triangle distributing corporations widened his vision to take in all angles of the business, so that he stands today one of the best qualified men to form a new connecting link between producing and exhibiting interests.

Paralta New Concern

The Paralta organization, formed and operating under the direction of Carl Anderson, has only been in existence since last March. It took a radical position from the start, especially in reference to equity and fair dealing in the distribution of pictures.

The latter part of last May, Paralta secured a long term lease on the big Clune studios, in Hollywood, Cal., and early in June, J. Warren Kerrigan and Bessie Barriscale, at the head of producing organizations of their own, began the production of Paralta plays.

Walthall Becomes Producer

Paralta arranged with Henry B. Walthall to become a star-manager and producer at the head of his own company. Shortly after, Rhea Mitchell and Clara Williams had been added to the lists of artists, heading producing concerns at the Paralta studios. Today six producing organizations are at work at these studios.

The first Paralta film which Mr. Hodkinson’s new organization will distribute will be J. Warren Kerrigan’s “A Man’s Man,” and the Bessie Barriscale production of “Madam Who.” These will be followed by Henry B. Walthall in “His Robe of Honor,” J. Warren Kerrigan in “Turn of a Card,” Bessie Barriscale in “Within the Cup” and “Rose o’ Paradise,” Henry B. Walthall in “Humdrum Brown” and Clara Williams and Rhea Mitchell in productions which are now known only by working titles.

Miss Gertrude McCoy, the Hoffman-Foursquare star, was the guest of honor at the anniversary celebration of the Gertrude McCoy Theatre in Baltimore this week. “Madame Sherry” and “The Silent Witness,” two Hoffman-Foursquare pictures in which Miss McCoy starred were shown, after which Miss McCoy attended a big Halloween ball.

PATRIOTISM

The Motion Picture Theater Owners’ Association, Chicago branch of the American Exhibitors’ Association, at its regular bi-monthly meeting last Friday, passed a resolution calling upon its members and other exhibitors as well, to book at once through Triangle the American patriotic film, “Who Leads the National Army.”

President Krug made a personal appeal to the men in behalf of the film. He told the exhibitors that by showing the film in their theaters they were “doing their bit” toward pushing the war to a successful conclusion.

Theda Bara Sold Bonds

on Fifth Ave., New York

More than $300,000 worth of Liberty loan bonds were sold by Theda Bara, the Fox star, when she made her first and only appearance in public under the auspices of the Stage Woman’s War Relief Committee at their booth in front of the New York Public Library at 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue, New York City.

When William Fox bought the first $50,000 bond a great cheer went up when Thomas F. MacMahon, Miss Bara’s attorney, bought $5,000. J. Gordon Edwards, Fox Film Corporation director, bought $5,000, Miss Bara bought $13,000, and Mr. Edwards bought $50,000 worth of Liberty bonds. Miss Bara, attending the National War Bond Office, purchased $50,000 in Liberty bonds.

Burr Succeeds James

on N. A. M. P. I. Boar

C. C. Burr has been elected to the National Association board by General I vision, Class No. 5 of the Nation Association of the Motion Picture Industry. He succeeds Arthur James, resigned. John C. Elin was elected chairman of the branch and Paul Glick, secretary.

Thomas G. Wiley, Julian M. Soloms, B. P. Fineman, Fred N. Rotherbe, Julius A. Lewis, William A. Johnson and A. MacArthur, Jr., were elected members of the executive committee for the coming year.

The following new members were elected: B. P. Fineman, Eugene Zuk, Allan Rock, E. B. Cotton and Al Lippman, of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and C. G. Merrill of C. G. Merrill, Inc.

A membership of one thousand is the goal now set by the executive committee and a meeting of the committee will be held in the near future at which its plans will be made for an active membership campaign.

WILLIAM FOX’S “BABY GRAND” STARS

KATHERINE LEE (LEFT) JANE LEE (RIGHT) FAMOUS JUVENILE FUN-MAKERS.—(Wm. Fox.)
renon to Film "Passing of Third Floor Back"
With Sir Forbes-Robertson in Leading Role

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the noted English actor, has come to America for the express purpose of appearing in the screen version of the stage success, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which is to be produced and directed by Herbert Brenon. Mr. Brenon has already commenced work and it will be completed before the end of the year.

This is the third big production to be cared for Herbert Brenon since becoming an independent producer. The others are "Kismet," with Otis Skinner, and "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," by Allan Caine.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson is one of the best known and most noted actors in this country and in England. His long and varied career on the stage he has had many successes, but one outstanding feature is his portrayal of the stranger in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Upon the completion of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," Mr. Brenon will start work on "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," to be followed by "Kismet," with Otis Skinner, upon the conclusion of Otis Skinner's tour in "Mister An-".

World to Distribute Two-Reel Subject
Showing the Building of an Army Camp

Film Entitled "Over Here" Made at Little Rock, Ark.
Official Record of Progress of Achievement for War Department Use

"Over Here" is the title of a timely and unusual motion picture of contemporary patriotic interest to be distributed by the World Film Corporation. This picture, which is in two reels, shows the building of one of the great United States army cantonments, from an actual address to a city housing 40,000 troops, in a period of only fifty-two days.

This does not mean merely throwing up wooden buildings together, but is a complete up-to-date city with electric light and sanitary systems, breaking every construction record and ready for occupation.

In the course of the 2,000 feet of film employed in illustrating this one building to hold an entire company is put together by 450 workers in precisely two hours and forty-five minutes. Other similar structures are completed in forty-eight minutes.

Some of the accomplishments shown in this photographic narrative are the building of more than four miles of railroad in two weeks; the construction of water pipe line twenty-seven miles long; the laying of 1,500 miles of sewer, the grading and laying of 30,000 feet of woodland; the operations of power tractors, thousands of mule teams and automobile trucks.

"Over Here" is an official picture showing Camp Pike, situated in Arkansas, not far from Little Rock. The commercial body of this city bought the land for the cantonment and presented it to the War Department. The moving picture was made to record the progress of achievement in cantonment construction.

Internal Revenue Department Rules on Theatre War Tax

Because of uncertainty and difference of opinion on the part of motion picture theatre owners as to when and how to impose the new war tax on admissions, S. L. and Fred Lowenthal, attorneys for the Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association, Chicago Chapter of the American Exhibitors Association, have obtained the latest views of the Department of Internal Revenue on the subject. The opinion is as follows.

Answering the inquiries in Mr. Maun's letter of the 25th instant, the only theatres which are exempt under the statute are places the maximum charge for admission to which is five cents. If there is a five-cent charge and also a ten-cent charge for admission, the tax will rest upon the five-cent admissions as well as those for which ten cents is charged.

A maximum admission of five cents may be charged as an admission per performance and for more than performance. The afternoon receipts are exempt, but the evening receipts are taxable. Also, the proprietor of a motion picture theatre is not allowed to set aside a portion of his theatre in which an admission of five cents or less is charged, when a charge for the other portion of his theatre is more than five cents, and expect to exempt from pay- ment of the tax the five-cent charge for admission, the tax will be paid upon the five-cent admissions, as well as upon the admissions at a greater price.

It would seem advisable, where a different admission charge is to be made on one date, that exhibitors should divide the time into performances or periods and clear the house before the commence- ment of the time for which the admission charge is more than five cents.

TAX FOR CHILDREN

In the case of children, age is a determining factor. The tax upon admission charge for a child under twelve years of age is one cent, irrespective of whether the charge is ten cents or two dollars.

The amount of admission charge determined whether the tax applies or not. A theatre may be tax-free on week days, but may be taxable on special days. Or a theatre may have a maximum admission of five cents for a time and afterwards advance the price for all ad- missions so as to bring it within the taxable class. A theatre may be subject to the tax and reduce its admission to five cents, thereby getting into the tax exempt class.

“His Robe of Honor,” Story of Expose Taken From Incidents in Political Life

Book, Written by Two Newspaper People, Stirred the Country; Makes Ideal Play for Henry B. Walthall

The fine hand of a writer who has learned wisdom in the school of practical journalism is much in evidence in the story of “His Robe of Honor.” which now is being made into a Paralta Play with Henry B. Walthall as the star.

The story concerns a crooked judge who, under the refining influence of a young so- ciety woman, mends his ways. The writers of the book are Ethel and James Dorrance, two newspaper people who have evidently taken the foundation of their story from incidents that have come to their notice while working for the press. The story and the people in it are described by the editors of the “Musiey” Magazine as “The Joys of Horrible Conditions,” has had more than twenty years journalistic expe- rience on the New York “Tribune” and on Heart’s publications, affording him many experiences such as are very seldom given to any one man. Ethel Dorrance, his wife, became a newspaper woman in the city of Washington, when her father was a mem- ber of diplomatic circles, which allowed her entrance to many places where the average journalist could not gain admission.

After many experiences as a newspaper woman in the nation’s capital, she decided to enter the field of literature, and since that time has collaborated with her hus- band in writing a number of successful books and short stories.

When “His Robe of Honor” first made its appearance on the shelves of the book- sellers it attracted the attention of the legal profession throughout the country, who proclaimed it an expose of the methods used by many political machines, but aside from this there is a virile love story running through it.

“Alimony” Feature Film Sold to Exhibitors Circuit

“Alimony” has been purchased by the board of the First National Exhibitors’ Circuit. The state rights feature was produced by an independent coast company last summer. The story is by Hay- don T. Wood, and the production was di- rected by Emmet J. Flynn. Included in the cast are Josephine Whittall, Lois Wil- son and George Fisher.

Wilbur Bares to Leave Paralta Publicity Desk

Wilbur Bares has resigned as general publicity director for Paralta Plays and its affiliations, with which company he has been since its organization, and will sever his relations with them on November 10. His work with the Paralta interests has attracted wide attention in the trade.

Petrova Selects Story and Supporting Cast for Next Production

Madame Petrova, having complet “Daughter of Destiny,” the first Petro Picture, is now engaged in the making of the second of her personally sup- vised productions. The scenario was written by Mrs. L. Case Russell, auth, of several of Mme. Petrova’s previous successes. It deals with the romance of Laurel Carlisle (played by Mme. Pet- rova), a nurse who has become famous for her research work. The theme is said to be startling and dramatic in extreme and presents Mme. Petrova in a wonderful opportunity for the display of her emotional powers. The Biograph Studio will be used for the production of this picture.

The following supporting cast has been selected: Mme. I. Meurmen, the leading lady; holding, Cumps Hare, Clarence Hig- mitage, Fred Jones, Evelyn Dummo and Freddie Varril. Philip Roden will cast. Mme. Petrova will be technical director.

Robards’ Feature “Mothers of Men” Has Exceptional Theme Says Shepard

Dorothy Davenport Stars in Picture Dealing With Suffrage Question; Portrays a Woman Torn Between Love and Honor

In a recent interview, H. J. Shepard, of the firm of Shepard & Van Loan, New York, who is representing the Rob- ards’ feature, “Mothers of Men,” Mr. Shepard gave his reasons for believing that the picture will be one of the most successful of the year on the state rights market.

“The picture, to be a success in the state rights field,” said Mr. Shepard, “must have one of three values; propa- ganda, sensation, or an exceptional story. If the picture has genius in it, has these three qualities, it is surer of a favorable reception.”

“Mothers of Men” contains a distinct propaganda on the suffrage question. It is the story of a woman who finds herself in the most difficult position in- able—that of judge and practical dispensation of her husband, who is falsely accused of murder. What would a man do under these circumstances? Is the question that Willis Roberts has developed. Thus it is apparent that the picture fulfills two of the three qualifications for the state rights market, and is therefore qualified on that field.

Dorothy Davenport plays the lead part, and apart from the value of the picture itself, a star of her calibre is a big drawing card.
Daughter of Destiny” First Petrova Film
A Feminist Play, Now Being Cut and Titled

In response to inquiries that have been made, the first picture, being delayed until October 30, the date announced, by Frederick L. Collins, president of the company, that the film has been completed, in that the post-moment of the date of publication has been due to the care that has been taken to ensure the mechanical perfection of the picture. In tinting, tinting and cutting, the picture has been over a dozen times by cutters to insure that each reel has been stripped of superfluous details.

The Rialto Theatre, New York, will soon announce the date (probably about the middle of November), when it will show “Daughter of Destiny.”

As an indication that Madame Petrova is putting her heart into the production of this series of pictures, it is stated that she has started work on her second picture within nineteen hours of the completion of the first. The second picture is now well under way at the Biograph Studios, New Rochelle.

Madame Petrova has secured from L. Case Russell a scenario that contrasts sharply with the theme of “Daughter of Destiny” and which is quite as full of opportunities for dramatic effects. Interest has been created by the announcement that Madame Petrova in her new series of pictures is to produce what may be called “feminist plays,” i.e., plays based on what women really think and do and not what men imagine they think. Petrova feels that there is real drama in these subjects, and she expresses no fear of appealing to a distinctly feminine class.

“If Daughter of Destiny is a feminist play,” states officer of the First National Exhibit Circuit, which will release the picture through its circuit, “it is also a distinctly masculine play, and we expect to see both men and women attend our theatres to get a foretaste of Petrova Pictures.”

Wolfberg Attractions
Adds Walter Blaney to Its Sales Force

Harris P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa., announces the appointment of Walter A. Blaney as representative of that state-right company in West Virginia. He will handle “The Mad Lover,” “The Deemster,” “The Crisis,” “Persuasive Peggy,” and “Haste.”

Mr. Blaney was one of the first motion picture salesmen to stage “The Dish” in western Pennsylvania. He is responsible for its success in that territory and has a large number of ends among exhibitors.

Success of “Jack and Beanstalk” and “Aladdin” Films Prompts Producer to Commence Work on Another Big Feature

The success which greeted William Fox’s “Jack and the Beanstalk,” and “Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp,” has led Mr. Fox to organize still another company of juvenile players.

The new company will be headed by Georgie Stone. His leading lady will be Gertie Messinger.

Universal Installs Service Departments in Every Exchange

When W. A. Bach has finished his present tour of the United States, every Universal exchange will have in operation a service department that will act as assistant to every exhibitor in the territory served by the various exchanges. Said service, or “Make It Pay” department, first became operative and was tested with entire satisfaction by Mr. Bach in connection with Universal’s exchange at Toronto, Can., and he was appointed to extend the idea to all Universal branches.

The plan, it is said, has made for closer cooperation between the exchanges, salesmen, and the exhibitors.

IN THE WHEAT BELT
THEY FEED ‘EM SERIALS
SIX NIGHTS A WEEK

The small town exhibitor’s problem of getting a full house each night has been solved by G. F. Geidle of Fargo, N. D. He booked the Mutual serial, “The Secret of the Submarine,” which is five reels long, one each night for six consecutive nights. One night Mr. Geidle’s receipts were $72. He uses a gas outbit, too.

New York City Rights
Wm. S. Hart Film Sold

The W. H. Productions Company has announced the sale of the rights to their feature with William S. Hart as the two-gun man in “The Bargain,” New York City, being sold to the Magnet Film Exchange, and Canada to the Regal Film Company, Limited, of Toronto.
NOTE: Below is printed a blank form which exhibitors may use in keeping records upon which to base tax reports on admissions. It is essential that a daily record be kept in order that the Government may be able to obtain the information it requires in each case. This form has been sanctioned by officials of the Internal Revenue Department.

Jack Cohn Finishes
Second Year as Editor of Universal's Weekly

Jack Cohn has just rounded out two years' service as editor-in-chief of Universal's weekly news service. During that time he has succeeded in making the Animated Weekly, Current Events and the Screen Magazine three of the most profitable film specialties handled by the big organization. He has also made an enviable reputation for the rapidity and accuracy with which he has put over a number of "scoops" in filmdom, including the first pictures of the Kingsland munitions explosion, the first pictures of the Russian revolution and the first pictures of General Pershing's arrival in France.

Jack Cohn has been in the employ of Carl Laemmle ever since Mr. Laemmle opened headquarters in New York. Previous to that he was connected with the Ben B. Hampton Advertising Agency.

THE TALENTED TALMADGE SISTERS
John Barrymore and Mike Donlin Star
In Photoplay “Raffles, Amateur Cracksman.”

Hy-class Producing Company’s Film Presents Combination of Best Seller, Stage Success and Well Known Actors—Territory Rights Being Sold

One of the most notable screen offerings of the current season in point of story, author, star and cast is the film version of “Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman,” now being sold to territorial purchasers throughout the country.

The book from which the picturization was made by the Hy-Class Producing Company was written by the English author, E. W. Hornung. Dramatized for stage purposes shortly after its appearance in book form, “Raffles” was a Broadway success with the late Kyle Beliew in the title role.

In order to present a star whose reputation would be in keeping with the book and play, the Hy-Class Producing Company engaged the services of John Barrymore, well known to theatre goers in this country for his appearance in leading roles of many stage plays.

In the supporting cast appears Mike Donlin, late of the old New York baseball Giants. Donlin portrays the role of the thief in “Raffles.” Christine Mayo, H. Cooper Cliffe and Evelyn Brent also appear in important characterizations.

The combination of well known book and prominent stage star offered in the production of “Raffles” should attract attention from state right buyers who are seeking a feature offering many publicity possibilities for the exhibitor.

The play itself was very well to the screen. All the bits of comedy that Ann Murdock delighted her audiences with on the stage have been transferred to the screen.

“Please Help Emily” was chosen as a fitting successor to Miss Murdock’s two other photoplays, “Outcast” and “The Beautiful Adventure.”

Dell Henderson directed this picture and also the two mentioned above.

Scenes of San Francisco’s Chinatown Depicted in Film “Ashes of My Heart”

What is said to be one of the most remarkable scenes ever put upon the screen will be a feature of “Ashes of My Heart,” an early publication of the Berg Productions, featuring Barbara Castleton. The action of part of the story is laid in a Chinese opium den in the old Chinatown of San Francisco. The heroine, Rhoda, having developed a passion for drugs, makes a friend of the proprietor of the place, and in return for winning for him at his gambling tables, is allowed the privilege of living in luxury in that environment.

The use of drugs causes her to waste away, lose her health and when deserted by her friends of the underworld, she is left to die. Her rescue, and subsequent revenge of the underworld often look faked, and are usually distorted and overdone. It is Miss Castleton’s idea in this picture to make them absolutely accurate and true to life.

Brazill Film Trade
Gets District Rights to American Serial

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, reports the sale of “The Diamond from the Sky” film to the Brazill Film Trade. It thus gets exclusive rights to the picture, the subject being 60,000 feet in length.

ARABIAN THOROUGHBREDS IN WALTHALL’S PLAY

Two Arabian thoroughbreds are being used for the filming of some scenes in “His Robe of Honor,” Julian Lamothe’s picturization of Ethel and James Dorrance’s novel, in which Henry B. Walthall will make his debut as the head of his own producing company under the auspices of Paralta Plays, Inc.

The horses are the mounts of Walthall and Mary Charleson, his leading woman, and were given to the Walthall company by a California millionaire.

Equal proportions of drama, melodrama and comedy are found in "The Hungry Heart," but unfortunately the plot is rite and timeworn as photoplay material. Motion picture patrons will find Pauline Frederick as delightful as ever, however. Other members of the cast are Howard Hall, Robert Cain, Helen Lindroth and Eldean Steuart. The direction is by Robert C. Vignola.

The story: Courtney Vaughan is very much in love with her husband Richard. When he neglected her for his chemical work, however, she turns to Basil Gallatin, her husband's partner and a homewrecker. Richard learns that Courtney desires her freedom, he divorces her, giving her the custody of their little son. After a separation of some time Richard returns to the home and asks permission to work in his laboratory. He also asks Courtney to help him, which she does. Basil, learning that Courtney is free, returns to her only to be turned away. He goes to Richard demanding Courtney, but Courtney demands that Richard kill both Basil and she. Basil, frightened, runs away and Courtney and Richard make arrangements to start life anew.

Star.................................................. Well cast
Support........................................... Satisfactory
Settings........................................... In keeping
Photography..................................... Good

While the plot of "Man's Law" is not entirely new it has been handled in a pleasing manner and undoubtedly exhibitors whose audiences like melodramatic productions will find this a successful offering. There is some very beautiful scenery and the photography is good throughout. Irving Cummings and supporting cast do some good work.

The story tells of a trapper who picks up a young girl lying exhausted in the woods. He takes her to the nearest trading post and they are married. Her husband becomes a partner to the owner of the trading post, a little boy is born to them and they are very happy. The girl's cruel foster father who attacks her at night in the cabin is driven from town and he arrives in the settlement in which his foster daughter and her husband live. He robs the store operated by the girl's husband, is seen by the girl, but because of the shadow he holds over her she will not tell. The husband overhears the father bragging in the saloon and with murder in his eye, he chases the vagrant. The chase lasts all night and finally a fight takes place on a high cliff, ending in the death of the vagrant in the water many feet below. After the husband has killed his wife's torturer, there is a happy ending.

Support........................................... Well selected
Settings........................................... Beautiful
Photography..................................... Wonderful

It is difficult to adequately describe the beauties and wonders of the settings and photography in this Mutual production. The aesthetic grandeur of the great Western outdoors is shown in all its splendor and it is as if one were seeing the trees and foliage in reality. This, together with the charm of Miss Minter, makes one quite oblivious of the story, although it is enjoyable. Alan Forrest, Andrew Arbucket, Carl Stockdale, Emma Kluge, Margaret Shelby and George Ahern lend Miss Minter good support. The direction is by Lloyd Ingraham.

The story: Peggy Manners gives her father a surprise visit and after the lavish style in which he has kept her at boarding school, she is amazed to find his business in such a dilapidated condition. However, she starts a new system of doing things and the business soon takes on an appearance of thrift. Clyde Gardiner, son of the wealthy Roland Gardiner, meets Peggy and falls in love with her. His father insists, however, that he marry Maude Greenwood. A storm plays havoc with Gardiner's mountain home and Maude and her mother depart in anger. Gardiner seeks refuge in the little store and comes to the conclusion that Peggy is the right girl for his son after all.

Mission picture patrons will enjoy "This Is the Life." It is full of action and humor and at the same time highly entertaining. George Walsh injects spirit and most of the things spectators want in pictures and exhibitors will undoubtedly have no difficulty in filling their theatres. Mr. Walsh is given excellent support by Wanda Petit, James A. Marcus, Ralph Lewis, John Eherts, Jack McDonald, W. H. Ryno and Victor Sarno. The direction is by R. A. Walsh.

The story: Billy Drake, son of a wealthy munition manufacturer, is desirous of becoming a motion picture star. While training himself, he gets a toothache. He goes to a dentist who gives him gas in order to extract the tooth. While under the influence of the anesthetic Billy sees himself in love with a beautiful young girl. In his dream he goes to Central America and on board the ship gets in with German revolutionists who he thinks are the producers of a motion picture. Through his ignorance, he gets himself into trouble and is ordered to be shot. He finally realizes that the proceedings are in earnest and by a clever ruse he manages to save himself and the beautiful girl, who has also been captured. As they make their escape, Billy comes to. He goes to a drug store and finds the girl telephoned. He tells her and he learns that she is the girl his father has selected for him to marry. Billy is ready to give up his idea of becoming a motion picture star and settle down to a peaceful married life.

What is undoubtedly the best work of Emmy Wehlen's career appears in "The Outsider." The story is developed along comedy lines, has been well done and should prove good attraction. It is very evident that Miss Wehlen in the past has not been given the proper sort of roles, as she has charm as Sally Manvers that has never been manifested in previous roles. Florence Short, Virginia Palmer, Gladys Fairbanks, Harry Benham and Herbert Hayes support Miss Wehlen.

The story: Sally Manvers, a poor shop girl, gets into the home of Mrs. Standish and seems to be a very pretty girl, and not resist putting one of them on. She interrupts the brother of Mrs. Standish taking jewels from the safe. Each believing the other a thief, a friendship is formed out of necessity and unwrittenly Sally becomes a member of a family. It is planned to take the jewels belonging to Mrs. Gosnold, Mrs. Standish's aunt. The aunt suspects her niece and nephew. Miss Pride, the aunt's guardian, is jealous of Sally, hides the jewels and accuses Sally of the crime. The aunt unearths the plot and in addition winning Mrs. Gosnold's friendship Sally wins a wealthy westerner for a husband.

As a whole: Good entertainment
Story: Wholesome
Support: Vivacious

"Cy Whitaker's Ward" is a delightful little story of small town life, well acted and carefully produced. Shirley Mason is the little ward who is saved from the orphans' home by the manly retired sea captain. She makes an appealing and whimiscal Emily Lorrain, and a number of small town characters.

The tale is slight but the manner in which it is acted, the splendid settings which furnish an "old home" atmosphere, and a realistic rain storm, make up for the deficiency in plot material. Excellent photography abounds and "Cy Whitaker's Ward" should prove a profitable attraction in any theatre.

The story: Capt. Whitaker returns to Bayport after an absence of thirty years, having accumulated a fortune. His old home is about to be sold for taxes by an unscrupulous politician, Herman Atkins, who controls the school board and runs the town. Atkins meets his match in Cy Whitaker when he takes a hand in affairs of the community. He adopts Emily, the daughter of the man in prison, and Emily's father leaves prison and attempts to blackmail Cy Whitaker. Atkins and Thomas unite in their enmity against Whitaker, but the arrival of Sarah Oliver, little Emily's aunt, and the pretty school teacher.

If your audiences did not appreciate Elsie Ferguson in that cold, but wonderful story, "Barbary Sheep," they will have an entirely different opinion of her after viewing "The Rise of Jenny Cushing." Miss Ferguson is so much more versatile, so much more at home, so unaffected and so much warmer and more likeable that she does not seem to be the same person who portrayed the character of Kathryn Wynne in her initial photoplay.

While the theme of the story is not new, it has been well dressed and there is no doubt but what picture patrons will find enjoyment in the denouement of the plot and the work of the star. Miss Ferguson is well supported by Elliott Dexter, Fania Marinoff, Frank Goldsmith, Sallie Delatore, Mae Bates, Edith McAlpin, Isabel Vernon, Blanche Craig James Cogan, Marie Burke. The scenario is by Charles Maigine and the direction by Maurice Tournier.

The story: Emily Cushing, a wealthy Edith Gerrard. While Donelson Meigs, a famous artist, is painting Miss Gerrard's picture, the artist falls in love with the maid, who accompanies her mistress at each sitting. The pretty nurse, and Jenny is pose for him and finally tells her of his love. Jenny realizes the difference in their social positions and though she lives with him she will not become his wife. When Jenny knows Donelson has learned of her being in a reformatory, she leaves him, goes to America and starts a home for young children of the slums. Here after two years' search, Donelson finds her and professes his love.

"The Mark of Cain" revolves about the murder of Rowland Trowbridge, a wealthy stockbroker, and the subsequent un- aveling of the mystery of his death by his niece and nephew. Mrs. Vernon Castle as Alice, Trowbridge's adopted daughter, does some excellent acting and is the redeeming feature of a story none too strong. She is assisted by Antonio Moreno, I. H. Gilmour, Elinor Black and John Sainpolis.

The story Rowland Trowbridge, a broker, is also a partial amateur of bugs spends his hours when away from his office in the study of rare insects. On returning for the out-of-his-nephew, Kane Langdon, for a loan of $50,000. Langdon is in love with Alice, as is also Judge Hoyt, his close friend and equal adviser. One day Trowbridge receives a telephone message that some choice specimens of insects are trapped in a park and leaves his office. Some hours later he is found dead. Kane Langdon is charged with the murder but escapes. Through amateur detective work and a confession by Trowbridge's butler, the young lovers trace the murder to Judge Hoyt. The latter in escaping from the police jumps to his death from the top of a building. The close of the picture intimates future happiness for the young people.

"Cassidy" is a well done photoplay, but is one of those unappealing productions which tires an audience rather than entertains. To Dick Rosson falls the major part of the acting, and he does it so well there is little need for any one else doing anything. Audiences looking for the out-of-the-ordinary in motion pictures will find it in "Cassidy." Mr. Rosson is supported by Frank Currier, Pauline Curley, Mac Alexander, Eddie Sturgis and John O'Connor. The direction is by Arthur Rosson.

The story: Cassidy arrives in a little western town and finding himself without funds and food he decides to rob the home of the district attorney. He breaks into the house and is confronted by the lawyer in the middle of a storm, when he hears his story and gives him sufficient funds to return to his home in New York. Cassidy is a victim of tuberculosis and in a weakened state, enters a saloon for something to drink and eat before embarking on his journey. In the cafe he is able to rescue Grant's daughter, who has been attacked by riffraff. After seeing her safely home he goes to the train yard to await his train, but before he has gone very far he falls to the ground dead.

The predominating features of "Betty and the Buccaneers" are the excellent photography, the splendid tinting and the wonderful fade-ins. The story is a dreamy, fantastic tale which pleases the average audience and undoubtedly will prove a successful offering. Miss Day is supported by Joe King, Charles Marrollt, Tote De Crow, William Kyle, Gordon Russell and Harold Wilson. The direction is by Rollin S. Sturgeon.

The story: Betty's father, a retired professor, accompanies some crooks on a supposed fortune hunting trip. When the crooks find a deserted island they beat the professor over the head, the captain forces him to make a will in his favor and they depart, leaving the professor to die. During his absense Betty receives a visit from a secret service man, Dick Winthrop. Upon hearing the story of the professor's departure, Dick determines to capture the crooks and rescue the professor. The crooks return to the professor's estate and take possession of it. An argument arises in which the captain and one of the crow come to their end. The two remaining men plan an attack on Betty, who is rescued by the timely return of her father and Dick.

"WEAVERS OF LIFE"

Edward Warren's drama; six parts; published State rights.

As a whole: Interesting
Story: A treasure
Card: Well balanced
Photography: Excellent

"Weavers of Life" is an exceptionally fine production and shows in convincing manner the triumph of good over evil. The clean, wholesome atmosphere that pervades the play and the story with its steady insight into the problems of everyday life, is very restful, following the many war dramas. It shows how destiny in the daily routine of life gives each a conscience with which to withstand temptation, and in the sunshine of the little heroine's nature all selfishness and evil influences in the lives of her associates disappeared. It is a picture that should encourage right thinking and helpful living.

The cast is a well chosen one. Helen Hayes Brown heads the list and deserves much credit for a sincere and convincing performance. Gilbert Rooney is excellent as the reformed loafer, and Edna Hibbard as the girl's chum gives a fine bit of character acting that will establish her in the memory of producers. Howard Hall, Gladys Alexander, Isabel West, Dorothy Benham, Kenneth Hunter, Earl Schenck, Barney Gilmore, Beatrice Allen and Harry Hadfield contribute their share to the realism of the production. To Mrs. Edward Warren must go unstinted praise for her work as art director of the production. From an artistic standpoint it left nothing to be desired.

The story: Peggy, a clerk in a department store, is ambitious to be like her fashionable customers. Fate throws a lost costume for a masquerade ball her way. She yields to the temptation to use it and the invitation enclosed. At the ball she meets the son of a millionaire, who becomes infatuated with her. He takes her to meet his father, who suggests that the girl pay him a visit in order to disillusion the son. Hal Ainsley has reformed for Peggy's sake, is working honestly and taking care of his mother. He drives the taxi that takes Peggy and the millionaire safely away from a raided Chinese restaurant, and Peggy begins to see the light. During her two months' visit to the Pratt house she has been the means of restoring love and happiness in the family. has persuaded the elder Pratt to do the right thing for his poor tenants, and changed the Fratts' criticism into appreciation for what she has done for them. She goes back to Hal, having overcome her false ambitions and ready to be a good wife to the boy who has become a man for her sake.

Star, cast, director and photographer have combined and made a praiseworthy screen production of Baroness Orczy's novel "The Scarlet Pimpernel". Especial care has been taken as regards costumes and settings and the photography and lighting effects surpass anything that have been shown for some time. The story is worked up to a strong climax and pleased audience at the Boston Theater, Chicago.

To Dustin Farnum falls the greater part of the acting and in his various disguises he completely fools his spectators. As Sir Percy he is excellent and is accorded good support by Winifred Kingston, William Burgess and Howard Gaye. Richard Stanton directed and J. D. Jennings is responsible for the photography.

A SCENE FROM "THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL." WITH DUSTIN FARNUM. (Wm. Fox.)

The story derives its name from a small English flower, which was attached to letters a mysterious individual wrote to the French government during the reign of terror in 1792. The plot centers around the efforts of the government to find the leader of the Scarlet Pimpernel League.

The story: Sir Percy Blakeney, regarded as an English cad, in various ways is assisting French aristocrats to escape from Paris. He weds Margaret St. Just, who has spurned the suit of M. Chauvelin, a French official. Sir Percy, as the head of the Scarlet Pimpernel League, is sought by French officials and finally M. Chauvelin traces certain letters to him. By a ruse Sir Percy makes his escape, dons an old peddler's clothes and drives M. Chauvelin and his bodyguard away from the rendezvous. His wife, however, falls into Chauvelin's hands and Sir Percy retires, rescues her and the Scarlet Pimpernel band make their escape.

"The Clever Mrs. Carfax" is one of those productions on which exhibitors can rely both as to its entertaining qualities and enjoyable humor. It is appropriate for discriminating audiences as well as for those less discriminating. In many points this latest Lasky production surpasses Mr. Eltinge's first appearance. Without doubt patrons of picture houses will leave in a pleasant and cheerful mood after a screening of this new comedy. Drewed in his borrowed-from-Mrs. Bruce's wardrobe, Mr. Eltinge outshone all the feminine members of his cast. Jenny Lee gave a good characterization of the clever woman who was afraid her relations would get her money. Other members of the cast lent Mr. Eltinge good support.

The story: Wise dares his friend, Trask, to assume feminity and take a charming lady home. The trap works. The woman accepts the challenge and there meets the one woman. Helen has a sickly grandmother, who is afraid that her granddaughter will take her money and therefore puts trust in two crooked burglars. Trask, as a former jay bird and realizing the situation, accompanies Helen and her grandmother to their home. Without letting his identity be known, Trask, as himself and later as Mrs. Carfax, learns that the woman he cares for is unable to catch the Secretary and maid with negotiable securities, trying to make good their escape. He then confesses to Helen, who would much rather have him Trask than Mrs. Carfax.

This Bluebird, "The Princess Virtue," is disappointing. The story is new to American, but with the exception of the plot the human appeal has been lost. Miss Murray appears different, perhaps, because she has not portrayed an eccentric, I-don't-care, French girl role, and though she carries her part well, is not the Mae Murray of a few months ago. With its original plot material and beautiful photography it perhaps is unfair to condemn the production entirely. There may be patrons who will find it interesting.

The supporting cast includes Lule Warrenton, Wheeler Oakman, Clarissa Selwyn, Gretchen Lederer, Harry Von Meter, Paul Nicholson and Jean Hersholt. The story is by Fred Myron and the direction by Robert Leonard.

The story: Clara Demarest does not believe her little granddaughter Liane is receiving proper treatment at the hands of her mother and stepfather, the Count Oudoff. She sends Basil Demarest, a distant relative, to find out the true conditions and see if he cannot bring the little girl to her. Basil finds Liane a typical French woman and when the Baron and Emile, both suitors, fight a duel, she is thrilled. Basil arouses the enmity of the Baron and the Baron challenges him to a duel. And Liane steps in and pretending to love the Baron, the duel is ended. Basil returns to America, regretting his failure and sorry that the woman he loves is the sort of a woman she is. He is somewhat pleased when on his cabin boat to find Liane has gone for America and delighted when she tells him that she stopped the duel to save his life because she loved him, and not the Baron.

Though Mildred Havens is featured as the star in this production, to Leslie Austin should go the credit, and to the "extra" who played the role of Casey, whose name does not appear in the cast of players. It is a comedy-drama that is bound to please and should make exhibitors glad they booked it. The story concerns a Yale student who, as senior, fails to make good with the seniors. story has appeal and has been worked up in heart gripping style.
The little details have been given especial attention and the selection of characters is remarkable. "Sunshine Alley" should prove an especially good drawing card to the exhibitor catering to children.

Mac Marsh, in the role of Nell Harbost, is a winsome little riend. Other members of the cast are Dion Titheridge, J. A.

Furey, Ed see, John Charles, W. T. Carleton, Isabel Berwin and Jack Grey. The direction is by John Noble and the story is by Mary Riner.

The story: Harbost, owner of a bird store and known as the bird doctor, is injured by an auto owned by Morris, a wealthy banker. To forestall a damage suit Mrs. Morris wants to purchase a building belonging to Nell, his girlfriend, but Harbost will not sell it. The old man's injuries prove serious and finally Nell is forced to sell the bird.
Mrs. Morris plans to have the bird as a surprise for her party, but it is kept hidden and nobody but Nell, his girl friend, can attend it. She dresses in her grandmother's wedding gown and Dorris, the son, falls in love with her. The illness of the forces Nell to remain over night. Nell's brother Carlo, gets into bad company and with a gang, robs the Morris-home. Nell follows him and takes the jewels belonging to Mrs. Morris away from her brother. She is accused of the theft and only the arrival and visit of Ned saves her from being arrested. Ned introduces her to his father as his fu-

The story: Accused of a crime of which he is innocent and deprived of a place in the army, which he loves, the weakling arrives in the town of Sleeping Dog, where the cowboys of Lazy Y Ranch torment him. Because he is disgusted with himself and afraid of everyone that comes near him, he takes their insults and abuses without a word. He meets the Fury at the dance hall and to her he bares the story of his past. She makes him go back to the camp and demand an investigation. Spurred on by Fury he reports the story. With the arrival of the camp he is greeted as Captain and is told that his ser-

"The Natural Law" is a picture that should be fumigated, expurgated and hidden away. Any law for the sake of natural decency should make it impossible for such pictures to be shown. Older people will not be able to sit through this picture without a feeling of nausea and no young person should be allowed to witness an exploitation of such misbehavior on the part of a young girl that she must go to a physician to plead for an abortion. "When God created the world He made a law, and wrote it upon the heart of every man and woman, the law of attraction, sex attraction. Every man and woman has felt the almost irresistible force of that law," the story tells us. But nothing in creation excuses the rest of what the story unfolded.

The cast includes, in support of Miss Courtot, Howard Hall, George Larkin, Jack Ellis, Chas. H. France, Lila Blow, Gordon Gray and Leah Peck.

The story: Ruth Stanley, a girl artist, is engaged to Dr. Webster, and her father is in charge of the girl's mother's and her financial interests. The mother goes West for her health, leaving Ruth alone. She then meets Jack Bowling who makes love to her and they give way to "the natural law." When the girl turns on her heart goes to Dr. Webster and pleads with him to perform an operation. He refuses and sends for Jack and tries to have them married. The girl refuses to go through with the ceremony. The doctor refuses to perform his engagement and is resigned to her fate. Jack returns after having won athletic honors and revives her quest. The doctor in order to test him tells him that if there to be no infant he would then be under no obligation to marry Ruths. He turns to the doctor and threatens to prosecute him. The doctor and Ruth are then satisfied that Jack truly loves her and Jack and Ruth are reconciled.

Hesser Publicity Bureau issued a "Memo. for Reviewers," which was handed out at the exhibition. In this memorandum several prominent people are quoted as giving endorsements of the film.

Rabbi Alexander Lyons, Brooklyn, N. Y., is quoted: "While 'The Natural Law' handles a delicate situation, it does so with so much delicacy as to not offend the most sensitive. Its interest is gripping and it should enjoy a large patronage."

Rabbi Isaac S. Moses is supposed to have said: "I wish every mother would take her young daughter to see the performance of this piece. It would spare her the task of trying to teach what "The Natural Law" should have taught her.

When a representative of the Hera'd spoke to these men over the telephone they both stated that they had never seen the picture and never knew there was such a picture.

Clara Kimball Young Completes Film
"Shirley Kaye," Begins "Marionettes"

Clara Kimball Young has just completed her second picture "Shirley Kaye," under her own management. In settings it is said to exceed her first picture, "Magda."

In the cast are Corliss Gilles, who makes his initial appearance on the screen, George Fawcett, George Backus, John Sunderland, Claire Whitney, Nellie Lindrich, Frank Otto and O. Winthrop. Joseph Kaufman directed the production.

Miss Young will begin work on "The Marionettes" under Director Emilie Chautard who will continue as director in future productions, including "The Claws" and "The Savage Woman."

First Fox Feature for November

June Caprice has the leading role in "Miss U. S. A." William Fox's first November story. The picture is said to be the most dramatic Miss Caprice has had to date. Harry Millarde directed it.

Richard Stanton has completed another story for William Fox, with Enid Markey, Ralph Lewis and Bertram Grasby in the leading parts.

Carl Harbaugh, who is directing Virginia Pearson in her newest vehicle, "All For a Husband," has completed the cast for this play. Out on the West Coast work is progressing on the "A Branded Soul," in which Gladys Brockwell will appear.

Mutual Announces "The Planter" and "Betty and Buccaneers" for Nov. 12

"The Planter," a seven-reel film produced from Herman Whitaker's novel, with Tyrone Power in the leading role, tops Mutual's schedule for the week of November 12. "The Planter" is produced as a special. The star production of the week is "Betty and the Buccaneers," a five-reeler from the American studios, starring Juliette Day.

"The Planter" was produced by F. M. Manson in cooperation with the author, Herman Whitaker. A company of one hundred actors and a technical staff to supervise the filming of the scenes were transported to southern Mexico. The film cost approximately $350,000 to produce, it is said. "Betty and the Buccaneers" is Miss Juliette Day's third production for Mutual. She is cast as a dreaming little miss in "Betty and the Buccaneers," and her production is in five reels and was directed by Rollin S. Sturgew. Supporting Miss Day in the picture are Charles Marriott, Joe King, William Kyle, Tote du Crow, Gordon Russell and Harold Wilson.

NEW YORK'S $175,000,000 WATERWAY
SHOWN IN UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE

The operation of New York City's new $175,000,000 water-works is graphically pictured in the 45th issue of the Universal Screen Magazine, to be published November 16. It shows interesting phases of the huge problem that has been solved in bringing the clear spring water of the 900 miles of Catskill reservations to the million homes of New York.

Other features of the issue show the operations of a gigantic magnet that is now being used in handling hundred of tons of iron ore at the Bethlehem (Pa.) Steel works; series of pictures covering the new "education through play" system of developing the minds and bodies of children, and natural vaudeville at the Bronx Park Zoo. The film close with a lesson in the preparation of food for the boys in the camps with a delightful story of the kitchen battles from which 2,000 men can be fed, automobile cooking ranges, and the water-filtering apparatus and mechanical food-portioners.

Metro Gets "Daybreak," Stage Drama

Metro Pictures Corporation has acquired for the use of Emily Stevens, the photoplay rights to "Daybreak," the drama written by Jane Cowl and Jane Murfin. Albert Capellani and June Mathis will work and will be begun on the production at the Metro studio soon. Mr Capellani and June Mathis are adapting "Daybreak" for the screen.

LIVE TELL AND DAVID POWELL IN A TOUCHING SCENE FROM THE BIG EMPIRE PRODUCTION, “THE UNFORESEEN.”

“The Unforeseen” was originally staged in Charles Frohman’s Empire Theater, New York, in 1903 and enjoyed a successful run.

Miss Tell is supported in the screen version by David Powell. The picture was directed by John B. O’Brien.

COMPLETES THIRTEEN MILES OF FILM

Virginia Pearson has just completed her thirteenth mile of film for William Fox. She has finished eleven pictures and done in working on her twelfth, “All for a Husband,” which will be the Fox special feature publication of November. The thirteen miles, however, are not the total length of film in the productions in which Miss Pearson has appeared, but length of frames in which she figures personally.

As the actual footage of personal photographs is 65,640 feet, and as there are sixteen frames to the foot, it is easily computed that Miss Pearson has been photographed 1,092,240 times during the eighteen months she has been in the employ of the Fox Film Corporation. On an eight-hour day basis, this is at the rate of more than four photographs every minute for the entire period.

EXHIBITORS’ HERALD

Mary McAlister Films Gain in Favor
With Other Essanay Comedy-Dramas

“Young Mother Hubbard,” the Essanay comedy-drama starring Mary McAlister and a group of other children, has received its popularity with exhibitors.

The success of “Pants,” and other McAlister pictures as much to create as to demand among exhibitors for little Mary McAlister’s work.

The film combines comedy situations with strong heart appeal.

“Fools for Luck” a comedy-drama featuring Taylor Holmes, and “The Fibbers,” with Bryant Washburn and Virginia Valli, other recent films, are continuing in demand.

General Film Company branch report that the weekly George Ade fables and the monthly Chaplin publications are growing in popularity.

THE WEEK’S BEST BET IN PICTURES

“Bab’s Burglar,” Paramount production, five parts, with Marguerite Clark. Another Mary Roberts Rinehart “Sub-Deb” story that sets a fast pace for photodramatic features. It bubbles over with humor and Marguerite Clark in the stellar role does things that will tickle thousands of picture “fans” and Saturday Evening Post Readers all over the country. Everyone will want to see how Bab marries off her sister and spends $1,000 allowance money in two weeks. A sure-fire picture and one that will make ’em come back for more.

Other Best Bets

“The Scarlet Pimpernel,” Fox, five parts, with Dustin Farnum. A nifty costume play, well acted.

“Scandal,” Select, six parts, with Constance Talmadge. Beautiful settings, well acted.

“Peggy Leads the Way” Mutual, five parts, with Mary Miles Minter. Excellent comedy-drama.

And now some inquisitive soul asks: If $5,000,000,000 worth of Liberty Bonds were taken by M. P. stars (according to the P. A’s), where was old General Public with his jack?

From all the press dope one reads about the U. S. Government aiding film companies to produce special features, our new national army must be kept pretty busy posing for the camera.

NEWS NOTE

William Makeishit Staller, the well-known director, who produced such classic films as “The Custard Pie Battle,” “Did She Slip?” and “Soap and Bubbles,” has joined the staff of the Fli-by-night Cinema Corp. Later—Mr. Staller has left the Fli-by-night Company and has joined the Foolom Films, as prop. man.

WEEK’S WILDEST NEWS ITEM

The A. E. A. will join the M. P. E. L. of A. and take over the “yellow sheet.”

QUITE NATURAL

It was no more than to be expected that a “kick” would be registered on the footage tax.

OLD “B. L. T.” HAS A LAUGH

“The Hon. Doug. Fairbanks, the laughing hyena’s only rival, says that ‘superfluous strength is only for those who have need of it.’” THAT made us laugh.—Chi. Tribune.

The Italian front isn’t the only one that is collapsing these days, what with meatless, wheatless days and the price of food jumping daily.
Wm. Russell in Two Comedy-Dramas

“Snap Judgment” and “N. Y. Luck” on Mutual Program for November

William Russell has just completed two comedy-dramas at the American studios for the Mutual program. The first is “Snap Judgment,” scheduled for November 19, and the second is “New York Luck.”

Both productions were made under the direction of Edward S. Sloman, who has directed Russell in a series of pictures including “Pride and the Man,” “The Frameup,” “High Play,” “Shackles of Youth,” and “My Fighting Gentleman.”

“Snap Judgment” gives Russell a dual role. He is cast as a young New Yorker, who, late at his own wedding, is rejected by his bride and goes west, where as the double of a notorious outlaw, he is thrown into jail to answer for the crimes of the man of the same name, “Pete.” “Pete,” “Pete’s” bride-to-be enters the scene and makes love to the mistaken bad man. “Pete” holds up a stage coach and makes captive the fiancée of his double. There are a number of amusing complications, with thrill and comedy well mixed.

“New York Luck” casts Russell in the role of the daydreaming station agent at Holokas, Me., who finds New York not as pictured in his dreams, but full of opportunity for the square man, even though he is a bit awkward and wears ill-fitting clothes.

“Looters” Chapter 9 of “Lost Express” Shows Fight Aboard Runaway Car

Chapter 9 of “The Lost Express,” the fifteen-chapter Mutual-Signal photoplay, is entitled “The Looters.”

The episode ends with a fight, aboard a runaway ore car, between Miss Holmes and Leo Maloney, who plays the role of Pete. The car ran away down a steep incline and was smashed, colliding with a building at the foot of the hill.

The story of the missing express train reaches a new pitch of interest in Chapter 9 in the course of which Miss Holmes recovers the stolen papers from the gang of thieves who stole them from the train in Chapter 1.

Gerard Visits Fox Studios

Among recent visitors at the William Fox studios in Los Angeles was the Honorable James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany and who recently published a book exposing German perfidy in diplomacy. He came rather unexpectedly to visit the studios, and although there was manifested a desire on the part of every one to meet him, he requested that the work proceed without interruption and that he be allowed to watch the making of the scene.

RUSSELL TO STAR IN AZTEC PICTURE

William Russell, American Film Company star, has started on his fifth production of the present American series of six. His new story tells of a treasure hunt that takes the scene into South America.

Raymond L. Shrock wrote the story and Edward S. Sloman will direct it.

The new picture, it is said, will present an entirely new plan of costumes and settings. A large number of extra people will be required and Director Sloman is now planning the details of the rehearsals.

“His Awful Downfall” First Comedy Published by Wholesome Corporation

“His Awful Downfall,” with Rex Adans in the principal role, is the name chosen for the first comedy film mad by Wholesome Films Corporation.

There is in the development of the story plenty of slap-stick fun, it is said, without, however, any antics or pranks that might be considered offensive.

Like former Wholesome productions, Wholesome comedies will be so presented as to suit every kind of audience with clean, humorous situations.

“His Awful Downfall” is now available for exhibitors having been published Nov. 5.

BILLIE RHODES AND GEORGE OVEY IN ONE REEL MUTUAL COMEDIES

The comedy films on the week’s Mutual schedule are “That Dog Gone Dog,” a one-reel Strand, starring Billi Rhodes, and “Jerry’s Running Fight,” a one-reel, featuring George Ovey. Miss Rhodes is supported in the Mutual Strand comedy by Jay Belasco and the same company which has been appearing with her in the new series of Mutual one-reelers. The Ovey comedies are directed by Milton Fahnney at the Horsley studios.

Mutual Issues Attractive Press Book

The Mutual Film Corporation has issued an eight-page press book on “The Planter,” the seven-reel dramatic spectacle starring Tyrone Power, which is scheduled for November 12. It is now being distributed to exhibitors.

The book is a comprehensive and complete aid to the exhibitor who books the production in addition to being a highly attractive piece of printing. It is printed in two colors, orange and dull black, profusely illustrated, on enamelled stock.

Advisory Board Chosen to Select Films for Showing Soldiers Abroad

American Cinema Commission Establishes Headquarters in New York. Shipments to Begin at Once

J. E. Brulatour, of the Eastman Films, and newspaper manager A. M. P. I., who was recently selected as chairman of the American Cinema Commission, with headquarters in the United States, has announced the personnel of an advisory board comprising officials of representative companies who have volunteered to assist in the selection of American films which are to be sent to Russia, France and Italy for showing to the soldiers, as well as to the people throughout these countries.

Chairman Brulatour has established headquarters for the American Cinema Commission in the Eastman Kodak building, 333 West 23rd street, New York City, and within a few weeks after the headquarters were opened, film shipments began to arrive from some of the well-known producing companies. In the next few weeks it is expected that the advisory board and the commissioners will have several hundred thousand feet of film offered for examination and approval.

Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph, V. L. S. E., is the commissioner to Russia; F. A. Powers, treasurer Universal Film Mfg. Company, is the French commissioner and Frank J. Marion, president of the Kalem Company, is the commissioner to Italy.

A. A. Kaufman, George Mooser and John Tuerk, members of the commission Brulatour as his staff assistants with offices at the headquarters of the commission.

Doll-Van Film Corp.
Buys Rights 3 States to Many Big Features

The Doll-Van Film Corporation of Chicago, with offices in the Consumers Building, has secured the rights to the states of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin for all features distributed by the State Rights Distributors, of New York city, of which organization Sol Lesser is president.

Henry Dollman, president of the Doll-Van Corp., is also a director of the State Rights Distributors, and D. M. andawalker, Jr., vice-president of the same concern, is a member of the board of review of the New York company.

S. W. Emmel, former South manager, and well known throughout the western territory, has been appointed local manager with headquarters in Chicago.

"BOSS OF POWDERVILLE" CHANGED TO "GRAND PASSION"

The name of the Jewel feature, "The Boss of Powderville," has been changed to "The Grand Passion," Dorthy Philips has the leading role and the story was written by Thomas Addison.

"Sunshine Alley"
Unites Screen Team Marsh and Harron

In its production of "Sunshine Alley," Goldwyn presents not only its second Mae Marsh starring vehicle, but also the reunion of one of the most celebrated acting teams of the screen—Mae Marsh and Robert Harron.

In accounting for their popularity, it has been said that they typify the spirit of American young man and young womanhood; and it would seem that producers of their pictures have realized this in that they have given them only youthful parts to portray.

Robert Harron was once D. W. Griffith's office boy at the old Biograph studio in New York. He became an actor of office boys on the screen, when the director brought Mae Marsh East from Los Angeles. Shortly after that began the joint appearance that is repeated in "Sunshine Alley."

Following the completion of "Sunshine Alley" for Goldwyn, Robert Harron was offered the opportunity to join Goldwyn by the terms of a previous contract. Miss Marsh now is engaged in making her third Goldwyn picture, "The Cinderella Man," from Oliver Morosco's stage play by Edward Childs Carpenter.

Special Productions Make Trust Improbable, in Spite of Millions, Declares John W. Noble

Independent Producer Not Affected by So-called Combine; Exhibitors Demand the Best Regardless of Maker

John W. Noble, who has just completed his first big special production, "Shame," makes the following observations which are of more than passing interest to exhibitors and producers. Mr. Noble has made a careful study of conditions surrounding the marketing of pictures and knows the problems confronting the independent producer.

"Where is your market?" is the first question put to the director who contemplates producing independently," says Mr. Lewis. "He is confronted with arguments that would convince him unless he can arrange for distribution through an established system of exchanges his production is destined to never see the light of a screen."

Told of Trust

"He is informed of the existence of a mighty trust which is rapidly tying up all the stars in the theatrical firmament and making it impossible for other producing and distributing organizations to make a living. He is shown the impossibility of realizing even the cost of his production unless he can induce this trust to accept it. These advisers are sincere in their beliefs and are giving him what they consider friendly advice."

"Stars, writers and directors must not be confused with iron ore, sugar or oil. Forget the word industry and use the word art when speaking of motion pictures and your fears of a trust will quickly disappear; Motion picture production can never be controlled by a few powerful organizations. "Exchanges are possible as long as offices can be rented and business branched. That theaters can be bought or built in sufficient numbers to make monopolies impossible was proven when stage attractions were still the mainstay of the show business. The market is now wide open and I fail to see how it can be sewed up.

Competition Is Keen

"Most theaters book their pictures furthest ahead than they did formerly and man of them are under contract to accept certain productions on certain days. In other words, competition is now very keen. But really worth while pictures are in demand and the market for productions that will make money for exhibitors has no trouble booking it at top price."

"If A. M. P. I. is the situation thus: An producer who stages an exceptional picture that will appeal to the masses and attract them to the box office is assured a hard and substantial return on his investment. But let me be aware of an 'average' production. The standard is high and the open market demands the best."
"The Looter's"—November 19 (Episode 2 "The Lost Express" Signal serial, two reels with Helen Holmes).—Pitts and the syndicate endeavor to keep information about the richness of the Thurston mine away from Helen. They go to the hiding place of the lost express and remove the metal box containing valuable secrets. They are seen by Helen and Bonner, who in an unguarded moment remove the valuables from the box. The syndicate opening it are amazed to find it empty. Helen arrives at the mines and finds living conditions very unsatisfactory.

"Her Dog Gone Dog"—November 13 (one-reel Strand comedy with Billie Rhodes and Jay Belasco).—Jay and Billie go to a masquerade dressed as Buster Brown and the dog. Jay feels a long for his fireside and rest and changes clothes with a tramp. The tramp gets into trouble with the police and is called. Jay awakens from his slumber, finds the tramp, changes clothes again and enters the party, where he finds himself not very welcome. He rushes to the Brown home, followed by the police. When Billie reaches home Jay explains matters.

"Jerry's Running Fight"—November 13 (one-reel Cub comedy with George Ovey).—Jerry and his sweetheart plan to elope and are successful in getting away when the girl dresses in her brother's clothes. The minister is out of town and they cannot get married. They go to the hotel and there being only one room vacant, Jerry sleeps in the hotel office. Alaska Pete arrives at the hotel and at the point of a gun sends a room. The hotel proprietor sends him to occupy half of the room in which the girl is. This, together with the arrival of father and people, brings things to a climax and ends up with Jerry and Pete being chased by the police and the girl being spanked by her father.

"Please Help Emily"—November 19 (five-reel Empire comedy with Ann Murdock).—Professor Delmar is forced to go to Egypt on business and leaves his harum-scarum daughter Emily in charge of Judge and Mrs. Lethbridge. Emily has two suitors, Trotter, who always helps her out of her troubles, and Threadgold, who is a pest and always proposing. One night at a club dance Emily is persuaded to go to a cabaret. Her disappearance is reported and she is believed abducted. An immediate search is made. Emily, knowing what the result of her escapade will be, goes to Trotter's apartment and tells him the truth. Trotter himself then goes to straighten matters out. He finds everyone has been arrested by Threadgold, accused of the abduction. In the end he takes Trotter by giving him her heart and hand.

"The Price Mark"—October 29 (six-reel Ince drama with Dorothy Dalton).—Paula Lee, a small town girl who has come to New York to join the chorus, finds herself on the point of starvation, so she becomes the model of Fielding Powell, a noted artist. The artist provides an apartment for her and then finds himself falling in love with her and wants to make her his wife. But Paula has met Dr. Maniel Meli, whom she loves and when he proposes to her she becomes the doctor's wife. The doctor and the artist are friends and the doctor invites Powell to meet his wife. There is mutual recognition and Paula tells him that he might see some pretty fortune if he interlere with her happiness, consents to meet him in his apartment. Back in the apartment Paula has a hard time to hold her promise, and at the crucial moment Powell is stabbed by his Egyptian servant, who had waited for some time to avenge the ruination of his life. But the artist has told the cards she played. The counts falls off the chair, apparently dead. Resolute Herman goes to his home. The next morning he receives a message from the count telling him the three cards are the trey, seven and ace. The first two nights he plays the trey and seven and is successful. The last night he takes all of his money, feeling sure he has the ace. He finds it is the queen. With the loss of his money he loses his mind.

"Faint Heart and Fair Lady"—November 5 (one-reel Kloner comedy with Victor Moore).—When working in his blacksmith shop, finds himself wishing that he might see some pretty city girls. Just then a tall and skinny girl passes the shop, her corner of the building and nearly knocks it to pieces. The man above the shops, the girls get down and Vic has his wish. His bashfulness makes such an impression on Vivian, the leader, that she asks him to call. He does, first taking lessons from Professor Mush, who also loves Vivian. Both men decide to steal the girl and attack the house with ladders. After many complications Vic is the winner.

"Miss U. S. A."—November 4 (five-reel Fox drama with June Caprice).—Major Warfield adopts Capitola Black. Capitola is lovely Herbert Grayson and when war breaks out between Germany and the United States, Grayson is one of the men selected to hunt down spies. Capitola helps decide to help her country and is able to prove that she is not a spy. His father, Gabriel Lenoir, is a spy. He is taken captive and the Major tells Capitola that Gabriel had paid a nurse to kill her sister. Capitola gets her just deserts. Capitola gets her fortune and Grayson gets Capitola.

"The Looper"—November 19 (five-reel Empire comedy with Ann Murdock).—Professor Delmar is forced to go to Egypt on business and leaves his harum-scarum daughter Emily in charge of Judge and Mrs. Lethbridge. Emily has two suitors, Trotter, who always helps her out of her troubles, and Threadgold, who is a pest and always proposing. One night at a club dance Emily is persuaded to go to a cabaret. Her disappearance is reported and she is believed abducted. An immediate search is made. Emily, knowing what the result of her escapade will be, goes to Trotter's apartment and tells him the truth. Trotter himself then goes to straighten matters out. He finds everyone has been arrested by Threadgold, accused of the abduction. In the end he takes Trotter by giving him her heart and hand.

"Molly Entangled"—November 19 (five-reel Lasky comedy-drama with Vivian Martin).—There is a bitter feud between the families of O'Mara and Barry, which is heightened by the fact that if O'Mara's family dies the property will revert to the other side of the house. One night Jim Barry falls down the stairs and is given up as dying. Molly, Shawn is called in to become his wife in order that she might get his property in the event of his death. Molly complies. It is then found that Jim will live. He is sent to a hospital and soon returns home fully restored, but Molly refuses to recognize him as her husband. Molly loves big Barney and when Jim sees Molly and Barney together, he realizes who performed the ceremony was an escaped convict. Molly and Barney are overjoyed at the news.

"Queen of Spades"—November 12 (five-reel Russian Art comedy with Made-moisselle Duvan).—Herman, a Russian army officer with a small fortune, is fascinated when he hears a story of the wealthy Countess Fedotovna, who won her fortune by playing three certain cards, the identity of which she refuses to reveal. Herman gains entrance to the house through a flirtation with Liza-veta, ward of the countless. He confronts the countless and while threatening to pull revolver, demands to be told the cards she played. The countless falls off the chair, apparently dead. Resolute Herman goes to his home. The next morning he receives a message from the countless telling him the three cards are the trey, seven and ace. The first two nights he plays the trey and seven and is successful. The last night he takes all of his money, feeling sure he has the ace. He finds it is the queen. With the loss of his money he loses his mind.

"Indiscreet Corinne"—November 11 (five-reel Triangle comedy-drama with Olive Thomas).—Corinne Chilvere tires of her hum-drum society existence and looking for adventure answers an advertisement for a young woman with a past. Corinne really has no past, but her imagination soon conjures one and she is accepted. As a masked dancer she is supposed to lure the wealthy Nichola Fenwick and she is successful in winning him away from the other woman. After her adventure she is ready to settle down to a quiet life.

"The Medicine Man"—November 11 (five-reel Triangle drama with Roy Stewart).—Jim Walton, sheriff, finds Joe Malone working a claim which does not belong to him. He seals the mines. A quack doctor arrives in town with a pretty dancing girl and Walton recognizes her as the rightful owner of the mine which he went to interest capital. He returns and Walton suspects all is not right. He arrives at the cabin in time to and the doctor for-ing the dancing girl to sign away her right to the mine. Jim interferes and the doctor is vanquished. Edith decides to go to a boarding school, but later decides to remain and become Mrs. Wal-

VITAGRAPH

“The Bottom of the Well”—October 22 (five-reel Vitagraph drama with Evart Overton).—Amos Buckingham, wealthy mill owner, will not listen to the pleas of his workmen for more money and they leave him. Amos takes a position with his men to find out conditions. During his absence his mansion is blown up and a body is recovered, supposed to be that of Buckingham. Stanley Deane, a young lawyer in sympathy with the workmen, is accused of the crime and is about to be hanged, when Amos takes off his disguise and sets matters right. His workmen receive an increase and Deane, who is in love with Amos’ daughter, is given permission to marry her. Deane’s parcrug has always been in doubt, but his identity is revealed when it is found that he is the son of a wealthy banker, having been stolen while an infant.

Peter Pan Film Corp. Gets Unusual Pictures of Roaring Volcano of Kilauea, Hawaii

Cameraman Aldrich Descended into Crater and Photographed Scenes Amid Sputtering Lava. Waited for Weeks for Opportunity

(Special correspondence from H. H. Van Loan)

For the first time in the history of Hawaii, a moving picture cameraman has descended into the crater of the volcano of Kilauea and photographed the boiling, sputtering lava, fire, smoke, and terrible inferno, spitting great chunks of molten lava and sulphuric fumes.

The cameraman who did this was William F. Aldrich, a member of the expedition sent out by the Peter Pan Film Corporation for the purpose of photographing the world. On October 5 he took his paraphernalia and with a gas mask, and heavy leather cap, which covered his face, with the exception of his eyes, he left the rim of the outer crater and started for the trip to establish a record in motion picture photography.

It is three hundred feet from the rim of Kilauea to the edge of the lava lake and, because of the almost sheer cliffs the journey had to be made very slowly, as it was very treacherous.

Is Difficult Task

Several attempts have been made to obtain an accurate reproduction of Kilauea on the film, but for various reasons, with but one or two exceptions, they have been failures. One of the principal reasons for these failures has been due to the fact that Kilauea for weeks at a time will scatter smoke all about, thus hiding the crater from the eye of everyone. The other is that the light is very powerful and this has re-ualized by over-exposure, and, as the majority of the cameramen who have taken their cameras to the volcano have gone with limited raw stock, they have been compelled to leave before they actually had a chance of getting any results from what they have taken.

I only know of one photographer who has succeeded in getting a good picture of old Kilauea—Robert K. Bonire—a Honolulu photographer, who came to Hawaii about ten years ago, while on a trip around the world for the Edison company. He managed to get a fair picture of the volcano a few months ago and though it consisted only of a few hundred feet, he received $7,000 for it. It was recently shown in the Strand Theatre in New York City.

Job Required “Nerve”

I believe that fear has kept many moving picture cameramen from taking Kilauea. The first impression which comes to one when he stands on the brink of this volcano is indescribable. He is amazed and awed, and almost ter-tified by the awful scene three hundred feet below. When it is taken into con-ideration that this is red hot earth, boils, smokes, and spouts, throws up a billow of five hundred feet, and that it throws sprays at heights varying from one to two hundred feet, from a bed hot enough to melt a two-inch iron pipe in ten minutes, and that the rays of heat rising from its bed are so terrible that it will melt the thinnest ray-ther at the edge of the outer crater, three hundred feet above, one can understand why a cameraman would hesitate about descending into the infernal pit.

But Aldrich was bent upon getting his picture. He set up his tripod in the soft, soggy lava, still quite warm, and began photographing the “house of everlasting fire,” known to the tourists as Halaenauum. This is 200 feet in width and 700 feet in length.

A few months ago a moving picture company attempted to take a picture of Kilauea directly over the center of the crater, by stringing a heavy wire cable all the way across the top. The picture was to be taken by a cameraman who was to be strapped in a basket and pulled across on the cable. When the basket was attached to the cable and started out on its trip across, the entire cable melted and the whole thing went down into the crater and in an instant was consumed by the lava. The part gave up the attempt.

The Prodigal is Plot for New Brady Pla

The next World Picture Brady-Mad in which Carlyle Blackwell and Evely Greely are to embody the central role is called “The Good for Nothing.” The young fellow of this story runs away from his home in the East, and after strenuous times on the frontier comes back to New York. His friends give him a cold welcome. But he makes good, is true to rights, and marries the rich and beautiful young lady, who this instance is Miss Greely.

BLUEBIRD AND BUTTERFLY FEATURES ANNOUNCED FOR BALANCE OF YEAR

The Universal has arranged its schedule of Butterfly features as far as advance as December 17. Productions completed or under way will carry the list well into the new year.

“John Ermine of Yellowstone” is announced for November 3, with Francis Ford as the star in Frederick Reming-ton’s story of the West, to be followed by “The Cricket,” November 12, presenting little Zoe Rae, in E. J. Claws-son’s story. René Rogers, Hal Cooley, Harry Holdren, Winter Hall and Fred Ward have roles of importance. Elsie Jane Wilson directed the feature.

“The Man From Montana,” to be issued by the company under Will and Vivian Rich in the star parts. Harvey Gates and George Marshall, of Universal’s staff furnished the story, and George Marshall directed. The story:

Vernon in “Fear Not”

On November 26 “Fear Not,” a feature introducing Brownie Vernon and Murdock Mcfarrie, in a story by J. Grubb Alexander and Fred Myton will be offered, produced by Allen Holubar. Joe Girard and Frank Borzage will be fea-

“Fighting Mad,” in which William Stowell is featured, with Helen Gibson and Betty Schade in the support, will be published on November.

Zoe Rae Featured

“The Silent Lady” for Section 10 will have little Zoe Rae and Gretchen Led-cr featured. Elsie Jane Wilson directed this production from a sensational story by E. J. Clason. It is described as an adventure in a lighthouse. But-terfly’s little star is said to have unusual opportunities in this feature.

CHICAGO TRADE EVENTS

By "Mac"

Acting as a committee on constitution and by-laws the Board of Governors of the new Film Art Club met with Counsel Lewis F. Jacobson at the office of their president, C. R. Plough, October 25, and it was decided not to hold any meetings of the whole membership of the club until the week proposed for club quarters, was fully realized. And with the "I will" spirit that the boys are all imbued with, and a definite date announced, January 1, 1918, it looks like business.

'Tis noted one of H. C. Miller's pets, Roser, is being all plumed and fussed up in her new winter robes. Now listen, he's a married man besides, we are referring to the Rose Theatre on Madison street.

You all should have seen Exhib Cooper, of the 20th Century, October 29, some time in the early evening. House jammed, "intolerance" the play, and friend Cooper in the lobby, with "plebes" by the ton being exploded. Next time, watch your entrance, if anybody looks suspicious halt and search them, otherwise, understand good film may suffer and kick an awful hole in the box-office score.

Sometime during the week of October 25 D. W. Griffith shot through old Chi on his way to the Pacific coast, crammed full of good war stuff gleaned from his recent European experiences.

George K. Spoor, president of Es- sanay, is carrying out the work of food administrator Hoover's campaign on food conservation in Illinois, Mr. Spoor being appointed as chairman of the Illinois Motion Picture Bureau of Food Administration, is receiving the support of his film star, Taylor Holmes, whose results were impressive enough to re- ward him being made a member of the now famous "Four-Minute Men" squad who reaped such marvelous returns in the past Liberty Loan campaign.

The Lea-Bel Company, distributors of films in Chicago territory, will distribute a twenty volt thirty ampere light for use on motion picture projection machines. Their especial field will be churches and schools, for which at the present time, they are booking pictures of an educational and wholesome entertain- ing quality.

A special rotary and converter is necessary for this new light and the manu- facturers have made the Lea-Bel Com- pany the distributors. This rotary and converter will be distributed to jobbers by the agency.

Warren & Clark, owners of "The Deemster" for the Central States rights have made arrangements to have this feature handled for distribution by Ralph O. Proctor.

Sunshine Comedies Do Not Depend on Custard Pies for Fun, Says Fox

Pretty Girls and Wild Animals Furnish Humorous Situations; Comedies Being Sought by Vaudeville Managers

In Sunshine Comedies, William Fox believes he has struck a new note in the comedy field and one which will be appre- ciated, not only by the public but by exhibi- tors as well.

Instead of relying upon the ancient and time honored product of the bakery—custard pies—for comedy situations, Henry Lehrmann, who is producing for Mr. Fox, has set out to build laugh-making situations through natural sequences of events. Mr. Lehrmann works upon a comedy just as does the producer of a dramatic feature. His scenarios are worked out in advance. He does not make his comedies on the helter-skelter basis.

Animals Furnish Fun

Some of the funniest situations in Sun- shine Comedies are secured through the introductions of animals, both wild and do- mestic. Lehrmann's handling of these ad- ditions to American comedy is said to be the most remarkable. Vignettes in which they appear are not forced, but are natural and might happen in actual life.

"Take for instance the three lions in the first Sunshine Comedy—"Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells," said Mr. Fox. "In this story there is real humor and farce. Two porters are lying asleep in bed. A lion jumps upon the foot of the bed in which the men are sleeping and awakens them by tickling their feet by switching his tail. Ridiculous, of course, but when seen it is excruciatingly funny."

Ducks, Dogs and Bees

Mr. Lehrmann has not confined himself to using lions, but has ostriches, trained ducks, dogs, elephants, monkeys and even an ambitious bee.

He has demonstrated that grotesque make-ups are not essential to comedy mak- ing, but thinks that pretty girls are, and in all of his productions he uses these lib- erally.

Sunshine Comedies have attracted the at- tention of managers of vaudeville houses as well as motion picture theaters. These comedies are to be the evolution of comedy production—the modern method of amusing and entertaining audiences.
An event of interest to the film industry in eastern Canada took place last Saturday, when Ed. S. Gronau, Montreal manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, Ltd., was married to Miss Jeanne Lioine. Mr. Gronau is one of the most popular and efficient men in eastern Canada and has a host of friends who extend to him their hearty congratulations. The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful wedding gifts.

On the eve of his marriage, Mr. Gronau tendered a banquet by his friends and associates in the moving picture industry of Montreal. It was a splendid tribute to the sterling qualities and popularity of Mr. Gronau when it was stated that every ex-changeman and producer exhibited in the entire city was in attendance at this banquet.

Geo. Nicholas, manager of the Strand Theatre, acted in the capacity of toastmaster. Among the prominent speakers were H. W. Conover of the Imperial Theatre, Mr. Bary of the Windsor, Mr. Clancy of the General Film Company, and T. O. Byerle of State Rights Features.

Jim Malone, Johnny Smythe of Griffin Pictures, and Jim O'Loghlin of Metro, kept the audience in good humor with their stories, while Mr. Eekstein performed on the piano. Solos were given by Mr. Flannigan and Mr. Johnson.

One of the features of the evening was a presentation to Mr. Gronau of a beautiful chest of silver by Mr. Unger of Metro on behalf of Mr. Gronau's friends and associates in the film industry in Montreal.

Mr. Gronau is a young man who is desirous of being popular in the Montreal territory, due to his never failing courtesy and his desire to be of real service to his friends.

A number of changes have taken place in the film exchanges in Toronto in the last few days. C. A. Garner, formerly of the Mutual, has become affiliated with the Majestic Theatre in Toronto. Frank Mulhall and J. Nelson, former travelers of the Mutual, are also employed in a similar capacity with the Kleine office here.

James Travis, formerly manager of Toronto Pathé office and later with the Bluebird Photoplays, has been placed in charge of the Mutual office as manager.

The local Pathé office has changed managers. James Davidson resigning and John Collaton being placed in charge. Mr. Collaton was traveling for the old Standard Film Service, but for the past year has been on the road for Pathé, leaving that position later to go in a similar capacity with Metro.

Dan Freeman, formerly traveler out of the Vancouver office of the Regal Film Company, has come east and is now on the road for the Toronto office of the Regal.

W. J. Horne, chairman of the Manitoba Moving Film Inspection Department, died a few days ago at his home in Winnipeg. He was city film inspector for five years.

A large number of Toronto exhibitors have viewed the first two episodes of the latest Universal serial, "The Mystery Ship," and they left the projection room declaring that it is bound to be one of the great serials ever released by Universal. The big punch in the opening episodes fairly took them off their feet and created great enthusiasm. Indications are that "The Mystery Ship" will have a successful run in Canada.

A new moving picture house has been opened in Ford, Ontario. This latest addition to the moving picture field will have 200 seats.

A. Starfield, special representative for the Independent Film Company in the Maritime Provinces, has been in Montreal for a few days to confer with his general manager, George Perkins.

Billie Allen, the Montreal manager of the Kleine Edison office, left Montreal Monday night for a short trip to the Maritime Provinces.

Mitchell Bernstein, the St. John manager of the Monarch Film Company, was in Montreal for a few days.

Among the different exhibitors visiting Montreal last week to arrange for their programs were R. L. Vallie, Princess Theatre, Sherbrooke; L. Bertrand, Crystal Theatre, Riviere de Loup; A. J. Roberts, Gaiety Theatre, Three Rivers; J. Bedard, Olympia Theatre, Quebec.

"The Bar Sinister," the first Hoffman-Foursquare special production in Canada, was shown at the Strand Theatre, Toronto, last week, for the benefit of the Ontario film men. Hoffman-Foursquare productions are being handled in Canada by the Metro Film Service, Ltd.

Cut-Out Mfgs. Reorganize

The firm of C. S. Wertsner & Son Co., 314 South Franklin street, Chicago, makers of cut-outs for theatre lobby displays, has been dissolved and Wertsner retiring. The business will be continued by Albert G. Wertsner of Philadelphia and Fred W. Wild, Jr., of Chicago, under the firm name of Wertsner & Wild.

C. S. Wertsner has also retired from the Cleveland business, which will be conducted by F. W. Wild and A. G. Wertsner with J. N. Roberts, well known in Cleveland, as local manager.

Poor Economy Attempting to Save in the Purchase of Scripts: Stories by Well Known Authors Advised to Raise Level of Output

Swift though the pace is in many twentieth century industries, in none apparently does it attain the speed that prevails in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures, according to M. H. Hoffman, vice-president and general manager of Hoffman-Foursquare pictures.

Standing for the application of sound business methods, Mr. Hoffman has stated that rightly administered economy is one of the prime essentials for the progress of the motion picture business.

And in this consistent appeal for economy in the expenditure of money in producing and distributing pictures Mr. Hoffman makes one exception, an exception wherein he maintains that it is extravagance not to pay well for what is the heart and soul of the picture, original stories by distinguished authors, or plays or novels.

Good Stories Essential

"The very foundation of motion pictures is the good story," asserts Mr. Hoffman. Provided with that, the director is fortified at the outset, and with it he is enabled, with an adequate cast, photographers, lighting, technical heads and settings, to produce a picture that will do credit to the organization back of it and will do credit to the producer. "I cannot too strongly emphasize the mistake of seeking to save money in the purchase of a script. It is fatal; ye despite this unquestionable fact we see continually the effects of such effort toward economy which, fundamentally, is the most short-sighted thing any producer can do.

Must Face Conditions

"The sooner producers look squarely in the eye conditions that must be accepted to turn out a first class product the sooner will the average rise to the level which, once reached, will benefit all in the industry, distributors and exhibitors, as well as producers. "The behalf of Mr. Gronau’s of the product," says Mr. Hoffman, "the strong will be its appeal to the public. So, with the number of patrons steadily added to and the final profit in business profit. Let producers weigh these facts and welcome the chance to purchase fine story (whether it be original, or i play or novels) and be ready to say himself money in the end even though he pay a good price for it."

Universal Serial Activities to Continue;
President Laemmle Orders Added Effort

“The Red Ace” Now Finished Is to Be Succeeded by “The Mystery Ship” Starring Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber

Because of Universal’s faith in the serial form of photoplays President Carl Laemmle has given instructions to put additional effort behind the “continued-in-our-next” productions at Universal City. Jacques Jaccard has just finished the seventeenth episode of “The Red Ace” with Marie Walcamp and is now ready to direct the star in another multiple reel production. “The Mystery Ship,” featuring Ben Wilson, starts its serial appearance November 12, as the Universal’s successor to “The Red Ace.” In this attraction, directed by Harry Harvey, under the supervision of Henry McRae, the heroine is Neva Gerber. Mr. McRae has suggested the story for the serial to follow “The Mystery Ship” and James W. Horne will do the directing. Eddie Polo will be star of “The Bull’s Eye” with Vivian Reed as his collaborator.

State Rights Men to Meet in New York

Announcement is made from the office of Sol. L. Lesser that the next meeting of the State Rights Distributors, Inc., will be held at the Claridge hotel, New York City, on Tuesday, November 20, 1917. As many pictures have been presented to the membership on their district disposition, this will be an important meeting. Offices of the corporation are temporarily located at Room 523, Longacre building, Mr. Lesser advises that the organization being complete, manufacturers who have worthy productions can secure an immediate market.

Empire-Mutual Star Poses as a Seeress in “Her Sister” Film

In the screen version of the Clyde Fitch play, “Her Sister,” which she has just finished, Olive Tell has a dual part that of an American and an Egyptian seeress. In some scenes Miss Tell had to do a lot of crystal gazing to make the part convincing and a real seeress was brought to the studio. Under her tuition Miss Tell learned to make the correct passes with her hands and the other mysterious motions indulged in by persons of that cult.

Berg Productions Meeting with Favor In Western Territory, Says President

Harry Berg, president of Berg Productions, who is making a trip across the continent in the interest of the Barbara Castleton Features, which he will shortly begin publishing, reports an enthusiastic reception of the pictures on the part of the State Rights trade throughout the West, and feels that the success of his new organization is assured. In a letter to the home office, Mr. Berg has the following to say concerning his trip:

“During the most desirable point of my visit I have met with a most enthusiastic reception. The people out here know Miss Castleton’s work and the grade of pictures in which she has already appeared. Consequently, they are only too ready to take over our releases for their territories. It is the easiest selling proposition that I have ever run up against.

“I have already closed two deals covering a territory of seven states and have several other offers, which I expect to close in the near future. I am continuing on to the coast, and expect to close out practically the entire country, before my return. From all appearances present, our Castleton productions will be one of the most successful groups of releases of the year on the State Rights market.”

Star Leaps from Car in Twelfth Episode of “The Lost Express”

Leaping from a burning railroad coach as it was suspended in midair on a slender cable made the filming of the twelfth episode of the Mutual-Signal mystery serial, “The Lost Express,” one of the most hazardous points in the career of Helen Holmes, the noted star. The car, ablaze, was sent over a bridge with Miss Holmes aboard. It becomes a matter of “conservation” as well as a “stunt” for Helen to leap from the platform into the water, forty feet below. A suspension bridge was stretched across the width of the sixty feet between two trees and it was necessary to have the cables at a sufficient height from the ground to “clear” when one end is severed and Miss Holmes swings on the suspended strand.

INNER WORKINGS OF A ZEPPELIN SHOWN IN LATEST THOS. H. INCE PRODUCT

“The Zeppelin’s Last Raid,” the initial film of the U. S. Exhibitors’ Booking Corporation, is the first spectacular produced by Thomas H. Ince since “Civilization.” It also marks the first time that a Zeppelin, similar to those with which Germany is waging ruthless warfare upon the allies, has been shown in action on the screen.

The picture was produced several months ago and many of the incidents now occurring in the Prussian Empire were anticipated by Mr. Ince and C. Gardner Sullivan, who wrote the scenario. The theme of the production is the growth of the democratic spirit among the Teutonic people which dominated recently in open mutiny and seamen aboard the Kaiser’s men’s in the harbor at Wilhelmshaven.

“The Zeppelin’s Last Raid” reveals inner workings of the mammoth dirigible, the secrets of which have been closely guarded by the Germans. How death-dealing bombs are dropped, how the Zeppelin, how the steerage gear operates and how the crew lives while in the air are shown.

One scene depicts the destruction the dirigible in mid-air and its plunge to destruction. Featured in the product are Howard Hickman and Enid Mart
Rembusch Urges "Open Sunday"

To THE EXHIBITORS HERALD: Since the tax has been placed on motion picture shows, the complaint department of the motion picture business has received many letters asking for advice. No one can tell just what the effect will be. It seems certain that many small theatres will have to close. For example, I have a letter that reads as follows:

"I have the only show in this city. I have been running for eight years. I can't get by at 5 cents and at 10 cents I can't make a profit of 10 per cent on my gross receipts; therefore, I will have to close. Is there anything you can advise me to do?"

I am replying to this exhibitor, and I thought I would like the suggestion through your paper to other exhibitors smaller cities that now would be a good time to make up the difference by opening on Sunday. It is in the smaller cities where pictures are not open on Sunday, and certainly there is no sensible objection why motion picture theatres could not be open everywhere on Sunday.

It seems to me that the American people will see the justice of remaining open on Sunday, inasmuch as by doing so a picture theatre will both keep the theatre from closing up and also give the people a chance to see our small theatre. The American people have always been loyal to their government in the present war, believe there is no question but what motion picture theatres have been taxed much more heavily than any other business.

IGHT COMPANIES PRODUCING FILMS FOR UNIVERSAL’S PROGRAM NEXT YEAR

Eight companies are busy at Universal by Canby, making features for distribution early in the new year on the Bluebird and Butterfly programs.

For the Bluebird list Joseph De Grasse completed "The Searcher," from Richard Harding Davis' story of the same title, in which Franklyn Farnum stars, supported by Edith Johnson, in Chaney and Al W. Filson. George Salmon is directing Carmel Myers in Iris Schroeder's screaming version of Frank Adams story, "Molly and I," with Joseph Harlan.

Broadway Love" will have Dorothy Filkins, Bluebird star, with William Swan as its leading man. The adaptation of Murray Melvin's "Mr. Carpenter's Daughter," with Dorothy Filkins as Ida May Park, Juanita Hanson, Eve Southern, Gladys Tenison, Lon Chaney, Harry Von Meter and William Burrell is a story by Edith Johnson. It is called "Hawaiian Knights," a five-reel comedy by George Hively. Douglas Gerrold is directing Jack Mulholl and Donna Drew in "Madam Spy," a narrative written by Lee Morrison and prepared for the screen by Harvey Gates.

The latest announcement of William Fox that "A Daughter of the Gods," as well as all other Fox Standard Pictures and Special Features have been copyrighted in South Africa, and other British possessions throughout the world, emphasizes the rapidly growing ramifications of the Fox concern.

Fred Lange is foreign manager of Fox Film Corporation, with offices in New York on the fourth floor of 130 West Forty-sixth street. The foreign department has been recently enlarged and a suite of ten offices is established for the handling of the foreign trade. Trade representatives from all parts of the world make their headquarters in Mr. Lange's office, where they receive their mail and are otherwise made welcome.

The Fox picture-plays that are shown on Broadway and picture houses of the United States will be shown in all the South American countries, from Nome, Alaska, to the tropical islands of the Antipodes, on the far distant steppes of the Siberian desert and the veldt of South Africa. Spain and Portugal have been recently opened to Fox pictures. The concern's pictures are being shown in Lima, Peru, in Bolivia and Chile, of the South American coast.

The Truth About the War Tax

The war tax on films has cost the undersigned a total of approximately $100,000.00 a WEEK ever since October 4th—not beginning November 1st, as so many exhibitors think—but October 4th, the day President Wilson signed the bill.

The government never expected us to pay that money out of our own pockets, but it does hold us responsible for that amount, and it is not concerned in our method of getting it.

Uncle Sam merely says "Pay me."
He expects us to COLLECT that amount and turn it over to him at the rate of about $400,000.00 on the first of every month.

The only possible place we can collect it is from the public, but we can't do this direct because we don't own the theatres. We therefore have to do our collecting through the people with whom we deal directly—the exhibitors.

Nor does the government expect the exhibitors to stand this drain on their own bank accounts. It expects the exhibitors to COLLECT the money from the public—because every tax ultimately comes from the people.

Every school boy knows that if a tax is placed on cigars, this tax becomes a part of the COST of producing and marketing the cigars, and is therefore paid by the men who ultimately CONSUME the cigars.

If a tax is placed on telephone calls, the tax is paid by the USERS of the telephone.

Any tax that is levied on the theatre you occupy is added to the rent by your landlord and in the end you pay the tax—not the landlord. And you, in turn, operate your theatre for a profit and in so doing you pass that tax, plus all your other expenses, PLUS YOUR PROFIT on to the public for ultimate payment.

And so on with everything and anything that is taxed or taxable.

Some exhibitors have scolded us for announcing that we intend to obey the government's command to come through and act as tax collector. Some of them have cancelled their orders with some of our exchanges.

But the cold, hard fact remains that we MUST collect the tax for Uncle Sam and we intend to obey orders from Washington.

That's the whole story of the tax in a nutshell. We can't dodge it and you can't. Your clear duty is to collect the tax from your patrons.

And if any of your patrons kick about it or threaten to quit patronizing your theatre because you do your plain duty, you'll know how we felt when exhibitors did the same thing to us.

Incidentally, and to set any fears or suspicions at rest, there is not a penny of profit in it for us to collect FIFTEEN CENTS PER REEL PER DAY from exhibitors. As a matter of fact, the most expert accountants in New York have demonstrated that the tax actually costs over SIXTEEN CENTS PER REEL PER DAY.

This is the whole story of the tax in a nut shell. We can’t dodge it and you can’t. Your clear duty is to collect the tax from your patron. Motion picture entertainment is taxed. It is put outside of the classification of necessities. It is in the classifications of luxuries, the enjoyment of which the people must pay for.

And if any of your patrons kick about it or threaten to quit patronizing your theatre because you do your plain duty, you will know just exactly how we felt when exhibitors did the same thing to us.

Obviously there were two other methods by which we could have passed this tax along to those whom Congress intended should ultimately pay it. The first was by raising our prices to the exhibitors; the second was by unfair competition.

The exhibitor should not fool himself. In most contracts between distributors and exhibitors there is a cancellation clause and no exhibitor hesitates to cancel when his business does not permit him to pay the prices agreed on for pictures. Every distributor who does not honestly and straightforwardly announce as we have announced that we are compelled to collect substantially the same amount as we are required to pay to the government will be forced to cancel his existing contracts and raise his prices, or he will try to make the exhibitor think he is a philanthropist and actually set an additional return sufficient to cover his tax and more by taking on at a higher rate than he has asked before, the business which we lose through cancellation.

It is all absurdly simple.

As the cost of product increases, the sales price must increase or business must go into bankruptcy.

And with business gone, what of the “boys over there?”

Incidentally, and to set any fears or suspicions at rest, there is not a penny of profit in it for us to collect FIFTEEN CENTS PER REEL PER DAY from exhibitors. As a matter of fact, the most expert accountants in New York have demonstrated that the tax actually costs over SIXTEEN CENTS PER REEL PER DAY for every reel that works. But to simplify bookkeeping the tax was fixed at FIFTEEN cents. The only persons who can possibly object to the present arrangements are those who do not fully understand them.

We are a nation at war. Not at play. War is hell. We’ve got to go through hell and taxes before we can expect to reach peace and pleasure. Those of us who are not shouldering a gun and offering our lives, as the flower of the nation’s young men are doing, will do well to face whatever music remains to be faced at home—whether it is taxes or sacrifice or privation of any sort.

Exhibitors Herald Service in State Rights Distribution

One of the most noteworthy developments of the past year is the extension and expansion of the state rights methods of distribution.

By this method of marketing pictures of exceptional worth can be distributed at a minimum of cost through the avoidance of sharing in the expense of handling productions of lesser merit.

There has come into the field a number of strong combinations who are obtaining pictures for sale on the state rights basis. There are also in the field a number of combinations engaged in similar work which are neither strong nor trustworthy.

The former class should be met with encouragement and recognition and the latter class should be accorded identical treatment with that extended to the scheming and dishonest in any business: they should be quickly labeled and kicked out.

The necessary complement to the strong state rights organization engaged in the original purchase of productions is the strong aggressive local organization, given over to a policy of intensive distribution in a selected territory. Unfortunately, strong local organizations of the right sort have been slow in forming, but several already have come into one field in various localities and there are reports of several new limited territory distributors that are planning to launch activities.

For the benefit of local distributors the EXHIBITORS HERALD is accumulating considerable data on state rights distributors which will be supplied upon request to interested parties. It is aimed to catalogue the various state rights agents as to their records and connections together with detailed information on the various pictures which they are offering for state rights sale.

In cases where the information is available the stated value placed upon the United States and Canada rights will be indicated and from this the price asked for the various territorial sub-divisions may be arrived at on the percentage basis.

The EXHIBITORS HERALD believes that a great portion of the film business of the future is to be done on pictures issued independently. This means a big advantage for the exhibitor, because it will place within his reach better-than-average productions without the necessity of submitting to advance deposits and other objectionable restrictions.

The EXHIBITORS HERALD plans to lend every assistance in this work both to the local distributing organization seeking pictures of real merit and to the state righter who has a valuable product and who is aiming to dispose of it at a figure which will allow the distributor a legitimate margin of profit.

An essential feature of this promotional work in the sale and purchase of state rights pictures is the EXHIBITORS HERALD review department which has established a reputation of expressing an intelligent and an honest opinion of current film publications. As has been our practice for some time particular attention will be given to state rights.
The Outlook

W HILE accurate conclusions cannot be deduced at this time it is evident from reports from widely scattered sources that at the outset the war tax has not to any considerable extent affected attendance at motion picture theaters.

This should not, however, be interpreted to mean that exhibitors everywhere are not shoulder- ing a heavy burden as a result of the war tax. Heroic efforts have been undertaken in many places to keep up the attendance and this probably accounts for the good result to date.

But even with the large attendance there is no indication that the war tax has not already begun to cut heavily into the profits of exhibitors, for in many instances exhibitors are paying the war tax in addition to the footage, or reel tax which many exchanges have imposed.

Stage theaters, from reliable reports, have suffered a serious set-back since the inauguration of the war tax. This is taken by many to mean that eventually the same fate will overtake picture theaters.

It is our opinion that picture theaters will not be affected adversely by wartime conditions. In England and in Canada during the period of the war the cinema has been very popular and it is reasonable to expect that our own experience will be similar.

But regardless of the attendance tax requirements may make the earning of former profits quite difficult. Yet there can be no justifiable grounds for complaint as long as attendance does not suffer and there is a chance of passing the main burden of the tax on to the public.

* * *

F. C. GUNNING, conductor of “The Bradstreet * of Filmdom,” in a recent issue, advances an idea thoroughly worthy of consideration. In his typical Broadwaysian jargon he heads the article, “Don’t tie up with any brand on advertising; plug your own theater.” This is excellent advice and in cases where such a policy is not being followed the exhibitor may some day be given an opportunity to reflect on the wasted effort of popularizing a brand only to see it transferred to the “opposition.”

MARTIN J. QUIGLEY.

Film Distributors Deny Stand on Reel Tax

Deny Charges That They Are Making a Profit—Claim That the Government Intended They Should Be On a Means of Collecting Revenue—Make Public Pay

With the whole the third method appears to be best. If adopted, the charge to exhibitors would take the form of an addition to the rental of a fixed amount per reel per day, the amount being computed as follows:

Cost (per reel) of taxes, approximately $8.75. Number of rental days earned by each film furnished to us and according to the best information we can obtain, average 50. Cost of tax per rental day, per reel, 16 cents.

So far as we can ascertain the average of rental given above is reasonable.

The charge would apply on all, old or new; the manufacturer pays the full tax upon release, and the charge would have to be applied on all film to reimburse the manufacturers outlay. On the other hand, upon the repeal of the law the charge should cease immediately, although there would then be much film in use on which tax had been paid.

Even this plan would entail much additional clerical work. The number of tax items would be the same as the number of entries of film rents, the individual amounts being very small.

The manufacturers and distributors contend that their only means of absorbing the tax was to raise the price of their service to the exhibitors. To attempt to pay the tax themselves, declare, without an increase in the price of their output to the exhibitor, would be ruinous.

To Make Censorship A Political Issue

Candidates for Next Legislature Will be Asked to Take Stand on Board's Abolition

Baltimore, Md.—(Special to Exhibitors Herald)—A campaign to have the next state legislature abolish the motion picture censor board was launched at a convention here of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League. The league will have the cooperation of the film corporations in its activities.

The theater men are determined to make the censorship board a leading issue in the composition of the state legislature. Every candidate will be asked for an expression of opinion concerning the board and those who favor its abolition will have the support of the exhibitors. Film corporation salesmen will visit every exhibitor in the state in this connection.

In addition to this slide will be shown in theaters throughout the state calling upon the public to support only those candidates who favor putting the censorship board out of existence.

Paramount Rental Scheme Hit by New Jersey Men

Drastic Action Planned Unless Demanded Concessions Are Allowed

Following the recent lead of a group of Bronx, N. Y., exhibitors the exhibitors association of New Jersey are planning drastic action against the Paramount-Artcraft combination, with a view to curtailing extortionate rental demands and inequitable contract conditions.

Following a clash between certain members of the New Jersey organization and representatives of the film company a meeting was held at which it was tentatively planned to quit the showing of subjects issued by the company unless there was a reduction in rentals allowed together, the elimination of the "separate deal."

In the following letter from Charles C. Pettijohn, general manager of the American Exhibitors' Association, exhibitors are warned that as soon as the casualty list comes to comprise those coming in from the

Mr. Pettijohn calls attention to the fact that such was the case in Canada, and to overcome this condition he suggests that concerted action be taken to meet the crisis.

High Salaries

The A. E. A. manager points out that the one thing to "insure the future success of the entire industry" is to combat the high salaries now being paid stars.
He suggests that these salaries be placed at sensible figures that every exhibitor will be able to keep his theatre open, pay the war tax and earn a livelihood.

The letter follows:

"The war tax has arrived for an indel-nicate day, and the tax of 15 cents on every cent has been offered to the exhibitor for "adoption."

Attendance at motion picture theatres has fallen off during the past thirty days,

Our plans begin to arrive many familiar faces will be absent from the little neighborhood theatres.

Must Face Conditions

These conditions must be faced by all the exhibitors of motion pictures. Some motion picture theatres can raise their prices; others cannot. Experience has taught us that the public does not attend motion picture performances on empty stomachs.

One thing can be done which will abso how to "insure the future success of the entire industry.

It is not good business sense to pay stars of productions intended for 5, 10 and 15-cents amusement, salaries which exceed five and ten times the amount received by the President of the United States in this same crisis. The salary of the active head of the greatest corporation in the world is insignificant when com pared with the salaries of some of the people starting in 10-cent motion picture productions.

Suggests Sensible Salaries

If the salaries of these stars would be placed at sensible amounts, every exhibitor in the United States could keep his doors open during this war, pay his war taxes, assist his government in every possible way, and make a decent living.

The present high cost of service, which necessarily results from the exorbitant and unreasonable salaries paid to certain stars, many motion picture theatres can pack their houses and fill every seat and yet not make any money.

This condition of affairs is unnatural and unreasonable. Solve this one problem; remedy this one evil: pay the stars' every

No Depression—Claim

Special Productions Suffer No
Drop in Bookings. Reflects
Confidence of Industry

The war tax situation, which many persons in the industry believed might temporarily exert a depressing effect upon business, has been productive of no ill effects in the booking of Goldwyn pictures. In Canada, where the temporary changes in the war situation no longer exert any material influence, Goldwyn's contract business is booming
the company says.

Goldwyn Distributing Corporation is having success with its special productions and reports heavy bookings of Rex Beach's story, "The Auction Block," George Loane Tucker's picturization of Hall Caine's book, "The Manx-Man," and the Ira M. Lowry production, "For the Freedom of the World." Mr. Beach's picture has been distributed to all of the Goldwyn offices in North America and is also in Australia in the hands of the Goldwyn representatives.

The Manx-Man Company's booking of
"The Manx-Man," through Goldwyn

Michigan Exhibitors in Campaign
To Strengthen State Association

State-Wide Drive to Increase Membership Will Begin Immediately. Rally Day to Be Held in Detroit on November 22

A comprehensive campaign to add members to the Michigan Exhibitors’ As-association was formulated at an informal conference in Detroit of leading exhibitors of the state this week. At the same time arrangements were made for a Rally day to be held at the Hotel Tuller on November 22.

Those present decided to take immediate action to build up the membership of the association and in furthering the project Ray Branch was made tentative state manager and ordered to take charge of the campaign at once. The expense of Mr. Branch’s services will be borne, until he is officially put in the position by association action, by those who attended the meeting.

Branch Starts Campaign
Mr. Branch will at once start on the state-wide drive for members. He will endeavor to call upon every exhibitor in the state of Michigan.

S. A. Moran, president of the association, is heartily in accord with the plan.
He has issued a circular letter to every exhibitor in the state notifying them of Mr. Branch’s impending visit and urging them to unite with the body of which he is the head.

Moran Gives Warning

“Alone you, as an exhibitor, must take what is offered whether it suits you or not, and pay the price whether you are able or not,” is the solemn warning of President Moran in one part of his message to the exhibitors.

The exhibitors are urged by the president to add their strength to the association so that it may become strong enough to protect the vital interests of the Michigan exhibitors.

Anti-Hearst Measure
Disrupts Advertisers.
Pres. James Resigns

New York—(Special to Exhibitors with debates the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers voted to reconsider their action on a resolution passed Noember 25 and then tabled the document, Arthur James, president of the body and Harry Reichenbach tendered their resignations.

The resolution over which the battle was waged and which left the organization without a head urged motion picture concerns to refrain from advertising in the publications controlled by William Randolph Hearst, “and all other publications pro-German or anti-American in their sentiments.” Mr. Hearst, through the International Film Service, is a member of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and registered a strong complaint through that body.

Resigns as Head of

Because of restrictions which he considered detrimental to the success of his mission, W. W. Irwin, general manager of Greater Vitagraph, has resigned as head of the Russian Film mission.

When Mr. Irwin accepted the position it was his understanding that his powers would be absolute. When he learned that Edgar Sisson, associate chairman of the committee on public information, would, in effect, be his superior and that he had no knowledge of the motion picture industry, Mr. Irwin believed that this handi-cap would be too

Rocky Mt. Exhibitors Pass Resolution
Protesting 15 Cents a Reel War Tax

Document Is Signed by Twenty-four Members of Colorado
Exhibitors’ League—Action Taken at Denver

Feeling that the footage tax as passed on to exhibitors is unwarranted, the Colorado Exhibitors’ League has framed and adopted a resolution concerning the 15 cents per reel tax, which leaves no doubt as to their standing in the matter.

The resolution, which is addressed to Branch Exchange, Managers of Denver and Film Manufacturers, reads as follows:

“Whereas, the film producers have seen fit to charge the exhibitors fifteen cents (15c) per reel tax originally assessed to the producing concerns. Such tax will work to a profit to the producer, is assessed impracticable, not being in proportion to film rental, thereby discriminating against the small exhibitor and such charge, according to advice from the Internal Revenue Department, is not applicable to service released prior to the date of the tax law, and with full consideration to the price of film rental being as high as can be stood:

“Resolved, We the exhibitors of the Rocky Mountain region, assembled in convention, do hereby protest against and refuse to pay the so-called war tax of fifteen cents (15c) per reel assessed against the exhibitors.”

The following members of the Colorado Exhibitors’ League signed the protest: H. E. Huffman, Bid-a-Wee Theatre; D. L. Lehrburger, Mascot Theatre; H. E. Ellison, Princess and Rialto Theatres; R. T. Veneman, Liberty Theatre; F. B. Culp, Rex Theatre; G. B. Hoover, McCall Theatre; P. C. Curtis, Electric Theatre; John Thompson, Thompson Theatre; H. A. Goodridge, Ogden Theatre; Chas. Brenon Completes “Empty Pockets” Film Starts “Passing of Third Floor Back”

Final Scenes of Hughes’ Story Taken on Connecticut Coast Changes Necessary in Jerome’s Drama for Screen Version

Herbert Brenon has completed his production of Rupert Hughes’ romance, “Empty Pockets,” and started “The Passing of the Third Floor Back,” in which Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson will appear in the role of the stranger.

In its screen form “The Passing of the Third Floor Back” will undergo certain changes necessary to give variety of background and to work out the development of the characters. In the stage version of Jerome K. Jerome’s drama, the action centered in the living room of a shabby London boarding house. The spoken dialogue made it possible to show the individual shading of character of the various characters with a single room. The motion picture adaptation, on the other hand, will necessarily reveal the different rooms of the lodger. Three whole floors of the boarding house have been constructed at the studio, including seventeen different rooms, halls and stairways. These range from the slavey’s garret corner to the third floor back above, to which the passerby is relegated by the mercenary landlady, Mrs. Sharp.

The final scenes of the completed film, “Empty Pockets,” were taken off the Connecticut estate of Commodore Benedict on Long Island Sound. A number were taken on board Commodore Benedict’s yacht, the Adalante. Mr. Brenon also filmed the automobile kidnapping and pursuit, which is a big part of “Empty Pockets.” The cast of this production includes Bert Lytell, Malcolm Williams, Barbara Castleton, Susan Willa, Mlle. Katherine Galanta, Peggy Betts, Jane Fenley and other well known players. Mlle. Galanta will be recalled for her work in “The Fall of the Romanoffs.”

The distribution rights to “Empty Pockets” have been secured by the First National Exhibitors’ Circuit and the publication date will be announced later “The Passing of the Third Floor Back” will be shown to the public about the first of the new year.

THREE SCENES FROM HERBERT BRENON’S “EMPTY POCKETS” FILM
Allen Film Corp. Gets "The Warrior" Film for Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska

Deal Closed With General Enterprises, Inc. by J. R. Grainger—Feature Had Successful Run in New York City—Second Big Picture Handled by Company

A state rights deal of considerable importance was closed in Chicago last week between Herbert Lubin and Arthur H. Sawyer, executives of the General Enterprises, Inc., and James R. Grainger, general manager of the Allen Film Corporation.

Mr. Grainger purchased for the Allen company the Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska rights for "The Warrior," a film spectacle featuring the giant, Faciste, which ran recently for four very successful weeks at the Criterion Theatre, New York.

Mr. Lubin and Mr. Sawyer spent last week in Chicago considering various offers for Middle West distribution of their feature, which is regarded as one of the most unique attractions ever offered exhibitors.

Maciste Is Featured

"The Warrior" is a very difficult picture to classify, as it is a composition of spectacle, drama and comedy, with considerable emphasis on the comedy situations. The giant actor who has the featured role performs a rapid-fire series of Herculean stunts which in all probability could not be duplicated by any player on the screen.

According to announcement by General Manager Grainger, the Allen company will issue "The Warrior" December 1. To assist in the exploitation of the feature, a special line of paper and other advertising is being prepared.

Company's Second Feature

"The Warrior," the second big feature to be obtained by the Allen Film Corporation, the first being "The Garden of Allah," which has been meeting with unusual success throughout the Middle West and Western territory.

Mr. Grainger states that he has under advisement several other important features, some of which are now in the process of production, which he plans adding to the Allen program during the course of the coming year.

New York and Chicago Theatremen Report Business Is Normal

Reports from different parts of the country vary as to the effect of the war tax on theater attendance. Messrs. Jones, Linick and Schaefer of Chicago, who control not only a number of motion picture theaters, but vaudeville and legitimate theaters as well, state that the business is normal at the Rialto, McVickers and the Orpheum theaters and complaints have been heard from patrons regarding the war tax.

S. L. Rathkopf, of the Rialto Theater, New York, states that business has not been affected in the least by the imposition of the war tax and Marcus Loew, of New York advises that his theaters are doing their usual amount of business.

Some of the outlying motion picture houses in Chicago report a slight falling off in business.

Universal's Plan to Install Service Dept. Success, Says Bach

Distrust between exhibitor and distributor is gradually being broken down, according to W. A. Bach, who is installing service departments for the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. Mr. Bach is making a country-wide trip in the interests of the film company.

"I have only recorded two cases out of 120 thus far," writes Mr. Bach, "who are actually opposed to the idea, and these two do not see how their hereditary enemy, as they characterized he exchanges, could do anything for them without slipping something over in the end."

Mr. Bach reports that to offset these two cases he has found any number of exhibitors who are enthusiastic over the idea. He is now on the Pacific coast.

Johnny Francis Skerrett Dies in New York

After having been ill for a number of months, making a brave fight against a fatal malady, Johnny Francis Skerrett died at his home in New York City on Saturday morning, November 13, at 3 o'clock. He was 42 years old.

Mr. Skerrett was a native New Yorker, and for several years was the chief of the Bureau of Electricity of the Department of Water, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York. In 1913 he became the general manager of the Nicholas Power Company, and at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of that company was made vice-president.

Mr. Skerrett was a very broad-minded man of great ideals, and was an enthusiast in his devotion to the Nicholas Power Company and their output, and had the happy knack of imparting his enthusiasm to all who were associated with him. He was a man of great culture and a versatile linguist and could converse with equal fluency in four or five languages. In the several years he had been identified with the motion picture industry he had earned the hearty respect of his associates and all with whom he had business dealings, and a host of friends will regret his untimely passing away.

The funeral was held at the home of the deceased, 1677 Fox street, Bronx, Monday morning, November 15, at 10 o'clock. A widow and son survive him.

The Gordon's, Independent Distributors Obtain U. S. Exhibitors Booking Corp. Films

New England Concern to Market Special Productions and Have First Run Pictures—"Zeppelin's Last Raid" to Open in Boston

The Gordon interests comprising one of the biggest independent distributing companies in the East, and a chain of theaters girdling the New England States, have tied up with the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, recently organized by Frank Hall and William Oldknow to market special productions by a novel system of distribution.

"After viewing the "Zeppelin's Last Raid," Thomas H. Ince's new spectacle, announced as the initial film of the booking corporation at a recent trade showing in Boston, Nathan Gordon, directing head of the New England enterprises, was so impressed with it that he immediately signed contracts by which he becomes the distributor of all the U. S. productions in New England. The U. S. subjects will be marketed through the Globe Feature Film Company, of 20 Winchester Street, Boston, of which Mr. Gordon is president and general manager.

Efficient Distribution

The arrangement guarantees to the U. S. franchise-holders and the open market in the New England territory a most efficient distribution and promotion service, as the Globe exchanges make a specialty of handling big features. In addition to handling the subjects of the new corporation Mr. Gordon also has won the distinction of being the first New England exhibitor to acquire U. S. franchise and will have first run on all U. S. productions at two of his leading theaters, the Scollay Square Olympia and Gordon's Olympia, both of which are situated in the heart of the Hub theatrical district.

Boston Opening Nov. 12

Arrangements have also been completed for a showing of "The Zeppelin's Last Raid" at the greater Scollay Square Theater, beginning November 12. Thereafter the Ince production will be issued both to franchise-holders and the open market. The Boston engagement of "The Zeppelin's Last Raid" will be under direct supervision of Mr. Gordon.

The connection with the Gordon interests establishes the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation solidly in the New England territory. Nathan Gordon long occupied a position in the front rank of exhibitors and exchange men and he intends to put the full force of his big organization behind the U. S. productions.

"Over There" Film

Has Patriotic Note

Brings Men to Army

Reports that have been received by Arthur S. Kane, General Manager of Select Pictures, indicate that one of the reasons why "Over There," the new Select production, starring Charles Richman and Anna Held, is being held up in the theaters throughout the country, is because of its direct appeal to men of enlistment age throughout the communities where it is shown. The picture is a patriotic play built about scenes which followed our declaration of war with Germany, and concerns the lives of a small group of young people who in their various ways rise to the occasion. During the action of the story, both stars in their respective roles enter into Uncle Sam's whirlwind recruiting drive and a number of stirring scenes are staged on the deck of the dry-land man-o-war battlefield, "The Recruit." The picture was produced under the direction of James Kirkwood and its battle scenes have been especially commented on for their careful staging and attention to detail.

MRS. JOHN R. FREULER DIES AT MILWAUKEE

Mrs. Augusta Jess Freuler, wife of John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, died at the family residence in Milwaukee, November 7.

Mrs. Freuler had been in ill health for some months, although her condition was not considered grave. On the evening before her death she met Mr. Freuler at the railway station in the evening on his return from his Chicago office. She was suddenly stricken in the night and died in a few moments.

Mr. and Mrs. Freuler and their two daughters, the Misses Loraine and Gertrude Freuler, were all at home at the time.

Was Husband's Advisor

Mrs. Freuler was her husband's closest advisor and associate in all of his multitude of affairs and interests. She gave him able support and cooperation through the strenuous period of his career, as one of the leaders in the founding and building of the film industry. In addition to this and the administration of the affairs of the family, Mrs. Freuler devoted a great deal of time and energy to philanthropic and private charities of a particularly constructive kind.

Mrs. Freuler leaves, besides her husband and two daughters, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Golz of St. Francis, a suburb of Milwaukee, three brothers, Otto Golz, and Herbert Golz, all of Milwaukee, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Walter.
Proposed Law Provides for a Censor Board of Ten—Gives Permit Power to General Superintendent of Police

Action by the Chicago city council is expected in the near future on an ordinance which, if passed, will strip Second Deputy M. L. C. Funkhouser, the world's newest film clipper, of his autocratic authority over the police department.

The ordinance was introduced into the council at its last meeting prior to the summer vacation by Alderman Walter P. H. Steffen, of the twenty-first ward, and gives the first deputy of police the power of issuing permits. His authority, however, is not of the kind now vested in Major Flowers.

It provides that where a picture is judged immoral or obscene that a permit for the same cannot be refused until the picture has been submitted to a board of ten censors, none of whom shall be officials of the police department, and a majority of the board shall be of the opinion that the said picture is immoral or obscene.

It is believed by the film industry that this is the nearest approach to ideal conditions of film censoring that has yet been advanced, and the ordinance, if adopted, undoubtedly will be the heart's support of the manufacturers, distributors and exhibitors.

V.M. A. Brady Appears in “The Volunteer”

A War Play Starring Little Madge Evans

William A. Brady, president of World-Films Brady Made, will appear in the supporting cast of “The Volunteer” starring little Madge Evans and Henry Aldrich. The new picture deals with the war in a rather dramatic sense. Little Madge Evans appears as a juvenile motion picture star whose father goes to an overseas war, and other joins the Red Cross. Madge is sent to relatives in the West to be cared for by her until the return of her parents.

A novel scene in the play is Madge's farewell to her friends, motion picture actors and actresses. The scene is laid in the World studio at Fort Lee, N. J., and it is at this time that Mr. Brady takes his part in the picture. The child bids good-bye to all including electricians, grips, property men, scene painters and the like. Kitty Gordon, Ethel Clayton, June Elvidge, Evelyn Greet, Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love and Harley Knolles are among those who receive this attention from the child actress.

Mr. Brady is shown in his office where he drops all business to take the little lady on his knee and assure her that she will be a place waiting for her on her return.

Mutual Film Corporation in $400,000 Suit; New York Motion Picture Co. Is Defendant

Action Charges Breach of Contract and Asks for a Permanent Injunction, Broncho, Keystone and Domino Companies Included

A suit for $400,000 damages, charging breach of contract, has been filed against the New York Motion Picture Corporation and a group of related concerns, in the Superior Court of New York, by the Mutual Film Corporation. A permanent injunction, restraining the defendant concerns from the further circulation of various motion pictures, is also asked.

The defendants include the Broncho Motion Picture Company, the Keystone Film Company and the Domino Motion Picture Corporation.

The Mutual Film Corporation charges that the New York Motion Picture Corporation and its allied companies have violated contracts for the exclusive sale of the pictures in question to the complainant and that they have further refused to deliver additional print copies of the pictures as stipulated in the contract.

“The motion pictures involved,” said President John R. Freuler of the Mutual Film Corporation, in commenting on the suits, “include all of the pictures made for the Mutual by the defendants in the period of 1912-15, which means the old Keystone comedies, the W. S. Hart pictures of that period, the Charles Chaplin comedies made by Keystone, the early Mack Sennett comedies, and the western productions by Broncho and all Domino pictures.”

The suit is under the supervision of President Freuler and Samuel M. Field, general counsel for the Mutual Film Corporation, and is being handled in New York by John G. Turnbull, eastern counsel for the company.

Herbert Brenon Heads Movement to Supply Prisons with Plays

Herbert Brenon of the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation, has become sponsor for a nation-wide movement to supply state prisons with projection machines and a film service for the recreation of inmates.

Mr. Brenon's interest was aroused recently when he addressed the prisoners of Sing Sing prison, New York, who had gathered to witness "The Fall of the Romanoffs," the latest Brenon production. He was impressed with the interest and intelligence shown.

In letters to the wardens of the various state prisons Mr. Brenon has urged that prisoners be given motion picture entertainments regularly and told of his desire to start a fund for supplying such paraphernalia as should be needed as well as the installation of a system for the distribution of films to the prisons.

U. S. Exhibitors Corp. Gets Ince Film "Those Who Pay" as Its Second Feature

Story Written by C. Gardner Sullivan Founded on the Human Triangle—Bessie Barriscale in Leading Role—Ready in December

The U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation has selected as its second picture Thomas H. Ince's drama of romance and political intrigue, "Those Who Pay," in which Bessie Barriscale portrays the leading role.

"Those Who Pay," which is described as one of the strongest dramatic subjects ever produced by Mr. Ince, will be given to exhibitors about December 15 and will be available simultaneously in all parts of the country, both on the franchise-fixed price and open booking plans. Trade showings will take place soon in New York and other cities throughout the country in which branches of the Booking Corporation are located.

The scenario of "Those Who Pay" was written by C. Gardner Sullivan. The story is founded upon the human triangle, one man and two women, and about these characters has been woven a narrative of compelling interest, it is said, that culminates in one of the biggest dramatic scenes ever converted to the screen.

THREE SCENES FROM "THE ZEPPELIN'S LAST RAID"
New Chicago Theatres Monuments to the Industry

Modern, Well Equipped Houses of Greater Seating Capacities, Rapidly Taking Places of Old Buildings—Seven New Houses Open Their Doors

Giving the laugh to the pessimists, even new, large, modernly equipped motion picture theatres have opened their doors to the public of Chicago within the past month and judging from record attendance figures given out by the backers of the enterprises, their judgment and faith in the stability and future of the industry has been vindicated.

Not one of the new theatres cost less than a quarter of a million dollars and none of them went beyond this figure. They are all in the outlying districts of the city and, in a sense, "neighborhood" playhouses. Their style of architecture, interior decorations, seating arrangement and acoustical properties are equal to any and superior to many of the theatres devoted to legitimate stage attractions.

New West Side Theatre

In the Central Park theatre, erected at Twelfth street and Central Park avenue, Chicago has one of the most up-to-date playhouses devoted exclusively to motion picture entertainment in the country. It was built by the Amalgamated Theatres Corporation, controlled by Balaban and Katz.

The lighting effects are so arranged as to diffuse green, blue, red or an amber glow over any part of the house. Each floor has a promenade foyer with adjoining rooms, and parlors for women. The theatre seats 2,600. A fourteen-piece orchestra, augmented by a huge harp organ, supplies all that could be desired in the way of music.

On the same evening that the Central Park opened Ascher Brothers gave premier showing at their newly acquired theatre at Grand and Oakwood boulevards, named the "Peerless." It is a beautiful theatre and a credit to its owners.

Ascher Brothers' "Adelphi"

On November 15 Ascher Brothers also opened their new "Adelphi" theatre at North Clark street and Estes avenue, as is the case with the other theatres in the chain, the new house has a seating capacity of 1,540 and is equipped with the latest type of the Kimball pipe organ. Emily Stevens in "Outwitted" furnished the first attraction.

Crowds lined the sidewalk in front of the Crystal theatre, Schaefer Brothers' old theatre at 2701 West North avenue, the opening night. Douglas Fairbanks in "The Man from Painted Post" was the attraction and if the automobiles that lined the curb is any criterion its success is assured.

By a peculiar freak of fortune the new Broadway-Strand was completed so as to open the same night as the Adelphi. This theatre is a visible expression of faith in Chicago by Louis Marks, Julius Goodman, Meyer S. Marks and Louis H. Harrison. It is one of the largest motion picture theatres in the city and was built under the direction of Architect A. L. Levy. It seats 2,100 on the main and mezzanine floors.

Theatre Has Gymnasium

Two new features which may set a precedent in future theatre construction are a gymnasium for the employes and a large playroom for children. Music is provided by a fifteen-piece symphony orchestra and a massive pipe organ built by Kimball & Company.

The owners emphasize the fact that due to the wide aisles and numerous exits the theatre can be emptied in less than two minutes.

The Madison Square theatre in West Madison street, near Cierro avenue, is also a recent addition to Chicago's ever-growing list of theatres.

Still to greet the public some time during the present month or some time early in December are the Devon, now under construction by Lubliner & Trintz; the Atlantic, a new 2,000-seat house, to be added to the string of theatres owned by Herman Schoenstadt & Sons; the Woodlawn, nearly completed by the Woodlawn Theatre Company, and the Marshall Square, seating 1,800, now under construction by the owners of the Broadway-Strand.

M. H. Hoffman Donates Films for Fighters

M. H. Hoffman, general manager of M. H. Hoffman, Inc., has set an example to other film magnates. In letters sent out this week he has notified the chairman of the entertainment committee for the service clubs in New York that he would not only be glad to furnish pictures free for the entertainment of our boys in khaki and in blue, but that he would deem it a privilege to assist in this way.

American Film Co.

Engages an Artist to Title Photoplays

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film company, believes if a thing is worth doing at all it is worth doing well. To this end he has engaged an artist to turn out the effective titles that accentuate screen stories.
New York, Nov. 13.

One day last week the manager of a public projecting room was trying to sell some old comedies to a few South American buyers and as he ushered them into the darkened enclosure he spied Wally Van. The manager rubbed his hands in glee as he advanced to meet Wally. Taking him by the arm, the manager said: "Come in, Mr. Van, and see these comedies, and as you are my very good friens, for God's sake, I-ass-it a leetle!"

Pierre V. R. Key is a lineal descendant of Francis Scott Key, father of the National Anthem. Francis Scott Key wrote a hard one, but a good one. Pierre V. R. wrote a motion picture, and we pass judgment up to the reviewer.

Not long ago, a lawyer who was about to throw his hat into the motion picture ring, expanded his chest and said with true prize-fighter persiflage: "I'm going to revolutionize the picture industry and fight the old system!" After six months in the business, and following the reviewing of his first picture, he pulled Carl Morris' old stuff, "a broken ullam bone." "Twas ever thus!

Wallace Thompson is master-at-arms for the W. W. Hodginson combination and we believe he will be able to bring Kerrigan's Cuban Revolution to a successful conclusion. Hope so!

Head line! Irene Hunt's mother on the coast. The "Maternal Spark" is the play she has just finished.

In a projection room, not long ago, the M. P. reviewers were kept waiting for a long time by the "generalismo" of publicity and not even the customary excuse was given. Then the squad burst into song: "Hail! Hail! the gang's all here! We wondered at the time, but since reading the reviews we note that it doesn't pay to keep a battalion waiting when it is anxious to get into action.

Mabel Julienne Scott was at the Army and Navy bazar handling "Plug" and "Navy Cut" like a regular sailor. Mabel sold hundreds of dollars worth of tobacco and cigarettes for the Sun's Tobacco Fund, and incidentally made a tremendous hit with everybody.

Earnest Shipman says "It's a wise author that knoweth his own picture when the studio 'fixits' finish 'improv-ing' it."

We hear on every side the remark, "Isn't it regrettable that Geraldine Farrar fell down so hard in "The Woman God Forgot"?" You can't altogether throw the blame on Miss Farrar. She acted as well as she could, but was "stipped" of opportunities—and other things—and was handicapped with an uninteresting, illogical, inaccurate production.

"Buck Moe" (that's Jules Cowles) is creating another type of African, under the direction of Frank Crane in Goldwyn's coming presentation of "Thais." The character in the play is known as Ammiasir, and in the end he is put to torture. Hope they won't go too far with his scene for several other companies are after this versatile coon creator.

Oh! sighed the old actor, after he had been refused a job for the fifteen time that day. "Man was made to mourn. "Oh! royalty," says he, "was made to Knight." But, I say, "Even as the day breaks without falling, and the night falls without breaking, man was made for morning, noon and night." Off to the psycopath ward for observation!

Winsome Mary Kennedy, who played the lead in "Lucky O'Shea" at the Thirty-ninth Street theatre this season, has signed up to play the "Spirit of Water" (bottled at the spring) in Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird." Mary always was strong on that psychic stuff.

Let a little "Sunshine" in your theatre.

Just to drive the blues away.

For it will make the patrons laugh.

And come another day.

Mother's Clubs Ask

Showing of "Mother"

G. L. Tucker's Film

A request was received this week by McClure Pictures, which company is offering to state right buyers the six-part George Loane Tucker production. "Mother," from the president of the Federated Mothers' Clubs of America, asking a showing of the picture before the members of the various branches of the organization, located in the principal cities throughout the United States. In her communication the leader of the association states that the McClure picture carries a message for every woman in the land.

The McClure organization has the request under advisement and arrangements may be made, if possible, whereby Elizabeth Riddon, star of "Mother," will appear at the showings in New York City, making a short address on the subject dealt with in the Tucker feature.

INTERESTING SCENES FROM THREE MUTUAL PICTURES

William Russell in
"SNAP JUDGMENT"
American-Mutual comedy-drama; five parts; published November 19

As a whole: Fine
Story: Entertaining
Star: Splendid
Support: Capable
Settings: Very good
Photography: Excellent

Exhibitors on the lookout for good entertainment should book "Snap Judgment" and a few of the other recent Mutual comedy-dramas. They will prove of interest and of unquestionable box office value. "Snap Judgment" is fine. There is humor, mystery, suspense and thrills; wonderful photography and settings, and some good dual role material. It is just the picture for a splendid evening's entertainment.

William Russell handles a dual role to good advantage. Next in importance comes Harvey Clark, at whose antics one cannot help laughing. Francilla Billington and Adda Gleason offer excellent support, as does Charles Newton, Perry Banks, Clarence Burton, Ashton Deartholt, Ruth Everdale and "Bull" Montana. The story and direction are by Edward Sloman.

The story: On the wedding night of Mara Manning and Jimmie Page, Jimmie rescues Jed Baldwin, a cattleman, from band of thugs, and arrives at the house late and finds that Mara will have nothing to do with him; that there will be no wedding and that the guests have been sent home. He companies Jed Baldwin to Lone Star, only to find himself mistaken for Arizona Pete. Phoebe Lind, sweetheart of Arizona Pete, believes Jimmie is Pete and makes love to him, but Jimmie does not understand. Phoebe helps him to escape the sheriff and his posse, which brings him to a cave where Arizona Pete holds Mara for ransom. While the striking resemblance of the two men is noticed every one is dumb-founded. Phoebe finds she has been helping the wrong man and Mara finds that she has misjudged Jimmie, because she believed the man who held up the stage on which she and her father were going to Lone Star was Jimmie, and that he was playing a trick on them. With knowledge comes forgiveness and a happy ending.

Ann Murdock in
"PLEASE HELP EMILY"

Settings: Good
Photography: Excellent

With more productions along the line of "Please Help Emily" exhibitors should have little difficulty in finding the sort of pictures that will relieve the minds of spectators from war-time worries. It is brimming of good entertainment and clean fun and is the sort of picture that every exhibitor should be able to make use of.

Ann Murdock is proving more and more her capabilities and developing a certain charm that should win audiences. She is ably supported by Rex McDougall. Ferdinand Gotts-

"FRANCE IN ARMS"
Pathé war film; five reels; published November 11

This picture, as the name indicates, is the story of France's role to meet the invasion of her soil by the Huns. Every feature of her military preparation is covered in the five reels. Clear-cut photography for which Pathé is to be congratulated. For this class of a picture it is an excellent piece of work and should meet with success.

In minute detail the picture outlines the training of the men from the time he reports as a raw recruit until he becomes the finished soldier. A charge by the French forces over the top of a trench, photographed at 6 a.m., is one of the features which stands out.

Development of the airplane and artillery branches, from 914 to the present time, as well as views of munition plants, are also shown in the picture.

her husband to know of Emily's escapade, tells him that Emily is staying with her aunt, who has the mumps. Trotters is told of the story and in order to make it good plans to take Emily to her aunt's home. They stop at a hotel for luncheon, Emily has cold feet and business with Trotters is stopped. She will not leave the hotel until it is found. Julia, the fiancee of Trotters, decides to visit the sick aunt. She is accompanied by Threadgold, a nervous little body in love with Emily. Their machine is stolen and both Threadgold and Trotters are at the hotel at which Trotters and Emily are staying. Aunt Geraldine follows and they are all arrested for abducting Emily, but through the efforts of Lethbridge all are released. Julia marries Threadgold and in order to avoid a scandal Emily has to marry Trotters, not that either objects.

Madge Evans in
"THE ADVENTURES OF CAROL"
World child-drama; five parts; published November 12

An ideal production for young and old alike. A pretty story brings out the artistry of little Madge Evans, the talented child star. She will creep into the hearts of spectators because her charm and her looks. Julia, the organ grinder, registering the right expression at the right time and doing it with a polish that of which few can boast. On the whole, "The Adventures of Carol" should prove successful wherever run. Supporting cast includes Carl MacQuarrie, Rosina Henley, Kate Lester and Jack Drumier.

The story: Carol, learning that her grandmother is ill, decides to pay her a visit, but gets lost, and, after escaping from a policeman's watch, finds herself in Beppo's. The other policeman has taken her, she falls into the hands of Beppo, an organ grinder. The organ grinder, seeing a way to make capital of what he believes to be Carol's desire for adventure, takes her to the South, where she dances for him. One day she wanders away from Beppo and arrives at the Fairview plantation and because she so strongly resembles her daughter Mrs. Fairfax takes her in. Carol would like to go home to her mother, but she had promised her father, an army officer, never to tell her name or address, because he had impressed upon her that she must beware of spies. Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax have disagreed because Mr. Fairfax had disowned his daughter when she married against his wishes. They have not spoken for ten years, but a childish prank of Carol's breaks the silence. Carol has been traced to the Fairfax plantation and the arrival of Carol's mother and father brings a happy reconciliation between parents and daughter.

William Farnum in
"WHEN A MAN SEES RED"
Fox drama; seven parts; published October 7

Many things enter into making "When a Man Sees Red," which stands out as an excellent production. A good story, a star who does his work well, supported by a capable cast. The settings have been chosen with care and the photography is very good. Undoubtedly this Standard Fox production will find favor with the majority of picture patrons.

Jewel Carmen in the role of The Painted Lady offers Mr. Farnum's character some romantic interest. The other members of the cast are Lulu May Bower, Cora Drew, G. Raymond Nye, villain de luxe, Marc Robbins and A. Burt Wenser. Larry Evans' story, "The Painted Lady," is the foundation for this production. The direction is by Frank Lloyd.

The story: After a long sea voyage, Larry Smith comes home to find his sister dead, the victim of some unknown poison. Shortly after his mother's funeral, Larry sets sail with a determination to wreak vengeance on the murderer. Unknowingly he becomes a mate to Sutton, the man who ruined his sister. At a South Sea port, Smith meets Violet North, a girl in love with the painter in love with her and proposes, but she will not marry him because of her past, and the next day sets sail with the rest of her party. Logan, one of the "dogs" on Sutton's vessel, was a witness to Sutton's attack on the Smith girl and for this reason Sutton sails away leaving Logan on shore alone. He meets Smith and tells him the tale. Smith and Logan search the islands for a trace of the man. A storm arises and Violet, aboard a yacht, is tossed up on the island occupied by Smith. Sutton tries to drown him, but is shot by tournament. Smith and Logan search the island, the latter finds Smith and he attacks Sutton. The fight results in Sutton's death. Violet nurses Smith back to health and sanity.

If in advertising this timely Fox production exhibitors will play upon the sympathies of patriotic audiences there is little doubt but what the S. R. O. sign will hang out at the beginning of each show. With the exception of about one reel, the entire play concerns patriotism and recruiting, handled in an enjoyable manner, making it an entertaining propaganda picture. June Caprice in the title role is petite and is offered good support by William Courtleigh, Jr. Frank Ross, Topher Brogan, and Perley Russell. The cast is by Randolph C. Lewis and direction of Harry Hilliard.

The story: At the death of his brother's wife, Gabriel Lenoir bribes the nurse to kill her newborn infant. The nurse, deciding not to carry out her mother's wishes, takes the baby with the baby goes to New York. After sixteen years she returns and tells Major Warfield, an uncle of June's, her history and her whereabouts. The uncle adopts the girl and she makes her home with the major, where she meets Herbert Grayson, and the young folks fall in love. War is declared and Herbert is sent to trace German spies. One day June, learning of her sweetheart's appointment, decides to do some service for him. She masquerades as a German maid and finds the Major tells of his taking the fortune to which June is heir his punishment is twofold. June and Herbert become engaged and as the picture closes Herbert and the boys are seen on their way to the front.

Douglas Fairbanks in "REACHING FOR THE MOON"
Arclight comedy-drama; five parts; published November 19

As a whole: Good
Story: Good
Star: Good
Support: Good
Settings: Good
Photography: Good
The Fairbanks' smile and other Fairbanksian specialties are all in "Reaching for the Moon." Undoubtedly this will prove just as likeable and popular as any of his previous productions. The story is a little out of the ordinary for a Fairbanks picture and provides good entertainment. Percy has a pleasing role and other members of the cast carry their parts well.

The story: Alexis Napoleon Caesar Brown learns that his mother is a great princess from the province of Vulgaris, but an outcast because she didn't marry royal blood. Alexis believes that if one concentrates on one thing long enough it will come true. He is especially concentrating on the idea that some day he will become the king of Vulgaris. He tells his ambitions to the girl of his dreams, who is termed "the patient listener." After one of his conferences with his patient sweet heart he goes home and dreams that he is king of Vulgaris. On all sides his life is threatened by Boris, who aspires to the throne. Arrangements are made for him to marry the Princess Valentina, but after one glance at her he is ready to run away. However, he is especially concentrating on the idea of becoming necessary for him to fight a duel with Boris, his rival. Alexis, not knowing how to use a sword, puts up a poor fight and after a short struggle is sent flying down a steep precipice. It grows deeper and deeper until Alexis awakens to find himself falling out of bed. He is cured of his desire and is happy in a little home in Jersey, with the "patient listener" as Mrs. Alexis Napoleon Caesar Brown and a little two-year old to pass the time with.
"THE ZEPPELIN'S LAST RAID"
Thos. H. Ince-U. S. Exhibitors' feature; seven parts; published state rights

"The Zepplin's Last Raid," as an artistic offering, reflects unlimited credit on Thos. H. Ince and his photographer. Steel engravings show no more careful etchings nor excellent choice of subjects than does this picture. The cutting of the film shows the mastery of an artist that we wish might edit all pictures. "The Last Raid" is not only entertaining, thrilling and gripping, but is instructive as well, for it shows the Zeppelin in action during a raid. The scenes are well chosen and the direction is superb. Howard Trimble and Alfred Markey are both excellent, and the supporting cast is good and the work impressive throughout.

In the story, the scene of the play is laid in the town of Brushaven, where Louise Bracher deplores the loss of lives for a cause she cannot uphold. Her fiancé, Alfred Brandt, is in command of the L-Z. 7 and has been most successful in the raids against the shipping centers of the enemy. Alfred is a fine man who has no thought beyond his emperor's orders. Louise joins the secret society of the Liberty Cross and pledges herself to help end the war. When Brandt comes home on furlough she takes him to a meeting of the society and converts him to the cause. He promises to work for liberty, and at the hour appointed instead of attacking another town he destroys the Zeppelin and sacrifices his own life to the cause of humanity.

There is every reason to believe that "The Kill-Joy" will be enjoyed by motion picture spectators. It has a brilliant and charming star in the lead, is an enjoyable story and has been worked up in an appealing manner with its little touches of pathos and humor that make such pictures worthwhile.

An excellent cast of players, including Granville Bates, James Fulton, James West, William F. Clifton, U. K. Houp, Chris Pino and Patrick Calhoun, support Little Mary. The story is by Mortimer Peck.

The story: Billie and her father are westward bound for the town of Contentment, but a short distance from the town death overtakes the father and Billie is left alone. She is found by Bob and as Contentment is a town in which there are no female inhabitants, Bob smuggles Billie into his cabin. His suspicions arise among the other members of the camp and when they find the youngsters they are angry. Billie's winsome smiles, however, win the friendship of the "Crab," who goes to the Indians and asks them to kidnap the pale face. After they have done so, the "Crab" becomes remorseful and starts out to rescue her. In the meantime the men discover that Billie is missing and the men set out to search for her. They meet Billie and the "Crab" returning and decide to hang the "Crab." Billie's pleadings save the "Crab" and he proudly becomes one of the "fathers."

Roy Stewart in "THE MEDICINE MAN"
Triangle drama; five parts; published November 11

An average picture, probably not suitable for first class audiences and yet entertaining setting and atmosphere to make it fairly enjoyable. There are some very good fight scenes, the settings have been well chosen and the photography is clear. The cast includes Roy Stewart, assisted by Ann Kroner, Percy H. Chittenden, Aaron Edwards, Carl Ulman and Wilbur Higbee. The story is by Jack Cuningham and direction by Cliff Smith. Percy Chittenden's characterization of a sheriff's deputy is unaffected and humorous.

The story: Doc Hamilton and Edith Strang, whom he found in the deserts with her dead mother and father, arrive in the town of El Dorado to dispose of some quack medicine. Edith is heir to the Queen Bonanza mine, which is rich in ore and which Joe Malone is anxious to gain possession of. Lion, in the town and Joe is routed. Upon the return of Hamilton, Joe and he quarrel over possession of the mine and Edith. The sheriff, learning of it, arrives in time to get all the evidence and bring the two crooks to justice. Edith, now a rich young lady, prepares to go to school, but when the stage breaks down not far from the sheriff's home, realizes she would rather be Mrs. Sheriff and so returns.

AUNTIE'S TRIUMPH

Film D'Art Corporation's comedy; two parts; state rights

"Auntie's Triumph" is a clean, rural comedy, bright and amusing. It deals with the struggle to establish temperance in a little mountain town. The story contains a series of mix-ups, calamities, jokes and entertaining incidents that guarantee good fun. The cast is capable and includes Jeanne Hall, Albert Roccard, Philip Robson, Chas. Ascott, Aurora Wells, Harry Gould.

The story: Aunt Kate, the leader of the temperance movement, does not know that her husband is boss of the moonshine still in the mountains. She gives information against the still and gets the men in trouble. Uncle Ted has a hard time getting away from the revenue officers. Auntie suspects Ted is behaving guiltily, and one of Ted's helpers plays burglar so that Ted can win his wife through his bravery.

AN AMUSING SITUATION FROM THE COMEDY, "AUNTIE'S TRIUMPH." (Film D'Art Corp.)

He takes the burglar to the station, so he tells his wife, and the men have a poker game, during which Ted slips away, angering the other men. In order to still further placate his wife, Ted speaks at her temperance meeting. His helper pours whiskey into the drinking water, and all are indisposed the following morning as a result. Auntie's admiration for her husband, however, has been fully restored, so Ted is happy.

Story: Fair
Star: Likable
Support: Adequate
Settings: Fairly good
Photography: Agreeable

Although "Her Bargain" starts out along new lines, it drops into the beaten track of countless other photoplays, with city villains who lure country girls by promising to make them great actresses. The villain in "Her Bargain," however, dies before the bargain is completed. The success of the production will depend on the class of audiences being catered to. The story does not contain the wholesomeness one might anticipate after reading the press notices sent broadcast when the star severed her connections with one of the producing companies.

The story: Mrs. Stanton, an overambitious mother, insists in her daughter the idea that she is somewhat better than any other person in the small town in which they live, and both are delighted when the opportunity presents itself for Irma to go to the city to visit her rich aunt. The aunt tries to correct the girl's wrong impressions and when she finds Irma, scantily clad, dancing for society, she sends her home. Instead of going home, Irma tries to get a position as an actress. She falls into the hands of Vincent Henderson, who promises to make her a star if she will do her share. Irma's mother becomes ill and dies, but Irma knows nothing about it because Henderson has withheld the telegrams. Mr. Stanton and Irma's sweetheart, author of the play in which Irma is to star, come to the city in search of Irma. They trace Irma and Henderson to the Hilltop Inn. Henderson puts Irma into his machine and they endeavor to escape. In rounding a curve the car skids and falls down a steep precipice. Henderson is killed, but Irma is only slightly injured. There is forgiveness and happiness all around.

The improvement in recent Triangle productions is quite noticeable. "Up or Down" is an interesting story well told. George Hernandez contributes plenty of farce, with the balance of the cast doing good work. The subtleties are fine and the photography good. "Up or Down" should go over well. In the supporting cast are Fritzie Ridgeway, Jack Gilbert, Elwood Randall, Jack Curtis, Graham Metts and E. Burns. The story and direction are by Lynn E. Reynolds.

The story: Just out of prison, with a shaved head, a new suit of clothes and five dollars, Mike becomes the "pard" of Allen Cory, an author with worn-out ideas. They go west and in their fortunes gives them home and position. Mike becomes a cow-puncher and Cory tries to find new ideas for a story. In order to provide regular Western atmosphere Mike does a good deal of robbing and takes his loot. He then lures "Texas" Jack to the spot and makes it possible for Allen to capture the bandits. The rest of the cowboys arrive and Texas Jack and his companions are taken to prison. After Mike finds that Esther Heaton has promised to become Allen's wife, he goes down to the prison and releases the men who helped him so much. Allen's book is a success and there is happiness all around.

The patrons at Chicago's Boston theater, catering to mixed audience, found enjoyment in the denouement of the story of "Outwitted" and undoubtedly many other patrons would consider this in the same light. The story is different from the average run of pictures and from this standpoint, together with the fact that Emily Stevens plays the leading role, makes it good entertainment.

Earl Fox, Frank Currier and Paul Everton are member of the supporting cast. Direction is by George D. Baker.

The story: In order to save her brother, an escaped convict, from going back to prison, Nan Kennedy undertakes to rob the safe of John Lawson and secure some stock information for Farragut. Lawson finds Nan and instead of turning over her to the police, he asks her for a year of her life if she still believes guilty of winning his life. Nan enters society and wins the love of Harry Bond. The are married and at the reception following, Lawson tells the story of Nan's past to avenge himself on Bond's father, who also believes guilty of winning his life. When it is revealed, Nan leaves. After many months Bond goes to Lawson with the intention of killing him. He then learns that he is Lawson's son. Harry is heartbroken to find his father of such a nature and Lawson is remorseful for the treatment of the Heaton family. Nan has inflicted on her own son. Harry becomes seriously ill and the presence of Nan, it is thought, will save his life. Lawson goes to Nan and begs her pardon and pleads with her to come to Harry, who does it and the story ends happily.

Photography.............................................Satisfying

Monroe Salisbury is deserving of the highest praise for the manner in which he portrays the character of a half-bred "The Savage." His work stands out above the other members of the cast, and it is quite probable that previous Bluebird productions and undoubtedly where this kind of pictures is run will meet with success. The supporting cast includes Ruth Clifford, Colleen Moore, Allen Sears, H. H. Ascroft, Charles Humphreys, and George Franklin and Duke Lee. Direction by Rupert Julian.

The story: Marie Louise is engaged to Captain McCree, but Julio Sanfowlo, a half-bred, loves Marie Louise and one day carries her off to his cabin in the mountains, etc.

This is a good production for discriminating and mixed audiences and particularly adaptable for children's programs. The "Little Princess" is especially suitable as a Christmas offering.

It is an adapted story based upon "Sarah Crewe," Frances Hodgson Burnett's child's book. Throughout it is well handled and gives Miss Pickford an opportunity to play the role of a beautiful Egyptian slave girl.

To Mary Pickford and Zasu Pitts tall the comedy and athmos. Other members of the cast are Norman Kerry, Anncherer, Katherine Griffith, Wm. E. Lawrence, Theodore Roeth, Gerarde Short, and Gustava Bestreytz. The scenario is by Frances Marion and direction by Marshall Neilan.

The story: Sara Crewe is treated as a little princess at the Minchin boarding school for children until it is learned that her father has lost his entire fortune and she is made a slave. She and Becky, another slave, become close friends and share each other's joys and sorrows. Christ as times draws near and the little slaves are watching the preparations wistfully. Their loneliness has aroused the sympathy of rich Mr. Carmichael's servant. On the night before Christmas he prepares a little spread for the slaves in their room. He calls his master's attention to the joy and both are witnesses to the scene of the slaves being abused and hipped by Miss Minchin. Carmichael interfere and learners at Sara is the daughter of his best friend. He adopts Sara and Becky and in their new and luxurious home they have a

VALENTINE GRANT ACTS NEW TYPE

The Sidney Olcott production, "The Belgian," revealing Grant in another of her characterizations, is the most mischievously entertaining of any to the screen or stage. Miss Grant's familiarity with Belgium is due to having spent several months in that unhappy country before the opening of the world war.

Miss Grant is now studying a part for the next Olcott production which will be as novel as the one she just finished with Walker Whiteside.

"The Cricket" is a photoplay that can be used to advantage for a children's program. Its pleasing story will also prove interesting to grown-ups. There is pathos and humor well wrought into the story. Zoe Rae is cast as the feminine lead, supported by Rena Rogers, Fred Warren, Harry Holden, Winter Hall, George Hupp, Hall Cooke and Gretchen Loderer. The direction is by Elsie Jane Wilson.

The story of her mother, The Cricket is cared for by Saveline, Caesar and Pinglet, three actors. Following years of hard struggle, the actors become wealthy and plan that The Cricket shall marry the son of a wealthy banker. But The Cricket loves Pascal, an actor, and when her guardians will not give their consent she leaves them and marries Pascal. This precipitates a break between the three men and for a number of years they are estranged. Pascal and his wife are appearing at the local playhouse and the three men decide to attend the performance. An usher brings a little girl, strongly resembling The Cricket when she was young, into the audience and signs her in. He then signs her to a sense of the garden where in their poverty the four had spent so many happy days. The other two actors are invited, as well as Pascal and Mrs. Pascal. There follows a happy reunion.

"COUSINS"

Film D'Art Corporation's comedy; two parts; state rights
"Cousins" is a bright, patriotic comedy that is pleasing and novel. The story is crisp and the action is quick. The photography is excellent and the film well tinted. The cast does fine work, and altogether the picture is thoroughly amusing.

The story: Aunt Kitty loves her country so devotedly that she is called "Patriotic Auntie." Her cousin Janie announces that Charlie Squiggles is on his way home to marry Janie object, because she insists that Charlie is a slacker. She refuses to allow him to come to the house. Uncle Ted, an officer in the Home Guard, is very fond of Janie, so he makes it appear that Charlie has come home to join the Guard. Auntie does not recognize the patriot as Janie's sweetheart and treats him royally. Auntie organizes a company of women and begins drilling the next day. The men all desert Ted's ranks and join the ladies. The Major arrives in time to save the day and they inspire everyone with a sense of what he owes his country that the personal differences between Ted and Auntie are forgotten.

Norma Talmadge's Third Select Play
Based on Rupert Hughes' Stage Play

Norma Talmadge began work on October 31 at her New York City studio on the third of her series of Select Pictures. This is a screen version of the play by Rupert Hughes, "Two Women."

The name of the new picture will be "The Ghosts of Yesterday," it will be directed by Charles Miller and presented by Joseph M. Schenck.

In support of Miss Talmadge will appear Eugene O'Brien, in the leading masculine role, Stuart Holmes, Ida Darling and John Daly Murphy.

The photoplay gives Miss Talmadge an opportunity to play two different roles, first as the seamstress who redeems a young waster from a spendthrift life and a suicide's grave, marries him, and dies just as he meets his success, and later as the Parisian singer, who resembles the dead wife and yet is so unlike her in nature.

"Babes in Woods" Issue Date Changed

"The Babes in the Woods," one of the William Fox Standard Pictures, which had been set for publication November 18, has, according to an announcement from the Fox offices, the postponed until the 10th of December, making it a holiday week offering. The reason given for the change is that another Standard Picture, Theda Bara, in "The Rose of Blood," has been completed and was published November 1.

Goldwyn Announces Forthcoming Plays for Madge Kennedy and Mae Marsh

Madge Kennedy is to be the means of introducing another arrival to the screen. Miss Kennedy’s new picture will be based on “Oh, Mary, Be Careful,” the novel by George Weston, a writer whose stories have never yet been put into scenario form.

It was while Miss Kennedy was finishing the last weeks’ work on “Nearly Married” that she learned the title and the authorship of her next picture.

She has chosen all her costumes for “Oh, Mary, Be Careful,” the first settings have been made at the Goldwyn Studio and work has already begun on a few of the episodes. Mae Marsh is completing the final scenes of “The Cinderella Man,” a Goldwyn production drawn from the stage success of Edward Childs Carpenter and the young star will begin immediate preparations for her next screen vehicle. Her new picture will be “The Beloved Traitor,” a playphoto from the novel by Frank Packard.

Since Director George Loane Tucker is giving all this time to the cutting and editing of “The Cinderella Man,” a director new to Goldwyn, William Worthington, will take charge of the next Marsh picture. E. A. Thurston will be assistant director and George Hill is cameraman.

A Letter From a Soldier in France
Topps Salutes Mutual News Weekly

An interesting letter from an American soldier boy in France to his mother, illustrated by a dozen beautiful pictures, is a subject in No. 150 of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly, which was issued Sunday, November 12. This illustrated letter will do considerable to show the actual life of our boys who are training in France.

Among the other few motion pictures which have been made of the Rev. “Billy” Sunday shows the famous evangelist starting his $30,000,000 drive for the Army Y. M. C. A. “Billy” says he is going to France to preach to the boys in the trenches.

Among the other war subjects in this issue of the Mutual Weekly are the dedication of the “Liberty” shipyard, at Quan- tum, Mass., which cost $25,000,000; coming from Hawaii, an infantry regiment pauses at San Francisco for its first stop on the way to Germany; at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, the trial of the sixty-three negro soldiers of the 24th Infantry begins.

Montagu Love in World War Story

The invasion of Belgium by the German hordes at the beginning of the war plays a very important part in the new World-Picture Brady-Made of which Montagu Love is the star. The play has not been named as yet, but sufficient information is available to indicate that the present production is quite the largest yet undertaken by Mr. Brady and his associates. A figure of eminence in the Roman Catholic Church is impersonated by Mr. Love.

New Navy Yard Show

“The Marionettes” Title Now Clear,
Is Begun by Clara Kimball Young

Clara Kimball Young has begun work on “The Marionettes,” which is to be Miss Young’s first picture under her own management, but due to a misunderstanding with Charles Frohman estate interests who claimed that they owned and controlled the American rights to the play, it was necessary to supersede it with “Mafouda” and “Shirley Kaye.” The question of screen rights to the play has now been fully established and settled with the French Authors’ Association, and Miss Young will produce “The Marionettes” as her third of the year.

The supporting cast will include Nigel Barrie, Alexander Francis and Corliss Gillis, who appeared with Miss Young in “Shirley Kaye,” which marked Mr. Gillis’ first appearance on the screen. Miss Young’s picture will also appear her father and mother. Emile Chautard has been engaged to direct “The Marionettes.”
Mutual Meets Demand for Comedies
With “Snap Judgment” Starring Russell and “Please Help Emily” Ann Murdock

The demand on the part of the American public for comedy in their entertainment is met in the Mutual schedule for the week of November 19 when “Snap Judgment,” starring William Russell, and “Please Help Emily,” featuring Ann Murdock, will be published. The schedule carries also a one reel Strand comedy, a one reel Cub comedy, a two reel serial and a one reel tropical.

In “Snap Judgment,” an American-Mutual production, William Russell is given an opportunity to display his versatility in a comedy role as well as his prowess as a fighter. The story begins with the ending of Jimmie’s romance when e fails to arrive for his own wedding. He goes to Arizona, is sweetheart learns that Jimmie was not at fault, and the postponed nuptials are staged.

In the supporting cast are Francesca Billington, Harvey Lark, Adda Gleason, Charles Newton, Clarence Burton and the Ruth Everdale. Edward Slieman wrote and directed the story.

“Please Help Emily,” the role of willful girl, who eluding the guardianship of prudish friends, makes refuge in the apartment of an admirer in the wee hours of the morning. Supporting Miss Murdock are Jules Raourt, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Amy Verness and Grace Carle. Dell Henderson directed.

In “A Maid to Order,” little Billie Rhodes and Jay Buseco present a merry mix-up. Jay gets initiated into a lodge and Billie puts the finishing touches to the job. It will be available November 29. November 22 marks the publication of “Jerry’s Victory,” a one reel Cub comedy with George Ovey.

Perfection Pictures Through Essanay to Issue Four Plays in Two Months

Four new comedy-dramas are ready for publication by Essanay late in November and in December, in addition to the usual weeklies and other pictures that are published monthly. Little Mary McAlister is featured in two of the plays; Taylor Holmes in another, and Jack Gardner in the fourth. The first is “The Kill-Joy,” featuring Little Mary. The picture deals with a group of confirmed woman-haters who have founded a village and passed laws making hanging the penalty for bringing a person of the opposite sex into the town. One of the woman-haters finds Little Mary lost in the desert, and finally she wins the heart of every one. The issue date is November 26.

“Gift o’ Gab,” featuring Jack Gardner, details the adventures of an ambitious young man who can talk most anyone into anything. The issue date is November 26.

The third comedy-drama, “The Mall-Town Guy.” It was adapted from the magazine story, “The Picture of Innocence,” by Freeman Tilden. It is the story of an unsophisticated village hotel clerk lured to the city by a gang of crooks who use him as a tool.

Another picture featuring Little Mary McAlister is to be published on December 24. It is entitled “Sadie Goes to Heaven,” adapted from the Good Housekeeping Magazine story of the same name, by Dana Burnet.

These features are all Perfection Pictures, released through the George Kleine System.

Mme. Markova, Russian Actress,
Makes Her Debut as Fox Star

“The Painted Madonna,” with Mme. Sonia Markova, the Russian actress, will be published on November 11. The 14 member of the Fox forces portrays the character of a child who goes to Paris as a small girl, becomes a popular member of the chorus, develops into a woman of the world, known widely as the Black Nightingale, and eventually reforms, turning her palatial home into a refuge for homeless girls.

The cast includes Sidney Mason, William Lampe, David Belkin, Albert Tayermier, Anita Nararo, Edith Reeves and Alla Stuart.

The story is by George M. Scarborough and the picture was directed by A. C. Lund and photographed by Joseph Ruttenberg.

THE P. A.'S CRITICISM

Terry Ramsay, Mutual Pub. chief, after a screen examination of a picture rejected by Mutual last week, was beseached by the worthy sponsor of the unworthy fil-um for an opinion. Says Terry: “Rather strikes me as if it ought to be an advertisement for the Soo Line, inasmuch as it starts nowhere, end nowhere, and there being nothing much to see en route.”

The said T. R. being a very able-bodied citizen, there are, fortunately, no casualties to report.

HURRAH FOR WINNIE!

W. R. Shuehan, G. M. of the Fox Film Corp., has made the following suggestion to Walter Sanford, general publicity director: “I believe stories for newspapers issued by m. p. companies at the present time are over written and carry too many words and too few facts. Therefore, let Fox Film set a good example and hereafter make three sticks, or three hundred words, the limit for our news stories. Editors will appreciate our desire to give them genuine items of news interest tersely and accurately.” But why make newspapers an exception?

Mutual’s Subsidiary Corporations Declare Important Dividends and Stock Redemptions

Freuler Enterprises—Lone Star, Lincoln and States Films Companies—Pay Large Profits to Stockholders

Three of the Mutual Film Corporation's subsidiary and allied corporations have declared important dividends and stock redemptions, involving large sums in profits paid over to stockholders in these Freuler enterprises.

The Lone Star Corporation, the concern which produced the Mutual-Chaplin comedies, through the office of John R. Freuler, president, announces for November 10 the redemption of 10 per cent of the preferred stock outstanding at $100, plus the preferred stock dividends at 7 per cent accrued to date. This means that approximately two-thirds of the preferred stock has been redeemed by the corporation, including the payment of the 10 per cent redemption premium and the payment of the 7 per cent dividends. Meanwhile, the Mutual-Chaplin comedies have a long period in which to work and take profits. "The marked success of the Mutual-Chaplin project has contributed largely to the present sound condition of the Mutual Film Corporation," observed Mr. Freuler.

Another Mutual subsidiary, the Lincoln Film Corporation, the corporation financing the production of the Helen Holm comedy, entitled "A Lass of the Lumberlands," has redeemed 10 per cent of the outstanding preferred stock at $100, plus the accrued 7 per cent dividends. The serial continues looking at a satisfactory rate.

The States Film Corporation, the Mutual subsidiary concerned with the Helen Holm comedies, together with the first of her Mutual efforts, announces the payment of a 2 per cent dividend on the common stock, all of the preferred issue having long since been redeemed.

M. P. EXPOSITION POSTERS CHOSEN

Lawrence L. Wilbur and Fred Ma Dan, both of New York City, tied for honors in the national competition for the best poster submitted for the Motion Picture Exposition to be held in Grand Central Palace, New York, February 2 to 10, 1918. More than sixty artists competed and after the process of elimination by the judging committee the contest for the $100 in gold first prize was between the above mentioned pair.

There were six members on the committee and so excellent were both designs that three members favored one and three the other artist. When the deadlock resulted, the two artists were consulted and told that they might toss a coin and that the winner would receive the $100 in gold and the loser an additional prize of $75 in gold. The artists, however, preferred to split the prize money and each accepted $75, neither being awarded the decision.

Both posters will be used in advertising matter booming the exposition. Artist Wilbur's drawing in striking colors shows a director and camera man in action in a manner that instantly catches the eye. Mr. Ma Dan's sketch is equally as attractive, but along different lines. He depicts a healthy little baby wearing an army hat and representing the youngest of the greatest industries, seated on a weather vane and pointing "Over There." It is symbolic of the fact that the motion picture camera and the film reach everywhere on the four points of the compass.

Walter J. Moore and George J. Cooke, members of the Supply and Equipment Division of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, will donate the cost of printing thousands of posters made from the two designs. Mr. Moore is vice-president of the Hand Mover Litho Graphic Company, and Mr. Cooke is president of the Alpha Lithographic Company.

NEW ORLEANS THEATERS TO TAKE FIRST NATIONAL FILMS

That New Orleans is becoming an important distributing center for motion picture productions is evidenced by the announcement that eighty of the important theaters in that section will receive the services of the First National Exhibitors’ Circuit. The association is represented by New Orleans by E. V. Richards, Jr., general manager of the Scaiger Amusement Company.

Twelve Universal Companies Producing Comedies and Dramas at Coast Plants

Mae Murray in "Face Value"; Dorothy Phillips in "Broadway Love" and Franklyn Farnum in "The Catamount" Will Under Way for Bluebird Program

Ten companies are now engaged at Universal City making five-reel productions for the Bluebird and Butterfly programs and two organizations are working on serials. These subjects will not reach the screen until the early part of next year, for both programs are complete until the end of December.

"Face Value" will be published Dec. 24, as Mae Murray's second Bluebird. Director Robert Z. Leonard is producing "The Eternal Columbine" for Miss Murray from a scenario by H. Sheridan Bickers.

Farnum in "The Catamount"

Joseph De Grasse is directing Franklyn Farnum in a Bluebird to be entitled "The Catamount." Edith Johnson becomes Mr. Farnum's leading lady in this feature, which includes Fred Montague, Charles Miles and H. Morris Foster.

Rupert Julian's production of "The Highest Bid" is being made at Seven Oaks, Cal., with Ruth Clifford in the star role and Monroe Salisbury her leading man.

Elmer Jane Wilson is also at Seven Oaks with Ella Hall, and Emory Johnson is directing them in "Green Magic." Gretchin Lederer, Winter Hall, Harry Holden and F. A. Warren are in the supporting company.

Another Harry Carey

Production has just begun on a Harry Carey. Butterfly, "Back to the Right Trail." Molly Malone will play opposite "Cheyenne" Harry Carey. Veiga Pegg, Helen Wright and Martha Mattox.

Wolves of the North" is being produced by Edward J. Le Saint, with Louise Lovely figuring in the stellar role. In the supporting company will be Harry Hoxie, Betty Schade, Alfred Allen and an unknown.

Elmer Clifton is directing Herbert Rawlinson, with Sally Starr heading the support in "The Love Chain." In the company are Clarissa Selaine, M. K. Wilson, Neal Hart and Sam De Grasse.

Two New Serials

Douglas Gerrard has returned to directing and is now doing "Madam Spy," with Jack Mulhall and Donna Drew leading a company that includes Maud Emery, Claire Du Brey and Wadsworth Harris.

Universal serials now in process of production are "The Mystery Ship," with Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber, directed by Harry Harvey, and "The Bull's Eye," with Eddie Polo and Vivian Reed.

Jack Voshell Will Assist Director

Jack Voshell, who acted as assistant director under Joseph Kaufman, while filming "Shirley Kaye," Clara Kimball Young's latest picture, has been engaged by Harry I. Garrison to assist Emile Chautard, the French director, in Miss Young's future releases.

Cleveland Exhibitors

Face Heavy Losses
From Admission Tax

Falling off in receipts of from 10 to 25 percent as a result of the war tax, as reported by the exhibitors of Cleveland in an informal meeting this week celebrating the opening of their new headquarters.

It was determined, however, to abide by their original decision to make no increase in admission prices for at least a month in the hope that the official reports will work to the ultimate withdrawal of the tax.

The tax of 15 cents a reel also was discussed by the exhibitors but no action was taken. It was decided to invite the representatives of the various exchanges to attend a joint meeting to see if such understanding satisfactory to both could not be reached.

Hiller and Wilk Sell

the Southern Rights

to "Raffles" Feature

The Special Features Company of Knoxville, Tenn., has purchased the first block of territory for the newest open market production, "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," in which John Barrymore is starred. This includes Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee.

This is the first time in the experience of Hiller and Wilk, the selling agents, that the Southern territory of any production was sold before any other part of the country. The sale was closed prior to any other advertising matter appearing in any of the trade papers. This verifies the contention of Hiller and Wilk that the wide interest in "Raffles" as a play and novel has greater publicity possibilities than the majority of pictures on the market today.

The state right buyers who have seen "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman" state it is one of the few excellent films now on the market.

Charlotte, World's Champion Woman Skater
Completes First Commonwealth Picture

Name of the Production Hinges on Outcome of Contest.

Chicago Ice Skating Arena One of Big Scenes in Novel Photoplay

The Commonwealth Pictures Corporation has finished filming its first production in six reels with Charlotte, the noted woman fancy ice skater, and is now practically ready to begin marketing its product.

The picture has not been named as yet. A contest has been conducted for selecting a title, with a prize of $100 to the winner. Several thousand suggestions have been submitted, and are now being considered by judges.

Plans are early under way. It is very likely that a star of equal magnitude will be used in the second picture.

The story, which so far has been portrayed in the picture just finished is patriotism and war, and involves the perfecting of an important war invention and the efforts of a group of young patriots. This affords opportunities for thrilling action, in which Charlotte, as an all around athlete, takes a prominent part. A part of the action takes place in the Chicago ice skating arena, where Charlotte is given an opportunity to introduce into the picture many fancy skating stunts that have made her famous as a skater. A part of the ice arena action took place at a Red Cross benefit at which fully 14,000 persons were present and photographs were taken.

In one scene several wireless apparatuses were used. Permission to install and use these had to be obtained from the government and a representative of the government was present to see that no outside messages were sent

“A Maid to Order”—November 20 (one-reel Strand comedy, with Billie Rhodes and Jay Belasco).—Billie, in search of a maid, finds Jay cleaning streets. Billie, who seeks a divorce, positions as a butler, but Jay, who is merely being initiated into the Royal Good Fellows Lodge, refuses. After the job is finished, a banquet is given and the boys go out for a good time. Tim, a sleepy policeman, becomes their victim and Jay falls into the hands of the irate man. He rushes to the back door of Billie’s home and for protection she makes him do the butler’s work. Billie’s sister recognizes Jay; he drops his serving tray and Tom is on his way, and Tim being entertained by the cook. A real maid and butler arrive in time to restore peace.

“Jerry’s Victory”—November 22 (one-reel Horsley comedy, with George Ovey).—Jerry is a welcome visitor at the home of his girl and things go along nicely until she meets Flashy Joe. His automobile impresses the girl and she casts Jerry aside. Jerry decides to get even and after being knocked out twice by Joe succeeds in overcoming his victim. The girl happening along and seeing what a hero Jerry is, Jerry is immediately restored to favor.

FOX

“The Painted Madonna”—November 11 (five-reel Fox drama, with Sonia Mar-kova).—Stella Dean loves Milton Taylor, an artist, but she is loved by John Radon. When Stella learns that her own husband is being unfaithful she leaves her home and joins a musical show in a distant city under the name of Claire Leone. Taylor comes to the city in search of a fitting model to portray his Madonna, and he selects Claire, but does not recognize her until the painting is done. Both Taylor and Claire have been living a fast life, but Claire repents and opens her home to girl refugees, and Taylor goes back to the little town to recuperate. Stella comes back to the little town and Taylor finds her worshiping in the church. Stella, coming out, sees Radon taking a girl into a cabin, as he had taken her years before. She goes to the rescue of the girl, upbraids Radon, and falls fainting into the arms of the artist, who had followed her.

GOLDWYN

“Nearly Married”—November 18 (six-reel Goldwyn comedy-drama, with Madge Kennedy).—After Betty and Harry are married, they go on a honeymoon. Betty insists that Dick, her brother, accompany them on their honeymoon. Dick, a young lawyer, looking over the case, urges Betty to bring a divorce. Harry tells his friend, Tom, also a lawyer, about it, and Hattie King, a professional co-respondent, is hired to assist matters. Proceedings are instituted and before the divorce is granted Harry begs Betty to elope with him, telling her it is all a mistake. They do so and then receive the divorce decree. They are about to be remarried, but a clause in the papers, inserted by Betty herself, stipulates that Harry shall never again be permitted to marry. However, a loophole is found when they learn the clause holds good in only one state. When they plan to leave for another state fresh complications arise and make a thrilling finish.

PARAMOUNT

“Nutty Knitters”—November 19 (one-reel Klever comedy, with Victor Moore).—Vic goes to the father of his sweetheart to ask for her hand, but the father tells him he must first knit fifty sweaters. On his way home Vic purchases the necessary knitting equipment. He is followed by a detective, hired by father, to see that Vic actually knits the sweaters. Vic sets fire to the fire and he rushes to the fire department for assistance, but the firemen are too busy knitting. At that moment a truck passes and a box falls off. On opening it Vic finds a bunch of sweaters. He rushes to the girl’s house with the sweaters, followed by the truck driver, who has discovered Vic is a police officer. Vic is arrested and as the picture closes he is busily knitting behind the bars.

PATHE

“Sylvia of the Secret Service”—November 25 (five-reel Astra drama with Irene Castle).—Curtis Prescott is detailed to take the valuable Kimberly diamond to England. He is followed by the leader of the gang, Sylvia Carroll, a girl detective, is on the trail of the Wade gang, but when the gang makes way with the diamond Hamilton Scott, a police officer, is put off the case. They return to America in search of the gang and the diamond. Upon the advice of Hemmings, Carroll is again put off the case. However, she disguises herself and goes to a saloon where the gang hangs out and is able to round them up and bring them to the police station where Hemmings is stationed with Kay, one of the women members. Hemmings has arrested Prescott believing him the murderer of Wade gang. The confessions of Fay exonerate Prescott. Sylvia takes out her knitting, places it in her hands and tells Hemmings that it is just a sort of thing that knitting comes in handy, and that as far as the world will know she and Hemmings worked on the Van Brun case together.

PERFECTION

“Gift o’ Gab”—November 26 (five-reel Essanay comedy-drama, with Jack Gairner).—Tom Bain of a wealthy family. He is a great toad, black was white and could talk himself into trouble and out so fast no one was aware of just what he had done or said. He aspired to become an inventor and builds a machine that will propel itself from one end of a tunnel to the other without the assistance of man. The girls of ‘pab’ he succeeds in selling the patent rights to a large manufacturer and then it is discovered that the machine is no good. Tom is sent to a state prison at which position he has some thrilling experiences. He meets Peggy, a sweet-heart of his college days, at a hospital, where both are patients, and here they are married.

TRIANGLE

“Fuel of Life”—November 18 (five-reel Triangle drama, with Belle Bennett).—Angela De Haven finds her husband untrue to her and determines to make all the poor men fall in love with the notion of being the shrewdest business woman in New York, and Wall street brokers are mere puppets in her hands. Dragdon Brant sends Angela west to stake his shares in the Bob-cat mine, held by Bob Spalding. Through the efforts of Durant, Spalding’s partner, Angela succeeds. She returns to New York, to learn that her husband has been lost at sea. Shortly thereafter she attempts to run out night Mar and shows her the error of her ways. She finds her reward when the big West-erner takes her in his arms.

“A Case at Law”—November 18 (five-reel Triangle drama, with Dick Rosson).—Mayme Saunders loves Jimmy Baggis, a newspaper man addicted to the liquor habit. Jimmy loses his position and is forced to seek work, to seek work surrounding in an effort to rid himself of the habit. They elope and go to a small town in Montana, where Jimmy secures a job, and when he has been stopping at “Art’s” place and before long the old habit is upon him. In desperation Mayme goes to Art only to find that she has left her in charge of an aunt that he might go fight the drink habit. He has succeeded and promises Mayme to help Jimmy. Art, the owner of the notorious place operating under his name, is an enemy to Saunders because he has become a prohibitionist and in order to get revenge Art invites Jimmy to his place and gets him drunk. This angers Saun-ders and he shoots Art, seriously wound-ing him. At the trial, however, Sau-nders is acquitted, Jimmy is brought to his senses and father and daughter are happily united.

UNIVERSAL

“The Shame of the Big City”—(one-reel Nestor comedy, with Bill Frayne and Giff Bagin).—Nitty Nancy, owner of the "Empty Poke" dance hall, becomes tired of her life until she meets homeless Her-bert, who keeps the Saloon. She falls in love with the wild, bad man, and she begs him to lead a better life, and then in order to be worthy of her knight she decides to close up the "Empty Poke." As she is nailing the door shut, Herbert dashes up, asking protection from an Indian squaw and a number of children. Herbert explains that the time he had forgotten he was married. He returns to his dusky wife, while Nancy looks out upon a bleak existence.

"Hula Hula Hughes"—(two-reel 1-Ko comedy with Hughie Mack)—Hughie goes to the beach where he is much flustered when the pretty bathing girl tells him he is a vision in a hula hula costume, and to please them he dances until he falls limp on the beach. The Purity League decides to clean up the beach, and Hughie and the girls are arrested, but when they find Judge Knott is the judge to try them, they threaten exposure if he fines them, so they all go free. Hughie gets into a mixup with his wife when he conceals a pretty girl in her room and when he finds that the life-guard of the beach is with Mrs. Hughie.

WORLD

"Her Hour"—November 26.—(five-reel World drama with Kitty Gordon)—Because she will not submit to the undesirable attentions of an amorous floorwalker, Rita Castile is discharged from the department store where she has been working. She returns home to find her mother dead and her brother under arrest. She seeks the employ of Phidias Trent and unable to resist longer, submits to his ruling. Trent, tiring of Rita, finally casts her off. She meets and marries Ralph Christie, who before marriage will not listen to a confession Rita wishes to make, but learning of her past, later, however, he orders her from his house. Rita becomes a lobbyist while Trent is running for district attorney. She plans to make Trent, now happily married, pay the price, but he threatens to expose his wife and his daughter, Alicia, and thus she is forced to remain quiet. Alicia has met Dick Christie and when he reads in the papers that Alicia and her husband are mixed up in a murder trial, Rita having killed Val Clement, when she found him trying to attack her daughter, he tells his father of his love. To the elder Christie it means that he has not given Rita a chance and they go to the assistance of the women they love, but the shock is too great for Rita and she passes away.

"Easy Money"—November 19.—(five-reel World drama with Ethel Clayton)—Lois Page is dismayed to find that her uncle can no longer afford to pay for her sculpture lessons. Richard Chanslor asks her to marry him so that he can receive money his grandfather is leaving for him until such time as Richard marries to suit the grandfather's wishes. Lois accepts on condition that each is to go his way afterward. Hildreth, Lois instructor, takes advantage of this situation and forces his attentions on Lois. He takes her to a deserted inn and Chanslor, watching their departure, follows her. He falls in love with Lois from Hildreth and this brings to him a realization that they love each other.

Sunshine Comedies
Are at the Disposal of All Exhibitors

Exhibitors, regardless of their film affiliations, may secure Sunshine Comedies, according to an announcement by William Fox, who states that the comedies will be published on an independent basis.

The first of the Sunshine Comedies, "Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells," has been published and the prints have arrived at the exchanges.

Twenty-six of the comedies will be issued each year, one every two weeks. The Fox company reports a heavy demand for "Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells" by exhibitors.

Trimble Will Direct Second Petrova Film
for Exhibitors' Circuit

Larry Trimble, a director of international reputation, will direct the second of eight pictures by Madame Petrova, to be distributed through the exchanges of the National Exhibitors' Circuit. Work on the new picture was started after the final scenes of "Daughter of Destiny" were completed, and is now well under way. Mr. Trimble will be assisted in his direction of Madame Petrova by a staff of experts. The latest Petrova director is one of the youngest men in the business, being but thirty years of age.

Exhibitors, Anxious to Book New Serial,
Besiege M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Distributors

From every part of the country M. H. Hoffman, Inc., New York, has received letters from exhibitors wishing to sign contracts for the new serial which is being written by William J. Flynn, chief playwright of the Metro Service, although official announcement was only recently made concerning the serial, which is expected of the making of the Imperial German Government against the welfare of the people of the United States, there appears to have been created an unusual demand for early bookings.

M. H. Hoffman, Inc., which will distribute the serial, is busy completing plans and negotiations that shortly is to be launched, and otherwise perfecting the chain for an adequate distribution. "It is a reflection of exhibitors' patriotism," said Mr. Hoffman. "No less than a tribute to their business sagacity, to have them rushing in with requests for prints before the release date has been set.

"Our various exchanges, both in this country and Canada, are being besieged by requests for information concerning the serial. We have not set the date of release.

"Empty Pockets"
Pleases Board of Exhibitor's Circuit

The action of the purchasing board of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit in securing the distribution rights to Herbert Brenon's film version of Rupert Hughes' novel, "Empty Pockets," has met with the commendation of many exhibitors in various sections of the country.

Among the more enthusiastic of these have wired the board their congratulations. Others have written their approval of the action.

Jean Lenox Makes Debut
in Film "Two Women"

A new recruit to the screen is Jean Lenox, who has joined the Norma Talmadge Film Co., and making her film debut in the adaptation of Rupert Hughes drama, "Two Women," which Norma Talmadge is making. Miss Lenox was known as "Little Miss Care," to the filming for Eva Tanguay, and "Isn't It Funny What a Difference Just a Few Hours Make," which George M. Cohan inched during his Broadway activities before the camera Miss Lenox is writing some of the numbers for the new Raymond Hitchcock review.

Alice Brady Begins
Second Select Film
at Ft. Lee Studios

Alice Brady has begun work on her second Select Picture at the Paragon Studio in Fort Lee. This is a screen version of Charlotte Bronte's novel, "Jane Eyre," and will be directed by Edward Jose. Miss Brady's leading man is Elliott Dexter.

Coincident with the beginning of her second Select Picture, progress is being made on the cutting and titling of the first of Miss Brady's Select star series, "Her Sileur Sacrifice," this picture being put into shape for early publication through Select Exchanges.

METRO CHANGES NAME OF LOCKWOOD'S PLAY

The title of Harold Lockwood's next Metro play has been changed from "Love on a Square Deceiver," as it was announced. "Our Square Deceiver." The original title is the same as that of the novel by Francis Perry Elliott, from which the screen play was adapted. The picture is a comedy drama in five reels.
Cheer up, fellows; while the "war tax" seems to smell like a Philadelphia attorney's brief, 'tis an awful stormy sea that a calm old veteran, a fat old sitter, your Uncle Sammey's the best in the world, and it will all come through right. It's got to; that's all there is to it.

It affords us great pleasure to note many of the exhibitors are shoring up the war tax as well as the business. No doubt all would like to follow suit. But running a house from 8 a.m. until somewhere about midnight is a heap different than opening up at 9 o'clock, p.m. and playing to two full houses, p'aps.

Some one told us P. R. McNally, former manager for the F. O. Nielson exchange, was seen bargainin' round about old Salt Lake City with the Mormons. Shh! sure he's managing the Big Film Company exchange out there, and reports business is humming along like those "old days" back in Chi.

Go West, young man, go West, 'spake the great Horace Greeley in the days gone by. Lo and behold, here's our young friend George West, manager of the Langley Theatre, with his carpetbag all packed up, hittin' for filmdom's paradise, California. Mebbe even the Dream, or those somewhere else, since what looks like somebody else (we all know) needs the family's cagle eyes upon him.

Gee whiz! With all this talk about cabaret being closed and the hull dern nation agin' dry and politicians becomin' honest, it certainly looks as though M. J. Weisfield of the Wholeesme Films has got a lot to swell up about. Take it from us, we'll give him credit for puttin' the SMB in Wholesome corner and, by crickets, there be plenty of exhibits scattered all over this country of ours that'll prove it, by gosh, so they will.

J. L. Friedman, of the Celebrated Players Company, breezed into the old home town Nov. 5, after spending about ten days in New York. We hadn't clung to one of his letters, so we'd best make up something, believe me, Joe must have been a buyin' some. When he wasn't lookin' we took a peek and found out our friend had clowned with the Diet Pictures, Inc., for their initial feature, "Loyalty," for this territory, besides a number of single reel westerns.

Apropos, it listen like a lot of big changes are in the making in this busy flim mart. Come on, Joe. let's have the details though, ain't it, whatever it may be, here are our wishes for its early fulfillment.

The film fans attending the Ascher Lane Court Theatre are to be congratulated for slippin' it over on the South Side in having the interesting Bruce Tolswal guiding the destiny of this charming film house. Leave it to Bruce to show 'em what a real entertainment should be.

Frank J. Flaherty of the Hoffman Foursquare tells us they have ordered another star sewel on their "service flag" to take moving pictures of many of the heroes of our country's service in the aviation corp. He will leave shortly for the local training camp.

P. A. Powers, better known as "Pat," treasurer of the Universal, gave his Chicago office a brief visit during the week of November 5. Leave it to the "sphinx" to impart news. "First time I've been here in a couple of years," says P. A.

Another chance to help "the boys" at the front and the various camps is given the exhibs in the forthcoming drive of the Red Triangle. This is sponsored by a number of thelivemembers of "the four-minute squad." We need only remind you, for your past efforts in behalf of Uncle Sam are enough assurance of what we know you will do with this worthy effort for the comfort of our "arms."

Greiver & Herz report excellent business locally. The recent two purchases for this territory, "Whither Thou Goest," featuring Orn Johnson and Lilian Walker's big starrin' vehicle, "The Lust of Ages," are getting away with a rush. The former has been booked at Balaban & Katz' film theatre supreme, the Central Park, one of the latest houses to open here. The latter play will be booked on the big chain of film theatres owned by Lubliner & Trinz.

The management of the Austin Theatre, 50 West Madison street, is again under new direction. G. J. Wegener is the new incumbent, whose youth and pep should start something out there among the people and quiet of Chi's West Side environs most beautious. Ernoff—more later, p'aps.

We note that G. H. Levine and Ben Edelman, Landscape Film Service executives, will simulate Chicago theatre managers with their sales arguments for the future, having cut out the touring expeditions of the past.

W. E. Weinschank, formerly of the Central Film Company, will henceforth be seen on the other side of the fence. His rotund and million dollar figure may receive your admiring glances any day out on the great Northwest Side at the Milford Theatre.

Clayton Bond, formerly of the Paramount, will be greeting his many exhib friends from an office on the west side of the Chicago Theatre, which is the new owner of the U. S. Exhibitors' Book- ing Corporation, located in the College Building.

"To be or not to be, that is the question." So sayeth William Shakespeare in the days gone by. We say "It's got to and beheld. Chicago has a Bard of Avon all her own. List, yea, verily, and no other than William Shakespeare Herself, the new owner of the Chicago Theatre, the Shakespeare Theatre out on the South Side. We salute you, "Villie."

Essanay Closes Contract With U. S.
To Film Life at Army Cantonnements

Two Directors With Camera Men Are Already in the Field. Proceeds to Be Turned Over to Soldiers in Training and at Front

Essanay has just closed a contract with the United States government. The contract covers all of the military cantonnements in various parts of the country. Already two directors with their cameramen and other assistants are in the field, and others will follow soon. The government will show the pictures throughout the country. The producer, NX in the Divisional Staff for soldiers in training in this country and those at the front in France.

The company recently sent a squad of cameramen to Rockford, Ill., where the Illinois cantonment is located and where thousands of Illinois drafted men are in training for war. The object was to show by pictures how the men are spending their days and nights, and how they enjoy the life, so that friends and relatives back home may rest at ease regarding their welfare. This picture, however, was not made for the government.

Agents unfriendly to the United States government have circulated reports that the men are extracted from the army and issued with per diem, &c.

This picture will give the lie to that story quicker than anything else that could be devised.

The men are shown at mess, in their sleeping quarters, playing outdoor games, drinking, at bayonet practice, and in other forms of their work. The picture gives an excellent view of the buildings, both inside and out.
Owners and managers of moving picture theaters in British Columbia have organized under the name of the Moving Picture Exhibitors' Association. The organization announces that it is here to stay and that the exhibitors realize the only way they can stand up for themselves is by organizing.

The officers elected were: President, J. R. Muir of the Dominion theatre; vice-president, Hector Quigliotti of the Colonial theatre; secretary, Frank Gow of the Broadway theatre; and treasurer, W. P. Dewees of the Rex theatre and F. Gow were appointed to secure information for the association in regard to the new amusement tax and the revenue being raised from this source for the provincial government.

It was also decided at this meeting that a tax could be carried throughout the province, advising the moving picture patrons that the increased prices were not due to the tax but were going to the corporation.

If the tax goes into force the theatre-goers will be called on to pay this as well.

Since Joe Franklin opened the Opera house in St. John, N. B., with a vaudeville policy, St. John has got the vaudeville craze and it is rumored that in all provincial towns there will be vaudeville in connection with pictures at the Imperial theatre, St. John.

Sam Holman, owner of the New Grand theatre, Montreal, was called out of town because of the illness of his mother. His many friends and acquaintances in the film business in Montreal wish to extend their sympathy.

Charles Lalumiere, manager of the Montreal office of the Specialty Film Import, Limited, has just returned from a trip to Quebec where he reports business very good.

The Victoria theatre of Three Rivers has been taken over by S. Massad, who is also manager of the Perron Hall theatre, Montreal, Que.

H. A. Osborne of the Bijou theatre, Penetang, is now running the Universal serial, "Peg of the Ring" and is so pleased with it that he has rebooked it for his other house. He also has signed up in advance for "The Voice on the Wire" and "The Red Ace."

Visitors this week to the Canadian Universal Film Exchange in Toronto, to arrange their programs for the winter, were Mr. Morgan of the Princess theatre, Stratford, Ont., and Mr. Jackson of Neumarket, Ont.

The exhibitors of Canada are showing their patriotic spirit by their co-operation in running and advertising the government film, which have been issued. The films are entitled "Everybody's Business" and "Waste Not, Want Not," and are issued by the food controller's office. A special motion picture distribution committee has been formed to handle all films through this office.

The following out of town exhibitors were in Montreal during the past week: George Svoboda, Grand Theatre, Mere; A. Parent, Casino theatre, Three Rivers; D. Bertrand, Princess theatre, Riviere du Loup, and Henri Paguet of the Auditorium theatre, Quebec.

J. Lieberman, manager of the Fox Film Corporation of St. John, N. B., has been in Montreal for the past few days to take up several matters of importance with the Montreal office. His reports business in St. John as being very good.

Joe Kaufman of the Montreal office of the Globe Films, has been appointed manager of the St. John office of the Globe Films which has just been opened.

A million dollar vaudeville and moving picture house is being built in Montreal by Marcus Loew, who controls 117 theatres in the United States. This theatre will be the largest in Canada, is a palatial structure and no expense has been spared in its construction. Costly Italian marble has been used in the walls and floors, while silk hangings and beautiful mural decorations are in evidence. The color scheme is harmoniously rendered in French grey, rose and gold.

The unique and magnificent lobby leads from the main entrance into the rotunda. Here patrons may promenade, or before a homelike fireplace read magazines, provided by the management. Writing tables are also provided for the use of the audience. On account of the cantilever principle on which the theatre is built, which has obviated the use of pillars, a patron will have an uninterrupted view of the stage from any seat in the house. Concealed lighting is used and the stage is fitted with editor's lighting effects can be obtained. A magnificent organ has also been installed.

Equally luxurious is the accommodation for artists. A green room is provided for their use behind the stage which is the largest in Canada and shower baths are fitted to every dressing room. The maximum admission price will be 25 cents, with the exception of the boxes. Three shifts of men are working on this building to rush it to completion.

The new Allen theatre, Toronto, opens Saturday, November 16. It will be one of the finest theatres in Toronto. Ben Cronk will manage the new house.

The Oakwood theatre, Toronto's new uptown modern theatre, opens on November 12. This theatre has been built in one of the finest residential districts in Toronto. The Oakwood has been built with an eye to comfort, exclusiveness and unusual entertainment and will cater to the higher class.

Their program for the opening week will include "The Red Ace," Pickford, Mme. Petrova, Marguerite Clark, Douglas Fairbanks and other prominent and popular stars.

Exhibitors and Associations Send Commendations to Mutual Corporation

President John R. Freuler's announcement that the Mutual Film Corporation would also add the general excise tax and his notification to Mutual branch managers to cancel the assessment of fifteen cents per reel brought letters and messages of commendation from all over the country.

Organized exhibitors passed resolutions of commendation, officers of exhibitor organizations, local and state, sent letters of congratulation and individual exhibitors wrote Mr. Freuler, voicing their thanks for his help in handling a difficult situation.

Resolutions were passed by the Chicago Theater Owners Association, affiliated with the American Exhibitors Association, and communications congratulating Mutual were received from Frank Rembusch, president of the American Exhibitors Association of Indiana; Philip Levy, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Montana; the South Carolina Motion Picture Exhibitors' League; Joseph Hopp, president of the Chicago branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League; Exhibitors Herald; Louis H. Frank, treasurer of the Chicago Theater Owners Association; Edwin C. Ebel, Penn Square Theatre of Cleveland; Alfred S. Black of the Maine Theaters, Inc., Rockland, Me.; O. I. Demaree, Franklin Opera House, Franklin, Ind.; John S. Evans of the Allegheny Theater, Philadelphia; The Strand Theatre, Denver; E. H. Kornblum, the Criterion Theater, Evansville, Ind.; Walter Codington, the Home Theater, Canton, Ill.; L. H. Donnell, the O'Donnell Eskridge Amusement Company, Washington, D.C.; The New Vine Theater, Kansas City; Earl Coblé, Lyric Theater, Redkey, Ind.; J. C. Hilman, People's Theater, Binghamton, N. Y.; C. R. Austin, the Diamond Theater Company, Toledo, O.; F. W. Aldrich, Pastime Theater, Eye of the Needle, and Lee A. Ochs, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of America.

State Rights Sale of "Persuasive Peggy" Is Nearly Complete

The Mayfair Film Corporation of New York announces that the state rights sale of their production, "Persuasive Peggy," starring Peggy Hyland, has been practically completed.

The middle west, including Chicago, has been sold in one block and comparatively little territory remains.

Earle, Ark.—The cornerstone of the new theatre, to be called The Princess, was laid here October 16.
Another Farnum production, "The Heart of a Lion," will be issued by William Fox during the month of December. The picture is based on Ralph Conover's novel, "The Doctor," and the original version of this tale of the Rockies has been closely followed by Director Frank Lloyd.

With Mr. Farnum in the cast of the picture are Marc Robbins, Mary Martin, William Cortleigh, Jr., Wanda Petit, Walter Law and Rita Borat. There are also a number of village characters, residents of Sag Harbor and neighbors of Mr. Farnum, who are used as extras. The picture will be released possibly by the end of the present year.

"The Rose of Blood," a new Theda Bara picture, is from a story by Richard Ordynski, stage director of the Metropolitan Opera House. In addition to writing the piece, Mr. Ordynski supervised the details of its staging and played the leading male role. J. Gordon Edwards directed.

It concerns the Russian revolution and the part which the people of the White Empire played in bringing it about. The work is done by a lone woman in overthrowing the despots who ruled the country. Theda Bara plays the role of a Russian girl who is led by circumstances to cast her lot with a group of revolutionists. A short time afterward she marries a prince. When he becomes premier of the empire and signalizes his power by deeds of oppression, her husband is instructed to assassinate him.

Bobby Bobler appears as A. Knutt, a crack-brain chemist. Rod LaRocque is Ruby's fiance.

Animated Dolls Will Vie With Real Actors in "The Dream Doll"

A new idea in the novelty picture line will be given exhibitors by Essanay, December 17, when "The Dream Doll" is published on the Perfection Pictures program through the George Kleine System. The novelty is the invention of Howard Moss, an expert in the work of making and handling dolls. His collection of midgets is said to be worth thousands of dollars.

The invention is patented and Mr. Moss' secret is closely guarded. He states, however, how he animates the dolls. On the screen the dolls apparently move about without the aid of human hands as naturally as humans would move. Mr. Moss wants the cook to walk to the kitchen door he moves one foot probably an eighth of an inch and the cameraman takes a tiny bit of film.

In "The Dream Doll" both living characters and dolls are used. Marguerite Clayton plays the role of Ruby, the daughter of the Toy King, John Cossar.

Bluebird-Butterfly Publication Dates Changed for December

Rearrangement of both the Bluebird and Butterfly programs for the month of December have been made by Universal. The changes in the Butterfly's schedule follow:

"Fighting Mad" will be issued December 3; "The Silent Lady," December 10; "Beloved Jim," December 12, and "Bucking Broadway," December 24.

"The Mystery Ship," has been changed to November 26, two weeks later than first announced.

Billy West to Head Three More Comedies, King Bee Announces

Billy West of the King Bee Company is at work in a new comedy entitled, "The Bandmaster," the date of publication of which will be announced soon. More than one hundred people were used in the play.

Miss Leatrice Joy of New York is a new member of the King Bee staff. She has joined the Billy West comedy organization at the new studio in Hollywood, California.

Bud Ross, another member of the staff, has written three scenarios that Billy West will star in. They are called "Peaches and —," "Rum and Poker," and "The Diplomat."

"The Curse of Iku" Shows Japanese Life of Half Century Ago

An unusual feature picture entitled "The Curse of Iku," has just been published by Essanay. Although primarily a drama of Japanese life it is at the same time an unusual travel film and an attractive scenic picture.

Tsuru Aoki, wife of the famous Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa, plays the leading role, that of Osma San, sister of a Japanese prince. The picture opens with the Japanese of fifty years ago when it was a land of barbarity and when it was impossible to take photographs with the exception of Dutch sailors who were permitted to unload their cargoes at Nagasaki.

"The Public Defender" Shown N. Y. Lawyers

"The Public Defender," Harry Rav-er's screen production of Mayer C. Goldman's book of the same name, was shown at the Progress Club, New York, on Nov. 4.

The exhibition was arranged through the courtesy of Harry Rav and brought out a large attendance of lawyers and others, the auditorium of the club at 88th street and Central Park West being filled to capacity.

The picture was well received by the enthusiastic reception and caused considerable comment. A letter of appreciation was sent to Mr. Rav by a leading member of the Progress Club, which stated in part: "The audience applauded the picture generously at its conclusion, and countless members expressed verbally their appreciation of "The Public Defender," both in the light of a powerful argument for a necessary reform and as an excellent entertainment, as well."

The Big Four

Raymond Hitchcock, Josephine Harriman, Ernest Truex and Charles Grapewin are the BIG FOUR which will start the most ambitious, most pretentious program of one-reel comedies ever put out in the history of moving pictures. There will be more "BIG FOURS" to come— but this quartet will give you an idea of the quality of stars which will be used.

We frankly admit that as a business proposition—for us or for these great figures of the American stage—it couldn't be done. But it is not only a business proposition. It is a patriotic move—a project—the success of which will be reflected in the trenches in France, where the flower of America is battling today for us all. The results from this enterprise will be shared by the boys in the trenches and on the decks of Uncle Sam's battleships. This distribution is to be handled by the American Military Relief Association. By arrangement with us, the Association is to get a considerable sum of money from each subject.

In this way we are doing "OUR BIT." The gentlemen and ladies of the stage who have so patriotically and splendidly offered their services are doing "THEIR BIT." And YOU—the exhibitor—"WILL YOU DO YOUR BIT?" Your bit is this: Show these pictures in your theater. It will not only be practical patriotism on your part, but it will be profitable business. For the public will do "ITS BIT." When they know the object of these pictures, they will have an added zest in seeing them. And irrespective of the patriotic phase of the pictures, we guarantee they will be the best comedies available. The stars will be the pick of America. The pictures are produced under the direction of Rex Weber. A special arrangement has been made with Jo Swerling of the Chicago Tribune to write all the scripts. This combination means THE BEST.

The purpose of this advertisement is not to SELL—but to TEST. We want to know how many exhibitors there are in this country who have enough patriotism to aid a movement to supply America's soldiers and sailors with comforts, and enough discrimination and business sense to see a proposition that spells

Fox Film Corporation
Join the Association!!!

Nearly three thousand motion picture exhibitors in the United States and Canada have announced allegiance to the American Exhibitors Association.

There has never existed a greater necessity for a real organization of exhibitors banded together for their common welfare. And there has never existed an organization which promises to accomplish more for exhibitors than the American Exhibitors Association.

As indicated by the large number of exhibitors who already have joined the American Exhibitors Association, this organization is grounded on policies which will inevitably promote the best interests of exhibitors. For the first time in the history of exhibitors' organization it is a case of all the cards on the table and right side up!

The exhibitors who have already rallied to the support of the American Exhibitors Association are to be congratulated. They have adopted the proper course of enrolling in an association which is constructed along lines that will inevitably enable the organization to wield a powerful hand in shaping the destinies of the American exhibitor.

But three thousand exhibitors are not enough; The old league, simply because it was an exhibitors' organization and wholly without reference to anything that it ever had accomplished for the exhibitor, at one time attained a membership of over five thousand.

The American Exhibitors Association is no longer an experiment; the figures announced last week in New York by the directors are an eloquent testimonial to the reception which has been accorded this organization throughout the country.

Since its inception in Chicago last July, the American Exhibitors Association has rolled up a membership that greatly exceeds the present status of the Ochs' league. This is conclusive proof of the demand on the part of the exhibitors for an organization such as the A. E. A.

The exhibitors of the United States and Canada MUST have an organization, one conducted for the common welfare and not for the selfish purposes of a few. Without a compact organization there can be nothing accomplished along the line of a readjustment of the objectionable features of the admission tax. Unless opposed by a purposeful and virile organization, any distributing company in the United States can impose on the shoulders of exhibitors any burden it sees fit.

Take the case of the Paramount combination: This company announced a new booking policy under the false guise of "open booking." The Paramount company, not content with the million dollars of exhibitors' money which they had obtained on the grounds of advance deposits, decided on its "separate deposit" system, which, from advices we have received, has given them between two and one-half and three million dollars of exhibitors' money, with which they are financing their operations.

But it is idle talk to blame the Paramount company for doing this, because it is just what many of us would do if we COULD GET AWAY WITH IT.

The blame for the existence of the Paramount "separate deposit" system rests on the shoulders of the exhibitors who have submitted to the injustice. If you are content to be imposed on in this manner, go ahead; but if you are real exhibitors and intelligent business men, tell Paramount and every other film company whose treatment is not fair that you will not submit, and then stick to your course.

If you are backed up by a real organization, there can be no doubt of the outcome.

There is but one course open to you, if you value the future of your business.

Join an association which is able and willing to place the weight of organization behind your appeals for fair treatment.

Join the American Exhibitors Association!

What About the Admission Tax?

CERTAIN outsiders will contend that for exhibitors to protest the governmental tax is an unpatriotic thing to do, but the reverse is true. If this tax is disproportionate, if exhibitors cannot meet its requirements and live, then it is their duty to themselves and to their country to protest and to fight for a readjustment.

For the government's aim in the levying of this and every other tax is to obtain revenue from the business that is taxed. But if the business is taxed out of existence, the revenue likewise will disappear. Consequently the government is greatly interested in allowing no tax to rest on a business which that business cannot meet without disaster.

Careful study of several of the provisions of the Revenue Act as relating to the film business indicate that in all probability they came into existence through the abyssmal ignorance about the film business of certain members of Congress. The so-called footage tax was so absurd that officials of the Internal Revenue Department almost immediately stated that it would not be enforced literally.

As to the admission tax, with which exhibitors are most vitally interested, it is obvious that in certain details it is over-burdensome, particularly with reference to the neighborhood house which is a real community necessity and not a luxury. In fact, the entertainment service dispensed by the neighborhood house is no more of the luxury variety than nine-tenths of the stuff sold by the neighborhood druggist and if this merchant was required to collect an additional ten per cent on everything he sold he certainly would be speedily taxed out of business.

How Exhibitors Are Handling Tax Detailed in Reports to “Herald”

Information Received From Representative Points in the United States Gives Methods Adopted to Carry Out Governments’ Mandate

With the government’s mandate that a war tax must be collected in all motion picture theatres where the price of admission is more than 5 cents, the exhibitor was confronted with the problem of choosing the best manner in which to collect the additional charge. He may keep his admission price at the same figure and collect the tax from the public, or as an alternative raise the price and take care of the tax himself.

The Exhibitors Herald has gathered data from different parts of the United States to show how the various exhibitors are facing the situation. The cities from which reports have been received and the means the exhibitors have used in collecting the tax, follow:

CHICAGO—This city is split over the tax question. The Chicago Motion Picture Theatre Owners’ Association has declared itself in favor of retaining present prices and collecting the tax from the public. Many theatres, however, have boosted prices 5 cents, including the war tax.

SPOKANE, WASH.—All theatres, with the exception of the 5-cent houses, have raised their prices and are paying the tax themselves.

TOLEDO, O.—Prices charged for motion picture shows remain the same. The war tax imposed by the government is being paid by the public. No confusion has occurred and there has been no falling off in attendance.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Although theatre prices here still remain the same, a raise is looked for in the near future because of the difficulty in obtaining pennies.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—One motion picture house here has cut 10-cent admissions to 9 cents, so that the price, plus the war tax, is 10 cents, and 15-cent tickets are 13 cents, making the admission 15 cents with the tax.

CONWAY, ARK.—Exhibitors here have not raised the price of admission and are collecting the tax as specified in the law.

FORT WAYNE, IND.—Owners of motion picture theatres here have agreed not to raise the price of admission, but will collect the tax from the public.

SUPERIOR, WIS.—Prices have been raised, the war tax to be paid by the exhibitor.

ABERDEEN, S. D.—Prices here were raised 5 cents by agreement among theatre owners, which admission will cover the tax.

Baltimore, Md.—The signs, “Admission price 11 cents,” pasted on the fronts of 10-cent motion picture theatres, reflects the general action of the theatres in this city. The public will pay the tax and prices will not be raised.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Managers of the various motion picture theatres here have been unable to come to an agreement, and as a result prices in some of the theatres have been raised to include the tax, while others retain former prices and collect the tax from patrons.

ERIE, PA.—Admission prices to local moving picture houses jumped 5 cents with the war tax going into effect. Patrons were notified that the admission price included the war tax.

GREAT FALLS, MONT.—Exhibitors here have not raised prices of admission to motion picture theatres. The old admission charges will prevail with the added tax.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Managers of motion picture houses here have armed themselves with hundreds of dollars worth of pennies in order to make change when the public enters their theatres at the “bargain prices” made necessary by the government war tax on admissions. Some isolated cases of increased admission prices have been reported.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Patrons of motion picture theatres here have co-operated to a great extent with the “Please have the correct change” plea of the theatre owners. Some confusion marked the first day the tax went into effect, but conditions now are about normal. The threatened penny famine is a thing of the past. The majority of the theatres have not raised prices, and report no drop in attendance figures.

BURLINGTON, KANS.—Beginning the first of November the local motion picture theatres which had charged 5 and 10 cents raised to 10 and 15 cents, which admission prices include the war tax.

ELGIN, ILL.—Motion picture theatres here have not raised admissions and the public has already become educated to the 6, 11 and 17-cent prices. Manager W. B. Newman of the Grand Theatre is going 50-50 on the tax. For his 10-cent attractions the public pays the tax and for the 25-cent shows he pays it.

Many varying reports concerning the effect of the war tax on attendance has

Modification of Theater Tax Law Sought by Chicago Picture Men

Fred J. Herrington Urges Mass Meetings and Congressional Assistance in Speech Before Local Branch of A. E. A.

Mass meeting to which every exhibitor in Chicago and contiguous territory will be invited by his several congressmen of the district in the hope of having the present war tax on admissions as it affects the motion picture business. Herrington addressed at a meeting of the Chicago Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association November 16.

This action by the theatre men was taken after many of the exhibitors, at the invitation of President Krug, had detailed to those present the extent to which the tax had affected their box office receipts. The falling off in receipts reported varied from 15 to 35 percent.

Herrington Pleads Patriotism

With patriotism the keynote of his address, Fred J. Herrington of Pittsburgh was the principal speaker at the session. He summed up the numerous problems confronting the industry, rebuked the exhibitors for “their spinelessness and their failure to act concertedly,” gave Lee A. Ochs his customary dishonorable mention, and closed with an appeal to those present to let patriotism stand above profits and aid the government in every way in its time of need.

After stating that he had listened with deep interest to the remarks of the exhibitors concerning the losses they had suffered and the reasons advanced by them as to the cause, Mr. Herrington said:

“Let us not go before Congress and ask for the repeal of the tax. Let us, rather ask that body to modify certain features of it. Do not ask the government to return lost profits to you, but rather show them that the people whom we serve with entertainment are not able to stand this additional drain upon their pocketbooks.

Outlines Needed Action

“It was not the intention of Congress to close your theatres. The government needs the money to wage this just war, and if the tax imposed is so heavy as to close the theatres it defeats the ends for which it was meant.”

At this point the speaker urged the exhibitors to see their congressmen while they were at home, put the situation up to them in an honest manner, and appoint committees to return to Washington with them in an attempt to get a modification of the present law.

“Members of Congress and the Senate are willing—yes, anxious—to do the fair thing by you.” Mr. Herrington continued.

You cannot appeal individually to Congress for a readjustment of the admission tax. You cannot expect assistance from officials of the old league because they endorsed the measure. Join the A. E. A. and let this organization represent you at Washington.

M. P. D. A. to Hold Ball at Biltmore New York in January

Directors, Banded Together for Betterment of Industry, to Entertain

At the last meeting of the Motion Picture Directors’ Association, in New York, it was decided to give a ball at the Biltmore Hotel during the month of January.

The M. P. D. A. is an association which has for its main idea the betterment of motion pictures as a whole. The home lodge of the association has in its rooms in the Hotel Alexandria, Los Angeles, Cal., a membership of one hundred. The New York lodge rooms are at 242 West Fifty-fifth street.

The officers are: Alan Dwan, director; J. Gordon Edwards, assistant; Oscar Eagle, secretary-assistant; director; J. Searle Dawley, secretary; Joseph Kaufman, treasurer. There are twenty-six registered members in New York city. The initiation fee in the association is $50 and the annual dues are $25.

From present indications, everything pertaining to the association is progressing favorably under the management of the above members and the cooperation of the regular members.

Supreme Court Judge Will Make Decision In Music Tax Case

The fight of the exhibitors on the music tax question was begun before Justice Goff of the Supreme Court of New York this week when the court took up the trial of the case of the One Hundred and Seventy-fourth and St. Nicholas Avenue Amusement Company and the American Society of Composers.

Following lengthy arguments by attorneys on both sides, in which charges and counter charges flew thick and fast, Justice Goff ordered the lawyers to prepare briefs and submit them to him on which he will base his decision.

Bell & Howell Co.
Reorganizes and Increases Capital
Donald J. Bell Withdraws,as President—R. J. Kittredge
New Head of Firm

In order that it may handle export business which, in the past, it has been compelled to decline, the Bell & Howell Company of Chicago, one of the largest manufacturers of cinemathe, has undertaken complete reorganization. With the reorganization comes an influx of outside capital.

Under the plans, R. J. Kittredge, for-er president of R. J. Kittredge & Company, becomes president of the newly organized company, succeeding Donald J. Bell. Mr. Bell founded the business with Albert S. Howell more than eleven years ago. Although he withdraws as president, Mr. Bell will be associated with the company as vice-president and have charge of the New York offices. Mr. Howell is also a vice-president of the company.

Other officers are Charles A. Ziebarth, secretary, and J. H. McNabb, treasurer.
In addition to his duties as secretary,
Mr. Ziebarth will also act in the capacity of production manager and as advisor in studio construction and design.
Mr. McNabb was associated with Bell & Howell as general manager before the reorganization. He has had experience as an organizer and efficiency engineer with some of the largest concerns in the country.

City Council Will Not Demand Chicago Exchanges Leave “Loop”

Fire Prevention Bureau Relents in Its Insistence That Film Companies Be Confinced to Two Story Buildings

The drastic ordinance aimed to drive film exchanges out of the Chicago “loop” district, is no longer contemplated by the Chicago fire prevention bureau, it became known at a meeting of a sub-committee of the council buildings committee last week.

Following a disastrous fire in the Pathé Exchange in the Consumers building last summer, the fire prevention bureau went before the committee and demanded an ordinance which provided that a film exchange be prohibited from occupying a building more than two stories in height.

This was followed by a number of conferences between the film men, members of the council committee and the framers of the ordinance, in which the demands of the latter were modified somewhat.

Due to the fact that only a minority of the sub-committee were present at the last meeting another session was called by Ald. Pretzel, chairman, for Wednesday morning, November 23, at which time exchange men, exhibitors and others interested in the ordinance will be heard by the sub-committee.

It is now generally understood that if an ordinance can be framed which will provide for the equipping of all exchanges with automatic sprinklers and other means of fire prevention, the fire prevention bureau will be satisfied.

Theater Capacity to Fix License Fees in Little Rock, Ark.

Little Rock, Ark.—(Special to Exhibitors Herald)—A graded scale for the payment of theatre license fees will probably be put into effect in Little Rock in the near future. At the present time all theatres pay the same fee.

County Judge Lee Miles is now formulating a plan for checking the seating capacity and prices of admission to theatres, with the intention of basing the license fee upon these figures. It is believed by the authorities that the new system will add considerable revenue to the county.

Without organization nothing on a big scale can be accomplished. If you are not one of the twenty seven hundred and sixteen A. E. A., join at once.

Five Films Ready

The completion of five one-reel comedies, with nationally-known stars, is announced by the American Military Relief Association. The pictures were filmed by the Titan Pictures Corporation. Plans for the distribution of the pictures have not as yet been completed and for the present they will probably be issued by the Titan Pictures Corporation.

The American Relief Association, according to Frederick Russell Clark, president, was formed for the purpose of providing American men under arms, in the service of the Government, with luxuries such as tobacco, candy, and other things of which their departure from their civil pursuits deprived them.

It is the hope of the association that exhibitors will respond in the same generous manner as the stars of the productions, who donated their services—Mr. Clark, who is also in charge of the Titan company, is now working on a plan whereby a lump sum each week can be turned over to the relief association.

The productions thus far completed are “Bucking the H. C. of L.” with Raymond Hitchcock, “He Could Dance With Everybody but His Wife,” with Josephine Harriman; Ernest Trux in “The Garden of Allie,” Charles Grapewin in “The Parasite,” and Sleeper & Levy in “The Jassicians.”

The scripts for the comedies were written by Jo Swerling of the Chicago Tribune and were filmed under the direction of Rex Weber.

Ochs Excoriates Manufacturers Who Foist Reel Tax on Exhibitors

M. P. E. L. of A. President Charges Deceit and Injustice in Action of Film Companies Warns of Danger to Industry

Lee A. Ochs, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, has issued a circular letter addressed to the distributors of the United States on the question of the five-cent per day film charge to exhibitors.

Mr. Ochs bases the charges made in his letter on telegrams and letters which he has received from exhibitors and organizations throughout the country and characterizes the notifications received by the exhibitors that the tax was to be imposed upon them as "curt and mandatory." He states that the exhibitors of the country cannot understand why the distributors "consider it necessary to gracefully slide out from under the tax."

Ochs' Letter

"You have made statements in your meetings and in your advertising," Mr. Ochs says in his letter, "to the effect that you cannot pay this tax out of your own pockets and remain in business. Do you think that the exhibitor is in any better condition to pay the tax out of his pocket and remain in business, or do you think that he can arbitrarily collect it from his patrons without sacrificing a large part of his business? If you do, you have little knowledge of the business of entertaining the pubic. It is by no means clear in the minds of the exhibitors that if you pay this tax you will be forced out of business. Let us say, for example, that $3,000 of negative are used in taking the average five-reel feature. This would demand a tax of $75. Let us assume that the average feature uses forty prints. This would demand a tax of $1,500, a total of $1,575 for a five-reel feature. Do you mean to contend that it is impossible to save the small sum of $1,575 in the production of a picture, a sum amounting to merely five and one-half per cent in a picture costing $30,000?"

No Basis For Action

"Because Congress, in its ignorance of the motion picture business saw fit to pass a law, the meaning of which is subject to various interpretations, is no reason why the producer and distributor should seek to shift the burden. If the distributors have as their object the driving out of business of the eighty per cent of the small houses of the country in favor of the twenty per cent of larger houses they have taken a sure method of achieving their object. The exhibitors from all parts of the country hotly resent the arbitrary manner in which the distributors sought to impose this fifteen-cent charge upon them.

Unlawful Collections Made

"The distributors merely called in a firm of accountants accepted their figures without even an examination of the books of their own individual companies, and then endeavored to force arbitrarily the fifteen-cent charge down the exhibitor's throat. The exhibitors call your attention to the fact that many of your exchanges are endeavoring to collect the tax on pictures that were released prior to Oct. 4, the date which the law went into effect. This is nothing more or less than an attempt to collect money under false pretenses, as you, as distributors or producers, are not compelled to pay a tax on such pictures. "They would also call your attention to the fact that your exchanges are endeavoring to collect taxes on film that was released prior to Oct. 4 which was not released until after that date. Such pictures are not subject to taxation as they were sold or leased by the producer prior to the day when the law became effective.

In closing Mr. Ochs calls upon the distributors and managers, in the best interests of the industry, to give up their attempt to slide from under the burden that has been placed upon them.

Add to Sales Force

C. Burchfield Kennedy has joined the sales force of the Harris P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh. He is the fourteenth addition to the company's sales force within as many weeks.

Mr. Kennedy will devote his entire time to Ohio and Pennsylvania, and will handle "The Mad Lover," "To-day," "The Decemst," "The Crisis," and "Persuasive Peggy."

There is no graft in the A. E. A. — It is operated for every member equally. It is simply a business-like organization designed to promote and safeguard the interests of its members.
A. E. A. Officer's Report Shows Association's Growth

A membership of 2,716 and a balance in the treasury against which there are no outstanding liabilities are the salient points of a report made by the directors of the American Exhibitors Association for the period ending November 14.

The association has members in forty-six states, two territories, Mexico and Canada. State organizations have been completed in twenty-one states and two Canadian provinces.

A financial recapitulation shows that the association since its birth at the Chicago convention on June 20, 1918, has received $4,018. Of this amount $4,316.61 has been expended, leaving a balance of cash on hand, $401.39. There were no debts or liabilities against the association on November 14.

Upon recommendation of the general manager, approved by the directors, it was agreed to use all funds on hand and all funds to be received by the organization in the future for constructive work on behalf of the motion picture exhibitors and that no salaries shall be paid to any officers of the association until after the Detroit convention, the week of July 2, 1919. Every officer of the association agreed to the above conditions and voted for the approval of the recommendation.

St. Louis Lawmakers Would Bar Children From Many Theatres

Drastic Measure Framed to Prevent Attendance at Motion Picture Houses

What will be, if passed, one of the most drastic acts proposed by a legislative body in connection with the film industry is now under consideration of the city council of St. Louis.

The proposed ordinance contemplates the prohibition of persons under sixteen years of age from any motion picture theatre showing films depicting abductions, elopements of married persons, mock marriages, white slavery, murders, robberies and the interior of questionable resorts.

Orvin G. Cocks, advisory secretary of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, has pointed out to the St. Louis council that passage of the ordinance would bar from their city practically every big production filmed.

B. Ennis to Handle Mme. Petrova Publicity

Bert Ennis, a publicity purveyor for many years with various theatrical and film enterprises, has been appointed to the post of publicity director for the Petrova Picture Company. He is already handling McClure publicity.

Ennis will handle exclusively the trade press exploitation matter for Madame Petrova and the eight starring vehicles in which she will appear during the forthcoming year. He will also publicize "Mother," the six-part George Loane Tucker production sponsored by McClure Pictures, together with the other film interests of the firm.
Six Paralta Films Completed;
Work Started on Glass Studio

President Anderson, Pleased With Concern’s Development, to Visit Plant—Walthall Finishes “His Robe of Honor”

Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., left New York on Saturday, Nov. 17, for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will spend several weeks at the Paralta studios consulting on the future developments of the Paralta organization.

Announcement was made last week that Paralta Plays were to be distributed by the newly formed W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Kerrigan Film First
Six productions are now completed: “A Man’s Man,” in which J. Warren Kerrigan appears as the star, will be the first picture to be issued and will be followed by Bessie Barriscale in “Madam Who.” The subsequent publications will be announced shortly. At the present time there are six companies working at the studios which taxes them to their utmost. Additional ground was purchased recently, in order to increase the facilities to at least twice their present capacity.

Work on the first glass enclosed stage at the new studio is to begin this week. Three out of the four stages that are planned for the Paralta plant have been completed, and all of them are equipped with diffuses, while the third which is to be the first glass enclosed stage, will not be provided with these light regulators until after the steel and glass work have been installed.

Work Will Proceed
With the approach of the rainy season in Southern California considerable apprehension has been felt over the prospects for continuous work by the various Paralta companies.

Robert Brunton, director of productions, however, has completed negotiations with one of the iron works in California to supply the steel for the frame work over the new stage and has effected arrangements with a glass manufacturing plant to supply the material to complete the work, it is announced.

The sides of the glass enclosure will be 33 feet in height and the stage will have 25 feet in the clear. A new system is to be followed in the arrangement of the diffuses. In other glass enclosed studios the diffuses are suspended under the girders. With the new Paralta stage it is planned to place the diffuses directly under the glass roof.

Sixty Days to Complete
The contract calls for the erection of the steel frame work within thirty days. A similar period is allowed for the construction of the glass work so that sixty days will elapse before the first Paralta company can begin work under glass.

“His Robe of Honor,” in which Henry B. Walthall will make his debut as a Paralta star, is finished and Mr. Walthall will start on his second Paralta play within a short time.

Before leaving New York, Mr. Anderson spoke most enthusiastically in reference to the future of Paralta. Upon his arrival at the coast he expects to be able to announce the addition of another star to the galaxy of artists already with Paralta.

Simple Projector Installed for Sick in Seattle Hospital

The Seattle Stage Lighting Co. of Seattle recently installed a Simplex Projection machine in the Tuberculosis Hospital at Seattle, Wash. The Simplex was mounted on a portable platform so that it can be moved from one ward to another and in this manner each floor secures its own entertainment without interfering with the patients on the others.

The Operators’ Union furnishes an operator one day a week without cost to take charge of the machine and run the show.

WAR TAX COLLECTIONS

been received. Some exhibitors claim a falling off of as high as 35 per cent, while others report little or no difference in their receipts. Others whose volume of business has decreased attribute it to other causes, as well as the tax, such as knitting clubs, Red Cross work, the Red Triangle campaign for funds, and other war-time activities.

Aid of Film Industry to Curb Unscrupulous Asked by Government

The unscrupulous exhibitor who has used the war tax as a mask to cover profiteering by the imposition of the law, has come to the notice of the government.

In a direct appeal through Mark Eisner, collector of internal revenue for New York, the government asks that the film industry hunt out these individuals and refuse to either sell or lease them films.

“While in the case of certain high priced houses,” said Mr. Eisner, “in order to avoid handling pennies, the price of $35 cents has been raised to 50 cents, inclusive of the tax there would seem to be little objection. But when we come to patrons less fortunately situated and find the proprietors of some 5 cent houses imposing upon the ignorance of their patrons by charging them taxes which are not designed to be turned over to the government it seems to make it very necessary action be taken.”

“While it may be possible to prosecute for receiving money under false pretenses those who are guilty of this offense, I feel confident that the film industry can do much toward eradicating this evil by refusing to sell or lease to any concern which deceives its patrons in order to make a profit by false pretenses.”

Mr. Eisner stated that numerous instances had been found where the proprietors of 5 cent houses were charging 7 cent admission and attributing the increase to the tax.

Petrova Picture Co.
to Issue Booklet “Ten Reasons Why”

The Petrova Picture Company, which, during the coming year, will present Madame Petrova in a series of eight pictures, has, in course of preparation, a booklet entitled “Ten Reasons Why.” Among the various subjects dealt with in the column are the star herself; the world-wide advertising campaign which has been inaugurated in behalf of the pictures; the selection of plays; the pictures; cost of production; public popularity; supporting cast; laboratory treatment of pictures; editing and titling, and the staff of studio assistants.

When the band plays "Over There!" it recalls to each of us a solemn duty to be prepared with the "Flag" and "Right Here." If you can't go across, come across—with the war tax.

The film salesman who doesn't expect to play a comeback always sings: "Do! Do! My Huckleberry Do—be careful when you do it, but when you do the exchanges, why, be sure and do them good." Then he returns to the hats, caps and suits, and stitches for dear life.

"Hold 'em Yale!" says Thad Letendre as he slips over a three XXX calendar all dolled up on one side with the picture of Ethel Clayton and on the reverse side, legend: "How to make ends meet on thirty cents a day. Good stuff. Lee, now you're getting down to cases."

Famous Film Star Gets Legal Right to Name Theda Bara

Before Supreme Court Justice Donnelly, in New York, on Friday, November 23, Theodosia Goodman, known to motion picture patrons as Theda Bara, received permission to take the name most famous by her in films circles.

At the same time Esther Goodman, a nineteen-year-old sister of the Fox star, who is about to enter the theatrical biz, was given permission to use the name Loro Bara.

Miss Bara, who resides at 500 West End Avenue, New York city, said that she was permitted to use the name Francis Bara de Coper. Her father has been a citizen of the United States since 1884.

Nicholas Power Co.

Elects W. C. Smith as General Manager

At a recent meeting of the board of di-rec tors of the Nicholas Power Company. New York. Will C. Smith, the well known projection engineer, was made general manager of the company. The appointment will meet with general favor in the motion picture industry. Through his extensive experience with traveling shows, his supervision of many of the most important machine installations, his years of association with the Nich-olas Power Company, as well as a most thorough research of the art of projec-tion along scientific lines, he has attained such an eminence in this work that to-day exhibitors and operators consider him an authority.

Mr. Smith is treasurer of the Screen Club. New York; treasurer of the National Society of Projection Engineers, a member of the Machinery Club, and also of the Green Room Club.

M. J. Weisfeldt of Wholesome Films Corp. Predicts Evening Shows for "Juveniles"

Bases Opinion on Study of Situation—Strong Demand for Programs Embracing Pictures for Old and Young

That one day each week, evening shows included, will in the future be devoted to children's program is the prediction of M. J. Weisfeldt, general manager Wholesome Films Corporation.

Mr. Weisfeldt has just completed a thorough investigation among exhibitors throughout the country and upon that he bases his opinion. "We found a very strong demand for children's programs but an alarming shortage of pictures adaptable to them," reports Mr. Weisfeldt. "I do not mean by children's programs just the so-called 'kiddie' pictures. The young of our nation have a broader appreciation of motion picture essentials than their elders permit them to have of any other sort of paid amusement.

Demand Clean Plots
"The result is that children demand a little hit more than the 'kiddie' pictures. The picture to suit this demand must be clean in story, action and production, yet not so adult as to be 'over the heads' of children, nor too youthful in plot not to interest their elders.

"One exhibitor whom I interviewed gave me an excellent illustration. He said, 'The whole children's program demand is the old story of the circus over again. I recall how it was with my father and mother, and I know how it is since I have children.'"

"Circus as Example"
"The circus, primarily for children, is an adult amusement as well and always will be. My father always took me to every circus that came to our town. "Why did he do it? I'll tell you. There were two reasons; he wanted me to see the circus and he wanted to see it himself.

"Often he would talk about it long after the activities of youth had chased the circus from off my reflective horizon. That's the answer to children's programs.

"Get good, clean pictures that will entertain them and also their elders, and you solve a big problem for the producer, as well as for we exhibitors, and the public."

"Acting upon what this investigation has disclosed, Wholesome Picture Corporation will offer exhibitors a complete children's program including a novelty reel, comedy, scenic and dramatic feature.

"We have been working upon this plan for some time and can now book to exhibitors an entire children's program of diversified entertainment containing drama in the feature, clean humor in the comedy and something decidedly unique in the novelty reel."

Citizens of Chicago
O. K. "Cleopatra" Film

Several hundred representative Chicagoans crowded Orchestra Hall last week at the special showing of the William Fox production, "Cleopatra," with Theda Bara. The picture had not then been submitted to Second Deputy Superintendent of Police Funkhouser for censor-ship and had that dignitary been present the various expressions of approval might have swayed him to some extent.

Students, artists, critics, players and devotees of history and art, all placed their stamp of approval on the latest Fox spectacle.

The invitation list used by the Fox company contained names of those high in the social, political and business life of the city and from the appearance of the house many of them responded.

Railroad President Cites "The Planter" for Scenic Beauty

"The Planter," a Mutual special production, based on Herman Whitaker's novel, is pointed out by F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad, as illustrating his contention that motion pictures have done more to stimulate travel by Americans in America than any other single agency.

Mr. Underwood is enthusiastic over the possibilities of enlisting the motion picture camera in a camera to popularize scenic beauties of this continent.

Yonker Power and his company spent several weeks in southern Mexico filming the scenes, "The Planter," and the beauties of the country, as set forth in the picture, called forth Mr. Underwood's comment.

ESSBAYAN PRESIDENT AND SCREEN STARS HELP FOOD BUREAU

Illinois Exhibitors Cooperating With Geo. K. Spoor--Holmes and Gardner Lend Aid

Chicago "Four Minute Men" who helped boost the sale of Liberty Bonds during the recent campaign celebrated the success of their work with a field day and stag dinner at the Edgewater Golf Club recently.

Taylor Holmes, former stage come-dian, now being featured in Essany comedy dramas, gave several humorous recitations and Jack Gardner followed with numbers from his stage successes.

The Chicago "Four Minute Men" are now biding their efforts to support Food Administration over's emergency campaign. Mr. Holmes and Mr. Gard-ner speak nightly at Chicago picture houses. Mr. Holmes has added a num-ber; the short recitations to his program and Mr. Gardner is winning the plaudits of his audiences by singing "Over There.

Wheeler Ferguson, who has had the leading feminine roles in several pic-tures featuring Holmes and Gardner, has added to her war activities by accom-panying the "Four Minute Men" and distributing food economy pledge cards and food conservation literature.

George K. Spoor, president of the Es-sanay Motion Picture Bureau of Food Administration, has practically completed his organization of the exhibitors. Mr. Spoor reports that the photo playhouse owners have given the women their hearty co-opera-tion.

Mr. Spoor recently received a letter of commendation from State Food Adminis-trator Harry Wheeler, praising him for the success gained in the organization and co-operation of the exhibitors of the state.

Northwest Exhibitors to Distribute Films as Economy Measure

Minneapolis, Minn.—Elimination of unnecessary expenses in the motion pic-ture business were discussed here at a meeting of the theatre managers of the northwestern states at the West hotel last week.

Special stress was laid on economies in the distribution of motion pictures and much was said in favor of the exhibitors distrib-uting the films themselves. Increased operating costs may make this necessary, Thomas J. Hamlin, sec-retary and manager of the organization, said.

H. L. Hartman, Mandan, N. D., presi-dent of the organization presided and addresses were made by James Goldsly, St. Paul, president of the Motion Pic-ture Exhibitors Corporation of the Northwest; W. C. Chamberlain repres-enting the National Association of Motion Picture Industries, and Frank Ne-mec, president of the United Theatre Company.
Taylor Holmes and Mary MacLane Star in Essanay Special Feature Series

New Productions Will Be Of Six or More Parts Adapted From Popular Books—National Advertising Campaign Begins in December

Essanay will soon begin the publication of special features of six or more parts according to an announcement by President George K. Spoor, who adds that the stories are being selected from the best books or literature of the day and only stars of national importance will appear in them. They will be issued as specials independent of any program.

A national advertising campaign is about to be launched including the billboard of the entire country. This work with other lines of advertising will begin early in December.

One picture already has been completed, another is in course of production and the rights for two others have been purchased and are being put into shape.

"Uneasy Money" for Holmes

The first picture will feature Taylor Holmes in "Uneasy Money," taken from P. G. Wodehouse's story which ran in the Saturday Evening Post. The story starts in London and ends in the United States. Taylor Holmes takes the part of an impoverished English lord who is virtually a pauper. Shortly afterward the American who was a millionaire, died leaving him all his money, because he was the only man who had gratuitously shown him a kindness.

The young lord learns that there is a niece and nephew in America who will be cut off without a penny. He writes the girl but she will have none of the money. The young lord and the girl finally fall in love without knowing who the other is. When she discovers his identity she refuses to have anything more to do with him. A second will be found giving all the money to the girl. A compromise is effected and all ends happily.

Mary MacLane's Film

The second feature to be published will be that of Mary MacLane in one of her most popular parts as "Who Have Made Love to Me." This is a series of affairs with young men who fall passionately in love with her.

The picture will be followed by Mr. Holmes in "Ruggles of Red Gap," from the book by Harry Leon Wilson. L. C. Windom is now selecting a company of players for the tour to Arizona where, it is said, locations have been found corresponding to those in the story.

"The Warrior" Ranked Among Year's "Ten Big Photo Plays" by Critic in Article in Leading Magazine

The seven-part feature, "The Warrior," controlled by Arthur Sawyer and Herbert Lubin of the General Enterprise Inc., starring Maciste, the giant of "Cabiria," has been accorded the honor of being classed as one of the current year's "Ten Big Photo Plays."

In a resume of the year's noteworthy picture productions by a leading theatrical critic and published in one of the leading magazines, "The Warrior" is mentioned as ranking with features of the calibre of "The Birth of a Nation," "Seventeenth," "Civilization," "The Honor System" and "The Maxman."

It is a tribute to the artistry of Maciste that "Cabiria," the great spectacle in which he made his initial starring appearance in this country, is also listed as one of "The Year's Ten Big Pictures."

"The Warrior" is rapidly being disposed of on the state right basis to various purchasers throughout the country, and will shortly be seen in all of the leading photo-play houses of the United States. It was filmed by the apparatus of the Company of Turino, Italy, and visualizes in vivid style many scenes of the present terrific conflict between the Italian army and the Austro-German forces.

The Allen Film Company, Chicago, has purchased the rights on "The Warrior for Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska.

Balaban & Katz Firm Makes Novel Use of Portable Projector

Balaban & Katz, owners of the new Central Park theatre, Chicago, are being congratulated by patrons of the new motion picture house, upon the appropriate and well timed orchestration of the film being shown.

These theatre men are among the first to put the Safety Projector, a portable machine, to its fullest possibilities. Each time a new film is received a morning rehearsal of the symphony orchestra is called. With the aid of the projector—its adaptability is such that it does not require the services of an expert operator—the film can be stopped instantly, reversed, run fast or slowed—a perfect harmony between the music and film is attained which has won the appreciation of the Central Park audience.

The projector, which is manufactured by the Safety Projector Co., of Chicago, and handled locally by McMillan & Crowley, is the first of its kind to be installed in churches and schools in the showing of educational subjects and by various business concerns. The local representatives will handle the projector and present it as a genuine interest theater owners in the possibilities of their machine.

Many Exhibitors at Trade Showing of "Romanoff" Film

Theatre Men of New York and Northern New Jersey mail to Brenon Picture

A trade showing of Herbert Brenon's production, "The Fall of the Romanoffs," was held last week at the Wurzitzer exhibition rooms, under the direction of Sol J. Berman, sales manager for the Brenon Distributing Corporation, for New York and northern New Jersey.

Many exhibitors from this territory were present and expressed their enthusiasm over the big production with frequent applause. Mr. Berman made an address, outlining the Brenon Corporation's publicity plans for "The Fall of the Romanoffs." The Monk Iliodor, who appears in the historical drama, was present, and spoke to the exhibitors through an interpreter.

Among the exhibitors present were the Messrs. Wilt of the Adelphi, A. Bolognino of the Italo Theatre, C. Steiner of the New Fourteenth Street Theatre, Meyer & Schneider of the Palace, S. Krauss of the Astor Fifth Avenue, A. Harsten of the Regun, Edelstein of the Mt. Morris, Hurst of the Harlem Strand, Butler of the Atlas, S. Picture Rights to Kathleen Norris Story Acquired by Edison

The motion picture rights to "Josselyn's Wife," the latest magazine serial by Kathleen Norris, have been acquired by the Edison Studios. The production of the story is now appearing in the Pictorial Review. The production will feature a Broadway star and will be issued as a Perfection Picture through the George R. Hussey system.

James Montgomery Flagg, the artist, is appearing in a series of pictures featuring types of attractive American girls. The pictures were made at the Edison Studios and will be entitled "Girls You Know."

“Lest We Forget” Selznick War Spectacle Featuring Rita Jolivet Now Complete

Select Pictures Will Distribute Feature Showing Historical Events Leading up to War With Germany—Sinking of Lusitania Depicted

After six months of work Lewis J. Selznick’s war drama, “Lest We Forget,” starring Rita Jolivet, has been completed. Approximately 27,000 persons have been used in filming the picture. It will be distributed through the Select exchanges.

This latest of war spectacles is founded on the series of historical events which led up to our declaration of war with Germany and includes in its scenes the sinking of the Lusitania. So impressed were government officials with Miss Jolivet’s plans for the production that government agents here gratefully made use of at every stage of its development.

The trenched used in the battle scenes were dug by United States troops under the supervision of Allied officers; the interned Austrian liner, the Martha Washington, was placed at the command of Miss Jolivet and her company for the filming of scenes in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania, to which entrance has been made exceedingly difficult since the war, opened its doors to the French star and her company.

In filming the Lusitania’s sinking, the icy waters of New York bay provided a realistic setting for the extras who leaped from the liner’s decks, and at one time there were over a hundred people floundering about in the water.

“Lest We Forget” is American in theme and treatment and its presentation of the incidents which finally plunged the United States into war, is a masterly defense of this country’s course and its showing of Allied heroism to a thinking and patriotic people the tremendous issues at stake in the present war and the righteousness of the allied cause.

Advance Deposit System Evil Exposed in Metro Suit Against Chicago Exhibitor

A suit of the Metro Pictures Corporation against Charles Bugg, owner of the Bugg Theatre, 3940 North Roscoe street, Chicago, was dismissed on a technicality by Judge Hugh Kearns of the Municipal court of Chicago on Nov. 19. Judge Kearns took the case from a jury and made his decision in chambers.

The origin of the suit dates back to the fire in the Pathe film exchange in the Consumers building last summer. Mr. Bugg had played “The Greatest Power” and delivered it to the Chicago Service company to be returned to the Metro exchange. The latter claims that it never received the film from the pickup man, it is said, through an error gave the film to the Pathe exchange. According to Metro it was destroyed in the fire.

The Metro company fixed its loss at $163 and Mr. Bugg told the manager of the Chicago exchange, C. E. Smith, that he would try to collect this amount from the Chicago Service company and turn it over to them.

Service Held Up

Previous to this Mr. Bugg had tendered cancellation of his service with the Metro company and had begun to work out his thirty days’ notice.

His first show, he says, came through all right, but the second was held up because he had not paid for the lost film. Mr. Bugg thereupon ceased to take the service. He had $130 on deposit which the company refused to return to him it is alleged.

In the suit the film company not only sought to recover the value of the lost print but also asks that it be awarded the deposit money for Mr. Bugg’s alleged failure to live up to his contract.

Would Bond Pick-ups

“This suit,” says Mr. Bugg, “has opened my eyes to a condition which the exhibitors should take immediate steps to remedy. The pick-up men should be bonded and held responsible for the delivery and return of films.

“The way things are now the exhibitor is responsible for the film from the time it leaves the exchange until it is returned. The film exchange receives as much benefit from the fact that there is such a service as does the exhibitor, but assumes none of the responsibility.”

Foursquare Pictures Incorporates in Colo. to Meet Conditions

An important transaction in the distribution field was concluded this week when the Foursquare Pictures, Inc., of Colorado, a corporation created to meet the unusual conditions surrounding the distributing of motion pictures in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico, was formed.

The officers are George Backer, M. H. Hoffman and Ben. S. Cohen, and the concern will have a close affiliation with M. H. Hoffman, Inc.

This arrangement will insure better results to the exhibitors in this inter-mountain territory because it is maintained the product obtained is suited to the motion picture patrons in this section.

American Made Pictures in Favor Abroad

Ninety per cent of the motion picture films shown in the district of Bristol, England, are American, according to the report of the American consul. Serials, it is true, are growing in favor.

“Fully ninety per cent of the moving picture films now shown in this district are of American manufacture,” the consul states.

Marcos Loew Books Select Productions for Theater Circuit

Lewis J. Selznick Personally Secures Largest Contract—Many Features of Star Series Completed

Lewis J. Selznick, president of the Select Pictures Corporation, recently took a hand in the selling of films and signed up Marcus Loew for his New York circuit in one of the largest contracts ever written for the Loew theatres.

This contract calls for runs in all Marcus Loew houses throughout Greater New York and New Rochelle. The productions covered by it include all of the star pictures produced by Clara Kimball Young and her own company, by the Norma Talmadge Film Company and pictures starring Alice Brady and Constance Talmadge. They will be shown in the various branches of the Marcus Loew circuit for runs of seventy consecutive days each.

Each of the stars whose pictures are affected by this contract have already completed one or more features.

New San Francisco Motion Picture House Seats 2,800 Persons

The opening of the California Theatre, Fourth and Market streets, recently placed at the disposal of San Francisco motion picture lovers the largest motion picture house in the West, and one of the finest in the country. Its seating capacity is 2,800, with accommodations in the various rest and waiting rooms for 500 more.

The theatre is in pure gothic style, devoid of ornament, but provided with gradients which yield easy access to the balcony and gallery.

The organ pipes are mainly placed above a prosenium arch and to the right and left of the stage. The echo organ is placed above the ceiling and its tones are heard through a trellis or grill work design.

The enterprise represents an investment of approximately $1,750,000.

Ivan Abramson Out of Ivan Film Company

Ivan Abramson is no longer director-general of the Ivan Film Productions, according to an announcement made by that company. I. E. Chadwick, former general manager, is now the head of the company.

The interests of Mr. Abramson in the company have been purchased by Mr. Chadwick and his associates. The company intimates that the retiring director-general may make a “picture or two,” but if he does so it will be simply in the same manner as any other directors who might be engaged by the company.
Ann Pennington in
"THE ANTONICS OF ANN"
Paramount Comedy; Five Parts; Published November 12

As a whole.......................... Entertaining
Story .................................. Clever
Star .................................... Mischievous
Support .................................... Good
Settings ..................................... Excellent
Photography ................................... Clear

For a wholesome, clean, laugh provoking comedy, "The Antics of Ann" leaves little to be desired. As a girl in her teens with tom-boy tendencies, Miss Pennington is at her best and her antics as a pupil at a seminary are "age-reducing." She is well supported by a cast including Harry Ham, W. T. Carleton and Charlotte Garnville.

The Story: After breaking every rule in the Bredwell Seminary, Ann Wharton is dismissed. Seeking to beat the notification of her suspension to her father, she runs away from the school that night. She goes to sleep in a row boat and is awakened the following morning when her craft bumps a railroad bridge. Meeting Tom Randall, with whom she has formed a friendship, he takes her home where her father finds them, having been apprised of her leaving by the seminary principal who hinted at an elopement. Ann is then taken to a winter resort where her father and sister are staying. Here Tom again finds her. She breaks up an elopement of her sister and a fortune hunter by going to the latter's room and staying there until the time for the tryst has passed. Accused of compromising herself by her father, she goes to Tom's apartment and demands that he marry her which he does and the couple receive a father's blessing from Mr. Wharton.

World Film Corporation Presents
"OVER HERE"

Wm. A. Brady's special news picture; two parts

"Over Here" was made by the city of Little Rock, Ark, as something of special interest to all citizens of the United States. It shows the building of Camp Pike, just outside Little Rock, which was accomplished in fifty-two days. The workmen entered the wild country some time in June and on the 30th of September had finished Camp Pike, which covers three thousand acres of land and has every protection and convenience for the soldiers.

The building of the two-story barracks is a picture in itself. The men worked like an army, and in exactly two hours and fifty-five minutes had finished the building. Another particularly interesting piece of work was done by four hundred men, who simultaneously erected three buildings in thirty-eight minutes.

Sanitation has been carefully looked after and the camp has twenty-seven miles of sewer pipe, through which flow two million and a half gallons of water a day.

Major John R. Fordyce, construction quartermaster, is shown with his force of employees, and they wear most appropriately an expression of deep satisfaction, for the erection of the buildings and the construction of the waterworks right before the spectator's eyes seem miraculously like the fairy tales of old.

There is a melodramatic tone to "Easy Money" that makes it an interesting production and one that should prove a good offering for the majority of play houses. It is a story of domestic troubles and the average audience will like the manner in which the question is treated. Exhibitors know the box office value of Miss Clayton's name and this can be used as a strong advertising argument. John Bowers offers Ethel Clayton exceptional support, and Frank Mayo, Louise Vale, Eugenie Woodward and Charles Morgan handle their roles well. The direction is by Travers Vale.

"The Winged Mystery" is a little out of the beaten track of former Farnum comedies and it is pleasing to note Mr. Farnum has abandoned his use of so much mimicry and is somewhat original. In the dual role, however, it is difficult to follow him. On the other hand if Franklin Farnum is a favorite with your patrons they and are not tired of dual roles this production will undoubtedly prove a good offering for your house. A new leading lady in Mr. Farnum's company is also a real and probably with one role and Claire Du Brey offers him support in the "Myrdie" character. The direction is by Joseph De Grasse.

The story: Louis Siever and Capt. August Siever, brothers and bohemian inhabitants of Germany, Louis is an American and August is a stanch Prussian. Louis is planning to leave for America, when August steals his passports and takes Gerda Anderson, of the spy stage, away with him. In America they they meet a number of Americans to a dinner, including Shirley Wayne, who has met and is much impressed with Louis. It is the plan of the spies to hold Shirley and her friends for ransom. Some of the gentle- men prove too clever for the Germans, however, and the house is attacked. An explosion which the spies had intended to use in killing off their pursuers causes their death. Shirley, not knowing there are two Sievers, is much in the imp-罗ctic that the man she cared about is the German agent, but when Louis recovers in an attic where he has been gagged and bound, Shirley is pleased and indications point to a happy future.

Kathleen Clifford in
"WHO IS 'NUMBER ONE'"
Paramount serial in fifteen episodes; episodes 1, 2, 3 and 4

"Who is 'Number One'?" is another "walk-out" picture and without doubt one of the poorest attempts at melodrama ever filmed. It abounds in crude imitations of the Williamson Brothers' two-acting and photography and wholly im-possible situations. Miss Clifford is neither pleasing in her close-ups nor in her acting and the whole is so poorly done the reviewer wonders that Paramount had the temerity to offer it to the public. A gang of crooks is supposed to have hounded the principal male character in the story for eighteen years, yet not one of the gang looks to be over twenty years of age. It takes more than hooded supers, cardboard murmuraries and china scenes to interest picture patrons nowadays. They are looking for virile stories, well acted, and care little for names of great authors if they cannot write screen fiction that holds. In this case many patrons will doubtly have found and probably with good grounds—that Anna Katherine Green wrote the serial.

The story: "The flaming Cross," Episode No. 1.—For eighteen years Graham Hale has received anonymous communica-tions warning him of death and each one signed by a peculiar letter "T." Aimee Villon has been adopted by Hale, having met her in France some years previous. The myster-iou's "Number One" orders the safe at the Hale home to be robbed. Aimee hears the noise and tries to prevent the burglary. She is captured but her cries arouse the house. She is rescued. A burning cross is found in the yard. "The Flying Fortress," Episode No. 2.—Hale goes in search of the gang who stole the plans to the submarine invention and orders an extra guard at the works. The gang escapse on a train but is pursued by the Flying Fortress. None of the shots take effect and it is learned that putty bullets had been placed in the guns instead of real ones. Tommy, Hale's son, is knocked unconscious. When he is found the mark of death is found upon his sleeve. "The Sea Crawler," Episode No. 3.—The gang in order to make sure of their escape, steal the sea crawler, another invention of Hale's. This is a battleship that crawls on the bottom of the ocean. They learn of a treasure ship that has been sunk and Hale learns through Tom if the gang's plan and secures another Crawler and goes in pursuit. Tom fights on the bottom of the ocean with the gang and is wounded. The followers of the mysterious "Number One" escape with the treasure. "A Marine Miracle," Episode No. 4.—Tom is rescued from a floating plank and the party returns to find the gang. Hale's party is discovered first and in order to escape a tor-pedo they are forced to jump into the ocean. Aimee is picked up by the gang but Tom and his father escape and are later rescued by a passing steamer. Aimee and the crew of the stolen submarine are held captive in an old warehouse. Aimee writes a note on a piece of linen and throws it out of the window. It is picked up by a child, who uses it as a dress for her doll. A policeman who conveniently runs by picks up the child as the gang blows up the subapey.

A delightful story and one that will prove pleasing to both old and young is "The Mate of the Sally Ann." It is suitable for every class of audience. The charm of Miss Minter increases with each picture and as the mate of the Sally Ann, a dilapidated schooner, she is indeed appealing. An important member of the supporting cast is a three-legged dog, which proves itself to be a born actor. The supporting cast includes Alan Forrest, George Periolot, Jack Connolly and Adele Farrington. Direction by Henry King.

The story: Sally, living alone with her stern grandfather in the bulk of an old ship, makes friends with Judge Gordon, through a liking for one of his dogs. The judge is struck with Sally's resemblance to the woman he secretly married. He visits the girl's grandfather to learn who Sally's parents are. The grandfather prayed each day for an opportunity to slay the man who had ruined his daughter and given him a grandchild without a name, for upon the birth of Sally her mother died but would not disclose the name of the baby's father. The old man attacks the judge, Sally, interfering, is knocked unconscious by a blow. The judge produces a marriage certificate proving that Sally is his own child. Sally's grandfather forgives the judge and he is made sailing master of a huge yacht of which Sally is mistress.

TUCKER TO DIRECT MABEL NORMAND

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation announces that George Loane Tucker has been engaged to direct Mabel Normand's second Goldwyn Picture. Work on the new production will be begun at once.

Mr. Tucker has just completed the direction of Mae Marsh's third Goldwyn production, "The Cinderella Man," adapted from the play by Edward Childs Carpenter, a Christ-mas story timed for the Christmas season.
Exhibitors anxious to do their bit undoubtedly will book "Draft 258." The production is propaganda pure and simple and like most other propaganda pictures, this one has been kept uppermost in the minds of the producers, thereby allowing dramatic inconsistencies to creep in. And yet for the good points which Mr. Cabanne has wrought into the story, he must be given credit and his thought is well worth the reading.

The subtitles are well chosen and contain more truth than poetry. Mabel Taliaferro is well cast as Mary Alden and is accorded good support by Earl Brunswick, Sue Balfour, Eugene Borden, Walter Miller and Wm. H. Tooker.

The story: John Graham, sweetheart of Mary Alden, enlists, but Mary's two brothers refuse to do so. Mary goes to a recruiting station and asks if she cannot do something which makes men want to go so ashamed that they rush up anxious to do their bit. She finally persuades her younger brother, George, to go. The elder brother, Joseph, joins a gang of German propagandists. Harry Schneider, leader of the gang, allows all the dangerous work to fall to Andrew. One evening Andrew gives one of his famous speeches, but Mary and her company interfere and breaks up the meeting. Mary is captured by Schneider and taken to the gang's headquarters. They are followed by George and Nell of the U.S. secret service. Andrew permits all this to happen and demands a ransom, but the younger brother, Joseph, brings the gang down in several munitions factories while in operation. Then the American blood in Andrew is aroused and he rebels. He is made a prisoner. George, having gone for help, hurries to the home with a company; while the smaller brother is captured and Mary is saved. Andrew joins the U.S. army and the two brothers, with John, their brother-in-law, marv once more to war leaving Mary and her mother behind. The picture was shown at the Rose Theatre, Chicago, last week.

The story of "The Man from Montana" is an exciting one, but it takes an alert mind to keep pace with the events and know just what is going on. The first part of the story is laid in the west and then it switches to the east and treats of the fact that is the arrest of the man from the west who goes to the east to marry the girl he loves. Vivian Rich makes her debut under the Butterfly banner and offers Mr. Hart pleasing support. George Berrell, E. J. Pell, Betty Lamb and Willard Willkie are other members of the cast.

The story: Warren Sumers and his wife, together with their pretty relative, Meta, go to the town of Green Water to purchase the Bumble Bee Mine, owned by Duke and Dad. Duke goes out of town. and Duke receives worthless stock in payment. Duke learning of this goes east to find out about the swindlers and to again see Meta. In the meantime Dad and the boys work an abandoned mine known as "The Wurm" and strike it rich. Being unable to get in touch with Duke, Meta goes east to tell him the good news. In their search for him they wander to the docks where they are snatched. Duke arrives at the docks and finds Meta there. He makes a romance across the state line where she is visiting her grandparents for Sumers: thereupon he returns to the state for taking a girl out of the state. Returning to New York again Duke marries Meta which angles Sumers and his gang. They kidnap Meta and then tell Duke that by having a large omelet of "the big boys" he will deliver some stocks for Sumers: when he gets them Meta uses some art to take a girl out of the state. Returning to the docks Meta is shanghaied and put on the boat with Dad and the boys. When they recover they tell each other their troubles and then deliver a sock to shore where Duke arrives in time to rescue Meta from the hands of her crafty relatives and the swindlers are turned over to the law.

Though the story of "Indiscreet Corinne" might strike some picture patrons as being a bit risqué, it is entertaining and is the sort of production that can be booked for almost any class of audience. The story is lively and well acted. It has a good plot, contains many a laugh and the subtitles are fine.

Olive Thomas, who wins her audience right from the beginning, is splendid in her characterization of Corinne Chilvere. She is well supported by George Chestro, Joe Bennett, Joseph Sedgwick, Annette De For, Lillian Langdon, Thos. H. Guise, Lou Cooley, Thornton Edwards, Edwin Brady, Anna Dodge and Harry Rattenberry. The story is by H. B. Daniels and written by Jack Conroy. Corinne is a married woman who learns that the man she is married to is an impostor. It is a well-made picture and should be well worthseeing.

The story: Corinne Chilvere, to escape the boredom of high society, secures employment with the firm of Britton and Dodge, as a woman with a past, to win Nicholas Fenwick, a reported South American millionaire. Pansy Hartley, posing as a countess, is also set on the trail of Fenwick by Britton and Dodge. Thinking to win Fenwick through mystery, Corinne becomes a masked dancer at a famous cabaret and he is won immediately. She is engaged to dance at his dinner party and later at a house party of the Cotter Brown's. Fenwick and the Countess go to the city to bring Corinne, but Corinne learns that the man she is on the trail of is not Fenwick. They stop at the country home of Rocky Van Sandt. Van Sandt and Corinne are betrothed, but Van Sandt loves the Countess and Corinne has fallen in love with Fenwick, when she learns that Fenwick is an emigre in the United States for a vacation. They are married and Corinne wins the forgiveness of her parents. The picture pleased audiences at the Pastime Theatre, Chicago, where it was shown last week.

"The Painted Madonna" has much to recommend it and pleased large audiences at the Boston theatre, Chicago, where it was shown Sunday, November 17. William Fox made a wise choice in selecting this play for Mme. Markova's debut. The story is one well suited to her histrionic ability and she is accorded excellent support by a carefully balanced cast of players including Sidney Mason, William Lampe, David Herbin, Albert Tavernier, Anita Navaro, Edith Reeves and Julia Stuart.

The story concerns the fall and rise of an impulsive country girl who redeems herself and her past indiscretions by caring for less fortunate girls and their children in a home she establishes. The settings are good throughout and the photography is expert. O. A. C. Lund directed.

The story: Ruth Dean is in love with an unscrupulous cad, John Radon, who betrays her confidence. She leaves home, learning to bring disgrace upon her aged mother, and joins a show as chorus girl. Her mother dies and she becomes hardened toward all men while accepting their bounty. Taylor, an artist whom she had met in her home town, prevails upon her to pose for him as a Madonna. He falls in love with her and later when stricken with color blindness the artist soon loses his self-respect and denounces Claire, as Ruth is known in the city. The artist returns to the village where he meets Ruth worshipping in a church. She saves a youthful companion from Radon's clutches and Taylor learning of her charities, realizes he has misjudged her and asks forgiveness.

Some people may object to "A Case at Law" on the grounds that there is too much drinking and staggering in it, but the play is well done nevertheless. It is a propaganda play with a good story, and while it might not appeal to all classes those appreciative of good work will enjoy it from that standpoint. Dick Rosson's interpretation of an intoxicated youth is a fine piece of work. Pauline Curley is a petite little wife, and Riley Hatch, as the stern physician, is good. The direction is by Arthur Rosson under the supervision of Alan Dwan.

The story: In order to fight his craving for drink Jimmy Baggs goes west, taking his wife with him. In a saloon known as Art's place he becomes helplessly intoxicated. The young wife, frightened, rushes to Doctor Sanger for assistance. From their general conversation the doctor realizes that the young woman is his daughter whom he had left with an aunt while he came west to fight off the drink habit. He has succeeded, and in order to help Jimmy, asks the young folks to make their home with him. Art, angered at the Doctor's interference, is at first depressed by him and when he learns of his attachment for Jimmy lures the boy in his place again and gets him intoxicated. This arouses the doctor's ire and he goes to the saloon where, pretending to drink and become intoxicated, he shoots at Art, injuring him. The incident, witnessed by Jimmy, brings it to his senses and he makes a vow never to drink again. Doctor Sanger is arrested and tried, but the jury, sympathetic with his efforts, frees him and marries him to his wife, and her father. The photoplay pleased at the Pastime Theater, Chicago.

"Nearly Married" is a production an exhibitor can feel confident every one of his patrons will like. It contains good, clean comedy, done in a refined manner. It is as appropriate for the discriminating audience as for any class and will undoubtedly be enjoyed by everyone. Exhibitors should find "Nearly Married" a good box office attraction.

Madge Kennedy, who possesses the art of making you like her, plays the lead and is ably supported by Frank Thomas, Mark Smith, Alma Tell, Richard Barthelness and Elda Purry. The story is by Edgar Selwyn and the direction by Chester Withey.

The story: It is the evening of Betty Giffon's wedding, the guests are assembled, the minister is waiting but no bride appears. Betty is waiting for her brother Dickie, who is celebrating his admission to the bar, and when it dawns upon him that it is his duty to give his sister away in marriage, he rushes frantically out, steals an auto and is arrested. Betty and Harry Lindsey are married and are about to start on their honeymoon when word comes of Dickie's arrest. Harry is disgusted with Dickie and leaves the house. Dickie, anxious to secure a case, urges his sister to get a divorce. Proceedings are instituted and the granting of the decree the young people find they still love each other and plan to elope. The arrival of Dickie with the decree interferes with their plans. They make another attempt and find themself involved in another case by Betty who has just got married in New York state. Betty and Harry then plan to elope to New Jersey but Betty finds the hired corespondent of Harry's in his room and she refuses to accompany him. Utterly disgusted, Harry is about to leave when Betty promises her brother and begs Harry to take her with him. And he does. The picture was shown for the first time in Chicago at the Orpheum Theater this week and was well received.

"The Voice of Conscience" should prove fairly interesting to the average audience. The story is somewhat trite and adds one more dual role production to the already long list. The story: William Potter and Jim Houston are both inmates in a New York prison. Jim receives a letter from his sister telling of his mother's failing health. Believing his brother to be a prosperous business man, she asks Jim to come home. The next day William Potter is to be released. There is such a close resemblance between the two men that Jim persuades Will to go to his home as himself. Will accepts and finds himself, falling in love with Allane, Jim's sister. Will's deception brings consolation to Jim's mother, and shortly afterward she dies. Stephen Johnson is one of Allane's admirers and when Will meets him he recognizes him as the person who sent him, an innocent man, to prison. Some time later Jim is released from prison and returns to his home. Johnson believes it is Will and kills him. Will then confesses his deception to Allane, who forgives him and accepts him as her lover. Will is accused of the murder and as the jury deliberates, the colored boy, who had been paid by Johnson to commit the crime, but who had at the last moment run away, tells the truth. Johnson tries to escape, but is shot by a guard and confesses to the murder, also to the fact that Will is innocent of the crime for which he was sent to prison.

For an evening's entertainment full of humor, excitement, action, and enjoyment the producers' "Gift O' Gab" and exhibitors on the alert for a film with a punch will find it here. Careful attention to details has been paid to bringing out the humor and thrills and this is one of the things that is going to help the "Gift O' Gab" to the top. As a production's success will be the pleased expressions on the faces of patrons leaving the theatre.

Jack Gardner, Helen Ferguson and Frank Morris handle the leading roles and the support includes John Cossar and Frankie Raymond. Each member of the supporting cast has appreciated the spirit of the story and each has done his bit to make it worthwhile. The story was adapted by H. Tipton Steel and L. Hadir an anonymous writer.

The story: After he wins the day for Waltham's football squad, Tom Bain becomes a hero to Peggy Dinsmore. Their romance grows and finally Tom asks Peggy's father, but father tells him he will have to earn more than forty dollars a month as Peguy pays that much for one hat. The news is a shock to Tom, but undaunted he determines to win her. He invents a machine which will enter a tunnel and go through without the assistance of a man and with his "gift of gab" for which he is noted, he is able to secure some money as an option on the invention. He is then called in by the owner of the company holding the option and is told his invention is of importance but his "gift of gab" is useless to him. He will receive a large salary as salesman. Tom immediately goes for the marriage license, with which he promised to return to Peggy as soon as his income was sufficient. He falls down a shaft of the mine and is injured to such an extent that he is taken to a hospital, where he finds Peggy is also a patient. A minister who is a patient marries them, but Tom has to use his "gift of gab" again to make Peggy's mother and father see him as a son-in-law.

"The Judgment House" is the story of a man who rose to the top rung via the diamond fields of the Transvaal, who nearly loses his footing through dissipation. He buys a farm and starts a home. The scenes are laid in England and the Transvaal during the Boer War. Wilfred Lucas as Rudyard Byng, in the leading role, is well cast. Conway Tearle, Paul Douret, Crazy Thursday, Violet Heming, Florence Deshon and Ida Van Dyke are in support.

The story: Jasmine Grenfell forsakes her suitor, Ian Stafford, and marries Rudyard Byng, who has worked his way up in the African diamond mines. Stafford, saddened, goes to Africa. During the three years that follow Byng becomes dissipated. Fellowes, his secretary, has intrigues with several women, including Al'mah, a dancer, and has also attempted to pay attention to Jasmine which arouses the fashionable society and exposes Byng. The husband and wife each suspect the other of the crime. Al'mah joins the Red Cross. The battles that ensue bring out the manhood in Byng. Al'mah is struck by a fragment of shell and in a dying confession admits the murder of Fellowes. Other barriers between the estranged couple grow and they are reunited in a new and happier life.

Carmen, Caprice, Pearson

Brockwell and Walsh Stars

On Fox's December Program

All but one of the William Fox Special features in December will feature women stars, the same actresses appearing as in the 52-a-year pictures for November, except that another new star, Jewel Carmen, will replace the new Russian star, Madam Sonia Markova.

The first picture for December 2 will be a draft-to-the-trenches war story, "The Pride of New York," directed by the Capra brothers, who last year brought us "Miss U. S. A." it will return December 9 in "Unknown 274," the title being the tag number of a foundling in an orphan asylum. The action hinges on the life and identification of the girl, her father being sent to prison after her mother finally being affected through the latter's recognition of the tone of a violin which he played in his younger days and which had been left with the foundling.

Miss Carmen's debut as a Fox star will be made December 16 in "A Soul For Sale," a Western mining camp story in which the heroine sells herself for $6,000 to raise money for her brother, and is "bought" by a minister, who is interested first only for humanitarian and moral reasons, but who eventually develops a much more personal interest in her purchase.

The other two December films have been completed, but not titled. The one for December 23 will be a Virginia Pearson picture, involving an attempt to fasten the theft of a painting on an innocent woman, and the other, available December 30, will feature Gladys Brockwell. This latter story is of a woman who gives her life to save an American spy in Germany.

Novelty Film "The Dream Doll"

To Be Issued by Perfection Dec. 17.

Essanay's new novelty playtop, "The Dream Doll," it is said is an attraction that will delight children and arouse the interest of their elders.

The production will be published on December 17, as a part of the Perfection Pictures program and is the attainment of Howard S. Moss, who has achieved a means of animating dolls. Mr. Moss wrote his own scenario and directed the filming of it.

In "The Dream Doll" a "stock company" of fourteen inch dolls is employed portraying a romance amidst scenery that belies the artificial. Through a patented process and after nearly six months' work, Mr. Moss has portrayed the romance of Ruby and her lover.

Employing the Essanay players Marguerite Claydon and Rodney LaRoue to blend the legend upon which the story is built, the picture should afford rare entertainment for theatre patrons.

Margarita Fischer Completes Film

"A Daughter of Joan" Comedy-Drama

Margarita Fischer has finished "A Daughter of Joan" her new comedy-drama for the American Film Company. It is said to give her opportunity for some entirely new interpretations of screen art.

Lloyd Inghram directed it and the famous "Grizzlies" of California, who passed through Santa Barbara while the story was being filmed marched in the picture.
"The Mate of the Sally Ann"
And "American Maid" Features
On Mutual's Nov. 26 Program

Two five-reel productions of a widely diversified character are on the Mutual schedule for the week of Nov. 26. Mary Miles Minter appears in "The Mate of the Sally Ann," a comedy drama of an unusual type, the first of her productions under the direction of Henry King. "American Maid," starring Edna Goodrich, a distinctly American photoplay, is published on the same date. "American Maid" was directed by Albert Capellani.

The week's schedule includes "A Fight for a Million," Chapter I of "The Stowaway Hero," the third serial mystery serial; "Tom Dick and Harry," a one reel Strand comedy starring Billie Rhodes and "Jerry and the Burglars," a one reel Club comedy starring George Ovey. Mutual Weekly, issued November 26, is as newy as the censors will permit.

Edna Goodrich in "American Maid"

"American Maid" is Miss Goodrich's fourth Mutual production. It gives the noted stage star an opportunity to prove her sobriquet of "the All American Girl. The story, beginning in a French hospital in the war zone, changes to the American West and does not depend on a war theme to maintain interest.

It is essentially an American drama carefully presented. It was directed by Albert Capellani, the French director whose staging of European and American productions has brought him wide fame.

The reproduction of an Embassy call at Washington is one of the few general and most accurate views ever recorded. As is said and the scenes of the French hospital will be of unusual interest to parents of American soldiers.

Miss Minter Picked Play

Mary Miles Minter selected "The Mate of the Sally Ann" from a big list of plays written especially for her and her judgment is justified. As the friendless, motherless ward of her old, sea-faring grandfather, Captain Ward, Miss Minter portrays the life of a lonely, dreaming girl as only she can. An unusual vein of comedy runs through the story, some of which is supplied by a remarkably intelligent dog.

The story is by Henry Albert Phillips. Included in the supporting cast are Alan Forrest, George Periolat, Jack Connolly and Adele Farrington.

Strand Comedy Ready November 27

The Strand Mutual comedy for November 27, starring Billie Rhodes, is "Tom, Dick and Harry," a tale of three chums who match wits to win the love of one girl. One brings candy, another flowers and each doles the other's offerings with dire results.

"A Fight for a Million," chapter XI of "The Lost Express," featuring Helen Holmes in her latest Signal-Mutual serial, develops intense situations as the solution of the mystery draws near. Bonner learns of Helen's plans through a stolen message and a pitched battle is precipitated at the mine in which the conspirators are victims.

She has appeared in a comedy, to be published November 29, George Ovey gets the most out of a cleverly written sketch. The Mutual Weekly, available Monday, November 26, presents happenings of unusual interest abroad and at home.

Max Swayne in December L-Ko's

Three Other Comedies Also on List

Four L-Ko comedies are ready for December, to reach exhibitors through Universal exchanges on the following distribution dates:

"A Hero for a Minute," December 5, featuring Bobby Dunn, late of Keystone's forces, and Kathryn Young, L-Ko's comedy vixen, directed by Robert Kerr, director.

"Deep Sea and Strawberry Express," December 12, starring Myrtle Sterling and featuring Al Forbes at the head of her supporting company. This is directed by Vin Moore.

"Shot in the Excitement," December 19, which pictures the phantasmagoria of a railway train, will have Dave Mongan as the star in a special L-Ko, directed by Craig Hutchinson.

L-Ko's Christmas film will present Max Swayne, the "Ambrose" of screen comedy repute, who will offer "Ambrose's Icy Love," December 26. This one was directed by W. Frederick, who will produce further "Ambrose" frolics as L-Kos.
Virginia Pearson Is Starred in "All for a Husband" Fox Special

"All for a Husband," the Fox special feature, published November 18, features Virginia Pearson. The action centers about a beautiful lunatic, a woman hater, the woman hater’s sister and a friend of the latter. The sister picks her friend to wed her brother, but the latter objects and it is with the outcome of this picture that the scene deals.

Besides Miss Pearson the cast includes Herbert Evans, Dorothy Quincy, Gladys Kelley, Carl Moody and William W. Crimans. Mr. Evans has the role of the woman hater, who also is mayor of the town and in the midst of an election campaign. Miss Pearson plays the role of the woman the sister is chosen for her brother’s wife. The story is by George M. Scarbrough.

Ann Murdock the Noted Stage Star in Frohman Play "Please Help Emily"

Ann Murdock, the Frohman star, reappeared on the screen November 19 in the third of her Empire-Mutual productions, "Please Help Emily," a picturization of the comedy-drama of the same title in which she scored at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, last spring.

The production is presented with practically the entire original cast. Director Dell Henderson has perfected every detail, and the result is a tribute to the efforts of the players to excel the stage version.

The story is exceptionally adapted to the screen, possessing consistency of plot and action. Emily has two ardent admirers; one she likes and one she detests. Threadgold, the unfavored, seeks solace in pursuing Emily with the police when she takes refuge in Trotter’s room after eluding the guardianship of female relatives and friends. Emily finds herself in need of a protector and decides Trotter is "it."

Sharing honors with Miss Murdock are other Frohman players, including Ferdinand Gottschalk, Herbert Druce, Amy E. Johnson, Grace Carlyle and H. Jayne Courtwright.

Dell Henderson, who directed the picture, has been responsible for several of the Empire-Mutual successes. He directed Edna Goodrich in her recent Mutual pictures. He is a veteran stage and motion picture director.

"Fired" a Product of Her Own Pen
Next Goldwyn for Marie Dressler

Marie Dressler has just completed "The Scrub Lady," a comedy being published through Goldwyn exchanges and has begun work on a new piece from her own pen, entitled "Fired," and described as "the story of the busiest day of her life."

"Fired," which will also be published through the Goldwyn sales organization, is another of the "Fiddle" series. It begins with the expression of that celebrated character for the "seventh time in her rather checked career, from the hash foundry operated by Simon Legree." From this incident the picture gets its name.

THIS WEEK AT DOWNTOWN CHICAGO THEATERS

BIOJU DREAM—World, "Her Hour," with Kitty Gordon.

WORLD ANNOUNCES FEATURE FILMS FOR THE REMAINDER OF THE YEAR

Kitty Gordon, Ethel Clayton, Madge Evans, Montagu Love and Carlyle Blackwell Have Stellar Roles in Photoplays

The World Pictures Brady-Made for the balance of the year, according to an official announcement, will be as follows:

Miss Gordon’s early play of this series, “Her Hour,” was written by Raymond Schrock and directed by George K. Clark, while her second contribution to the list, titled “Diamonds and Pearls,” was produced under the direction of George Archainbaud.

Love-Kelly Co-Stars

For “The Awakening,” directed by George Archainbaud, Dorothy Kelly, a well-known screen actress, was specially engaged as co-star with Mr. Love, and has a role, it is said, that closely suits her acting capacities.

Mr. Blackwell also herself discovered a play suitable to the requirements in “The Good-for-Nothing,” and rewrote portions of the story, introducing picturesque incidents from his own life. Miss Clayton also directed in “The Good-for-Nothing,” and rewrote portions of the play in addition to acting the leading male character. Miss Evelyn Greeley is starred with Mr. Blackwell in “The Good-for-Nothing.” Miss Clayton’s most recent picture play, “Easy Money,” was written by Gladys E. Johnson and directed by Travers Yale, while George Kelson was the director of Miss Elvidge’s screen drama, “The Tenth Case.”

Madge Evans Next

“The Skybirds” in which Madge Evans and Henry Hull are co-stars, is from Julia Burnham’s story, the scenario having been made by Virginia Tyler and directed by George C. Swain. Activity in the World studio in Fort Lee has been uneasing for several months, and the policy of marketing one picture each week has now been dropped.

Longer Films Coming

Several of the photoplays already completed, but not announced, are of greater dimensions than the usual five reels. This is taken to mean that the experiment of issuing for the World program such productions as “Rasputin, the Black Monk,” “The Burglar,” etc., was so satisfactory in its results as to encourage further operations along the same line.

But,” remarks Director General William A. Brady, “everybody may be sure that the question of mere length will not guide the production of any World Picture. If the material is actually there for eight reels, the picture will be in eight reels, not otherwise. I never could see the value of buying a photoplay by the mile and anything I would not buy I should dislike being put in the attitude of having tried to sell.

CHICAGO MOTION PICTURE HOUSES ASKED TO AID “RED TRIANGLE” Y. M. C. A. FUND

Again the motion picture exhibitor is asked to aid in the spreading of patriotic propaganda. This time he is urged to give his assistance in raising Chicago’s $3,000,000 allotment of the $35,000,000 “Red Triangle” war fund for establishing recreational centers in army and navy camps in this country and on the fighting fronts.

James B. Forgan of the First National Bank is chairman of the Chicago ways and means committee and Rufus C. Dawes is chairman of publicity. Paul H. H. Davis is aiding the committee and slides for motion picture houses, setting forth a direct appeal to the public to contribute to the fund, have been designed and can be obtained by exhibitors at his office, 39 South La Salle street.

Minute-Men to Speak

The four-minute men who were so effective in the late Liberty Loan campaign have volunteered their services in the present drive and will speak at theatres throughout the city in behalf of the fund. The building of the recreational centers and their maintenance will be under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., which association is conceded to be the most efficient and best fitted for this work.

Aiding the publicity committee in the motion picture field are Joseph Hopp, chairman; Aaron J. Jones, Nathan Askin, Harry M. Lubin, John C. Heaney, Fred W. Schaefer, Irwin Henoch, Carroll Dean Murphy, Paul R. Kuhn, F. J. Woods and Paul H. Davis.

Doing Good Work

The work of “Red Triangle” has already done in the military camps and on the firing line has had the highest praise from officials, commanding officers and friends.

The fund being collected will be devoted to only one purpose, that of establishing recreational branches for our soldiers and sailors in camp and at the front and will not be used for any other Y. M. C. A. work.

Ida Darling Added

To Select Star’s Cast

Norma Talmadge who is at work on her next Select production, “The Ghosts of Yesterday,” has added Ida Darling to her cast. Miss Darling is one of the best known character women on the stage and in her work in “Common Clay,” “The Lion and the Mouse,” “The High Cost of Living,” “Ready Money,” “Mary’s Ankle” and “The Land of the Free” is well known.

Ida Darling is at present shooting for motion pictures, Miss Darling has played with Fox, Lubin, Selznick and Pathé companies; also with Famous Players for whom she appeared in “Broadway Jones,” “The Masquerader,” “Bella Donna,” “The Lost Bridegroom” and “The Morals of Marcus.” She also appeared with Constance Talmadge in “Scandal.”

“Ghosts of Yesterday” is a picturization by Mildred Considine of Rupert Hughes’ play, “Two Women,” in which Mrs. Leslie Carter starred. It is a story of emotions and absurdities in dramatic scenes. “Ghosts of Yesterday” will be distributed through Select exchanges.

OLIVE TELL, EMPIRE STAR IN “GIRL AND THE JUDGE”

“Olive Tell is now at work on her third picture for the Empire All-Star Corporation, “The Girl and the Judge.” Miss Tell was very nervous when she started work on her first picture, “The Unforeseen,” for she was a novice as regards pictures and knew nothing of the technique necessary for successful screen work. She is among the fortunate few, however, who not only screen well but are able to make their acting appear convincing.

In “The Unforeseen” Miss Tell’s dramatic talent was given free reign and that she made good was proved by the play being advanced a whole month ahead of the scheduled publication date. “Her Sister” was the next picture released by Miss Tell and again she was given scope for her acting ability. As a daughter of the Nile, Miss Tell looks the part and is noted that “Her Sister” will rival the success made by “The Unforeseen.”

It has not yet been decided which one of the available hundreds of Charles Frohman’s plays will be selected to follow “The Girl and the Judge.”

ESSANAY MAKES SCENIC FILMS

"WONDERS OF NATURE AND INDUSTRY"

Essanay has completed the production of eleven scenes under the general caption of "The Wonders of Nature, Science and Industry." These pictures are 1,000 feet in length and will be published each week by the Essanay Film company beginning November 24.

Essanay has aimed to get away from the long distance shots of the ordinary scenic gal, and has shot some interesting close-ups and intimate touches, while at the same time giving a comprehensive panoramic view of the sections touched upon.

Writers Roughing It

The first picture shows five well-known writers: Maximilian Foster, Jack Lait, Hugh Fullerton, Grantham Rice and "Bill" McGeehan fishing for salmon in New Brunswick. It pictures the beautiful scenery of the country and gives an intimate view of camp life where these writers were roughing it.

Canoeing down the river, casting for the giant fish and gaffing them are snapped at close range.

The picturesque boat trip, showing scenery of Lake Louise, which artists have proclaimed one of North America's beauty spots.

The trip through the Banff National Park, the playground of Canada, which covers 2,000 square miles in the heart of the Canadian Rockies.

Canadian Industries Shown

The great natural industries of Canada are shown, as also the gigantic water powers of both western and eastern Canada, with an exposition of the harnessing of Niagara and other waterfalls.

There are logging scenes on the Cane River in British Columbia, pictures men riding the great logs through the river floods and one scene showing the battle of a hundred men to break a great jam of logs.

Scenes taken on the snow cladh peaks and the great prairies and wheat fields of Canada are pictured, with farms, stook of hay, and sheep, in fact all the work of the big farms with their reaping and threshing machines at work gathering in the harvest.

One trip alone shows the beauty spots of special interest from coast to coast. Also scenes in the Southwestern part of the United States, depicting the life of the Navaho Indians.

Two directors and a corps of photographers spent months traveling over the country selecting scenes and compiling them into this series of pictures.

Scenic Post Cards

For Exhibitors' Use

Scenic post cards, with views of the American Film Company studios at Santa Barbara, Calif., have been prepared with circular inserts on each card, one of the five American screen stars, Mary Miles Minter, Margarita Fischer, Gail Kane, Juliette Day and William Russell. These cards are proving very popular, according to the company.

Constance Talmadge

At Work on "The Cliffs" Her Third Select Film

Constance Talmadge, the young star whom Lewis J. Selznick presented in "Scandal," has completed her second Select Film, "The Honeymoon." She has now been begun by Constance Talmadge, and the company assembled by director Giblyn. "The Cliffs" is an adaptation by Paul West from the comedy, "The Runaway," by Pierre Veber & Henri de Grosse. Earl Fox, who supports Miss Talmadge in "The Honeymoon," is her leading man in "The Cliffs." Miss Talmadge and company have been spending a week at Ausable Chasm, N. Y., and in and around Marblehead, Mass, filming some of the scenes of the story.

THEDA BARA BEGINS A NEW FOX PLAY

A drama, the action of scenes of which are laid in and around New York City, will be the vehicle for Theda Bara in the new photoplay on which she has just started work in the eastern studios of Val Ranken, Inc., 820 South Broadway, Southern California where, after finishing "Cleopatra," Miss Bara also completed two other Standard productions, which finds it difficult to work under the artificial light of the Eastern studios.
Watch yer step, "Billy," old kid. Leave something for the rest of us poor mortals. With the inauguration of a sign, stage sets and scenery department, looks as though E. W. Hammond Co., story in, will soon have the entire building at 102 N. Fifth avenue to care for the many things this enterprising concern is now responsible for.

H. W. Willard, formerly associated with the Triangle, will again occupy quarters in the Mallers building. He will become affiliated with the Metro sales squad under Cress Smith's direction covering the local field.

For business conferences, ask "Ezra" Skirboll. Social gallops, light refreshments, etc., confer with Isidore Skirboll, Esq. Oh, yes, a regular Jekyll and Hyde.

Vic Kreamer, of the W. H. Clifford Photoplays of Los Angeles, was a wee bit flustered with the overcrowding of the "loop" film buyers with those Shorty Hamilton comedies en route for eastern points.

Looks as though the esteemed Woodrow Wilson, our President, was again to bust into the film game, as indicated by the page-wide caption of Nov. 19, issue of the Chicago Herald, "Wilson Demands Unity." Well, you never can tell. Leave it to Frank Zambreno to take time by the forelock.

Jack Haig is now back again on the job. He opened the La Salle Theatre, Nov. 17, after giving this pretty film house a thorough overhauling. Jack intends playing nothing but the big features and with his able management should give those north side film fans in and about Division and La Salle streets, plenty to talk about. Our best wishes, Jack.

Sig Faller, manager of the Bijou Dream, has arranged to play Universal's Current Events to sort of bring his many patrons back to earth now and then, after an hour of Bijou Dream excitement. Lendman the Production Director, to give 'em film cocktails supreme. Shh—that's auff!

"Tis with regret we note the resignation of J. S. Woody, the popular local Triangle manager, Nov. 24, who will shortly leave for the Coast in his new choice. This was certainly some glib-tener handed to him by his business associates—market value sworn to by Michael Rosensky, U. P. C. quotes diamonds, at $850 per carat—and believe us, Woody should have a bodyguard with him when sporting his precious gift.

Leave it to the old skipper of the Kedzie Annex Theatre, Sid Smith, to arrange that there war tax we've been hearing so much about. Sid had "Intolerance" on for the attraction, charging 30 cents per. Not so fast—every purchaser was generously reminded that the management was shouldering the tax. Ahem—next.

With everything going so nicely at the Chicago branch of the Hoffman Foursquare, F. J. Flaherty is already making arrangements to open a local branch for the Northwest at Minneapolis, Minn. That boy, F. J., up and at 'em all the time.

Ha! And no other than the happy, smiling R. Q. Proctor. Henceforth Ralph's card will register div-manager for Pathe. Chicago east, we believe, is to be his camping ground. Glad you haven't entirely deserted us, Ralph, old boy.

Talkin' about the "diminutive" Tom Phillips, slide maker, corralling the slide orders, watch him at the forthcoming Rotary Club fifth annual business show to be held at the Hotel Sherman, Dec. 6 and 7. Most of the P. A. dope and advertising simply states Rotary Show and Tom Phillips, manager. Well, we'll hand it to him at that.

Jack McFarlane is now associated with the Standard Film Company in the city territory, handling "The Deemster," which this concern is distributing in the Central West.

George Laing, who recently closed the Burton Theatre, has become associated with the Ascher boys. He will manage the Cosmopolitan and the Virginia, which he retains, will be under the personal direction of an assistant manager.

J. D. Broderick is now assistant general manager for the Wholesale Film Corporation. He was formerly special representative with the Univesal, and A. H. Chatkin, manager of the erstwhile E-L-K Film Company, has been engaged as manager of the service department. Looks to us as though M. J. Weisfeild intends to become a veritable film Sears-Roe- buck. What's all this chatter about a New Yawk office? Uncle Sam won't shy at sending mail through N. Y. if you paste the requisite amount of postage thereto. Most of the big mail order boys just have desk room down there, ahem!

W. W. Hodkinson Corp. Will Commence Distribution of Paralta Plays This Week

The newly formed W. W. Hodkinson Corporation of New York makes the announcement that it will start publishing Paralta Plays through its organization this week.

The first production to be issued will be the visualization of Peter B. Kyne's story of adventure, "A Man's Man," with J. Warren Kerrigan as the star. This feature is in seven parts. The early part of the story takes place in the western part of the United States, while the locals of the remainder of the story is in the imaginary Republic of Soiranto, Central America.

About December 1 Bessie Barriscale's initial Paralta Play, "Yankee Doodle," will be published. It is a secret service story laid in the period of the Civil War. This production is founded on Harold McGrath's story of the same name. The subject is a timely one. Jeanne Beaumont loses her father and two brothers in war; she becomes a military spy and invades the lines of the enemy.

The story is fast moving and carries with it an element of romance and mystery which is not cleared up until the last few feet of the production. Miss Barriscale is supported by Ed Coxen as John Armitage, Howard Hickman as Henry Morgan, Joseph J. Dowling as Parson John Kennedy and David M. Hartford as Allan Crandall.

Henry B. Walthall has completed his initial Paralta Play, "His Robe of Honor," written by Ethel and James Dorrance which will be ready by the middle of December. The story is that of a shyster lawyer who becomes an upright judge under the reining influence of a noble woman of high social rank.

Mr. Walthall appears in the role of the shyster lawyer who is assisted in his criminal methods by Roxana Frisbee, an adventuress, part which is played by Miss Mary Charleson. Miss Lois Wilson will interpret the role of Lara Nelson, the young woman who awakens the spirit of manhood in the crafty lawyer.

Following "His Robe of Honor," J. Warren Kerrigan will appear in "Turn of a Card," written by Frederick Chapein, after which will come Bessie Barriscale in "Rose o' Paradise," written by Grace Miller White.

The foregoing productions are now completed and six companies are at work at the Paralta studios, Los Angeles, Cal.

Schwartz Films, Inc.

Moves to LaSalle St.

The Schwartz Films, Inc., Chicago, have moved their offices from the Schiller building in West Randolph street, to 112 North La Salle street.

The company also announces a change in its policy, which has not as yet been made public. With this comes the added information that the Reliable Feature Film Company has passed out of existence.
United States War Tax on Export Films Hits Canadian Exchangemen Hard Blow

The announcement by the United States Treasury Department that the United States war tax, as provided under the War Emergency Revenue Act of October 3, is to apply on all export as well as domestic film came as a blow to the Canadian film industry.

For practically three years Canada has been laboring under a heavy tax levied by the Canadian government and the exchangemen, as well as the exhibitors, realize that with the new United States war tax added it is going to make the burden almost unbearable. It is common knowledge that in average cases the duty, war tax, censor, shipping and other charges on a reel of film amounts to a greater sum in Canada than the original cost charge made by a film company to its branch in the Dominion, even before the United States war tax was levied.

In Ontario the annual license fee for an exchange is $130. In Quebec the same fee is $250. In five other provinces there is also a still license fee for all exchanges, as well as theatres. In Quebec the fee for the censoring of pictures is $2.50 per reel. If this high, a distributing company opens branches in the six important cities in the Dominion, which is usually the case, the total fee for the exchanges will amount to at least $300. In addition, city license fees for exchanges are charged in St. John, Montreal, Winnipeg, Regina and Vancouver. The censor fees in seven provinces vary from 50 cents to $2.50.

From the above it can easily be seen the expense of handling films in the Dominion is so large that should a rental charge be made high enough by the exchange to warrant the profit received before the war, it would make the films prohibitive to the exhibitor unless the admission prices, even to the small suburban houses were raised to the 25-cent mark, and if this should be done it would keep a number of the working people away, as their expenses are so high now they could not afford to pay such a price and go very often, where now they feel they can attend twice a week.

This new United States war tax which has been imposed on the Canadian industry has brought a crisis to the trade in Canada which will have to be handled with the utmost care, and which will no doubt mean the cutting off of a number of the short reel subjects.

When it is taken into consideration that within the last six months the young manhood, who in nine cases out of ten were enthusiastic motion picture fans, one can readily realize the difficulty the Canadian exhibitors, as well as exchange managers, are up against. Plans are now being made for the best way to handle the new war tax in Canada by the exchange managers. Very little, as yet, has been said to the exhibitors.

Mr. Roland Todd is the organizer. A feature of the opening musical program was a pianoforte number by Estelle Beder, the young Russian concert pianist.

The new Allen Theatre is one of a string of big houses in the Dominion controlled by the Allen family. It is their only theatre in Eastern Canada, although they made their start with a mere store show in Brantford, Ont., ten years ago.

For the matinees all seats will be 15 cents except the exception of Saturdays and holidays, when evening price (25 cents) will prevail. The boxes for matinees will be 25 cents and for the evening 50 cents.

Montreal, Que.—Mr. Thompson, who has been manager of the Rialto Theatre since its inception, has severed his connection with that theatre.

Montreal, Que.—Dave Mandelson, formerly salesman with the Famous Players Film Service, has severed his connection with that firm and has been appointed assistant to A. H. Fischer, general sales manager of the Independent Film Service.

Toronto, Ont.—The nearest semblance to a Sunday patriotic entertainment in a Toronto Theatre for many months was the sixth annual Christmas Mail and Parcel Service at the Toronto Theatre on Sunday night, November 4. A number of war films and several pictures of naval cadets were screened, after which pictures, postcards and stamps were sent to relatives and friends in the British Navy.

Toronto, Ont.—The Globe Film Company, Limited, who have branches in the six important cities of the Dominion, announce that they have obtained the Canadian rights for the six-reel feature "The Libertine," produced by John Steger.

Winnipeg, Man.—Many applicants are in the field for the position on the Manitoba Censor Board, rendered vacant by the recent death of W. J. Horne, chairman of the board.

Toronto, Ont.—A. Cohen, formerly chief operator at the Allen Theatre, Calgary, Alta., has been appointed to a similar position at the new Allen Theatre, which opened on Nov. 10.

Montreal, Que.—The Imperial Theatre, Montreal, has a new orchestra leader, Henri Deceullier, a veteran of the French army in the present war and winner of the Croix de Guerre. He was formerly musical director of two theatres in Paris, France, the Theatre De Varietie and the Casino. He also been the choirmaster of the Montreal Opera Company.

Montreal, Que.—The managers of thirty-four theatres in Montreal have offered the use of their houses at any or every performance during the month of November to the Victory Loan Campaign Committee of Montreal for five minute patriotic speeches by prominent speakers. The offer was quickly and gladly accepted.

Winnipeg, Man.—The exchange managers in Winnipeg have announced that beginning on Monday, November 15, all exchanges in the city are putting forth to force the C. O. D. or advance payment system for all service.

Vancouver, B. C.—The new Exhibitors Association of Vancouver has already made a start in its campaign to educate the public in the matter of the new war tax, which is going into force in that province. The association is going into this matter very thoroughly, and there is no doubt that the industry as a whole will benefit by the action.

Toronto, Ont.—Within a few weeks Marcus Loew will open a new chain of vaudeville and film houses in the United States. His company has under construction and nearing completion three theatres seating 3,000 people each in Montreal, Chicago and Hamiliton. He already has one house in Toronto and with the new theatres he will have four houses in the principal Canadian cities. The theatres are operated by the Canadian Theatres, Limited, a corporation which Mr. Loew organized in Canada for this purpose.

Attractive Booklet Being Issued by Fox Credit to Company

Sixteen Pages of Scenes From "Cleopatra" Printed on Heavy Paper Makes Fine Appearance

What is probably the most pretentious effort yet put forth by any producing company in the way of descriptive matter of a production has been attained in a booklet just issued by the Fox Film Company, treating with its latest spectacle, "Cleopatra," starring Theda Bara. From cover to cover it is a triumph of the artist's and printer's work. It reflects to perfection the gorgeousness of the picture itself. The design of the front cover, a reproduction of the sphinx, the features of Miss Bara replacing those of the world's greatest riddle, at once attracts the eye and compels investigation of the inside pages. The booklet is amply illustrated with half-tones and decorations, symbolic of the arts of the Egyptians of Cleopatra's time. Throughout this maze of adornment winds the cleverly written, descriptive matter of the Fox production.

The brochure, as a whole, sets a precedent in the film industry and the Fox Film Corporation is to be congratulated.

"The Cinderella Man" With Mae Marsh Ideal Production for Holiday Season

The publication date of the new Goldwyn production, "The Cinderella Man," starring Mae Marsh, which has been set for December 16, has been well-timed for holiday showing at first-run photoplay theatres, the nature of the story making it particularly adaptable for the Christmas and New Year period. Importance of the holiday note to motion picture exhibitors throughout the country cannot be over-emphasized, for the Goldwyn booking is so weak for theatres, the money of the public being devoted to gifts rather than to theatre-going; and special inducements are required to keep up the average of attendance.

In "The Cinderella Man" the entire action takes place during the Christmas season. It is full of Christmas cheer and good will to men.

Although the story has an unusual number of elements that apply to the holidays, it is said to constitute a year-round appeal in fact attested by the long run of the play on Broadway.

According to a statement from the Goldwyn offices the play required but few changes to adapt itself to the screen. It is said, further, that Mae Marsh as Margaret Caner has not found a more congenial role in her entire screen experience.

The play derives its title, "The Cinderella Man," from the circumstances that the hero is as poor as the little girl in the fairy tale, a poet living in a garret and the heiress who reciprocates his love is a veritable fairy godmother, bringing him riches in a mysterious way.

REPLICA OF GERMANY'S MAMMOTH DIRIGIBLES USED IN "THE ZEPPELIN'S LAST RAID" FILM

The giant Zeppelin used by Thomas H. Ince in the making of his new spectacle, "The Zeppelin's Last Raid," recently published by the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, is of the same type the Germans now are using to spread death and destruction among the allies. The mammoth dirigible required about three months to construct. It is approximately 300 feet in length, with a diameter of 60 feet. It has an aluminum frame with longitudinal and horizontal ribs, covered with a stout interlaced cord over which is the outside cover of linen painted black. The shape is that of an exaggerated cigar.

Two silk balloons fill the interior holding the hydrogen gas, which gives the dirigible power. Slatting for runways nine inches wide with guide rails extend the length of the ship, giving access to the sleeping quarters, an electric kitchen and the five great steel engines. In addition it is shown how the death dealing bombs are released, how the mighty dirigible is propelled, how altitude is reckoned, and the operating of the intricate mechanism of the steering gear.

Many Zeppelins in the war have been destroyed in the same manner as the one in the new Ince spectacle is sent to destruction. Every Teuton dirigible is equipped with a contrivance which ignites a charge of dynamite in the big envelope and blows it to atoms. The commanders are said to be under orders to destroy their own craft when in danger of capture to prevent the secrets of his construction from falling into the hands of the enemy. The inner workings of the giant dirigible in "The Zeppelin's Last Raid" affords a scientific treat. It marks the first time the secrets of Germany's great aer men o'war have been revealed on the screen.

H. S. Bickers to Write Plays for Mae Murray

After purchasing two plays written for Mae Murray, Carl Laemmle has entered into an agreement with H. Sheridan Bickers, the English playwright and dramatic critic, to write exclusively for Bluebird's newest star. Mr. Bickers was previously a staff writer and title editor for Paralta, and later acted as scenario and publicity director for Louis Weber.

Mr. Bickers was formerly well known in London under the sobriquet of "Yorick," and his dramatic criticisms have been featured in the London press and leading magazines.

Work has already been started on the first of the Bickers stories for Miss Murray, which will be produced by Director Robert Leonard. The plot is being carefully handled, as it is intended as a novelty in photodrama and will, in part, mark the screen's incursion into the little unexploited field of classic pantomime.

This Is A Time To Make Friends instead of Profits

GOLDWYN PICTURES organization recognizes that in these trying days the exhibitors of North America must make profits. This is the day to make exceptional effort and the direct result of such effort by any producer is exceptional productions.

Big pictures—powerful, vital stories and tremendously popular stars—today are the only means of attracting big audiences into your theatres. And the four biggest productions immediately available in the motion picture industry today are Goldwyn attractions, released as follows:

1. MADGE KENNEDY in "NEARLY MARRIED" by Edgar Selwyn. A play many times as dramatic and joyous as the great laughter-making hit "Baby Mine." A story of situations and thrills; filled to the brim with wonderful comedy. Released November 18.

2. REX BEACH'S greatest story, "THE AUCTION BLOCK," one of the most dramatic pictures ever made and possessing greater drawing power than his noted screen successes, "The Spoilers," "The Ne'er-Do-Well," "The Barrier." Given at your regular rental to Goldwyn contract customers. The first and only Rex Beach production ever available in this manner. Released December 2.

3. MAE MARSH in "THE CINDERELLA MAN" by Edward Childs Carpenter. A beautiful and wonderful holiday picture made by one of the greatest of all directors, George Loane Tucker. A picturization of Oliver Morosco's big stage success. Released December 16.

4. MARY GARDEN in Anatole France's famed story, "THAIS," bringing this artist of world-wide reputation to the screen for the first time. This will be the most sensational and remarkable box-office success ever booked for your theatre, and you get it at your regular Goldwyn rental. Released December 30.

The Big Four

Raymond Hitchcock, Josephine Harriman, Ernest Truex and Charles Grapewin are the BIG FOUR which will start the most ambitious, most pretentious program of one-reel comedies ever put out in the history of moving pictures. There will be more “BIG FOURS” to come—but this quartet will give you an idea of the quality of stars which will be used.

We frankly admit that as a business proposition—for us or for these great figures of the American stage—it couldn't be done. But it is not only a business proposition. It is a patriotic move—a project—the success of which will be reflected in the trenches in France, where the flower of America is battling for us all. The results from this enterprise will be shared by the boys in the trenches and on the decks of Uncle Sam's battleships. This distribution is to be handled by the American Military Relief Association. By arrangement with us, the Association is to get a considerable sum of money from each subject.

In this way we are doing "OUR BIT." The gentlemen and ladies of the stage who have so patriotically and splendidly offered their services are doing "THEIR BIT." And YOU—the exhibitor—"WILL YOU DO YOUR BIT?" Your bit is this: Show these pictures in your theater. It will not only be practical patriotism on your part, but it will be profitable business. For the public will do "ITS BIT." When they know the object of these pictures, they will have an added zest in seeing them. And irrespective of the patriotic phase of the pictures, we guarantee they will be the best comedies available. The stars will be the pick of America. The pictures are produced under the direction of Rex Weber. A special arrangement has been made with Jo Swerling of the Chicago Tribune to write all the scripts. This combination means THE BEST.

The purpose of this advertisement is not to SELL—but to TEST. We want to know how many exhibitors there are in this country who have enough patriotism to aid a movement to supply America's soldiers and sailors with comforts, and enough discrimination and business sense to see a proposition that spells

A Censorship Reform

The proposition of one-man censorship which the City of Chicago has been subjected to for sometime has aroused widespread indignation outside the motion picture trade as well as within, and has resulted in a powerful sentiment for the readjustment of the whole work of censoring films in Chicago.

The important feature of a new ordinance which is to be introduced by Ald. Steffen is that the authority of censorship will be invested in a group of ten representative citizens, not members of the police department. Under the provisions of the proposed measure, in case where a permit to exhibit the picture under consideration within the City of Chicago is declined by the police authorities the citizens committee would be called upon for a final verdict.

The Steffen measure is obviously a common sense proposition: It has always been our opinion that within the Chicago police department, or any other police department, you are not likely to find individuals who are qualified either through natural ability or experience to censor the most popular amusement for a city of three million people. The record of the Chicago police department in the censoring of motion pictures is glaringly inconsistent and even grotesque in certain instances.

We cannot be thoroughly hopeful about the successful operation of any censorship measure because we believe censorship of any, and every kind to be illogical, unreasonable and inequitable, but if we must have censorship of some kind, let it be an ordinance of the kind proposed by Ald. Steffen, which seems at least to have a common sense basis.

Product of Brain-Fag

Censorship again! This time the St. Louis board of aldermen vault into the limelight with the proposed ordinance which must have come about near the end of a dragged-out session when the various members of the august body had become affected with brain-fag.

The St. Louis lapse of reason is aimed to prevent the attendance of children under sixteen years of age at exhibitions of pictures depicting abduction, elopements of married persons, mock marriages, murders, robberies, etc.

Now, a large percentage of the high schools of the country present for study for children under sixteen years of age George Eliot’s celebrated novel, “Silas Marner.” Here is a story that would be barred in picture form, under the proposed St. Louis ruling, yet it has long been regarded as proper subject matter for child’s study.

As an indication of the absurdity of the measure and the fact that it would rob youth of many of the greatest literary treasures we cite the following works which would come under the ban:

Hawthorne’s “Scarlet Letter”; Ibsen’s “Doll House”; Dickens’ “Oliver Twist”; many of Sir Walter Scott’s stories; Shakespeare’s
"Hamlet," "Julius Caesar" and "Macbeth"; Hugo's "Les Misérables" and Stevenson's "Treasure Island."

The course which the St. Louis aldermen seem to be contemplating on the censorship proposition cannot but meet reversal by public opinion.

The Comedy Demand

During a time such as the present when the public is burdened with a multitude of cares it seems obvious indeed that people will retreat to theaters to be amused, to be made to laugh away the troubles and worries of the day. Yet only a few of the producers are altering their programs to admit of a big quantity of light, pleasing comedy.

A notable exception is Essanay, which company has been issuing a notable list of highly amusing comedy productions that are being widely hailed as productions of the hour, satisfying the demand of the hour for distractions from thoughts that are all too serious.

Varner at Washington

The American Exhibitors Association in its decision to have a permanent representative at Washington has made a wise move. The Capitol of the Nation is the logical spot from which to sense public opinion, particularly with reference to legislative matters. In Washington a representative is in a position to gain ready access to legislators representing every section of the country, and through argument and information properly present the position of the motion picture exhibitor.

Among the names of men who have been mentioned for the important post that of H. B. Varner stands out prominently. Mr. Varner is sufficiently aggressive and sufficiently diplomatic, and there is every indication that he would make an excellent choice.

The Cleveland Suit

The court fight of the Cleveland exhibitors to escape payment of the fifteen per cent per reel tax will accomplish one thing at least: Subsequent reference to it will make plain to Congress that the hand of taxation has been placed too firmly upon the motion picture business, that neither the distributor nor the exhibitor, however willing he may be, is able to meet the burden without threatened disaster.

Much valuable data on the situation the motion picture industry is facing has developed out of the suit and it is to be hoped that this data will be presented to the proper authorities when Congress reconvenes next month.

MARTIN J. QUIGLEY.
Ohio Exhibitors Lead in Fight for Tax Change

Theatre Men Announce That Sole Object Is to Demonstrate to Congress That Tax Must Be Modified if Industry Is to Survive.

That the government may know that the present war tax is applied to the motion picture industry, must be modified if either the producer or exhibitor is to survive, more than fifty exhibitors of the Cleveland hearing held by the American Exhibitors Association in an effort to come to a compromise. Nothing was accomplished.

The exhibitors have not, as yet, come to a conclusion as to the method in which they will proceed. A special meeting to take up this matter will be held this week in Cleveland. They are, however, emphatic in their statements that they will proceed along legal lines to come to a "show down" in the matter.

Committee Explains Stand

A special committee of the exhibitors, composed of Samuel, W. H. Simms, J. H. Simpson and George W. Heimbuch, issued a statement in which they insisted that the exhibitors would proceed with the case only for the purpose of demonstrating to Congress that neither the producer nor the exhibitor could survive if the tax remained in its present form.

"Our sole object in pushing this case through the courts is so that we may be able to show in Washington in December that a revision of the law is absolutely necessary," the statement sets forth in part.

"Congress acted on theory last October, but we can prove that now a condition and not a theory exists, that neither the manufacturers nor exhibitors can stand and survive.

"Our committee is forcing the legal issue for that reason only. The manufacturers seem afraid to produce documentary evidence at Washington. We are not. We expect every member of the American Exhibitors' Association to follow our lead."

Distributors Claim Victory

The decision of Judge Phillips was hailed by the producers as a victory. They point out that the court, assuming that the facts set forth by the exhibitors were true, was compelled to find that they were not entitled to the relief sought.

They also placed significance on the fact that this being the first case of this nature, the Ohio decision would naturally form a precedent upon which decision in future cases of like character would be based. They also interpret the decision to mean that the companies are free to collect the tax.

Council Committee Makes Progress On Steffen Anti-Funkhouser Law

Wm. A. Brady and Others Appear in Support of Chicago Ordinance Which Will Clip Major's Wings

Indications are that before the first of the new year the city council of Chicago will take action upon a proposed ordinance which, if passed, will do away with Chicago's "one-man" censorship board.

A sub-committee of the council judiciary committee which has before it the measure of Alderman Steffen seeking to curb the power, as it affects film censorship of the second deputy superintendent of police, held two meetings last week.

Attorney H. J. Friedman, representing the film men, explained to the committee that the industry was opposed to the "one-man" censorship policy which, they claim, exists under the Funkhouser regime. He also said that the producing companies wanted the "pink" permit done away with.

Censor Admits Power

Mr. Funkhouser defended his position. He claimed that the ordinance fairness had been shown the film men and that charges of discrimination were unfounded. He admitted that, in a sense, under the present system, he was the sole authority in passing upon films. His censorship board, he said, acted in an advisory capacity.

Many representatives of women's organizations were present to oppose the amendment to the ordinance. Among them were Mrs. Hannah C. Solomon of the Woman's City Club, Mrs. Guy Blanchard of the Chicago Political Equality League, and Mrs. Irwin Mcdowell, also of the Woman's City Club.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sears, representing the American Film Company, stirred up considerable wrath among the women present, when she stated that club women are not able to pass on censor laws because "they have only reflected ideas and know nothing about moving pictures."

This was the second meeting held during the week by the sub-committee and indications are that there will be a number more before the matter is presented to the whole committee. Another session has been set for next week.

case, tax case

The case attracted attention from all parts of the United States as it was the first legal action taken by the exhibitors concerning the war tax.

Following the dismissal of the suit the entire delegation of producers met with the exhibitors in the Cleveland hearing held by the American Exhibitors Association in an effort to come to a compromise. Nothing was accomplished.

The exhibitors have not, as yet, come to a conclusion as to the method in which they will proceed. A special meeting to take up this matter will be held this week in Cleveland. American Cinema Commission Sends First Appointee to Foreign Shores

Frank J. Marion, Kalem Official Has Departed for Spain—P. A. Powers to Go to France

Frank J. Marion, president of the Kalem Company, is the first member of the American Cinema Commission appointed for foreign service to depart for the scene of activities. Commissioner Marion, who was designated by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry as one of the three commissioners to represent the Committee on Public Information, of which George Creel is chairman, conferred last week with government officials before proceeding to Havana, Cuba, from where he will sail for Spain.

Commissioner Marion is one of the pioneers of the motion picture industry and is splendidly equipped for the task which is before him and which he is undertaking at the solicitation of the President of the United States, who, in June last, called upon William A. Brady, president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, to mobilize the film industry for the purpose of co-operating with the government in the successful prosecution of the war.

Marion Goes to Spain

Commissioner Marion will have direct supervision of the distribution and showing of American Educational films in Spain and Italy. P. A. Powers, treasurer of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, is the commissioner designated for France, representing the American Cinema Commission, of which Jules E. Brulatour of the Eastman Film is the chairman, with headquarters at 333 West Twenty-third street.

These motion picture executives who have undertook this patriotic work receive no salary and are giving up important business connections, carrying with them princely salaries, to devote their energies in the aid of the government's tremendous undertakings in Europe.

During the past month Mr. Marion has worked in co-operation with J. E. Brulatour, chairman of the American Cinema Commission, and his staff, headed by A. A. Kaufman, selecting educational films for the populace of Spain and Italy and entertainment subjects for the Italian soldiers.

Hundreds of Films

Never in the history of the industry have educational films been so thoroughly combed. Hundreds of films from producers in various sections of the country have been placed at the disposal of the commissioners. Industrial concerns who have had interesting motion pictures made have turned over their negatives. The spirit of enthusiastic cooperation reached the companies doing commercial work and they have been working night and day, furnishing prints at cost.

The films which Mr. Marion is taking into Spain and Italy cover a wide educational field, intimate views of industries and institutions essentially American, schools, colleges, military activities, the pastimes of our people, films portraying the democratic spirit of our executives, and withal a remarkable assortment of pictures which proclaim to the world the independence of the individual in America and his wonderful opportunities for advancement.

Jazz Band and Stars to Furnish Joy for N. Y. Exhibitors' Ball

Arrangements have been completed for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' ball to be held at Terrace Garden, New York, December 7, under the auspices of the Manhattan Local Exhibitors' League.

An orchestra of sixteen pieces will turn out for a ballroom dance music in the main ball room. A jazz quartette of colored musicians and entertainers will provide dance music and singing in the upper annex ball room.

Inquiries have been sent to all the motion picture stars and already a great many of them have accepted. All of the producing and distributing companies have subscribed for boxes and have declared their intention of being present.

Indiana Exhibitors Obtain Insurance and Bonding Plan

L. H. O'Donnell Reports to State Body of A. E. A. on Rebate Available

A mutual insurance proposition which will save exhibitors at least 40 per cent of what they are now paying for theater insurance and a bonding proposition to combat the demands of exhibitors and distributors for advance deposits, have been obtained by a committee of the Indiana Exhibitors Association.

L. H. O'Donnell, chairman of the committee, made this report at a meeting of the directors of the state association, held in Indianapolis last week.

"We can tender to our membership," the report reads, "the opportunity of securing a rebate of at least 40 per cent on the amounts now being paid out for insurance. The same plan has been in use by the Lumber Dealers Association and Hardware Dealers Association for a number of years, and at the present time every dealer in the state belongs to the association, for the simple reason that they get from the association much more than they pay in dues."

This committee has also arranged with the Chicago Bonding Company whereby for a nominal amount we exhibitors will be able to give the exchange man a guarantee as to the fulfillment of our contracts, thereby eliminating their reasons for asking for advance deposits.

With Chicago's Building Law

Eighty Reels of Film Which Has Been Exposed in Censor's Office Put in Fireproof Vault

After having placidly allowed for more than two years a flagrant violation of the building laws of the city of Chicago, Second Deputy Superintendent of Police, M. L. C. Funkhouser last week supervised the removal of many thousands of feet of film from the office of the secretary of police to a fireproof vault on the roof of the city hall.

During this time, when enough film was strewn about the tenth floor of the city hall to blow the Thompson administration out of office, film exchanges throughout the city were calmed upon the carpet for the slightest infraction of the building code.

The Major Explains

The Major, being a great little explainer, has, to his satisfaction, alibied himself out of the affair. His tale runs something like this: Two years ago the city council authorized the erection of a fireproof vault for film, but did not appropriate money to defray the cost of its construction.

Charlotte Pleases as New Cinema Star in Commonwealth Film

H. A. Spanuth, president of the Commonwealth Picture Corporation, presented Charlotte, the skater, in a six-reel hotodrama, as yet unnamed, at Wurtzer Hall, New York, on Wednesday. Charlotte, who is acceded to be the most wonderful woman skater in the world, acquitted herself well as a cinema star and caused the spectators to wonder whether it really was her first appearance before the camera. She has a most charming and magnetic personality and her acting was superior to all other supporting company.

M. H. Hoffman Donates Films for Hero Land

Will C. Smith Takes Up New Duties with Nicholas Power Company

Will C. Smith, who was last week elected general manager of the Nicholas Power Company, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Francis Skerrett, enters the position well qualified to take up the duties consequent to his promotion.

Mr. Smith, prior to his advancement, was assistant general manager of the company and acted as manager during Mr. Skerrett’s illness. “He is experienced not only in the mechanical end of the enterprise, but also on the business side.

Twenty years ago he began working with motion pictures. He was one of the originators of illustrated songs and was for a time in the road show business. The new general manager joined the Nicholas Power forces five years ago. He has supervised a great many of the big installations in New York. In 1915 he established a record when he installed two camergaphs in Madison Square Garden and obtained a perfect picture 34 feet wide at a throw of 300 feet.

Mr. Smith is also the author of “Hints to Operators,” a booklet containing much valuable advice for the man in the booth, gleaned from his long experience as a projection engineer.

Picture Operators Ball Scheduled for Dec. 5

The members of Chicago Local 110, Motion Picture Operators’ Union, will hold their annual ball at the Coliseum annex on December 5. Proceeds of the affair will be turned over to a fund to care for the families of members who have been called for military service.

Felton Joins Wolfberg

William C. Felton has been added to the sales force of the Cleveland office of the Harris P. Wolfberg Attractions. This is the tenth member to be added to the Wolfberg forces in fifteen weeks.
A. E. A. Raising “Legislative Fund” to Put Representative at Capitol

H. P. Varner Mentioned for Post—10% Tax on Gross Profits Stimulates National Body’s Action

Profiting from the bitter experiences of many of its members as a result of taxation difficulties, the American Exhibitors Association will have a permanent representative in Washington. H. P. Varner of Lexington, N. C., is the man slated for the place.

Mr. Varner has established an enviable record in opposing successfully legislation detrimental to exhibitors. One of his most noteworthy achievements was his activities against the seating capacity tax which saved the exhibitors of the United States thousands of dollars. He worked almost alone in this.

Action is already under way toward the raising of a fund by the association to be known as the “Legislative Fund,” which will be devoted to obtaining representation for the exhibitors at Washington during the coming session of Congress and for any future legislation pertinent to exhibitors.

Rembusch Lauds Varner

“There is certainly no man better fitted to handle the proposition than Mr. Varner,” said Frank J. Rembusch, secretary-treasurer of the Association, in commenting on the project. “He is an exhibitor and has been very successful in working against adverse legislation, more so than any other exhibitor.”

Washington Censor Praises Daily News for Cantonment Film

A. Chester Keel of the promotion department of the Chicago Daily News, who sponsored the film “Our Boys in Camp Grant,” proceeds from the sale of which will be devoted to the Daily News tobacco fund, is much elated over a communication from the censor at Washington relative to the picture.

“We wish to congratulate you,” it states in part, “upon obtaining this particularly fine film and will state that it is by far the best picture ever received by this office showing camp activities.”

Mr. Keel also reports that the picture is being booked rapidly. It was published November 19 through the Chicago exchange of the Mutual Film Corporation, which is rendering free service in the handling of the film.

cent industry statements made by Major Funkhouser that the motion picture men had gone “dollar mad.”

“The motion picture industry is making happy homes everywhere,” said Mr. Brady. “In the city of Scranton, Pa., it has closed up 40 per cent of the saloons and disorderly houses. In some places it is doing more good than the Y. M. C. A. or the churches. It is flushing the government’s food propaganda on thousands of screens and is co-operating with the army, navy and Red Cross.

“When President Wilson wanted to do something to offset the work of German spies in southern Russia, he turned to the motion picture men. He asked for three men in the business to volunteer to go to France and arrange for the exhibition of reels showing the United States is in the war and to show to the Russian soldiers that the stories told them by spies are lies.

“It was the only way in which the President could reach the Russian armies. The three men who were selected gave up positions paying them from $20,000 to $25,000 a year, and receive only a moderate stipend for their services and willingness to risk their lives on the ocean and in troubled Russia. Does that sound as if the moving picture men are money mad, as Major Funkhouser says they are?”

Mr. Brady promised to co-operate with the committee and added that if the motion picture men were placed on honor they would aid in the prosecution of any producer attempting to show an indecent and immoral film. The present laws against crime, he held, were sufficient to protect the public against immoral films.

Fun-Art Shows Comedy

Fun Art Films, Inc., will give a private showing this week of their first picture, “A Rag, A Bone and A Hank of Hair,” written by Vincent Bryan and featuring Ray and Gordon Dooley, well known vaudeville stars. This is the first of a series of eighteen pictures to be produced throughout the year.

Film D'Art Corp.
Making Comedies for State Rights

"Cousins" and "Auntie's Triumph" Completed Under Direction of John W. Perry—Others Listed

With two comedies completed for the late rights market, the Film D'Art corporation has under way a third to be called "Poor Uncle Ted." This picture with "Auntie's Triumph" and Cousins, already completed, are to be known as the Perry Pictures. All three comedies were produced under the personal direction of John D. Perry, who also the author.

The Film D'Art Corporation is of the belief that it has accomplished something "different" in this new series of comedies in that each of the plays contains a real plot. According to Mr. Perry, he will endeavor to "appeal to that certain little delicate something in human nature that makes people think." In "Auntie's Triumph," Mr. Perry has produced comedy based on patriotism and reviving and has handled it in such a dexterous manner as to arouse no resentment on the part of the audience. Albert Roccacci, Jeanne Hall, Charles Scott and Aurora Wells are members of the staff producing the Perry comedies.

It is the intention of the Film D'Art Corporation to make one or two reel comedies for the independent market.

WILL C. SMITH SLATED FOR NATIONAL BOARD OF THE N. A. M. P. I.

WILL C. SMITH, general manager of the nicholas Power Company, was nominated as a director in the National Board of Commissions for the late rights market.

The meeting was presided over by Walter J. Moore in the absence of Chairman J. E. Brutalov. It was decided to hold regular monthly meetings on the second Tuesday of each month and the next meeting will be held on December 3 in the offices of the National Association.

The following were in attendance at the meeting:

BARS USING WAR AS CAMOUFLAGE FOR BIG PROFITS

Daniel C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue, has issued warning to motion picture theatre owners who add 1 cent to the price of tickets for the war tax and four for themselves. In a statement issued this week the official asks that those who are imposed upon by deliberate misrepresentations notify the department of internal revenue.

Complaints have been received of cases where the cost of admission to theatres and other places of amusement has been increased largely in excess of the tax imposed and the increase is explained as necessary because of the war tax, he said. "The tax on theatre admissions is 1 cent for each 10 cents or fraction thereof."

Graded License Fees for Theatres Opposed by Chicago Exhibitors

City Council Committee Told That Plan if Put in Effect Now Would Be Ruinous to Motion Picture Industry

Owners of motion picture theatres and attorneys representing others appeared before the council license committee of the Chicago city council last week and protested against a new ordinance which would base theatre license fees upon seating capacity and admission price.

Joseph Hopp, president of the Chicago branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, told the committee that the theatres which have seating capacities of 750 are now doing the same amount of business that those theatres which seat 300 formerly did when the small houses flourished.

He stated that the war tax was working a considerable hardship on the exhibitors, in that many stayed away from the theatres rather than pay the tax. The situation is becoming such, he said, that the small houses are going out of business and the larger ones have been forced to charge an increased admission price.

L. H. Jacobs, representing a number of exhibitors, warned the aldermen that the contemplated action would drive the Chicago motion picture houses out of business.

On request of the exhibitors that they be given time in which to prepare figures to illustrate the effect the new system would have on their business, another meeting of the committee will be held in two weeks.

The committee also has under consideration raising the license fee of the film exchanges from $25 to $200 a year. Hearing on this will be had this week.

Deputy City Collector George F. Lohman stated that the enforcement of the new ordinance would add $20,000 yearly to the city's revenue. A table showing the proposed graded license rates, based on the seating capacity and admission charges of theatres, is appended:

Consolidated With Universal Film Co.

Pres. Laemmle Announces Merger Which Causes Abandonment of Wabash Avenue Quarters and Shifts in Universal Staff

The Laemmle Film Service, one of the landmarks in Chicago’s film history, has gone out of existence and the offices at 17 South Wabash avenue abandoned.

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, announced that the Laemmle Film Service has been consolidated with the Universal Film Exchange and will be known as the Universal Film Exchange of Chicago.

The new order of things took effect November 26 and the Laemmle Film Service is now housed with Universal on the fifteenth floor of the Consumers Building, 220 South State street.

Photoplays to Supplant Spoken Drama
During War, Predicts Cranston Brenton

Chairman of Review Board Also Expresses Belief That War Tax Will Not Materially Affect Picture Theatre Receipts

Dearth of the spoken drama in the smaller cities during the period of the war is predicted in a statement touching on the present condition of the film industry and its war-time activities, by Cranston Brenton, chairman of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures of New York.

Mr. Brenton expresses the belief that film plays, because of their easy means of transportation, will supplant to greater extent than at present, the theatrical companies.

“The motion picture is likely to usurp through the period of the war, at least, in a larger measure than before, the place of the legitimate drama,” said Mr. Brenton. “Only in cities of considerable size will good spoken plays be available.”

“The pressure upon the transportation companies is making it not only costly but difficult for theatrical companies to move from place to place with their impediments. This does not interfere seriously with the motion picture exhibition because of the small compass of the show. It can be transported in one box and carried in an automobile or an aeroplane, if necessary.”

The speaker also advanced the theory that despite the fact that the Government had taxed the industry millions of dollars because of the war, there would be no material effect on attendance.

“It is doubtful if the various taxes imposed will materially affect attendance,” he said. “War, if we may judge from its effect in Great Britain, for instance, stimulates interest in and the desire for motion pictures.”

Select’s Gen. Manager
Makes Midwest Trip
Inspects Exchanges

Arthur S. Kane, general manager of Select Pictures Corporation, left New York on Tuesday and will make an extended trip in the interest of his company, visiting chiefly the cities in which the Select Exchanges are established in the central and midwestern territories. Mr. Kane’s trip will carry him as far west as Omaha, as far south as St. Louis, and as far north as Minneapolis.

At Chicago, the first stop, Mr. Kane will be in conference with Fred Aiken, the manager of Select’s Chicago branch, concerning a number of territorial changes in this district.

Following his Chicago visit, Mr. Kane will proceed to Omaha, to which point Select’s Des Moines Exchange is going to be transferred. In Omaha, Mr. Kane will be joined by C. E. Shurtleff, sales manager for Select Pictures. C. W. Taylor, the Des Moines manager, but who will be in charge of the Omaha branch after the transfer is made, will join Mr. Kane and Mr. Shurtleff.

Kansas City will next be visited, from which point, moving eastward, Mr. Kane will stop at Detroit and inspect the new departments which Select has established there for Branch Manager W. D. Ward. This suite of offices is in the newly constructed Film Exchange building, which will be opened about December 1.

In Cleveland, Mr. Kane will visit Sam Moris, manager of this district. In Cincinnati, which district is also under Mr. Moris’ supervision, Mr. Kane will call to see A. H. Muller, Select’s branch manager at that point.

On the home trip the Select general manager will call on C. R. Rogers, manager of Select’s Buffalo branch, and probably will conclude by paying a visit to Harvey B. Day, who was recently installed as manager of the Pittsburgh exchange.

A Bronx exhibitor recently booked Marguerite Clark's picture, "Forty Immortal Facts." A movie fan noticed that his poster copy read "Marguerite Clark in Forty Immoral Acts." This was brought to the exhibitor's attention by letter and he replied, "Let me alone. I'm doing fine."

Hiller & Wilk Hold First Trade Showing of "Raffles" Film

The first trade showing of "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," the state rights sale of which is in the hands of Hiller & Wilk, Inc., was held this week in the projection room of Joseph H. Miles, 220 West Forty-second street, New York.

The showing had been delayed for several weeks that everything essential to success might be prepared. Paper, lobby display, heralds and stills were on display in the Hiller & Wilk offices after the showing.

John Barrymore heads the cast of the picture, which includes Mike Donlin, Frederick Perry, H. Cooper Cliffe, Christine Mayo and Evelyn Brent. "Raffles" as a novel was one of the "best sellers" and as a play it ran for several years. The picture was six months in the making under the direction of George Irving.

Despite the fact that the first trade showing was not held until this week, some of the territory has already been disposed of by Hiller & Wilk, the Special Features Company of Knoxville, Tenn., having purchased the rights for the states of Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee, and the Dawn Mastersplay Company of Detroit the rights to Michigan.

Nathan H. Gordon Reports Good Business at Scollay Square Theatre
Despite War Tax and Business Depression

Despite the business depression at present harassing the New England theatres, Nathan H. Gordon, directing head of the Globe Feature Film Corporation and the Gordon chain of picture theatres throughout the district, has sent word to Frank G. Hall, president and general manager of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, that "The Zeppelin's Last Raid," the Ince spectacle and initial publication of the booking company, has done a record business at the Scollay Square Olympia Theatre, in the heart of the Boston theatrical district.

Mr. Gordon advises that business generally has been dull throughout New England, both as a result of war conditions and the amusement tax, but that business at the Scollay Square, where the Ince spectacle ran a week, exceeded expectations. As a result of the success of the "Zep" picture in his leading theatre, Mr. Gordon has determined to run it in his other houses in the near future.

Rex Adams Proves Screen Versatility in Wholesome Comedy

Rex Adams, the new Wholesome star, has successfully established himself in "His Awful Downfall," the first comedy made by Wholesome Films Corporation. Adams is an acrobat of exceptional agility, performing laugh-provoking stunts that seem to offer imminent peril to life and limb. Coupled with his nimbleness is his wonderful clowning, funny in the extreme and without objectionable features. "Rex Adams, as our principal comedian, leading a band of sure-fire fun makers, is a positive assurance of what exhibitors and the public may expect in this line from Wholesome offerings," states General Manager Weisfeld.

Mr. Weisfeld will soon announce a second Wholesome comedy and a new dramatic feature.

A. G. Buck Joins Hoffman

A. G. Buck was added to the M. H. Hoffman, Inc., forces when he took charge this week of the Hoffman-Four-square exchange in Philadelphia. Mr. Buck has managed the K. E. S. E. Philadelphia exchange for the past year and prior to that served the Fox Film Corporation, both in Chicago and St. Louis.

Schaefer Brothers Issue Souvenirs on New Crystal Theatre

Handsome Booklet Descriptive of New Motion Picture House
Outline Policy of Owners

Schaefer Brothers of Chicago, have issued an attractive souvenir booklet for the Crystal Theatre, their new motion picture playhouse at North and Washenaw avenues. It contains views of both the interior and exterior of the theatre.

The new home of motion pictures dedicated by Schaefer Brothers to "the people of the great Northwest side" is in every sense modern and up-to-date. It has a seating capacity of 2,000 all on one floor, perfect ventilation and its marble walled, mosaic floored lobby is a thing of considerable beauty.

One page of the booklet is devoted to what is termed "The Schaefer Policy." This deals with the selection of big feature pictures and others and promises that this phase of the business will be carried on with discriminating care.

Schaefer Policy

"The Crystal theatre is your theatre," the booklet continues, "We ask your hearty co-operation, your ideas and suggestions. They mean more comfort and satisfaction to you, and the comfort and satisfaction of our patrons mean strong, lasting friendships to us."

Another page of the booklet deals with music. Schaefer Brothers have paid particular attention to this part of their program and have engaged musicians experienced in harmonizing the orchestra with the picture being shown.

A large part of the souvenir is devoted to pictures of stars connected with forthcoming productions to be presented at the theatre. The booklet is an eighteen-page affair and was printed by the Cahill-Igge Company.

"The Secret of the Storm Country" is so charmingly told and delightfully acted by Norma Talmadge that this latest effect offering should prove a distinct hit. It is an extraordinary picture in many respects, founded on the story of Gracie Miller White. The direction by Charles Miller is excellent throughout. Miss Talmadge scores heavily as Tess and there seems to be no height of expression too lofty for her gifted star to reach. She plays the role with such understanding, such poignant sadness and such womanly sympathy that it leaves nothing to be desired. The story is one that roves once more the dignity and force of silence. The lesson is tremendous.

Miss Talmadge is supported by an excellent cast including:
Walters, J. Herbert Frank, Charles Gotthold, Edwin Dention, Ethen Grey Terry, Mrs. J. H. Brumadge, Julia Hurley and thers.

The Story: Tess Skinner is overjoyed at the return from oil of her exonerated father. She has prayed earnestly for his return and her faith is strengthened by this answer to her prayer. She is a squatter and loves people. The Walderickers resent the presence of the squatters and try to drive them away. Tess and young Frederick Graves, a student, love each other and are secretly married, Graves exacting a promise from Tess. His mother insists upon a marriage ith Madeleine Waldersticker and Frederick morosely com-ies. He and Madeleine are unhappy. He longs for Tess and she for him, until one day he goes to her house where the solicent wife finds them together. Her brother, a hypocritical bureaucrat, has her "churched" as a Magdalen. She faith-illy preserves her silence, in the face of the most agonizing circumstances and finally finds contentment and protection in the home of the lawyer who freed her father. Her joy is in a sacrifice from her, but she has learned the uselessness of it and sends him away. In his fury he returns home and tells the truth to the horrified Waldersticker, but dies soon and her son tells his wife. Later Tess marries the lawyer, hose faith in her has never faltered, and they at last come to their own.

"The Land of Promise" leaves much to be desired. The
The story is interesting and tense; there are a number of thrilling and tense sequences. The production is well directed, and the majority of patrons. Belle Bennett does some very good work and has a pleasing personality. She has been surrounded with a good cast, including F. H. Newburg, J. Barney Shumaker, Mrs. Bill Wilson, Ingrid Bergman, Alberta Lee, Lee Phelps, Eugene Burr, Edward Hayden, Thos. H. Guise and Estelle La Chear. The direction is by Walter Edwards.

The story: When Angela De Haven finds her husband untrue to her she determines to make other men pay for his perjury. She becomes an accomplice of Brant, a crooked broker, and goes west to secure some stock in the 'Bob Cat' mine, owned by Bob Spalding. But through the weakness of his partner, Angela receives enough shares to gain control of the mine. She returns to New York and manipulates the market in such a manner that Brand and his gang are made penniless.

The book: "ALL FOR A HUSBAND" is well worked out with a unique ending; the star is charming and the production is good entertainiment. The subject can be recommended as a good remedy for driving dull care away.

Miss Pearson handles her rôle in a splendid manner and is well supported by Herbert Evans, Dorothy Quincy, Gladys Kelly, Carl Moody and William W. Corman. The story is by George M. Scarborough and direction by Carl Harbaugh.

The story: Henry Hardin has been mayor on the return ticket, a woman-later and refuses to allow his sister to bring her friend Henrietta Downs to their home. The girls read that a young woman has escaped from a lunatic asylum and Henrietta plans to go to the Hardin home as the insane woman. When Henry comes home and finds the strange woman he sends for the police. They find that Henrietta is not the missing girl, but keep her under surveillance at police orders. Henrietta escapes and returns to her home. In the meantime Myra, the escaped lunatic, has entered the Hardin home. When Henrietta sees Myra she screams, which arouses the sleeping Henry. Here the scene changes and the director is shown giving instructions and the cameraman grinding.

The best thing about "Molly Entangled" is Vivian Martin. She plays the title rôle charmingly and is a good candidate for herself in spectators' thoughts. The comedy of the production depends upon the quaint Irish brogue used in the subtitle. The picture will perhaps find favor wherever Miss Martin is a favorite. The supporting cast includes Henry Armes, Miss Barry, G. S. Spaulding, Helen Dunbar, C. H. Gowland, Jan Kekley and W. A. Carroll.

The story: There is constant strife between the families of Barry and O'Mara. If Jim and Barry dies without marrying the fortune will revert to the son of the O'Haras. Jim gets intoxicated one night and falls down the cellar stairs, severely injuring himself. The town doctor predicts he will die, and orders him to save the fortune. Bill calls and tells Jim to ask her to marry him. Because the Barrys had done him wrong, Molly consents, though she loves Barney Maloney. Jim is taken to the city, is operated upon and is discharged. It is all disappointed, but, knowing it can be no other way, she lives on as Mrs. Jim Barry. One day Jim learns that the ceremony had been performed by a tramp in an endeavor to escape justice.
Brownie Vernon as Hilda, the daughter of one of the drug victims, is the one bright spot of the production. Miles McCarty and Murdock MacQuarrie handle their parts very well and Frank Borzage makes a pleasing lead opposite Miss Vernon.

The direction is by Allen Hollubar.

The story: The Mornington brothers, James and Allen, believe themselves victims of heredity and this fear is instilled in Hilda, the daughter of James. She loves Franklin Shirley, a young physician, but the fear of heredity prevents her from marrying. Her father's health is declining and in order to give him rest, they move to a smaller town, where he is attended by the local physician. One day while he is about to take some drugs the doctor intercalates. There is a struggle and Allen coming upon the scene shoots and kills the doctor. Both men escape. Hilda is accused of the crime and is sentenced to be hung. Dr. Shirley has been searching for Hilda, but is unsuccessful until the day before the execution, when he learns of her fate. He meets Allen, who comes to him for more dope, and forces a confession from him, which exonerates Hilda. After that, like a fairy godfather, a doctor proves that the fear of heredity in the Mornington's is but imagination.

To see William Russell in comedy parts is indeed a treat. And exhibitors showing "New York Luck" will be giving patrons a treat. The story, worked out from an altogether new angle, is entertaining, humorous and pleasing. A production to make one forget the war and the high cost of living. Exhibitors looking for high-class picture entertainment will do well to book this latest Mutual.

Mr. Russell is supported by Francesca Billington, Charles Burton, Ashton Dearholt and Carl Stockdale. The direction is by Edward Sloman.

The story: Nicholas Fowler, station agent in the town of Hobokus, believes that money can only be made in New York. With this idea and the address of a motion picture director, an old friend of his father's, Nick goes to New York. Going to the studio he finds he cannot gain admission. After a week of fruitless searching for the big money places, he is handed his hotel bill. The amount staggered him. He decides to write his father that he is coming home, but on second thought he writes him an adventure laden letter, telling how he saved the doctor's life and how they met. The story meanders to the stage, and the director comes in and tells Nick he was never notified of his visit. Nick then shows him the letter he has just written. The story meanders to the stage, and the director decides to make a motion picture production of it and casts Nick as the hero, at a big salary. Nick finds that the girl who is to play opposite him is none other than the heroine of his letter, whose picture he had found when she was staying at Hobokus the summer before.

"Her Silent Sacrifice," Alice Brady's first starring vehicle under the Select banner is a thrilling story, logical and convincing, adapted from the play "The Red Mouse" by Henry Dam. The scenario was written by Eve Unsell and the splendid direction is by Edward Jose. The settings are faithful to the locale and the cast is unusually fine.

Miss Brady is as charming as ever and has seldom been more suitably cast than in the present instance, for she is given the opportunity to run the gamut of emotions from simplicity to sophistication. She is exquisite throughout. The supporting company includes George Pemberton, Ruby Keeler, Pauline Lord, Edmund Pardo, Mrs. Blanche Craig and Arda LeCroix.

The Story: Arlette, a love child, lives with her grandmother in Savenay, where the gossip of the neighbors makes her life an unhappy one. Richard Vale, a struggling American artist, settles in Savenay and induces Arlette to pose for him. She learns to love him deeply, but his impersonal manner teaches her to hide her love. Prince Boissard, a patron of the arts, strikes at the heart of Arlette when he seeks Arlette's favor as a tonic for his jaded passions. In order to win her he agrees to give the artist every advantage as his protege, on condition that when Vale becomes famous, Arlette was not permitted to keep him true to the place where she becomes the toast of the town. Then he demands his price. At a ball Boissard insists that she publicly acknowledge him as her benefactor. She does so and Vale attacks the Prince. He is taken away by armed men and broadcast in Paris. The Prince then prepares to exact his penalty, but a Hindoo servant, who adores Arlette, hastens to Vale and tells him the truth about the agreement Arlette made for her sake. Overcome, Vale rushes back in time to save Arlette. In the struggle the Hindoo kills the Prince and Vale and Arlette are reunited.

"WHO SHALL TAKE MY LIFE?"
Ideal Motion Picture drama; six parts; published state rights

The horror of inflicting capital punishment upon an innocent man is depicted in all its gruesome manner in "Who Shall Take My Life," but withal the story has been splendidly done. Every phase has been handled logically and the human appeal has been excelled. Fritzi Brunette and Bessie Eyton give Mr. Santschi good support as does Ed Coxen, Harry Lonsdale, Eugenie Beserrer and Al W. Filson. The story is from the pen of Mabel Heikes Justice.

The story thoroughly arouses the sympathy of Kate Taylor, who gives him food and shelter until he can find steady work. He receives a position as bridge tender and lives with Kate until he meets Mary Moran, whom he loves and marries. Kate becomes heartbroken, and when her twin sister is murdered and is mistaken for herself and Bill is accused of the murder she does nothing to rectify the matter. Instead she goes west with Crosswell and lives with him and she meets "the Virgin," who is jealous and shoots Egan. He is sent to the same death chamber in which Bill is awaiting his execution. An exchange of confidences reveals the fact that they are both awaiting death because of murder, but matters are cleared up. Crosswell reveal the fact that Kate Taylor is still alive. A frantic search is made for the girl and as the hour of the execution draws near no trace of her can be found. At the eleventh hour detectives find her in a western dance hall. They wire to the prison, but because of the difference in eastern and western time, the innocent man goes to his death for another's crime. The horror of the situation drives Kate mad. The picture was shown at the Band Box Theater, Chicago, last week.

This production, featuring William S. Hart, is a typical Hart story and deals largely with the delineator of western characters a favorite with their audiences should find "The Cold Deck" a successful offering. Mr. Hart does his usual good work and is well supported by Mildred Harris, Alma Rubens, Sylvia Bremer, Edwin N. Wallock, Charles O. Rush and others.

The Story: "Level" Leigh, notorious gambler, endeavors to keep his profession secret from his sister Alice, an invalid. He plans to win sufficient money to give her proper care and restore her health. Carole, a Spanish dancer, is infatuated with Leigh, but when he gives her little attention, she has him "cold-decked" and he loses all his money. The immediate result is for Mrs. Leigh to hold up a stage coach, but the little sister dies and when the road agent is wanted for the murder of the messenger, Leigh gives himself up although he did not kill the man. Citizens are planned prisoners, one of whom helps him to escape and while he is hiding he unearths the money stolen from the coach. The real murderer is "Black-Jack" Hurley. Leigh brings him back to town where he gets his just deserts. Leigh is urged to remain with the villagers while Rose Larkin, daughter of the murdered messenger, promises to take care of him.

"The Eternal Mother" has little to recommend it as screen entertainment. The story is padded and the main plot has been used time and time again. Picture devotes four of the six parts of production to a little girl and "The Eternal Mother" for the sake of watching the star. Regular patrons of photoplay theaters, however, are getting to the point where they can no longer tolerate an old plot after seeing many films. This picture will keep them in their seats, as was the case at a Chicago "loop" theater where "The Eternal Mother" was shown last week.

The story: Maris endeavors to persuade her husband to put men and women in the places in his mills filled by children, but Alden will not listen to his wife's pleas. One night one of the little girls is injured and Maris, calling on her, finds that it is her own daughter, from a previous marriage, whom she thought dead. She also finds her former husband, whom she believed dead, is still living. She returns to her home and tells her husband, but the little girl runs away from her father and comes to Maris, Maris leaves Alden, explaining her reason in a letter. Alden learns that Maris' former husband secured a divorce in order that he might marry another woman. With this evidence, after clearing the mills of the children workers, Alden goes to his wife and begs Maris and the little girl to return to him.

"The Regenerates" will undoubtedly provide good entertainment for many patrons of motion picture theaters. The story is interesting and well done; there is a good cast; the settings have been well selected and the photography is good. It isn't a subject discriminating audiences would select, but should prove very good for the average audience. Alma Rubens and Walt Whitman handle their parts very well and a fine supporting cast surrounds them.

The story: The wealthy Van Dyn has planned that the last two members of his family, Catherine and Pell, shall marry in order that nothing but pure blue blood shall flow through their veins. But Van Dyn loves Nora Duffy, daughter of Van Dyn's butler, and Catherine loves Lafarge, in author. One morning Pell is found dead and Lafarge is held for the murder, because he and Pell had an argument. However, evidence is lacking and he is discharged and a confession is forced from a drug-imbued servant in the employ of the Van Dyn household. A little boy has been born to Nora and Pell, but the old grandfather refuses to allow the baby in his home. Catherine leaves, marries Lafarge and raises the boy. All efforts on Catherine's part to win back her grandfather fall until young Pell is sent to him. The boy is received by the old man and Catherine and Lafarge also find a place in his heart. The picture was well received at the Pasteure theater, Chicago.

CAST Chosen for Carmen Production

The complete cast has been assembled for Jewel Carmen's first starring production "The Kingdom of Love" for William Fox. It will consist of Geneviève Bizet, L. C. Shumway, Fred Milton, Joseph Manning, Nancy Taswell, Ernest Wade, G. Raymond Nye and Murdock MacQuarrie. Frank Lloyd is the director.

Ben Turpin in
"IS ANY WAITRESS SAFE?"

Sennett-Paramount comedy; two parts; published December 2

Another typical Sennett comedy, full of slap-stick antics, pie throwing, vulgarity, and the various other elements which go to make up these comedies. As in previous Paramount comedies, whatever or not exhibitors will want to show this picture to their patrons depends upon the type of the audience. Ben Turpin, Slim Summertime and Louise Fazenda are featured.

The story revolves about Mr. Turpin and Miss Fazenda, employed in a restaurant, but when Louise allows the dog to drag the frankfurters all over the place before serving them to a customer, both she and Ben are discharged. They become engaged in the home of a wealthy family and when the family goes away they leave Deny a party. They invite a number of their friends and a number of the persons employed at the restaurant, who are not their friends, invite themselves. The result is a riot, which is only quelled by the arrival of the owner of the house and the police.

"UNKOWN 274" WITH JUNE CAPRICE

"Unknown 274" will be the next June Caprice photoplay to be published by William Fox. The story is a deft combination of humor and pathos and is said to give the "Sunshine Girl" one of the most appealing roles she has had.

"Uneasy Money" With Taylor Holmes to Be Issued as a Special Feature

"Uneasy Money," Taylor Holmes' newest vehicle, soon to be published by George K. Spoor as a special feature, combines a rare bit of humor with strong and fascinating situations.

The picturization has lost none of the humor of the original story in the Saturday Evening Post. Taylor Holmes is ideally cast as Lord Dawlish, the polished, though practically, Englishman, whose love for justice overbalances his desire to be a "vulgar millionaire."

Mr. Holmes is supported by Virginia Valli, in the role of Elizabeth, Lillian Drew, Frederick Tiden, Rod La Rocque, Virginia Bowker, Charles Gardner and Arthur Bates.

Billie Rhodes is Wooed by Three in Latest Mutual-Strand Comedy

Billie Rhodes, star of Mutual-Strand comedies, presents numerous funny situations in her latest picture, "Tom, Dick and Harry." The "eternal triangle" is evident, but there is a man at each corner and they are all after Billie. Love's course takes some very odd angles, with the three admirers each trying to outdo the other.

Harry buys her candy. It gets "doped" by Tom, whose offering of flowers is switched. Dick steals the candy, presents it, and loses out. Harry proves the final victor, with a raked letter that decays his rivals to the grave while he marries Billie.
THE PUBLIC MEANING OF THE EXHIBITORS

We have been criticized, in a friendly way, by several exhibitors and in an unfriendly way by others, because of the 15c per reel per day film tax.

The unfriendly critics say that we ought to pay this tax ourselves. They charge us with the lack of patriotism. They declare that we will ruin 50% of the exhibitors in this country if we pass the tax along to them. They assert that they cannot pass it along to the public because the public won't pay it.

The friendly critics tell us that we are quite right in passing the tax along to the public through the exhibitor, but that we made a serious blunder in not explaining the situation more carefully to the exhibitors. To this last charge we plead guilty.

Our only reason for not having told the story to the exhibitors sooner was that the tax took the whole Industry by surprise, for the Senate Finance Committee unanimously declared against the film tax, and from the information at hand we believed that the bill would emerge from the conference committee of the Senate and House devoid of such a tax. Thus we were left as confused and unable to act as all other branches of the Industry.

Moreover, the tax went into effect on October 4th and was accruing against us while we were conferring with each other. To have attempted to confer with committees of exhibitors would have meant endless discussion and much delay, resulting in the accumulation of a burden that we could ill afford to assume.

We took too much for granted. We assumed the exhibitor would understand that it was a financial impossibility for us to pay $100,000 per week out of our own pockets, just as we understood from the beginning that it would be an impossibility for the exhibitor himself to pay the various taxes imposed on him.

Our whole idea has been to pass the tax along to the public, just as every other tax in the world is passed.

As for the charge that we have done an unpatriotic thing, we are satisfied to let the government say whether we have done our part or not.

But as for the claim that we will ruin fifty per cent of the exhibitors by asking them to pay about one dollar a day in film tax and pass even that small amount on to the public, it is absurd on its face. A far greater danger to the exhibitor lies in refusing to act as the channel for passing the tax along, thus forcing many of us to discontinue business. In such an event, with his source of film supply shut off, how long could any exhibitor stay in business? Not fifty per cent would have to quit, but one hundred per cent.

Furthermore, the public will not refuse to pay the tax.

It has not refused to pay the war tax on passenger fares, on Pullman accommodations, on telephone calls, on theatre admissions, on tobacco, on beverages, on bonds, on cameras; and it is even now paying the tax on chewing gum, cigars, cigarettes, deeds, express, radio messages, games, graphophones, insurance premiums, jewelry, playing cards, automobiles, patent medicines, letters and scores of other luxuries and necessities.

We do not say that we WON'T pay the tax. We say that we CAN'T.

We have not been arbitrary in the matter, regardless of what any exhibitor may think. We used the utmost care to determine whether our action was fair. We knew it was legal, but we considered fairness far more important than the mere legal right to pass the tax along to the public. We discussed the situation from every possible angle. We called in the best available experts to check our figures and prove their correctness.
PAY THE TAX

In spite of this we find that we have undercharged rather than overcharged.
Some of us even after we have collected every penny of the 15c per reel per day will still have to pay at least 33% of the tax out of our own funds. Some of the undersigned distributors have found that the charge to exhibitors should be 22c per reel per day instead of 15c.

The 15c charge is based on a figure which did not take into consideration the additional cost to do business in collecting the tax: additional billing clerks, additional bookkeeping because of additional entries in customers' accounts and additional employees in the auditing department of each home office because of the necessary increase in the auditing.

Furthermore, some day the tax will be taken off and at that time we will have released a great many subjects on which the tax must be paid, but which tax we will be unable to pass along to the public through the exhibitor or any other channel. Nor does the 15c charge take into consideration the fact that films of all ages are constantly being replenished. The undersigned companies must pay the tax on all the subjects which are being reprinted to take the place of worn out copies in various Exchanges, even though the subjects were originally released prior to October 4th.

We firmly believe that all distributors MUST pass the tax along. We believe that any distributor who claims to be paying the tax out of his own pocket is only seeking to get a little extra business at a critical time by posing as the friend of the exhibitor. We believe that such tactics are a menace to the distributor that does it and to the exhibitors, and thus to the whole industry. When the day of reckoning comes we can see nothing but disaster for those who play politics in such a crisis.

We urgently advise every exhibitor to start a campaign of education, impressing it upon his patrons that a higher admission price is bound to come, not only because of war taxes (and more taxes will come) but on account of the abnormal increases in all costs of producing and distributing pictures. Everything else in the line of luxuries or necessities is leaping up in price; but the moving picture business continues to serve the people at the same old figure, or, at most, a small advance.

A committee claiming to represent the exhibitors of the United States called upon us recently and threatened various sorts of action against us if we persisted in trying to pass the film tax along to the public through the exhibitors. It threatened to split the whole Industry open at a moment when there is the greatest need of power.

Does that committee represent YOU or do you feel that we have taken our action in the past in good faith and only because necessity compelled us to do so?

The government must and will have money. We can't pay it. You can't pay it. All we ask you to do is to open the way to pass it to the public, where all taxes must eventually go.

Mutual's Schedule for Dec. 3
Includes "American Maid"
A Cub and a Strand Comedy

Mutual's schedule for the week of December 3 is led by Miss Edna Goodrich in "American Maid," which is the fourth of the series of productions in which Miss Goodrich appears for Mutual. It was directed by Albert Capellani, at Mutual's Long Island studios.

"American Maid" is the story of a typical American girl doing "her bit" behind the trenches in France, who falls in love with an American doing "his bit" in the trenches. He is wounded and retired from active service, returns home, discovers the social gulf which separates them, and goes back to the West.

Miss Goodrich represents in the picture the ideal of Ameri-

Taylor Holmes and Mary McAlister
Head December List of Essanay Plays

Essanay now has ready for exhibitors its entire December program and work is well under way on the first pictures of the new year. In the December list are two comedy dramas, "The Small Town Guy," featuring Taylor Holmes, and "Sadie Goes to Heaven," Little Mary McAlister's latest picture, and "The Dream Doll," a novelty picture with "living" dolls.

"The Small Town Guy," Mr. Holmes' fourth picture, shows the comedian in a new role, that of a rube, and offers new opportunities for his versatile art. The play is from the novellette, "A Picture of Innocence," from Munsey's magazine, and has a screen time of sixty-five minutes. It is a perfection picture and will be published December 3 through the George Kleine System.

"Sadie Goes to Heaven" also offers new opportunities for six-year-old Mary McAlister. She plays the part of a child of the tenements and is then seen in the home of a rich matron. "Sadie Goes to Heaven" is from the pen of Dana Burnet and was published in Good Housekeeping. It has a screen time of sixty-five minutes and will be published December 24.

THE PERISCOPE

By Fuller Pep

Are those grape juice three-cent stamps part of William Jennings Bryan's propaganda for his 1920 presidential campaign?

The Price of Three Beers

Looks like a split between the exhibs, and the distris, over that fifteen cents a reel war tax. The darned thing's spadin'.

Betting on the electric signs that go out about eleven o'clock is providing a new diversion for New Yorkers who frequent Reel Row. The game is to pick one that flickers out last.

Why He Canceled

"Don't send me that 'Barbary Sheep' picture. My patrons don't like animal pictures," writes a Chicago exhibitor to his exchange.

"To succeed in acting you must never try to act," declares Sessue Hayakawa, according to John C. Flinn. Well, some of them are succeeding very well.

Is Jack Gardner after Helen Holmes' record? In "The Gift o' Gab" he rides on top of an auto, leaps to a moving street car, jumps to another going in the opposite direction, drops from a viaduct to the top of a freight car, and there beats up a policeman.

Metro's December Films

"The Square Deceiver," "Alias Mrs. Jessop," is on "The Avenging Trail" of "God's Outlaw," according to this month's Metro schedule. Well, we hope she gets him.

It Must Be the Air

Out on the West coast there's a wild poet who bursts into song every now and then. Here's his latest. Get that "Ma" rhyming with "car" stuff:

Petruna Malover as a vampire bid to make A name supreme. But now, alas! they vote her a fake. The news got out she lived at home and quite adored her Ma, And worse, she never smoked at all and never drove a car.

It takes more than camouflaging an actor's name to fool the knowing ones. They can spot a bun screen artist a block away, whether his name is Sniddle Fritz or just plain Jones. A change in his moniker doesn't get him by.

"Real heroes act as their own press agents."—Chicago News.

If reel heroes acted as badly as press agents as they do on the screen, heaven help the editors.

What Do You Make of It?

One purveyor of publicity says that his company used 145,000 feet of film in making its last production. Is the P. A. overzealous, or doesn't that half a cent a foot war tax bother them?

It doesn't take much to make a story these days. One P. A. writes two pages about a lump of sugar that held up a wonderful photoplay in the making. And yet they say there's a shortage of white paper. No wonder.

We only received one highbrow joke this week. This one's about a precocious Kansas kid who couldn't see the policy of using twin beds in a play when everyone is practicing conservation.

Ever Notice It?

What a striking resemblance there is between Viola Dana and the picture labeled "Mabel Talaferrer" in December 1 M. P. New.

Speaking of the plaintive call of the female bowling ball answering its mate, has anyone ever noticed a wild exhib, being led up to sign a "thirty-day deposit in advance" contract? There's real acting for you.

General Electric Company Has Current Regulation Device
For Mazda Lamp Projection

The General Electric Company of Schenectady, N. Y., has compiled the following article dealing with a new method for current regulation in connection with motion picture projection equipment with Mazda lamps.

Successful Mazda lamp projection, considered both from a business and engineering standpoint, depends on close regulation of the current passing through the lamps, for close regulation of the current gives the most satisfactory light and by preventing undue strains on the lamps filaments due to excessive currents adds materially to the length of life of the lamps.

The Compensarc engineers of the General Electric Company, working in conjunction with the engineers of the lamp departments of the same company, have developed for this particular purpose the Type I Compensarc.

The Type I Compensarc is a self contained device requiring no auxiliary attachments, and is rated 750 watts, 110-220 volts A-C primary and 20-30 volts secondary. The working parts consist of Compensator, starting device, rheostat and ammeter. The starting switch, rheostat handle and ammeter are all mounted on the front of the steel cabinet which houses the compensator rheostat and other working parts. The steel cabinet is arranged for mounting at any point where the controls will be convenient to the projection machine operator.

The starting switch at starting the lamp, automatically puts some resistance in the lamp circuit so that excessive rush of current through the cold filament is prevented. The ammeter indicates at all times the current passing through the lamp and the finer adjustments of current are controlled by the will of the operator by means of the adjustable rheostat. The operator can therefore easily adjust the rheostat to compensate for the slight variations in the commercial line voltage and thereby conserve the life of the lamps.

Fox Announces Nine Productions for Publication on December Schedule

Nine photoplays are scheduled to come from William Fox's studios in the East and West during the next month. "Foxes in the Woods," on December 2, a film version of the world-known story of charm and fascination, Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin head the cast which gives a remarkably fine interpretation of the tale. The Standard Picture for December 2 will be "A Daughter of the Gods," with Annette Kellermann, now available for the entire country, for the first time.

Miss George Walsh's play, "The Pride of New York," which begins with the draft and ends in the trenches, is to be published on December 9. Jane and Katherine Lee, the juvenile stars, in "Troublemakers," is the Standard Picture for that date.

The following week comes William Farnum's emotional drama, "The Heart of a Lion," an adaptation of Ralph Connor's novel, "The Doctor," the scenes of which are laid in the Canadian Rockies. June Caprice in "Unknown," dealing with troubles of a founding, is the feature for December 16.

On December 23 Jewel Carmen will make her debut as a fully-blooded Miss Jessop. Carmen has been provided with an excellent vehicle in "The Kingdom of Love," a film of an eventful period in an Alaskan mining camp.

Theda Bara in "Du Barry," an elaborate cinema version of the story of the original Madame de Pompadour, is scheduled for December 30. Simultaneously with this Standard Picture is the feature "Stolen Honor," Virginia Pearson has the stellar role in the latter, and gives a well-rounded performance, it is said.

"In Bad" Wm. Russell's Next Film for the American-Mutual Program

The complete cast of the new Russell feature, "In Bad," has been announced by the American Film Company, Inc., at Santa Barbara, Calif. The cast is made up of William Russell, Francella Billington, Harvey Clark, Bull Montana, Carl Stockdale, Lucille Ward and Fred Smith.

William Russell, as "Monty," sors the society. But he fights his way in and out of numerous embarrassing situations and accidentally discovers a hidden treasure in the Aztec ruins of Yucatan. Francella Billington is a society girl who has her eye on "Monty." Bull Montana is cast as a boxing teacher. Lucille Ward is back with the American and has a prominent part in the new Russell feature. Edward Soman is supervising the filming of the picture.

Metro Stars Barrymore, Bushman, Bayne, Stevens and Lockwood in Dec.

Metro announces for appearance during the month of December productions starring Ethel Barrymore, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, Emily Stevens, and Harold Lockwood.

First on the list is "The Square Deceiver," starring Harold Lockwood, a picturization of Francis Perry Elliott's story, "Love Me for Myself Alone." It is scheduled for December 10, with Emily Stevens as star. This, too, is a book play, a screen version of a story by Blair Hall, William S. Davis directed it. In "Alias Mrs. Jessop" Miss Stevens plays two characters, Jane and Lilley Davis.

December 17 will be shown for the first time "God's Outlaw," with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne as co-stars. "God's Outlaw" was written and directed by William Chocolate Campbell.

"An American Widow," with Ethel Barrymore, will be published December 24. Frank Reich is directing this screen version of Kellett Chambers' play. Irving Cummings has been engaged to play opposite Miss Barrymore in the production. Other members of the cast are H. Dudley Hawley, and Ernest Stalling, George A. Wright, Alfred Kappler and Pearl Brown.

The final feature of the year will be "The Avenging Trail," with Harold Lockwood. It is a picturization of Henry Oyen's novel, "Gaston Ola," a story of the North woods. The usual number of Drew comedies will be released during the month of December.

Universal Plans Advertising Drive For Big Forthcoming Productions

The Universal Company has picked several productions which, it is stated, are above the average and will begin a special advertising campaign both to the trade and the general public featuring these pictures. Those selected for special exploitation are:

"Beloved Jim," featuring Harry Carter, Priscilla Dean and Joseph Girard. While the Christmas spirit pervades the plot, an offering of young round value, has been created from Joseph Girard's story.

Jack Ford's production "Bucking Broadway" features Harry Carey as the star. Molly Malone will be Mr. Carey's leading lady.

Herbert Rawlinson and Brownie Vernon are starred in "The High Sin," an Elmer Clifton production created by Walderem Young and J. Grubb Alexander. Hayward Mack, Edward Brady, Mark Fenton, Nellie Allen, Frank McQuarrie and Harry Mann provide the support.

"The Wolf and His Mate" is another production Universal is advancing as a subject for extra advertising. Louise Lovely is the star of this story, directed by Edward J. Le Saint. Hart Howard heads a supporting company that also includes Hector Dixon, John O'Dell, Betty Schade and Baby Georgia French.

"Madam Spy" in which Jack Mulhall, Donna Drew and Claude Du Brey will be featured, is based on Len Morrison's story of intrigue and adventure.

Irene Castle and Gladys Hulette Head Pathe Program for December

Irene Castle and Gladys Hulette head the Pathe program for the month of December. Mrs. Castle will appear in a drama of society and high finance, from the novel of John A. Morose, "Vengeance Is Mine." It will be published on December 16. The cast includes Edwin Hoyt, Frank Sheridan, Reginald Mason, Ethel Grey Terry, Frank Monroe and Julia Stewart. This will be the fourth of the Castle-Pathe series of pictures.

"Over the Hill," a five-reel Pathe Gold Rooster feature, with Gladys Hulette, will be published on December 9. The story was written by Louis Zellner, and William Parke directed the filming.

Peggy Hyland has completed at the Astra studios the screen version of A. H. Wood's stage success, "The Other Woman," with Fannie Ward. It is also based on her latest picture, "Innocent," from the play by George Broadhurst.

Bessie Love, with her director, Madame Blache, and a large company, has gone to Palm Beach, Fla., where she will begin her first play for Pathe. The picture will be based on Henry Kitchell Webster's story, "Springs of the Year."

Star Performs Perilous Stunts in Chapter XII of "Lost Express"

Helen Holmes does some of the most risky bits of her career in "The Lost Express," her new fifteen chapter Mutual-Signal photoplave, in "Daring Death." Chapter XII, which is published December 3.

Miss Holmes crosses the railroad tracks on a temporary footbridge, built on the principle of the suspension bridge with ropes instead of cables. The action of the chapter provides that as Helen is midway across the plotters are to cut the ropes. Helen grasps the severed rope, swings sixty feet to the tracks below and rescues a companion from the wheels of an approaching train.

"The Lost Express" is nearing completion at the Signal studios near Los Angeles. Chapter XV will reveal the mystery of the lost express train which disappeared mysteriously in Chapter I.

However, after a short time she finds Garry a real man and they fall in love. The count and his family take the vast fortune in Garry's name. Mrs. Hawtrey is told of the Garrity money. Mrs. Hawtrey is to compromise Garry, force him to marry her, then secure a divorce. She allying with Mrs. Hawtrey are to live. The "frameup" works and when Louise hears of the escape she forces Garrity to marry the woman, where it all happened, when he is informed that it was all a "frameup." He wins a confession from the count that he does not love her and they are happily reunited.

"The Ship of Doom"—December 2 (five-reel Triangle drama, with Claire McDowell).—A five-reel film set in a fishing village, is engaged to wed Mar- tin Shaw. Clara is something of a co-quette and when Jeff Whitley-keiss-el and then boasts of it, he meets his match in the person of Martin. Then Martin and Clara rush into the storm. Their boat becomesdisabled, and they are picked up by "Sundown" Shattuck and his crew. Shattuck knocks Martin unconscious that he might pay attention to Clara, and live as he thinks he will have his way his crew mutiny and the ship catches fire. The three are cast on a desert island and the quicksands save Shattuck from the naked hands of Martin. Clara is restored to the man who loves her better than life.

UNIVERSAL

"The Lion's Claw"—Episode 7, "The Red Ace," Universal serial with Marie Wilcamp)—Virginia breaks into the enemy's camp and at the point of a re- volver forces the men out into the bal- loons, but the woman gives out and both she and Winthrop are captured. The men are planning to hang Winthrop, but news of his danger has come to Little Bear and he复制s the rope just as the noose is to be tightened. He then res- cues Virginia. The enemy follow and Virginia swings onto a tree. As the last one passes beneath the tree she jumps down upon him and throws him from the saddle. She is pulled down and while the horse is going she hangs herself and in the saddle with her head down.

"Water on the Brain" (one-reel Nestor comedy, with Bob McKenzie and Gai- horry)—Leety Lockett has invented a wonderful machine which will control the weather. He has been offered a million dollars for it and, fearing it will be stolen, he has detective Squibs take care of it. But before the arrival of Squibs, Dogfed, in a temporary and steals it. The inventor and his daughter and the detective are able to recover it by using an elixir which freezes the machine when they try to make their escape.

"Kid Snatchers" (two-reel L-Ko com- edy, with Bob McKenzie)—Gladys Zell, a nurse, is a bachelor's guest, and there is a great deal of rivalry between the janitor and the doctor, and when the doctor sees the janitor and Zell making love he does something, and then gets back in a baby carriage. One of the children in the nursery is stolen and so is Zell. Jinx follows the two and is found, he is brought to a chair. The mother learns of her baby being held for ransom and is able to rescue both the baby and the nurse.

EXHIBITORS

What are you doing now?
What have you done in the past?
To Support A National Fraternity of Motion Picture Exhibitors?

For about eight years
Exhibitors of this country
As a very general thing Have Not Given their whole-hearted support
To any National Organization of Exhibitors.
National Organizations lived from funds
Raised by a few officials
By giving Balls, Expositions, Trade Shows, Trade Papers and by doing a general pan-handling on propositions where mostly the film interests gave freely to these affairs.
Now mostly
You get what you pay for.
As you individually did mostly nothing,
Therefore you individually receive mostly nothing.
And furthermore, what could you expect under the circumstances?
Yes—
All Motion Picture Organizations should work for the best interests of the entire Industry.
Agreed.
But—
Sometimes—yes, oft-times—questions arise whereby there must be decided
What shall be rendered to the Exhibitor?
What shall be rendered to the Film Producer?
At such a time
A National body of Exhibitors
Must be free from entangling alliances.
If a National Body Official Own a Trade Paper that lives by the advertising of Film Producers;
If your National Officials get their salary and pay postage by running Trade Shows, Balls and Punch and Judy Expositions supported by the Film Producers
Then—
Can that Body protect the interest of the Exhibitor, first, last and always, or Give the Exhibitor the benefit of the doubt?
A Fraternity that lives entirely by the aid of its membership can protect. To have such a Fraternity
A few weeks ago the AMERICAN EXHIBITORS ASSOCIATION
was organized.
This new Body of Exhibitors
Have no entangling alliances.
No one man controls our destiny.
No Official receives a cent of salary.
We allow only Motion Picture Theater Owners or a Credited Manager to become members.
Every Exhibitor is welcome and requested to join.
Every Local Body is invited to affiliate.
The moment you join you at once become a power for your own good.
This Organization will do big things for you and the Industry
When the majority of Exhibitors are enrolled in our membership.
The reason of past failure
Was because so few took any interest in National affairs.
An organized few are doing much for themselves.
While an organized majority struggle blindly
A large Organization of Exhibitors will do the right thing;
Because it is large.
Now is the time to join the AMERICAN EX-HIBITORS ASSOCIATION.
WE ARE ARRANGING TO KEEP A REPRESENTATIVE IN WASHINGTON
ON THE TAX QUESTION. That is why you should Hurry.
We want you to join now because we want to know what you want
So as to give you just what you want

Chicago Exhibitors
Will Give "I. O. U.'s." in Lieu of Change

Chicago—Because of the scarcity of pennies, which situation is becoming acute, one exhibitor has hit upon the plan of giving his personal "I. O. U." to patrons in lieu of change. The recipient under the plan, can use the paper to gain admission to the theatre or cash in. When this proposition was put up to Robert L. Hunt, in charge of the substitute treasury here, he expressed the opinion that the Government would not object to anything that would facilitate business.

"We received only 3,000 pennies today," he said. "We just can't get them."

Law to Bar Children
From Picture Shows
Opposed by Citizens

St. Louis—An ordinance drafted by Circuit Judge Hennings, aimed to bar children under sixteen years of age from motion picture theatres where certain described pictures are shown, has aroused the antagonism of a number of persons here, including a clergyman. The law is soon to be considered by the city council.

Rev. J. B. Cox, an Episcopal clergyman, was the most vigorous opponent of the instrument at a recent public hearing, and it was apparent that he voiced the opinion of most of the opponents present.

Rev. Cox said that while he was in favor of the elimination of improper pictures, he was against the ordinance as framed because it would suppress the best and most instructive pictures for children under sixteen.

Spokane Theatres of Chas. Stillwell Run "Open Shop"

Spokane—Charles E. Stillwell, owner of four motion picture theatres here, is now operating his houses under the "open shop" rule. The theatres affected are the Casino, Class A, Rex and Unique.

Mr. Stillwell took his action when he found, he says, that he had been on the "unfair" list of the unions for the past four months.

"I asked to have the ban removed and notified my union help that unless it was I would have nothing further to do with any of the unions," he said. "It was not removed."

The union heads state that Mr. Stillwell's action was taken because of his desire for an "open shop." The Class A theatre was damaged slightly by fire in the projecting room, following the lockout. The fire resulted from a machine left in bad order by union help, the theatre owner charged.

Dayton Officials in Investigation of Theatre Fire

Dayton—State and city investigation is now under way of a fire which recently destroyed the New Auditorium motion picture theatre, one of the finest in Dayton, causing a loss of more than $150,000. Information thus far obtained by the investigating bodies discloses the fact that a youth about 19 years of age had been seen several times on the roof of the building. Only a short time before the fire the miscreant had been pursued by Gill Burrows, manager of the theatre, but escaped by jumping to an adjoining roof.

Preparations for building a new theatre are already under way. Trustees of the Leopold Rauh estate, owners of the building, have already held consultations with their architects and have ordered plans drawn for a theatre to cost approximately $200,000. It is expected that the new theatre will be completed and opened by April 1 next.

Exploding Film Routs
Picture House Patrons

New Orleans—An exploding film at the Newcomb Theatre, a motion picture house, recently, caused considerable excitement among patrons who were forced to flee to the street. A slight detonation in the projection booth was followed by a volume of smoke which filled the theatre. None of the patrons was injured. Firemen extinguished the flames with chemicals.

New Chicago Theatre to Be Built Around Present Structure

The building of a new theatre around the old with a loss of less than a month's time in the blending of the two into a modern 1,800-seat motion picture house is the novel feat of construction which will soon be undertaken by E. D. Miller and L. A. Forbes, owners of the Piasance Theatre, 161 North Parkside avenue, Austin.

Plans have already been drawn by an architect for the new building and contractors have pronounced the idea of these two progressive exhibitors as feasible. While the walls of the new structure are rising outside the old building the business of the theatre will be conducted as usual, and it is only when the blending point is reached that business will be suspended. Miller & Forbes have run the Piasance for three years and for some time the need for a larger theatre has been imperative. The young men plan a trip to the East in the near future to obtain ideas on decoration and general equipment for their new show house.

New Newark Theatre to Show New Film “Zepplin’s Last Raid”

Management Breaks Rule and Shelves Another Feature to Run U. S. Exhibitors Spectacle

Thomas H. Ince’s spectacle, “The Zepplin’s Last Raid,” the initial publication and distribution by U. S. Exhibitors’ Booking Corporation, has been chosen for the first production for which the management of the new Newark Theatre, the leading house devoted to motion pictures in New Jersey, has broken its long established policy.

The Newark Theatre which is under the management of Max Spiegel and his associates, is built along the lines of the Strand Theater, New York, of which the Spiegel interests are also the owners. It opened last September and is one of the biggest theaters in the east.

Since its opening the Strand has shown productions of only one concern and in order for Mr. Spiegel to present the Ince spectacle, it will be necessary for him to shelve another picture. However, after viewing “The Zepplin’s Last Raid” at a recent showing, Mr. Spiegel was so impressed with its timelessness and money-getting qualities, that he decided to book it even if he had to break his policy.

“It is not often that the exhibitor has an opportunity to book a production of such box-office value as ‘The Zepplin’s Last Raid,’” declared Mr. Spiegel.

Minnesota and Utah Exhibitors Become Members of Food Body

Motion picture exhibitors of two states have been made members of the United States food administration because of their interest in saving food administration films in their theaters.

Out of 520 motion picture theaters in the state of Minnesota all but eight have responded to the call, and each week are showing films issued by the administration. The exhibitors have been complimented by A. D. Wilson, food administrator.

Two hundred motion picture houses in the state of Utah have sent in their names for the administration’s cooperating program, and are now receiving their membership cards. W. H. Swanson, motion picture chairman for Utah, has sent a letter to the exhibitors of the state, impressing upon them the seriousness of the situation.

Fireproof Theatres Urged in Ordinance

Little Rock, Ark.—A new ordinance which contemplates further regulation of the motion picture theatres in this city and specifies that all theatres must be housed in fireproof buildings, has been filed with City Clerk, Percy H. Machin here.

The bill was filed too late for action of the council this week. It will probably not be taken up until early in December.

J. Frank Hatch Buys “The Whip” Spectacle for Tent Attraction

J. Frank Hatch, of Newark, N. J., announces that he has purchased the Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia rights to the Maurice Tourneur production of the Drury Lane melodrama “The Whip.” Mr. Hatch’s plans for exploiting “The Whip” are unusual in that he is to show “The Whip” as he would a circus. He will carry his own tent, seats, orchestra and lighting systems, and will be independent of all theatres in the towns he selects for showing the picture.

He became interested in “The Whip” when the picture was attracting at his own motion picture theatre in Newark and immediately got in touch with Hiller & Wilk, sales agents of the Paragon Films, Inc., and closed a contract for the three states mentioned.

Exhibitor Pleased with “Whither Thou Goest”

Samual Katz, of Calaban & Katz, owners of the new Central Park Theater, Chicago, was so favorably impressed with the Thomas Ince production, “Whither Thou Goest,” that he written to Greiver & Herz, midwest distributors of the film, complimenting them on the production and booking it for three nights at the theater.

“It is a pleasure for me,” reads a part of his letter, “to advise you that after viewing your Thomas H. Ince production, ‘Whither Thou Goest,’ I have decided to use same at the above theater as it is one of the best attractions that I have seen in a long time.”

U. S. Exhibitors Corp. Opens Detroit Office

William Alexander of the newly organized U. S. Exhibitors’ Booking Corporation, has gone to Detroit where he will establish the U. S. exchange system in that territory. Mr. Alexander is looking after the interests of the new Thomas H. Ince spectacle, “The Zepplin’s Last Raid,” the initial picture of the new enterprise.

Ebony Company Screens Comedies for Trade

Many exhibitors, critics and others gathered at the private showing held by the Ebony Film Corporation of some of its recent comedies last Thursday morning in Wurlitzer’s Fine Arts Hall, 120-122 West Forty-first street, New York City.

Enjoying Liberal Patronage in New Home, the New Orpheum

New York—Samuel E. Jacobs has bought the Classic Theatre, 1408 St. Nicholas avenue.

Philadelphia—Cram & Co. are estimating plans for a theatre to be erected at Nineteenth and Market streets for the Stanley Theatre Company.

Central West

Kansas City—the Boy Scouts of Greater Kansas City were guests at the Columbia Theatre recently, at a showing of “For the Freedom of the World.”

Cedar Falls, Ia.—Charles Gallup of Waterloo has purchased the Cotton Theatre here from A. S. Vivian. The deal is said to have involved about $30,000.

Fairfield, Ia.—Hugh Bennett, proprietor of the Fairfield Theatre here, has purchased the Pastime Theatre at Mt. Pleasant.

Veedersburg, Ind.—Manager Harry Whisler opened the new Tokyo Theatre here recently.

Eldora, Ia.—Daniel Erdel has sold an interest in his motion picture theatre to Jack Raymond.

Cincinnati—C. E. Hite, formerly with the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, is the new manager here of the Jewel Productions, Inc.

Moorhead, Minn.—“Heroic France, Our Allies in Action,” the eight-reel Mutual spectacle, was shown at the state normal school here under the auspices of the Moorhead chapter of the American Red Cross.

West

Troy, Mont.—Mrs. H. L. Baker has sold her half interest in the Princess Theatre to Olaf Dahl.

Noonan, N. D.—Louis Gits and Eugene Tripp have bought the Grand Theatre here.

Spokane—Ralph Ruffer, manager of the Liberty Theatre here, has resigned, to assume the management of the Columbia Theatre, Portland.

Menno, S. D.—The city council voted to allow the use of the city hall on Sunday evening for a motion picture show.

Kelo, Wash.—C. G. Vaughan opened the new Vogue Theatre here recently.

South

Marshall, Tex.—D. W. Powell has bought out the interests of his partner in the Grand Theatre and is now sole owner.

Dallas, Tex.—The Queen Theatre here is to be rebuilt at Akard and Elm streets at a cost of $50,000. E. H. Halsey is manager.

Galveston, Tex.—The Lincoln Theatre, at 415 Twenty-fifth street, was damaged by fire to the amount of $2,500.
Phil Dunas, formerly traveling for the Central Film Company, will henceforth open the grip of Chockalock of Hoffman-Foursquares for the live Illinois exhibits' edification.

Pardon us, fellows? In our last issue we got all jammed up regarding Ralph O. Proctor. Official dope corrects us R. O. P. will be here for kegs, being resident manager. Let's blame it on the printer and let it go at that. We're all glad he did make a mistake, for old Chi has lots of use for Ralph in its film cage.

With all this war talk and slow business conditions, here comes Jack Williams of the West Supply Company to bat with a regular Ty Cobb average. Sales for the past three weeks register one machine to the Naval Training Station, Lake Bluff, Ill.; two for Schoenstadt's new Atlantic theater and three for the Woodlawn theater, all the very latest Type S Simplex projectors. And last, but by no means least, one of the regular Simplex for the headquarters of Division 241 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, being installed in their recently completed building at 325 South Ashland avenue.

H. A. Spanuth, president of the Commonwealth Pictures Corporation, wasted little in and about the Hotel Astor in New York City several days back. 'Tis whispered he is putting the finishing touches on their initial film feature starring the popular Charlotte, which will shortly be announced to the trade in detail.

The wedding of Miss Belle Harris to Irving Mack took place the evening of Nov. 27 at the bride's home, 3167 Cortez street, attended by the immediate members of both families. Owing to the scarcity of rice and in obedience to Food Conservator Hoover, the guests were permitted liberties with missiles of a considerable heavier nature in showing the bridal party. Irvin anticipates being back "on the job" in about ten days.

Nate Ascher, in announcing that Bluebirds have been signed to runs at the Ascher theaters, arises to remark that he is in perfect accord with the winsome Mae Tines. Tribune film critic, with her opinion on "The Savage." From where we sit, no one could or would dare accuse the smiling and genial Nate of lacking anything else where the charming sex is concerned.

F. P. Dillon, manager of the Longacre Distributing Company, tells us the only trouble he is having with the Alice Howel comedies is that instead of one a month they should come out once a week. Cheer up, "Pat," me boy, we know it's pretty tough.

Ed DeBerri, of the DeBerri Scenic Company, makers of the well known Da-Lite projection screen, has been called to the colors. He received his commission of first Lieutenant of Engineers last week and will shortly report to the U. S. Signal Corps for his assignment.

Phil Banowitz, president of the recently incorporated Harmony Amusement Corporation, a co-operative plan to run and operate film theaters, reports excellent progress. The initial theatre to be taken over is the Harmony, 2639 Wood Division Street, which will be shortly followed by others throughout the city, to be announced later.

Looks as though the Society of Authors and Composers had met with defeat in certain motion picture houses in New York city. A few more live concerns like the Ted Snyder Company and the music tax will be ancient history.

The Atlantic, one of Brooklyn's largest and most up-to-date motion picture theaters, gave its patrons a treat last Thursday night by having Ted Snyder and his assistants render several untaxable musical selections.

"Hitting the Trail to Normandy," the new song hit, is some winner and is non-taxable.

Jay Kay, the clever brush wielder, is doing the scaring of rice and he's so good, too, for it is one of the most complete in the city. And such business—oy!
NOTE: Below is printed a blank form which exhibitors may use in keeping records upon which to base tax reports on admissions. It is essential that a daily record be kept in order that the Government may be able to obtain the information it requires in each case. This form has been sanctioned by officials of the Internal Revenue Department.

The Latest Achievement in Motion Picture Projection

Edison Mazda Motion Picture Lamps

They cut down operating expenses by saving current, and give a light of even intensity which greatly improves the quality of the pictures. Better than the old arc light in every way—offers greater accessibility, less heat, no dust, no carbon ash, no fumes.

Every performance means a money loss to you as long as you continue the old method of projection. Get in touch with our nearest distributor or write for Bulletin, telling about this new Edison Mazda development.

GOLDWYN ANNOUNCES INCREASED BOOKINGS BEING RECEIVED ON NEW DECEMBER FEATURES

Quoting Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, that "big pictures are the instant cure for boxoffice depression in the motion picture industry," the Goldwyn Company makes the following statement:

"The giving of Rex Beach's story, 'The Auction Block,' to all Goldwyn contract exhibitors at their regular prices won the approval of exhibitors who for months had looked forward to playing this production at the higher prices always asked and obtained for Mr. Beach's stories. His stories when brought to the screen have a unique hold on the popular imagination.

"For months 'The Auction Block' had been announced and exploited as a great special production, and every one in the trade knew that it could be obtained only at advanced rentals. When Mabel Normand's first Goldwyn production, 'Joan of Plattsburg,' had to be postponed, though completed, for reasons of military expediency, Samuel Goldfish saw an opportunity to do something big for all Goldwyn exhibitors. By paying a big price to the Rex Beach corporation, he obtained the right to publish 'The Auction Block' to Goldwyn customers at the same prices they pay Goldwyn for its own productions. Already the effect of this wise step is being felt by Goldwyn in the form of increased bookings.

"The value of this step will be better understood by considering the power of the next four Goldwyn pictures, which, in straight sequence, give exhibitors these powerful pictures:

'November 18—Madge Kennedy in 'Nearly Married,' by Edgar Selwyn.'

"December 2—Rex Beach's 'The Auction Block.'

"December 30—Mary Garden, making her first screen appearance, in Anatole France's story, 'Thais.'

"Madge Kennedy in 'Nearly Married' fulfills all of the expectations and predictions made as to her power and popularity. Registering a hit in Margaret Mayo's farce, 'Baby Mine,' she now scores an even bigger triumph in Edgar Selwyn's 'Nearly Married,' achieving both drama and comedy.

"George Loane Tucker, director the Hall Caine production, 'The Manx-Man,' and many other pictures that have widespread popularity with exhibitors and the public, has done the finest work of his entire career in 'The Cinderella Man.' This production, completed in advance of its original publication date, has been delivered to Goldwyn branch offices, where exhibitors may see this unusual holiday picture.

"Frank Crane and Hugo Ballin, the Goldwyn directors, have achieved great things in 'Thais.' Perhaps these two men could tell you better than any of the thousands of the tremendous vitality of Miss Garden and of her seemingly inexhaustible energies. In the making of 'Thais' Mary Garden led them at a heart-breaking pace. Literally, she threw the clock out of the studio and her own dressing room and ignored time. She worked from early morning until late each night and revelled in her work.

"The assured drawing power of these successive productions being obvious, exhibitors instantly have flooded the Goldwyn offices with contracts for bookings."

The Theatre Equipment Company, Minneapolis, Minn., lately installed a Simplex projector in the Eveleth high school, Eveleth, Minn., and the Breck Photoplay Supply Company, San Francisco, Cal., has sold a Simplex to the Lodi, Cal., public school.

Better Pictures Bring Bigger Crowds

You're interested in anything that improves the quality of your show, and draws bigger crowds.

Just note the marked advantages of this Edison Mazda C, over the old arc lamp:

There's a great reduction in operating cost, through decreased current consumption.

The focus is permanent.

The light is of an even intensity—no flicker.

And this means Better Pictures, a Better Show.

Then there is less heat, less wear and tear on machines and film, due to the absence of all carbon ash—carbon and resulting carbon troubles are eliminated.

Get in touch with nearest distributor, or write for bulletin, describing this new MAZDA development.

Screen Influence

THE motion picture trade is answering with commendable enthusiasm the government's call for assistance in directing public opinion along the proper patriotic channels. This is a work that is its own reward, but in addition it is giving to this art-industry a sense of its potential power as a director and moulder of public thought and opinion.

It is remarkable that at the outset of the war the government authorities at Washington, particularly the President, seemed to have a far more clear and more definite idea of the potential influence on public thought of the motion picture than the men who daily are responsible for the existence of the motion picture in the United States.

This recognition coming from without should give the trade a better understanding of the vital influence of motion pictures on the individual and the nation, and this fact inevitably carries with it a great responsibility that the influence of motion pictures should be wisely and sanely directed for without intelligent and unselfish control and direction the influence of the screen can be as powerful for harm as it can be for good.

The Merger, Again

UNUSUAL business conditions now existing have again called into discussion the subject of the amalgamation and consolidation of various producing and distributing activities with a view to the elimination of the gigantic waste occasioned by the ruthless competition between producers and distributors.

Without question the unsettled conditions existing in certain quarters in the motion picture trade are tending toward a merger which will reduce production and distribution costs and cut down the volume of production. Such a condition has transpired in other industries that have rapidly grown to enormous sizes and it is very reasonable to expect that a consolidation of some size will one day visit the film industry.

But the example of the United States Steel Corporation, so frequently referred to in connection with the long-awaited film merger, is not likely to be followed even approximately. The film business has an irreconcilable nature all its own and a combination even approaching the comparative extent of the steel combine is founded more in fancy than in fact.

Attention, Cameramen!

THE EXHIBITORS HERALD is in receipt of a communication from Major Kendall Banning, Signal Corps, U. S. R., indicating the need which exists for experienced photographers and laboratory workers in the photographic division of the signal corps.

The work for which the photographic division is responsible is of greatest importance and because of its technical nature the government must look largely to the motion picture trade for experts in the particular line. There is a call for camera men, laboratory experts and photo-physicists and it is to be sincerely hoped that men in the trade who possess the necessary qualifications will immediately present their services to the proper authorities.

Full information as to the qualifications necessary and also the excellent opportunities for promotion may be had by application to the office of the Chief Signal Officer of the Army, Photographic Division, Washington, D. C.

New Tax Plan

J. L. FRIDMAN, a big figure in independent exchange activities in the Middle West, has registered a thought worthy of serious consideration by the trade at large in an interview printed on another page of this week's issue.

Discussing the manner in which the foot age tax is being collected by distributors, Mr. Friedman states his opinion that the present plan is altogether wrong and that in its place there should be substituted a system whereby the exhibitor is charged a certain percent of the rental price.

It is very obvious that the fifteen cents per reel tax to the exhibitor paying one hundred dollars a day for his film is practically no burden at all, while the reverse is quite true in the case of the small exhibitor whose rentals run from five to fifteen dollars per day.

As the small exhibitor is generally recognized to be a most vital element of the film trade the welfare of his business certainly should be safeguarded. The views announced by Mr. Friedman may be the solution to this important problem.

On Keeping Informed

A n eloquent indication of the necessity of an exhibitor keeping himself informed concerning the leading subjects on the market and the nature of them came to our attention this week:

An exhibitor in a town in the Middle West in which is located one of the government's training schools for aviators telegraphed us for information about booking "Civilization." Fortunately for the exhibitor the company which controls the production has withdrawn it from the market for the duration of the war, inasmuch as it is a picture presenting the darker side of war and the brighter side of peace and is distinctly not a picture for exhibition while the nation is waging a war.

This incident is an indication of the necessity of an exhibitor keeping himself fully informed concerning the subject matter of these special productions because the showing of a peace propaganda picture in a town which is the home of a government aviation camp certainly would be highly disadvantageous to the exhibitor.

Martin J. Quigley.

Giant Consolidation to Eliminate Waste Is Urged

Old Question of Merging Various Producing and Distribution Units Is Again Called Up by Statements—Goldfish and Mastbaum Favor Plan

Is amalgamation the way out of the difficulties now confronting the motion picture industry?

When Samuel Goldfish, president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, in a recent interview declared the producers of motion pictures could save $10,000,000 annually by the reduction in the existing number of distributing organizations, he started a controversy which, before it is finished, bids fair to draw in every producer and exhibitor of note in the country.

Already Stanley V. Mastbaum, Philadelphial's foremost exhibitor and Samuel L. Rothapfel, managing director of the Kalti Theatre of New York, in statements, come out in favor of amalgamation.

Brandt Supports Goldfish

Another to congratulate Mr. Goldfish on his stand was William Brandt, president of the Associated Motion Picture Exhibitors of Brooklyn.

"In these days with theatres closing up on every hand because of diminished patronage," wrote Mr. Brandt to the Goldfish, "it is refreshing to know that there is at least one man who is thoroughly conversant with the fundamental reasons. You certainly have struck the rotten spot in the motion picture apple. What a pathetic sight to see the distributors and exhibitors disrupting the entire industry over a_Ided tax when within their combined reach is the tremendous saving of $10,000,000 a year just for the asking."

Berst Opposes Move

First to oppose the amalgamation theory as the panacea for all ills is J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of the Pathe Exchange, Inc. In the view of Mr. Berst a combination of producers and distributors "would strangle the exhibitors of the country instead of aiding them."

"Nothing must be done," said Mr. Rothapfel, who believes that amalgamation is inevitable, "otherwise there will be a big crash. Exhibitors throughout the country are crying in despair. Waste age of production is tremendous and amalgamation alone will do away with this evil."

"My view is not of recent origin. For many months I have been expecting the condition that now confronts the industry. Today, however, the situation is more serious than ever. The war hastened the inevitable."

Mastbaum Wires Opinion

In a telegram totaling more than eight hundred words, Mr. Mastbaum conveyed his convictions on the subject to every big producer of features. He put the goodwill of the producing end of the film industry at $500,000 a week. His despatch follows:

"Five hundred thousand dollars is wasted weekly by overproduction, overadvertising, too many exchanges, which necessarily means that the exhibitor has no chance to pay his bills. What will happen when he cannot continue to pay?"

"The exhibitor must pay for every theatre con ducting their business in open warfare on each other? The exhibitor must pay for all the tremendous costs of advertising the theatres he finances."

"The manufacturers cannot help the exhibitor because the manufacturers have no effort to help themselves. The trouble is at the manufacturers' end, not the exhibitors."

The President of the United States has expressed his appreciation for the work the owners of motion picture houses have done in throwing open their theatres to the Four-Minute men and the showing of slides bearing patriotic propaganda, in a letter sent to William McCormick Blair, director of the Four-Minute men.

President Wilson in his epistle states that it is a matter worthy of sincere appreciation that a body of thoughtful citizens, with the hearty cooperation of the managers of motion picture theatres, are engaged in the presentation and discussion of the purposes and measures of these critical days. His letter in full addressed to "The fifteen thousand Four-Minute Men of the United States" follows:

"May I not express my very real interest in the vigorous and intelligent work your organization is doing in connection with the Committee on Public Information, and by the noble efforts of every branch of the business. What is the solution of the problem of preserving thechannels of good sense?"

"The manufacturers cannot help the exhibitor because the manufacturers have no effort to help themselves. The trouble is at the manufacturers' end, not the exhibitors."

Adds Positive Cost

"I add a few dollars to this negative cost, there is a positive cost of production. Of course there are exchanges which from twenty to forty-five prints are used on each production. If a producer makes a few prints which 65-75 percent of the theatres want, in exchange for a few prints. Positive prints on a five reel feature cost at the present time from five hundred and twenty-five dollars each; therefore the positive prints that are used at the exhibition the feature would total seven hundred and fifty dollars and twenty times seven thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars would amount to one hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars for positive prints of features only.

"The overhead for the handling of these features is immense. In each territory there are at least twelve officers, making salaries for twelve managers, twenty-four solicitors, twelve office rents, and twelve separate and distinct inspecting forces, shippers, nightmen, etc., and all this in at least twenty-five points in the United States and Canada."

"The American market cannot possibly absorb these expenses. The burden is placed on the American public and the exhibitors. Not over nine features could be legitimately absorbed, and if the producers would divide this feature and carry by nine features, there would be reasonable saving for the exhibitor and the manufacturer. If distribution, now handled by no less than thirteen distributors, were concentrated in not more than forty, or better yet, in one company, my immense overhead could be saved for the exchanges, and the four distributors would be a practical saving in our business by co-operation and concentration."

William McCormick Blair, Director of Patriotic Speakers Attributes Success of His Organization to Motion Picture Men

The President of the United States has expressed his appreciation for the work the owners of motion picture houses have done in throwing open their theatres to the Four-Minute men and the showing of slides bearing patriotic propaganda, in a letter sent to William McCormick Blair, director of the Four-Minute men.

"The manufacturers cannot help the exhibitor because the manufacturers have no effort to help themselves. The trouble is at the manufacturers' end, not the exhibitors."

"We fully appreciate that the rapid growth of our organization and the influence which it wields is almost entirely due to the fact that the motion picture theatre is the noblest of all platforms for the presentation and discussion of the purposes and measures of these critical days."

"Men and nations are at their worst or at their best in any great struggle. The spoken word may light the fires of passion and unreason or it may inspire to highest action and noblest sacrifice a nation in its freest hour. The Four-Minute Men, who are charged with a special duty and enjoy a special privilege in the command of your audiences, will rest in considerable degree, the task of arousing and informing the great body of our people so that when the record of these days is complete we shall read again and again the history of the army and navy the story of the unity, the spirit of sacrifice, the unceasing labors, the high courage of the men and women who have been engaged in this great work."

"My best wishes and continuing interest are with you in your work as part of the reserve officer corps in a nation which demands that every voice in the ranks."

"Cordially and sincerely yours,"

"Woodrow Wilson."
Celebrated Players Head Suggests Percentage Charge Supplant 15c Tax

J. L. Friedman Declares That Present System Will Make for Ruin of Small Exhibitor

The injustice of the present method of assessing the 15 cents per reel per day charge by the film exchanges was forcibly driven home to a recent interview with J. L. Friedman of the Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago.

Mr. Friedman urged the manufacturers to clean house and change the conditions now existing and pointed out that the present charge spelled ruin for many of the smaller exhibitors. He suggested that the producers impose a fixed percentage charge of one, two or three per cent to be determined by general consent.

Just Taxation Wanted

"As I conceive it," he said, "it is the intent of all taxation to be fair, just and equitable. If the burden falls heavier on the small merchant than the large corporation, its purpose is defeated from the outset.

"In my judgment the method of assessing all exhibitors whether large or small, 15c per reel is unfair and unjust. As this film law is now interpreted and applied the man who pays $100.00 a day for a first run feature is taxed on the same basis as the man who pays $5.00 for a reel that may be a year or two old. Let us presume this first run consists of five reels. At the rate of 15c per reel the exhibitor is charged 75c. Let us further presume the exhibitor who rents this feature operates a 1,500 seat house.

"Now we turn to the small exhibitor, the one who is forced to count the pennies. He buys from the exchange the old releases in order to get the lowest possible prices. Let us suppose he rents a feature that is 12 or 15 months old at $75.00 and so pays 15c per reel tax or a total of 75c per reel. The man who pays $100.00 a day pays 3 1/2c of 1 per cent. The man who pays $5.00 pays 7 1/2 per cent of the bill. The large exhibitor who by the very nature of his business can easily absorb ordinary charges is taxed 3 1/2c of 1 per cent against 7 1/2 per cent that the small exhibitor, who is fighting hard just to make a living, must stand.

Unfair to Small Exhibitor

"If it is the purpose of the law to put the small exhibitor out of business that purpose will soon be achieved. But I cannot believe that it is the producers' intent to impose an unfair burden on the small exhibitor, while at the same time it gives an absolute advantage to his larger and richer brother.

"Having shown the unfairness of the assessment as it is now applied it should be the effort of every fair minded man to attempt to change it into an assessment that is fair for rich and poor alike. My suggestion is that the producers impose a fixed percentage of the invoice charge of one, two or three per cent to be determined by general consent. Let us use a fixed percentage of 2 per cent and see how such an assessment would operate.

"An exchange rents an exhibitor a feature to cost him $100.00. To the bill he adds the war tax of 2 per cent on $100.00 or $2.00. At the same time the exchange rents a small exhibitor a $10.00 feature. To his bill he also adds the 2 per cent war tax or in his case a charge of twenty cents.

"I believe any fair minded man will immediately see the injustice of the present assessment and the absolute fairness of the change I suggest.

"Aside from any sentimental reasons, it is well to remember that the film business of the country depends for its existence upon the continuance in business of the small exhibitors. If their business is ruined it will only be a question of time before the word ruin in capital letters will be spelled for the entire industry.

"Get together and let us change this assessment."

Film Exchanges Must Pay Higher Rates for License

Chicago Council Committee Ignores Plea of Film Men in Action

Despite the pleas of the film companies that the industry is at the present time carrying as large a burden as it can possibly stand, the council committee on licenses voted to recommend an increase from $25 to $500 in the license fee for film exchanges.

The manufacturers, however, obtained some concession as it was the original intention of the committee to raise the fee to $500. A number of the film exchange owners told the aldermen that the imposition of the war tax made the business a losing venture for many of the exchanges.

"Then why do you stay in the business?" asked Alderman Long.

"To protect our investment," was the answer.

This served only to excite amusement on the part of the committee and the vote favoring the increase was taken.

Who Did Ask Major to Suppress Film?

Washington, D. C.—The name of Major M. L. C. Funkhouser, Chicago's film censor de luxe, has been placed in nomination for membership in the Ananias Club, the organization made famous by former President Roosevelt. The major's sponsor is George Creel, chairman of the committee on public information.

Major Funkhouser refused to pass the film play on the Russian revolution called "The Rose of Blood," produced by the Fox Film Corporation, saying he acted at the request of Mr. Creel.

The committee on public information said it had never requested Major Funkhouser to reject any film. The division of pictures of the committee on public information says it passed the picture without cuts or changes.
Chicago's Censorship System Exposed at Committee Hearing

Major Funkhouser Accused of Playing Favorites by Woman Member of His Board—Attorney Charges Intimidation Attempt

The evils which exist under the system of motion picture censorship now in force in Chicago cropped out copiously at the third meeting of the Steffen sub-committee of the city council last week. The committee has before it an amendment to the ordinance which will practically strip Second Deputy Superintendent of Police M. L. C. Funkhouser of his present power in censoring films.

Major Funkhouser was charged with attempting to intimidate the members of his censorship board prior to their appearance before the sub-committee. The accusation was made by Attorney Michael Igoe, who stated that he appeared in behalf of Mrs. Juliette L. Stuart, one of the city censors.

Attorney Charges Intimidation

He charged that after the sub-committee had made known its wish to have the board appear Major Funkhouser had called the censors together and read them a section from the rules of the police department which prohibited the divulging of information concerning the activities of the department.

"Before my client gives any testimony I want to know if there is any objection on the part of her superiors to her telling the whole truth," the attorney.

"Certainly not, certainly not," the major hastened to assure the committee.

Major Explains Action

"Then what was the reason for reading the rules of the police department to the members of the board," asked the attorney. "They are not members of the police department, are they?"

"Why, yes, we are all members of the department," said the second deputy superintendent.

"Why were they read after the sub-committee made known its intention to question the censors if it was not done for the purpose of intimidation?"

Although somewhat flustered, the major hastened to make his explanation.

"I received a subpoena to appear in the circuit court. In the document was information concerning the way members of the board had voted on a picture. This information could not have been obtained except through the board itself. This is absolutely against the rules of the department and I read the clause to stop the leak."

Funkhouser Gets Flustered

The major admitted upon further questioning by the attorney that the subpoena must have been served more than a month ago.

"Then, why did you wait until now to read the rules to the board?" asked the attorney.

"Why—why, the subpoena just came to my attention," was the major's defense.

The adjournment of the morning session came at this point and saved the film censor from further embarrassment in this line of questioning.

Mrs. Stuart Begins Story

Mrs. Stuart was the only censor questioned at the afternoon session of the sub-committee. It was apparent from her testimony that friction exists among members of the board.

She gave numerous instances where the major had decided against the opinion of the majority of the board and intimated that the second deputy superintendent had his "favorites"—four in number—who were practically the power behind the throne as regards a picture's acceptance or rejection.

She named the "Big Four" as Eva Slawitsky, Edith Kerr, Miss E. Zeildler and Sam Block, and said that these were the ones "always called in for consultation" by the major.

Major Overrules Majority

Among the pictures which she said had been passed by the majority of the board and rejected by the major were "The Guilty Party," which only two members of the board opposed, and "The Tiger Woman," from which, according to the board's opinion, the objectionable features had been removed. In the case of "Crime and Punishment," only two members of the board favored it, and the major passed it.

"I understand you have a ruling against the showing of snakes in pictures," said Attorney Igoe.

"Oh, we can flash them now," said Mrs. Stuart. "We had a picture sometime ago with five terrible snakes in it."

"What did you do with them?"

"We cut them out," and Mrs. Stuart's story of how repulsive snakes were caused an outburst of laughter from spectators as well as the sub-committee.

Nude Statuary Banned

"And how about nude statuary?"

"We cut that out too."

"Well, there is nude statuary in the Art Institute, is there not? And there are no policemen there keeping children out, are there?"

Mrs. Stuart agreed there were none. She also said that women could not appear in pictures wearing one-piece bathing suits. She said that she wore one herself and was of the belief that there was no law to prevent the wearing of them on the public beaches.

"Well," she said, "we allow them to be back if they are back in the picture."

"So far back that you can't see anything?" queried the attorney, which caused another ripple of merriment.

Michael Angelo Hit

Mrs. Stuart also told of an instance where a Michael Angelo group was cut from the Universal Weekly.

"I have a reproduction of it in my home," she said. "I think it is beautiful."

She said that she believed the major's ill feeling toward her had arisen when she resented his views on women. She said that the major had told her women's minds were not as strong as men's and that pictures the male sex could see very well might cause women to brood and lose their reasons.

"I am a suffragist," she said, "and naturally this did not appeal to me."

Alderman to See Cut-Outs

Alderman Koster asked the major (Continued on Page 2.)
M. H. Hoffman to Make Extensive Trip to Consult with Exhibitors on Needs

Will Confer With Exchange Managers as to Best Methods for Marketing Flynn Serial “The Eagle’s Eye”

Hoffman-Foursquare Exchange managers are preparing for a visit from their chief, M. H. Hoffman, during the coming two weeks. Mr. Hoffman has just started on his first extended tour that will take him to all parts of the United States in the interest of his organization. The trip is being made largely to meet personally the many exhibitors who want to discuss matters connected with Hoffman-Foursquare plans, particularly the marketing of the William J. Flynn serial ‘“The Eagle’s Eye.”

“We have been working hard for six months now,” said Mr. Hoffman to a “Herald” representative “and our exchanges are assuming their rightful degree of efficiency and importance in their respective territories. Naturally, some of those most recently established, have not yet had time to get into ‘full stride’ but these newest offices have started in a manner that is most gratifying.

To Interview Exhibitors

“I am anticipating, with liveliest interest, the many meetings with big exhibitors (and the smaller ones, as well) arranged for me by my exchange managers. They all appear pleased with Foursquare products and plans, and to that end they feel that interviews can help in certain plans we are formulating.

“But especially is there a tremendously keen interest in the distribution of the forthcoming William J. Flynn serial, ‘The Eagle’s Eye’, which the Whitons are now making. There is every indication that nothing of a serial nature ever created even a fraction of the interest now being aroused by ‘The Eagle’s Eye.’

“The part of the country in which I have a deal of interest is the south, and my visits to our exchanges in Atlanta, Dallas and New Orleans should prove illuminative.

“Contrary to belief which prevails in some quarters, the south is experiencing a period of prosperity that can be turned to account by motion picture organizations, if they offer what is wanted. It is a mistake to continue assuming that the south cannot give such business to the motion picture distributor.

South Wants Fine Films

“It is true that a year or more ago, when selling the cotton crop was so difficult, that the south felt the necessity for economy. But more than anything else that put a damper on motion picture business in that section was the quality of pictures that some concerns tried to sell.

“No one can, or should blame the southern exhibitor for turning his back on program material of the ‘ordinary garden’ variety. He merely got tired of this class of picture and refused to inflict it upon his patrons.

“My long personal contact with southern exhibitors was of great benefit. I came to understand their business sagacity, as well as their fine personal qualities. What these gentlemen want is the feature of quality. That means pictures of six and seven reels to form the bulkwork of their programs, that are strong in every particular and reflect atmosphere.”

No Metro Merger

Rowland States

New York, Dec. 4.—The widely circulated reports that the Metro Pictures Corporation is to merge with the Paramount Pictures Corporation on Jan. 1, received emphatic denial here today from Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro. “The rumor of a Metro-Paramount merger is absolutely without foundation,” declared Mr. Rowland. “Metro has no intention of merging with any company.”

According to the story current both here and in Chicago, Adolph Zukor, anxious to have associated with him the man he considers “the second brightest man in the film business,” made overtures to Mr. Rowland and that a consolidation was agreed upon to become effective Jan. 1.

GIANT CONSOLIDATION

dollars each which would amount to four hundred thousand dollars each week. Saving of ten times thirty-five positive prints, which would amount to sixty-seven thousand and five hundred dollars. Saving of overhead and operation of exchanges by concentration, which at a very moderate estimate would be thirty-two thousand five hundred dollars per week.

“In total this is estimated saving of five hundred thousand dollars per week.

“We should add that exhibitors would carry an unnecessary burden of five hundred thousand dollars per week. No other line of business would be free of these conditions can be cured by amalgamation.

Berst Assails Project

Mr. Berst in replying to Mr. Mastad’s telegram pointed out that the very competition of which he complains is the salvation of the exhibitor. Any combination, according to Mr. Berst, would automatically increase prices and the burden of competition would be shifted from the shoulders of the distributors to those of the exhibitors. His reply follows:

“The so-called waste and overproduction about which you complain in your eight hundred and thirty-three word telegram mean the salvation of the exhibitors of the United States and not their destruction, as you seem to believe.

“It is true that competition today is so keen that a great many of the producing companies that are not making good pictures are losing money. The distributing companies that have no good pictures to sell are also losing money, by reason of the same competition, but Pathe and a few of the other good companies that are selling pictures under these conditions are prospering and will continue to prosper.

Exhibitors Need Competition

“This very competition is the exhibitors’ strongest protection. It means to you better pictures at lower prices. It is my opinion, based on twenty-three years’ experience in the movie picture business, that any combination of the producing and distributing units would strangle the exhibitors of this country. The combination you seem to have in mind would mean fewer pictures which would shift the burdens of competition from the shoulders of the producers and distributors to those of the exhibitors. Any decrease in competition would mean an automatic increase in prices, and I am frank to admit that at the present time, the exhibitors generally are not able to carry any more burdens than they are now carrying under.

“I am answering your telegram by mail, because I believe that what you say should be eliminated when the Government is striving so hard for economy.

The discussion occasioned by Mr. Goldfish’s interview is one in line with numerous other controversies which at various times have aroused the interests of the industry.

Forbes-Robertson
Production's Cast

Herbert Brenon has been putting the finishing touches on the cast of his forthcoming production of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," in which Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson is to appear in his famous characterization of the Stranger.

In addition to Sir Johnston and Molly Pearson, a notable cast of players has been selected. Kety Galanta, who appeared in "The Fall of the Romans," and is soon to be seen in "Empty Pockets," will play Vivian, and Grace Stephens and Ben Graham are to be the Major and Mrs. Tompkins respectively. Miss Kite will be played by Rieca Allen, and Mrs. Sharpe, the landlady, by Augusta Haviland. Dora Mills Adams has been chosen for the part of the aristocratic Miss de Hooley, while Germaine Bourvile is to be the sister.

The roles of Jape Samuels, Larcham, and Joey Wright will be played by Sydney Golden, Thornton Bastion, and Robert Fisher. This comprises the entire company, with the exception of Christopher Penny, the artist, who has yet to be cast.

Fox's European Representative, Ernest Reed
Tells of War's Effect on Business Abroad

Imposition of Taxes on Films and Admissions Caused Temporary Slump, But Exhibitors Now Report Conditions Good

Ernest Reed, the Fox Film Corporation's managing director for Great Britain and Ireland, who has just sailed from New York for Europe after having been here with Harry Engholm, his publicity manager, in conference with Mr. Fox and General Manager Winfield & Sheehan regarding expansion policies, made the following statement regarding the war and its effect on motion pictures in England.

"At the outset of the war there was a sort of general panic in English business circles and the motion picture industry was affected in common with other lines of trade. But this was of short duration.

War Had Effect

"The situation at first, I suppose, was somewhat as it probably now is in the motion picture business in America. I do not know a great deal about conditions here, but I assume the imposition of taxes on films and admissions as developed a temporarily unsettled state of affairs. We have been through all of this in England, and have not found it as serious as some exhibitors thought it would be. Indeed, there is now going into effect a new and higher schedule of amusement taxes.

"Foreign trade, of course, has been affected. England has placed a ban on commercial relations with Norway and Sweden, and a special license is required for doing business in France. But within the United Kingdom the motion picture trade, so far as Fox is concerned, has been growing steadily. "The Tale of Two Cities" is the film of the year in England."

Pictures Offer Relief

One effect of the war, Mr. Reed explained, has been to cause the public to turn to cinema productions for relief from the depressing atmosphere with which it sometimes is surrounded. In this respect, the motion picture theatres seem to have profited in greater proportion than any other form of amusement.

Mr. Reed and Mr. Engholm were greatly impressed on their arrival from London at the blaze of lights along New York's Broadway. In London, if one works in his office at night, or if he uses lights in his home, he draws the shades. On the streets in the evening a pocket flash light is convenient. But in spite of this people go forth in the evening in search of amusement and business in the theatres goes merrily on.

While in this country Messrs. Reed and Engholm visited all of the Eastern offices and studios of the Fox organization and watched the filming of numerous pictures. At the studios in Grantwood, N. J., Theda Bara posed with them in a group photograph.

It has been found necessary to move the William Fox offices in London, which were established in June, 1916, to larger and more commodious quarters to take care of the increased business.

Titan Pictures Head
Addresses Club Women

Frederick Russell Clark spoke recently before the Institute Woman's Club of the Hebrew Institute in Chicago in behalf of the American Military Relief Association. He explained the work of the association which is to provide comforts for soldiers and sailors in the service.

He told of the comedies made by the Titan Pictures Corporation much of the profit from which is to go to the relief association.
U. S. Exhibitors Corp. Closes Deal To Perfect Foreign Bookings

Robertson, Cole Co. of New York and London to Handle Foreign Territory—Circuit Buys "The Belgian"

A new method of distributing motion picture productions in the foreign market has been put into operation as a result of the consummation by Frank Hall, president and general manager of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of a big deal involving the disposal of foreign distributing privileges to productions controlled by his concern.

The arrangement, which is said to involve an outlay of half a million dollars, gives to the Robertson-Cole Company of New York and London, the exclusive marketing privileges to the U. S. productions, of which the new Inc spectacle "The Zeppelin's Last Raid" is the first, and the Ince drama, "Those Who Pay," starring Bessie Barriscale the second.

The new system of foreign distribution, devised by Mr. Hall, employs a number of original ideas by means of which the foreign marketing of pictures will be greatly simplified. It will eliminate the expensive method of selling film productions by cable and as the Robertson-Cole Company has already established a chain of offices in the large cities of the world, the new arrangement will enable the booking corporation to publish its subjects simultaneously in all parts of the globe.

Hall Gets "The Belgian"

In line with his announced intention to distribute only special productions through the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, President Hall has purchased outright from Sidney Olcott his production "The Belgian," starring Walker Whiteside and Valentine Grant.

The sale was negotiated by the firm of Hiller & Wilk, of New York, through whose offices many important state rights subjects are being distributed.

"The Belgian" was written by Frederic Arnold Kummer and is founded upon the life of a Belgian artist and his adventures in the world war. This will follow "The Zeppelin's Last Raid" and "Those Who Pay," as the third U. S. picture. It will be given to exhibitors in all parts of the world on a wide open booking policy not later than January 1.

HARRY BERG SIGNS RUTH STONEHOUSE AND HERBERT RAWLINSON FOR OVERLAND

Also Obtains Services of Director Burton King on Western Trip—"The Wolf Breed" First Film

With the signed contracts of Ruth Stonehouse and Herbert Rawlinson in his pocket, Harry Berg of the Overland Film Co., returned to New York last week and voted his trip through the West a "wonderful" success.

In addition to this Mr. Berg announced that he had acquired the services of Burton King who, in the future, will direct the Overland productions.

Miss Stonehouse's contract, with the Overland company provides, it is said, for the producing of six screen dramas during the year. It is the intention of Mr. Berg to feature his newly acquired star in an extensive advertising campaign.

Miss Stonehouse left Los Angeles November 25 for an extensive tour of this country. She will appear in person at the better theatres and her program includes the meeting of many exhibitors and exchangers. She was with the Triangle Film company when Mr. Berg induced her to join his staff and is well known for her work with Universal Film Mfg. Company with whom she has been associated the past few years.

More than a month will be consumed in the trip of Miss Stonehouse from the west coast to New York and upon arrival there she will commence work on the first production to be made at the Bernstein studios.

Herbert Rawlinson, also new to Overland, will be starred with Miss Stonehouse in the first state rights production entitled "The Wolf Breed." This picture will be directed by Burton King. The cast will be announced at a later date.

Mac Mahon to Supply Addresses to Trade

Henry Mac Mahon, who is conducting a bureau of general literary service to the industry with headquarters at 321 West 55th street, New York, has completed his lists of authors, editors, syndicates and feature writers, and now offers them to scenario and publicity departments. Mr. Mac Mahon says of his plan:

"I aim to facilitate the relations between the world of letters and the world of pictorial art. I have compiled the names and addresses of the 600 fiction authors in the United States and the executive or scenario chief in search of filming rights of current fiction will find this a guide. The author of any story that strikes his fancy can be located by means of the list and the rights secured without delay.

"The service rendered to publicity departments is to put them in touch with the men behind the scenes of newspaperdom. My suggestion for economy is that publicity departments cut out 'dead' names, specialize their stories to meet the wants of special mediums. A single good story landed through these channels will do more good than thousands of pieces of routine press matter.

Mlle. Hedda Nova, the young Russian actress, has been engaged to act for Greater Vitagraph on a long time contract according to an announcement by President Albert E. Smith. She will star under the personal supervision of Mr. Smith.

Mlle. Nova, it is understood, will appear in a series of features. The first play has already been chosen and the full cast as well as the title of the picture will be announced in the near future.
SAWYER AND LUBIN TO SELL
“MOTHER” FILM IN U. S. AND CANADA

General Enterprises Also Gets World’s Rights to “The Liar” —Sale of Territory for “The Warrior”
Nearly Completed

World’s rights to “The Liar,” a six-part feature starring Jane Gail, and the appointment as exclusive selling agents for the United States and Canada for “Mother,” the six-part McClure picture, sum up the week’s activities of Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin of General Enterprises, Inc.

General Enterprises has already disposed of considerable territory for the George Loane Tucker feature. Rights to the states of Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska have been sold to James R. Grainger of the Allen Film Corporation of Chicago; Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, have been purchased by J. E. Kemp, general manager of Wescott Film Corporation of Minneapolis and Martin Wohlfarth has obtained the right to the state of New Jersey.

“Warrior” Territory Sold

Continued success with “The Warrior” is reported by Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin who announce that more than three quarters of the available territory has been disposed of.

With the completion of several contracts during the past week, the following prominent territorial purchasers are now exploiting the film spectacle starring Maciste in their respective districts: Globe Films Limited of Toronto, Canada, for the Dominion of Canada; The Allen Film Corporation of Chicago, for Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota; The Clark and Rowland Theatre Company, for Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia; the Jordan Brewster Company of Seattle, Wash., for Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana; The Special Features Company of Knoxville, Tenn., for Tennessee, Georgia, Florida and Alabama; The American Film Company of Philadelphia, for Eastern Feature Film Company of Boston, for the entire district embraced by the New England States.

Arrangements have already been completed by Mr. Herman Rifkin, of the Eastern Feature Film Company of Boston, Mass., whereby “The Warrior” will be presented in the houses of the entire circuit of Poli Theatres and the film has been booked for a week’s run in the Hartford and Waterbury houses of the Poli string.

Other Activities

A trade showing of “The Liar” has been arranged for at one of the Broadway theatres this week, at which time several prominent territorial purchasers will view the film.

The exploiters of “The Warrior” also announced that they had disposed of several foreign countries for the McClure picture, “The Seven Deadly Sins.”

Active preparation has been started for a complete sales campaign in the interests of “Mother” and the two executives of General Enterprises, Inc., will shortly start on a tour of the country presenting the Tucker production to the various state right buyers.

Mr. Sawyer stated this week that several leases for tenants in the new Mather Building at Washington, D. C., had already been let and many of the film exchanges will be housed in the new building before the first of January. The Mather Building was designed and especially erected for the use of film exchanges and has been entirely promoted by General Enterprises, Inc.

Empire All-Star Moves to Santa Barbara Studio

The Empire All-Star Corporation announces that it will make its next picture, a screen version of Mrs. Humphrey Ward’s novel “Lady Rose’s Daughter,” at the American Film Studio in California.

Tax Benefits Public

Charles H. Ryan, manager of the Garfield Theatre, Chicago, has put the war tax situation up to the public in a novel way. The public, by paying the tax, is benefitting its own picture house, he says. Here is Mr. Ryan’s appeal:

WHO

Gets the War Tax? You do, for it is spent to insure your peace, to protect your interests, to help end the war. The Tax is your share, Mr. Patron; Uncle Sam is also collecting from us in many ways. In addition, our pictures cost us 33 per cent more than a year ago, and operating costs have increased likewise.

“The Belgian” Film
Shown at Hero Land
Belgian Day Dec. 5

The Executive Committee of Hero Land, in progress at the Grand Central Palace, New York, has selected Sidney Olcott’s production “The Belgian” as the opening picture feature at the bazaar on December 5, on which date Belgium Day will be observed. “The Belgian” is controlled by U. S. Exhibitors’ Booking Corporation production and was selected by Mme. W. T. Mali, wife of the Belgian Consul in New York, who viewed the Olcott production at a recent testimonial showing in honor of the King of Belgium at the Ritz-Carlton on the occasion of the King’s birthday.

Hiller & Wilk Sell
Rights to “The Whip”

Hiller & Wilk announce that the rights to “The Whip” for Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico have been sold to the Supreme Photoplay Company, Denver, Colorado, who are to make the production the main drawing card of their list of open market features. L. Goldstein, manager of the Supreme Photoplay Company, who was in New York recently, consummated the transaction on behalf of his company.
George Backer to Build New York Studio
Becomes Producer as Well as Distributor

President of Film Corporation Buys Site on Thirty-Eight Street—First Film “Fringe of Society” With Milton Sills

George Backer, the head of the George Backer Construction Company, 20 East 38th street, New York, who recently built the Hotel Chatham, has unknown to many of his friends in the real estate world, recently become identified with the motion picture business in both the producing and distributing branches. Mr. Backer is the president of the George Backer Film Corporation and of the M. H. Hoffman, Inc., the latter the distributors of the Hoffman
Four-square Pictures.

It was the Godfrey Building, where his motion picture offices are located, and which Mr. Backer also built and owns, that brought Mr. Backer into this newer field, and so enthusiastic is he that he is now building his own studio on West 39th street, between Seventeenth and Eighth avenues.

Mr. Backer’s first photoplay production, “The Fringe of Society,” by Pierre
R. Key, will have its first New York showing at the New York Theatre, December 12. Co-starring in the piece are Milton Sills, Ruth Roland, Leah Baird and J. Herbert Frank.

The musical setting for “The Fringe of Society” was selected by P. V. R.
Key, a lineal descendant of Francis Scott Key, the author of the “Star-Spangled Banner.”

The musical theme of the photoplay is the Cavatine by Bohm, and prominent are the “Yester Love,” by Borch; “Al-bumleaf,” by Krebschmer; Leybach’s Fifth Nocturne; “Love Song,” by Flegier; “Ein Maerchen,” by Bach; Melody by Friml; a Valse Leute by Brahms; “Widor’s Serenade”; “Casonnette,” by Nicole; “Sweet Ponderings,” by Langey;
“Bixel’s Le Retour,” and Schubert’s
“Erl King.”

Bessie Barriscale’s
First Paralta Play
Has Animated Titles

A striking feature of Bessie Barriscale’s first Paralta play, “Madam Who,” which will be published in December is the manner in which the titling of the production has been handled.

The new titles are animated scenes built in such a manner that the wording appears to stand out in mid-air. In one instance where the title is descriptive of a battle which is supposed to be raging, a shell bursts, obliterating the entire title and showing, just for an instant, a field of battle with the cannon smoking. This is the only element of battle that is shown in the play as the story is not that of the trench and conflict but of the secret service that is the great unseen power that guides the destiny of the armies.

The other titles are worked in so ef-effectively, it is said, that never for an instant do they break into the thread of the story, but appear as a part of the action of the photoplay.

Pres. S. S. Hutchinson of American Film Co.,
Returns From Coast

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, has just returned to Chicago from an inspection trip of the Santa Barbara studio of the company. He expressed himself as well pleased with his investigation and pronounced the American studio as finely equipped in any on the west coast.

Mr. Hutchinson is optimistic over the outlook for the coming year. He said that in spite of, or perhaps because of, the film disturbances of the past year, he looked for a most successful film business in 1918.

Good stories as the basis for pictures for American stars the coming year will continue to be the rule of the company, Mr. Hutchinson said. Some of the best writers in the country are now at work on scenarios for the company, he added.
“I believe that a good story is next in importance to a good star,” Mr. Hutchinson declared. “In fact they are co-equal.”

board. He said he would have it ready at the next meeting of the committee.

Another session of the committee will be held this week and other members of the censor board will be questioned.
The sub-body will also view cut-outs made by the board since the first of the year.

“La Fille Sauvage” to Be Screened By Clara Kimball Young

Clara Kimball Young has just secured the rights for the screen to “La Fille Sauvage,” by Francois Curel. This work, which is variously known as “The Barbarian Woman” and “The Daughter of the Wild” in its English translation, will present a wonderful opportunity for characterization to Miss Young. The screen adaptation will contain nothing offensive, it is said, although every effort is being made to retain the savor and virility of the original story.

An elaborate production will be made by Miss Young in the West Indies during the winter months. She will be directed by Emile Chautard.

Constance Talmadge
Starts “Studio Girl”
Renamed Select Film

Constance Talmadge will soon leave for California, where her future productions will be filmed, Select Pictures announces.

Following “Scandal,” Miss Talmadge completed “The Honeymoon,” which will be her next Select picture. After “The Honeymoon” came work on the screen adaptation of “The Runaway,” the comedy by Pierre Veber and Henri de Gorse. This photoplay, which was to have been called “The Cliffs,” has been renamed “The Studio Girl.”

In this production Constance Talmadge is supported by Earle Fox, Russell Dassett, Isabel O’Madigan, John Hines, Gertrude Norman and Grace Barton.
Louise Glaum Withdraws Use of Her Name
From “War Luxury Fund” Account of Fraud

Following the arrest of C. Donald Fox by federal authorities for alleged fraud in connection with the Army and Navy Bazaar, Miss Louise Glaum, motion picture actress, has withdrawn her name from Fox's second venture, the “Louise Glaum War Luxury Fund.”

At the close of the new Fox, it is said, induced Miss Glaum to allow the use of her name in connection with the collection of a bazaar fund for soldiers and sailors. Full page advertisements were run in many of the leading photo play magazines announcing the fund. These advertisements stated that “every cent for tobacco only—there is not a penny of expense attached to this work.”

Miss Glaum entered into the work whole-heartedly and spent much of her time in acknowledging subscriptions and in efforts to increase the total of the contributions.

“Brenon’s Exhibitor” for Film Theatremen
Makes Its Appearance

The first issue of a new publication “Brenon’s Exhibitor” has made its appearance. It is a weekly intended for the exhibitors of New York and northern New Jersey and is published by the Brenon Distribution Corporation, 309 Fifth Avenue, New York, which is controlled by Herbert Brenon.

The first issue contains a personal message to exhibitors from Mr. Brenon, and the first of a series of talks by S. J. Berman, sales manager for the New York territory of the Brenon Distribution Corporation.

“It is to be part of my policy of keeping in direct touch with the exhibitor,” said Mr. Brenon in explaining the purpose of the new publication. “Team work is vital to the advance of the photoplays, I realize more fully today than ever before, and I think every manufacturer should realize it now, if he hasn’t before, that unless the exhibitor gets a square deal, the entire motion picture industry will collapse.”

National Advertising Campaign Is Planned for “Uneasy Money”

Backed by a country-wide advertising campaign, George K. Spoor will offer early in January “Uneasy Money,” with Taylor Holmes, as the first of a series of features to be issued at various times, regardless of a fixed program. The story is from the pen of Pelham G. Wodehouse, and ran as a serial in The Saturday Evening Post. It is said to be a “happy” and “unusual” social opportunity and is his best screen production.

In the cast with Mr. Holmes are Virginia Valli, Arthur Bates, Virginia Boroughs, Edna May, Drew, James F. Fulton and Rod LaRocque.

U. S. Booking Corp.
Gets “The Belgian”
for Entire World

Sidney Olcott’s production, “The Belgian,” which was produced from an original story by Frederick Arnold Kummer, the novel, has been sold for the entire world by Miller & Wilk, Inc., to the U. S. Booking Corporation.

Before definitely closing for “The Belgian,” the booking corporation showed the picture to many of its franchise holders, who are experienced exhibitors and they unanimously agreed that they wanted the picture and voted to close it without delay.

The United States Exhibitors’ Booking Corporation is being congratulated upon securing this picture, as there is every indication that it will be as big a success as the Zeppelin’s Last Raid and Those Who Pay.

It is largely due to the efforts of Miller & Wilk, Inc., who represented the Sidney Olcott Players Interest, and Frank G. Hall, president of the U. S. Exhibitors’ Booking Corporation, that the transaction was closed in record breaking time.

J. S. Woody to Manage Northwest Territory
for Select Pictures

Select Pictures Corporation has secured the services of J. S. Woody for general manager of the Pacific Northwest territory. Mr. Woody will make his headquarters at Select’s Seattle exchange. This is the new branch established by Select at 306 Virginia street, the new center of the picture industry in Seattle.

Mr. Woody took charge on December 3. He was accompanied on his trip west by General Manager Arthur S. Kane, who, at the same time, started on his previously announced trip to visit Select’s branches in middle west districts. In order to accept the newly created position Mr. Woody resigned his position as general manager of the Chicago territory for Triangle, which he had held for the past six months.

Le Guere to Play
the Role of Artist
in Brenon Feature

George Le Guere, the actor, now appearing in “Business Before Pleasure” at the Eltinge Theatre, New York, has been engaged by Herbert Brenon to play the role of Christopher Penny in “The Passing of the Third Floor Back.”

Le Guere made his first appearance on the stage as “Jan” in “The Shulamite.” He also appeared in “Under Southern Skies” with Henry B. Walhall, with William Hodge in “The Man From Home,” in “Rebellion” with Gertrude Elliott, in “Mr. Woo” with Walker Whiteside, “The Dawn of a Tommorrow” with Eleanor Robson and recently appeared with Margaret Anglin in “A Woman of No Importance.”

In addition to his stage activities Le Guere has devoted much time to screen work, in which field he has been very successful. He has been featured in films produced by Pathé, Famous Players, Kline, McClure, Essanay, Universal and Metro.

His role in “The Passing of the Third Floor Back” is that of the young painter, who, in order to earn money, becomes a traitor to his art, wasting his time and talent by painting pictures that are beneath him.

Lubin and Cabanne
Form Film Enterprise
To Produce Features

Through a contract signed this week Herbert Lubin of General Enterprises, Inc., and William Christy Cabanne have become associated in a film enterprise which will produce a series of pictures bearing the title of Cabanne Super Productions, to be published during the forthcoming year.

Mr. Cabanne was formerly one of the leading Metro directors and is responsible for two of the film successes of the current year, "The Slacker" and "Draft 258." He is the author of both pictures which have been presented through Metro.

The General Enterprises executive has not yet decided upon the channel of distribution through which the Cabanne productions will be presented, but stated that he had another pleasant surprise in store for exhibitors throughout the country.

Margherita Fischer
in Army Post Story on Mutual Program

Margherita Fischer's first production under her recently made contract with the American Film Company, Inc. "Miss Jackie of the Army," is set for publication on the Mutual schedule for December 10.

Miss Fischer, heroine in "Miss Jackie of the Navy," is cast in "Miss Jackie of the Army" as the irresistible daughter of an American army post, in love with one of her colonel-father's aides, a young lieutenant.

The picture shows both the social and military sides of life at an army post. There are impressive camp scenes, a Red Cross benefit with a kiss auction, alien spies, traitorous soldiers and knitting bees.

"Miss Jackie of the Army" was produced under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham, who has directed the last few Mary Miles Minter pictures, at the American studios, Santa Barbara. It is from the pen of Beatrice Van and William Parker and was adapted for the screen by Chester Clapp.

Sawyer and Lubin Show
"Warrior" to Soldiers

In an effort to "do their bit" for the American soldiers who will soon be on their way to France, Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin of General Enterprises, Inc., arranged for a showing of the film spectacle, "The Warrior" for the enlisted men at Fort Slocum, New York. The special train, headed by the hero of the situation, was screened for the soldiers last week, Sawyer and Lubin personally making the trip to the Fort in order to supervise the entertainment.

Because of the many scenes of actual warfare between the Italians and Austrians, which form an important part of "The Warrior," John F. Chenoweth, Chaplain and Amusement Officer at Fort Slocum, requested the courtesy of presenting the picture to the soldiers of Uncle Sam.

Big Business Heads
Take Up Freuler Plea
For a New U. S. Coin

Men prominent in big business organizations are pushing the campaign for a fifteen-cent coin which was launched by John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation. Chief among them are Edward Wise, president of the United Artists Corporation; Solly Perkins, proprietor of the Tacoma Ledger and owner of seven coast papers; John G. Shedd, president of Marshall Field & Co.; Herbert Lubin, of Lubin Enterprises, Chicago, and Thomas J. Conney of Pittsburgh.

The new coin advocated by Mr. Freuler does not involve the withdrawal of any coin now in circulation. It is his contention that there is urgent need for a coin between the dime and quarter in value.

The business men who are enthusiastically back of the project and hope to have the matter presented to Congress in the near future, point out that many articles are priced at 15 cents that the need of the new coin is really imperative.

CANADIAN CENSORS
VISIT GOLDWYN PLANT

Members of the Ontario, Can., board of censors, who spent the past week in New York, visited the Goldwyn studios in Fort Lee, N. J., and watched Mary Garden, Mabel Normand and Mabel Normand at work. The party was headed by C. W. Matthews of Toronto, who expressed himself as gratified at the opportunity of seeing the Goldwyn stars at work.

Toronto, Ont.—A regrettable accident occurred at London, Ont., when A. Kay, cameraman of the Pathoscope of Canada, Ltd., Toronto, was instantly killed when a taxicab in which he was riding was struck by a railway train. He was on his way to take pictures at the London Asylum. After the body was removed to his former home, Philadelphia, Pa. The deceased leaves a wife and family. He was a veteran cameraman and was originally associated with Lubin.

PUBLISHED DEC. 23.

"Daughter of Destiny" Billed for Rialto Theatre N.Y.—Second Film Finished

"Daughter of Destiny" the first of eight pictures in which Madame Petrova will star has been set for publication on December 23. On this date the Petrova Picture Company film will be shown at the Rialto Theatre, New York, and also in motion picture houses throughout the country.

The delay in the publication of "Daughter of Destiny" followed a conference between the executives of the Petrova organization and the First National Exhibitors' Circuit through the offices of which the Petrova productions will be issued. It was then decided to withhold the film until all of the exchanges were in active operation.

Madame Petrova has since finished her second production, the title for which has not as yet been chosen, and has started on the third of her eight pictures to be completed in a year's time. Although December 23 will be the first public showing of "Daughter of Destiny" one audience has already viewed the picture. It was composed of the inmates of Sing Sing prison. The showing took place on Thanksgiving night and was at the request of E. K. Meagher, chairman of the Mutual Welfare League of Sing Sing prison.

Arrangements have been consummated between Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., and Arthur Cohen, president of Globe Films, Ltd., of Toronto, Ont., under the terms of which the Globe Films, Ltd., will be the distributors of Paralta Plays throughout the Dominion of Canada.

This deal will have a far-reaching influence on the motion picture industry, as it brings into corroboration another distributing organization with Paralta Plays which are to be distributed throughout Canada by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Globe Films, Ltd., have been a potent factor in the film industry for a number of years and represent in Canada the output of the foremost film producing companies in the world. Philip Kauffman, vice-president of the company, who is one of the early pioneers of the Canadian film industry, has been in New York for a number of days, arranging the details for the distribution, and is enthusiastic over the Paralta Plays which he has seen.

SO. AFRICA WANTS DIRECTORS

Motion picture directors are wanted for production work in South Africa, according to information given out by Max Schlesinger, American representative of the African Films Production Limited, with offices at 10 Wall street, New York City.

Mary Miles Minter
Portrays New Role in "Madamoiselle Tiptoe"

Mary Miles Minter will portray a role new to her in the forthcoming American production, "Madamoiselle Tiptoe," in which she will star. She will play the part of the leading spirit in a petite society, who tries to reform a burglar and confines the object of her reformatory tactics with a young man who is anything but a burglar.

With Miss Minter in the cast are Alan Reed, George Periolat, Lucille Ward, Oral Humphrey, Spottiswood Aitken and Clarence Burton.

FIVE BUTTERFLY PRODUCTIONS ANNOUNCED WITH STARS FOR FIRST MONTH OF NEW YEAR

Arrangements for Butterfly productions in the first month of the new year have been made by Universal. Among Butterfly's galaxy of stars will be found Elsa Hall, Harry Carey, Louise Lovely, Molly Malone and Betty Francis.

For New Year's week, starting December 31, "The High Sign," featuring Brownie Vernon and Herbert Rawlinson will be the Butterfly feature. The story was written by J. Grubb Alexander and Waldemar Young and the production was made by Elmer Clifton.

On Jan. 7 Louise Lovely will appear in "The Wolf and His Mate," directed by Edward J. Le Saint from Doris Schroeder's story and Julia Maier's story. Harry Hoxie and Bettie Schade will be featured in Miss Lovely's support. The Jan. 14 Butterfly will be "Hell's Crater," featuring Grace Combs throughout North America.

"Madam Spy," on Jan. 21, will have Jack Mulhall featured in a story by Lee Morrison, prepared for the screen by Harvey Gates. The production was directed by Douglas Gerrard.

Louise Lovely will complete the month's schedule with presentations of "Painted Lips," made from Charles Kenyon's scenario by Edward J. Le Saint.

William Russell in New Species of Fight

A new variety of fight is promised by the American Film Company in its forthcoming William Russell production, "In Bad.

Under the direction of Edward Slo-mow, an Aztec village has been reproduced in the mountains near Oxnard, Cal., which will form the background for the American star's fight with a band of treasure seekers. The Russell camp has been moved to Brent's Moun-tain Craggs hotel, where the remainder of the picture will be made.

M. H. Hoffman Inc.
Receive Requests for Backer Film

Foursquare Exchanges Ordering Twice Usual Number of Prints for "Fringe of Society"

"The Fringe of Society," recently finished by the George Backer Film Corporation, will have its first New York presentation at New York Theatre, December 12. The distribution is being made by M. H. Hoffman, Inc., and although business has not yet been sought by the various Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges, requests for bookings have already been received, it is said.

Manager Hyman of the New York Hoffman-Foursquare exchange has ordered twice the customary number of prints and Chicago, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis, report that they will require double the number of prints to meet the demands for this picture. Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Kansas City also want more than their usual allotment of prints, while the three Canadian exchanges have placed an order for an extra supply.

Billy West in Harem
Next King Bee Comedy

The King-Bee Films Corporation announces that early in January it will publish a two-reel comedy starring Billy West, the scenes of which will be laid in the Orient. Billy West gets into a harem, and proceeds to play "Romeo" in a fashion that causes the entire harem to elope with him.

Many startling costume effects are used in this picture, it is said, and in the interior scenes some of the finest Turkish rugs, furniture and other props ever presented in a comedy photoplay will be shown.
In "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," John Barrymore displays more of his illustrious father's ability than he has previously. He lends to "Raffles" all the charm of the late Kyrle Bellew, who originated the role on the speaking stage, and with the addition of youthful magnetism makes the characterization as irresistible to audiences as was "Raffles" to those with whom he came into contact in fiction. The story has gained rather than lost in the picturization, through the excellent direction of George Irving and fine camera work. Careful attention has been paid to the titles, resulting in artistic originality.

The supporting cast has been carefully chosen and accuits itself with distinction. Especially is this true of the work of the amateur detective and the charming grass widow. The picture will be sold on a state rights basis through Miller & Wilk. The reviewer predicts extended popularity for the feature. It is one of the real screen plays of the season, with a punch in every reel.

The Story—"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman" (John Barrymore), a highly educated crook, with entree to the best social circles, steals for the love of stealing and the excitement of the chase. His greatest enjoyment consists in outwitting the police and amateur detectives who seek to capture him and reveal his identity. As the early part of the story unfolds Raffles is seen in pursuit of an international swindler who has come into the possession of a priceless ruby. The swindler takes passage on a steamship and Raffles does likewise. When miles from land Raffles finds that the swindler has hidden the ruby in the cavity of his shoe. Raffles manages to get into his stateroom and steals the ruby. Being certain that there will be an outcry over the theft, Raffles empties a cartridge from his revolver and substitutes the ruby in place of the bullet. There is an outcry. Raffles is searched and the ship's officer breaks the gun, releasing the cartridges, including that containing the priceless ruby. Raffles, intent upon finishing the theft, grabs the cartridges from the table, puts them in his mouth and jumps overboard, swimming to land. He saves the ruby, but in leaving the vessel he is caught by Mrs. Vidal, an English society woman. Later Raffles reappears in London and mixes with the upper ten. Here he again meets Mrs. Vidal, who recognizes him. She falls in love with him, and by threatening to tell of his past attempts to force him to love her. Raffles, however, is in love with Gwendolyn and defies Mrs. Vidal. The famous Melrose jewels, the property of Lady Melrose, disappear while Raffles is a guest at the house. Mrs. Vidal, knowing of the theft of the ruby, immediately suspects that Raffles is the thief. She again threatens to expose him. He laughs at her. At this point in the story Captain Bedford, an amateur sleuth, becomes active. He declares that he will find the thief responsible for the Melrose robbery and makes a wager with Raffles that the thief will be arrested. Bedford is certain that Raffles is the thief. The ingenious methods used by Raffles to get the Melrose jewels out of his possession and at the same time have them at his disposal whenever he desires them follow. Finally, but not until after he loses his bet, Captain Bedford proves that Raffles took the jewels and Raffles proves that he took them to keep a professional thief from stealing them.

Dorothy Kelly and Montagu Love in "THE AWAKENING"

World drama; five parts; published December 3

As a whole: ----------------- Well done
Story: ----------------- Interesting
Stars: ----------------- Fine
Support: --------------- Adequate
Settings: --------------- In keeping
Photography: --------------- Good

"The Awakening" is a melodramatic play with full interest and appeal that should instantly find favor with picture patrons.

The story is well handled and deals with an interesting phase of life in a logical manner. The settings have been chosen with care and the acting is very good. Montagu Love and Dorothy Kelly play the leads supported by John Davidson, Frank Beamish, Joseph Granby and Josephine Earle. The direction is by George Archainbaud.

The story: In the Latin colony where Jacques Revilly lives he is known as "The Beast." One evening on his way home he comes across Marguerite, an orphan lying huddled up in a corner, covered with snow. Jacques takes her to his room and decides to keep her and protect her as a father would. However, a different love springs up between Marguerite and Jacques and they make plans for their wedding. Horace Chapron, a disolute member of the colony, decides to make Marguerite his and by luring her to his home and dodging her with wine, he arouses the jealousy of Jacques. Only after Marguerite has explained matters to him thoroughly, does Jacques convinced of her innocence and love for him. He and Chapron fight a duel and he is wounded. Marguerite is about to leave, but when Jacques pleads with her to remain she does, and there is a happy ending. Reviewed at Alcazar Theater, Chicago.

Charlotte in
"FROZEN WARNING"

Commonwealth Pictures Corp. Drama in Six Parts.
The initial appearance of Charlotte in a semi-war drama probably attracted a few viewers, but a more agreeable surprise, and motion picture devotees will hail her as a most captivating and capable acquisition to the screen. She photographs particularly well and was far less obvious on the screen, than in her role in "The Square Deceiver," and is displayed as an equestrienne and as a swimmer and convinced spectators that she was equal to the task of playing most any part for which she might be called upon.

As regards the play, it was of the patriotic order and the story was carried out so well that this made up for any short-comings there may have been by the interpolation of unnecessary scenes. When the picture is cut and given a few catchy sub-titles there is no reason why it should not stand as one of the big money makers of the season.

The story centers around the adventures of Charlotte Hayworth, whose knowledge of wireless telegraphy enables her to identify German spies, and in several thrilling and cleverly played scenes thwart their plans to get away with a sub-sea gun invented by Robert Vane, her sweetheart. The plot is logical and for the most part clear. Several communications exchanged by the spies are dissolved into warnings against the girl's suspicious interest.

Jack Meredith, as the hero, is satisfactory. Others in the cast are J. Courtlandt Van Dusen, Ralph Johnson and Seymour Rose.

Support ..................................... Good
Settings ....................................... Outstanding
Photography .................................. Good

"The Square Deceiver" should afford any audience an evening's pleasant entertainment. The story is enjoyable and under the capable direction of Fred J. Balshover proves to be a production of merit and one that exhibitors can feel assured will please patrons. Harold Lockwood is excellent in the leading role and knows how to put comedy into his acting without overdoing it. Pauline Furler affords him the best support he has had recently and members of the supporting cast proved themselves capable of handling their various parts.

The story: Beatrice lives with her over-ambitious aunt, cousin and uncle and is considered pretty much a burden by her aunt and cousin. She is sent to find a chauffeur, meets the wealthy Billy Van Dyke and believing him to be a chauffeur, hires him. Because she is the only girl for Billy he accepts the position. The abuse Beatrice receives awakens the sympathy of Billy and he asks her to marry him and Beatrice accepts. Billy tells her sister of his approaching marriage and she believes the girl is marrying Billy for his money. However, when she is convinced Beatrice's accord to the wedding proceeds. When Beatrice learns of her husband's wealth she is quite as astonished as is her aunt and cousin. The picture was well received at the Boston Theatre, Chicago.

Photography .................................. Good

The general plots of all William S. Hart stories are, as a rule, the same and for audiences whose tastes run along these lines "The Silent Man" should prove interesting as it is even better than some of the previous productions. Mr. Hart does the usual and plays the usual role, and finally marries the girl he saves. Vola Vale, appearing opposite Mr. Hart, offers poor support. The balance of the cast is good. The manner in which Artcraft has handled the parson's swearing is novel and entertaining; the exterior settings are well chosen and the photography is good.

The story: "Silent Bud" Marr comes to the town of Bakesoven to spend some of the gold for which he has labored so hard. Through "Handsome" Jack Pressley he gets into a fight, and as a result is confined to his bed for a couple of weeks during which time his claim is stolen. All efforts to regain his property prove unsuccessful and when he finds the claim jumpers loading their loot onto the stage he holds it up, at the same time rescuing a young girl, whom Pressley, under the pretense of marriage, is taking to work in his dance hall. While the girl learns the true nature of Pressley she is thankful to "Bud" and soon falls in love with him. A stranger known as uncle Grubstake, has become friendly with Bud and Betty's brother and when the villagers attempt to harm "Bud" reality reveals his true identity—that of a federal agent—and with full evidence against Pressley and his gang he has them arrested. And Bud and Betty are thus made happy. The picture ran one week at the Ziegfeld Theatre, Chicago.

"For Valour," though adding one more war drama to the already long list, brings a story that is humanely appealing and one that should appeal to a wide audience. The story is timely and touches upon the weak and strong points of human nature in a realistic fashion. It has been carefully produced under the direction of Alan Dwan and stars Winifred Allen, ably supported by Richard Barthelmess, Mabel Ballin and Henry Weaver.

The story: Henry Nobbs, ashamed of his shabby home, leaves unmindful of the many sacrifices his sister has made to help him. He is engaged by Alice, a stenographer in the office where he is employed to be the messenger of money matters. His funds, however, are low. He gambles with the firm's money, loses and goes to Melia for assistance. The sister endeavors to borrow the money, but being disgusted with the reply she gives the man he steals it and gives it to her brother, exacting a promise that he will enlist. He enlists and on the field in France wins a medal for bravery. Melia is arrested for the theft of the money Fund, being ill, is sent to the police hospital, where she is visited by her brother upon his return from France. The sight of Henry and the proof of his bravery gives Melia final peace.

"The Door Between" is a good Bluebird production. The feature is an adaptation from "Anthony the Absolute" and those who have read the story will undoubtedly be charmed with this company's screen version. Those not familiar with the original story will find it interesting, although it will perhaps require more concentration on the plot. Exhibitors will find "The Door Between" an excellent box office attraction.

Monroe Salisbury, Ruth Clifford and George A. Daniels do some very good acting as do other members of the cast. The direction is by Rupert Julian.

Anthony, an author, a scientist making a study of Oriental music, meets Heloise Crocker, who in singing registers a perfect D. Anthony asks her to sing Oriental folk songs into his phonograph and a warm friendship springs up between them. Anthony and Heloise go to live together and she tells him that she is already married. Anthony then recalls Archibald Crocker, whom he had met and who said he was on the trail of his wife and the man who eloped with her, presumably Anthony. Anthony tells Archibald to release his wife. Archibald postpones his answer for an hour and goes to the hotel with a knife. Anthony will not permit him to go to Heloise's rooms and in the struggle Archibald's leg is broken. He is taken to the hospital and on the way steals his own. The news is a shock to Anthony and Heloise. However, as time passes, they find happiness.
Marguerite Clark in "BAB'S MATINEE IDOL"

Paramount comedy-drama; five parts; published November 26

For exhibitors who have shown previous Marguerite Clark "sub-deb" stories it will be sufficient to state that "Baby's Matinee Idol" is just as good as the previous ones. All the interesting characteristics and humorous touches which marked the former productions are prominent in this feature. Marguerite Clark is all that one could desire in "Baby's Matinee Idol," a diminutive, mischievous, but lovable bit of humanity. The same cast which has appeared in the other stories supports Miss Clark in this one.

The story: Bab falls in love with Adrian, an actor. She cuts his photograph out of the newspaper and worships it. An epidemic of measles breaks out in school and Bab is sent home. A few days later Bab learns that the idol is in town. She borrows money in order to attend the performance and see her hero. She writes him a note and invites him to her dressing room. Bab learns that unless the show gets more publicity it will close so she arranges with Carter Brooks and her father for Adrian to appear at her father's amusement factory and apply for work. He will be thrown out and the story will appear in the papers. However, the Honorable Pat, who is after Lela's hand and fortune, arrives at the factory to place an order for shells, he is mistaken for Adrian and put out. When the real Adrian applies for work he is given employment and not allowed to get away to the theatre in time for a matinee. His friend, in the search of Adrian, soon straightens things out. Bab succumbs to the measles and the revelation that Adrian is married shatters her ideas of romance completely for the time being.

Marguerite Clayton in "THE DREAM DOLL"

Essanay-Perfection comedy-drama; five parts; published December 10

"The Dream Doll" is a production especially adaptable for children's programs and there is probably enough novelty about the picture to sustain the interest of grownups. Practically all the "acting" and the life-like motions through which these dolls go is truly remarkable. The players appearing in the story are Marguerite Clayton, Rodney L'Rock and Bobby Bolder. The dolls playing the principal parts are Charles Clayton and Mr. L'Rock. There isn't a great deal to the story but what there is is cheerful and for the "kiddies" it should prove a winner.

The story: Ruby, daughter of a toy king, inspired by a cracked-brain chemist, who believes he has developed an elixir which will bring life to dolls, falls asleep and dreams that one of the dolls of her collection has come to life, has reduced her to doll-size and that they get married. They make their home in a barrel, the barrel is loaded onto a wagon and then thrown off into a ditch, but they manage to get back to the toy factory. During this time Ruby's parents and her fiancé are making a frantic search for her. The janitor finally, disgusted with the doings of the Applications chemist, decides to blow him up with a bomb. The explosion wakens Ruby from her dream.

Elaine Hammerstein in "THE CO-RESPONDENT"

Jewel drama; five parts; published state rights

Motion picture theatre patrons will like "The Co-respondent," a story written along melodramatic lines and very well handled. While the subject is a delicate one dealing as it does with divorce, it has been treated in an interesting manner without a trace of offensiveness. Exhibitors desirous of looking a clean, melodramatic feature will find it in this picture. It was produced under Ralph Ince's direction and the cast includes Elaine Hammerstein, Wilfred Lucas, Josephine Morse, George Aragona, Edgar Hunter and Robert Cain.

The story: Ann Grey does not know that Langdon Van Kree is a married man when he induces her to elope with him. At the hotel where she believes she is to become his wife detectives surprise them, having been sent out by Mrs. Van Kree, who is seeking evidence for a divorce. Ann leaves for New York and secures a position as reporter on a newspaper. Joeffrey Manning, the editor, learns the Van Kree divorce suit and being unable to learn the name of the correspondent, sends Ann to cover the story. As Ann had met Van Kree under an assumed name, she is surprised when she finds herself face to face with the man who almost ruined her. She tells the story and Joeffrey forces Van Kree to apologize and then announces his engagement to Ann.

Margaret Fischer in "MISS JACKIE OF THE ARMY"

American-Mutual comedy-drama; five parts; published December 10

Setting. In keeping
Photography. Clear

Patrons should enjoy this latest Mutual offering. It carries with it a patriotic message in addition to wholesome fun and entertainment. Persons looking for plot construction will not find it in "Miss Jackie of the Army," but will find humorous incidents interestingly told, with a charming star in the lead. Miss Fischer makes an appealing Miss Jackie and is well supported by Jack Mower, I. C. Shumway and Hal Clements. The direction is by Lloyd Ingraham.

The story: Jackie's one desire is to be a boy and when she continually harps on the question her father upbraids her and locks her in her room. Jackie decides to run away and become a Red Cross nurse, but when she sees Lieut. Adair, whom she loves desperately, she decides to follow him. She loses track of him and follows Lieut. Wilbur and discovers that he is a spy. Her vigilance is rewarded one evening when she sees Wilbur enter a house and finds Adair following him. Adair is made a captive and Jackie rushes to get assistance. The boys arrive in time to destroy an infernal machine and rescue Adair. As the troop trains pull out bearing the boys away every one knows of the understanding between Jackie and Adair.

Fairbanks as Modern D'Artagnan

Douglas Fairbanks' new Artcraft picture "A Modern Musketeer," discloses the smiling star in the role of Ned Thacker, a youth from Kansas, who inherited the spirit of D'Artagnan through prenatal influence. Many of the scenes of the play were taken in Grand Canyon, Ariz.
Edna Goodrich, Ann Murdock, Olive Tell
Mutual Stars in Forthcoming Films

Edna Goodrich, the Broadway favorite, has just finished "Her Second Husband," said to be a clever satire on modern social conditions in Gotham, written for her by Hamilton Smith. It is set for December 31 publication.

The new play has to do with the disturbing influence of "war brides" on Wall Street's social centers, and gives Miss Goodrich the necessary opportunity for a display of her genius in characterization.

Ann Murdock has just completed a feature entitled "My Wife," a former Broadway stage play, at the Glendale, L. I., studios of the Empire All Star Corporation, under the direction of Dell Henderson.

Included with Miss Murdock in the original cast of "My Wife" are Herbert Druce, formerly with Sir Henry Irving; Amy Veness, a widely known artiste of the speaking stage; Rex McDougal and Ferdinand Gottschalk.

"Girl and the Judge," Coming

Another production just finished at the Glendale studios is "The Girl and the Judge," starring Olive Tell, supported by David Powell as leading man. "The Girl and the Judge" was written by Clyde Fitch, and was one of the best paying speaking stage productions of the last decade.

At the Santa Barbara studios Mary Miles Minter is putting the finishing touches on "Mlle Tiptoe," which has been directed by Henry King. This is said to be the prettiest of Miss Minter's recent offerings, a play with a touch of nature and youth and happiness. Miss Minter's next production will be "The Veil of Memory."

William Russell, the athletic idol of the screen, will appear in "In Bad," which is scheduled for an early date on the Mutual calendar.

Margarita Fischer and company is engaged under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham in the production of "Molly Go 'Em."

SELECT TO PRODUCE "JANE EYRE"

Alice Brady is at work on her next Select production, "Jane Eyre," at the Select's Fifty-fourth street studio, New York.

The picture is going forward under the direction of Edward Jose who directed the previous Select productions, "Poppy," "The Moth" and "Her Silent Sacrifice."
Montag Love as Cardinal Mercier in Belgium Story, Next Brady Film

Cardinal Mercier, one of the most stalwart and commanding figures of the war, has been made the central personage of a new photodrama provisionally called “The Cardinal,” directed by George Archainbaud under the direct supervision of William A. Brady.

The picture, which is not directly a war picture since it contains no battle scenes, is in eight reels, and the dominating role is embodied by Montag Love, the principal member of whose support is Jeanne Eagels, the young stage actress.

The story of “The Cardinal” is laid in Belgium, with the exception of a single episode depicting the visit of Cardinal Mercier to Rome seeking the intervention of the Pope.

The picture deals with Cardinal Mercier’s stand against the invading German hordes and how he piled his brains and the power of the Church against the enemy’s arms. Coupled with this runs the love story of a Belgian officer and the Cardinal’s ward who is also sought by the German military governor. The girl is secretly married to her lover by her guardian who smuggles the couple to safety behind the French lines.

Bluebird to Publish “The Green Seal”
With Carmel Myers as Feminine Lead

Charles Edmond Walk’s novel, “The Green Seal,” a mystery story, is being filmed at the Bluebird West Coast studios, under the direction of Stuart Paton, from the screen version by A. Kenyon. The book contains plot material for an ideal picture play, suspense, love interest, stirring action and mystery.

Carmel Myers plays the principal feminine role. Opposite her appears Ashton Dearholt, formerly with the American Film Company and who makes his bow in Bluebird plays in “The Green Seal.” In the supporting cast are Betty Schade, Harry Carter, Alfred Allen, Frank Deshon and Frank Tokanaga.

One of the striking features of the production will be the elaborate Chinese settings used. Though the action occurs in an American metropolis, a band of influential Chinese plays an important part in the production.

“Cupid’s Round Up” for Tom Mix

Work progressing rapidly on Tom Mix’s first drama for William Fox. The picture tells a thrilling story of the Golden West, and has been titled “Cupid’s Round Up.” Edward J. LeSaint and Mix himself are staging the production.

EXHIBITORS HERALD

“The Dream Doll” to Be Published
With Slap-Stick Comedy in December

An Essanay-Chaplin slapstick comedy, a weekly series and “The Dream Doll” help to round out Essanay’s December program.

“The Dream Doll,” in which dolls enact leading roles, is the work of Howard S. Moss, an expert doll maker and the inventor of the system by which the manikins appear life-like on the screen.

Essanay players also have parts in the picture, being used to carry out the plot of the play. “The Dream Doll” is a Perfection Picture and will be published December 10. It has a screen time of approximately sixty-five minutes.

Essanay Comedies Coming

Other Essanay December pictures are an Essanay-Chaplin, “In the Park,” a weekly scenic and a slapstick comedy to be issued through the General Film Company. “In the Park” and be ready December 8.

Amedee Rastrelli and Arthur Higson are being featured in the slapstick comedy and have the support of a number of the Essanay players who worked with Chaplin in his Essanay pictures. Arthur Hozaling, formerly with Lubin, is the director. The pictures have a screen time of fifteen minutes. December 1 is the publication date for “The General,” with “All Aboard” to follow December 8.

The fifteen minute series are “Laef Louise” for December 1 and “Banfi National Park” for December 8.

INCOME TAX

Said the collector to the movie star:
As he smilingly shook his hand,
"From press reports I have on file You’ll pay to beat the band."

"We’ll win the war with ease," he said;
"When you have paid your share,
For incomes such as yours," he said,
"Are quite exceeding rare."

The good man still sat in his chair
His jaw and eyes were tense
For with the P. A. s bank exposed
The star paid fifty cents.

Theda Bara Completes New Fox Film of Greenwich Village Studio Life

Theda Bara, working under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards, in Fox eastern studios, has completed another Standard Picture. It is Mr. Edwards' twenty-third picture for William Fox and the twenty-seventh that has been made by Miss Bara. The filming of the production has required about six weeks.

The title as yet has not been selected. It is the story of a girl who is raised under Puritanical influence in Greenwich Village, New York City. She is induced by an artist to pose for a painting of the Madonna and in the studio meets a friend of the artist who accomplishes her downfall and her revenge.

The story is by E. Lloyd Sheldon. The picture will be published in January.

"The Escape" Is the Last Chapter of Mutual-Serial "Lost Express"

The mystery of "The Lost Express" has been solved, but the murder picture published in "The Lost Express," is entitled "The Escape." It is scheduled for December 10. The last chapter is entitled "The Return of the Lost Express."

"A Man's Man" First Paralta Featuring J. Warren Kerrigan to Be Published in December

"A Man's Man," with J. Warren Kerrigan as the star, will be the first Paralta Play to be distributed through the newly formed W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. It will be published the first week in December. The story, which was written by Peter B. Kyne and adapted for the screen by Thomas G. Geraghty, has received praise from all who have seen it, and has been proclaimed as the most forceful and fine production of the season which has yet appeared.

Mr. Kerrigan impersonates the role of John Stuart Webster, a western mining engineer, who loves peace but who never hesitates to fight when placed in a position to defend his rights or convictions.

World Pictures Has Big Star Cast for "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds;" Ethel Clayton in "Stolen Hours"

World Pictures Brady-Made will put forward another star cast when "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds;" is published in January. The cast includes Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge, Evelyn Greely and Arthur Ashley.

This picture deals with the career of Alexander Hamilton, one of the makers of the early history of this country. The story, written by Samuel M. Weller, differs from the stage play upon the same topic except that both introduce many of the same characters and certain episodes of national importance appear in each version.

Ethel Clayton will have John Bowers as leading man in "Stolen Hours," which will be published early in January. In this picture he is a young parliament leader who is in a gambling house when it is raided, and the beautiful daughter of the proprietor saves him from exposure and consequent political ruin. They fall in love, but his wife refuses to give him his liberty.

"Diamonds and Pearls" is the name of the next Kitty Gordon World-Picture, Brady-Made. This photoplay was formerly titled "The Hour Glass." It is a Southern story of a Southern girl whose father, a hard and overbearing man who would not let her participate in the innocent frivolities. He dies and leaves her penniless. She marries a rich man, hits it up too fast for him and leaves him for her own life. Before a very trying lesson comes to help pull up and begin anew.

Montagu Love's next picture, not named as yet, deals in part with the ruthless brutalities of the kaiser's hosts toward those in Belgium.

Gladys Brockwell, Tom Mix and Markova Head Fox Special Features for January

Titles have been selected for three uncompleted pictures which have been tentatively set for January publication as Fox Special Features. The arrangement, as it now stands, is to start the month with a Gladys Brockwell picture and to follow with Tom Mix's first production as a star in Western dramas. The third offering will be another Sonia Markova feature.

The Brockwell picture is to be called "Stolen Honor" and the Mix debut will be made in "Cupid's Round-Up." For the Markova picture, the title "A Heart's Revenge" has been chosen.

Miss Brockwell's production has to with the international situation, being, in some of its most important phases, a war picture. Involved in the story are a woman's love affairs, which are worked out under the most trying and difficult conditions. Most of the action is laid in Berlin.

Pyramid and Sphinx
Form New Settings
for “Cleopatra” Film

A change has been made in the opening scenes of “Cleopatra,” William Fox’s introduction. The first scene of the picture shows the great desert outside Alexandria, the capital of Cleopatra’s kingdom. In the distance are the Sphinx and two of the pyramids, reproductions of those ancient wonders. The view changes quickly to a close-up of the inscrutable face of the Sphinx, which then fades slowly into the features of Miss Theda Bara, the star of the picture. In this way, J. Gordon Edwards, who directed the photoplay, conveys an Egyptian atmosphere.

New Raver Production
Shows Alma Hanlon’s
Pantomimic Ability

Alma Hanlon, who has starred in ten feature pictures, published by Harry Raver during the past year, has been selected for the leading role in a new mystery play now in course of production at the Raver studios, in Yonkers. The part assumed by Hanlon in the latest Raver production is said to call for unusual pantomimic ability. Her father, George Hanlon, who created “phantasmas” and was one of the greatest silent actors of his day.

That his daughter has inherited her father’s highly developed talents, is evidenced by her screen performances in “The Whip,” “The Public Defender” and other film productions. A title for the forthcoming production has not been selected but it will be announced in the near future. Burton King is directing the production.

Anita King a “ Suff.”
in “Petticoats vs Pants”

“Petticoats Versus Pants” has been selected as the next of the series of Miss King’s Southern representations featuring Anita King. It has been set for publication on December 3.

Miss King is cast as “Efficiency Ann,” who carries the doctrine of feminine emancipation to the woman of Red Dog, the run-down, vice-ridden, boss-dominated western community where she opens an art school.

The role is said to be admirably suited to Miss King’s talent and personality. The story deals with the feminist movement, not so seriously as to offend and not so lightly as to stir the ire of ardent suffragists.

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY
COMPLETES INTERESTING LABORATORY EXPERIMENT

Charles A. Ziegath, superintendent of the American Film Corporation, Chicago, has completed an interesting piece of laboratory work for a Southern firm. A Nashville, Tenn., company has perfected a new process of photography requiring a strip of film about five inches wide, which unrolls from right to left in the cameras, but leaves a strip of pictures five deep, each one three-fourths of an inch square. These films will be projected on a screen thirty-six feet wide, giving an entire view of a base-ball game, street parade or other event, instead of one small part.

The American laboratories were found to be the only ones that could handle the new film.

U. S. Motion Pictures
Popular in Philippines

Motion picture shows are increasing in popularity in the Philippines. In the business district of Manila there are six theatres and practically every outlying district has from one to two.

The seating arrangement of the theatres is in two classes, first and second. The prices charged are 10 and 25 cents. American films are mainly shown. Manila usually gets the first time showing, and from there the pictures are distributed to other points. There are theatres in practically all of the larger provincial towns.

“Silver” with Hart
First W. H. P. Co. Film

The W. H. Productions Company have announced as one of their first pictures for the state rights market “Silver,” with William S. Hart as “the two-gun man.” Thomas Ince directed the picture.

Supporting Mr. Hart in the cast are Clara Williams, J. Frank Burke, Barney Scribner and Dowling. The combination of Miss Williams and Mr. Hart was a happy selection, it is said.

INDUSTRY UNDERGOING EVOLUTION SAYS M. H. HOFFMAN

BY M. H. HOFFMAN

The present condition of the motion picture industry is one of natural evolution. As has been cited in the history of all great businesses, it had its boom stage. Some have spoken of it as the period of the “forty-niners,” others of the “carpet baggers,” but term it what you will, it amounts to this.

All sorts and conditions of people saw in the motion pictures a chance to make money, so in they rushed, hawking goods, others of the “carpet baggers,” and they took the bait.

Publicity Departments

Hits Publicity Departments

And we hear that the motion picture concerns do not declare dividends. How many other concerns declare dividends? A resume of Wall Street will show. As in all cases, for these simple reasons: Big salaries unearned, big overhead expenses, big bonuses. Result, the people, the small shareholders never get dividends. Remedy, a proper balancing of costs with the gross income, a fairer division of money earned. There has often been a woeful lack of judgment and good sense, a view of publicity as something that costs money and counter rumors of big mergers, of changes, too much attention given to the overnight star and not enough to the play.

As the statement that there is a dearth of good pictures. Can anyone claim that there are no good pictures? Also, that they are not constantly improving? The public is enjoying a good entertainment at less money than ever before in the history of amusements.

Petticoats Good Pictures

Really it is due to the public demand that the motion picture stands today recognized in the field of science, business and art. The public has become more and more educated. How much would the former stunt pictures draw now? The public is smart, with just enough flavoring of comedy, romance and fancifulness. When less is spent for actors’ salaries and more for photoplays, the public will have the best.

To sum up the entire situation in a nutshell and at the same time cover certain pessimistic utterances, it is a matter of a few honest statements.

Redaction of Industry

If we refer to the history of any great industry we have small investments for worry. We see always the evolution, the eliminating, the progress. In place of the present day inflated cost of production will come a systematized readjustment of finances; instead of circusing, there will be dignified advancement and publicity; the exhibitor will be able to buy his pictures to better advantage, hence, show them to better advantage. Such concerns as Goldwyn, Jewel and others are buying from the independent producer, thus giving substantial proof of the latter’s carelessness in buying.

The state rights picture has a better market than the program. In both fields it is only the producers who do not know their business who permit their pictures to be peddled by unscrupulous agents, and who are selected by their distributors.

The motion picture business is not just so many feet of film to be bought at one price, put through a process and sold at another. It is a living thing, an expression of individualism and art. It is the masses, the poor man’s encyclopedia, his theatre, his opera, his club, his entertainment, his family tie.
Stanley Mastbaum Aids Government to Conserve Coal

Philadelphia Man in Letter Urges Exhibitors to Dim Electric Signs

Philadelphia, Pa.—National Fuel Administrator H. A. Garfield has called upon the exhibitors in this city to cooperate with the government in curtailing fuel expenditures. Stanley V. Mastbaum, managing director of the Stanley Company, in response to the appeal has issued a circular letter to all exhibitors in the city and vicinity in which he calls attention to the suggestions of the government for the conservation of coal.

"There are many persons engaged in the business," the letter reads in part, "who are not aware of the serious situation that confronts this country in the matter of fuel. The sooner they realize that this is not a scare for the moment, but a problem that means much to all industries and to all amusements, the better it will be for everyone."

Mr. Mastbaum suggests to all exhibitors who have large illuminations in front of their houses to dim the lights and to put them out entirely after 10 p.m.

Deprived of Heat Theatre Company Sues

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Astor Amusement company recently filed suit in the superior court here against the Dupree Realty Company and Merchants Heat and Light company asking for a cancellation of lease for a theatre at 535 North Senate avenue and for $30,000 damages.

According to the bill no heating apparatus had been installed in the building and a contract subsequently made between the Realty Corporation and the public utility company was not fulfilled. The amusement company averred that the building cannot be occupied because of discomforts from cold and that performances have not been given there recently. The lease covered a period of ten years at a monthly rental of $300.

Chickasha, Oklahoma, Kills Sunday Shows

Chickasha, Okla.—Chickasha has voted to do away with the Sunday motion picture shows. The largest vote ever polled in the history of this city was cast. Both men and women voted on the question. The managers of the theatres agreed to let the question go to a vote of the people.

Louisiana Exhibitors Will Not Pay 15c Tax

New Orleans, La.—The Motion Picture Exhibitors League of Louisiana went on record here at a recent meeting as refusing to pay the 15 cents per reel per day tax imposed by the film manufacturers.

The exhibitors declared this action on the part of the producers as unjust and contended that the purpose of the government was to place this tax upon the manufacturer since the exhibitors are taxed on their ticket sale.

Sunday Shows With No Admission Charge Plan of Wichita, Kan.

Wichita, Kan.—Sunday motion picture shows here have become a probability. City Manager Ash and the commission- ers have under consideration an ordinance providing for such exhibitions. Mr. Ash favors Sunday pictures of a certain character without financial gain.

The ordinance also contemplates a local board of censorship to determine the kind of pictures which may be shown on Sunday. What rules will govern the selection of pictures for Sunday performances and what arrangements will be made as to the financing of Sunday performances have not yet been made.

Sunday Closing Fight Settled in Novel Way

Corunna, Mich.—The question of Sunday picture shows here has been settled in a peculiar manner. The proprietor of the only motion picture theatre in town has closed his playhouse because he could not make expenses. A few years ago the question of Sunday shows was an issue in the mayoralty election and a small majority of votes in favor of running on Sunday was returned. Shortly afterwards a church put in a motion picture machine.

Firemen Overcome; Girls Escape Injury in Detroit Film Fire

Detroit, Mich.—Four firemen were overcome and many girl employees narrowly escaped injury in a fire which recently destroyed the offices and store-rooms of the General Film Company and Vitagraph Company here.

The film concerns were located on the fifth floor of a seven-story building, occupied exclusively by film exchanges. The fire originated in the storerooms of the General Film Company.

The burning films caused a panic among the employees and flames overcame the firemen. The loss was approximately $600,000.

Engage Scenarioist

Harry Chandlee has been engaged by Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., as the head of the eastern scenario department of that organization. A staff of readers and constructors has been engaged by Mr. Chandlee, who will devote their time working on all manuscripts submitted to the eastern offices of Paralta Plays, located at 729 Seventh avenue, New York City.

Mr. Chandlee has been a free-lance writer in both magazine and picture fields for a number of years and has been associated with the scenario departments of the Lubin, Equitable and Metro companies.

Exhibitors Transform Lobbies in Showing “The Lost Express”

The extent to which exhibitors have gone in making use of the Signal-Mutual serial “The Lost Express” is evidenced in a number of photographs received by the Mutual company. The pictures are of lobbies so arranged as to form reproductions of railway car interiors, depots, round houses and engine clinics.

The most novel, and what appealed especially to young folks, was the attractive display arranged by one theatre, consisting of a miniature railway, tiny engine and train, the track going into a tunnel. By a clever arrangement the train returned underneath the track unseen, at short intervals, each time a sign appearing “What Become of The Lost Express.” See The Solution in the Story Shown Here Every Friday.

Mabel Normand Film

“Joan of Plattsburg” Held Up by Goldwyn

Mabel Normand, the Goldwyn star, is quite likely to find her second Goldwyn picture, a short presented to the direction of George Loane Tucker, the first of her pictures to be issued under the Goldwyn imprint.

Having completed her patriotic comedy-drama, “Joan of Plattsburg,” a sudden official request made it necessary to postpone its publication because it contains material of a military character that it is not desirable or wise to reveal at the moment.

This means that Miss Normand will first be seen by her admirers in a production representing the skill and genius of George Loane Tucker.

Six Xmas Photoplays

Being Issued by Fox

Six photoplays from the William Fox studios are offered for the coming holiday season. These includes the direction of George Loane Tucker, the first of her pictures to be issued under the Goldwyn imprint.

"OVER THERE" AND EVERYWHERE

O. C. Hammond & Sons, owners of the Phoenix, Elba and Fountain Theatres, all located on the South Side, announced the acquisition of the property of the old South Side Turner Hall on South State street, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second. Plans are now under way to overhaul the property, erecting a 1,500-seat theatre which will be equipped to a point of elegance, sparing no expense to present the very best of everything toward a veritable film palace.

F. C. Quimby, general sales manager for Pathé, spent a wee visit with R. O. Proctor last week enroute to New York from the West, and tells us all's well along the Potomac.

S. J. Goldman, one of Harry Weiss' able lieutenants for the past year or two, has been ordered to report to the Goldwyn camp to assist "Majah" Brockell in the busy winter campaign now raging on their front.

Phil Lewis of the Owl Features is now in New York giving the state righters the O.O. Let's have it Phil. old top. Why the yuletide hunt for bargains?

Nat Wolf of the Goldwyn forces left December 1 to report at Camp Johnson, Jacksonville, Fla., to join the United States Quartermaster's Department as a "Sammy" private. Well, Nat, old scout, here's hoping you'll return shortly to us with the bars on your shoulder. Nat makes the second of his family to respond to the colors, his brother Alex having arrived somewhere in England about ten days ago with the Rainbow division.

Talkin' about the local film crowd gettin' away with it at old Fort Sheridan at the recent officers' graduation, cast your optics on these boys: Barrett O'Hara, Harry Rice, of the Arizona Film Corporation; Louis A. Boeing and Dick Travers. From numerous reports they all look CLASS, with a great big C. E. D. Horkheimer, secretary and treasurer of the Balboa Films, arrived in the city December 4 enroute to New York, accompanied by Jackie Saunders. An interesting luncheon was tendered the press at the Hotel La Salle in honor of the winsome Jackie, with E. D. doing the honors as the genial host.

W. W. Heaney's Virginia Theatre was the setting for a mob of happy, poor kiddies Thanksgiving day morn, who were his guests at a screening of "Pants," featuring the 5-foot-3-inch Allister. If they had happy kid faces leaving the theatre means anything, we'll say they all had a wonderful time. Good work, "Bill."

'Tis with much pleasure local filmdom welcomes Joe Brandt's recovery from his recent spell of serious illness. Mighty hard to floor the "human comet," anyway.

Many of Don Meaney's local friends are congratulating him on his new affiliation, which became effective December 1. He will now work on Thomas Ince's pay roll as a casting director.

We have a new film theatre manager added to the "loop" aggregation who has the signal honor of being Chi's first lady manager, Emma Cohen. She succeeds "Chick" Schaefer at the Casino Theatre on West Madison street. More power to yer, Emma!

Chicago Again Claims Spot Light For Theater Building Activities

Two Structures Soon to be Built on North Side of City Will Represent Investment of Nearly Million and Half Dollars

Two structures, both to house modern motion pictures and of more than 3,000 seating capacity, at a combined cost of nearly a million and a half dollars, will soon be in the course of construction in Chicago.

With all other lines of building practically at a standstill these activities can not be otherwise construed than to reflect the faith of the motion picture industry in its future.

Balaban & Katz, who recently opened to the public their new Central Park theatre, considered one of the finest in Chicago, now have under way plans for the erection of anotherplayhouse at Sheridan Road and Lawrence avenue.

To Seat 3,500

In point of seating capacity (the proposed theatre will seat 3,500) it will be the largest house devoted exclusively to the showing of motion pictures yet attempted in Chicago.

The building, work upon which is expected to begin early in the spring, will be five stories in height, fireproof, and in addition to the theatre will contain ten stores on the ground floor and a 100-room hotel on the upper floors. The theatre will contain a main floor, a mezzanine box floor and a balcony. The estimated cost of the structure is $750,000.

Architect to Build

On a site which, it is said, cost $200,000, Walter N. Ahlschlager, an architect, will erect a motion picture theatre to be called "The Pantheon" which will seat 3,000. The building, which besides the playhouse will contain ten stores and two upper floors to be devoted to undivided loft space, will be put up at a cost of $250,000.

"The Pantheon" will be but four blocks distant from the proposed Balaban & Katz theatre, as it is to be located in Sheridan Road, just north of Wilson avenue.

Thus far Mr. Ahlschlager has not disposed of the lease to the theatre. He said that already negotiations are pending with a number of leading theatrical managers for a fifteen-year lease on the property, but that he did not expect any deal to be consummated for at least a month.

Mutual Has Devised New Lobby Display for Minter Picture

Mutual has devised a new lobby photo display the first of which will be issued with "The Mate of the Sally Ann," the Mary Miles Minter production. Two 22x28-inch photos will be added to each set, one of them a portrait of the star and the other a scene from the production.

In working out the sets a new process has been used which has resulted in a striking pictorial effect. The lobby display has been heretofore a "close-up" proposition from an advertising standpoint. The new Mutual lobby photos will not only attract people from a distance, serving the mission of a poster, but at the same time present a photographic realism.

"Oh Mary, Be Careful!" Being Taken in South

The filming of exterior scenes for the motion picture version of George West- ton's novel, "Oh, Mary, Be Careful!" with Madge Kennedy as the star, is progressing in Georgia.
Canadian Exhibitors Affected by War
Educate Public Through Newspaper Ads.

Many Who Had Raised Prices Return to Former Scale—Vaudeville Used to Stimulate Interest

The opinions of exhibitors throughout the different provinces of Canada vary as to the advisability of raising prices. In some districts the reports are good and to the effect that the raise in admission did not materially affect their receipts, while on the other hand, other districts claim they have to go back to the old prices.

In the maritime provinces the exhibitors have introduced vaudeville into their houses with a substantial increase in price and all records to date point to success in this line.

In British Columbia, exhibitors, through their new Association, are endeavoring to educate the people, by advertisements in newspapers as to the reason for the increase in admission prices, explaining to them how very carefully the increased expenses of conducting theatres, including the new war taxes recently levied in that province, increased rentals, etc., that they are now called upon to pay.

Canadian exhibitors as a whole are very optimistic and are standing up under the difficult conditions they are experiencing in a country at war, with a remarkable spirit of patriotism.

Toronto, Ont.—On Monday night, Nov. 28, there was a distinct slump in the box office receipts of the suburban moving picture theatres. This was due to a large decrease in the downtown box office receipts, due to the Mass Meeting at the Main Armories addressed by Col. "Teddy" Roosevelt.

"Teddy" was given a royal welcome to the Queen City and a bevy of cameramen were on the spot in order that they might show his arrival on the screens of the Canadian-American houses.

The patriotic Hamilton exhibitor turned his theatre over for the meeting in that city. Hundreds were turned away from the meeting, although the Armories held over 11,000. Larger numbers of this crowd, while they were downtown went to the large first run houses.

Toronto, Ont.—Talk about quick work, although Theodore Roosevelt only arrived at 1 p.m., pictures showing his arrival in Hamilton and also in Toronto were flashed on the screen of the Regent Theatre, the same night. Others will have to go some to beat these Canadian cameramen and developers.

Toronto public cannot get enough of the "Birth of a Nation." General Manager William Cranston of the Basil Film Corporation, announces that he has arranged for the film to have a fourth run in Massey Hall, commencing Christmas eve. This feature will be shown in the large hall for two weeks.

Montreal, Que.—The leading moving picture houses in Montreal have felt a decided slump during the past week. Loew's new theatre has had a decided effect on attendance at other houses.

Toronto, Ont.—No person could resist Mr. Caldwell's pleasant smile during his visit to Toronto last week. Mr. Caldwell is manager of the Lyceum Theatre, Galt, Ont.

Toronto, Ont.—A splendid demonstration of good showmanship was given this week by Manager Harry Pomeroy of the Globe Theatre. He booked the Bluebird Picture "The Sign of the Poppies" for a week's run commencing Nov. 19, and then got busy and designed a lobby display that hit spectators square in the eyes. You could not pass the Globe Theatre without seeing Harry's display.

He had everything from the ticket girl dressed up as a Chinese character to a chinaman smoking the opium pipe. Although this Bluebird was an old one and the particular film was not in very good shape, the Globe was packed to capacity the entire week.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Winnipeg office of the Canadian Universal Film Co., Ltd., has just closed a contract with Manitoba Government for one program per week to be shown in the Brandon Asylum for the Insane.

This program will consist principally of educational reels. This is quite an innovation on the part of the Manitoba Government, it being the first time exhibitions of this kind have been shown to the inmates of the institution.

Toronto, Ont.—Charlie Stevens, general manager of Superfeatures, Ltd., has left for a visit to the Western Cities, Winnipeg and Calgary.

Victoria, B. C.—The exhibitors here announce that commencing Nov. 15, the prices at all theatres will be reduced. The increased prices in this section did not prove successful.

Toronto, Ont.—An odd coincidence occurred in Toronto week of Nov. 26. The new Allen Theatre and the Regent Theatre, distinctly rival houses, both featured for the week a Douglas Fairbanks's picture.

The members of the Manitoba Exhibitors' Association arranged with President O. E. O'llmet of the Specialty Film Corporation, Limited, Canadian Distributors for Pathé, to have Miss Helen Chadwick one of the Pathé stars appear at their annual Film Ball held in Fort Garry Hotel, Winnipeg, on Thursday evening, November 29. The tickets for the ball were $3.00 and the proceeds were donated to the blind soldiers of Canada. Chadwick was the grand prize and performed the grand march. Various exhibitors livened the evening by supplying vaudeville attractions.

ESSANAY COMPLETES
COMEDIES FEATURING
AMEDEO RASTRELLI

"Hard Luck" "The General" and
"All Aboard" Initial Plays for French Comedian

Three of a series of Essanay one-reel comedies have been completed for publication through General Film. These are of the variety, said to augur some new types of rapid action

Featuring Amadeo Rastrelli, the French comedian, they are produced by Arthur Hotaling whose theories regarding light comedy are declared to be out of the ordinary.

As evidenced in his initial comedies, Mr. Hotaling does not underestimate the importance of plot. Along with the rapid action and rough and tumble of each comedy there appears a story that is carical and complicated.

Mr. Hotaling has staged thrilling scenes on house tops, in deep water and in powder plants and has secured for his comedies a bevy of pretty girls as well as some ludicrous supporting comedians.

Fun Art Films Inc.
Won't Bind Buyers
to Deposit Contracts

Fun-Art Films, Inc., who are making a series of two-reel comedies for the market, the first of which, "A Rag, A Bone and A Hank of Hair," has just been completed, announces that it does not bind the state rights buyer up to contract for its entire output, such as is usually the case.

Fun-Art comedies have been built to sell as well as please audiences. Their clean, wholesome comedies place them, in the opinion of the management, on a footing above the average.

Regularly produced, these pictures are in great demand and Fun Art Films does not bind the state rights buyer to a contract.
He may purchase one, or any number up to the entire output without binding himself in any manner. No deposits are required whatsoever. They lay the real goods on the counter in the open market and it is up to the judgment of the buyer.

McCLURE PICTURES
LOANS "MOTHER" FILM
TO AID RED CROSS

Through the courtesy of McClure Pictures, which organization is offering "Mother" for state right distribution, the picture was shown on November 19 in aid of the drive in behalf of the Red Cross movement, at the club house of the Nassau County Red Cross Society, at Oyster Bay, Long Island.

A large gathering witnessed the screening of the picture. The proceeds derived from the exhibition on Monday will help swell the Red Cross fund.

"Girl and the Judge"
Empire-Mutual Film
Has Notable Cast

The cast of "The Girl and the Judge," the Clyde Fitch play that the Empire Star Corporation is now engaged in filming, is to be as carefully produced as the other Charles Frohman plays that have recently been picturized by the same company.

Olive Tell, the well-known Broadway star, is again being starred, while David Powell, who has the leading male role, is to be featured.

Eric Main, for over six years associated with Henry Irving, and who has played with other noted people of the stage, has an important part.

Charlotte Granville is another member of the cast whose name is known to theatre-goers.

Charles Stanton is also in "The Girl and the Judge" cast. By a curious coincidence Mr. Stanton finds that his name appears several times, as "Stanton," was the name chosen by Clyde Fitch for the father of "the girl" in "The Girl and the Judge."

The Mutual Film Corporation will handle this Empire offering.

Sunshine Comedies
Meet With Success

The William Fox Sunshine Comedies have not only been successful in motion picture theatres throughout the country, but in many of the leading vaudeville theatres, that company announces. With this also comes a statement that the Fox company will continue to publish a Sunshine Comedy every two weeks.

The comedies for the balance of Deember and January are "Damaged—No
Good" December 23, "Shadow of Her
Pest" January 6, "Are Married Policemen Safe?" January 13. All the comedies are being filmed under the direction of Henry Lehrman.

Popular Novelist Joins Goldwyn Staff

Frank L. Packard, who wrote "The Beloved Traitor," which is now being filmed with Mae Marsh as the star, has joined Goldwyn staff and takes his place beside Margaret Mayo, Edgar Selwyn, Irving Cummings, Roi Cooper,
Megrue, Basil King, Porter Emerson
Browne, Edward Childs Carpenter and Anatole France.

Mr. Packard is a native of Montreal, a graduate of McGill University and holds the degree of B. A. Sc. He also took a post-graduate course at the University of Liege.

He began writing for magazines in Big Cloud," contains a number of short stories and life. He wrote also "Greater Love Hath No Man," "The Miracle-Man," which was dramatized by C. M. Cohan, "The Beloved Traitor,"
"The Adventures of Jimmie Dale," and a story of old Quebec, ent-titled, "The Sin That Was His."

Sing Sing Inmates
Enjoy Billy West
in "The Chief Cook"

The King Bee Films Corporation,
New York City, is to receive an interesting letter from the chairman of the Welfare League of Sing prison, New York, thanking that company for the use of a two-reel comedy, "The Chief Cook," featuring Billy West.

E. J. Meacher, the chairman, writes:
"My slogan is, 'Send them away with a smile,' so I presented this comedy at the conclusion of our feature picture on Saturday night. It literally brought down the entire house. It was a riot from beginning to end and sure cure for our old friend, R. U. Blue, at all times.
May we ask for another subject for our program Saturday, November 24. Either of the following: 'The Villain,' 'The Mil-liionaire,' 'The Goat' or 'The Candy Kid.'"

Elizabeth Risdon
Star of "Mother" Film
on Stage and Screen

Elizabeth Risdon, the star of George Loane Tucker's "Mother," now being distributed on the state right plan by McClure Pictures, will appear in many cities throughout the United States, simultaneously on stage and screen.

This is due to the "Misalliance," the William Faversham production of George Bernard Shaw's play, at present on tour, Miss Risdon has a prominent part and will be seen on the road with the show in an itinerary extending from coast to coast.

McClure Pictures state that "Mother" is acting with an unprecedented reception from state rights purchasers of the country.

Entire Cast Chosen for Fischer Film
"Molly Go Get 'Em"

The complete cast of the American-
Mutual production entitled "Molly Go Get 'Em" has been selected. This is the second Margarita Fischer feature in which Miss Fischer will have a widely different role from any that she has yet done. The Boardman has been engaged by the American Film Company and Emma Kluge has a prominent part.
Others in the cast are General Clements,
Margaret Allen and Alfred Ferguson.

Jack Mower will play opposite Miss Fischer, who, as Molly Allison, a mischievous girl, manages to have a remarkable amount of fun in life at the expense of a long suffering family. Lloyd Ingraham will direct it.

Mr. Ingraham also directed Miss Fischer's first picture, under the working title of "A Daughter of Joan," but which will be published under "Miss Jackie, The Army Girl." Bessie Van wrote the story of "Molly Go Get 'Em," and Elizabeth Mahoney adapted it for the screen.
Exhibitors Booking
Hoffman-Foursquare
"Fringe of Society"

New York Exhibitors of the discriminating class are saying complimentary things about the latest Hoffman-Foursquare picture, "The Fringe of Society," the seven-part feature recently finished by the George Backer Film Corporation, and which is to have a New York showing this week. Many of these exhibitors have booked the picture, Manager H. Gainsberg reports.

Bookings have been received also from Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges in Bos- ton, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Atlanta.

Mary MacLane's Play
Completed by Essanay

Mary MacLane, has completed her Essanay seven-reel vampire play, "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," Miss MacLane's talent as a screen actress, it is said, exceeded the producer's expectations. Not only does she photograph well, but also she plays her role with natural stage presence and true dramatic instinct. Miss MacLane wrote the script for the screen play from her knowledge regarding the world of men and women.

The story of "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," concerns the fates of six admirers, each of a different type, each making a different appeal to the heart of the vampire.

Tom Mix Joins Fox to Star in Features
Under Director Le Saint

Tom Mix began work last week as a star in western dramas for William Fox. Wanda Petitt will be the leading woman in the company. Mr. Mix's director will be Edward J. Le Saint and the photoplay will be made in the Fox studios on the west coast.

Mr. Mix holds an enviable position in the screen world. He is not only one of the greatest cowboys in the country, but is recognized as a player of talent and individuality. As a portrait of a distinct phase of American life he stands among the foremost.

Mr. Fox has provided an absorbing drama for Mix, written by George Scar- borough. The setting is Boston and the story coincides in the middle west and leads to the more rugged territory of the mountains. It is said to be replete with thrilling incidents and adventure.

In the supporting company, in addition to Miss Petitt, will be Verne Messe- resu, Al Pidgett and Dick Crawford.

Petrova to Conduct
Magazine Department

Madame Olga Petrova will begin conducting a department in the Ladies' World starting with the December issue. It will deal with the dispensing of ad-vice and helpful hints to girls and women throughout the country who believe themselves possessed of the historic ability necessary for success in the motion picture field.

Madame Petrova has chosen this way in which to reply to her many admirers who have besieged her with letters indicating their desire to become motion picture actresses.

Molly Pearson Joins
Forbes-Robertson in First Brenon Film

Molly Pearson, the Scotch heroine of "Drunks and the Strings," is to make her screen debut in Mr. Johnston Forbes-Robertson, in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

The Jerome K. Jerome drama, in which Mr. Johnston will be seen in the role of the Stranger, is now in progress of filming at the Brenon Studios, Hudson Heights.

Miss Pearson has just started her first film work, playing the role of the slavey, Stasia, which she created in the original New York production of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." when it was presented at Maxine Elliot's Theatre, on October 4, 1909.

"The Three Things"
New Edison War Film

A company of Edison players, headed by Marguerite Courtot and Ray Mc- Kee, under the direction of Alan Crosland, is preparing a picture from the c countertone of the United States Marine Corps at Quantico, Va., where, under conditions which duplicate the west front in Eu- rope, the final scenes in a war play have just been completed.

The production, which has the en- dorsement of the United States Marine Corps and high officials at Washington, is based upon the story, "The Three Things," by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews.

The principal roles are played by Ray McKee and Marguerite Courtot. The production is to be in seven reels and will be published as a Perfection Picture through the George Klein System during December.

Schlaifer Co. Buys Country-Wide Rights to Lifegraph Film

The L. L. Schlaifer Attractions of Seattle, Washington, have bought the exclusive rights of the United States for its six-reel production, "Where Cowboy is King." The firm intends to retain Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, but will sell state rights for the balance of the United States.

The company has also secured the exclusive rights for booking the six-reel production, "Hate" for the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. The firm is engaged in ar- ranging an original lobby and exploitation campaign. The People's Amusement Company, of Portland, Oregon, has booked "Hate" for the Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon, the first week in December.

Joseph Partridge
Makes Coast Trip for Booking Corp.

Joseph Partridge, division manager of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corpora- tion, has left on a trip to the Pacific Coast in the interest of the new concern headed by Frank Hall and William Old- know.

Mr. Partridge, who has a wide acquaintance among exhibitors, will stop at important cities along the route. At St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver, he will engage representatives to devote themselves exclusively to the promotion of U. S. Booking Corporation subjects.

Mr. Partridge will also arrange with a long established exchange system for the distribution of U. S. Productions in the Western territory.

Accessory News Notes

Lenard's Studios are doing such a land-office business. Why?

Jack Mahmian sold his West Ho- boken Exchange last week and is going to start another one shortly in New York city.

The Kraus Manufacturing Company is showing some fine holiday goods. Ex- hibitors are always welcome to come in and give the place the "o. k."

Jay Kay, formerly on the staff of Keeney's Brooklyn Theatre, has opened a Poster Studio on Broadway.

The Wurlitzer Hall, New York, has installed two type B. Simplex projectors.

Two Simplex projectors are "doing their bit" at Heroland, the mammoth bazaar now being held in the Grand Central Palace, New York.

Why is it that some accessory men who have a few accounts believe that they have the trade to themselves?

The "nut" who says he does not need to advertise invariably loses money.

Every one is willing to furnish copy for the reading columns, but not for the advertising pages.

A certain man, who, by the way, is in the supply business, was approached the other day on the matter of advertising. After the solicitor had explained in a painstaking manner the value of his pa- per, this gentleman informed the solicitor that as long as he paid the operator a commission, the exhibitor, as a buying power, was a negative proposition. An investigation was at once undertaken and a few supply houses canvassed on the subject. All said that this was not true and a man who would cast such a slur on the operators should not enjoy their friendship.

THE Spirit of Christmas comes this year as a clarion voice of good cheer bidding the righteous nations of the world that are saddened with battle to look confidently to the promised future of peace with honor in the triumph of the just. Bringing renewed life and hope to a world rent and bleeding from the conflict of nations the Spirit of Christmas this year is thrice welcomed.

OVER the motion picture trade which has given its men and its money without reserve to the great work of winning the war and is ready at all times for the supreme sacrifice, the Spirit of Christmas descends like the golden rays of morning’s sun bringing with it reward of patriotic service in a message of good cheer, good luck—prosperity.

LONG BEACH

One of the surprises in store for the screen public is the splendid manner in which the famous skater, Charlotte, has succeeded in her first attempt in the moving picture drama. The photography of the picture is clear and the locations and settings are unusually artistic and pleasing. But, after all is said and done, the drawing card of the production is contained in the scenes in the new Chicago Arena, where Charlotte, untouched by camera-shyness, performs the wonderful skating feats for which she is famed over two continents. To those who have or have not witnessed the skating of Charlotte these scenes alone are worth the price of admission.

It is only fair to say that there are numerous dramatic stars who have not made good on the screen as pleasingly as the little skater, Charlotte.

The picture is clean and wholesome in quality, spectacular and otherwise interesting, and should be one of the best box-office attractions on the market.

Motion Picture World says:

Morning Telegraph says:

Charlotte on the screen is an engaging and self-possessed personality, one whom film fans will catalogue in the list of captivating ingenues. Her initial screen work in the first Commonwealth Pictures Corporation release is a revelation, quite as clever as that of many very experienced stars. She photographs unusually well and appears quite oblivious to the proximity of the camera, except in her exhibition skating. She has a good chance to display the skill on the ice which has made her famous.

The feature is characterized by splendid photography and light effects. The fade-outs are excellent. In fact, the pictorial appeal of the film is unusual and few new companies reveal such promising results technically. The ice skating scenes, including Charlotte's clever stunts, film effectively.

TITAN COMEDIES are the one best bet of the exhibitor ("Unquestionably the best line of one-reel comedies ever filmed."—Halperin, Variety).

In addition to the patriotic phase of these pictures (a fund realized goes to the American Military Relief Association) there are several straight-from-the-shoulder, practical reasons why they stand AT THE TOP. It's in the MATERIAL.

("Funnier and more artistic than any comedies I have ever seen."—Jack Lait, Chicago Tribune).

Here is the material: The principals are the best talent available—such names as Raymond Hitchcock, Ernest Trues, Josephine Harriman, Charles Grapeswin. A high-priced, trained writer, Jo. Swerling, has written all the scripts. A high-priced, trained director, Rex Weber, has supervised all the productions. A high-priced, trained camera-man has turned out all the photography.

("Will make history for one-reelers."—L. Albright, Motion Picture News).

We haven't sloughed anything because these are one-reelers. There is as much care—as much thought in these comedies as in the most pretentious of spectacle pictures.

("Photography, direction, theme and execution in every one of the TITAN comedies are superb."—Einar Graf, Chicago Herald).

CONQUEST PICTURES can be had grouped in well-balanced programs of seven reels, if desired, for special exhibitions at stated intervals.

Edison-Perfection Pictures

THE latest novelty in EDISON-PERFECTION PICTURES is the series "GIRLS YOU KNOW," a group of twelve single reel "social satires," written by and produced under the direction of JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG, the famous artist and humorist.

Each reel of the series introduces a different type of attractive American girl in an amusing situation, punctuated by sub-titles in Mr. Flagg's inimitable style. Original drawings by Mr. Flagg will be featured in the pictures and posters.

"THE UNBELIEVER," an EDISON PERFECTION SUPERFEATURE, will be released JANUARY 14th. A strong story with a purpose, from the novelette, "THE THREE THINGS," by MARY RAYMOND SHIPMAN ANDREWS. "The greatest story the war has produced," featuring RAYMOND MCKEE and MARGUERITE COURTOT. The picture has been approved by high Washington officials and consists of seven reels of action and interest, showing, among other spectacular things, the U. S. There are reasons—Come and see them.
The Stranger

By MARTIN J. QUIGLEY

FOR days before the Eve of Christmas a Solemn Figure had dogged the army of invasion without challenging special notice. Among the French peasantry there were noncombatants of patriarchal mien wandering about unmolested at times, and it might have been confounded with one of them. At first glance there was nothing to distinguish it from one of these, but looked at more attentively one divined behind the mist and veil the presence of a strange majesty.

The face nobly moulded was lighter in hue than that of a peasant exposed to the intensity of the summer sun. About the brow and head there was a peculiar tenderness and majesty that seemed to bring to mind the idea of centuries of adoration. But above all, the eyes of this strange man drew attention of the onlooker—eyes of dark and ethereal brilliancy filled now with the light of great pity and sorrow.

Who was this Unknown, whence came He, and what business had He there amid slaughter, rapine, desolation and death? He seemed striving to come near the Hun warriors in the thickest of the carnage but was stopped short, finding them all-intent upon their hellish trade and wholly oblivious of His Presence.

They had enough to do without heeding Him, and one might feel that it was only their blind, unseeing rage that exempted Him from the fate of so many. It was plain they did not see Him—or would not see Him—else the spectacle of this Unknown figure sorrowing and wringing His hands over their bloody deeds would have brought them to their knees in supplication to Heaven for an armistice.

At night He wandered about the beleaguered village, going from one outpost to another, heedless of the sentinel's call. Often abroad in No Man's Land He was fired at, mistaken for a prowling spy, and the soldier running forward to glory in his bloody marksmanship found—nothing. Soon a rumor spread of a mysterious figure moving majestically in the rain of death between the trenches. Many soldiers declared that during the dark watches of the night they heard Him moaning and wailing and lamenting in a strange unearthly tongue—a tongue none on that side of the battle front could understand.

In intervals between the hell-sent hail of shot and shell a comrade, stout of heart, whispered to a weaker brother that it was an omen of victory. There were others who averred that the strange Visitant foreshadowed the coming of disaster; and indeed disaster did come to the trenches of the invader, seizing with spectral hands and dragging down to death many who fain would greet the enemy as "Brother" if the man called Kaiser would say but the word.

Still the Solemn Figure flitted to and fro from trench to trench and garrison to garrison. Strange and terrible were the sights it looked upon and over which it raised imprecating hands.

BACK in the village where every year for centuries the Spirit of Christmas was wont to bathe all in the celestial light of peace and tranquility. It saw lust and murder loosed against a trembling population of young and old, the sick and unfit—poor derelicts in the path of the supreme heartlessness and folly of Prussia's dream of world dominance.

It saw scattered heaps of such as these lying in terrible confusion clinging one to another in the grim security of death. Here the tiny corpse of a child with terror stamped on its innocent face and little hand clasping a make-shift doll of rags from a Christmas chest impoverished by war; there a white-haired old man—the village Santa for a score of years—with one arm flung protectingly around a young girl in whose eyes might be read the horror of her fate.

And again the Solemn Figure looked upon the most awful and accusing sight under Heaven—the hearth-fire, which was lit to welcome the dawn of Christmas day, quenched in blood and mute forms where joyous life had lately been.

In fine, It saw the wanton cruelty and destruction brought to a people and a land that were nestled under the majestic serenity and happiness of a traditional Christmas Eve.

Then the Solemn Figure, outraged by what It had seen back of the German lines, raised an imperial hand pointing to the West. . . .

Suddenly from afar a giant shrapnel shell shot from the mouth of an American cannon burst high against the sombre heavens like a new Star of Bethlehem, a vivid portent of a mighty nation springing to arms for the salvation of a world threatened with oppression. . . . and a multitude of troops of the armies of liberty and freedom watched with fixed gaze the miracle of the bursting shell that hung like a star in the area just over the top, bidding them on like the star of a long-gone Christmas Eve to the glorious work of making the world safe for the Spirit of Christmas.

Exhibitors Violate Sherman Law

Distributors Charge in U. S. Court

Nine Motion Picture Distributors File Bill With District Attorney Claiming Cancellation
Agreement Violates Anti-Trust Law

That the plans of many exhibitors’ organizations throughout the country to continue the boycott of the $1.50 a reel per day charge of exchanges by use of the boycott will not go unchallenged is evidenced in the action of nine motion picture distributors who have filed complaint in New York with U. S. District Attorney France against the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Brooklyn.

At a recent meeting of this local association the members voted to put in effect at once a boycott of the Fox Film Company and the Vitagraph Company of America and to take similar action against other companies if necessary to obtain a withdrawal of the charge.

According to the companies who filed the suit, the film industry is an interstate business and comes within the scope of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, and in their appeal to the courts they claim that conditions of this law have been violated by the exhibitors.

Tax Precipitates Action

The action of the motion picture theatre owners’ association was precipitated when, after the recent revenue act by Congress, the exchanges assessed a charge of 15 cents a reel to the exhibitor in addition to the regular rental charge.

In their document, the distributors call attention to the fact that the collection of the 15-cent charge has no relation to prices for the reason that the daily rental charge on reels ranges from one dollar to one hundred dollars and upwards per day, and is based, among other things, upon the character of the subject, the quality of the picture and the popularity of the star. The rental charges of the distributors, they state, are all different.

There is no uniformity between them in this respect, and there is no agreement of any kind as to prices or rental charges, for they are all in the keenest competition.

Describe Brooklyn Meeting

The distributors recite that on November 18 there was a meeting in Brooklyn at which over one hundred exhibitors were present. At that meeting, the allegation was that two of the distributors should be singled out and that all exhibitors should cancel their contracts with those two distributors and thereafter restrict their business to the other distributors until the two named distributors had been brought to terms.

This was done in protest of or for, or not the other distributors charged the 15 cents to meet the tax,” a part of the complaint reads. “In this manner, the exhibitors sought to force the two distributors to terms and then to proceed to apply the boycott to the other distributors until all had been brought to terms.”

Brandt ‘Phones Vitagraph

The bill further relates an alleged telephone conversation between William Brandt, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors’ League of Brooklyn, and one of the principal officers of the Vitagraph Company. It is charged that Brandt informed the Vitagraph official that cancellation of the $1.50 a reel charge had been placed in the hands of a committee of fifteen to be served on his company.

“Similarly, the officers of the said Brooklyn exhibitors’ association and the committee of fifteen waited upon the officials of the Fox Film Corporation,” the complaint avers, “and stated to them that they had obtained signatures from practically all, if not all, of the customers in Brooklyn of the Fox Film Corporation, consenting to and authorizing cancellations to be made by the committee of fifteen of their contracts with the company, which cancellations, if effected, would destroy the business of the Fox Film Corporation in Brooklyn.”

Exhibitors Make Threats

In conclusion, the distributors set forth that the actions of the exhibitors have been in the form of threats and with the avowed purpose of destroying the business of the companies named if their demands were not complied with.

The companies signing the complaint are Fox Film Corporation, Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, Universal Film Service, Inc., Pathé Exchange, Inc., Select Pictures Corporation, Universal Film Manufacturing Company, Vitagraph Company of America, World Film Corporation, and the Metro Pictures Corporation. They are represented by the law firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft.

GOVERNMENT GRABS

ROBERT GOLDSMITH
AND “SPIRIT OF ’76”

Officials Seize Film in Los Angeles
--Declare It Is German

Propaganda

Robert Goldstein and his ill-fated picture “The Spirit of ’76” have been picked up by federal agents in Los Angeles and Goldstein will have to answer to espionage charges in the Federal court. Government officials declare that the film is German propaganda masked by a pretense of emphasizing national tradition.

The arrest took place at a theatre in Los Angeles, where the film was being shown. The federal agents closed the performance, confiscated the film and Goldstein was held under $50,000 bail.

The film was shown in Chicago after court proceedings and after it had been cut to some extent. Mr. Funkhouser and the Chicago censor board refused to consent to the showing of the production because it was maintained it pictured Irish atrocities to American colonists.

Chicago Branch A. E. A. Picks Men for Capitol War Tax Conference

Beatty, Frank, Cooper and Zilligen, Leave for Washington to Join Body Seeking Modification of Tax Law

Answering the plea of the national officials of the American Exhibitors’ Association that a strong representation of that body be present in Washington this week when the tax on the motion picture industry again comes before Congress with a request for its modification, the Chicago Motion Picture Theatre Owners’ Association, at a recent meeting delegated four men to go to the capital.

E. Thomas Beatty, Jacob Cooper, August Zilligen, Jr., and Louis H. Frank are the men who will make the trip.

It is expected that the matter will be taken up by Congress on the 12th, 13th and 14th of this month. The wish has been expressed by General Manager C. C. Pettijohn that the American Exhibitors’ Association have a large delegation present and reports from various parts of the country indicate that his wish will be gratified.

Members Instruct Delegates

The local branch of the body devoted all its discussion of the appointment of a delegation and to instructing the committee as to the methods to pursue.

Many plans were discussed for better existing conditions for the exhibitors, among which were obtaining a removal of the tax from 5 cents, exempting tickets which sold for less than 25 cents, and an increase in the seating tax to supplant the present levy.

Treasurer Louis Frank struck a popular chord when he announced that he would rather give the government 30 per cent or even 50 per cent of his profits than to continue to collect the tax. Mr. Frank also cautioned the exhibitors that Congress might not hear them at all.

Tax Here to Stay

“Any talk about having the tax done away with entirely is idle,” said Mr. Frank. “The government needs the tax. It has to have the money, and it is our patriotic duty to bear our share of it.”

“Personally, I would rather pay the government 30, even 50 per cent of my profits. Congress might listen to this kind of a proposal, if they hear us at all, and it would show the willingness of the exhibitors to do their part in raising the needed revenue.”

Expenses of the delegates to Washington will be borne by popular subscription among the members of the association. The committee expects to return to Chicago, December 15.
Associated Theatres Inc. Stockholders to Hold Meet in Minneapolis Dec. 17

Association of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin Exhibitors Soon to Begin Booking and Distributing Own Films

Stockholders of the Associated Theatres, Inc., will hold their first meeting at the West Hotel in Minneapolis on December 17 to elect a board of five directors and adopt a franchise.

The Associated Theatres, Inc., represents an association of exhibitors of four states and has been organized since October 16 to operate booking offices and film exchanges in Minneapolis, Duluth, Milwaukee, La Crosse, St. Paul, Fargo and Minot. The new enterprise is capitalized at $100,000.

A membership of 600 theatres has been decided upon by the officers of the new company before actual operations will be begun. Already, according to a statement from General Manager T. J. Hamlin, the five hundred mark in membership has been passed.

Although still in its infancy, the organization has a well defined policy, as is explained by Mr. Hamlin. The other officers of the association are: H. L. Hartman, Mandan, N. D., president; W. S. Smith, Menomonie, Wis., vice-president; C. W. Gates, Aberdeen, S. D., chairman; H. P. Greene, Minneapolis, Minn., treasurer.

At the start the association will not be able to care for all its members, Mr. Hamlin states. The rental of films, he said, is to be determined from an information sheet which each exhibitor signs before a notary public, giving a list of films, makes and subjects which he has played in a selected period of fourteen days and the rental he has paid for them.

“Our sole aim is to eliminate the middleman’s expenses,” said Mr. Hamlin. “We want each producer and parent distributing company to realize more net profit on these four states and our members, under the plan of distributing, will be able to obtain better film at lower rental. “Our weekly sales sheet eliminates the expense of traveling salesmen and saves approximately seven thousand dollars a week in these four states. The seven inspection points to be established in the different localities will save our members express charges to the same amount weekly because of shorter hauls. It is eleven hundred miles across our zone from Sheboygan, Wis., to Beach, N. D., and it is a losing territory for the producers and distributors.”

Shipman Contracts to Produce Nine Independent Films

Will Also Make Two-Reel Patriotic Comedies—Business Growing

Ernest Shipman has just rounded out his second month in business for himself, which shows a rapidly growing organization and many things accomplished. Nine independent productions have been contracted for and will be manufactured during the coming months. They will be published in the open market. Some of the most prominent producers in the industry have these productions in hand. Contracts have also been executed for the exploitation of the Shorty Hamilton five-reel comedies which will be issued one a month to state rights buyers during 1918.

A line of patriotic comedies in one and two reels is being exploited by Mr. Shipman and will soon be announced. The Art Studios and Laboratories at 316 East 49th street, New York, have been working night shifts in order to take care of new business which includes some of the European war negatives of D. W. Griffith.

Several prominent screen stars have been enrolled under Mr. Shipman’s management and a special service department has been opened to attend to their needs. King Baggot was recently placed by the Shipman organization with the Warton brothers to work in the production of the secret service serial and

Laemmle Indicts Distributors for Absorption of 15c Reel Tax

President of Universal Charges That Companies Not Assessing Tax Must Make It Up in Some Other Way

In an open letter which charges insincerity, hypocrisy, "camouflage" and divers other crimes, Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing company, gives this unqualified views of the distributors who have absorbed the film tax of 15 cents per reel.

Mr. Laemmle in explaining the letter says it was called forth by a question put to him in writing by a western exhibitor who asked: "How can the exchanges which are not charging the war tax stay in business?"

The president of Universal believes that the question so distinctly sums up the tax question from the producers and distributors' standpoints that the answer should be read by all exhibitors instead of one. His letter follows:

Must Raise Prices

"In answer to your very natural question, "How can the exchanges which are not charging the war tax stay in business?"

"Frankly, we do not know how they can do it. In fact, we do not believe for one instant that they can pay this tax themselves and avoid raising their prices at a later date.

"It is more than probable, we believe, that they hope to pose as champions of the exhibitors and thus draw an amount of business from you that is not only sufficient to cover the absorption of the tax but to produce an additional profit for themselves.

"If we were to pursue the course that they have adopted, all or most of the producing companies would have to go out of business and in all probability the companies you mention would not be any more likely to escape this repute than any of the other companies.

Tax Absorption Balances

"No doubt we would have made ourselves great temporary heroes, in the eyes of many exhibitors, if we had not said anything about passing the tax along to the public through the tickets; but in the end it would have ruined the exhibitors by reason of the fact that it would have ruined the producers and thus shut off all sources of film supply for theaters.

"All the producers combined cannot afford to pay a tax of $100,000 every week, whether the public believes it or not. But if such an amount is passed along to the public, the public will not feel it.

"Unfortunately, there is another industry in the world in which the tax has been levied in just the manner that it has been levied in the picture business. In all others, it is levied in such a manner that it goes on to the public very directly and very quickly. In our case we are practically placed in the position of having to pay out the operation of exhibitors when as a matter of fact they should not only be willing but eager to give it in order to save themselves and the whole industry.

Ask No Repeat

"This company will not ask the government to repeal the tax law, no matter how unfair its provisions may seem, because the United States needs the money and must have it. If the exhibitors feel that it should be repealed; if they can convince Congress that it should be repealed, well and good. That is none of our business. The exhibitors have as much right to run their affairs as the producers and exchanges have to run their own. But as long as the law is a law, it is our plain duty to do the best we can to act as collectors for Uncle Sam. If we fail in this, we fail in all.

"Common sense compels every thinking man to know that those companies not charging the tax must make it up in some other way. We do not pretend to know what that way will be, but we do know that the exhibitor cannot benefit by it in the end.

"We could have handled the whole matter in quite a different way if we had chosen to say nothing about the tax at all but simply and quietly advance prices all along the line. But we chose to be perfectly frank about it and make no protest on the war tax. We figured, as nearly as we could, what the war tax would cost us and then passed it along to our customers knowing that, in turn, they would have to pass it along to the public. I might say, incidentally, that in seeing we gave ourselves by far the worst of it.

"If we had handled the whole matter in quite a different way if we had chosen to say nothing about the tax at all but simply and quietly advance prices all along the line. But we chose to be perfectly frank about it and make no protest on the war tax. We figured, as nearly as we could, what the war tax would cost us and then passed it along to our customers knowing that, in turn, they would have to pass it along to the public. I might say, incidentally, that in seeing we gave ourselves by far the worst of it.

"Close Above-Board Methods

"We chose the frank and open method for the very simple reason that it seemed the honest thing to do. We could have employed camouflage or we could have indulged in midnight meetings to fool our customers, but we too were granted that we could not.

"We too were granted that we could not open and above-board treatment. We took it for granted that they knew that no tax on any producer in any line of business is actually absorbed by the producer unless he is making an exorbitant profit, the very same penny of it, and some times more, is passed on to the ultimate consumer, the public. Sometimes it is passed directly; at other times indirectly—but it always goes down the line in the end.

"Not a single objection was made to our method of collecting the tax until a few professional agitators stirred up a cloud of dust to blind the exhibitors and make them think we were abusing them. This is unfortunate, but it does not influence us to change our attitude, because we made sure we were doing the right thing before we went ahead."

The distributors who have absorbed the tax and are, therefore, the target of Mr. Laemmle's shot, are the Mutual Film Corporation, Hoffman-Foursquare, General Film Co., Omaha Film Exchange (State Rights) Art Dramas, Standard Film Corporation, C. S. Exhibitors Booking Corporation, Jaxon Film Corporation, Wholesome Films Corporation and the Globe Feature Film Corporation.

The picture will be finished at the Shamrock studios in San Jose, Anna Q. Nilsson and Herbert Hayes star in the photoplay.

THREE SCENES FROM "SHIRLEY KAYE"
HOFFMAN LAUDS BIG BUSINESS IDEAS; PANACEA FOR FILM INDUSTRY EVILS

Cites Success of M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Under Leadership of George Backer, Prominent New York Contractor

Identification of George Backer with the film industry is, in the opinion of M. H. Hoffman of M. H. Hoffman, Inc., a most encouraging sign. It is, he believes, the forerunner of big business methods in the industry.

"The fact that the motion picture industry has begun to attract men who have gone far in other lines of business is a most encouraging sign," said Mr. Hoffman. "It proves, for one thing, the nearness of the introduction of business methods which are indispensable to progress and stability.

"Right now, when for its welfare the motion picture industry most needs the strengthening, steady touch of men who instill confidence, the entry of George Backer into the field means a very great deal. How much it already has meant is shown in the accomplishments of M. H. Hoffman, Inc., of which Mr. Backer is president, and the effect upon the industry as a whole resulting from upbuilding policies to which Mr. Backer is pledged.

Hoffman Business Methods

"Not quite six months old, M. H. Hoffman, Inc., occupies a position among distributing organizations which could scarcely have been gained without wisest planning and administration. Its preeminent place among independent concerns reflects the application of business procedure as yet too little practiced in the motion picture field.

"Merchandising methods similar to those to be found in institutions like United States Steel, National Cash Register, United Cigar Stores and American Telegraph & Telephone, have prevailed with M. H. Hoffman, Inc., since its inception. Existing practices in the motion picture industry, which have been frowned upon by the ablest men in it, have been put under the heel of this concern. "George Backer acquired his fortune through his own unaided efforts. His holdings are perhaps the most eloquent tribute to his industry, his capacity, his integrity."

Backer’s Building Career

Mr. Hoffman was one of the first approached by Mr. Backer when the latter determined to engage in the motion picture business. Mr. Hoffman became a large stockholder in the company and assumed its vice-presidency.

DALLAS, Tex., Government Agent Bans Increased Admission Including Tax

Theatre owners in Dallas, Tex., who have raised admission prices and have announced through their advertisements that the increase will include the war tax, have, according to reports, come under the ban of the federal authorities in that city.

This, as far as could be ascertained, is the first instance where the government has made a ruling in this connection. The ruling, if it receives the endorsement of the head of the department of internal revenue at Washington, will be far reaching in its effect.

Following the imposition of the war tax, thousands of motion picture theatres throughout the United States boosted admission prices five cents, the increase to include the war tax.

The deputy collector of Dallas in a ruling made this week, notified the theatres of that city that the government would not tolerate this in the future. The government official declared that the authorities will insist that every show advertise the exact amount charged for admission and the war tax in addition, for the benefit of the public so that patrons paying admission to the theatre may know just how much of the charge is being paid to the government and how much goes into the exhibitor’s pocket.

Mr. Backer has an enviable reputation in the building industry of New York City. Among some of his noteworthy achievements in this line are the Chatham hotel and the Godfrey building, the only building in New York devoted exclusively to the film industry.

DOLL-VAN FILM CO. ENTERS FIELD WITH NOVEL PRESS SHEET

Distributors Have Assistance of Advertising Experts in Preparing Aid to Exhibitors

Convinced that not enough attention has been paid to the matter of providing the exhibitor with proper means of exploiting attractions, the Doll-Van Film Corporation, Chicago, with the aid of advertising experts, has issued a most comprehensive press sheet covering three of the company’s productions.

William S. Hart in “The Cold Deck”; Florence Reed, in “Today,” and Robert Warwick, in “The Mad Lover,” are the plays displayed. Advertising hints to the exhibitor are the predominating features of this handsome two-color affair printed on costly, heavy paper.

The crying need of the industry today,” said D. M. Vandawalker, Jr., vice-president of the company, “is not better pictures, for there are plenty of good pictures to go around, but for some means of letting the public know when one of the good pictures is to be shown.

“My firm considers the exploitation the exhibitor gives the picture at least 75 per cent of the success of that picture, and for this reason we are spending hundreds of dollars preparing business-getting campaigns for the exhibitor as he is, as a rule, too busy to prepare the proper kind of advertising himself. We have called in the greatest advertising experts in the film business to make up our aids to the exhibitor and they are carefully and thoroughly practical.”
I F ONE were to take the recent eruption of interviews, statements, letters, and other expressions in the trade press and notes based upon it, they would be highly alarmed about the present and future of the film industry.

A great many very drastic remedies, a vast number of prescriptions, a lot of "expert" advice, is being offered for conditions in the motion picture industry. I did not know it was that sick.

I do not now think it is.

In fact, the film industry is a lot better off than this sudden uprising of the doctors would have you think. Every once in a while somebody who has the impression he is in the film business goes and takes a look at his ledgers and finds things in red figures. Right away he decides the world is upside down and that the film industry is working side out, headed for ruin on high gear. Like as not, he rings for a couple of stenographers and frames up a "piece for the papers." It relieves his feelings, produces a headline, and gives some of his associates who happen to have financial colic a chance to do some more writing and talking.

All of which is quite as natural to the film trade as spring freshets in the Missouri river.

The film business is not headed for perdition. In fact, the film business is doing fairly well.

Unwise Investors Enter Field

There are a number of things the matter just now and there always will be. There always will be a certain percentage of unwise investors who will put their money into the hands of the uninit for film projects. There probably will always be a certain percentage of exhibitors who will encourage anything which is held up with extravagant promises as the newest "last word in pictures, the super-extraordinary." Promotions based on these factors will always have unhappy periods, but that will not spell ruin for the picture business any more than now.

So they of the film trade may talk of wastes, of mergers, of the star system, of the multiplicity of distributing systems, of the extravagances of advertising campaigns, of this and of that, but all this talk can have extremely little to do with the courses of nature.

The film business is working out its own salvation and it will continue to do so until the end of time.

When the wind blows, hold on to your hat.

"What About Star System?"

Probably the most popular question about the motion picture business, from the trade and the consumers of photo-plays alike, is: "What about the star system? Will it keep up?"

That question should be so universally raised is the natural outcome of the so-called star system itself. The public thinks of photo-plays entirely in terms of stars, and the exhibitors, manufacturers and distributors can only reflect in some manner the attitudes, expressions and opinions of the public.

And right there I think you have the answer—to quote myself as my favorite author and authority—"The public thinks of photo-plays entirely in terms of stars."

The "star system" is, in my opinion, entirely natural, inevitable and desirable. I am sure that it will survive as one of the biggest elements in successful photoplay production and distribution.

I might go into the question at great length from the point of view of the photoplay alone, but perhaps I can arrive at more convincing evidence by stepping out into two other closely allied fields of enterprise, the speaking stage and the publishing business.

Stars in All Lines

The history of the movie is seen in the biography of stars. Not star actors alone, but star producers, star dramatists, star playwrights.

The publishing business is also a star business. In the publishing field we have star authors, star publishers, star illustrators, and even star bookbinders. And also star fiction characters.

In both of these parallels I mean by "star" the focal personality on which the goods are sold, the personality which is the dominant factor of the production.

In the field of drama, we can point readily to many easy examples of the star personality, as, for example, Maude Adams. Her drawing power is influenced in but slight proportion by the character of the vehicle in which she appears. The people go to see Maude Adams, just as in earlier days they flocked to see Charlotte Cushman, Ed- win Booth, Sol Smith Russell, and as they now go to see Sarah Bernhardt. As examples of other expressions of star personality in the dramatic field, we find certain productions have gone out on the market to sell mainly on such names as Belasco or Charles Frohman, exemplifying the star producer. Also, we have plays which go forth with the star dramatic as their chief selling factor, and I might cite examples all the way from William Shakespeare to Lord Dunsany and J. M. Barrie.

Cites Popular Fiction Characters

In the publishing field, we can point to innumerable examples to prove our star contention. Books and magazines are sold on the names of authors, as, for instance, Tarkington, Chambers, Lewis, etc., of the star authors. Sometimes they are sold on the stardom of characters created by the author and which grow to overshadow the fame of their makers—I have in mind, for example, J. Rufus Wallingford, whom, I will wager, is at least as well known as Mr. George Randolph Chester, his creator. Potash and Perlmutter are better known than Mr. Montague Glass, who made them what they are today. The public looks, however, for "another Wallingford story" or for "another Potash and Perlmutter story," not for the new Glass story or the new Chester story. Which proves the character is the star.

Not a few published productions depend for their success on the names of the men who draw the covers and illustrations, and thus we have the star illustrators of high price, like Howard Chandler Christy or James Montgomery Flagg or John McCutcheon or the late Howard Pyle.

Since the photoplay passed the novelty stage, when pictures which moved constituted an attraction, or, in other

George K. Spoor—A few more just like Taylor Holmes.

Metro to Make "Weaver of Dreams"

Admirers of the stories of Myrtle Reed will be interested to hear that her novel, "A Weaver of Dreams," has been acquired by Metro Pictures Corporation for the use of Viola Dana. Work on the production has already been commenced at the firm's West Coast studio.

TODAY IN PICTURES

words, ever since the photoplay began to be an art, there have been stars. There will be stars as long as the photoplay exists.

In the terms in which I define the word, there is no starless photoplay which has met important success—since, as I reiterate, the photoplay became an art product. The public mind has made all of these stars and no manipulation by producers and picture distributors can affect the condition in the least.

A Star in Every Film

I see somebody in the back of the house rising to demand the name of the star in "Intolerance." And I reply, "David Wark Griffith." And another gentleman defiantly asks, "Who was the star in 'The Barrier' and 'The Spoilers'?"

And I reply, "Rex Beach."

Again, somebody suggests Keystone comedies, with a question, and he is as easily answered with the name of Mack Sennett.

If we would look into the "life expectancy" of stars and the star system let us take the insurance companies' method of canvassing the life history of the "risk." Three years ago Charles Chaplin was a knockabout character comedian getting a lot of fresh air and about $40 a week. A little earlier perhaps there was a curly haired girl who made a good many friends in the pictures and presently the public wanted to know and learned she was Mary Pickford. Mary Miles Minter, another pretty child of the confectionery type, was a stage child with considerably more beauty than fame.

Public Makes the Stars

When all these people started to work they were just appearing in pictures. With the exception of Miss Minter these people started when a thousand feet of anything was a picture. Their success with the public made them stars. No producer ever made a star on purpose. A producer once in a long time thinks to create a star and then cash quick before the price goes up but the experiment fails fifty times where it succeeds once, but the experiment fails fifty times where a poor way to try to make money. It is too much like prospecting for gold, the strikes are too far apart. The public only can make new stars.

Quite apart from the certainty that the public creates and will maintain the star in the star position, there are other forces working in the same direction by which the producer quite automatically is forced to support the star system. A real star costs a great deal of money. Capital is careful, or as nearly careful as it can be. Hence, the high-priced star is given every support possible to insure that the big salary investments will pay dividends. The big star gets the big story, the most skilled director and the utmost in studio facilities. So quite apart from the star himself, the fact of the star's presence at the top of the cast has come to mean to the public the best picture, the best settings, most supreme direction, and all of that. The star will not and can not be eliminated. Any attempt to eliminate the star will be followed by a loss of capital.

It has been my pleasure to pay the highest star salary in the history of the amusement business, being a matter of $670,000 for one year of the services of Mr. Charles Chaplin, an exemplar of stardom, and the only actor who does not need a cast. And out of that supreme trial of the star system I can insist that it pays. There are limitations but they are set only by the public, and the star principle stands unimpaired.

ESSANAY COMPLETES FARCE-COMEDY

Essanay has completed the fourth of the series of slapstick comedies being produced by Director Arthur Hotaling and work on the fifth is now under way. Each picture is a fifteen-minute subject and carries a farce theme along with the fun and action.

Amedee Rastrelli, the French comedian on leave of absence from the troupes, and Arthur Higson, an English contortionist-comedian, are being featured in the productions.

EDITH STORY IN "REVENGE"

Production has been begun at Metro's West Coast studio in Hollywood, Cal. on "Revenge," the next starring vehicle of Edith Storey. It is a picturization of the novel, "Hearts Steadfast," by Edward Moffatt.
"Alimony" is a picture that rather startlingly exposes the ridiculous inconsistencies of our divorce laws. One marvels that human beings could be so easily duped as the hero and heroine are in this case, but the disagreeable fact remains that the law is absurd enough to make such a situation possible. In the hands of unscrupulous women the demand for alimony can be turned into persecution and in the case cited in this picture the public will see the advisability of legislation to correct the existing evil.

The cast in support of Miss Wilson includes Josephine Whittell, George Fisher, Joseph Dowling, Wallace Worsley, Ida Lewis, Arthur Allard, Marguerite Livingston, all of whom do excellent work. The settings are especially well chosen and the story by Hayden Talbot holds the attention from start to finish. The direction is by Emmett J. Flynn.

The laboratory work on "Alimony" is commendable and must stand in the praise of this production for the mechanical work on this picture shows the hand of the expert. The printing was of a kind which is seldom seen in a feature film and makes the reviewer wish that he might more often see pictures whose laboratory work is of such high quality.

The story: Mrs. Flint, an attractive grass widow, associates herself intimately with a number of divorce brokers who live well on their percentages from unscrupulously secured divorces carrying large alimony. She is interested in a young clubman who has not remained devoted through her divorce trial. She is furious at the waning of his ardor and conceives that she practically jilted he proceeds to plot against him for revenge. She succeeds in interesting him in a charming guest of hers and soon brings about a marriage between them. Then with the assistance of an unprincipled lawyer she separates the pair and begins to frame the case against which no marital happiness could live. Many misunderstandings occur to make the couple miserable that cannot be explained and they continue to suffer until the confederates of the divorcer and the lawyer turn State's evidence and the guilty man and woman are convicted. The bride and bridegroom, greatly relieved, continue their honeymoon in peace and quiet.

Edna Goodrich in "HER SECOND HUSBAND"

Mutual drama; five parts; published December 31

"Her Second Husband" gives Edna Goodrich a role replete with opportunities of which she makes the most, and the whole proves interesting and likeable. The story is an entertaining one and should find favor with the majority of picture patrons. It is the story of the man and wife who drift apart and are finally divorced. And after being separated for some time they find how much they love each other and are remarried. William B. Davidson in the leading role affords Miss Goodrich excellent support. The direction is by Albert Capellani.

The story: Helen and John Kirby find that they do not love each other and are divorced. Helen becomes a stenographer in the office of Musgrove, but when he insults her she leaves and becomes a model at a modiste's. She becomes friendly with one of the other models, who invites her to a masque ball given by artists. Helen has for her partner her ex-husband. When Kirby finds this out he plots with one of his friends to get Helen off by herself. The plan works very well and after he has driven her out into the country, he makes known who he is and after a few minutes she is in his arms. They find they are in front of the home of a justice of the peace so they hurry inside and are married again.

William Farnum in "LES MISERABLES"

Wm. Fox drama; ten parts; published special

"Les Miserables," worthy of the name of spectacle and deserving of a high place among big cinema productions. No detail, however small, has been overlooked. There are rows upon rows of cafes and gabled-roofed houses with their little French balconies; tables on the narrow side-walks under awnings; cobbled streets worn with the passage of heavily laden carts, in fact a replica of the Paris Victor Hugo knew so well. It is said the sets cost upward of $50,000, and one can readily realize that the amount has not been exaggerated.

William Farnum gives a masterful portrayal of Jean Valjean, the powerful, hounded, misunderstood hero of Hugo's story. A capable cast surrounds him, including Hardee Kirkland, George Moss, Sonia Markova, Kittens Reichert, Jewel Carmen and Anthony Phillips.

Frank Lloyd adds to his directorial laurels for his splendid handiwork and insistence upon historical accuracy and detail. In "Les Miserables" his work stands out clear and distinct and must be classed as a piece of directorial achievement surpassed by none.

"Les Miserables" is scheduled for a long run at the Lyric Theatre, New York, where it opened December 3.

Victor Hugo's masterful story, the most melodramatic of his works, picturesque "a sort transfigured and redeemed, purified by heroism and glorified through suffering," is too well known as a classic to need repeating here. The picture has been endorsed by the National Board of Reviews in a special report.
The Blacktons in
"THE LITTLEST SCOUT"
Paula Blackton's Country Life Series, No. 7; five parts

As a whole.................Fascinating
Story........................Gripping
Cast........................Excellent
Settings.....................Elaborate
Photography..................Fine

"The Littlest Scout" is as charming as a child's story can be and fills a crying need for such material. It is refreshingly free from sophistication or preciosity on the part of the children and, therefore, he will as great an attraction for children as for adults. The picture was taken at Oyster Bay, L. I., at Commodore Blackton's home, and Colonel Roosevelt's troop of Boy Scouts take part in the picture. It is said that Colonel Roosevelt, father of the late Stuart Blackton, "The Littlest Scout," to salute. The submarine chaser used is the "Vita," Commodore Blackton's yacht.

The cast includes the Blackton children, Charles Stuart and "Vita" Blackton, as a capricious and "The Ingenue" and "The Patriotic" K. The leaves are from France. The boy and he listens to her with great interest. He is a widower and she a widow, both having died in battle in France. She tells Harold's father of the death of her husband and he resolves in enlist in order to win her. She is to return to France to continue her Red Cross work. Before she leaves the little Harold is hurt when he learns that the Wygante children. He is cared for at the Wygante home and helps to stay there always. After his recovery his father lets him wear a Scout uniform and the three children go to play near the war front, where an old wrecked church is used by spies. While playing around Harold and Sister are kidnaped by the spies and put in a corner while they tap the wires of the government. Brother runs to tell that the others are being held and his report results in the capture of the spies by the Boy Scouts.

THREE EBONY COMEDIES
Produced by the Ebony Film Corporation; one reel comedies; open market

In producing successful comedies the complete casts of which consist of negroes, the Ebony Film Corporation has accomplished something which has met with failure in the past. They have put at rest for all time the theory that members of the race could not be photographed well for the photography of these comedies is remarkably clear.

The comedies depict without affectation the happy-go-lucky characteristics of the colored race. They are of the slap-stick variety and are well worked out.

"Wrong All Around" is the story of a lovesick swain who is told by his prospective father-in-law if he would claim the hand of the fair Lucinda Snow he must show some tendency toward work. The tries to get a job in a restaurant, wire stringing with a fine gang and finally knocks out a jockey and rides in his place in a race after which he is pursued by the entire attendance at the affair, but makes his escape.

"In At The Finish" is chuck full of slap-stick. The scenes are laid out on a farm and concern the activities of a farm hand in love with the daughter of the farmer. A reboot from the girl sets the whole merry world aflame, but he cannot hit himself with a shotgun. The report, however, frightens two burglars in the act of dividing their spoils and the farm hand finds the loot and assumes ownership. He finally saves the farm by paying off the mortgage and is awarded the daughter and the farmer's gratitude.

"The Busted Romance." This one-reeler centers about a stray "coon" living by his wits, a town gambler and a person whose conscience can be made retrospective when money is shown. The transient wins the love of the gambler's sweetheart and is about to be married to her when his wife and four children appear on the scene.

Bessie Barriscale in "THOSE WHO PAY"
U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation's drama; seven parts; published State rights.

"Those Who Pay," produced by Thomas H. Ince, is a drama of special interest to motion picture theatregoers. It is an engrossing narrative of love, romance and political intrigue that should hold audiences spellbound. Under Mr. Ince's supervision the picture carries an atmosphere of realism that has seldom been equalled. The excellent direction is by Raymond B. West, and to the author, C. Gardner Sullivan, no little credit is due, for few stories have so fine a plot, containing the force and, at the same time, exquisite delicacy and tremendous moral as "Those Who Pay."

Bessie Barriscale handles a difficult role with a great deal of sympathy, understanding and delicacy. She plays with admirable restraint throughout and in the role of Dorothy...

BESSIE BARRISCALE AND HOWARD HICKMAN IN A SCENE FROM "THOSE WHO PAY." (U. S. Exhibitors Booking Corp.)

Warner has a fine opportunity to display her unusual skill. Howard Hickman put sincerity into his work which carried conviction and realism. He gave one more than that they were witnessing life itself. Melbourne McDowell played the "boss" with force and power. Dorcas Matthews, as the wife of the hero, is a most patrician type and brought to her portrait of the part many rare qualities that added greatly to the charm of the picture.

The Story: Dorothy Warner, with a little sister to support, faces a poverty-stricken Christmas. The little sister, sick, cries for a big doll. Dorothy has no money but goes to a shop to price dolls, hoping to find one. She yields to temptation and takes a doll, is seen by the shop detective and stopped. Senator Graham comes to her rescue and pays for the doll. Deeply moved by her story, he takes her home. The sister is dead when they arrive and Graham leaves money to cover all expenses. He gives Dorothy work in his office where they learn to love each other. A political "boss" runs Graham for District Attorney and sees Dorothy in the office and is very much impressed. Graham and Dorothy, while out in an auto, are overtaken by a storm. They spend the night in a cottage together where temptation overcomes them. Graham establishes Dorothy in an apartment and the "boss" who tries to win her and fails, notifies Graham's wife. She sends for the girl who confesses her love but agrees to give Graham up because of the baby his wife is expecting. Graham finds them together and denounces her. The "boss" tries to get from Dorothy compromising letters written by Graham, in order to defeat him at the polls, but Graham is sent by his wife to apologize to Dorothy. She sends him back to his wife and, as they part, gives him back his letters.

"SYLVIA OF THE SECRET SERVICE"
Astra-Pathe drama; six parts; published December 25

As a whole: Strong...
Story: Interesting...
Star: Good...
Support: Sufficient...
Settings: Luxurious...
Photography: Clear...

One of the big surprises of this picture is the well staged rough and tumble fight between the diaphanous Irene and a crook. The surprise was occasioned by the fact that Mrs. Castle came out whole. The picture deals with the theft of the Kimberley diamond, destined for the crown of the King of England.

Mrs. Castle handles the role of Sylvia Carroll, of the secret service very well, although the bungling crooks practically arrest themselves. The character of Heming "of Scotland Yard" is a most impossible one and is a libel on that famous band of crook catchers.

The story: Curtiss Prescott, a young American, is in the employ of Van Brunn, a diamond merchant of Holland. To Prescott the merchant entrusts the delivery of the Kimberley diamond to England. Once on the English Channel Prescott gives the diamond to the purser for safe keeping. Sylvia boards the ship and makes known to the purser the presence of the "Wade" gang. She surprises Wade in the act of blowing open the safe and he is put in irons. The recovered diamond proves to be a fake and other members of the gang steal the real stone from Prescott. Heming of Scotland Yard makes his appearance at this point and arrests Prescott for the murder of Van Brunn. The scene then shifts to America. Prescott locates Sylvia and informs her of his escape. She continues work on the case, although hampered at every turn by Heming, and finally locates the gang only to be informed by Heming of her dismissal from the service. He makes the raid himself, but the crooks escape. Sylvia again finds the culprits, raids a cafe, captures the thieves and recovers the diamond. She unselfishly shares the glory with Heming and departs with Prescott, leaving the Scotland Yard man a ball of yarn as a memento of the case.

Jack Pickford in
"TOM SAWYER"
Paramount comedy drama; five parts; published December 16

No doubt the majority of picture patrons are familiar with Mark Twain's Mississippi river tale, and to see one of his works screen and the leading role interpreted by Jack Pickford should be sufficient for most picture devotees.

It is a successful laugh provoker and well done. The members of the supporting cast carried out the spirit of the story very well.

The story: Tom Sawyer, who lives with his Aunt Polly and his stepfather and stepbrother, is the worry of his aunt's life. He is always getting into mischief and never conducting himself in the manner in which his aunt Polly believes he should. One day he and two other boys of the village decide to get away from their cruel life of having to go to school, washing their faces and various other civilizing customs, so they become pirates. After they have crossed the river, their raft floats away. Fishermen find the floating raft and believe the boys have been drowned. There is great mourning and Tom is discovered by one of the men at night, learns that funeral services will be held for them on Sunday morning. In the midst of the ceremony the boys return and there is general rejoicing.

"My Little Boy" is an interesting and well done production. Its biggest success will undoubtedly come during the holiday season as it is a typical Christmas story.

Ella Hall, Zoe Rae and Emory Johnson play the leading roles and are offered good support in Gretchen Lederer, Winter Hall and Harry Holden. The direction is by Rupert Julian, who can, as a rule, be relied upon to turn out a good picture. The story is by Elliott J. Clawson.

The story: Although Uncle Oliver strenuously objects to it his nephew, Fred, marries Clara. After an estrangement of six years Fred invites his Uncle Oliver to pay them a visit and see his little boy. Uncle Oliver, a modern Scrooge, comes and is very moody and mean. That night he dreams that they go hunting and an accidental shot strikes little Paul. They bring the child home and he dies. This separates Fred and Clara and they plan to obtain a divorce. However, Uncle Oliver brings them together and just as they have become reconciled uncle wakes up. He rushes downstairs to wish them all a Merry Christmas and there is general rejoicing.

Edna Goodrich and a good production should mean big box office returns for exhibitors. And there is no doubt but that spectators will enjoy "American Maid," because the story is not only interesting and appealing, but the theme is timely and should be warmly received everywhere. Miss Goodrich does some of her best work in this photoplay and she is well supported by William D. Davidson, John Hopkins and George Henry. The direction is by Albert Capellani.

The story: Without knowing who she is David Starr, a convalescing soldier, falls in love with his nurse. He is discharged from service and returns to America, where he learns that the woman he loves is the daughter of the millionaire senator, Lee. He appreciates the marked difference in social positions and goes west, determined to make some money. He stakes a claim and before he can register it, it is stolen by Sam Benson, superintendent of the mines belonging to Mr. Lee. Much of the gold is stolen from the mine as the senator and his daughter go west, determined to capture the bandit known as "Lonesome." Virginia comes upon Starr in a cabin and he tells her the story of the stolen nine and of his being branded a bandit. Virginia is successful in gathering incriminating evidence against Benson and she and Starr are married.

A production that should please all classes of audiences is "The Good For Nothing." It runs along in a light entertaining vein and holds one's interest thoroughly. The production is commendable, and the actors and actresses are excellent. Carlyle Blackwell is cast to very good advantage and is given good support by Evelyn Grecely, Muriel Ostich, William Sherwood, Kate Lester, Eugene Trowbridge and Katherine Johnston. The story is by A. A. Thomas and direction by Mr. Blackwell himself.

"Fighting Mad" is a western tale beginning with the days of '49, presenting William Stowell, Helen Gibson, Betty Schade and Hec Toomer in the leading roles. There is plenty of incident and for the most part the story moves along swiftly. However, the plot is not sufficiently well defined at times to make the story appear convincing. Especially is this true where Mrs. Lambert elopes with Jerry, being taken along a country road in a carriage and this might be taken to mean that she was being escorted to the station instead of running away. The direction is by E. J. Le Saint.

While "Alias Mrs. Jessop" might prove an interesting subject for lovers of melodrama, it will not be found appropriate for discriminating audiences. Miss Stevens plays a dual role, the character not being an appropriate one to display the charm and talents of this likeable star, and altogether the production does not come up to the Metro standard. The photography is exceptionally poor, being hazy and indistinct. Other members of the cast are William Tooker, Lillian Paige, Howard Hall and Donald Hall. The direction is by Will S. Davis.

The story: Janet and Lillian Ford, cousins, resemble each other very closely, but Janet is quite respectable and sensible, while Lillian is selfish and not quite so respectable. Lillian marries Anthony Jessop, but continues her life of gaiety and neglects her husband and boy.

Disgusted, Anthony leaves the house and Lillian is called to the bedside of his dying father. The glamour of the gay white way soon attracts her attention from her hero and when she receives a message to return to him she sends her cousin Janet. The father4 marvels at the change in his daughter and returns to her. A cable comes to Lillian, advising her of the illness of her son, but Janet is unable to locate Lillian and so goes in her stead. The boy and the servants cannot account for the change, and when Anthony returns it is happy in his wife's devotion. Lillian learns that her husband has become an earl and returns to England, advising her cousin of her return. However, the man who had accompanied her to America returns to her and when she will not leave with him, he kills her. Anthony is told of Lillian's tragic end and he finds that he loves Janet and asks her to become his wife.

There is every reason to believe that motion picture audiences will enjoy "A Branded Soul." It is a well constructed dramatic feature that should appeal to followers of the silent drama. It tells a melodramatic story of Mexican oil fields that should fit in to any program very well.

Gladys Brockwell does some very good work in an emotional role and is well supported by Lewis J. Cody, Colm Chase, Vivian Rich, Maria Payton, Willard Louis, Fred Whitman and Barney Furey. The scenario was written by Franklyn Hall and the direction is by Bertram Bracken.

The story: John Rannie, wealthy owner of rich oil wells, has no regard for the poor Mexicans who live happily in the neighborhood of these wells. His cruel treatment incites their enmity and Conchita Cordova goes to Rannie to plead with him. Rannie endeavors to force his attentions on her, but ConchitaRejects. Rannie learns that Juan, Conchita's betrothed, is a spy and while he imparts his knowledge to Conchita, the Mexicans set fire to his wells. They then take Rannie and tie him to stakes near the burning wells. Conchita hurries to the Mexican border line and brings U. S. troops to Rannie's assistance. Conchita later realizes that she loves Rannie. The picture pleased at the Alcazar theater, Chicago, where it was shown last week.
Claire McDowell in
"THE SHIP OF DOOM"
Triangle drama; five parts; published December 2

"The Ship of Doom" is a tale of murder, mutiny and maudlin deeds and is altogether too dismal, gloomy and uninteresting to be enjoyed by motion picture patrons. It is doubtful whether exhibitors will have a great deal of success with this offering. The production does not come up to the high standard of Triangle's recent publications and is not a picture that will appeal to intelligent audiences. Claire Mc-Dowell, Monte Blue, Arthur Millet, Aaron Edwards and Frank Brownlee are in the cast. The direction is by Wyndham Git-tens.

The story: Martin Shaw murders Jeff Whittlesley when the latter boasts of having kissed Clara Gove, Martin's fiancée.
Martin and Clara leave the little fishing village, pursued by the fishermen. A storm comes and they flee to a vessel where the crew mutiny and set fire to the boat. Shattuck takes Clara in a lifeboat and leaves Martin on the burning vessel. Martin, however, finally swims to the boat. A few days later Shattuck forces him to get into the water again and after boating around aimlessly he reaches land. Clara and Shattuck come to the same island, Shattuck falls into a bed of quicksand and dies and Clara and Martin are reunited.

"QUO VADIS"
Kleine-Perfection spectacle; eight parts; published special

George Kleine has revamped, retitled and added to his immense screen version of Henry Sienkiewicz's "Quo Vadis," and is about to reissue it to the trade as a special feature.

It was shown to the press in its revised form last week and is a true classic of the cinema art. How well it has withstood the test of time—the severest of all tests for a picture—can only be verified by a comparison with much of the wishy-washy stuff for features nowadays. A large cast appears in support of the principals.

The story of the days of Nero's reign and the first struggle of the Christians in Rome is clearly depicted. The torture of the Christian martyrs, the church, the death of Enuncius and Petronius by the cutting of an artery; the driving of Nero to suicide when he finds that his followers have turned against him, are vividly pictured as well as the reunion of Vittius and Lygia.

Constance Talmadge in
"THE HONEYMOON"
Select Pictures Corp. drama; five parts; published Dec. 10

In "The Honeymoon" Constance Talmadge has another opportunity to attract audiences far and wide and she takes capable advantage of it. The story runs in a comedy vein and deals with jealousy and misunderstandings. Few women can look charming while unguenrnable jealousy is consuming them but Constance Talmadge looks charming and soothing that her jealous mood becomes an added attraction. The picture is presented by Lewis J. Selznick and contains many views of Niagara Falls. The settings are particularly good. The splendid direction by Charles Giblyn helps to sustain the picture's charm and the filming has been carefully done.

In support of Miss Talmadge appear Earle Fox, Maude
Turner Gordon, Russell Bassett, Harris Gordon, Lillian Cook, Julia Bruns and Sam Cook.

The story: A few minutes after her wedding ceremony, Susan Greer has an attack of jealousy, brought about by seeing her husband talking earnestly to one of the bridesmaids. The members of her family fear that her happiness will be wrecked and her mother remonstrates with her while she dresses for her wedding journey. Susan's brother is in love with the bridesmaid in question but cannot marry her unless he can free himself from an undesirable engagement with a musical comedy actress. He makes a clean breast of his difficulty to his new brother-in-law and persuades him to see the actress and try to buy her off. The show is to play Niagara Falls, where the young couple are going on their honeymoon. As Susan is coming downstairs she sees Marion pleading with Richard (the groom) and her feelings are again stirred. They start off in a huff and their happiness at Niagara is short lived for Richard keeps his word to Hendon and hunts up the vampire. A man at the hotel also works at the theatre and hooks up the gowns of both the actress and the bride.
She tells the bride of her husband's visits to the theatre and Susan sees Dick in the star's room. She writes her lawyer for a divorce and is told to send on her depositions. While she is doing this Phil and Marion explain matters to the family and they all start to Niagara to straighten things out for the young couple. The junior partner of Susan's uncle's firm goes ahead with divorce proceedings, however, secures a divorce and wires the news to Susan just as she and Dick have had everything explained and are reconciled. They are in despair over being divorced, but find a minister in the hotel are married again and start their honeymoon all over.

Clara Kimball Young in
"SHIRLEY KAYE"
Select Pictures Corporation's drama; five parts; published December 10

"Shirley Kaye," as portrayed by Clara Kimball Young, is a most interesting subject. Her charm and loveliness were never seen to better advantage than as the heroine of this excellent story by Hubert Footner. The direction is clear and the filming has been carefully done.

The picture loses none of its appeal that made the play such a success, and Clara Kimball Young's acting bears admirable comparison with the star of the Broadway production. The supporting cast is simply good and includes such players as Cordiss Giles, George Fawcett, George Backus, Claire Whitney, Nellie Lindreth, John Sunderland and Mrs. Winthop.

The story: Shirley Kaye, the leader of the younger set, hears that her father is to be ousted from his position as president of the Union Central Railroad. She determines to fight the issue and to that end invites the daughter of his greatest enemy to a dinner. Daisy Magen has long desired to be friends with the Kayes and the invitation does much to conciliate her father. Magen has sent for John Rowson to replace Kaye. Rowson is a woman hater and Magen counts on his cold manner to protect him from the charms of Miss Kaye. They meet, however, and become interested in each other. Shirley learns from him the way to defeat the maginate is to secure proxies of a later date from the stockholders than the ones. His last holds him at his own will. Mrs. Rowson denounces the girl for having "made a fool of him" and returns to the West. Shirley has learned to love him and follows and persuades him to return and become the general manager, Richard, the company, which he does on condition that she become his manager.

Judging from "A Daughter of Destiny," Mme. Petrova's forming her company was indeed a bold move and there is little doubt that the great majority of picture patrons will enjoy this latest story as well as the work of the beautiful star. Mme. Petrova is cast in a role quite appropriate to her stately dignity and her work is to charm and fill out a new zest. In this production patrons ought to like Mme. Petrova better than ever.

The story is an impressive one, it is melodramatic in the extreme, but its flavor is well seasoned and enjoyable of the present war and it seems to strike just the right key for making it popular with spectators. Mme. Petrova is given good support in Thomas Holding, Andra Randolph, Henri Leonidas, Robert Gardner, Carl Dietz and Warren Cook. The direction is by George Irving.

The story: Marion Ashley is married to Franz Jorn, a German spy and when Marion learns the nature of her husband's business, she leaves him and goes with her father to Belmark. A struggle with a guard kills him and then sets fire to the body. Jorn's ring, which he had placed on the dead man's finger, is found and Marion believes herself abandoned. Ashley is American minister to Belmark and he and his daughter are presented to the king and his son. Prince L. cepold forms an attachment for Marion and asks her to become his wife, which she does. In disguise Jorn goes to Belmark to stir the people up and ally them with Germany. He is also now working on a plan. As America has declared war on Germany and allied herself to Belmark. Some of Jorn's henchmen throw a bomb which kills Jorn and wounds Marion. With Belmark an ally of America and Jorn out to kindle war, Marion and Lepold are free to pursue their happiness. The picture pleased at the Alcazar Theater, Chicago.

The average audience will undoubtedly find themselves deeply interested in the denouement of "Fanatics." It comes under the classification of well done drama and while the theme is old, is pleasing in its new surroundings and for patrons who have come to believe in second entretainment it should afford an enjoyable evening. Oga Grey whose pleasing personality has frequently found its way to the screen, plays the role of a vampire and does it well. Ada Gleason is the abused wife; J. Barney Smith is the hero. Donald Fullen is the weakling; Eugene Burr is the villain and Wm. V. Mong is the fanatic. Direction by Reynold R. Wells.

The story: Robert Lathrop finds it a difficult matter to secure sufficient funds to keep himself in the good graces of Lola Monroe and when his benefactor, Nicholas Eyer, refuses to give him further assistance, he sends his wife to plead with the wealthy steel magnate. Against his better judgment Eyer gives Lathrop one more chance which he takes to Lola, but finding her in the arms of another man, he becomes enraged and the two men fight. Lathrop is killed and Lola and Lilly take him to the park, and make it appear that he has committed suicide. Mary, knowing nothing of her husband's infatuation for Lola, firmly believes that Lathrop killed himself because Eyer refused him assistance and she joins a band of anarchists who plan to destroy the Eyer mills. Professor Groesbeck, a fanatic, leads the men against Eyer, but his appearance and promise to give them whatever they want, turns the men against Groesbeck, who comes to his end by falling into a cauldron of molten iron. Lola learns the kindness of Eyer and the true character of her husband and when Eyer tells her of his love for her, she is a willing hearer. The picture was shown at Pastime Theater, Chicago, this week.

"The Unbeliever" and Flag Series

Feature Coming Edison Productions

"The Unbeliever," a forthcoming Edison Perfection feature, is based upon the widely read novelette, "The Three Things," by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews. It is said to be one of the best stories the war has produced, and although the picture is exciting and filled with realistic atmosphere made possible by the co-operation of U. S. marine officers and men, the war atmosphere is subordinate to a tale of human interest and romance.

The principal roles are enacted by Raymond McKee as Phil Llanddull and Marguerite Court from Virginia Harbrok, a tall girl. Allan Grosland is the director.

The Edison Studios will also shortly publish at intervals of two weeks a series of twelve one-reel "social satires," written by and produced under the direction of James Montgomery, one of the popular artists and humorists. The series will be called "Girls You Know," introducing types of attractive American girls in life character sketches.

Some of the sketches will be known as "The Screen Fan," "The Superstitious Girl," "The Man Eater," "The Bride," and "The Art Bug." All will feature a different type of young womanhood in an amusing situation, punctuated by subtitles in Mr. Flag's irimitable style. Original drawings by Mr. Flagg of the various girls in the series will be featured in the pictures and posters.

Accident Delays "The Marionettes"

"Ghosts of Yesterday" Completed

Work in the Clara Kimball Young studio in New Rochelle was temporarily suspended last week when Florence Atkinson, a member of Miss Young's staff of players, was seriously burned about the face and shoulders by the explosion of an alcohol stove in her dressing room.

Miss Atkinson plays an important role in "The Marionettes," the French drama which is scheduled to follow Miss Young's current publication, "Shirley Kaye," and it was while making up for the part that the accident occurred.

This will be the third of the Select Pictures Star Series produced by Clara Kimball Young and her own company, and when finished will be issued through the Select Exchanges.

Constant Talmadge Haunted Work

In order to hasten the date of her departure for California, Constance Talmadge, Select star, has been working steadily through zero temperature in summer apparel. Her next project, "The Stolen Girl," calls for settings along the bleak Gloucester coast and Director Charles Gihurn has rushed production ahead without waiting for warmer days.

Another Talmadge's new picture "Ghosts of Yesterday," an adaptation for the screen of Mildred Cudson's, of Rupert Hughes' drama "Two Women," has been completed and the star has retired to Atlantic City for a quiet stay.

Alice Brady's last production, "Woman and Wife," the screen adaptation of Charlotte Bronte's novel "Jane Eyre" has been finished and cutting of the film is underway. Included in the cast are Elliott Dexter, Helen Lindroth, Victor Benoit and Helen Green.

Margarita Fischer Completes Play

"Molly Go Get 'Em" for American

Margarita Fischer, the American Film Company star, has finished her second feature production entitled "Molly Go Get 'Em" for the direction of Dorothy Chalmers. The story is by Beatrice Van, adapted to the screen by Elizabeth Mahoney and is the second of a new series of comedy dramas written expressly for the American star. Miss Van also wrote Miss Fischer's first story produced under the working title of "A Daughter of Joan."

Eight Companies Enroll Under New Division—Grant Anson Candidate for City Job

The members of the Executive Committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, recently appointed by President William A. Brady, met Dec. 3, and transacted considerable routine business. The meeting was presided over by Chairman Walter W. Irwin. The following members attended: President William A. Brady; World Film; J. E. Brulatour, Eastman Films; P. A. Powers, Universal; Arthur S. Friend, Paramount-Arctraft-Famous Players; William A. Johnston, General Division; Louis F. Blumenthal and Louis L. Levine.

The following officials representing producing and distributing companies of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of America, members of the Association were also in attendance by invitation: W. R. Sheehan, Fox Film Corp.; R. H. Cochrane, United Artists Film Mfg. Co.; W. E. Atkinson, Metro Pictures Corporation; Felix Feist, World Film Corporation, and William Wright, Kalem Company.

Reports of several committees were read, indicating widespread activities on behalf of the various divisions of the organization which they represent, showing good results achieved.

Executive Secretary Frederick H. Elliott reported the formation of a new branch, comprising members eligible as Class C producers, and the following companies assisting in the organization of this branch, of which Joseph A. Golden, of Crystal, is chairman, with L. Abrams, of Craftsman, as secretary: Biograph Co., Craftsman Film Laboratories, Crystal Film Co., Eclipse Film Laboratories, Inc., Etnograph Co., Kalem Company, Evans Film Mfg. Co., and Paragon Film Corp.

The following companies and individuals were elected to membership: Ogden Pictures Corporation, Eclipse Film Laboratories, Inc., Arthur H. Jacobs Photoplay Company, Craftsman Film Laboratories, Biograph Co., Paragon Films, Inc., Greater N. Y. Slide Co., Carl Anderson, Studio Director, H. C. Segal, State Rights and Buyer, and Albert H. Cornier in the General Division.

The committee went on record advocating the appointment of Grant W. Anson as Commissioner of Licenses through a letter which is to be addressed to Mayor-elect Hylan by President Brady, endorsing Mr. Anson's candidacy for this important post in the new administration.

The quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors will be held in the Times building, New York on Friday, December 14, at eleven o'clock.

War Conditions Give Opportunity
To Increase Film Show Patronage

Herbert Brenon Voices Belief That Present Is Time to Win Public from Speaking Stage and Convert It to Pictures

Out of these troublesome times when rumor has it that many exhibitors will be forced out of business because of war-time conditions, comes the opinion of Herbert Brenon, head of the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation, as to the opportunity of the motion picture theatre owner.

He voices the belief that if there is one industry which is not going to suffer from the war, it is the motion picture industry. Moreover, Mr. Brenon believes that the production is an important contribution to the exhibitors' fight to win over the patrons of the speaking stage who, in an attempt to "Hooverize" their incomes, are now cutting down their high-priced amusement.

"Never before has the motion picture producer been in as direct competition with the legitimate theatre manager as he is today," said the producer. "The legitimate attractions in New York are, today, playing to partially filled houses because amusement seekers cannot afford to pay five and six dollars for tickets, plus the war tax. The money-grabbing owners of the legitimate stage attractions are losing their audiences. Their patrons are turning to motion pictures, for, in the screen theatres, they can see the best productions for the price of the legitimate theatre's war tax. Here is the exhibitor's great opportunity.

By appealing intelligently to these new patrons he can make them permanent followers of the screen.

"It is my firm belief that if there is one industry in the world that is not going to suffer as a result of the war, it is the motion picture industry. Entertainment the world must have, and it has had in all its great national crises, but it must be entertainment at a moderate price."

Harry Rapf to Show "Struggle Everlasting" Privately on Dec. 16

Harry Rapf announces a private showing of the morality photoplay, "The Struggle Everlasting," by Edwin Milton Royle, starring Florence Reed, will be given to an invited audience on Sunday, Dec. 16, at 3:30 p.m. at the Shubert Forty-fourth Street Theatre, New York. The picture is to be shown to members of the film and theatrical world, the press, city officials and heads of social organization.

James Kirkwood directed the screen version of this feature, which is an adaptation of the play produced several years ago by the late Henry B. Harris.
Fox Film Corporation Completes History-Making Year in Industry

More Than One Hundred Productions Averaging Six Reels Each Put on Market—8,000 Miles of Film Consumed

One hundred and five productions averaging six reels each is William Fox's contribution to the screen for 1917. Twenty photoplays in this total were specially elaborated.

The output from the Fox studios is said to be the largest for a year of any concern having no subsidiary producing organizations. It represents an annual consumption in excess of 8,000 miles of film.

About three-fifths of the pictures were taken in California. The rest were made at the Fox plant in New Jersey. All of the twenty-six Fox film comedies and the six Fox-Lehrman Sunshine comedies were done in the West. Such pretentious productions as "The Conqueror," "The Honor System," "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," "Treasure Island," "Cleopatra," and many others, were likewise screened on the Pacific Coast.

Publications by Months

The largest number of publications was twelve in April, December following with eleven, January with ten and the other months following with from six to nine each. Of the total productions, thirty-nine were made in Fox Eastern studios and sixty-six in California, Hollywood having decided tactical advantage because of being the home of the comedies and most of the Standard Pictures.

In production, in volume of business done, in number of persons employed, in footage of film purchased, in companies of actors maintained, in domestic and foreign exchanges established, in directorial strength, in studios operated, in development of new stars, in office space required, in capital utilized, in perfection of the policy of co-operation with exhibitors—in all these respects, and in others, the year 1917, according to Mr. Fox, has been the biggest and best in the history of his organization.

President's Comments

"Only 145 days ago," said Mr. Fox, in summing up the year's activities. "Standard Pictures, so far as the exhibitor was concerned, were a dream. True, we had spent many months in preparation for them, as our ability to release them at the average rate of one every eleven days has demonstrated, but the exhibitor knew nothing of this. Today, the series is as firmly established—as is as much of a staple in the market—as if its history dated back to the beginning of the industry. We put $5,000,000 in these pictures without saying a word about them to anyone. First we perfected them and then we showed the exhibitors what we had. From the outset we have insisted that the productions must be seen before they could be booked. And they have gone over the top the way Haig's men went over the other day in the dash toward Cambrai. It has been a smashing achievement."

"But if the success of Standard Pictures as a whole has been remarkable, what must I say of the greater venture, the excursining and pioneering into wholly new fields with productions featuring Jane and Katherine Lee, Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin and George Stone and Gertrude Mesinger? 'Jack and the Beanstalk' was the forerunner of a type of play new to the dramatic world-productions which have visualized, as only pictures could, the stories that for ages have been welding stronger and stronger the home ties of young and old alike. Here was adventure indeed. Business adventure into the virgin wilds of dramatics. And we, and hundreds of exhibitors with us, have found the buried gold on 'Treasure Island.'"

Titan Pictures Corp.

Signs Marjorie Steed to Star in Comedies

The Titan Pictures Corporation announces the engagement of Marjorie Steed for leading roles in "Titan Comedies." Miss Steed has had extensive experience, having appeared in principal roles with Lubin and other big producers. She played opposite Peggy O'Neil in a recent production.

It was at the Rothacker studio that her work attracted the attention of Frederick Russell Clark, president of the Titan Pictures Corporation. After meeting Miss Steed, he announced with special enthusiasm the engagement of this leading American actress. She will be签订 Impeccable Expressions for her starring role in one of the new "Titan Comedies." Miss Steed will be written for by the studio staffs, and it is expected that her screen career will be launched in a powerful way.

World Film Corporation Faces New Year Financially Fortified

William A. Brady Reports Closing Year Surpasses Any in Point of Financial Gain—Attributes Success to Policy

William A. Brady, director-general of World Pictures-Brady Made, reports a most profitable season for the year 1917.

In an interview radiating optimism he gives some sound business principles to which he attributes the present prosperity of the World Film Corporation.

"The World Film Corporation," said Mr. Brady, "approaches the end of the year in a most enviable state of prosperity. At a time when the doctors are vehemently disagreeing as to what ails the motion picture industry and how the malady shall be banished, we find ourselves at a higher point of earnings and in possession of a greater quantity of perfectly sound, tangible, negotiable assets than at any moment in our career.

"This is not said in any spirit of boastfulness, nor is it in the nature of crowing over those who are unable at this time to render a similar report. Conditions such as those which occasion the general complaints flaunted before the public recently are indeed regrettable, whatever their cause, and are to be viewed with the deepest concern.

The Brady Policy

"Thus, without uttering any反射 upon the prevailing situation and the matters which have brought it about, we may revert at this time to the policies and principles which have resulted in the existing happy condition of World Pictures —policies and principles which I have described on various occasions only to call out vigorous criticism.

"In the first place we have observed sanity in our productions. We never have yielded to the temptation to compete for the services of stars already immensely overpaid. On the other hand, when our own stars, acquiring great popularity under World development, have been approached with offers from other companies, we have not made the slightest effort to meet those offers.

"From this it is not to be charged that our corporation is niggardly in its expenditures for salary accounts or in any other direction. We insist only upon keeping our outlay within limitations which permit us to sell a completed picture to the exhibitor at a price he can afford to pay.

Has Satisfied Exhibitors

"This has been accomplished to the complete satisfaction of the public and the exhibitors. We have produced pictures, while adhering strictly to these lines, which have not been charged with falling short in any particular. On the other hand, our photoplays, mostly in five reels, have been frequently and favorably compared with the special price pictures produced upon a scale of prodigality amounting simply to waste.

"Dependability was what we sought for World-Pictures—dependability in the pictures themselves and dependability in the dealings by which they reached the public through the exhibitors.

"Upon several occasions, an instance of which was supplied by 'Rasputin, the Black Monk,' we assumed a very much increased outlay upon a production of greater length than usual and sold it to our customers without adding to the regular price. This also was a part of our policy—to give the public and the exhibitors, where possible, more than had been contemplated in the original bargain.

"We believe the present highly desirable position of World-Pictures is an eloquent object lesson demonstrating the value of sanity in production and good faith in delivery."

Jackie Saunders
Guest of Honor at Chicago Luncheon

Miss Jackie Saunders was guest of honor at an informal luncheon given by E. D. Horkheimer to members of the Chicago press on Tuesday, December 4, at the hotel La Salle.

Wallace MacDonald, her director, and Miss Saunders' brothers accompanied the popular screen star. The party left on December 5, for Cleveland.

Miss Saunders is contemplating severing her connection with the Balboa Amusement Producing Company and is going to New York to complete negotiations with another film company.

"THE EAGLE'S EYE" STARRING KING BAGGOT AND MARGUERITE SNOW NOW BEING FILMED

Serial Written by Wm. J. Flynn of the Secret Service to Be Produced by the Whartons and Distributed by Hoffman—Foursquare

During the past ten days the Whartons have been busily engaged in filming the opening episodes of their new serial, "The Eagle's Eye," written by William J. Flynn, chief of the United States Secret Service, starring King Baggot and Marguerite Snow, which will be distributed through M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Four-square Exchanges.

Scenes about New York city, in which the representatives of the Imperial German government figure socially, have been taken, including the reproduction of the famous U. S. Naval Battle, which was held at the Hotel Ansonia in June, just prior to President Wilson's review of the Atlantic fleet. This big affair was staged in the ball room of the Ansonia between 12:30 and 4 a.m., and was declared by several of the guests who had attended the original festivities to be an exact duplicate of the scene amid which the Kaiser's agents added the finishing touches to one of their most ambitious and daring conspiracies.

The cast of "The Eagle's Eye" is now practically complete, and in addition to King Baggot and Miss Snow, who will appear as the hero and heroine, Harrison Powell, Wavel Milne, William N. Bailey, Paul Everton and Bert Marbury have been signed to fill important roles. George A. Lessey, well known as a stage and motion picture director, is handling the preliminary work under the personal supervision of Theodore W. Wharton.

Through the influence of Chief Flynn, access has been secured to locations that are now absolutely closed to other picture concerns, while excellent discretion is being used in the filming of scenes showing shipping and other activities of vital import in the conduct of the war.

Exhibitors who book "The Eagle's Eye" can be assured of several thousand feet of five containing news interest that will not be duplicated by any other production on the market, it is said.

Courtney Ryley Cooper, one of the most successful of contemporary short story writers, is making the screen version of Chief Flynn's expose of the Imperial German government's propaganda and espionage in the United States.

"RAFFLES," GREATEST OF STAGE CROOK PLAYS MAKES IDEAL FILM DECLARES PRODUCER WEBER

"No type of stage or fiction hero has proven more popular than the adventurous, polished figure about whom radiates the suggestion of law-breaking requiring daring and composure," said L. Lawrence Weber, president of the newly formed L. Lawrence Weber Photodramas, to a Herald representative, speaking of his recently completed "Raffles" film play featuring John Barrymore.

"Two of the biggest moneymaking plays of the past generation, plays that netted greater box office receipts than any plays of their time were 'Captain Swift' and 'Jim, the Penman.' Two of the greatest stage successes of this generation, evidenced by box office receipts and the number of playgoers during their period, were 'Alias Jimmy Valentine' and 'Raffles,' the latter, the E. W. Hornung social highwayman whom Eugene Presbrey transplanted to the stage and that Kyrie Bellew so fascinatingly depicted.

"It is the fact that this type of hero is irresistible to the average reader and playhouse patron and that 'Raffles' was the one big stage success of the type that hadn't been screened that induced me to make it the initial production of the new screen corporation that my name standards."

"I selected John Barrymore for the title role because of his intense quality and his personal reflection of the intensity that the part requires. I was further moved in making young Barrymore the hero because of the fact that his father in a similar role, 'Captain Swift,' was the rage of a former generation."

FOX ENDS BIG YEAR

Some Important Productions

One of the most important of Mr. Fox's achievements during the year was the inauguration of the series of photodramatic spectacles, such as "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Aladdin," with Francis X. Bushman and Virginia Le Corbin. These plays were of a type new to the cinema world and their advent was well received.

Several stars were on the William Fox lists in the last twelve months. Of those still with the organization, George Walsh and Virginia Pearson appeared in the minor role of "Millions," a Fox Special Feature, introduced George Walsh in "stunt" capacities and "Two Little Imps" was the beginning of the fame of Jane Wyman and June Lee.

PICTURES TO COME

Thea Bara, under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards, was seen in seven productions during the year, and also one picture, "Cleopatra," which has not been published but which has had a long run at the Lyric Theatre in New York. This is generally conceded by critics to be the most spectacular feature in which Miss Bara has been seen, as well as the masterpiece of Director Edwards' career.

William Farnum in "Les Miserables," directed by Frank Lloyd, is another completed production which has not been published, but which is to be shown at the Lyric. The addition of this picture and "Cleopatra" to the Fox productions which have had public shows this year would bring the total to 108 and make the average output one picture every eighty-one hours.

DIRECTORS TO HOLD BALL ON JANUARY 26

At a meeting of the Motion Picture Directors' Association it was decided to hold their ball at the Biltmore Hotel on January 26. It is to be strictly an invitation affair.

Wally Van has been chosen chairman of the entertainment committee and Maurice Tourneur is in charge of the decoration committee for the next directors' meeting, December 18, S. L. Rothapfel is to read an article on "The Exhibiting of Pictures."

ARROW FILM TO SELL "EYES OF THE WORLD"

W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, has completed a deal with W. H. Clune of the Clune Productions, Los Angeles, for the marketing of "The Eyes of the World" and "Paradise," in all eastern territory.

Robt. W. Priest, who is associated with Mr. Shallenberger in the state rights business, is laying out the sales and advertising campaign.
William Russell, Billie Rhodes, Helen Holmes and George Ovey, Stars on Mutual's December 17 Schedule

William Russell is the "headliner" of the Mutual schedule for the week of December 17, in "New York Luck," a story of "razzled finance," intrigue and adventure in the great metropolis. "The Lost Express," with Helen Holmes, arrives at the threshold of the mystery. Billie Rhodes comes home from losing her happy home in "Little Miss Fixer," a Cab comedy with George Ovey, and the Mutual Weekly balance the schedule. Never has William Russell appeared in a more engaging character, as a detective. Helen Holmes is also doing notable work in her latest Mutual-American production, "New York Luck," published Monday, December 17. At the beginning of the story he is a country station agent. Instinctively he carries the spectator with him on a series of adventures which concludes with his arrival on Broadway. There is a plot to steal British documents which "The Rube From Hokokus" robs but he is compelled to vanish his foes in a remarkable manner and under unusual conditions, in an elevator shaft of a Fifth Avenue residence.

A domestic tangle, arising from a family wrangle, gives Billie Rhodes another comedy role in the Strand one-reeler, called, "Something To Do." December 17. The story, briefly, is as follows: Hubby departs in wrath after a quarrel, leaving Billie alone. Billie's rich auntie arrives ready to donate to the happy couple, providing she finds them happy. Billie Rhodes has some unexpected visitors and to entertain the unknown relative, obtains an escort. Hubby, with a strange girl, sees wifey with another man. There is a scrap. In the end Billie finds her "fixing" succeeds and auntie contributes liberally.

The strongest dramatic climax yet reached is shown in "Unmasked," Chapter XIV of "The Lost Express," the Signal-Mutual photoplay, starring Helen Holmes, published December 17. Despite the discovery that "The Hare" is proven to be an impersonation, the villain succeeds in marrying Helen while the real secretary is held a prisoner.

George Ovey, "double crosses" old man Grouch in his latest Cab comedy, "Jerry's Double Cross," published on Mutual Thursday, December 17. The Mutual Weekly for Monday, December 17, shows interesting events on land and sea with a liberal number of stirring happenings in the war zone.

"HERALD" THANKED FOR AID

To the Exhibitors Herald:

As a representative of the Military Training Camps Association of the United States, I wish to express my appreciation of the kind support and assistance which the motion picture theatres owners throughout the country have given to the film, "Who Leads the National Army?" gotten by this organization. The Military Training Camps Association is a civilian body whose work of supporting and assisting the War Department in the organizing of various military training camps. It was originally financed through the donations of liberal-minded citizens and has since taken into membership hundreds of men in all sections of the country. It has adopted "Who Leads the National Army?" as a means of support.

The one-reel feature, "Who Leads the National Army?" was produced by the Military Training Camps Association, by permission of the War Department and is meant to impress confidence of all the fitness for leadership of our graduates from the three months' intensive training course at the various officers' training camps. It is being distributed entirely gratis by the Triangle Distributing Agency.

I wish to express my appreciation of the interest which such organizations of motion picture owners as the Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association and the Motion Picture Exhibitors League have taken in the film and the kind support which they have given in arranging for its universal booking.

I should like to call upon any localities where this picture has not been shown to secure a booking at once, as it is fundamentally necessary that all should receive the lesson which the film shows, and at the present time the burning question which it answers is of more interest than ever before.

Yours very truly,

WHARTON CLAY.

Bluebird and Butterfly Programs for January Announced by Universal

Universal has completed the Butterfly and Bluebird programs through the month of January. The scheduled publications for these Butterfly programs of January were:

The Bluebird productions start off with Violet Mersereau in "The Girl by the Roadside," December 31; "My Unmarried Wife," with Carmen Myers, January 7; "Face Value," January 14, and "Broadway Love," with Dorothy Phillips on January 21. The production for January 28 has not as yet been decided, but it is declared that either Franklyn Farnum or Ruth Clifford will be starred.

After two years of service with the American Film Company, Ashton Dearhart has joined the Bluebird forces and is now playing leading role opposite Carmen Myers in "The Green Seal."

William Russell Soon to Begin "Polo Jack" Final Film of Series

The screen adaptation of "Polo Jack" is the work of James E. Hungerford, the well-known author engaged by the American Film Company. Frances Billington will have the leading feminine role opposite Mr. Russell.

Fox Feature "Unknown 274" Dec. 16.

An unusually large cast, containing the names of numerous favorites of motion picture patrons, is announced by William Fox for the Fox Special Feature, to be published December 16. The title of the production is "Unknown 274," the star dates Caprino, Lott, and the supporting cast, consisting of ten actors and actresses, includes Kittens Reichert, Florence Ashbrook, Tom Burrough, Inez Marcel, Dan Mason, Richard Neill, Jean Armour, William Burns and Alexander Shannon. Another important member of the company is "Lady," the dog.

Picture Operator First Arrested in City Crusade

Indianapolis—The first arrest as the result of the determination of the city authorities to round up various persons plying their trades without a license, was made here when Robert J. Gavin, 22 years old, a motion picture operator, was taken to police headquarters charged with operating a motion picture machine without a license.

Gavin was brought to headquarters by an attorney representing the motion picture operators' union, and was released on his own recognizance.

A few days ago an announcement was made that all operators who failed to obtain a license, which was provided for by a city ordinance which went into effect July 3, were to be arrested. It is understood that this arrangement has been abandoned and that the case of Gavin will be a test case and the others will abide by the decision.

Texas Exhibitors Send Delegation on Tax to Washington

Dallas, Texas—Due to the fact that it will send representatives to Washington to appear before Congress to seek a modification of the present tax as applied to the motion picture industry, the Texas Amusement Managers' association held its meeting December 3 instead of December 1st, as originally intended. According to Robert H. Campbell, secretary of the state association, considerable confusion exists among producers, exchanges and exhibitors regarding the tax matter.

"Many inequalities exist in the matter of taxation," he said in explaining the object of the delegation, "and it is for the purpose of working out a system that will, in effect, obtain the needed revenue for the government and at the same time make the levy in such a manner as to equalize the burden that this national conference has been called."

White River Theatre Destroyed by Fire

White River Junction, Vt.—Fire, which might have resulted in loss of life had it not been for the coolness shown by the audience, almost destroyed the Crown theatre here recently. The blaze originated on the second floor of the building.

About 150 persons were in the theatre when the fire was discovered. They made their way to the roof in an orderly manner. Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the one building. The theatre was owned and operated by Harold Keegan of Windsor.

St. Paul District Puts Ban on Picture Shows

St. Paul—The city council here, because of protests, has recalled two permits for the erection of motion picture theatres in the Grand avenue district. Those opposed to the grants were largely church members.

The district into which the motion picture men sought entrance embraces a number of churches. There are now being circulated throughout the various congregations petitions which seek to have the granting of such permits barred for all time.

Michigan Exhibitor Named as Violator of Child Labor Law

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Harvey Arlington, manager of the Orpheum theatre, is facing trial for a violation of the child labor law, as the result of a crusade against the employment of girls as ushers in motion picture theatres by the Y. W. C. A. here.

Following his arrest, Mr. Arlington was released on his own recognizance when he pleaded not guilty to the charge and stated that the girl, on whose age the charge is pressed, told him she was more than sixteen years of age. The next hearing in the case will be had December 11.

St. Joseph, Mo.—Beautiful in its appointments, chief among which is the Japanese room on the balcony, the new Colonial Theatre was opened here recently. The Japanese room is especially worthy of mention and it is the decision of Manager Hal Kelly that no rest room for women in the Middle West approaches it in magnificence. The furniture is white wicker, while the walls are decorated with Japanese designs in pink and old gold.

In the theatre proper the furnishings are of the very best, the lighting effect achieved by the blending of red and green colorings in the globes.

Associated with Mr. Kelly in conducting the theatre is his wife, as well as an assistant manager, James L. Young. An orchestra of seven pieces will provide the music at the theatre under the leadership of H. D. Furse, formerly of Lincoln, Neb.

James A. Eslow Dead

Grand Rapids, Mich.—James A. Eslow, 52 years old, owner of the Universal Film Manufacturing company, died here November 29. Death came after a short illness following a stroke of apoplexy. The remains were interred in Albion, where the deceased was born.

"Stink" Bombists Infest Theatres of Altoona, Pa.

Altoona, Pa.—Owners of motion picture theatres in this city are much aroused over an epidemic of "stink" bomb throwing which has broken out in moving picture houses here. As there are no labor troubles it is believed that the perpetrators of the outrages are small boys.

One exhibitor has offered a liberal reward for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the miscreants. A heavy fine is provided for such an offense by the city ordinance.

Close watch of drug stores is being made by the police in an effort to run down the "gang" when they seek to replenish their "perfume" supply.

Opens Theatre Sunday Arrested on Warrant

Wapello, la.—Manager Herrick of the Gem theatre here, was arrested recently when he attempted to operate his motion picture theatre on Sunday. The warrant was sworn out by John A. Dickson, a prominent churchman.

Mr. Herrick had been urged for some time by his patrons to conduct a Sunday show. He willingly submitted when the warrant for his arrest was served and on promise not to repeat the offense charges were dropped.

Southern Town Loses Only Picture Theatre

McRae, Ga.—McRae's only motion picture theatre will soon be converted into a storehouse for automobiles. The building has been purchased by the Willys-Overland Automobile company.

The picture show business here was begun two years ago by C. W. Lancaster, who sold the business to Mrs. E. L. Dudes of Vidalia. For the past several months patronage has not been sufficient to finance the operating expenses.

Film Introduces Four-Minute Men in Detroit Theatres

Detroit, Mich.—Four-Minute Men speaking at Detroit moving picture theatres, in the future, will be introduced to the audiences by having their names and the topic of their address flashed upon the screen.

When the time allotted to the speaker arrives a slide will be shown bearing the words: "The government introduces," followed by the name of the Four-Minute Man who is to talk. Members of this organization will speak at least once every week in the government's educational campaign to offset German propaganda.
Clifford Photoplay Company Contracts for Production of 12 Five-Reel Comedies

Features to Be Exploited on State Rights Plan—Shorty Hamilton the Star—Ernest Shipman Will Handle

The success attending the private showing of the first two pictures produced by the W. H. Clifford Photo Play Company, for the Photoplay Corporation, the general manager, to contract for the production of one five-reel feature a month. These features will be exploited on the state rights plan and a franchise for the entire twelve stories, to be published on the first day of each month during 1918, will be open to buyers.

These franchises are available to distributors in the various states who may either purchase outright or make arrangements upon a cooperative basis. These features, it is claimed, will prove of unusual value to buyers and exhibitors because they introduce a comedian who already has the backing of over 25,000,000 motion picture fans, and by virtue of the splendid five-part stories in which he will appear and the superiority of his productions over past efforts will add to his established clientele the additional patronage of all high-class picture houses.

Shorty Hamilton's first picture is entitled "Denny from Ireland." Tom Moore never wove a more interesting theme into song or story. The contrast between the pathos and ready wit of the lad in Ireland and his humorous escapades in the cattle country, form a theme of endlessly amusing laughter and tears, and has seldom been surpassed upon the screen.

Six of the subjects to follow have already been decided upon. Five of them will be known as Shorty Hamilton in "The Snail"; Shorty Hamilton in "A Prisoner of War"; Shorty Hamilton in "The Texas Ranger"; and Shorty Hamilton in "On Wall Street."

Through state rights buyers and prominent exhibitors, the motion picture public will be asked to vote their choice of other humorous stories which will be presented for their selection through the press.

After thoroughly investigating market conditions the W. H. Clifford Company came to the conclusion that Ernest Shipman was the best qualified to handle the exploitation of this series, both in the United States and abroad and a contract was accordingly entered into, whereby all business in connection with this series of pictures will emanate from Mr. Shipman's office, 17 West 46th Street, New York City.

U. S. Exhibitors Booking Corp. Appoints Four Well-Known Western Representatives

Recent additions to the sales forces of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation include Joseph Desberger, G. W. Wilson, A. B. Lucas and Joseph Levy, all of whom have long experience in the western district.

Mr. Desberger comes to the U. S. corporation from the World Film Corporation, being former manager of St. Louis exchange, and will represent the booking concern in St. Louis. He will make his headquarters in the Hoffman-Foursquare exchange.

Mr. Wilson, who will direct the marketing of U. S. productions in the Cincinnati district, resigned as representative of the Triangle Film Corporation in that city to join the U. S. forces. Before serving with Triangle Wilson was manager of the Paramount exchange in Chicago.

A. B. Lucas also leaves the Triangle to take charge of U. S. business in Kansas City, where he will make his headquarters in the Imperial exchange. Mr. Lucas has served many years in the Western territory for important film concerns. He was with Paramount in Chicago, Triangle in Omaha and Kansas City and also served as the Triangle manager in Chicago, which position he resigned to affiliate with the U. S. Corporation, coming direct from the sales forces of Select Pictures, Pittsburgh office, to handle U. S. productions in Minneapolis. Mr. Levy formerly acted as art director in St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha.

Other district representatives will be named in the near future by Joseph Partridge, division manager for the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, who is now engaged in assembling the company's sales forces beyond the Rockies. Mr. Partridge will announce shortly the names of the men who will act as U. S. representatives in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle, in each of which cities headquarters will be established in the Hoffman-Foursquare exchanges which have recently been opened.

Newest W. & W. Line Sells Well in East

Reporting a marked demand for the latest acquisition to their already long line of products, the Wertsner Silver Screen, Albert G. Wertsner of the firm of Wertsner and Wild, paid a visit to Chicago this week, the second time since the western plant was established by Fred Wild three years ago.

Up to the present time this screen for motion picture projection has been manufactured exclusively in their eastern plant but during Mr. Wertsner's stay in Chicago the local plant will also be equipped to manufacture it. The newest W. & W. product has met with success in the east and already some of the largest theatres in Philadelphia have purchased the screens. In addition to supplying the training camps and canteens in this country the company has shipped seventy-five of the screens to France and twenty-five to Russia.

Tom McDevitt, for many years connected with Rand-McNally, in the map end of that business, has joined Wertsner and Wild and will give his attention to the map business of the latter company.

Courtney R. Cooper Writing Scenario for Wharton Serial

In selecting Courtney Ryley Cooper to prepare the scenario of "The Eagle's Eye" Chief Flynn's wide-heralded service serial, exposing the activities of the Kaiser's agents in America, the Whartons are being congratulated upon securing the services of one of the most talented contemporary American fiction writers.

Born in Kansas City, Mo., October 31, 1880, Mr. Cooper has spent most of his life in the West and during the past seven years has contributed over three hundred short stories to the leading magazines of this country.

Mr. Cooper has written several successful screen stories for Joseph M. Schenck and the Whartons, prior to his engagement to arrange Chief Flynn's exposé of the Imperial German government's propaganda.

"THOSE WHO PAY" AVAILABLE DEC. 15

Word has been received by Frank Hall, president and general manager of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, that the company's second special release, Thomas H. Ince's seven-part drama, "Those Who Pay," starring Besie Berriscle, has been passed by the censor boards of Illinois and Pennsylvania.

The production will be published December 15 and will be available to all exhibitors on the franchise or open booking plans.

Madge Evans and Co. Make a Flying Trip

Madge Evans, the World's Kiddie star, with Director Harley Knolos, Lionel Bellmore, Gerda Holmes and a number of cameramen and assistants, made a flying trip last week to Charleston, S.C. The purpose of the journey was to utilize magnolia gardens located in Charleston as a background for the fairyland scenes of the picture, "Wanted: A Mother."
NEW YORK TRADE NOTES

New Booking Office
Opened by M. Eichner

Many professional people will be glad to know that Manny Eichner, the popular producer and manager, has opened a new suite of offices at No. 1547 Broadway. A special staff has been engaged for the writing and staging of acts, playlets and sketches.

Mr. Eichner was the first manager in New York city to place musical reviews in restaurants. "Up and Down Broadway" was booked through Mr. Eichner for Recto's for its initial run. He also has been manager for Adele Ritchie and Mae Murray. Call and see him; the glad hand is always out for you.

Music Slides Sell
Popular Song Hits

In these times of taxes on everything connected with the motion picture theater it is gratifying to find some one who has a plan whereby an increase in revenue is foreseen.

The Snyder Music Publishing Company offers to up-to-date house managers the opportunity to sell regular New York song hits, via the screen method. Three slides are to be used: the verse, chorus and the name of the song, each on different slides. So far, great success is reported by houses operating this plan.

ARE YOU THIS FELLOW?

Do you know this fellow? You know the chap I mean. The "Gink" who is always crying and berating about business being poor. This chap wouldn't part with a "Jiff" unless he was sure that he was going to get a dollar in return, while the fellow who takes a chance and spends a few dollars for advertising his wares never complains about poor business, but will greet you with a smile and outstretched hand and is ready to listen to a good proposition.

Arthur D. Jacobs

Buys Half Interest
in Keystone Press

The many friends, acquaintances and former patrons of Arthur D. Jacobs, formerly president and general manager of the Exhibitor Advertising and Specialty Company, will be agreeably surprised to learn of his having acquired a half interest in the Keystone Press, Inc., pioneer motion picture printers, now located at 787 Seventh avenue (next door to the Godfrey building), and of which he has been made vice-president, treasurer, general exploitation and sales manager.

WHO SAID YAPHANK?

Oh, you Harcourt Amusement Company. As the saying goes, "Men may come and men may go, but——? Are born every day."

Thousands of Dollars
Lost in Film Theft
Declares Detective

Insurance of films against theft is the suggestion advanced by Albert M. Cody, head of a recent agency in a recent interview with a representative of the Herald. The unwillingness of those who have lost films to spend the money necessary to run down the thieves, Mr. Cody maintains, has been an encouragement to the culprits until now films are filled with little or no danger of prosecution.

"Several years ago," said the detective in citing an example, "a big film concern came to me to have me trace a film which had been stolen. When I asked for a retaining fee of $5,000 they backed down and decided to swallow the loss of the film a few dollars, but the use of the insurance has been against theft from the time of its origin until it is ready for the scrap heap."

Poster Concern Moves
Into Larger Quarters

Jay Kay, the well-known poster man, has been obliged to seek larger quarters in the Gaiety Theater building in order to take better care of his clients. Good luck, Jay: more power to you.

JACK KLINE OPENS BOOKING OFFICE

Jack Kline, who is well known to both vaudeville and motion picture devotees, has again opened offices in the Gaiety Theater building, after touring the country with a road show. He will act as representative and can secure consecutively time for motion picture actresses and actors desiring to re-enter the legitimate field.

Vaudeville Actor to Take Up Film Work

Gale Shelden, who is now appearing in "Vice-A-Versa," playing on the big time circuit, has decided to give up vaudeville for the screen after the first of the year. Miss Shelden has been in the profession since the age of twelve years and has been with some of the leading stock companies of the country. Critics agree that besides being very charming she is a very clever young actress.

New Songs Make Hit

"Uncle Sam, Please Keep Your Eye on That Gal of Mine" and "Where Are the Girls of My Childhood Days" are two Synder songs which have scored a decided hit with exhibitors all over the country.

Autoists' New Device
Will Prevent Skidding

One of the newest anti-skid appliances is the product of the Self-Retaining Flocking Co., 1547 Broadway, which has devised an apparatus to drop sand in the path of the rear wheels of the automobile.

The attachment has direct connection with the foot brake and works automatically when hooked up with the brake. On a dry highway it can be disconnected in a moment by simply lifting the toe board, releasing it from the brake. According to many chauffeurs it is one of the simplest and most effective schemes to prevent skidding yet devised.

Happy Roy Kress

Roy Kress, the owner of the Gaiety Clothes Shop, is certainly one of the most optimistic men on Broadway, besides being the busiest. Last week, just as friend Roy was unpacking about $10,000 worth of new suits and overcoats, som gink walked in and asked Roy for a "fag," a match, and then used his phone for a New Year's call. Roy never sold the suit yet, murmured Roy, as his friend went out.

Meyer Brothers Give Customers Square Deal

Those young Meyer Brothers, who just opened a shoe shop, up in the Gaiety Theatre building, have certainly hit upon the right method of keeping down overhead expenses by locating there. They have window display charges, the rent is nominal, and by both pitching in they save salesmen's wages and can put the added profit into shoes which they sell at reasonable prices. Thus the customer gets his money's worth.

WHY NOT KNIT

Why don't some of these would-be Mary Pickford's and Anita Stewarts, who tramp up and down the Great White Way and then run into some booking office waiting for a job, knit sweaters for the boys "Over There," instead of repeating scandals which never existed? Ask me, I know.

Commonwealth Company
Reports Good Business

Joseph Kline of the Commonwealth Comedy Company, Inc., reports very good business of the past year. The Commonwealth's output includes the Three C's and Topnotch comedies.

Camp Buys Projectors

Two more Simplex projectors have been added to the projector equipment of Camp McClellan, Ala., thus making the projectors now in use there, all furnished by the Precision Machine Co., Inc.
Well, merrie old Kris Kringle is with us again, and with his jolly majesty we greet you all and trust that this season will bring you every happiness.

By th' Dec. 1 issue of the Vitagraph family 'tis noted that Manager Bayley has christened his sales squad the White Sox (New Yorkers please note), and take it from us, they're a likely lookin' bunch, too. Thru the pull of Assistant Manager W. E. Banford, the team's field captain, Vitagraph's editorial department was bribed to print a group photo of the boys. This work of art registers as follows: James Salter, Frank Redfield (runn in from Milwaukee), Ollie Moore (a four-baser all the time, ahem!), S. Norris, F. J. Delaney, J. A. Humphrey (of straw hat fame), and absent but not forgotten, the two modest whales, "Van" and McCloy, who positively refused to take a chance ruinin' a camera. Let it go at that, but just keep your lamps peeled for that mob.

R. L. Coffey, manager of the Standard Film Service, Dallas, Texas, was a recent "loop" visitor, en route from Cincinnati, homeward bound. He stated that general business throughout the South was splendid. While in Cincinnati he purchased the entire stock of the erstwhile Unicorn Film Company.

Did we all have "some time" at that movie operators' affair December 5? Oh, boy! Oodles of it.

F. M. Brockell, the boyish lookin' chap managing the Goldwyn offices, is now ensconced in their new and palatial suite in the College building.

W. C. Cook, formerly of the Artcraft sales department, will henceforth be found in the icy Northwest tellin' the exhibits all about the Hoffman-Foursquare films from a managerial standpoint at the Minneapolis branch office. Our best wishes, "Cookie," old scout.

M. J. Mintz, manager of the Unity Photoplays Company, shipped into town after a brief New York trip. Watch the local New York train sheds. Looks as though more "Unity winners" are being shipped to blaze the 1918 trail with.

I. L. Laserman, manager of the Universal exchange, announces the appointment of Joe Roderick as manager of the serial department.

Fred S. Meyer, for the past eight years manager of the Universal office at Minneapolis, has been transferred to the Milwaukee branch. What's the matter, Freddie? Does it look as though Minnesota is going dry?

"Billy" Hamburg—you know, the guy w'at makes frames and everything—was up to Detroit last week, showing Pal M. S. Bayley how to run the E. A. Hamburg company branch office, and is now on his way to Broadway to show the progressives how wonderful he looks with the "little pink carnation" in that $$$ coat of his. Oh, yes, it's a regular decoration with "boy" now.

A. Teitel is so busy these days that he's clean forgot to do his Xmas shopping, and with that bundle of green he's gathered in this year, just watch those merchant princes of State street sit up and break into smiles as Abe starts reducing that roll.

Before we close, have you all seen Ralph Kettering's press agent fame recently? Well, just drop in and congratulate the boy at the J. L. & S. suite in the Rialto Theatre building. It's about five weeks old, and the dearest little mustache you'll see in many a junct.

Foreign Trade Shows
Interest in "The Spy"

Generally favorable reviews and the reports of big business on "The Spy" are resulting, according to the foreign department of the Fox Film Corporation, in many inquiries being made regarding the picture by exhibitors and agencies in territory outside the United States.

Advises from London this week are to the effect that the picture received market favorably comment on the occasion of its recent presentation at British trade shows. Interest, of course, is heightened by the fact that scenarios paralleling those pictured in the film story have been of common occurrence in England during the past three years.

Theda Bara to Head
Last Fox Production of the Present Year

The last publication of the present year from the William Fox offices will be a Theda Bara picture, "Du Barry," which has been announced for initial showing on December 30. This will be the third of the Standard Pictures featuring Miss Bara to be published since September 30. This production, which very closely follows the original stage version, deals with the high lights in the career of a French adventuress, who became the power behind the throne in the court of Louis Xv, but who was eventually guillotined.

EBONY FILM CORP. CLOSES KENOSHA STUDIO AND OPENS WINTER QUARTERS IN CHICAGO

Fresh from their summer activities in Kenosha, Wis., the actors of the Ebony Film Corporation returned to Chicago last week, where winter quarters were established at their studio, 2332 North California avenue.

From all indications the stay in Chicago will be a short one, as it is the intention of the officials of the film company to transport the troupe to California shortly after the first of the year. There are, however, a number of interior scenes yet to be taken which will consume about a month's time.

Up to date sixteen one and two-reel comedies have been completed by the company. A number of these were projected at a recent public showing held in Wurlitzer's Hall, New York, and some of the later efforts of the negro artists were seen at a private showing held at the Art Laboratories in East Forty-eighth street. Three of these are reviewed in another section of this magazine.

According to L. J. Pollard, a member of the executive committee of the Ebony Film company, the comedies were well received in New York city. They were appreciated not only for their novelty,

"The Honeymoon"

By E. Lloyd Sheldon

Following her smashing success in "Scandal" Constance Talmadge hits the comedy curves at high speed in this screen drama of surpassing beauty. A honeymoon with a chorus-girl hang-over. Do you get the idea?

Economy

is Spending Money where it will bring most returns. If you skimp on your printed matter—if you save a few nickels on your weekly program you can rest assured that those who live in your neighborhood will skimp also, and will save a nickel by not going to your theatre. A Ten Dollar Bill that brings in Twenty Dollars is well spent. A single Dollar that doesn't bring in more than its face value is poorly invested.

"De Luxe Programs"

Cost more and they are worth it. And when you consider the free advertising write-up service we offer in conjunction with them you will realize that you get 100 cents worth for every dollar you spend on them. And they will more than repay their cost in increased, high class patronage.

REDUCE YOUR OPERATING COST and get more uniform lighting by equipping your present carbon arc machine with a
SHECK UNIVERSAL ADAPTER for the New Mazda Projector Lamps

YOU will want to adopt this new, modern idea because it will make your theatre the most popular in town.

Projection with the new Sheck Universal Adapter and Mazda Projector Lamps has proven a success in the theatres where used on test during the past two years.

Our first announcement received the attention and interest of hundreds of progressive exhibitors.

Your theatre can be equipped with the Sheck Universal Adapter without interrupting your program schedule, and at a cost no greater than the saving in bills for electric current effected by the new equipment during the first year.

So at no extra cost you will be able to get better projection on the screen, eliminate “flicker” and eye strain, and, therefore, get the crowds in your theatre.

This is a progressive proposition for progressive exhibitors. Write for the facts, TODAY!

YOU WILL LIKE THE NEW BRISCOE

Progress

The new Briscoe at $725 we believe is the best looking, the sweetest running automobile ever built at the price. Success has made it. Increased production has lowered costs, provided more refinements.

Character

Touring car has surprising roominess—try it! Four-passenger roadster is the only car built with a full back to the front seat—a novelty—see it! Briscoe-built in Briscoe factories insures quality in every detail.

Message

You will miss the real meaning the car holds for you if you fail to see the beautiful, handsomely finished and completely equipped 1917 Briscoe models.

Wouldn’t Scrap-heaps grow into Mountains if everybody adopted every improvement at once?

It is lucky for us that some people take longer to become convinced than others. For how could we possibly build Simplexes for everybody at once?

But the process of conversion is going on, as is shown, for instance, by the table below. A few years ago you could hardly find a Simplex in use by these eastern organizations—and look at them now!
